Great Gain In Interest In U.E.L. Being Shown

CITIES IN UNITED STATES FORM U.E.L. CLUBS FOR TRIP TO MEETING IN JUNE

Wide Interest Being Shown in Coming Celebration by Faraway Points — Local Citizens Give Coming Celebration Big Boost at Meetings Here—Relics of Former Days Requested by Mayor Mikel

Special to The Intelligencer
Watertown, N.Y., April 1.—A Belleville, Ontario, Club of Watertown, composed of people who are going from here to the 140th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada during the week of June 16, is being planned by several of the prominent men of the city who are natives of the Canadian city.

It is a strong feeling of friendliness which brings this movement about, the young men all being naturalized citizens and proud of the city of Watertown. Their desire is to have a welcome such as good a display as possible at their old home town celebration.

For this purpose they are anxious to have any who are planning to go, to Belleville, communicate with them and arrangements will be made for a meeting to plan a demonstration by the Watertown delegation. Their hope is to be able to send word ahead to the United Empire Loyalists' celebration committee to reserve for them a big celebration from Watertown. The two big days will be June 16 and 17, although the celebration will take in the entire week.

The four young men who have started the movement are Fred Huddleston, Donald Thrasher and Samuel Webster of the Thousand and Charles Hayes of 232 West Main street. Mr. Hayes has assumed a temporary chairmanship and will be glad to receive communications from any who desire to help in making the Watertown representation a large one.

A meeting of the U. E. L. Celebration Committee was held last night in the Chamber of Commerce Building which was taxed to capacity.

Motor Parade

It was decided to hold a motor parade to Carrying Place on Tuesday, June 17th and a motor parade to Adolphustown on Thursday June 19th on account of the very early settlement of Adolphustown and the location there of the first Methodist Church.

This trip would be of especial interest.

Mr. Geo. Tice being present, gave the committee much information re horse races and it is quite possible that two days' horse racing will be arranged.

Offers of Relics

Chairman Hanna announced that he had many offers of relics to use during the exhibition which will probably be held in the Armouries.

Program committee was appointed as follows:—

Thos. Roberts Lena Walmsley and Harry A. Thompson.

Reception Committee

Reception Committee was appointed as follows:—

Col. W. N. Ponton, Dr. Coughlin, John Elliott, Geo. Porter, M.P., Col. R. Vanderwater, The Warden of Hastings County, The warden of Prince Edward, H. J. Ireland, M.P.P., Thos. Colliver, M.P.P., Jas. FRANCE BARS GROUP OR MAN-DICTATORSHIP

Will Accept Neither Premier Poincare Tells — Deputies

OLD POLICIES HOLD

Former Foreign Attitude Remains; No Inflation, Cost What it May

Paris, April 1.—Premier Raymond Poincare told the Chamber of Deputies to-day that the foreign policies of his previous government will be maintained by the new Government which has just come into power.

"France will accept neither a dictator nor a group or man-dictatorship," the Premier, "he a keen desire to reach an agreement as soon as possible with her allies upon questions of reparations and security. We cannot withdraw our troops except in proportion to payments of Germany.

"We will accept neither a dictatorship by the proletariat nor by any single man."

FIRST TO BE GENEROUS

"The day after the treaties are fully executed; the day we have obtained our reparations and our security, the first motive to be generous will be the first to show magnanimity and generosity.

"France will seek to develop and strengthen the League of Nations, which she first conceived and in which, for many years, she has been a contributor."

Premier Poincare read a long statement setting forth the political program of the new cabinet. The same announcement was read in the Senate by Minister of Justice Dupuy.

The Cabinet was formed in a spirit of republican union and national accord and they feel that public opinion wants and continue the work of reconstruction, settling the repositions problem and maintaining the alliances," declared the Premier.

"This Cabinet demands that you do not incur any expenses above those covered by the normal receipts.

"Cost what it may, we will not interfere in German legislation nor in her finances. If we have debtors, we also have creditors, a mutual settlement is desired in this situation: it already commands our attention.

"Despite anything said abroad, France never saw the Versailles Treaty was signed has had any selfish inspirations. Her ruthless imperialist aims can be wept at tributed to her.

"We cannot exchange positive pledges for uncertain promises, but we have a firm hope that after the interpretations and the six months report of the Reparations Commission, general discussion and application of reparations will become possible."

FIVE SENTENCED ON DRUG CHARGE

Peterborough Men Found Guilty of Having Narcotics Illegally in Their Possession

Peterboro, April 1.—Five men who were arrested on March 6 and 7 on charges of having drugs illegally in their possession appeared for sentence Saturday, having previously pleaded guilty to the charges, and were sentenced each to six months imprisonment in the Ontario Reformatory and fines of $200. In default of payment of the fine two weeks will be added to the term of imprisonment.

Joseph Collins, Alonzo Zerbe, Julius Hargrove and Ed. Quinlan were arraigned on one charge each of having drugs in their charges, which will serve only six months the sentences running concurrently but the fine in his case is $400. Costs will be added to all the fines.

All the prisoners asked for the leniency of the court, Hargrove declaring he is not an addict and never has been. He said he was not treated by the police properly and did not need it. He was simply carrying drugs for another man.

DAS REJOINS CONGRESS FOR ROUGH SCENE

Swaraj Leader Gives Apology; Presides Again In India

STORMY AT MEETING

Trades Union Assembly in Calcutta Near-Riot. Adjourns Early

Calcutta, India, April 1.—Disorderly scenes marked the opening of the fourth session of the All-India Trades Union Congress here last night.

Owing to a dispute regarding the constitution of the Congress, the Swarajist home rule leader, C. R. Das, recently disassociated himself from the Congress reception committee. However, he agreed to delegate for this and consented to preside at the Congress.

After the letter of apology was read to the Congress, a heated controversy began which ended in the appointment of a committee on matters affecting the constitution.

The uproar became so loud that Das adjourned the meeting.

Lights Switched Out

Many of the delegates left the hall, but others announced their intention of continuing the session.

At this point, the lights were switched off. Amid confusion two parties of young men in the gallery came to blows.

Finally the whole assembly agreed to adjourn.

HAPPY FIFTEEN ENTERTAINERS

To-day Kiwanis luncheon was turn over to an occasional for real jollification on the part of every one present.

The fifteen members of the "Old-Guard" who were on the trip to Lindsay were made impromptu guests of their fellow members and showed those who were unable to make the Lindsay trip they were voted the livest Kiwanis delegation of any there present at the Charter Night of the Lindsay club.

There was a little moment at the luncheon, and the Kiwanis Kwartette gained strong applause.

The Lindsay song a clever number that "brought down the house", and who had composed it? Ed. Schryver sing before received a pleasing surprise. His voice is of rare purity and sweetness.

President Maurice, in a few well-chosen words, described what had taken place in Lindsay and gave the message of good fellowship sent to the local club by Lindsay members.

Kiwanian Hanna made a brief were given Pres. MacLaurin by the Lindsay members. Appreciation of an splendid address in Lindsay was voiced by the Belleville Kiwanis Club by Eddie O'Flynn. Few club presidents have the hearty support and loyalty as that given the able head of the local organization.

Answering a query as to information on what effect Bill III would have on the City of Belleville, much commendation was expressed over the good work done by Hon. Miss Sinclair, health nurse. Miss Sinclair will likely be requested to speak to the local club on child welfare and her views in the matter generally.

LLOYDS' IN WAGERS FOR FAIR WEATHER

Lay Insurance at Odds of Three to One for Only 20 Per. Cent Rainy

London, April 1.—Lloyds', the well known bookies, are laying insurance at odds of 3 to 1 that the coming spring will be one of those beautiful seasons of which the poets write, and that the end of the foreigner in England waits in vain to see.

Lloyds' is doing a good business among shopkeepers and amusement caterers, the former anxious to avoid a certain number of days of rain this spring, and the latter, they are said to have placed money against rain on more than 70 per cent of the days of April, summer months, something rarely experienced in this country.

Little encouragement can be given to the weather bureau, for their records show it has been five years since England had a really clear spring and it is 16 years since a perfect English spring, such as one hears about, has descended upon the land.

VAGRANTS AGAIN RECEIVE LIBERTY

Albert Edwards and John Sutcliffe, the two men arrested at the Upper C.N. R. depot here one week ago on vagrancy charges, and who were then remanded to jail for one week, appeared this morning before Magistrate Masson and were fined $10 and costs or one week in jail dating from the day of their arrest, and accordingly were given their liberty. The pair were arrested by C. N. R. officer H. Harris.

Lightning Put Out Light and Struck Houses

One Verandah Wrecked and Twelve Windows Smashed

Peterboro, April 1—A severe electric storm swept down on Peterboro on Saturday evening, doused the city lights for two hours, wrecked a verandah and did other damage and swept on its way to strike barns and buildings in the country district. The worst sufferer in the city was Herbert Johnson, whose home at 258 Aylmer Street was struck about 9:30 The bolt carried away an end of the verandah, smashed twelve windows, burned up a wire clothes line and knocked plaster from the interior walls. The telephone was put out of commission, and all the fuses in the house were burned out. Where the bolt struck the wall it left a scorched mark but failed to set fire to the woodwork.

Mr. Johnson, who served overseas, likens the affair to the arrival of a 9.5 shell, and says the effect was about the same. He was seated in the room with his family when the lightning struck, and considers it a miracle that no one was hurt.

An electric storm also struck in the home of George Roy Powell on Aylmer Street without doing damage, and in another house the curtains were torn from an attic window.

Two Switches Blown

In the sub-station behind the Peterboro Canoe Company the lightning blew out two switches, plunging the entire establishment and the Canoe Company's canoe factory, which is a wood cornice afire. Considering the amount of damage done, good time was made in repairs, the men transferring the two circuits in about two hours and restoring the service about 7.30.

Meantime early Saturday night shoppers did their business by candle light and lamp light, and vendors of candles did a better business than in several months. At least one family depends upon an electric stove for cooking purposes was compelled to seek a meal in a restaurant after waiting an hour for the power to be turned on.

TALLON PRESIDENT

Toronto Man is Re-Elected Division Four Chief for All of Canada

Montreal, April 1.—R. J. Tallon Toronto, was re-elected president of division four, Railway Employes' Department of American Federation of Labor, comprising all shop crafts in Canada, at yesterday's session of the fifth biennial conference of the division held here, it was announced to-day.

Frank McKenna and Charles Dekin, Montreal, were re-elected vice-president and secretary respectively.

All three executives will now enter upon their fifth term of office, having been re-elected at each biennial convention since the inception of the division.

MISSING CHEQUE STUB IMPLICATES TREASURER IN BOND TRANSACTIONS

Legislative Circles in Toronto Agog Over Sensations — Disclosures in Home Bank Bond Sales—Hon. Peter Smith Involved by Finding of Cheque Stub

Toronto, April 1.—The sensational developments in the probe into Home Bank Bond dealings to-day were the sole topic of discussion in Legislative circles. The missing cheque made payable to Hon. Peter Smith, in respect of profits on a $1,200,000 bond sale, was still missing at later reports, and no record has been forthcoming of the money reaching Provincial coffers.

Thomas A. Mathews, suspended Deputy Provincial Treasurer, and L. M. Hathaway, Toronto broker, are in custody by police authorities, subpoenas having been issued for the appearance

Latest developments:

Provincial Treasurer ordered to-day that no stone will be left unturned until the entire transaction is made bare to the public, and should expected developments occur, sensations in plenty will be forthcoming.

On almost equally sensational matters is the information which has been received regarding the commencement of a run on Provincial deposits as Provincial and city funds are in the Bank. There were a score of bank documents produced showing payments to F. H. Richardson, K.C., of Messrs. Smith & Inference, said Mr. Clarkson, was that the instance $13,500 had been paid for influencing City of Toronto deposits in the bank, and that $28,500 had been paid to influence Provincial deposits.

In the case of payments to Mr. Richardson, he said, it was always Mathews's instruction behind it, and in the case of payments to the Hon. Mr. Smith, in respect of Provincial deposits, it was made payable to Mathews's order, cashed by himself and taken out in legal tender, of which there would now be no trace. Intensibly, Mr. Clarkson said, the bank was paying 4 per cent. for Ottawa and Toronto deposits.

Eager to Record Answers

Asked by A. B. Currie for such impressions of the disposition of that 1 per cent. as he was able to recall from the bank officials, Mr. Clarkson stated:

"I pressed them just as hard as I could press them, and they told me here was an atmosphere around the bank, among the employees, that the Provincial deposits moneys were said for the Province of Ontario debentures—but I don't know that they don't know. I would like very much to know where the money went, because I consider it is bank money, and I am going to try to recover."

Mr. Clarkson's statement as to the possibility of the 1 per cent. commission payments reaching the Province was asked, "I am sure that the Province received no part of it appears to have gone to Mathews, and no part to the Province of Ontario account!"

Mr. Lewis—The story was that Mathews got 1 per cent. and 1 per cent. going to the Province, but they didn't think it true.

Reserves Judgment In Stirling Case

Magistrate R. R. Casement of Madoc reserved judgment after hearing evidence in the Stirling reserve case at Stirling yesterday afternoon. Judgment will be rendered in Madoc on Saturday.

The case deals with an O.T.A. charge which has been preferred against Percy W. Lummis, proprietor of the Kerby Hotel at Stirling, by Inspector Kelly of Napanee and Madoc.

After a search in the cow stable, in charge of Provincial Constable Kerby's Nader found 14 whisky bottles and two cans in which alcohol is alleged to have been kept. Each of the bottles contained a small quantity of liquor but the cans were empty.

The statement that Lummis refused the officers permission to search his premises, which appeared in yesterday's issue is incorrect, as the hotel proprietor did not refuse permission.

Let there be harmony in things essential—liberty in things not essential—charity in all.

THE UNEASY CLASS

Modern society is divided into three great classes, the "great unwashed," the middle class, and the well-to-do. We in Belleville are little acquainted with the first. Decades of weeding out the lackadaisical, the survival of the fittest have meted our city into one that bases its claims, its civic pride and creed on the middle class. It is this class with their sound business judgment and ability to formulate and revise opinions, that makes possible the healthy stability of any country, and we are fortunate, above other cities in having citizens of that calibre.

How different are the larger urban centres. It is there that the first class, the rabid radical, the socialist, Bolshevist get their innings. The "great unwashed", heeding the call to loot, flock to the support of those most rabid in industrial change, the one who is "agin the government" gets his heartiest hearing.

The present crisis in Britain is a concrete example of what can happen when the unemployed, both those that seek employment and those who don't, combine with the rabid class for a change. They, as a rule do not care what the change is about, so long as there is a change.

The Macdonald ministry, since it's inception, has had to weather storms that would daunt an organization that had years of precedent; the present Government is in it's infancy, and the storm-clouds now brewing threaten to engulf them. Any premature move on the part of Macdonald will prove fatal, and should the right procedure betaken, the future of the party is assured. However, with class-fighting class; the men who supported the present Government fighting among themselves, it is likely that the welfare of the nation will depend on a new cabinet, with years of experience in dealing with the masses, being called.

DO WE NEED EDUCATION

Is education an expense or an investment? The appropriation for the coming year for educational purposes is to be increased; the tax-payer thus ultimately bear the cost of that increase. Any one, in making a purchase, places value above other consideration; an expenditure by one of our local citizens is made with the view of getting the most for his money.

A review of the educational system in Belleville has proven in the past that we have received full value for our money, in many instances, more. The foundation of manhood and womanhood is laid in our public schools, and the future voters and taxpayers of the Dominion receive their training in these same schools. Better educational advantages mean better men and women, but these improvements cost money. Teachers and instructors capable of developing the young mind must be paid salaries commensurate with their ability and cost of training.

Economy, however, must be our watchword. For the next ten years Canada must make every effort to lighten the burden of the taxpayer. Whether educational grants must come under the economy platform remains for the citizens of a community. It is natural that money should be spent in no better way than for the betterment of our children through the educational institutions, but to do this, greater economy must be practised in other lines. Is it worth it? - Belleville's answer. In the past has always been a decided "YES".

BILL III.

Present indications are that the bill providing for complete supervision of children in the public schools by health inspectors, and leaving solely to his discretion to take such steps as he may deem necessary to promote that child's welfare, will be given a belief. Cities In U.S.

A general meeting will be held on Friday, at 8 p.m.

At Holloway St., Methodist Church last night Mayor Mikel gave an address on the U. E. Loyalists and the coming celebration, during which he said that as the people of tee City were putting their time and money into the celebration it was good business for every one to boost it to the fullest extent. It was unwise to circulate the report that too many would be at the celebration or too few, because either impression might keep intending visitors from coming.

Volunteer For Trip

The Mayor said that five young men and two young lads have volunteered to carry the invitation to President Coolidge at Washington on horse-back to invite him to attend the celebration. He stated that the Committee would like the loan of the following articles in use in pioneer days:—

TO ELSIE THE UNBOBBED

Out of the fresses shrouding you,
Black as the night from crown to waist,
Oh, Elsie, do not vow so true,
Why should you such discomfort taste?

With those long locks of which you boast,
They're pretty, no one can dispute,
But think you should one value most
Being at ease, or being cute?

Beyond the time of sulping sours
You fear the bobbed shall grow their hair,
And this confusion of your fears,
Proves you enmeshed in fashion's snare.

The view of others do not fear,
Cut short the locks which weigh like lead,
Emancipate yourself, my dear,
And be the captain of your head!

The World's Record

THE Metropolitan is mutually owned by its 21,000,000 policyholders. Its assets belong to the policyholders. They are accumulated to meet policy obligations and for no other purpose. Every policyholder is a capitalist—an investor—and his interest should be recognized by legislators and commissioners. The policyholders own over $313,000,000 in railroad securities; $606,000,000 in real estate mortgages; $80,000,000 in public utility bonds; $200,000,000 in Government obligations.

The Metropolitan is establishing a head office in Canada. It will be located in Ottawa, where land has been purchased on which the Company will erect its own business building. The Canadian business East of the Rocky Mountains will be transferred to the Ottawa office, and hereafter Canadian business East of the Rockies will be transacted in Canada. In effect, this means bringing to the Dominion an insurance company having more than $500,000,000 of life insurance in force.

Canadian policies will be issued in Canada, Canadian premiums will be paid to the Canadian office and from this Canadian office the claims will be paid to Canadian beneficiaries.

Third Vice-President ARCHIBALD F. C. FISKE will be the chief executive officer and a staff will be assembled in Ottawa sufficient to handle the Canadian business which has been so rapidly increasing. The number of Metropolitan policies held by Canadians at the end of December, 1923, was 1,921,652, much the largest number held in any company—an indication that the Company has the confidence of Canadians.

The Welfare work of the Company will be continued and extended in Canada exactly as it will in the United States. Except in communities too small to permit the service, the Company sends nurses to industrial policyholders when they are sick, free of charge. In 1923 these nurses made 2,482,919 visits, of which 280,805 were to Canadians.

The Company distributes a vast number of booklets and pamphlets giving hints as to prevention and cure of disease in an effort to improve health and hygienic conditions among its policyholders. Last year it distributed 33,790,840 such pieces of literature. In Canada 2,288,552 pieces were distributed.

The Metropolitan's total investments in Canada at the end of 1923 were over $105,000,000 of which $43,813,575 was in Canadian Government bonds. This investment, added to the sum paid in Canada to policyholders and for administration expenses and taxes, since the Company began business in the Dominion in November, 1885, exceeds by about fifty million dollars the amount received by the Company in premiums from Canadian policyholders.

Edinburgh Arrest Recalls Escapade

Prisoner Figured in Most Daring Escape—Confined at Devil's Island, French Guiana

Edinburgh, April 1.—One of the most remarkable episodes in criminal history is recalled by a claim made to the Edinburgh police by a man arrested as a suspected person.

The prisoner first gave his name as Edward Thomas Carin, but he afterwards claimed to be Eddie Guerin, the man who made the sensational escape from Devil's Island, French Guina, in 1905.

The Edinburgh police, it is reported, believe the man's statement that he is Guerin.

The arrest followed an exciting scene in one of the leading hotels in Edinburgh the previous afternoon, when a woman visitor discovered a man trying to force open a trunk containing valuables with a chisel.

She called her husband, who closed with the man but he broke loose and rushing down the stairs, dashed out into the street. A porter then gave chase and after a struggle, handed the man over to the police.

Born in Chicago

Guerin was born of Irish parents in Chicago. He afterwards migrated to France, where he became associated with "Chicago May," a woman who was described some time later at the Old Bailey as one of the most notorious criminals in Europe.

The two were arrested in Paris and convicted of robbing the American Express Company of $30,000, after a previous robbery of $50,000 from the Bank of Lyons. Guerin was sentenced to life imprisonment on account of the case of Dutch Guiana, where Dreyfus suffered so long.

For four years, he suffered there all the horrors of the worst penal settlement in the world, and then, in 1905, he determined to try to escape.

He found two other prisoners of the same mind, and a confederate by some means secured for them an old dug-out canoe about 20 feet long by 3 feet beam.

This was provisioned with some biscuits and a tin of corned beef, and one night, in the inky blackness, Guerin and his companions managed to elude the warders and get down the river's edge.

Once aboard their frail and unseeworthy craft they paddled for dear life down the Maroni river. Towards dawn they landed and hid in the forest, and at nightfall paddled out through the shark-infested waters to the open sea.

The next day the others reached Dutch Guiana, lived in the forest for six weeks, and then reached George town, Demarara, where Guerin managed to get some money and take passage for New York.

CLIPPER SHIPS HAD BATTLE WITH GALES

Took One Hundred and Thirty-five Days to Reach England from South America — Full-Rigged Vessel, With Three Tapering Masts, Was Badly Knocked About

London, April 1.—There crept into the Victoria dock, London, a few days ago, a grey and rusted vessel—an oldtime full-rigged ship with three tapering masts and with sails tightly furled on her spreading yardarms. The dock full, used to the giant steamships stopped to gaze curiously at the old-fashioned ship as she glided in berth far up the dock. They noted her high poop, her unpretentious bowsel, her curving bulwarks, with the white figure-head of a woman, her hand capstans, her shrouds strung across like a spider's web. She might have sailed right out of the pages of Robert Louis Stevenson.

This grace fully-built old-timer, the Kensington, had reached London after a voyage of 135 days, battered from stem to stern. Coming from the west coast of South America, round Cape Horn, she had staggered through a hurricane in the North Atlantic that had threatened a dozen times to send her and her crew of 20 to the bottom. Her fo'sle on the port side was smashed in by her port boat had been carried down the deck and also overboard; and seas, sweeping her decks had got under the poop and lifted it from the cabin below.

Under Bare Poles

The Kensington ran before the gale under bare poles. The crew had to make shift with what food they could get for the forecastle and the cabin aft were flooded with water. All the time mighty seas were sweeping the ship; her masts were swinging through the clouds as she rolled like a cork. They reached the Doldrums and smashed in the cabin lights carried away part of the deck rail and stove in doors. Two or three of the crew were hurt.

At the height of the gale one sea broke through the cabin, from stern to stern and, damaging the deckhouse, hurled itself against the wheel, which it smashed.

The Kensington was then at the mercy of the sea. It was impossible to steer by hand-gear. The helmsman had been lashed by his mates. By means of a life-line the crew made their way aft and began repairs to the wheel while the vessel heeled, unguided and helpless. After hard work they managed to lash stout spars across the wheel spokes until it was again possible to control the ship.

Outran the Gale

Patched and tinkered, the Kensington staggered on until eventually the gale abated. "The ship's dog —a fine Newfoundland—fell to the ocean service—was unperturbed through it all, although he was washed out in the cabin and was flung from one side to the other.

The Kensington, an English clipper, was built at Greenock in 1891.

"THE BRASS BOTTLE" IS HAILED AS FILM NOVELTY

"The Brass Bottle," Maurice Tourneur's fantastic comedy drama from the novel of the same name by F. Anstey, English author, will be the First National screen novelty featured at the Regent Theatre Thursday to Saturday.

Interpreted by an all-star cast, including Harry Myers, Ernest Torrence, Charlotte Merriam and Barbara Marr, the story revolves around the adventures of a struggling young architect who releases a genie from a brass bottle in which he has been confined for many thousand years. The genie in gratitude for his release showers the architect with favors which, owing to the circumstances and the change of customs during the period of the genie's imprisonment, prove embarrassing.

The story is an extraordinary intermingling of modern London and King Solomon's court of six thousand years ago, the genie, with all his powers of materialization, accomplishes the seeming impossible with wave of his hand, but unfortunately is unfamiliar with the needs of modern times. The story is one that can best be told by the marvels of photography. It is described as a delightfully refreshing tale with many a smile and all of the splendor of the days of old. Tourneur has produced it.

The survival of the fittest is a hollow phrase when applied to civilized beings, but it applies with a vengeance to the people living in the far north spaces, hundred of miles from the nearest outposts of civilization, according to Pat Hartigan, the screen actor.

Mr. Hartigan has lived in the northern reaches of Alaska and therefore knows whereof he speaks.

"Up there, far from law, a man's spunk or yellow streak is brought out" he says. "There, the phrase survival of the fittest ceases to be a mere scientific phrase to explain evolution, or a facile way of explaining a man's success. Why I've seen men, tall and brawny, and self-confident, come out there and show themselves mere child ren; while I've also seen fellows who have been considered by others and themselves, failures, come out there and become themselves."

The far north, glamorous with odd types, adventurers, gold diggers, outcasts, men tired of living effete lives, is the setting for the outstanding picture announced by the Griffith Theatre Management Thursday to Saturday. This is "Where the North Begins," a Warner Brothers classic of the "Big Brother," the story of two men's fight to gain possession of a girl's heart, the prize by true love, the other by guile and brute strength.

It is a fast-moving tale of the frozen north, told amid tall pines and far reaching stretches of snowy waste, and along which range a gang of outlaws responsible for the lives of half a dozen settlers.

Rintintin, the famed police dog, is the piece around with much of the tense action revolves. As a dog bred among the wolves from puppyhood, he comes on the scene in time to find Gabriel Dupre, the trapper, left for dead by the outlaws; his first impulse is to attack the wounded man, but his second is to befriend the victim. Later, he helps further the romance and thwart the well-spun intrigue who was instrumental in saving the life of Gabriel and appropriate Police McTavish to himself.

A fine cast of players has been assembled for the roles: Claire Adams, Walter McGrail, Pat Hartigan, Myrtle Lewis, Charles Stevens and Fred Huntley. The direction is by Chester Franklin who also collaborated with Fred Kennedy Myton on the original story which Shad Galloway the factor of the camp hopes to do away with Gabriel and appropriate Police McTavish to himself.

CIVIL WAR ON BOWLING ALLEYS

Editorial Staff of Intelligencer Trounce Business Office "Stiffs" quartets by 66 Pins in Ham and Egg Contest

The Editorial staff of The Intelligencer demonstrated their superiority over the Business office, on the Recreation alleys last night when they conquered the business people in the third match of their game series, after having won the first and dropped the second. The aggregate score was 2,839 to 2,773 for the games.

Miss Stella Ford, Captain of the editorial team, bowled another of her classy, setting the pins all over the place for high score. She rolled up a 172 total, which was best score of the evening. "Skipper" Tim Harrison, of the Editorial staff, was next best with a total of 844. McLeod, newly introduced to the alley game is on good terms with Lady Luck, and not only beats his opponent "Stanislaus" Winn "the 2 per Apollo" in check, but rolled a total of 472. Miss Wilma Ross rolled a consistent game for the business office giving her opponent, T. Austin Robertson a merry run for the bonacs. She rolled 405 while Robertson neted 428 points. "Chick" Harrison and Miss Margaret Bland, the two newcomers, acquitted as they both have the "stuff" but no control them at this time.

A large gallery saw the games as it was understood that the "steaks" were the "stakes". Nothing came of it however, which is very disconcerting to the three Hebrideans on the "Editorial" team, who always bowl over their heads in the "Scotch". "Anything at stake" the leads and scores:

Only Those in Declining Years Realize What It Means

As people pass middle age, their strength and vitality usually begin to wane. They are easily tired. They notice that they are not as active as they were. They need something to tone up their system — something which will put new strength, life and vitality into them—a tonic. But such a tonic must contain no harsh ingredients. Old age was Mr. Snider's trouble. Read what he says:

"It is only those who are in the declining years of their life who can understand the many troubles which old people have to endure. The slightest over-exertion brings on weakness, which affects the whole system, resulting in indigestion, sleeplessness, depression, loss of strength and vitality. This was my trouble. I was suffering from old age. I needed something to renew my strength and vitality. I told my druggist about my trouble and he recommended Carnol. A short time after I started taking it I felt better. I noticed my strength and vitality returning. I had more energy. I felt better than I had felt for twenty-five years. My appetite has returned. My friends all say how well I look. I have no hesitation in recommending Carnol to old people. I conscientiously believe that it will help them as it has helped me."—Arnold Snider, 19 Hanover Ont.

Carnol is sold by all good druggists everywhere.

Two more spring leagues got under way at the Recreation alleys last night, one in the ladies league and the other in the ladies league. In the ladies league the Belmonts by rolling their highest score to date namely 2142 won from the Maple Leafs who also rolled a good game, meet to win an ordinary game. Miss V. Gorman was high single getting strings bowler of the evening with 234 and 491.

In the senior league the Hardware boys sailed right into the Hikers for the old Merchant team and won out by 156 pins winning two games out of the three. It was a good festival with the scores. Whelan rolling 240 for his high single while Anderson, Wannamaker Whaley and Harris were well over the 600 mark. Players and scores.

STRIBLING TRIMS MIKE McTIGUE

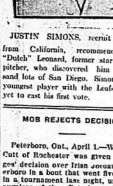

Fifteen Thousand See Georgian School Boy Almost Lift World's Light Heavyweight Crown — 10,000 Turned Away in Confusion

Newark, N.J., April 1.—William L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia schoolboy fighter, battered his way to a spectacular victory last night over Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, but his youthful eagerness cost him a golden chance to lift the coveted crown with his triumph.

A record crowd of nearly 15,000 in the First Regiment Armory say the Georgia youngster decisively outpoint the Marian rival from start to finish, and have the champion on the verge of a knockout, and when McTigue was on his feet at the end of the twelfth and final round his cornermen, with a disjointed angle, remained on his behalf.

Stribling, fighting the most sensational and determined battle of his meteoric career, won every one of the twelve rounds, in the opinion of a majority of newspapermen; with his slashing, whirlwind attack. The 19-year-old youngster made a gallant bid for world title laurels, but his error at the critical moment cost him the chance to gain that goal.

While a capacity crowd, which paid $22,000 to witness the match, packed the big civil hall, police estimated that more than 10,000 more were turned away amid scenes that at times threatened to assume proportions of a riot.

MOB REJECTS DECISION

Peterboro, Ont., April 1.—When Bill Catt of Rochester was given the junk gow decision over Irish scouse of Peterboro in a bout that went five rounds in a tournament last night under the auspices of the Peterboro Amateur Athletic association the fans arose in wrath and denounced the verdict. On the showing made by Jordan in the two extra rounds, it was expected that he would be given the bout. The tournament drew the biggest crowd that has patronized any show yet put on by the P.A.A.A. the ball being crowd to capacity, and the right decision warranted the interest of the fight fans.

Intermediate Champions Dazzle Game - Weary "Fish" With Sub Constellation

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 1.—The local intermediates, strengthened by six outside stars, sprang a small-sized surprise on the Winnipeg Selkirks here last night, defeating them by the score of 5 to 4 in an exhibition game. The new men on the local team were: Carson Cooper of Hamilton Tigers, linesmore of Aura Lee, "Slim" Moore of Peterboro and Port Colborne, Armstrong of Barrie and Taylor of Kingston.

The Selkirks showed great flashes of speed in spots, showed the effects of their recent hard games the Soo, and on the night's play were noticeably under form. Browne at left wing was their brightest star, while Borland and Hughes turned in a good game. The local team, with fourteen men to select from was always in the pink of condition and the Westerners weakened as the game progressed. Moore and Mayo, alternating on the Falls goal, both made clever stops.

SHELLS WILL GO SIX MILES HIGH

Anti-Aircraft Guns Have Been Greatly Improved

London, April 1.—Greatly improved anti-aircraft guns are being tested for the defense of cities by London against bombing aeroplanes flying at great heights.

One of these guns will fire a high explosive shell, weighing about 50 lbs., to an extreme height of just over 30,000 feet, or six miles from the earth.

Not only will the new gun, which has a wonderfully improved mounting, have this tremendous range, but the loading gear will enable a rapidity of fire to be maintained such as has never been secured before with a similar weapon.

A second gun for use against aeroplanes is designed to be employed in batteries, and to be mounted for the inner defenses of a big city.

Terrible Barrages

These guns, each capable of firing small explosive shells at the rate of more than 100 a minute, will maintain terrible barrages at various levels up to about three miles above the city.

Another weapon for aerial war is an improved and very powerful type of machine-gun for dealing with lower-flying machines. This gun will send up streams of bullets to a height of about 12,000 feet and at a rate of five or seven hundred shots a minute.

One of the chief features of these city and coast defence guns is the rapidity with which they can be trained upon a target. New range-finding systems, in conjunction with, centralized fire-control are believed to be the keynote to the ground defense against aircraft.

FOUND DEAD AT THE JAIL

Toronto, April 1.—Frank Anderson, alias Stanley, aged 48, believed to come from Ontario, who was sentenced by Magistrate Jones in Police Court on Friday to three years in Kingston Penitentiary for robbery, was found dead in his cell in the jail at six o'clock yesterday morning.

At 5 o'clock, according to Governor Robert Anderson, he had talked with another prisoner in the corridor and appeared to be in good health, and on his entrance to the jail on the 22nd, had been found fit by the jail doctor.

"COWARDICE" MOSTLY CAUSE OF DESERTION

New York, April 1—Why men leave home is an open question, according to Leonard McGee, chief counsel for the Legal Aid Society, whose annual report for 1923 today identified a decrease in domestic difficulty cases of 873 as compared with the preceding year.

In some cases married men leave home because of incompatibility; in others other women lured them, McGee explained.

In the majority of cases he attributed the discretion to "just plain cowardice—a man with a guilty conscience who couldn't overcome the complaints of a neglected wife."

STEAMERS COLLIDE

Boston, April 1.—The steamship City of Savannah and the collier Walter D. Noyes were guided back to Boston today following a crash off Nantucket Shoals during the night.

The steamer was bound from Savannah, to Boston and the collier was enroute to Norfolk from this city when they came together.

Although both were considerably damaged, they were able to proceed under their own power.

STRIKERS TO WORK

St. John's Nfld., April 1—A strike of 1200 workers on the construction of a large paper mill at Humber Valley, on the west coast of Newfoundland, called Saturday when workers and contractors agreed to accept the mediation of Premier Warren.

The strike was declared in an effort to enforce wage increases and improved working conditions.

Try Sulphur On An Eczema Skin
COSTS LITTLE AND OVERCOMES TROUBLE ALMOST OVER NIGHT
Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.
It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.
The man who contends that the world is growing worse always goes armed with a muck rake.

Health Restored by The Fruit Treatment

"Fourteen years ago, Mr. James S. Delgarty, of Gilbert's Plains, Man., was a nervous wreck. His system was shattered by Nervous Prostration, and he was reduced in weight from 170 to 115 pounds.

He wrote on May 15th, 1917, 'Every medicine I tried proved useless until a friend induced me to take 'Fruit-a-tives.' I began to mend at once. After using this fruit medicine for three months, I was back to normal. I have never had such good health as I have enjoyed the past six years. We are never without a box of 'Fruit-a-tives' in the house.'

Writing again on September 27th, 1923, Mr. Delgaty says, 'I stand by my letter to you in 1917—I still recommend 'Fruit-a-tives'.'

"Fruit-a-tives' is a complete fruit treatment—being made of the juices of fresh ripe fruits and tonics.

25c. and 50c.—a box—6 for $2.50—at druggists or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Married On $1.75

London, April 1.—When Mrs. Sarah Broomfield, of Taunton, who celebrated her 100th birthday shortly, married a shepherd on a Somerset farm nearly seventy years ago, the bride-groom's check was earning $1.75 a week.

The farmer increased his wages to $2, and he earned an extra quarter by milking on Sundays.

Born at Skelter in 1824, Mrs. Broomfield still retains all her faculties except that her eyesight is failing.

Commenting on her early marriage experiences, she remarked that $2.25 a week entailed a hard struggle to bring up a family of three sons and two daughters, all of whom are still living.

She attributed her long life to a good constitution, healthy living, with plenty of work. She had only had a doctor twice.

Once she saw four persons hanged outside Taunton jail. One was a woman, who stood on the scaffold, with a sunbonnet on her head.

Ghastly Tragedies Of Great Cathedral

Giddy Heights of Campanile of Westminster Have Lure For Many People—Queer Tricks of Fate Are Revealed in History of Old Building

London, April 1.—Fascination, that mysterious force which even the present of men—and we re-seldom over-exaggerate drama, was its intense human emotion; and tragedy, the climax, have always to some mysterious way, done in Westminster cathedral.

But three years ago this fact was vividly illustrated when the Countess Ribblesdale, a Portuguese countess, having escaped from her attendants, climbed from the campanile, to the roof of the cathedral, a height three hundred feet below.

And now once again that fact was recalled when a horrified crowd of men and screaming women saw a man fall from the same building down from that same campanile to their death, a few days ago.

What is this unknown force that impels one to mount those tragic steps to the giddy heights? What is that fascination that irresistibly draws us once we have reached that spot are gone on our ever-recurring holiday?

Recently a notice was put up on two of the pinnacles, one aged eight and the other five, announcing the junior Westminster carnival on the pale thin three dimes for the privilege of ascending those stairs.

The queer tricks that fate is so fond of playing are revealed in the fact that the mother asked if her two little girls could not be admitted to the tower half-price.

Three hours later they fell lay dead on the pavement surrounded by a horrified crowd.

What is it?

What is this mystery clinging to London's great buildings? Only a few short months ago a prominent Englishman shot himself in the Whitehall ing Gallery of St. Paul's.

The Whitestreet Tragedy. "The haunting name of an otherwise ordinary room which still holds the secret of its fatal attraction.

Presley, the architect who built the great Roman Catholic Westminster cathedral, died before he was able to complete it.

The actual deaths of the persons in the drama, the last having occurred outside the edifice, there will be no need for reconsersation and services will be held as usual.

The outstanding fact in the tragedy is that the woman with her two children, rescued, is named in the building before their bodies were taken to the crowded Dreadnought.

What happened during those three hours can only be a matter of conjecture. Were they spent in the agony of suspense, or were they hours of happiness spent by a mother with her beloved children?

COLORS ARE USED TO FIGHT DISEASE IN GREAT BRITAIN

London, April 1.—Some interesting statements regarding the effect of red on the mind were made in the British law courts recently. First a doctor said he had forbidden a man to use red color in painting, because it irritated him. Later the judge remarked that in his house every room ways been taboo.

There is definite evidence that colors are on the mind in particular ways: Red is an irritant; blue is depressing; green is sedative; and yellow is stimulating. If you remembered this we should sometimes be able to trace the origin of the nervous affections that mystify us.

Perhaps the most striking effect because it conjures up before the subconscious mind associations of pictures. It is the color of blood, the sight of which is peculiarly repugnant to some people, and it is the color of fire, which, in ancient times was regarded by, was a source of terror. The phrase "seeing red" has not come into use without a certain meaning without reason.

Color Treatment.

A notable instance of the strange mental influence of color was furnished by one of the early Georges, who said he had smallpox he was given red in large doses, this being the reason why the curtains of his bedroom, for the same purpose, had to be of the most conceivable way. It is said that the disease became severe under this treatment, but it had to be discontinued because the patient was nearly driven mad by it.

At the present time another attempt is being made to employ colors in curative diseases. Dr. Dinshah claims as is well-known, that disease is a vibration and can be cured by an appropriate counter-vibration. Further he also contends that, in certain circumstances, color is one of the vibrations that is definitely antagonistic to bodily ills.

Cambata Cancer

Red, he says, is antagonistic to cancer. He applies his theory to all the principal organic diseases and has the counter-color of each. In the case of a man suffering from cancer he painted the affected part red and reported beneficial results.

In nervous affections there is a belief that strong doses of color do the diseases. Red is an irritant, but pink is cheering. Where dark blue depresses, it will often be found that light blue raises the spirits.

It is all something of a mystery at present, but there is little doubt that it will eventually be solved.

When you can't see print Distinctly

There is no use in the world trying to correct matters by turning the paper this way or that or squinting or frowning at it. You might better face the fact squarely and admit that you can't see as well as you once could. Then hurry to us for an examination, and wear the glasses we prove you find necessary. Likely we could make you see to read as well as ever, even more.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE BIG ASSET

A newspaper asked a hundred young men what qualifications they wanted in the young woman they expected to marry.

At the top of almost every list was the qualification: "Good Health."

A business man who employs hundreds of salesmen writes down the qualification of good health as the first thing necessary.

He makes a further statement.

"Generally speaking I would rather have a man who was born frail and has overcome his frailty by exercise and by some one sense natural strength has never known its limits. The man who has had to fight for his health knows how to value and protect it."

There is some hope for the world when, for the health of future generations, that in these years of turmoil and unrest that the young man seeking a wife, and the business man a salesman, want good health first.

A young woman, beautiful and accomplished, but without the asset of good health, will be handicapped. She would like to be as a mother, as an adviser to her husband and children, and as a comfort or haven of refuge for her friends.

But husband's thought and energy will be often expended on his efforts to maintain, or restore his wife's health.

Instead of a bulwark of defence in his worries and cares, she but breaks down more completely in affliction and defensive effort.

The woman who is careless with his body either by excess of work, or excess of pleasure, finds herself, when the clouds on the clear head, nor the ability to "hang on," when the going is a bit rough.

I feel as if I'm writing something within the reach of the knowledge of everybody that it is foolish to repeat it.

But way down deep in your heart you know that you have very little regard for your body than about your car.

Worse than that, you do things with your body that you do things with that body of yours that are absolutely harmful to it.

Overwork, oversleep, overeating, overplaying, overdressing, under exercising.

You know it just as well as you know you are living.

Why not do something about it?

Would you treat your car that way?

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

(By E. H. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Oklahoma, Chamber of Commerce)

THAT good hotels are a great asset to any city, and especially is this true in a city of good hotels goes for and wide.

THAT good hotels bring much business to a city. They bring outside money that is spent with every line of business. They bring shoppers galore.

THAT good hotels bring to a city a big and valuable class of people. The first impression a visitor gets of a city is from the hotel. Here are people who often often stays days instead of hours.

THAT a good hotels helps a city to keep step with progress. Cities are usually about as progressive as their hotels.

THAT a city with poor hotels, is usually not only a poor city in which to live, but a poor city in which to do business.

THAT hotels should advertise just as progressively as any other line of business. Advertising is always identified with successful hotels.

THAT hotel advertising always helps the city in which it is located.

When hotels look up their advertising with good service, they send away pleased guests. This is good advertising for the hotel and the home city.

ST. PAUL DIGS OUT

St. Paul, Minn., April 1.—Work of clearing highways and restoring interrupted communications as a result of the blizzard in the northwest Friday and Saturday was well under way today.

Large crews were repairing lines torn down when several thousand poles were snapped off by sleet and gales.

In Wisconsin it was estimated that 2000 poles were down and hundreds were down in Southern Minnesota. Only a few telegraph wires between here and Chicago were working. It will be several weeks before conditions are normal.

Railroads reported most of their trains on time. Huge drifts and ice on the tracks continued to tie up many street car lines here.

Because of snow-locked streets and uncertain street car traffic, public schools were closed today.

"Not that will cook. She has the use of the car two afternoons a week."

These were used as directed, and lasted until we could obtain a further supply from Edmonton. Improvement was very marked from the first application: the way discharge was easier removed and did not reappear. Inflammation subsided and has not returned."

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"Couldn't you bring them to the house?" she asked, coldly; she had no intention of offering her friendship, had, evidently, no idea of common courtesy.

"Well, I'm very busy," said Jack. "I've been away, you know, and every minute's of value to me."

"Oh, if you insist upon it!" said Esther, a little haughtily; and she stepped inside.

Jack drew a chair forward, unlocked his bag and without the slightest apology upon the table in the most efficiency manner possible.

"You'll find an account of my personal expenses, Miss Vancourt," he said. "I hope you won't think them heavy."

Esther gathered up the papers and the money, and put them in the mysterious pocket somewhere behind her.

"Aren't you going to look over these?" he asked.

"Perhaps I may when I get home," she said, carelessly, "and perhaps I mayn't. I hate accounts, and I am quite sure I can trust you, Mr. Gordon."

Her eyes wandered round the room, as Jack turned to lock his bag. She felt a strange interest in everything in the room, in the gun standing in the corner, in the pipe on the mantel, in the very latter made of some dark material, and she was more especially in the two silken tassels that hung from it. She had stared him the blue head, nor the ability to "hang on," when the going is a bit rough.

"Couldn't you bring me the News of the World

Ruhsian Courtesy

The Australian (Melbourne)—We regard the beginnings of ceremonial in Soviet Russia as being rather more than curious. Life without its courtesies—and ceremonial is a form of courtesy—is bleak and primitive. Even the "Comrading" of a baby, is a sign of reversion to decency. We can but hope that before the babies that are subjected to this ordeal grow to maturity Russia may have advanced much further towards a return to the ways of European civilized peoples. Every fresh ceremony that is instituted will be a step in that desirable direction.

"Dear" Old Dublin

Irish Times—There is no doubt that the high cost of living in the Free State has been a potent source of evil in the past, and is likely to give rise to further trouble in the future unless it is reduced. Dublin is one of the most expensive cities in the British Isles, and, despite various efforts which have been made from time to time to secure improvement, the condition of affairs is almost as bad now as it was two or three years ago. Public opinion in the Free State is suffering from the effects of a long period of paralysis, and it will not recover its full strength until it gets a proper cad.

Parliamentary Decay

Sydney Bulletin (N. S. Wales)—Parliaments became a menace when they began to function as mills open for politicians and political hangers-on, and to legislate not in the interest of the general body, but at the dictates of cliques. It is not remarkable, though extremely ominous, that in Australia the word "politician" has come to have an offensive meaning; for here very much the same conditions prevail as are seriously threatening constitutionalism in Italy. The crimes committed against the community are not all overt; some of the worst are what theologians call sins of omission.

Hindu Awakening

Times of India (Bombay)—There is a general feeling that Hindus in the past have been too placid and acquiescent, and in every direction this colossal compliment is showing new life. Where the Hindu in the past was content to be a peaceful merchant, or elect to be a non-commanding an energetic or even a dominant part in the public life of his country. A great movement is taking place with immense possibilities for good or evil in accordance as it is rightly or wrongly directed by Hindu leaders. Something of the kind was said in the inaugural address delivered by Sir Manubhai Mehta on behalf of H. H. the Gaekwar of Baroda at the convocation of Benares University last Saturday. In his speech, the Gaekwar, one of the most progressive and broadest minded of Indian princes, urged the younger generation of the community to remember the glories of the past, but at the same time to adapt themselves to the needs of the present day and to face the world in a manly spirit.

The National Trait

The Times—We are a people who dislike dictation; a people still inclined to kick at anything ordered by the government.

Fat Air Mail

Perth Mail (W. Australia)—Ours is a country of magnificent distances. Before the coming of the air mail the opportunity of written communication with the northern towns infrequent, slow and unreliable. Now they are frequent, rapid and astonishingly dependable.

Deaths of Mothers

Auckland Weekly News—The incidence of maternal mortality in New Zealand is a matter for grave concern for the state and the individual. The problem attracted attention in 1921 by the publication of statistics by the children's bureau of the United States department of labor. There figures showed New Zealand in almost the worst position among the nations with record of maternal deaths, and while at the same time, the dominion could boast the lowest general and infant death rates in the world.

Next Week Dublin Fireman's Journal—The Free State never will be a manufacturing country. It is too far from the continents to hope to be able to capture the markets for agricultural produce which is virtually the preserve of Holland, Denmark and Denmark. Therefore, the best interests of our people demand that the British market shall be developed to the utmost and there is room almost for the doubling of our export trade to Great Britain. A reasonably activities policy of agricultural organization would raise the standard of all our agriculture, and consequently would increase the demand for it in British homes. Then we should get, not only the benefit of exports, of blackthorn sticks to Jugo-Slavia or of the other tragedies of international trade which sound so well and mean so little.

The "Time-Gun" Passes

The Englishman (Calcutta)—As soon as the handwaving ditcher hears this gun he "carries knife" and makes for the nearest eating house. Visitors to Calcutta must find the smoke very useful in helping them to discover Fort William before they have fallen into the surrounding ditch. It would be a pity, also, to deprive the garrison of such invaluable artillery practice. Again think of the physical relief significance of the one o'clock gun. Every time the public hear it they are reminded of Fort William, kits and khaki. It also acts as a clock to the cowboys on the maidan, and the gentlemen of independent means, who take their ease on the maidan benches. Last but not east, it is a gun of distinction. If we are not mistaken it is the only one o'clock gun in India. All the others are fired at noon. Why should Calcutta be deprived of this distinction, this benefit, this harmless pleasure to save the expense of 365 shots a year? At least if the "gun" must go, we insist on a substitute.

The Letter Box

Editor Intelligencer—

Permit me to call your attention to a proposed legislation in the form of an amendment to the Health Act, which reads—

"Subject to any regulations made under the supervision of Education Act, the local board, upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon with any public or separate school board, shall provide medical and dental inspection for the pupils in the schools of the board and render such other services relating to the health and well-being of the pupils as may be from regularity required and as may be directed by the Minister of Health."

This autocratic ruling should meet with very strenuous opposition by the parents and others who are appointed guardians over threshold. The evil unexpressed in the vague and unbridled wording of the above would undermine the very foundation of our laws in its total disregard of the rightful possessor of the child. The license which the law permits in this bill allows any high standard surgical or other treatment by those inspecting the pupils medically without consultation with the parents or guardians or even the courtesy of notification.

Surely this is not in accordance with our boasted freedom in the exercising of our rights as Canadian citizens. Under the law of no country, the laws of which commend them selves to a clear thinking Christian which transfers the control of the intimate person of a child to the school board. It would be interesting to know how many such boards in Ontario would care to undertake such a responsibility. Both Hamilton and London have already objected and I am convinced more will stand on the same ground.

Parents and guardians, (included among such are members of the medical and dental profession) cannot be expected to submit unprotestingly to such an unfair law, and in face of our right being a supreme one, the amendments should have been framed so to obtain parents or guardians consent for any treatment and reserve their privilege to obtain any advice or their choice of practitioner for their children until such have reached their majority.

I believe this should receive immediate and definite action to prevent a grave wrong being on record which certainly cannot reflect credit on our government or country thanking you for valuable space.

New Beauty for you Next Week

You Who Wish

Whiter, cleaner, safer teeth have only to fight the film

Accept this offer of a new way of teeth cleaning. It is delighting millions. It is bringing them the prettier teeth you see everywhere today.

It means vast benefits which your home should enjoy. Let this test show them to you.

You leave film

You feel on your teeth a viscous film. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it, so much of it clings and stays.

Soon the film discolors, forming dingy coats. Then pearly teeth grow cloudy, lifeless.

Film is the great destroyer. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Those who escaped such troubles have been few indeed.

Two new methods

Dental science has in late years found two ways to fight that film. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

These methods have proved themselves exceedingly effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise it. Now this tooth paste is in world-wide use. To careful people of some 50 nations it has brought a new dental era.

Every user knows

Every user gains at once new benefits, new delights.

Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva. These are Nature's agents for combating acids and starch deposits. These combined effects will bring you new conceptions of dental health.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Then decide by what you see and feel. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

If a Wise Monarch

—fell from favor and a throne, he would be careful and kind when he was restored. Any servant must be wise too, for they're not as rigid as in other days, but are little more than girdles, sometimes made of silk elastic; then again bastiste and all have a very low bust, and slender lines. The pen-knife comedil is the feature of the day—see it at "Corset Section."

A Pigeon

—is known to be an obliging sort of bird but he was down right generous when he gave his color to new Spring Hosiery for. Pigeon Gray is a delightful shade. Then there is—Skin, Acorn, Platinum, Nude, Beige, Logrobin and Seal Brown, all colors you will want.

Holeproof, Kayser's and Marvel Hose in pure thread silk qualities all perfect fitting.

Charming Knitted Suits

Captivating in their styling, which is slender and simple, and delightfully appropriate for many occasions, the knitted suits of fine wool yarns present the latest feature of spring time modes. The coat is fashioned in Cardigan and Jacquette style with long sleeves. The skirt is made on elastic belting. Very splendid advantage is the fact that either piece can be worn separately. The shades are pearl, sand, navy and grey, sand and ching blue, sand and tobacco; all sizes.

PONY GOES THROUGH ICE

Peterboro, April 1.—The ice in Rice Lake is becoming very unsafe for travel. Mrs. Isabelle Ferguson, who resides on the north shore, about two miles from the mainland recently, riding a pony, was suddenly precipitated into the water. Messrs. Wm. Taylor and George Ivatt were near at hand and after a time succeeded in getting the girl and the pony out safely. While they were finishing the trip, Mr. Ivatt also struck on an air hole and received a cold bath but was not got without much difficulty.

PUTS HEALTH AND VIM INTO WOMEN

So Says Mrs. MacPherson of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brantford, Ont.—"I was always tired and the least exertion would put me out for a day or two, I had a pressing pain on the top of my head, pain in the naps of my neck and my back ached so I could not get up without help. I did not sleep well and was nervous at the least noise. I kept house, but I was such a wreck that I could not sweep the floor nor wash the dishes without lying down afterwards. A friend living near me told me what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for her so I began to take it. With the first bottle I felt brighter and got so I could wash dishes and sweep without having to lie down. Later I became regular again in my monthly terms. I have taken bottles all told and am now all better. I can truly say that your wonderful medicine cannot be beaten for putting health and vim into a woman."—Mrs. James R. MacPherson, 4209 Cregowin St., Brantford, Ont.

FIND WOMAN WANTED FOR BILLS HERE

Mrs. Eileen Walsh Beck Arrested in Toronto—Was Registered in Fashionable Hotel Under Assumed Name—Much Expensive Jewelry and Clothes Purchased Here with Cheques Later Returned

Mrs. Eileen Walsh Beck, wanted here to explain post-dated, but heavy "shopping" bills, was arrested in a fashionable Toronto hotel last night by Toronto officers who acted on information supplied from Belleville quarters also. The woman was using the name "Variey" in the Queen City.

This woman lived at a leading local hotel for some four weeks, previously to Friday, March 21st, when she hurriedly left the city when creditors interviewed her. Evidently possessing a feminine mania for expensive clothes, she purchased jewelry, fancy dresses, underwear, boots, shoes and hats to the extent of some $500 it is believed.

Cheques tendered the merchants on a St. John's, N.B. bank are worth less, as notification that the funds came through from the bank there on Friday last.

Wasn interviewed Friday morning last by a local jeweller who had become anxious about his payments, the woman claimed to be sick in bed and under the care of a nurse. She is alleged to have assured the jeweller that her parents who were arriving in the city on the 2.30 p.m. train, would make satisfactory settlement. In the afternoon she left Belleville, with a Kingston man, paying the hotel bill in cash. The latter man was left at the hotel and all the clothing except one dress was found there.

While in the city, Mrs. Beck used taxi-cabs very often, and one trip was made to Kingston where she stated she visited a sick friend at the hospital there. The taxi bill was paid.

Mrs. Beck is described as being a stylish dresser, and a good talker with an impressive appearance. She will be brought to Belleville for trial.

Topping Turns To Ottawa as Courts Refuse Clemency

London Murderer's Appeal to Division Court Fails—Justice Latchford declares Appeal Dismissed and Conviction Sustained—No Miscarriage of Justice —Sentences of other Slayers May Be Commuted

(Special To Intelligencer)

TORONTO, April 2.—So far as the courts are concerned, Clarence Topping, sentenced by Mr. Justice Lennox for the murder of Geraldine Durston, will hang on April 10. The defence is making application at Ottawa for a mental examination of the prisoner.

In the second appeal tried yesterday, Rex vs. Topping, said Chief Justice Latchford, giving judgment, "this court is of the opinion that the appeal fails. There has been no miscarriage of justice. The appeal is therefore dismissed and the conviction confirmed.

Commute Sentence

Belief is expressed here today, on the strength of this decision, that the sentence of death facing Henry Watkins for the murder of Frederick Campbell in Melbourne will be commuted to one of life imprisonment. There is little likelihood that the sentence of Sidney Murrell will be interfered with.

JUDGMENT RENDERED

Hon. Justice Orde has rendered the following judgment in the case which was tried at the recent assize held in Belleville:

Elijah McMillen v. Dr. Barnardo's National Incorporated Association, Florence Mac McMullen v. Dr. Barnardo's Homes National Incorporated Association—W. C. Mikel, K.C., for plaintiff in each issue. H. W. A. Foster for defendants. Two interwoven issues arose as result of two writs of Peri Facias issued upon a judgment recovered by Dr. Barnardo's National Incorporated Association against one Percy McMullen. The plaintiffs in the two issues are respectively the father and the wife of the execution debtor. Judgment: There will be judgment upon both issues in favor of the plaintiffs upon the release of the equity of redemption to the wife. The fraudulent and void as against defendants, and that the respective plaintiffs in the issues are not entitled to the equity of redemption and to the charge respectively claimed by them as against defendants. The defendants will also be entitled to their costs upon both issues.

BRITISH RULE IS WANTED IN NEW HEBRIDES

Women of Islands in Deplorable Condition Under Present Regime

PREMIER SPEAKS

Declares French Illegally Recruiting Women for Plantations

Melbourne, Australia, April 2.—The situation of the women in the French plantations of the New Hebrides is laside in growing intolerable, according to a statement made to Premier S. M. Bruce yesterday by a deputation representing female suffrage.

The deputation informed Premier Bruce that women were being illegally recruited for work on the plantations and a state of deplorable immorality was being encouraged.

The delinerate policy of the French in the New Hebrides seemed to be the extinction of the native race and their replacement by indentured labor, the deputation declared to the Australian Premier. The alleged replacement was being made from the French possessions of half the islands.

The termination of the Joint Anglo-French administration of the New Hebrides Islands was vigorously urged by the deputation, which presented the opinion that the New Hebrides group of islands should be placed exclusively under British control and that Great Britain should have possession of half its islands.

Premier Bruce replied that the imperial Conference in London last summer considered the matter of the joint government of the New Hebrides and agreed that a different system of administration was essential. Accordingly for this purpose was now proceeding with the French Government, Premier Bruce said.

The New Hebrides is a group of islands in the Pacific Ocean, 500 miles west of the Fiji Islands and 250 miles northeast of New Caledonia Island. Since 1906 the group has been under the joint control of Great Britain and France. The native population is about 59,000 and the European population about 950. The principal exports are maize, copra, cotton and cocoa.

British steamers run regularly to Sydney, Australia and the New Hebrides.

CATTLE SHIPMENTS COMMENCE EARLY

Montreal, April 2—As it is expected in shipping circles that the port of Montreal will be open for navigation somewhat earlier this year than last, the movement of cattle will be brisk. The U. K. east end market for west St. John cattle will be in all probability be the last to pass through Montreal this season destined to England for the winter boat. Altogether 11 carloads comprising 300 cattle, 100 sheep and 100 swine arrived. All having been inspected branded and rested in preparation for the long journey ahead of them.

Seven carloads had come through from western Canada and four from the Toronto district over the week-end.

Sir Edmund Walker Missed In Belleville

The death of the late Sir Edmund Walker, President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, removes from Canada one of the Vice-Presidents of the U. S.-E.I. Celebration Corporation 1924. This death makes the third Vice-President on whose died since its organization, the others being the late John Hendrie of Hamilton and Dr. Thompson, M.P., of Belleville.

The late Sir Edmund Walker, although a very busy man and interested in a number of matters outside of his business, found time to take a deep interest in the celebration of the 140th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists and only a few days before his death Mayor Mills had the expected to be at the celebration next June.

STATION STREET ASSESSMENT IS AT NEW FIGURE

Amendment to Paving Assessment Made at Court Of Revision

SET AT $5.86

Added Share of Cost to Be borne By City of Belleville

At a meeting of the Court of Revision of the City held last evening the following reassessment for local owners for Station street pavement assessment was unanimously adopted.

"The Court of Revision appointed to meet on March 17th, 1924, to review the appeals against the proposed assessment for the construction of a pavement on Station street from the Upper Bridge to Better street, after an adjournment to March 25th, 1924, and further adjournment to April 1st, 1924, and after reviewing the evidence filed, orders that the proposed assessment for the construction of the said pavement be amended by granting a reduction to all the frontages fixed on account of said following memorandum of an order rate dollars and sixty-three ($5.63) cents per foot frontage as shown on the Assessment Roll now prepared for an amount of five dollars and eighty-six ($5.86) cents per foot frontage, and that the total amount of such reduction be added to the share of the cost to be borne by the City of Belleville at large.

New Auto Tax In Effect Now

Two Cents Paid Every Gallon of Gasoline in Quebec

Montreal, April 2.—From today onwards motorists of this province will pay an additional two cents per imperial gallon of gasoline this in regime sept the new tax. It is likely that the revenue from this new measure will not be excessive for a few days as motorists, well advised of the imminence of the taxation tag, had been buying for extra supplies for the past few days.

The collection of the tax, it is stated, there was a provision providing that the tax should be collected at the pipeline in the possession of anyone at the time of the coming into force of the act, but Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Treasurer, announced this clause in the House on the ground that it meant retroactive taxation, even though it would cut the laying up of gasoline supplies.

Dr White Given Good Remuneration

At the Monday session of the Legislature, Premier Ferguson stated that Dr. Gilbert White while employed as road and land valuator on the Picton-Belleville Provincial Highway, received $6 per day and $5 per day for all expenses. In 1922 he received $1,947 and in 1923 he received $1,946. He was employed from June 8, 1922, to May 25, 1923. These answers were given to a series of questions filed by H. E. Collver (Conservative, Prince Edward).

ALMOST UNANIMOUS

Only one man affected by the proposed postal strike at Peterboro voted against the plan. All others affected voted "yes". They object particularly to the bonus system of paying.

PACT IS MADE WITH RAILWAYS FOR ONE YEAR

Maintenance of Way Men Gain Several Points in Discussion

OVERTIME PAY

Probationary Period to Stat ed Rates of Pay Reduced Two Months

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Montreal, April 2.—After being protracted over a year, negotiations between the railways and the maintenance of way, bridge and building employees over several working conditions ended yesterday with three concessions made to the men.

Overtime pay, after eight hours' work, is to be at the rate of time and a half; the probationary period before going to the stated rates of pay is to be reduced from six to four months and the rates paid for permanent laborers in bridge and building, east of Port Arthur, is to be 37 cents as it now is west of Port Arthur. The agreement is to last for one year. The official statement of the new agreement issued last evening by the Railway Association of Canada.

LIQUOR EFFECTS CAUSE MAN TROUBLE

Police received a hurry-up call at 6 p.m. yesterday to quell a disturbance riot in the yard at the rear of a Front street hotel, where a man who lives in Marshall Road, Sidney Township was creating a disturbance after having broken a window. He was drunk and when arrested, one pocket revealed a bottle partially filled with liquor.

Charged with having liquor in a public place contrary to the O.T.A. when he appeared before Magistrate Masson this morning, accused was assessed $200 and $9 costs. The fine was paid. The liquor was produced at a drug store by prescription.

STROMBOLI SHAKES IN TERRIFIC BLAST

Smoke and Cinders Spout From Mountain, Sweep Vineyards on Slope

Rome, April 2.—A violent explosion took place yesterday within the crater of the 2,000 year old volcanic mountain on Stromboli Island, off the Sicilian coast.

There was a great burst of smoke and fire and cinders and flaming rock which destroyed many vineyards along the slopes of the mountain.

All Island in Flames

London, April 2.—The whole island of Stromboli is in flames, following a terrific eruption of the volcano on Stromboli yesterday according to a Central News despatch from Rome.

Stromboli Island lies in the Mediterranean Sea, off the Sicilian coast, and has a population of about 2000 people, whose villages are built on the slopes of the mountain.

The volcano is perpetually active, but its violent eruptions are only intermittent. In 1919 flames and lava have been poured from the crater at the northeastern slope for the first time since 1906.

The island is about 3040 feet above the sea and is a favorite night sight for

Police in Thrilling Chase Shoot One Holdup Man But Fail to Prevent Getaway With Satchel Containing Sum Estimated to Be $100,000

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Montreal, April 2.—One bandit was shot dead and a bank messenger fatally wounded as a result of a daring holdup perpetrated at 2.30 yesterday afternoon under the C.P.R. subway, Ontario street. Henry Cleroux, messenger of the Bank of Hochelaga, it understood, was carrying a satchel containing a sum said to have totalled $100,000.

Cleroux, who was in a motor car with another man, was on his way from the bank to the clearing house in St. James street.

Just under the subway the bandit car, in which two armed men were riding, drove alongside the bank motor. One of them opened fire, and a bullet hit the messenger in the neck. The latter fell over in the car, and jumping on the running board, grabbed the satchel, estimated to have contained a sum varying amount from $10,000 to $100,000.

The police were at once notified and they located the bandit car, the police car giving chase. The bandit car was shot dead when a fusillade of bullets hurtled after the car. The other bandit jumped from the robber vehicle, but took the grip containing the money with him.

The car was found to contain several rifles and revolvers.

Cleroux, who is 24 years old, was taken to the Notre Dame hospital where he died shortly afterwards.

Up to the time of going to press the bandit had not been identified.

NOTED SPEAKER TELLS OF 'DRAMA'

Place of the Drama in Our National Life Delightful Evening at Bridge St. Methodist Hall—Alfred E. Henderson Excels Himself

When Rev. F. E. Maiolt introduced Mr. Alfred E. Henderson, traveller, writer and lecturer, to the audience last night for his lecture on the drama in its relation to our national life, it is safe to say that everyone there was in the mood to enjoy the delightful afternoon provided by the Belleville Literary Club. Mr. Henderson, who had determined to secure him for a full evening. The lecture was full of choice selections from Shakespeare, Sheridan, Ibsen, of the Classic drama, and Barrie, Shaw, Galsworthy and "Deburau" of the moderns to whom every modern drama owes its existence. Gems of the evening will worthy of considerable note.

"The theatre belongs to everyone and is everybody's business," he said. "It is a responsibility we cannot evade even if we would and therefore we must see all work for plays that are literature as well as good drama."

He described the direct cause of the poor class of plays sent round Canada to-day. The public taste has been so brightened intellects would be drawn into the theatre profession and a wave of art and education would be raised. "Then," he said, "we would have an opportunee. Let teachers receive salaries commensurate with the value of their educational responsibility".

"Let us stand and reconsider THINKING. It is the best of all games and the most cheaply to play and helps everyone, including your city and your country."

"Belleville has enough local talent, a splendid theatre for the use of Amateurs JOLLIES to develop the commercial theatre idea as a piece of civic work that would pay its way handsomely."

Mr. Henderson's work brought enthusiastic applause and at the end announced that he would return to Belleville for a round theatre party in SUMMER THEATRE and PAGEANTRY in a month's time.

UNSETTLED CONDITIONS ARE GRAVE

General Lock-Out of Shipbuilders and Coal Miners To Take Place in Near Future—Labor Ministry Announces Change In Constitution—Air Strike In Britain Without Precedent in World's History

London, April 2.—One hundred thousand shipbuilders will be locked out April 10 unless the strike of the shipyard men at Southampton is abandoned before that time. This decision was taken by the employers' today after a conference of all the shipyard unions had declared that the Southampton strike was irregular and unofficial. In the meantime further efforts will be made to induce the Southampton men to resume work.

The Ministry of Labor has interviewed in the strike of the workers at Southampton in regard to the method of achieving a settlement. It has been decided to appoint the chief conciliation officer for London, Sir Wembley to proceed to Southampton to-day.

The Air Ministry similarly is trying to settle the threatened strike of the Croydon air pilots, but has no present intention of employing government pilots. That would be contrary to the policy of the Labor Government, which seeks to avoid any action of a strike-breaking character.

Change in Labor Constitution

An interesting episode, bearing on the Labor Government's treatment of treaty questions arose yesterday when Arthur Ponsonby, Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, moved the second reading of the bill ratifying the Treaty of Lausanne, pointed out that the present Government could in no way be responsible for the provisions of the treaty, which was concluded by the late Government, but nevertheless was anxious that all treaties which should be accomplished, permitting resumption at the earliest moment of normal political and trade relations with Turkey.

Mr. Ponsonby also made the important announcement that in order to strengthen the control of Parliament over international treaties the Government intended to submit to the Lower Parliament would be allowed an adequate opportunity for the discussion of all treaties before their final ratification. He said that although there had been no constitutional obligation on the Government of the day to submit treaties before ratification.

"This announcement of policy contests from a number of the Opposition members that such weighty constitutional changes should be made before this bill, and finally the speaker ruled the amendment out of order.

Mr. A. L. Fisher, Liberal, said that the Under-Secretary, instead of introducing the Lausanne Treaty, had faced away from it and had delivered a plea for the independence of the British constitution.

Strike Continues

The strike of the civilian aviators, a direct result of the Croydon air conflagration. Not a single British commercial airplane left for the Continent to-day. Late this afternoon the Labor leaders, who are now organizing the strike and maintaining the picket lines, skilled and unskilled workers into a body, had a conference with Sir Robert Air Minister, in order to obtain his interpretation of the dispute.

The pilots not only refuse to accept the proposed terms of settlement, but the new imperial Air Transport Council, but also object entirely to the proposal to take away from them the right to decide whether or not weather conditions are suitable for flying and their machines fit.

Montreal Man Retires As Detroit United Officer; Others Re-Elected

Detroit, Mich., April 2—Re-election of all officers and directors of the Detroit United Railways with the exception of Gen. Gingras, retiring Montrealer, Montreal, was announced today.

Gen. Gingras declined re-election because of the pressure of personal business which required his entire attention.

The office of treasurer will be filled at the next meeting of the board of directors, April 15, when the vacancy in dividend declaration will also be resolved.

The officers re-elected are: Elliot G. Stevenson, president; Charles Lanman, vice-president; R. J. Burdick, vice-president and general manager; Peter Martin, secretary; Miss M. A. Stewart, assistant secretary; Joseph Walker, assistant treasurer; R. G. Sikeman, general auditor.

PROGRESS OF THE SESSION

The present session promises to be of a very critical character. The King Government, relying on support which is sectional rather than national, lacking a majority in either House of Parliament and inherently weak in the character of its personnel has managed to struggle along for two years through the benevolent friendliness of the Progressive and its own tactics of feeble deceitful compromises which evaded serious issues and muddled pressing problems.

But the bread of government which it has been providing, is not merely ineffective, but positively harmful to national interests; its spokesmen make the best of a few surface signs of prosperity, but a steady increase of the national debt, a southward exodus of alarming proportions and a complete cessation of expansion and enterprise in many districts are abundant evidence of the damaging of an inefficient and sectional administration whose members' energies and efforts are chiefly concentrated upon the maintenance of themselves in office.

The country gave the King Government a long period of grace, but the Halifax and Kent by-elections demonstrated that the electors had become cognizant of its misdeeds and their resolute and impatient of its deceitful hypocrisy and helpless incompetence. To bolster up his fading fortunes, Mr. King made early this year desperate efforts to re-inforce his Cabinet with Mr. Crerar and other western Liberals, but the latter were too wary to trust their fortunes on a sinking ship. So other means had to be tried for securing the continued co-operation of the Progressive party whose supporters in the country were becoming restless at their perpetual subservience to the Liberals without securing adequate concessions leaders let it it be known that in future, for their support, they must get something to take back to their electors of they would make trouble. Their help, however, was soon more available at a price and the price appeared in the Speech from the Throne which, amid a mass of wordy platitudes and vain glorious boastings about imaginary accomplishments, contained a significant passage intimating that there would be a reduction in the protective duties on implements of production.

This clause, is nothing more than a direct bribe to the Progressives but it is also a scandalous violation of the ordinary principles of decent government to mention specifically in advance of the Budget, impending tariff changes. Such a revelation cannot fail to make buyers postpone their purchases and seriously disturb trade. Mr. Guthrie related in the debate how frightening when once asked to give some information about tariff changes, declared that if he did so, he would be everlasting damned. But such departures from decent traditions of public life do not worry Mr. King, provided he can buy Progressive support.

And Mr. Forke, the Progressive Leader, soon "gave away the interview showing that he was ready to sell and give an easy bargain at that. The supposition is that the Government plans such a substantial reduction, or a complete removal of the duties on agricultural implements and the result would be to threaten the existence of one of our most important industries. This industry has been passing through very difficult times; few firms engaged in it have been able to show any profits for the last three years. And the abolition of the duties would inflict from the competition of the great American corporations, would drive them to the wall. Pieces like Beaubien and Smith's Falls stand to lose a third of the population if serious cuts in the implement duties are made.

However, the Progressives are not going to be satisfied merely with a reduction of implement duties, which they know would expose them to the charge of caring only for their own selfish interests. They are demanding more drastic cuts and will have to get them if the Government wants to save its skin. What is afoot is the ruthless sacrifice of the Canadian industry in an effort to perpetuate by naked political bribery the life of a feeble, discredited and incompetent government, some of whose leading members are in addition tainted with grave personal discredit. There has been no consideration of the economic effects of the proposed changes; even Liberal members whose constituencies were certain to be affected, were not consulted about it.

The truth is that the historic Liberal party, under its present leadership is no longer a suitable instrument of government; it is torn by internal dissensions; it has no mind of its own or coherent policy, and it can only be under pressure from some outside force like the Progressives. It is only earnest and sincere in one thing—its anxiety to retain office and, to accomplish it is now threatening to sacrifice the fundamental interests of the country.

But the Conservative Party has not hesitated for a moment to meet with a bold front the threat of our industrial life. In his able opening speech on the debate on the address, Mr. Meighen completely exposed the hypocrisy and peril of the course proposed by the Government and demonstrated how inaccurate and fallacious were the pictures of flowing prosperity presented in the Speech from the Throne as a result of the King Government's wise policies. He marshalled unanswerable statistics to prove that the emigration to the United States had reached a serious pitch and was steadily increasing and that foreign immigration, aggravated by the fiscal changes of the last two Budgets was doing harm to many valuable and important industries. The Premier did not attempt any serious reply to Mr. Meighen, but merely resorted to his futile platitudes and sonpy sentimentality. Nor would he accede to the demand of Mr. Meighen and other Conservative speakers to end the uncertainty about the tariff situation by giving more specific information. However, the Conservatives seem to have impressed upon the Government the enormity of their offence in making premature disclosures for preparation of the Budget is being hurried on and it will likely be produced before March.

In the Conservative side Dr. Meighen, Mr. Steven and Mr. Guthrie each made able speeches. Mr. Guthrie quoted very effectively humorous delivered by Mr. King and his lieutenants three years ago, but we were laying down the doctrine that when by-elections revealed a loss of popular confidence in a government it should appeal to the country at once, and he boldly challenged the Government to make parallel circumstances to apply these doctrines now.

Ministers like Mr. Graham, Mr. Lapointe and Dr. King attempted some sort of defence, but it carried little conviction. The Progressives who spoke showed a divided tendencies for the Government; they think they have got about all but France can do and want it if it too hard. However, there are many Liberal members who do not like the turn of events and among others, Mr. Lemieux, who is also all at sea on industrial ridings, openly threatened revolt unless plans for tariff reduction were abandoned. However, for the present the revolt did nothing more and declined to vote for the amendment moved by Mr. Donald Sutherland which censured the Government for its failure to take consideration of the existence and maintenance of the home market.

The address was duly carried and what is really the opening skirmish of the session is fair to be a prolonged conflict, came to an end. Then, the House of Commons has been devoting itself to the resolutions of private measures and estimates which are now available. The latter show appropriations under a number of items like the public debt and railways over which the Ministry has no control and there is a very serious cut in the sums allocated for services and benefits to returned soldiers. But under the other heads there is no serious effort at economy and the Government finds itself quite able to afford an expenditure of $1,200,000 to provide a more resplendent home for Mr. F. C. Larkin, the High Commissioner in London, who was one of the most faithful contributors to itik campaign funds.

Hopes are held out of balancing the Budget, but this will only be achieved by the subterfuge of meeting the railway deficit by loans which will increase the aggregate national burden.

Meanwhile, more than one Minister is living under the shadow of grave imsprpicitive which, in due course will come to light.

WEAKNESS IN THE AIR

(Manchester Guardian

In round numbers, last year round us to be misleading, we have at present about one fleeting, or combatant, aeroplane for every ten possessed by France. Three large about 600 first-line aeroplanes already reached the number of the Independent Striking Force, to attack any enemy the instant a war is declared. We have for the same purpose about 300. But France can at any moment throw us in other aeroplanes which would be constructed immediately to the same use—say some 400 told off to work with the French Army. The relative combatant strengths of the two countries in the air, then, would amount to a hundred. In a conflict we should be in the position of one man fighting ten.

WBZ HAS THE MOST POPULAR KIDDIES' CONTEST

One of WBZ's bedtime story tellers inaugurated a guessing contest by radio recently which excited the fondest expectations of any of the staff of the Springfield, Mass., broadcasting station, including even the story teller herself, and proved to be one of the most popular features ever sponsored by the local Westinghouse transmitting plant since its first broadcast back in September of 1921. Miss Mercedes E. Rood, the bedtime lady, conceived the idea of attempting a combination guessing and spelling contest for the kiddies by radio, offering prizes to the winners as incentives. The questions involved an educational benefit and were designed to break up the kiddies in binaral historic, fictional and biblical learning.

The contest proved to be highly successful and the youngsters who picked up her opening announcement in which she gave out the questions and any rules pertaining to the contest, responded with surprising enthusiasm. Miss Keefe received 800 answers to her questions. The replies came in from 18 different states in the United States, from points as far west as Iowa, east to the Atlantic coast, and as far south as West Virginia, Thirty-four letters from Canada also poured in. Also included in unexpected responses were letters from two blind girls, inmates of a Connecticut school for the blind. Their letters were written in Braille.

The originator of this popular feature devised ten objects, which were strikingly suggestive of some famous character in history, fiction or the Bible. The objects were as follows: Satchel; a rail fence; a lighter; a muddy cloak; a lonely island; a burning bush; a well; a glass slipper; an apple and bow; and a silver lamp. Each of these objects was representative of some famous character either in history, fiction or the Bible, and the winner of the contest was the one who guessed each character correctly and had put one subtract in spelling.

As an added feature, Miss Keefe announced that a prize would also be awarded to the youngster who presented the best description in therme of herself and submitted the best.

If Rheumatic Eat No Sweets

SAYS GLASS OF SALTS HELP TO OVERCOME RHEUMATISM ACID

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure states a well known authority. Who are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kind.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids remaining from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the body of this poison. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores contract, throwing back into the keys to do double work; they become sick and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps circulating through the blood through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

The Letter Box

THE SAME PRIVILEGE

Editor Intelligencer:

A question arose yesterday at the Kiwanis luncheon as to what effect Bill 19 would have which is giving the School Board the right to have the medical, dental or nursing inspection service, or in any way treat the pupils of the school without the parents or guardians consent.

It gives me pleasure to answer that question with an attack which appeared in the Toronto Globe of yesterday, when advantage was taken, although the amendment is not yet passed and made law.

"To the Editor of the Globe: The Globe deserves the thanks of every parent having school children in Toronto for its same editorial of March 27. "When Parents do not Count", for the practice of ignoring the parents wishes and ordering a child to attend a clinic or hospital is increasing in Toronto rapidly with a flood of unnecessary operations as a result. Our Board of Health denies this practice but I hold a sample letter (which The Globe can examine) which directs the child to a certain hospital for treatment, and this was without the parents' consent. This case was signed by a city school nurse. My experience has shown that the parents fear (not favor) the proposed act.

The Intelligencer's BIBLE DISTRIBUTION

Following the most distressing period of unrest the world has ever known, comes a world wide revival of Bible reading, which must tend to ameliorate the unrestful conditions of mankind. To encourage such an end, leading newspapers throughout this country have joined forces to promote the distribution of the great Book of Books, and have adopted a plan that should readily place the Bible in the hands of every reader. Two exclusive editions have been chosen for this purpose—first, the famous large print Red Letter Bible, illustrated herein, and a beautiful plain print, medium large type edition that will be distributed for a nominal sum.

This illustrates the beautiful big volume—Style A—which contains the following

Special Features

ALL THE WORDS AND SAYINGS OF CHRIST distinguished from the context by being printed in red.

All Passages in the old Testament prophetic of the coming of Christ marked with a Star.

All the difficult words made self-pronouncing by diacritical marks; made so simple a child can pronounce them.

The Question of The Universe

This Bible—this miraculous Bible—this Book of All Books—luminous with the light that dwelleth not on land or sea—this noblest and most beautiful Thing in all the world—what is it—whence cometh it—what means it?

It has made and unmade Nations. It has uprooted Kingdoms and Empires. It has diverted the mighty tides of History. It has crumpled ancient Faiths and Superstitions. Because of It fell Pagan Rome. The antique Systems of India and the Far East have bowed their heads to its enlightened sway.

China and the Orient now first awaken from their sleep of thrice a thousand years, and follow their sister nations of the Occident—whose feet are guided by one sole lamp—the sacred flame of which was kindled by the inspired Hebrew Prophets, and fed for all time by the Lord as Master of the Golden Rule.

Only ignorance scoffs at the Bible! The greatest rulers—the greatest statesmen—the greatest scholars—writers—orators—scientists—soldiers—and the untold millions of the Common People, whose collective genius outweighs them all—have thrilled to its Divine Wisdom.

Its lyrics of unfathomable tenderness—its orations of compelling potency—its contemplative prose of preternatural grandeur—have never been equalled. Its emotional depths and its intellectual heights make it the one and only Book of Books, vouchsafed for the guidance of mankind throughout the ages.

Lightship Crew's Strange Adventure

Thrilling Story of Sea Ended With a Laugh—Collision Occurred Off Norfolk Coast

Great Yarmouth, April 1.—The adventures of a lightship crew, off Great Yarmouth, on the Norfolk coast, in the early hours of the morning, have just been made known. The story begins with ominous thrill, but ends in comedy.

At 1 a.m. the light of the Smith's Knoll light-vessel was burning as usual. Some of the crew were in the forecastle below, and the watch was on deck. Suddenly, out of the darkness loomed a mighty black shape, which towered above the light-vessel.

There was no time for any warning or for the large ship to change her course. She struck the moored lightvessel on the bow with a crash that shook the ship from stem to stern and heeled her over.

The ship that had appeared out of the blackness was riding light, and her propeller churned the water into boiling cauldron. It seemed that she was bound to sink the light-vessel over, even if the latter had not been holed below the waterline. Men on her decks, impressed with the severity of the collision, called to the crew of the light-vessel to jump.

Warning Cry

"Jump for your lives!" someone shouted. You're sinking!"

One of the lightsmen heard the cry above the confusion and believing that his darkened ship was going to be beaten in a few minutes, jumped. He was pulled aboard the stranger, which then managed to get clear.

By the time she had recovered herself, the stranger, who proved to be a German, could find no trace of the light-vessel. She cruised about for a while and then proceeded to Hull and there reported the disaster and landed her rescued man. He arrived at once for Yarmouth and reported at the Trinity House depot that his ship had been sunk in a collision, all hands except himself being lost.

"Oh," said the authorities. "But you'll be glad to know all your mates are alive. She did not sink."

Signal to Lifeboat

The light-vessel with her lantern lights knocked out, was missed by the searching German, but managed to signal to a lifeboat. She reported that her bulwarks were smashed in, but that she was making no water.

She has now been towed in for repairs, and another light-vessel stands guarding the Knoll until the new place, and among his mates, doing his job as usual, is the "sole survivor," whose monotonous vigil at sea was so thrillingly broken.

The splendid part of the story is that the crew of the light-vessel, left unwittingly without aid in the dark sea, with a badly damaged ship, had their warning light burning brightly again soon after the German had got clear, and passing ships were warned off the shoal as effectively as ever until relief came to tow the crippled sentinel home.

EXAMINE TOPPING

Judge Suggests Immediate Ottawa Action; Reserves Decision Meanwhile

Toronto, April 2.—The Second Division Court presiding, yesterday reserved judgment on the application of D. A. J. Swanson, representing Clarence Topping, for a new trial.

Topping is sentenced to hang on April 10 for the murder at London in November of Geraldine Darston. The court suggested that Mr. Swanson should telegraph to the Department of Justice for the mental examination of Topping, suggested by the trial judge to be made at once. E. Bayley, K.C., Deputy Attorney-General, for the Crown, stated that he had written the department calling attention to the imminence of the execution.

"It is only proper," said Chief Justice Latchford, "that the examination should be made. The question is whether what occurred at the trial was such an interference with the administration of justice that it would warrant us saying there was a miscarriage of justice. In my view it was not. I shall have to consult my colleagues."

HANCOCK HARD HIT

Maryland Town Suffers in Worst Flood of History; Water 14 Feet Deep

Hagerstown, Md., April 2.—Hundreds of thousands of dollars damage was suffered at Hancock today from the worst flood here since 1936. Railroad bridges have been washed away by the 14 foot wall of water that inundated the town. Telephonic communication completely demoralized and the greater part of the business section of the town lays under from three to seven feet of water.

It was necessary to shut down the water system last night, due to the fast rising waters, Hancock housed hundreds of tourists who were driven to that city for safety by the fast rising waters of the Potomac River.

Early Thursday a pair of fire were drowned. The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Beman, their two children, and David Beman, grandfather of the children.

HOME FOR EASTER

A most convenient service is provided by Canadian National Railways for all those who desire to take advantage of the long week-end at Easter, or to enjoy a more extended holiday during that period. Parents or relatives wishing to bring students or pupils at school, etc., home for the holiday can arrange all details through the Railway Company. Any Canadian National Agent will transmit to all parts of the British empire for the delivery of rail tickets, sleeping car berths or parlor car seats, and if required, cash payment for travelling expenses and will cheerfully render any other service that may be desired. Personal attention will be given passengers at Toronto Union depots and everything possible will be done to contribute to the comfort and safety of those who may be entrusted to the care of a Canadian National Representative.

For further particulars apply to any Canadian National Ticket Agent.

Won't Cancel Debt Dues From France

Lord Beaverbrook Out to Bar All Concessions; Opens Campaign

London, April 1.—The British Foreign Office this afternoon denied a report printed by Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express that Premier Ramsay MacDonald may cancel France's debt to Great Britain.

The Daily Express has opened a campaign against giving concessions to France.

It declared that when the international experts make their repartions report France will demand priorities and cancellation of the French debt to Great Britain.

It added that Premier MacDonald "in his anxiety for a settlement, may cancel the debt."

The newspaper warned that the public must sit to prevent such action.

APRON SOCIAL HELD BY LODGE

Under the auspices of Quintens Rebekah Lodge No. 133 an apron social was held last evening in the I. O. O. F. hall. Despite the inclement weather there was a large attendance and a most enjoyable evening was participated in by all present.

In the early part of the evening a varied programme was carried out. Rev. Bro. Geo. Marshall presided. There were solos by Mrs. Ralls, R. Johnston, and Mr. W. Ralls, a reading by Mrs. Bennett-Smith, a violin and piano duet by Master Harold Sprague as violinist and Miss Lila Sprague pianiste. Community singing was also indulged in. Miss K. Tynn played the accompaniments for the soloists and Bro. E. Turney for the community singing. Brief but appropriate addresses were given by Bros. Bennett, G. Cananoque, C. Hanna and W. Brooks of this city. A singing competition was a special feature and the committee selected as judges voted the prize to themselves, but, unfortunately owing to an accident they were deprived of the pleasure of singing music that came being furnished by the Sprague orchestra.

To Mrs. E. Rutherford, convener of the meet is due much credit for its success.

GREAT OFFER TO READERS

Following the greatest period of physical desolation and mental unrest ever known, the world has turned for succour to its inherent economy of comfort. It is trying to forget the ruthless trailing of life in the salute of spiritual promise. No matter what may be one's creed or station in life the Bible answers every need and gives courage to all who read it.

Realizing this, an announcement is being made in other columns of this issue of a remarkable offer by this paper to its readers. Only through cooperation with hundreds of newspapers in this country and Canada has it been made possible to share in this wonderful distribution of the famous Big Print Red Letter Edition of the Bible, bound in limp leather and containing many pages of helps and half tones reproduced from photographs.

Among many others is a very special feature, that of printing in red, all the sayings of Christ as to that, one in search of the Master's own words can find them at a glance, and quotations from his teachings can be easily located.

The usual price asked for Bibles of such rare bookmaking is from three to four dollars so that this is a real opportunity to acquire an exquisite copy of the Book of Books by simply clipping a few coupons and adding a nominal distribution charge. How this can be done is explained in the announcement. Emphasis is laid on the fact that the publisher's allotment to this paper cannot be increased and it is sincerely hoped that it is large enough to supply all coupon holders.

There are two distinct styles in this offer, Style A, which is the one briefly described, and Style B which is an all Bible text medium print.

This latter is regular edition for those who do not feel that they can take advantage of the more elaborate volume.

Break a Chest Cold With Heat Of Red Peppers

The snow of yesterday has halted the sandlot activities in baseball circles locally, and the hot-stove league still holds sway.

A recent article in one of the prominent sporting magazine, deplores the decline of curve ball pitching, and states that the prevailing heavy slugging is due to that fact. The day of the break delivery, such as the emery ball, the shine ball, the spit ball and others is about over. Such stars the old days who are still listed among the leading mound artists are curve ball exponents.

"Wild Bill" Donovan, before his passing a few weeks ago, declared that a twin on the ball is of more value than any freak delivery.

Notices from the Colts training camp still bring promising reports of the favorable impression created by Jack Williams on Stallings. He is listed among the best mound prospects of the season by the veteran leader.

CARPENTIER MEETS TUNNEY IN JUNE

New York, April 2—Georges Carpentier, French light heavyweight, has accepted terms to meet Gene Tunney, United States light heavyweight champion, in New York or New Jersey, the week of June 16, Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager announced yesterday.

Gibson said that neither he nor Francois Descamps, the Frenchman's manager, had signed with any promoter, but it was understood that Pete "Lis" Marriott the choice was a very Richard was ready to stage the proposed match, probably at Boyle's Thirty Acre, his Jersey City arena.

Carpentier, according to Gibson, is expected to arrive the last of May. He said he had nothing of proposed arrangements for a match between the French ring idol and Tom Gibbons, of Michigan City, Ind., July 4.

BROOKLYN

St. Thomas April 2.—According to letter received from Danny McPhee, the former St. Thomas amateur southpaw, who is trying out with Brooklyn Nationals at Clearwater, Fla., he will be farmed out with a secondary league this year, probably Rochester, N. Y. Nothing definite has been heard from Clearwater, however. This is contrary to the report from Hamilton that McPhee would be seen with the Hamilton Mini League team this year. The report from Hamilton stated that "Buzz" Wertzel had looked Danny over and expected to secure him from Brooklyn.

THE "GOAL-GETTER"

Toronto, April 2.—Carson Cooper, who played with Niagara Falls in the exhibition game against Belleville, Monday night, scored two goals, bringing his total for the season up to 50, which is a few more than the average player scores, during a season's campaign.

STIFF WRESTLING MATCH

New York, April 2.—Wladek Zbyszko got the judge's decision over Jack Taylor, champion of Canada, after one hour and fifty-five minutes of wrestling at the 71st Armory here last night. Neither wrestler scored a fall. Stanislaus Zbyszko won his bout with Husanez of Bulgaria, throwing his man with a crotch hold in 34 minutes.

BABE AT IT AGAIN

Mobile, Tenn., April 2.—From the home plate to the center field fence on the diamond at Mobile the distance is 436 feet. The centerfield fence is thirty feet high. The ball slammed by the Babe cleared the fence by 114 feet, and when last seen was soaring and speeding with undiminished vigor. Although there are no statistics baseball writers and other experts agreed that this homer was a record for the Babe.

Will Organize Lacrosse Teams

One week ago at an enthusiastic preliminary meeting of the Belleville Lacrosse Club, officials were elected, and it was decided to organize a four team city league, as well as juvenile and midget teams in an effort to revive the game in the city.

President Glintz of the newly formed club, has called a meeting for tomorrow evening at the Chamber of Commerce, when full arrangements will be made to put the city league over, and also arrange for the other two teams as proposed.

The officers would like to see the Chamber of Commerce room filled tomorrow night, so that they would be offered every encouragement in their worthy ambition of reviving the strenuous and exciting game of lacrosse.

AWREY TIGERS' COACH

Hamilton, April 2.—At a brief meeting of the Tiger football section at the clubrooms Sunday, George Awrey associated coach of last years championship team, was appointed coach for next season to succeed Walter "Lis" Marriott, he choice was a very popular one, as Awrey is a great favorite with the team and officials alike, and the utmost confidence in him has always been expressed. A Multitude of Women Recommend It

The strongest recommendation possible for any medicine to have is the sound testimony given by the vast multitudes of women who have used it. It has been proved that 25 out of every 100 women once ill with ailments that caused sufferings and despair have been restored to the joys of health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This marvelous record shows the power over the ills of women, and the letters of recommendation we are continually publishing in this paper should induce every ailing woman to try it.

A BLENDED TEA IS BETTER

Tea from one garden, no matter how fine it is, possesses certain desirable qualities, but may lack others, because all characteristics are not developed under the conditions. Blending the teas has a perfect flavour it may lack body; if it doesn't it perhaps will not the same perfection of flavour. To combine all desirable characteristics in one blend has been the work of the "SALADA" Experts for over a quarter of a century and SALADA is the result of their labours. The flavour is more delicious than any unblended tea grown.

Death Omen In Music

Dublin, April 3.—Peculiar warning of his wife's death is declared to have overtaken Tsaye, the famous Belgian violinist. A premonition of ill came upon him immediately after a recital at the Theatre Royal—a performance in which, he remarked, he had felt his powers as a musician affected. A few minutes later a telegram arrived saying his wife was seriously ill in Brussels, and in less than ten minutes a second wire announced her death. The violinist immediately cancelled outstanding engagements in Belfast and Manchester, caught the next boat for Holyhead and is rushed across to Brussels. His wife had not been in bad health, and her collapse was sudden, death following almost immediately. —The violinist and his wife declared Tsaye's agent "were a directed Darby and Joan coup le and usually traveled everywhere together. Early in the afternoon in Dublin, he had said to me: 'There is no soul in my music today—something has gone out of me.' Tsaye, who is over 60, has a highly-strung temperament, and belongs to the old "romantic" school of violinists. His wife was 26.

Queen Alexandra School Attendance Is 66 Per Cent Perfect for Month of March

To the Parents—

The following facts should be of interest to you.

1. There were 442 days lost by absence during the month of March. This is an average of 21 pupils every school day.

2. 60 per cent of our pupils were present every day.

3. 14 per cent of pupils were absent 1 day only.

These figures are more satisfactory than for the preceding month but surely there is a good chance to improve with your co-operation.

BANNOCKBURN

The concert held here in I.O.O.F. Hall was a success and enjoyed by all. The proceeds $50 was in aid of W. A. The W. A. also held at the rectory Thursday was spent very nicely. The hostesses Mrs. W. Sandford. There were fifteen members present and the time was mostly taken up by making surplices for the choir and are to be ready for the special Easter services.

The musical service held at Marmorn Anglican church was attended by Rev. D. Sweeney, Bath rector.

The revivals finished at the United Church Wednesday evening held by the pastor Rev. J. M. White and Rev. Mr. Wickware, returned missionary from Africa. The last service held on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and Cooper's in the evening were conducted by Rev. Mr. Wickware. His text was taken from Rev. 12, chap. 8, pt 24 verse. (And Jacob Was Left Alone). The two nights services were also of great interest to all.

The remains of Mr. David Wannamaker, Bannockburn, was laid to rest in Fox's cemetery, Bethel. Burial service was held at United Church, Eldorado, by Rev. J. M. White.

Sage Tea Keeps Your Hair Dark

WHEN MIXED WITH SULPHUR IT BRINGS BACK ITS BEAUTIFUL LUSTRE AT ONCE

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the remarkable effect of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. Nobody can deny the result. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of this old time tonic restores its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is a very popular and safe recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of people recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because they know that it will mutually, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing the through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.

That Body of Yours

By Jane W. Barton, M.D.

PARAFFIN OIL

You see many advertisements regarding various oils for the lubrication of the intestine.

There are a great many on the market at the present time, and each have perhaps wondered just what was their action and whether they were indicated in your particular case.

The first thing to remember is that while these oils are not medicines in the ordinary sense of the word, and therefore cannot be very harmful, nevertheless their use is not advisable unless there is some need for them.

The whole purpose of these paraffin oils, as they are called, is to reinforce the waste matter in the lower intestine that it will pass through more rapidly, and the body thus rids itself of poisonous material.

Where this waste matter remains too long in the intestine, the watery parts of it seem to become gradually absorbed into the system leaving the remainder of it very dry and consequently slow to move. It would appear that these oils by forming a coat over the material have the effect of actually keeping the liquid parts of this waste matter from being absorbed into the body.

Then also the intestine hastens the material along in much greater bulk when it is coated with oil.

Thus the chief purpose of the oil—to retain the liquid portion of the waste from being absorbed, and so stiffen the intestine to move things along and to give it much more room rapidly, should be of help in certain cases.

Where one is laid up in bed, or is not to take a cathartic, the use of liquid paraffin oil might really be of benefit.

But the normal individual even up to the twenties or thirties is not to be about, walk, and take light forms of exercise should have no need of any help as far as the intestine is concerned.

The intestine has a movement much like that of a worm which will squeeze material along in waves of motion.

Almost anything disturbs it in action.

The material itself in the intestine stimulates the muscular walls to press on the contents and move them along.

Food entering the stomach gives it an impetus to move faster.

A drink of water, the first thing in the morning likewise stimulates it.

However, where there is created the huge muscles which run perpendicularly from ankle to ankle, and realistically across the abdomen, were meant to permit bending in every direction in his quest for food, or at his daily toil. They were meant to be used in other words.

So that if you bend yourself from side to side, or forward and back, at your work or play, you will bring all these muscles into use. And if you bring these muscles into use by your play or work right across the intestine and stimulate it to work. If you do work or play that way you will never have any need for paraffin oil.

HEARTLESS

"Ah," she sighed, "I shall never have his love again. He says he says he has listened for with eager ears as he came through the garden gate, the step that has so often thrilled my heart. But I sat still in the front porch. Never, never again!

"But to let you?" asked the sympathetic friend.

"No. He has taken to wearing rubber soles."

SAVING IN SOAP

Alice was only half through the clothing process when her mother was called away for a few minutes. Before leaving she told Alice to wash herself thoroughly. On her return, Alice was vigorously rubbing herself down. "Did you wash your back?" asked her mother sanctimoniously. "No," replied the small economist, "I didn't wash my back at all. I hardly ever use it, and I supposed it would be clean."

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"That is very sweet of you," he said, that Miss Vincent did not show up to "I tried to console myself by riding inspect her new purchase; but he had round your farm—you know how keen not much time to indulge in disappointI am about farming? How very much ment, and he was quite content with the improved your farm is! I was quite surprised and puzzled—how laughed—for Pen knows Martin and his way of doing things for many years, until I was told you had got a new foreman during Martin's illness. He must be a splendid fellow, and we must not let him out of the district. I was told that he was going when Martin got about again. If that is so, and you want to get rid of him and have nothing against him, I should like to take him on. He is just the kind of man I want, a man of ideas, and one who evidently knows his business. By the way, they told me his name, but I have forgotten it."

"His name is Gordon," said Esther rather coldly. "Yes, I suppose he will leave me now that Martin is back after the farm. I will tell him that you would like to have him, if you like."

"Thank you very much," said Lord Fawcuth. "But if I may be permitted to advise you, I should say that you had better leave him yourself; he must be simply invaluable."

"I believe that he understands his work," said Esther, still more coldly, so coldly that Lord Fawcuth glanced at her curiously, and thought that there was something against the new foreman which she did not like him, and changed the subject.

Sir Robert Bruce and the major had joined them and took her away from Lord Fawcuth, and the two men found themselves extremely pleasant, and paid her the attentions which a girl so beautiful and wealthy a girl, Esther could not resent Lord Fawcuth's, who Lord Fawcuth's innocent words had roused in her mind; and as she drove home her aunt's comments on the guests and the people they had met fell upon unheeding ears.

One of the oldest baronetcies in the kingdom—the Bruces—was that of Elsmere. They are descended from the Scotch Bruces. I thought these place, when we called there the other day, was one of the most beautiful I had ever seen," Esther might have said that neither she nor her aunt had seen many, but she refrained, "Sir Robert asked me over on many occasions about you and your life at the Towers. I think he was interested in you—intensely so, if I may say so. He is a very charming man, and is still really quite young, and I am sure you would like him. He had of figure which lasts. Major Longhurst, the millionaire-yachtsman, you, Esther! They tell me he has a fine estate in Yorkshire, and must be quite famous. He asked me if we should be home next week, and when I named Thursday, I suppose I ought to, for I am to meet them again on Thursday?"

"I think not, aunt," said Esther absently. "Yes, they were very kind! I think I like Lord Fawcuth best of all. He calls me 'My dear' now and then, and it's kind o' cheery me," as the Americans say."

She formed very listless and thoughtful for the rest of the drive, and listened with deaf ears, as the Spanish say, to her aunt's eloquence of the people they had just left. So Mr. Gordon meant to leave them! How long would it be before Martin got about again?

For the next two or three days Esther did not leave the boundary of the park, and carefully avoided the home farm. The machinery came down, and Jack Gordon superintended the erection and packing. He was rather disappointed

Wooden Shoes

"THE peasant in America do not wear wooden shoes at all, even in the fields!" writes Abbe Pierre, of Gascony. "No, the peasants there wear shoes of leather, although I should think that sabots would be more suitable, not only on the roads, but plowing . . . . And wooden shoes are far less expensive. Ah, that America is an extravagant country!"

Advertisements haven't yet taken the heavy wooden shoes from Gascon feet—nor yet the heavy wooden shoes from Gascon minds. Gascony thinks in the past. America in the future.

Advertisements make the difference. They crisscross improvements in countless directions across the miles. They distribute Fords, furnaces and electric lights so widely that foreigners think you extravagant to enjoy them. They put you in touch with the latest conveniences. They help so many people enjoy those conveniences that their cost to you is small.

You read advertisements to link yourself with the best—to substitute speed for the shambling progress you otherwise would have to make in the lonely wooden shoes of isolation.

Do you read them regularly? Good habits pay.

Advertisements are a reliable buying guide obtainable in no other way.

Strong Hopes In Ottawa For Averting of Strike

Government Adopts Non-Committal Attitude Toward Threatened Action of Postal Workers—Will Draft in Waiting List if Necessary

Ottawa, April 1.—"If the postal workers want to strike on April 14, let them strike." This about sums up the attitude in the matter displayed here today.

There are strong hopes that trouble will be averted, and a feeling that it ought to be, but whether to that end steps will be taken, nothing definite is obtainable.

So far the government has not changed its position. The bonus, as is well known, has been cut and limited as well to those who have dependants to support.

When a delegation of the postal men came here to protest, there were numerous interviews, the upshot of which was announcement by the government that the civil service commission would be asked immediately to revise the salaries and report upon whether or notin the new adjustment the bonus should be absorbed into the salaries, and if so, to what degree.

Men Discontented

There is evident discontent among the men with this announcement, and indications of distrust of the organization branch of the civil service commission. It is conceded that if there should be a strike, the postal service would be pretty well messed up, but there is an idea that Toronto is the great center of the trouble, and a belief that it would not be national in its scope. In certain cities division of opinion among the staff is reported.

When the Winnipeg strike occurred the Civil Service act was suspended to allow of no men being taken on with the promise of permanent positions. In the lists of the commission it is said there are many thousands waiting for such positions.

Would Affect Others

The effect of a strike in the distribution of business is not minimized, but on lines of economy a cut in the bonus has been decided on, applicable to the entire civil service. Anything done for the postal workers would extend as well to the rest of the fifty thousand government employes throughout the country. There could be no discrimination between them. One way out of the difficulty might be to continue the old bonus pending a report by the commission on salary revision.

The department has had no official notice of a strike, and if it occurs, does not believe that it will be serious, wide, but if the trouble should develop, it will be necessary to keep the services going by drafting in the waiting list. The official view is that the result of the wage revision ought to be awaited by the employes before they go to the extremity threatened.

STRIKE AT CROYDON HAS NO PRECEDENT

Aviators Claim New Rates Proposed Not Enough; Are Getting £650

Croydon, Eng., April 2.—An unprecedented strike began here this today—a strike of the airmen in the service of the concern which carries the British air mail—when the pilots and mechanics connected with long distance flights refused their work because of a dispute with the new air combine concerning rates of pay.

At present the pilots receive £450 a year, with flying pay of ten shillings hourly, bringing the aggregate up to some £650.

The new combine, the "Imperial Air Transport Company," which is just taking over the air mail services proposes to pay £100 yearly to some of the airmen and £200 to others as their regular pay, with two pence per mile flying money. The men consider these rates insufficient.

None of the long distance airplanes left the aerdrome at Croydon, whence the air mail starts for the continent, and the ban has been extended also to machines which were about out and back again during the day.

Music & Drama

GRIFFIN'S MONDAY NIGHT APRIL 7TH.

The Daily Telegraph:—The concert which can be said to have begun on Saturday afternoon, when Mark Hambourg gave a pianoforte recital (prior to his Canadian tour), at Queen's Hall to a numerous and well-pleased audience. Such performances as no cave of Haidyn's Theme and Variations in F major and that, wonderful eternal Beethoven Sonata, Op. 2 No. 3—these were played with a hundred and one sub-divisions and shades of the delicatest touch. Last but under was increased succession there followed a most lovely rendition of Chopin's Etude in E flat minor: this always dusk Hambourg's hands, and on this occasion it was more consummate than ever. The last group included Dr. Palmer's newly published "Fantasia Dramatica" and Leonard Borwick's transcription of "L'Apres-midi d'un Faune". The first is a real test of the extremities of pianistic technique, but in our wise did it find the recitalist wanting. The transcription was an admirable one, and a most difficult art, and appeared so by reason of a sympathetic performance.

GREAT GALAXY ASSEMBLED FOR "THE BRASS BOTTLE"

Maurice Tourner has drawn from the casts of "Robin Hood" and "The Covered Wagon," for players in the "Brass Bottle" the First National picture showing at the Regent Theatre, Thursday to Saturday.

Sam De Grasse, who did the cruel King John in "Robin Hood" has the part of King Belsymus, and Roy Coulson whose portrayal of the jester particularly in the death scene, evoked the highest praise of the critics, the part of "Jerjerxe, the soothsayer," an eerie creature of an spirit world.

The two outstanding characters in "The Covered Wagon," Ernest Torrance and Tully Marshall appear in Tourner's newest production. Others in "The Brass Bottle" cast include Harry Myers, who made "The Connecticut Yankee" a man of flesh and blood; Otis Haran, of musical comedy fame; Ford Sterling, who brought comedy into the films.

Barbara La Marr, whose recent spectacular rise to fame has startled Hollywood, is perhaps the best-known of the girls in the picture. Charlotte Merriam, long in Christie comedies and a recent addition to dramatic ranks, has the feminine lead, Clarissa Selwyn, who had the same part in "The Brass Bottle" when it ran for four years on the London stage, plays Mrs. Futvoye.

COMEDY HAS BIG HIT

"Exit Cæsar," the Educational-Mermaid Comedy which will be at the Griffin Theatre Thursday to Saturday presents an all star cast composed of favorite Mermaid Comedians, including Otto Fries, Peg O'Neill, Mack Jones, Andrew Arbuckle, Gloria Gilmore and many others. It is the latest of Jack White's famous Mermaid Comedies and was directed by Robert Eric.

"WHERE THE NORTH BEGINS" PACKED WITH DRAMA

A picture which is the last word of offered movie patrons in "Where the North Begins" to be shown at the Griffin Theatre Saturday, Thursday.

Rintintin, the remarkable police dog is the hero, and is said to excel himself in this Warner Brothers classic of the screen, where he takes the part of a wolf-dog who leaves the pack to attack a helpless victim of a band of outlaws, and becomes his devoted friend.

Rintintin was born on the firing line in France and brought to California, where his intelligence and the excellent training afforded him made him one of the elite of movies. He has won many championships in running and jumping; his owner says there is nothing any dog can do that Rintintin cannot do.

The action of "Where the North Begins" is set in the far north, miles from civilization, in a Hudson Bay trading post where Shad Galloway, rules with an iron hand as well as a gang of outlaws, is operating in the region and Gabriel Dupre, a young trapper, sets out with a load of furs, not knowing it is a trap set by Galloway to get him out of the way and thus leave Feifie Mathieu a ready prey to pounce at the post at his mercy.

The story begins with the situation Gabriel is wounded and befriended by a wolfdog, who starts to attack him, and from that point the dog takes an active part in the stirring development.

The cast consists of Claire Adams, Walter Mcgrail, Pat Hartigan, Myrtle Stedman, Chester Bragdon, is the director.

If a Wise Monarch

—fell from favor and a throne, he would be careful and kind when he was restored. Any corset must be wise too, for they're not as rigid as in other days, but are little more than girdles, sometimes made of silk elastic; then again bastiste and all have a very low bust, and slender lines. The nonchalant corset is the feature of the day—see it at "Corset Section."

Holeproof, Kayser's and Marvel Hose in pure thread silk qualities all perfect fitting.

Charming Knitted Suits

Captivating in their styling, which is slender and simple, and delightfully appropriate for many occasions, the knitted suits of fine wool yarns present the newest feature of spring time modes. The coat is fashioned in Cardigan and Jacquette style with long sleeves. The skirt is made on elastic belting. A splendid advantage is the fact that either piece can be worn separately. The shades are pearl, sand, navy and grey, sand and ching blue, sand and tobacco; all sizes.

Hotpoint

The RANGE with the Patented Indestructible Element

Fragile Porcelain no Longer Necessary

AFTER years of research work, we have developed an electric range element which is indestructible. Heretofore, it has been necessary to manufacture elements from porcelain, which is extremely fragile. A further objection, to the porcelain element construction, has been the exposure of the heating coils to the air, causing oxidation and consequent burn-outs.

The heating coils, in the Hotpoint sheathed-wire surface elements, are imbedded in an air-tight metal tube or sheath, and then cast in solid iron, leaving a surface as flat and smooth as the lid of an old-time coal range. The boiling over of pans or kettles has absolutely no effect upon this remarkable new element.

In the new Hotpoint oven element the sheathed wire is formed to give the most even distribution of heat. There are no porcelain parts and no exposed coils. The entire element may be removed from the oven and washed.

Hotpoint Sheathed Wire Elements are the fastest protected elements made.

DROP MAIL HERE

WHY IS THIS WRONG?

Before mail can be run through the canceling machines of the post office, it has to be properly faced with the address sides and stamps all one way. Large quantities of mail should be put up in this manner and tied in bundles. When this is done, at least one operation is saved at the post office and dispatch of mail is greatly facilitated.

Price May Subpoena Peter Smith To Appear In Probe

WOULD HAVE OFFICIAL TO VOLUNTEER

Provincial Treasurer Under U.F.O. Government Conspicuous by His Absence From Usual Haunts—Col. Price Declines to Make Any Definite Statement—Legal Counsel not Retained as Yet by Peter Smith.

(Staff Correspondence)

Toronto, April 3.—Hon. W. H. Price said today that former Provincial Treasurer Peter Smith has not been summoned to appear before the Public Accounts Committee at its sitting this morning. He intimated that the matter was being left in the hands of Mr. Smith to volunteer to give evidence to clear himself of the implications which have been made against him by other witnesses.

"Will he be subpoened if he does not volunteer to appear," the Intelligencer asked. "I don't know yet," was Col. Price's reply. He went on to say that they expected to have a very busy day of it tomorrow, whether Mr. Smith turned up or not.

Hon. Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer, was conspicuous by his absence from his usual haunts today. Sought at the Prince George Hotel by newspaper men and others anxious to see him, the reply was that Mr. Smith was not in and had not been seen this morning.

Mr. Smith was paged through the Hotel corridors, but there was not even a response from any part of the building that name.

Mr. Smith was expected back at the hotel at 11 o'clock but he did not materialize. Mr. Smith, who is known with him, said that he had not come back and did not know where he was.

It was soon surmised that he was consulting legal counsel, but his friends stated that he had not engaged any one. "I don't think that he will make a statement," said one in close touch with him. "He has been advised by friends not to say anything."

Gerhard-Heintzman Company To Move

It became known today that the local branch of the Gerhard-Heintzman piano company would move from their present quarters at 299 Front street, to the store next to the corner of Front and Campbell streets, formerly known as "Candyland".

It is believed that the store will be remodelled and the entrance will be at the side, allowing a window display, and other proposed interior alterations will make it an ideal place for a music store.

Mr. Albert Snyder, manager of the Belleville branch states that the change of location of the Gerhard-Heintzman instruments may take place about May first.

Woman Wanted Here For Trial; Held In Toronto

Mrs. Eileen Walsh Beck Remanded to Jail Pending Action of Local Authorities — Had Been Twice Before in Criminal Court in Toronto

Mrs. Eileen Walsh Beck, arrested at a Toronto hotel Tuesday night by Detectives Archibald, Elliott, and Valentine on a Belleville warrant for women's court there yesterday and was remanded to jail by Magistrate Patterson, pending action from this city, where she is wanted on a fraud charge involving some $760 it is alleged. She was wanted in Toronto for obtaining $160 worth of women's clothing from a French store on Yonge street.

In conversation with Chief Kidd this morning there is but nothing to say as to the action from Belleville viewpoint, but it is reasonable to believe that the woman will be brought here for trial, as the magistrate's office informs here, "fade" the Toronto allegations.

Mrs. Beck was arrested shortly after midnight Tuesday following a two month search by Toronto detectives. She has been twice before in a criminal court in Toronto. About two years ago she was committed for trial on a charge of obtaining money by fraud from Col. Lawrence Cosgrave, for whom she worked as a baby tender during one of her worthless cheques. She was committed by Judge Coatsworth to six months at the Jail Farm, but was released after serving a short sentence at Ottawa. On Dec. 7, 1923, she was sentenced by Judge Coatsworth to one week in custody on a charge of obtaining goods by fraud from the Singer Company. Restitution was made.

KINGSTON CONVICT CAUGHT

Kingston, April 3.—William Hubert Jones, a convict at the Portsmouth Penitentiary who escaped nearly a year of two and a half year sentence received at Brampton, Ont., made an unsuccessful attempt to escape at 2.30 on Saturday afternoon while working outside the walls of the penitentiary as a member of the prison farm gang. The gang were at work in an old stone quarry, Jones getting through the fence and seeking cover in the surrounding bush. Officials of the penitentiary recaptured the convict after he had been at liberty only about thirty-five minutes.

DEATH DUE TO DRINKING LYE

Verdict Also Given Regarding Verdun Woman Whose Skull was Fractured

Montreal, April 3.—A case of suicide and one of accidental death were disposed of by Coroner Nelson at the sitting of the Coroner's Court this morning.

In the investigation into the death of Mrs. M. Langlois, the woman who died in the Montreal General Hospital on Sunday afternoon as the result of injuries received when she fell down and rushed forward and endeavored to stop her, but was too late. She had made every effort to conceal her act. The woman swallowed the lye about three months ago, and, grieved at the thought, had brooded over it until before her death. She was unable to take any nourishment for the three weeks and doctors at the hospital considered her death due to starvation.

The jury rendered a verdict of suicide.

BRITISH SHIP WITH PILGRIMS AFIRE AT SEA

Lloyd's Report Says Fire in Hold Spreading—Help Standing By

1,200 ABOARD

Fire is Consuming Cotton In Hold of Vessel

London, April 3.—The British steamship Frangestan, bound for Jeddah, with 1200 pilgrims aboard, is afire between decks, says a Lloyds dispatch from Port Sudan. The fire which is consuming the cotton in the vessel's Number 2 hold, is serious and spreading, the message says. The Frangestan is being accompanied by other vessels and is due at Port Sudan tomorrow. The steamer Tangistan has left Port Sudan to assist her. The Frangestan is a steel vessel of 8228 gross tonnage. She is 450 feet in length and was built in 1909. She was last reported arriving, in the Suez Canal, port of register, from Shanghai on March 31.

Given TimeT o Pay Board Bill Here

Leaving his boarding house here on Monday night for his home at Cobourg to meet his wife and a number of guests at his arrival, a sixty-five year old man, was later arrested in the Home Show Chief Constable Kidd here, following the complaint from the man's landlady who claimed that accused had not his board bill, and had apparently left the city.

It was an unfortunate misunderstanding for the man who had been in trouble before, so he was allowed to go this morning when he appeared before Magistrate Masson, and he will be given until May First to pay the bill.

"I was advised by my foreman to go to Cobourg Monday night so that I would be on time for work on Tuesday," explained the old man, "and I supposed that I should have told the landlady what my intentions were." He was transferred from Belleville to Cobourg by the Company with which he is employed. F. D. O'Flynn appeared for accused, and the landlady also present, agreed to consent to the suggested settlement plan.

CAPT. DOUGLAS STILL MISSING

Son Now Believes Father Was Drowned Crossing River

Montreal, April 3.—It is now believed that Capt. J. A. Douglas, reported as missing, must have been drowned while crossing on the ice between Ile aux Cerfs to the Richelieu river and St. Mark's. Mr. Allan Douglas of Montreal, son of the missing man, has just returned to the city after a thorough investigation of the circumstances at his father's farm.

At the farm, on the ice, he saw the skis his father had resided for about three years. Mr. Douglas found everything in order, and nothing missing was the clothing which Captain Douglas was wearing when last seen alive on the morning of Monday, March 24th. His father's diary was kept up to that day and in the entry for that day Capt. Douglas expressed his intention of crossing to Ste. Hilaire on Monday. He was accompanied by a boy to the island by Mr. Everest Laflamme to whom he spoke of crossing to St. Mark's on the opposite shore for cigarettes and tobacco. Mr. Laflamme left him about 2 in the morning. It is presumed that he attempted to cross to St. Mark's later in the morning on the ice, which was already reported in places and that he broke through and was drowned.

"To think that acting should ever come to this," he said himself! "Just now I heard a blooming moving picture refer to the stage as 'fluid speaking.'"

L. BROWN C.N.R DIES SUDDENLY WHILE AT OFFICE

Deceased Was General Manager of Atlantic Region of National Railways

WIDE REGRET

Sudden Passing of Official Affects Entire System In Canada

Montreal, April 3.—Mr. L. S. Brown, General Manager, Atlantic Region, Canadian National Railways, was seized with an attack of cerebral Hemmorrhage in the general office of the system here yesterday and died almost immediately. Mr. Brown arrived in Montreal yesterday morning from Moncton and was apparently in normal health and proceeded to proceed to Ottawa during the day. Shortly after ten o'clock Mr. Brown was in the office of Mr. S. J. Hungerford, Vice-president in Charge of Operation and was discussing matters relative to the measures activities in the Atlantic region when the stroke occurred. First aid treatment was at once administered and medical assistance called. It was apparent, however, that death had taken place almost instantaneously. The remains of the late railway officer were conveyed to Wray's Funeral Chapel, Mountain Street, and while funeral arrangements have not been definitely arranged it is understood that the funeral will take place in the Maritime Provinces.

News of the sudden passing of Mr. Brown was received with wide regret over the whole Canadian National System. Born at Nelson, N.B., Mr. Brown was sixty years of age and had been engaged in railway work for more than forty years. He entered the service of the International Railway in 1882 as Assistant Agent at Newcastle, N.B., was promoted to be train despatcher at Campbellton, N.B., in the following year and was appointed chief despatcher at New Glasgow, N.S., in 1892. He was promoted to be trainmaster at Moncton, N.B., in 1912, and superintendent at New Glasgow, N.S., in 1913. In 1917 Mr. Brown was made assistant general superintendent of the Canadian Government Railways, with headquarters at Moncton, a position which he held for only a few months prior to being appointed general superintendent of the Canadian Government Railways.

Following upon the amalgamation of the Canadian Government Railways with the Canadian National System in 1919, Mr. Brown became divisional assistant general manager, with headquarters at Montreal, and was subsequently appointed to the commercial interests in the territory between the city of Montreal and the Atlantic Seaboard. On March 1st, 1923 Mr. Brown was appointed general manager of the Atlantic Region of the Canadian National Railways with supervision over the lines and facilities east of Riviere du Loup and Megantic.

The late railway officer is survived by his wife, two sisters, Mrs. Bowser by his son Gordon, the latter being in the engineering staff at Mount Allison College, Sackville, N.S.

Sir Henry W. Thornton, Chairman and President of the System, sent a message sent to-day to the late Mr. Brown's family on behalf of the Directors, myself and entire official family of Canadian National Railways, I extend you deepest sympathy in the great bereavement that you suffer in the death of Mr. Brown, who was a valued, loyal and faithful servant, and one of the best ways and whose loss will be keenly felt in the administration thereof."

The remains of the late railway officer were conveyed to Wray's Undertaking Parlors on Mountain Street, and this evening at eight o'clock a service will be held. Canadian National Railways will gather there from Belleville and Trenton. The Bonaventure Station en route to Moncton where the interment will take place.

BRITISH DEBT CUT; SURPLUS MADE IN YEAR

"RESULT FLATTERING"

Times Glows With Pride in New Success of Nation; Others Not So Glad

London, April 3.—The official figures for the fiscal year ended last night, show that the total income of the United Kingdom was £48,329,573 more than the expenditure for that period are greeted with satisfaction by the majority of the morning newspapers. The figures as given out by the Exchequer were: Revenue, £837,169,284; expenditure, £88,840,211.

One feature upon which the comment stems dwell is that during the years Great Britain reduced her national debt by £89,000,000.

Of this £40,000,000 was provided in the last budget, while the £49,000,000 surplus now announced has been automatically applied to the debt redemption.

Times Proud of Position

"This result is flattering to our national pride of finance," says the Times in an editorial glowing with satisfaction.

Some of the comments, however, are disquieted that such large sums were applied to debt redemption, the contention being that a fund for easing the discharge with Premier Stanley Baldwin's arrangements for dealing with the debt to the United States and which clamor for a reduction in taxes.

Employees of Finishing and Dyeing Departments Notified That Their Services Will Not Be Required After This Week — Fifty Hands Affected by Transfer of Departments to Toronto

Campbellford, April 3.—The employees in the finishing and dyeing departments of the Campbellford Cloth Company, formerly the Trent Woollen Mills, have been notified that after this week their services will not be required, as it is the intention of the company to move these departments to Toronto and operate them in connection with their plant there. The removal of the equipment has already begun.

This announcement has created a sensation in Campbellford, as the mill, employing as it does over 300 hands, has always been regarded as one of the best industrial assets of the town. About 50 hands, some of whom have been in the employ of th company for over thirty years will be, in that time, have worked their way up to lucrative positions, are affected by the move. Resident officials of the company refuse to discuss the matter, merely saying that they are carrying out orders from headquarters in Toronto, and that there is a possibility that the situation may be adjusted.

Some of the employees have been given to understand that they may be given places in the Toronto plant, and others are encouraged to hope that new positions will be found for them here when the departments in which they are employed are closed down. Naturally there is a feeling of unrest among the workmen even if the dismissals that are not directly affected by the order.

PRISONERS IN FRANCE PLACE

Paris, April 3.—Two eminent alienists, Drs. Marcel Briand and Raymond Mallet, have completed a psychiatric examination of the prisoners in the jails of the Paris region, undertaken at the request of the Ministers of Health and Justice, with remarkable results.

They found that many persons, especially those convicted on frequent occasions, are mentally suffering from mental troubles and that the most of them are unfit for in some cases place than a jail.

The doctors recommended that the investigation be extended to all prisons of France.

I.O.D.E. Social Is Brilliant Affair

The card social held in the Armouries under the auspices of the Ivy Lea Chapter, I. O. D. E., last night was a brilliant affair and one of the social events of the season.

The social was held for the benefit of the needy children in Greece, and the large number present was a tribute to the work of the local chapter in the direction.

Bridge, euchre and Mah Jong were played in various rooms, and a dainty lunch was served.

Many of those present had recently heard the address delivered here by Mrs. Livesay "Lassie" Lassie" Mac Dr. Mr. Levee, who has recently returned from relief work in the East.

HEART BROKEN GIRL SUICIDES

New York, April 3.—It mattered no thing to Grace Wakefield, 21, spinster, that she was soon to die of cancer of the disease in a Bronx Hospital on Monday, Coroner Harburger, after a philosophy or the Prince Johnson Salvator, who was superintendent of the estate of the duke of Austria. It only mattered that he was gone from her, so she pinned him in death yesterday drowning herself in a bath tub, after having stabbed her wrists to prevent any possible rescue of her plans. With her went a pocket book containing $18 cash in the same water and her two bright parasols, drowned in a nearby hand basin.

Grace Wakefield was the ward of Prince Johnson Salvator, who was accused bearing and princely reminiscences those death was recorded as that of the Archduke Johann Salvator, who disappeared from the Vienna court in 1889 and officially declared by the Austrian Government to have died in 1890.

He made her his ward on his arrival in the United States 10 years ago, and left her an orphan and friendless. Prince Johnson Salvator, yesterday said she implicitly trusted in his tale.

"Result Flattering"

142,000 IS FIGURE SET IN HOLD-UP

Six Men and Two Women Now Being Held by Montreal Police in Connection With Daring Raid on Automobile Carrying Nearly Quarter of a Million Dollars—Four Men Picked During Night

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Montreal, April 3—Six men and two women are being held by the police in connection with the daring hold-up of the Bank of Hochelaga in which an automobile in a subway on Ontario street which resulted in the bank chauffeur, Henri Cleroux, being killed and one of the bandits, named Peter Ward, well-known drug smuggler, was found dead in an abandoned car together with rifles, revolvers, and ammunition soon after.

The bandits used three cars for the holdup, placing one at each end of the subway and used the other to escape in. They opened fire on the bank messengers immediately they entered, and a regular battle was staged before the eight masked bandits closed in on the car, grabbed a bag containing $142,000, and looked around for more plunder. $101,650 and beat it.

The police question report on the dead bandit Jodoin raided a west end house and caught two men and a woman counting out money, totalling $4,000.

They also held another woman who protested the house was her and that she had nothing to do with the bandits. She was identified by witnesses for the corners inquest before she was finally made against them.

The new hold-up baried tomorrow with all the pomp and ceremony of the Roman Catholic Church, while the bandit is to be buried in potters field in a cheap pine coffin without ceremony. Ward had served time in Fort Arthur and Kingston penitentiary for both prisons before completing sentence.

TAKES TWO MONTHS RATHER THAN 'TELL'

Oshawa Accused Convicted —Second Foreigner Remanded on Second charge

Oshawa, April 3.—When Harry Tyndall was arraigned to a charge before Magistrate Major Hind in police court Tuesday morning a fine of $10 and costs was imposed for the offense and he was remanded until next week to serve two months in the common jail in default of paying the fine in order to give persons from whom he purchased the beverage.

Tyndall was enroute to his home, when he was stopped by two men who asked him if they had sold him a bottle of the all joyful for two dollars.

They treasured affirmative and Tyndall was picked up by the local police on an intercepted telephone message. When asked the names of the sellers the accused professed ignorance of same, in addition to the fine the two months in jail was imposed in order to refresh his memory.

Musical" Vendor

Constantine Glecoff charged with a second offence against the O. T. A., that of having liquor in his car at Courtice, his own private dwelling also appeared.

An adjournment was granted till Tuesday, April 8 and bail fixed at $1 County jail in Whitby till then.

It will be remembered that the accused appeared but a short time ago in police court having been selling high wines which were imposed at that time, and it seem to be an insufficient lesson and it is alleged that another breach of the O. T. A. occurred on Saturday.

SAVED TWO GIRLS FROM DROWNING

Montreal, April 3.—At the meeting of the Life Saving Council of League yesterday afternoon in the Windsor Hotel Miss Sadie Lockhart, of 39 Sherrier street, a member of the Junior Branch was presented with the medal of the Royal Humane Society. The award was for having saved Miss Enid Philipsmore, 20 Lincoln avenue and Miss Lizzie Dunn of Chambly Basin from drowning last July.

Miss Lockhart was one of a party picnicking below the rapids at Chambly Basin when they found it was a safe place to swim two of the young women took to the water. Miss Dunn and Miss Philipsmore. Miss Lockhart, fully her hard struggle succeeded in bringing the two women to shore, in an unconscious condition.

USING UP THE WOOD

Within the last six years Canada's production of newsprint has increased from 880,847 tons to 1,263,000 tons. Most of it went to the United States. In 1923 the United States produced 1,- 300,000 tons of newsprint, and imported 220,000. Last year the United States produced 1,488,000 tons (only 185,000 more than ten years ago), and imported 1,300,000 tons, of which 1,100,000 came from Canada.

A word of explosion makes about a ton of newsprint. The drain on our forests to meet the rapidly-growing demand of our neighbors for newsprint can be estimated from these figures. But they do not tell the whole story. In addition to the pulpwood used in the making of paper in this country for export to the States is the vast Canada to American paper mills. If Canadian forest wealth must be depleted in order to provide the raw material for American newspapers, Canada should at least have the advantage of working the raw material into the finished product at home.

Unless checked, Canada is sure to be utilized more and more by American paper-makers as the source of their raw material. Their domestic sources of supply are fast giving out, and as Canadian wood will be drawn upon more liberally to make good the shortage. The point of view and the policy of the Chicago Tribune will soon become the point of view and the policy of many other American publishers. The Chicago Tribune makes the newsprint that it uses. It obtains most of its supply of pulpwood from Canada, and it explains its motive for so doing as follows: "It is known that consumption of timber for paper-making is greater in Canada than in the United States, and the consumption of paper is vastly greater in the United States. By going into Canada for its paper material the Tribune not only assures itself ample newsprint, but saves much pulpwood the fast dwindling American forests. Unless American consumers did go to Canada, this country would either have practically no publications within a few years or would have practically no forests."

Canada's supply of pulpwood is by no means inexhaustible. But, by careful regulation of cutting as well as by a far-seeing policy of forest conservation, the supply can be saved from exhaustion. Any policy which has that general end in view should aim at having the raw finished product at home.

A CHEERFUL SIGN

Business is increasing. The economic pulse of Belleville is steadying into a more assuring beat, a stronger, healthier beat. Industrial life, is warming to a new significance.

Customs and excise figures being issued make good reading. With their total approximately $2,225,000 they show an increase of over a million for the year ending last night over the previous twelve months.

These are cheerful figures. They need no Cassius or any other seer to give them meaning. They stand for more than dollars and cents; they stand for confidence. Seasonal influence is always to be found, but this year brings Belleville to a new threshold. It shows less fluctuating, less violence in the market of the people.

Comparison is the foundation of trade, and trade is the foundation of our social life. We instinctively compare—what we had, what we have, and that is the story in our future.

What will the reason bring? The oceans are good; the clouds are passing. It looks like fair weather.

WHY IGNORE CANADA?

The Christian Science Monitor of Boston published a British Empire supplement the other day. It contained pictures from Australia, New Zealand South Africa, India, and other parts of the world, but none from Canada. This Dominion was recognized by two short articles, neither one of them very illuminating as to our resources or advantages.

And so it goes, almost everywhere. Canada is rather consistently ignored in publications not only in the United States, but in Great Britain. If our Dominion appears at all, it is as the home of snowballs, toboggans and Royal Mounted police, who spend their days trecking through the stereotyped frozen wilderness. Our motto should do something to correct this even if we are obliged to buy advertising space in American and other foreign newspapers.

A NATURAL INFERENCE

Of course if the Government, in order to avert a strike of the postal employes, were to yield to their demands in the question of the concessions made to the postal workers should be granted in other branches of the public service. If they were not, the withholding of the concessions would virtual ly be an admission that the whole civil service that the only way to get justice from the Government is to organize and threaten to strike.

That's the logical inference. What other inference could be drawn?

EDITORIAL NOTES

MONEY V. PRINCIPLE

(Vancouver Sun).

Premier Bruce of Australia visited Premier Macdonald in Canada that his country will make a "substantial contribution" toward the Singapore naval project if Britain will reconsider its decision to nullify that project.

At the same time covert overtures are made to Canada suggesting that the Dominion take similar steps.

Canada should have stated flat out that if one cent of Canadian money goes into the project we have also that is wasted.

Premier Bruce does not seem to know how the Macdonald government can afford the Singapore project out of nothing, but that is another matter.

And the principle involved is simple enough.

One dollar invested in the establishment of greater naval facilities on the Pacific will bring greater security to the Empire than a thousand dollars invested in armaments on the Pacific.

Empire loyalty must be in with the Macdonald government's decision at all costs. Canada and Britain should take steps in our Premier Bruce right.

DISORDER BREAKS OUT AT WEMBLEY

London, April 3.— Disorders broke out today in connection with the big strike begun yesterday among the building trades workers employed on the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley for an increase of twopence per hour in their pay.

The members of the building trades and allied unions who struck yesterday were joined during the day by other exhibition workers, and by noon there stood out of a total of 15,000 who have been employed, or at least know, 'Twenty thousand building operatives, who began the strike with sympathetic of the exhibition grounds demanding that the others lay down their tools. Those reluctant to do so were roughly handled and came out, among were thrown Girls doing tinsel decoration work were forced by threats of violence to it down from the scaffolding.

TRY DEPORTING THEM

(Farmer's Sun)

A couple of score of "British harvesters" are trecking to Ottawa and seeking on the foolishly charitable to they trock. All along the route fellow-ti farmers are s-mouring for labor the refusing to supply. It is "Pike's Peak or Bust" for the successors of Coxey's Soldiers Army. Those mechanics and beggars are a fiasko on the British name. Their presence and conduct are a insult to the memory of the real British colonists who with scarcely an exception, in the backwoods are an ebon-ther and ahilling in pocket, bowed loomy out of the primeval forest.

BEAUTY IN ALL

(Cincinnati Times-Star)

The two are comrades. The great painters and sculptors of the Renaissance were artisians as well as artists, and in the beginning every statue and painting, every gem and textile pattern, and even every musical instrument, had use rather than beauty as its reason for being. Art is not a thing of decoration applied to a limited range of objects, which men could do without if they must. Everything in which the craftsman sets his shine to which the craftsman sets his and could be made to delight as well as to serve.

TOWN PLANNING AND BUSINESS

(Toronto Globe)

Town planning has its commercial as well as its social and aesthetic sides. The other day a train pulled up at a town and only a couple of small wooden houses as could be met with in sight. The city has a fine station to be name of one of our most progressive industrial centres, but the people of that there were in that place comfortably residences, public buildings, modern conveniences. But a stranger naturally judge by what he saw—a gaudily treeless street, with the least dilapidated houses as the best. Only a couple of miles of country separated the two, so there was no excuse for cramping people into a slum.

One must admire the courage and steadiness of those who can live in such surroundings and keep their self-respect and self-respect as many do. But there is no need to perpetuate such a state of affairs. Many of our towns and cities are made unnecessarily unhealthy and depressing. But some do not seem to recognize that the appeal of town life is well worth attention as that of a man.

PRESS OPINIONS.

A SERIOUS FACTOR

(Brooklyn Eagle)

The prices of the most manufactured products can be lowered if taxation is lowered. High taxes imposed upon those products are, in the long run, out of the pockets of the purchaser. High Taxation becomes a serious factor in production cost. It prevents or impedes the natural flow of capital back into the channels of business. It is anacinistic. It violates economic law.

RAISE MORE SHEEP

(Simcoe Reformer)

Canadians are not great sheep growers. Australia with little more than half the population of Canada, is estimated to possess 90,000,000, and a more prosperous people than the United States. The United States market for wool is an insatible one. The total imports of wool into the United States for the year ending June 30 last, were 325,000,000 pounds. Much of this comes from South America. But Canada, with the sheep industry nearly extinct, is even a keen competitor if we had the flocks.

"SCHOOLS, CHURCHES AND STREETS"

(Flint Journal)

The town or city seeking a higher population can not better obtain that end than by building schools, strengthening their children with sustaining school buildings and erecting monumental church edifices. Ask the prospective citizen what he would demand for his adopted community and he will say without hesitation: "Schools, churches and streets, the best that money can buy." Until it has provided the best in these three necessities of modern life no community has done its full duty to its citizens.

MRS. MISENER'S ACHES AND PAINS

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"Branchton, Ont.—"When I wrote to you for help my action was mostly caused by curiosity. I wondered how I could be benefited by your medicine. I was the mother of seven children, three babies living. I have taken your medicine and can assure you, for the relief and comfort your medicine has given me, I am relieved of backache and nervousness. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and I can honestly say I have not been so well before. I had suffered from pains and other troubles since I was fifteen years old, and during the 'Great War' I worked on munitions. I had a very heavy lifting which my work called for, I strained myself, causing inflammation from which I suffered untold agony, and I often had to give up and go to bed. I had doctored for years without getting permanent relief, when I started to take your medicines."—Mrs. Colleen Misener, Branchton, Ont.

Sick and ailing women everywhere in the Dominion should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Therefore they give up hope of recovery. C

UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH TO OPEN RADIO STUDIO OF KDKA ON CAMPUS

With a former classroom in State Hall padded with felt, draped with monk's cloth, and sealed to the light and noise of Pittsburg boulevard, the University of Pittsburgh radio broadcasting station is ready for its first venture on the air.

As a link in the chain of educational opportunities to the public at large the University, by arrangement with KDKA, broadcasting station of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, Pa., has established its own substation on the campus and will broadcast educational programs twice or three times weekly, beginning Monday evening, March 31. Radio lectures of members of the University of Pittsburgh faculty to be broadcast during the past three years. The first college football game to be broadcasted play by play was the Pitt-Lafayette game at Forbes Field, October 4, 1921. Last year the home contest of the University Band, broadcast from Carnegie Music Hall, was clearly heard in England. Now the University feels that the time has come for a more systematic educational service by wireless to the thousands of students on its available campus. The Westinghouse Company has assumed the responsibility of installing and maintaining the broadcasting station in the State University, with a full-time radio manager, Miss Ethel Entrekin—one of the only three women radio managers in the country—will provide the programs, largely from its own faculty and student body.

The opening program on March 31 will consist of addresses by Thomas G. Bowman, chancellor of the University; H. P. Davis, vice president of the Westinghouse Company, and Marshall Schmitt, president of the Pittsburgh Board of Public Education, and of music by the Men's Glee Club. Succeeding weeks will be announced later.

The talks will average fifteen minutes in length, and will not be technical or academic. Printed leaflets giving outlines of the course will be provided for study, and reading lists will be distributed at a nominal cost to radio fans who wish to follow the subjects further. Lectures of lectures will likely be published later. Credit toward University degrees will not be granted, but some form of recognition will probably be given those who do certain prescribed work in connection with the courses.

LOSE VALUABLE TEAM

WHEN THE ICE GIVES WAY

A team of horses attached to a sleigh, the property of Mr. George Plested, of Dorland, Prince Edward County were this week drowned. Two sons of Mr. Plested were taking a grist to the mill at Glenora driving across the ice. About 100 feet from the Glenora shore the ice gave way and horses and sleigh went under, the boy managing to reach solid ice, after getting wet while doing so.

Horses and sleigh were later scaled by grappling for them and hauled to the shore.

WESTERN BISONS ARRIVE

The three Buffalo donated to the City of Belleville by George W. McLaughlin arrived at Oshawa Monday and were unloaded at Lakeview Park where a shelter has been erected for them. With the exception of one cow sustaining a broken horn on the trip east from Wainwright, Alberta, the animals are in splendid condition.

LIGHTNING STRIKES EARLY

The severe storm on Saturday evening was not without its ill effects at Marmora. The home of John McKown, Rawdon township was struck by lightning but luckily did not catch fire. Mr. McKeown was knocked from his feet and was dazed for a few minutes from the shock. Plaster was knocked off the house in several places.

DIED

CLARKE—Margarite Elizabeth, nine months old daughter of Russell F. and Mrs. Clarke, on Wednesday, April 2nd.

Funeral will be held from No. 80 S. Front St. Friday at 3 o'clock. Service at the house at 2.30. Interment Belleville Cemetery.

DIED.

McGUINESS—In Belleville on Thursday, April 3rd, 1924, Patrick McGuiness, aged 63 years.

The funeral will take place from his late residence 51 Dundas street east, on Saturday, 5th inst., at 8.30 a.m. Mass at St. Michael's church at 9 o'clock. Interment Marysville cemetery.

Deaths and Funerals

PATRICK McGUINESS

Mr. Patrick McGuiness, who had been for some time a resident of Belleville, passed away this morning at the family residence 51 Dundas street east. Deceased was 63 years of age and was born in Tyendinaga Township. Mr. McGuiness was by occupation a blacksmith, but owing to ill health had not been able to follow his trade for some time. He was a member of St. Michael's church. A widow, one son, Leo, and one daughter, Mary Helen, of this city survive. Two brothers, Eugene of Marysville, and John of Los Angeles, and two sisters, Mrs. Wm. A. G. Hardy of this city and Mrs. H. Sexsmith of Kingsford are living.

"BRAVE" TULIPS GROW

A tulip bed in the spacious lawn at the home of Mr. James Roy, Victoria avenue, is in bloom despite the chilly weather. They have grown three inches, and the recent frost has apparently not affected their progress.

SUFFERED A BAD WOUND

J. Norton, Union Vale, Prince Edward County, received a severe cut on his foot while working in the Terwillegar's woods on Wednesday. Dr. Hendjis and Dr. Whiteman are in attendance.

THE OTHER WAY ABOUT

You Who Wish
Whiter, cleaner, safer teeth have only to fight the film

Accept this offer of a new way of teeth cleaning. It is delighting millions. It is bringing them the prettier teeth you see everywhere today.

It means vast benefits which your home should enjoy. Let this test show them to you.

You leave film

You feel on your teeth a viscous film. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it, so much of it clings and stays.

Soon the film discolors, forming dingy coats. Then pearly teeth grow cloudy.

Film is the great destroyer. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Those who escaped such troubles have been few indeed.

Two new methods

Dental science has in late years found two ways to fight that film. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

These methods have proved themselves exceedingly effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise it. Now this tooth paste is in world-wide use. Its careful people of some 50 nations it has brought a new dental era.

Every user knows

Every user gains at once new benefits, new delights.

Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva. These are Nature's agents for combating acids and starch deposits. Then combined effects will bring you new conceptions of clean teeth.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Then decide by what you see and feel. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enemel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Gilbert Brown Dies Suddenly

Shortly after the noon hour today, Mr. Gilbert Brown, well-known member of the Belleville Fire Department passed away at the family residence, 43 Holloway street. An attack of pneumonia was the cause of death and his demise was rather unexpected.

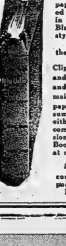

In the year 1867, deceased was born in this city, being a son of the late Mr. Wm. Brown. All his life was spent in this city where he had many friends. For a number of years Mr. Brown followed his occupation as a cabinet-maker being employed in Tickell & Sons furniture factory. For over 30 years deceased had been connected with the city fire department, being a member of the volunteer force and a consistent member since, the inaugoration of the paid department. He was ever ready for the call of duty, and his departure is deeply regretted by his comrades. Some years ago deceased married Miss Cowie, who with one son, two daughters and a step-daughter survive. The son Arthur and daughters, Misses Evelyn and Viva and step-daughter Dorothy are all of this city. Chief W. J. Bamford of the fire department is the only surviving brother. One sister, Mrs. George Maddox, of this city is living. To those bereft will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of many friends.

U. S. AIRMEN TO FOLLOW WELL-KNOWN WATER ROUTE

Seattle, Wash., April 3.—Adherence to well-known water routes, which is to characterize the journey of four planes of the United States army air force, Colonel Mitchell, in charge of the world, marked the course yesterday from Seattle to Prince Rupert, B.C., and announced today by Major Frederick L. Martin, commanding the expedition.

Rising from Sand Point aviation field near Seattle the planes, which Major Martin said might take off Thursday, are to cut sharply west, arriving above Puget Sound. The route laid down by Major Martin runs ten miles east of Victoria, to reach to inside Passage along the mainland coast of Vancouver Island.

The day of departure remained uncertain.

RAIL MEN WALK OUT

Six Hundred of Scranton Road Quit Despite Last Minute Efforts

Scranton, Pa., April 3.—Although big business interests worked until late into the night striving to avert the conference, 600 employes of the Scranton Railway Company struck on strike early today, crippling traffic and business.

All lines from Forest City to Dupryea and in Scranton are tied up. More than 100,000 persons were forced to walk, and big industrial plants were badly crippled because of the failure of employes to reach their places of employment. Buses are suffering from the strike.

Salts Fine For Aching Kidneys

WHEN BACK HURTS FLUSH YOUR KIDNEYS AS YOU CLEAN YOUR BOWELS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, sorpid liver, acid stomach, sleepless ness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

WOODSTOCK CUSTOMS $268,374 FOR YEAR

Woodstock Ont. April 3.—The returns at the local customs office for the fiscal year just closed show a total of $268,374.91. For the month of March the total was $41,979.92; made up as follows: Customs, $28,902.14; excise taxes, $13,767.07; excise duty, $310.19.

Feeling Old At Forty

YOU CAN REGAIN YOUR VITALITY BY BUILDING UP YOUR BLOOD

Middle age comes too soon if you let the cares of life exhaust your blood leaving you tired and worn out. Women, especially, are apt to neglect their health. All their anxiety is an outlet for other people. Housework consumes their vitality. They become middle-aged too soon and suffer in the process, merely because their blood is exhausted.

Not so the woman who realizes that pale, real unselfishness is to preserve her youth as long as she can. She does not rouse anxiety to those who love her by being ill, or by always having headaches or backaches, or a pain in her side. Her blood is kept in good order—rich, red and pure; she is cheerful and active.

The vitality and youthfulness that abundance of good blood gives can all be yours if you like. To make rich, red blood you have only to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You will soon feel the new blood tingling in your veins; your headaches and backaches will go, your appetite will improve, you will be happy yourself and give happiness to others.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Curious Facts Concerning the Book of Books

The Bible has 1189 chapters; 929 belong to the Old Testament and 260 to the New. The 117th Psalm is the middle chapter of the Bible, its number being 595. Exactly 594 chapters precede it, and 594 follow it.

The middle chapter of the Bible is also the shortest; and contains only 33 words, composed of 131 letters. The longest is the 119th Psalm, containing 176 verses, 2,345 words, and 10,- 146 letters.

The text of the Bible is divided into 31,101 verses; 23,144 for the Old, and 7,957 for the New Testament. The shortest verse in the Bible is John XI: 35, containing only two words with nine letters. One verse in the Bible contains all the letters of the alphabet except J—Ezra 7: 21.

The famous inscription on the Liberty Bell, in Independence Hall Philadelphia, is taken from Leviticus 25:10. It reads, "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

Hockey Match Sequel In Court

Warm Time Following St. Mary's—Kitchener Game

Rodden Takes No Fool ing

Toronto, April 2—Anybody suffering from a spasm—which is Irish for having nobody to fight, might find a good cure around the dressing rooms after a hockey match, if they are as a rule anything like the game between St. Mary's and Kitchener at the Arena. A. J. Leith, the M. J. Rodden, owner of the former team, claiming $40 for some teeth knocked down his throat, seemed to have been suffering from the complaint. He was helping tidy up the Toronto Canoe Club dressing room, when he was attacked by a row. It was in Kitchener after the game. Players assembled to Judge Monson's suggestion that what they meant by argument was a fight. Judge Monson observed that hockey matches ought to be highly interesting, not only in themselves, but also for the brain of arguments that followed.

It appeared that Rodden and Grow, a Kitchener player, were enjoying what must have been an excruciating after-the-game argument, both men being out of a job, when Leith entered. Leith declared that he merely stated that the St. Marys team had been as rough at the Kitchenery, and had objected the referee to help their defeat their good spirit.

Several St. Mary's men, on the other hand, declared that he had used very unbecoming language, and had attacked the St. Mary's junior goalkeeper. Third Rodden "rushed him out of the building. At any rate, there seemed to be no doubt that a good old-fashioned Donnybrook was in progress, in the course of which Leitch swallowed the teeth for which he demanded Rodden should pay. Judge Monson, however, found that Leitch had actively and voluntarily partaken in both the vrgument and in the physical arguments, and that Rodden was not liable for the teeth.

Athletics Will Not Be Flash In Pan This Year If Their Pitchers Stand Up

Birmingham, Ala., April 2.—Connie Mack has imported some punch for his Athletics and expects to cut quite a figure in the American league race. The combro Cornelius, if you remember, startled the world last spring when his ball club stepped right out and threatened to spread-eagle the field. The Athletics have and finished seventh. And all because they lacked the punch to support very good pitching. The punch is present here now, and will by through the campaign, according to Connie.

"This team will not flash and then fade," he exp'ained. The new players are good hitters, and I feel that they prove as the season wears on. If the pitchers come through we will be up there."

There appears to be no good reason why the pitchers should not give as good an account of themselves as they did in the past.

Connie's new regulars supposed to make the team a hitting power are Paul Strand, outfielder, who hit .394 in Salt Lake; Al Simons, outfielder, who rung up .360 with Milwaukee, and Max Bishop, second baseman, who hit .333 in Baltimore. These Athletic young men cost the A's large collection of dollars, but the club officials evidently now believe that consolers play better than ta'kers.

Strand is a converted pitcher, formerly with Mike Gazella. His left arm and four years has been a slugging outfielder, Simons is a midget fence-buster. He's a kid with speed and cleverness, and Mack has him elected to be a real sensation.

Bishop guarded the keystone for five years for Jack Dunn's International champions. He has been on the verge of coming up for a long time, but his price was always too high. At the present writing he has chased Jimmy Dykes off the lag.

These three chaps sifted into the most pretentious team they have had since winning the pennant was a hot, hot with the club. Hauser, on first, the club's only .300 hitter in 1923; Bishop on second; Galoway, one of the best in the short, and Simons in the ally coming into his own at third, make up an infield many teams could use.

Strand and Simmons is the garden, leave one place vacant for McSweeney, Welch and Miller to fight for, Perkins, Haney and Rowland are plenty of catchers.

The Macklan pitchers will be the same regular bunch—Rommell, Hagris, Hasty Heimach, Naylor and Quinn, with two or three baby wonder shooters who may be able to burn in. There's plenty of stuff to help the crowd.

The Athletics, unless injury slays will have an experienced regular line-up, with good pitching and plenty of substitute material. If the club can find a little real spirit it will be a slugging outfielder, Simons is a midget case plenty of baseball trouble.

Soft Ball Teams Play At Armouries

At the armouries last night the soft ball nets were treated to two snappy games of indoor ball. A fair sized crowd was on hand and were kept well amused throughout.

A double-header was played and the first game brought out the Shoemen and the Bear Cats and the second game was between the Canadian National Express.

A number of Belleville's senior outdoor ball players are taking advantage of the indoor league to get in shape for the coming campaign and with these players mixed through the four different teams, put a lot of pep into the games.

Up until now only small crowds have been present but the games the boys deserve a better attendance for their efforts and it is to be hoped that at next Wednesday's game that their will be a record attendance.

In the first game last night the Shoemen had little trouble disposing of the Bear Cats by the score of 13 to 7.

McAlpine was on the mound for the Shoemen and Barlow twirled for the Bear Cats with Townsend as his mate. J. Kingston was behind the bat and gave general satisfaction.

Second Game

The second game was fought out between the two Canadian National teams with the Canadian Royals beating the Express nine to the wire by 12 to 11, but not until the Royals were forced to go to the limit to win out.

A. Webb did the pitching for the Royals with A. Dawson behind the bat and they were opposed by 'Cap' Smith pitcher and A. Knott, catcher for the Express.

The teams were as follows:

Express—Meagher, Sgdin, McKenna Bowler, Murray, Kelly, Keon, Knott, Lloyd.

C.N.R. Royals—Young, Hagerman, Williams, A. Webb, F. Webb, Griscomb, Hall, Newton, McGrath.

Bear Cats—Fenton, Mathews, Dennis, Gray, St. Denis, Miles, Jefferys, Townsend, Barlow.

Shoemen—Woodley, Garbutt, Latchford, Stark, Strachan, Reid, Symons, Hardy, McAlpine.

"PONIES" PREPARE FOR BALL SEASON

Manager Joe Daley Signs Pitcher "Andy" Bennett Recently

Manager Joe Daly of the local C.O. string of players signed up, by securing "Andy" Bennett, crack pitcher of the Athletics last year. The star twirler should go well with the seniors, and is keen to turn in winning battles for Daley's team.

With Bennett, Gallagher, and a couple of other pitchers in line, Kingston will be more than strong in the pitching box this summer, while behind the bat they will also be formidable, for it is nicely that "Lex" Rice will be on the job, and another crack catcher is secured. Purvis, Somerville, Smith, Batstone, Teepel and a couple of others will be the infield, while there will be several candidates for outfield positions.

With Del Cherry, the heavy-hitting outfielder-pitcher, Herbie Teepel and several others already in the fold, enthusiasm among officials of the C.O.'s B.L. team runs high, and now the outcry thing needed is the advent of good weather. The players are all anxious to get into their baseball togs, and are keen on starting the season by batting the stars a beating in the first game of the season here.

Some men make enemies instead of friends because it is less trouble.

Leafs Lose In "Slugging" Match

Cobb's Squad Get 14 Runs and Win—Pitchers Have Not Yet Found Themselves

Greenwood, S. C., April 3.—Twenty-seven runs were scored in the Detroit-Toronto game yesterday afternoon, of which the Tigers got 14 and the Leafs 13, the victory being achieved by the Cobbmen in the ninth inning, when a send ball, three walks and two hits snatched the game out of the hands of the Howleys.

The duel was a melee of hitting by both teams when the ball was anywhere in the vicinity of the plate, but the fingers of both sides were unable to make the apple behave as they would have liked. It was Ty Cobb's first appearance in this city. On the crowd of 2,000 was recruited from points for miles around. Cobb and Howley invited the classes of the local orphans' home and they helped to swell the attendance.

Pitcher injures Wrist

"Jim" Faulkner thought he was ready to go nine innings against the Tigers, but found in the sixth that he had lost his stuff as well as his control and asked to be relieved. Major Thomas took up the job and did fairly well until hit by a pitched ball on the right wrist. The hand and forearm are badly swollen and the right-hander may be out of the game for a week. Faulkner held the Tigers to six hit until the ninth round, when he weakened. Thomas pitched just one and one and two-thirds innings when he was crippled. Glasser pitched one and two-third innings, when chance to warm up. He hit one batter walked two and was clipped for a single and a double.

Faulkner gave a very meritorious performance until his lack of condition and staying power caused him to vacate the slab. He should not have been scored upon until the sixth, after allowing one single only, that in the third with two out. Onslow and Gilhooley endeavored to execute a double play in that third round, but both made wild throws and the pair of runs counted.

The Leafs had ample opportunity to bring into play some of the signals they have been rehearsing on Hillbilly of late, the hit and run, the bunt sacrifice, and even the squeeze play were called upon. Gilhooley crossing up the Detroit infield and scoring On slow from third with as fine a demonstration of the squeeze as could be made.

Soo Champions Won't Turn Pro

Talk in Montreal and Toronto Sporting Circles was Merely "Talk"

Sault Ste. Marie, April 3.—The proposal that the Sault Greyhounds should next winter enter a new league with Eveleth, Hibbing, Duluth, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Marquette, is made in a letter received yesterday morning by Secretary Edwards, of the Sault Hockey Club, from the Eveleth Club. The letter stated that it was planned to hold a meeting shortly to discuss the proposition Hibbing is building a new rink which will seat 3,000 people, and expects to have a hockey team of senior calibre and that the rink will contain 8 sheets, for curling.

The Soo Club has not had an opportunity to consider the proposal yet as it was believed here that the Greyhounds will either go into professional hockey or break up the team. Either hockey will induce the Soo to go over its plans for next season. If pro hockey will induce the Soo to again put a first-class team on the ice the outlook is that the Greyhounds will be a real contender for the cup next year.

There has been a lot of talk in Toronto and Montreal about the Soo turning pro., but it seems to be only talk, and the Soo players seem to have other plans.

WANDERLUST

A sweet came to me one day
With feet in her eyes,
And mystery written on his lips,
Where laughter lives and dies.

He turned but a little while
Within my cottage door,
Yet when he left I knew my heart
Would never rest here more.

The spell of many lands he told
Was me and on my bones;
When he had gone I sat and thought
As quiet as a stone.

The neighbours think I am content
Because I sew and sing;
To tell the truth, I'm making clothes
To travel in next spring!

LACROSSE MEETING TONIGHT

To-night at the Chamber of Commerce, a big meeting of lacrosse players and fans will be held, when plans for the organization of the four city league teams, also the assignment of juvenile teams will be made. A large crowd is requested and a lively meeting anticipated.

ON THE ALLEYS

In a fast and exciting game in the ladies league at the Recreation Alleys last night the Lucky Strikes won from the Wanderers by 45 pins both teams rolling very good scores. Although the game the Lucky Strikes piled up enough pins in the first game to carry them through to a win. Miss Harris was the highest three string bowler with 476 while Mrs. White did very easily the highest single.

The Wanderers' Ada Bowlers made To-night at the Chamber of Commerce league, the Olympics will clash with the Bowlers and by rolling their average 777 score or a mere 3216 pins the latter game will be won, the Bowler outside of "Wally" Walker, who piled nine fifty here rolled together, but with a little more practice he'll be heard from later. The Olympics had two bowlers over the 700 mark, Amy Thousand with 741 and Dr. Hallber with 717. For the Bowlers Vern Cook was both men with 632.

START A LIBRARY FOR CHILDREN

The Bible is, or should be, the cornerstone of every library. All boys and girls should be given an early chance to know the Bible. Reading the Bible is the surest and best foundation for a liberal education. In the estimation of great scholars and teachers, the Bible stands first in literary merit.

No matter what religion may be yours, or in what faith you want your child raised, you do want it to grow in whatever knowledge is considered essential for general culture. Put the Bible for your children's hands for the story feature. In reading these stories they will unconsciously absorb the style and their taste for other good literature will naturally follow. Teaching the child to form the right kind of reading matter is one of the educational tasks of parents. Their home training has been different.

Start them right at home and start them now. It only takes a few days before you can own one of the most beautiful Bibles printed. The coupon in another part of today's paper will tell you how easy it will be to secure it, but it may not be so easy later on, as the offer is limited as to time, and because of the limited number of copies which the publishers considered our proportion for local distribution.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much sulphur. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can not possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three tablespoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

That Body of Yours

MINISTERS AND PRIESTS AS PHYSICIANS

There was an article in the paper the other day stating that in London Eenland, there were established a clinic for sick people, and that the staff would be physicians, and the other half ministers or priests.

I could not help but realize how much like the ancient priest the average physician must be, and also how much like the ancient is the priest or minister.

Why is the clinic should be a wonderful success.

To start a clinic wit cease all classes of sick people.

The sick individuals, with some form of nervous ailment will be the most numerous.

Among these will actually be some form of nervous trouble due to an organic disturbance, or else an ailment due to some outside or inside emotional disturbance.

And so after the physician makes all his tests and can find nothing, the minister or priest will take him over, and by sympathetic questions will often be able to find out the origin of the trouble.

Many a man will be frank with a minister of his own denomination, and will unknown himself in a way that he would not do with a physician.

If the minister can get to the original cause of the trouble, but feels that he hardly knows enough to help him, he can quite properly hand his information over to the physician to complete the cure.

The physician finds an organic trouble, finds himself up against a stone wall. The minister or priest knows it does for him. He then brings the man around to the point of suggestion, and then by his psychical persuasion he appeals to the reasoning power, and the individual gets his complete cure.

As I said in a former article, every one of these cases where the person is not really insane, but has a history of nervousness, sleeplessness, irritability, forgetfulness, lack of concentration, morbid ideas about himself and life in general, has been caused by some one thing weeks, months, yes years; before.

Just what is that one thing discovered by the minister or physician, and they work on the subconscious self the man's ideas and outlook must start from this point.

Mental disturbances are more frequent than ever before in the world's history.

The war, our hurried lives, the speed of everything, makes the handling of the balance a bit more difficult than ever before.

But it must be admitted that the treatment of the nervous or mental cases is on a more solid basis than ever before.

And the cures are as frequent as the cures of the ordinary physical ailments.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

When the ladies had retired for the night, Mr. Selby Layton lit a cigarette and went on the terrace. It was a bright, moonlight night, and half absently he went down the steps, crossed the park and entered the woods. A nightingale was singing bewitchingly; and Mr. Layton made his way unmonged, the trees in a contemplative mood. He was thinking of the girl who owned all this, and was so absorbed that he never heard the step he had intended. Suddenly a sound, the sound of footsteps near him, caused him to stop short. As he did so, a girl stepped cautiously from amongst the trees and stopped, startled and frightened, and afrighted, in front of him. It was Kate Tranaom. The moonlight shone full upon her face, and Mr. Layton instantly smote Selby Layton, who was susceptible, very susceptible, to feminine charms.

They stood and looked at each other in silence for a moment, then Selby Layton said:

"Who are you, and what are you doing here?"

Kate's face had flushed crimson, but it was now pale. She stood before him, embarrassed and nervous, and said nothing. Selby Layton looked at her with admiration glowing in his eyes.

"It's late for a young girl like you to be out in the woods," he said. "What does it mean? What is your name?"

Kate—Kate Tranaom, sir," she said. "My father—" She stopped.

"Your father's here, eh?" said Selby Layton. Transgression—possibly a gay poac?"

But he spoke, there was a rustle in the brake behind him; but he neither heard it nor saw the figure of Dick Reeve which stole up close beside them with the step of a panther.

Kate clasped her hands.

"Don't call me them, sir!" she said. "I'm afraid my father's here—but I'm not sure."

Selby Layton took a step towards her and got hold of her hand.

"Why are you frightened," he said, "I am not going to tell. What a pretty girl you are! You have no right to be here, all alone at this time of night. Come, you must tell me all you please!"

He drew her towards him, and Dick Reeve raised his gun to his shoulder; but he lowered it as Kate, with a fer cry, broke from Selby Layton and was lost in the wood.

CHAPTER XVII

When Kate Tranaom broke away from Selby Layton she set off running; but presently, when she found that he had not pursued her, she slackened her pace and went on more slowly. Her heart was beating fast, but she indignation, rather than fear, and all the latter came and went in her pale face, and her eyes flashed.

No one had ever dared to speak to her as this gentleman had done, and all the girl's pride was outraged and in arms.

She had nearly gained the edge of the wood when she heard footsteps behind her, and flew to her father, and she stepped behind a tree to conceal herself; but concealment was difficult from the man who was now approaching at a rapid pace. Her heart beat as she heard his hat and said "Good-morning, Mr. Tranaom," even before he came up to the tree.

Kate stepped out and faltered a response and back went that she was trembling and that the hand had against her bosom was clenched tightly as she stood with downcast eyes before him.

"Is anything the matter?" he asked in a kindly way.

"N-o," she faltered. "I came into the father— Have you seen him?"

Jack understood.

"It's all right," he said. "I saw him going down the street just now."

He did not say "going into the inn." She drew a breath of relief and rushed the thick hair from her forehead with a weary little gesture.

"I am glad," she said in a low voice, "I am always afraid he will break his promise, that he will forget your kindness and—get into trouble."

"I think he'll keep his promise," said Jack. "There has not been so much poaching lately, I think; they know I'm keeping a sharp lookout. You didn't see any one in the woods?"

Her face flushed, and she turned her head aside as she shook it. With a murmured "Good-night, Mr. Gordon," she was leaving him, when an owl flew screeching from a tree, and, with a cry, she started back. As she did so, Jack was nervous and overstrained, and he said:

"I'm going back, and will go with you if you'll allow me."

She shot a grateful glance at him from her superb eyes, and walked together through the remainder of the wood, and by one of the gates on to the high road. Jack saw that Kate's master-talk about the crops and the coming harvest, she only replied in monosyllables; but she was drinking in every word he said, and his deep voice was like music in her ears. As they passed through the gate, a man and woman came along the path; they were Martin—Esther—and Giles, who were "keeping company" had been out for a lover's stroll.

Giles touched his cap and gave Jack "Good-evening, sir," and Jack said, "Good-evening, Giles," in response in his frank and genial way; but Kate coloured deeply and shrank back; and with a hurried "Thank you, sir," to go alone now. Good-night," walked away from him quickly.

"Who was that with Mr. Gordon?" asked Marie, as she and Giles passed them. "Wasn't it Kate Tranaom?"

"I've," said Giles. "Old Tranaom's daughter."

"Oh, said Marie, "I didn't know they were keeping company."

"Are they?" said Giles.

Marie laughed.

MR. BOUTHILLIER

Popular Montreal Man Now Eats Meat

Gains Ten Pounds and Feels Fine Because Dreco Has Put His Digestive Organs in Sound, Healthy, Working Order

Mr. E. Bouthillier, of 276 Bleury St., has a wide acquaintance in the city of Montreal, where he has practised his profession for many years. He had many conversation with his clients in the course of his career, but being more profitable than those which resulted in his taking Dreco. It was recommended to him by men who had evidently experienced its remarkable powers, and Mr. Bouthillier is only too anxious to pass the word along.

"Dreco has put me back on my feet," he says. Ever since my return from overseas I have suffered greatly with my stomach. It was weak and touchy and I would hardly digest anything. To-day, thanks to Dreco, which was highly recommended by people coming into the shop, I am able to eat meat and digest it properly. Dreco has done me so much good that I have gained ten pounds in weight and, what is more remarkable, I have only taken two bottles of it."

Why suffer the misery of faulty digestion when this splendid remedy, Dreco, is within easy reach? Let its wonderful corrective and tonic properties restore your digestive organs, as it has those of so many others. Dreco is a purely herbal preparation and contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Belleville by The Belleville Pharmacy. It is also sold in Stirling by J. S. Marmon, and by a good druggist every where.

Local Girl's Voice Heard In Georgia

Miss Strethel Walton, formerly of this city and now living in Atlanta, Ga., again delighted radio fans in her home city last night, when she assisted with the concert, broadcasted from one only radio station at Atlanta, the Atlanta Journal office. The concert was first heard here about 11.45 p.m. and most of the numbers were quite heard.

Miss Walton rendered two solos. The World is Waiting for the Sun ..." and "Springtime Is He-a" with Mrs. Carter, also contributed two duets, "Carissima" and "When My Caravan Has Rested." Mr. and Mrs. Carter with Mr. Rutland and Miss Walton also gave three quartette numbers, "Carry Me Back To Old Virginia," "Where are You Going My Pretty Maid?" and "Morning of the Year". Mrs. Carter sang "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water" and Mr. Carter "Brown October Ale".

Mrs. Carter stays opposite Miss Walton, contralto, Mr. Rutland, tenor and Mr. Carter Bass.

FLOODS IN POLAND

Warsaw, April 3.—The flood water are subsiding in the Upper Vistula Valley and around Warsaw, but in the lower region the situation is dangerous.

All the cities on the banks of the Vistula, from Thorn to Danzig, have suffered heavy damages, especially in the former place, where the water reached the mark of the famous flood of 1888.

General Haller, chairman of the Polish Senate, has organized wide-spread relief for the victims.

OUCH! LUMBAGO! RUB BACKACHE AWAY

Kidneys cause backache! Not You! Backache is caused by lumbago, rheumatism or a strain and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating St. Jacob's Oil. Rub it on your painful back and lo! Gradually the soreness stiffness and lameness disappears. Don't stay crippled! Get a 35 cent bottle of St. Jacobs Oil from your druggist. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache or lumbago pain.

In use for 65 years for lumbago, backache, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism or sprains. Absolutely harmless. Doesn't burn the skin.

Your Home

"I COULD just sit right down and cry!" Mrs. Stephens was disappointed—bitterly disappointed—for her home, the spot in which she took such pride; the home she had tried to make so cheerful and pretty, stood before her like beggar's rags.

It was the same old story—"Cheap Paint"! There it was—the surface, that should have reflected the joy and cheer she had anticipated, was scaling, cracking and unkempt. A total loss—and more, a disappointment.

We found that she had used 6½ gallons of a so-called cheap paint, for which she had paid $26.00. Had she bought Lowe Brothers "High Standard" Paint she would have required only 4 gallons. It would have cost her $23.00. She would have saved $3.00 on the job, and would not then have been on the verge of tears.

"Save the Surface and You Save All"

Lowe Brothers PAINTS & VARNISHES

TREAT it right—that home of yours. Paint it—protect it—brighten it—inside and out. The returns to you will be found in much added comfort, happiness, and the respect of your community. Come in, and let us show you how to save money on your paint problems, and secure permanent, lasting results. There is a wide difference between "cheapness" and "economy". "Cheap" paint means "expensive" job.

"BRASS BOTTLE" FARCE COMEDY WITH NO SLAP- STICK

A farce comedy without a foot of slap-stick film; a rib-tickling picture with an intensely melodramatic accompaniment.

That is perhaps the best way to describe Maurice Tourneur's "The Brass Bottle," presented by M. C. Levee as a First National picture, which opens at the Regent Theatre tonight. Like all of Tourneur's pictures, the word "unusual" has a double meaning when used to describe "The Brass Bottle."

Hoopers of the piece, are carried away by Ernest Torrence as Fakrash-el-Aamash the genie, with Harry Myers as Horace Ventimore, a young English architect, a close second. Tully Marshall, as Prof. Hamilton, a grouchy English archaeologist and Ventimore's prospective father-in-law lives up to all one has to expect of him self.

Among others present in the cast are: Barbara La Marr, Charlotte Mersins, Fred Sterling, Arzie Herring, Clarissa Selwyn, Otis Harlan, Sam De Grasse, Roy Coulson, Ed Jobson, Hazel Keener, Marie Campbell and Julanne Johnston.

Photographically The Brass Bottle' ranks with the best things Tourneur a master of the Beautiful on the screen has done. The story abounds with opportunities for beautiful photography and Tourneur has taken advantage of every one. From a prologue laid in King Solomon's court story moves to a formal garden in rural England, from a London office to the sumptuous interior of a luxurious Arabian palace, and back to a drab London rooming house.

Fakrash-el-Aamash, an Arabian Nights genie, is imprisoned in a brass bottle for cautesing the anger of Suleyman, and cast into the sea. Ventimore buys the bottle, thousands of years later, at an auction and releases the genie. In gratitude genie showers his benefactor with Aladin like gifts. It is the incongruity of these gifts, laden on a struggling architect of modern days, that produced the merriment of last night's audience.

Funny, melodramatic, beautiful, unusual, the picture has a strong appeal to the occasional picture-goer as well as to the fan.

MASTERLY PICTURE OF WILD NORTHLAND LIFE

Adventurers, soldiers of fortune fugitives from justice and gold hunters in search of their fortunes, will come, pass and repass in the lense drama of the Land Where the North Begins" at the Griffin Theatre as the feature attraction.

This Warner Brothers classic of the Northland was filmed in Northern California, in a wild region rarely visited by mortals. Both breaking it and brought a cast of players—all of whom are acquainted with the rude life of frontier men and women—to the scenes, called the rawest setting in the career Mcgrail who has prospected in Alaska, Fred Huntley, who has knocked all over the world and had a life of rich adventure; Pat Hartigan, Lewis Owen and Charles Stevens.

"Where the North Begins" is the story of the fight for a girl's hand, between the bitter end and without mincing, by the two contestants, Shad Galloway, the tyrannical factor of a Hudson Bay trading post and Pierre Dupre, the French-Canadian trapper who is her betrothed.

BRUSSELS RECITAL

There was a large audience to welcome Mr. Mark Hambourg at his recital at the Conservatoir. On this occasion he gave super-brilliant music, he interpreted with more than ordinary brilliance, which is saying a great deal. The extensive Chopin group gave us all the finest and tenderest playing Mr. Hambourg is capable of, while his irresistible speed was shown in two studies, the 'black' study being a provocative thing he had to repeat it. One might almost fancy Chopin had a player like Mr. Hambourg in his mind when he wrote that most wonderful study, and having heard nearly everyone play it I have come to the conclusion no one can touch him for speed, brilliance, and precision. And four encores, and innumerable recalls, and it will be seen the evening was full of delights and crowded with the various phases of the pianistic gifts of this ever mercurely genius, Griffin's Monday April 7th.

ZION

The scarlet fever patients of our community are improving satisfactorily.

Miss Helen Denyes has been visiting her brother, Mr. Fred Denyes, of Goldenleek.

Mr. Robert Reid had several bees last week causing lumber from Tweed. There are no drones on our lines.

Mr. Willet Ketcheson entertained the boys of the Sunday school to a sugar party on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward James of Belleville, spent a day last week with her sister, Mrs. Roy Silver.

Mr. Wm. and Miss Mary Caldwell spent the week end at Mr. Silk on Wednesday last.

Mrs. Thomas Lloyd has been on the sick list.

Mrs. Clifford Ketcheson and Baby Irene have arrived home.

Mr. Earl Bamber took tea in the community on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Hoyt Thrasher and daughter Olive, have returned to their home in Toronto.

Miss Neva Cronkright gave a sugar-party for a number of her friends on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Casey attended the funeral of Miss E. Casey at Belleville on Wednesday.

Miss Marjorie Ketcheson, Miss Whitby and other friends, took tea at the home of Miss Ida Wagar, on Foxboro on Sunday.

Mr. Horold Beatty is very busy these days making syrup. Hurry up and come off, Horold!

Speaking of tapping trees, a little boy of our community, upon returning home from a neighbors, said, "Say Daddy, why don't you sap?" Everybody says sap nowadays.

SUGAR PARTY AT ZION

The first maple-sugar party of the season was held on Saturday afternoon, March 22, at Mr. W. J. Bryan's sugar bush. The young people had a jolly drive to the camp where they found the maple syrup boiling in a large kettle in the open.

The party included Mr. Ketcheson's Sunday School Class, her daughter, Miss Minnis Ketcheson, and her guests, Miss Helen Scott, Fredericton, N.B.; Miss Evelyn Ball, Moose Creek; Miss Gwendolyn Souter, North Bay, Ont., all of the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, and some near relatives and intimate friends.

As it was Mr. Ketcheson's sixty-third birthday, Miss Irene Casey on behalf of Mr. Ketcheson's class, presented him with a pocket set or coin, in appreciation of his many kindnesses.

Mr. Ketcheson's reply will be remembered by all present because he extended to them a most cordial invitation to come again next year.

EASIEST WAY

"The bootleggers are killing their own cause," said Wm. J. Bryan, recently. "More than anyone else, the bootleggers are leading the country toward real Prohibition. This is partly due to the exorbitant prices they charge, and partly on account of the vitiated poisons they sell. The trend of the times is summed up in the creed of the darkey woman, who had called the doctor to attend her husband, who was down with the flu.

"What's I gwine gib him?" asked the woman.

"Whiskey," was the doctor's reply.

When the doctor had named the price per quart of good whiskey the wife remarked: "I can bury him cheap er den dat."

NO CIVILIANS IN AIR FORCE

Ottawa, April 3.—An order in council altering the character of the Royal Canadian Air Force became effective today. Formerly the Canadian Air Force was partly military and partly civilian in organization. Appointments were made by the Air Board and members of the air force served half their time in military capacity and half in civilian. Hereafter the Royal Canadian Air Force is entirely military and is a permanent force unit. Enlistment is for the same term as in other permanent force units and pay is similar except for flying men, who receive a special bonus. The King's regulations and orders for the Royal Canadian Air Force are modelled on the regulations for the British Royal Air Force.

State Nurses Delegates to Three Conventions in Voting Today

New York, April 2.—Delegates and alternates to the Republican, Democratic and Socialist state and national conventions will be chosen in the state primary election today. There were, originally, 1,000 delegates elected to state conventions, but only one remained.

Delegates elected to state conventions will choose delegates at large to the national conventions, the Republicans meeting here and the Democrats at Albany on April 15 for that purpose. Members of state and county committees for all three parties will also be chosen to-day.

PYTHON EATS PYTHON

Manchester Keeper Was Given A Ruda Shock

London, April 3.—The disappearance of a python astonished a keeper at Belle Vue gardens, Manchester, recently.

There had been two pythons in a cage, but only one remained.

The remaining python was unusually distended and when the keeper handled the reptile discovered the entire body of its mate.

The keeper, who has had a large experience of the reptiles under his care, believes this to be the first occurrence of its kind. The most curious fact was that the python swallowed was larger than the swallower.

The survivor is reported to be no worse for his unseemly feast.

Something to Worry About

"You look blue, old man."

"I am blue. I've been rejected."

"Oh, cheer up! There are plenty of other girls, you know."

To Promote a Better Understanding Between Our Customers and Ourselves

For 68 years The Ritchie Company Limited, have been doing business in this community and are recognized as one of the largest and most modern Departmental Stores in Eastern Ontario.

We know and have been constantly teaching our customers to know—that the biggest dollars' worth that a dollar will buy is in the merchandise we sell.

The Best Merchandise at the Lowest Prices—Always

That is what we wish to instil in the minds of the people. We invite comparison of our prices with those asked elsewhere for the same class of merchandise.

Aside from the dependable merchandise sold, which has been the key-note to the prosperity enjoyed during the 68 years of The Ritchie Company's existence, we wish to point out the many Serviceable which we want you to enjoy.

Goods Exchanged and Refunds

Any article bought here, which does not meet with your entire satisfaction or expectations, or if for any other subsequent reason you might wish to exchange, we will find us always willing to do so in a most courteous manner, or cheerfully refund the purchase price if you so desire.

Misrepresentation of the Smallest Degree is to The Ritchie Company is Unthinkable

All our dealings with the public are carried on under the policy on which this business was founded—one price to everybody, is being said that a child might purchase any article with the assurance of the same service as dealt to an older person.

Not alone in "Over the Counter" transactions is this candor or trait exemplified, but in every item of business transacted.

Truth in Advertising

In our daily advertising through the columns of your newspaper we do not stray one iota. All advertising copy appearing under The Ritchie Company's name may be accepted on its merits for one hundred per cent. of what it represents.

Our Advertising is News!

Read news of the everyday and hour when it is read—news of the things that most people want to know about. Read it and keep in close touch with the activities that made the Ritchie Company, Limited, what it is.

We are constantly on the alert to improve our service in every way, but as the recipients of this service are the best critics of it we would like your advice, and would feel very grateful for any suggestions offered that might improve our already unique service.

CITY LEGAL AID ASKED ON BYLAW

Request of Parks Commission Asking Council to Authorize Sale of $50,000 Debentures and Appropriation of One Mill on Taxable Property Referred to City Solicitor for Opinion

Much business was transacted last night at a meeting of the various civic committees. A number of accounts were sanctioned for payment and the recommendations were numerous. The request of the Parks commission, asking the Council to pass a By-law authorizing the sale of $50,000 debentures also an appropriation of 1 mill on all ratable property in the city was referred to the city solicitor for his legal opinion. The other recommendations were as follows.

Recommendations

Recommended that the communication from the Parks Commission ask- ing the Council to pass a By-law authorizing sale of $50,000 of debentures and an appropriation of 1 mill on all the ratable property be referred to the city solicitor for legal opinion, as to responsibility of Council in the matter.

Building Permit

Recommended that a committee composed of the chairman of market and city property industries and finance, chairmen Mc-din Gallivr in his application for a building permit on Cauiton Road.

Estimate on Maps.

Recommended that the city engineer procure an estimate cost of maps requested by the treasurer.

Recommended that the Mayor and City Clerk be authorized to sign lease on behalf of the city engineer of lot on South Church by Albert Clapper at a rental of $1 per month, lessee to pay taxes thereon.

Sight-Ways.

On recommendation of city engineer it was recommended that the Council adopt the report of the engineer not to grant a release of the right of-way re a drain on the Deacon property on Coleman street.

Absorbing Costs

Recommended that Council concur in the action of Galt city council in petitioning the Government to absorb certain costs of construction and maintenance of Provincial highways.

Planking Lower Bridge

Recommended that the chairman of Public Works, Lights and Market and City Property be a committee to investigate and report to Council re planking lower bridge.

Recommended that the city engineer be authorized to advertise for tenders on supplies for Public Works for 1924.

CONSERVATIVES LIKELY TO WIN A NEW RIDING

Political Shakeups When Old Lines are Changed In Counties

NEW FORMATION

Mean Additional Member For Niagara Seat—Favor Election

Port Erie, Ont., April 4.—Steps are now being taken to form a third federal seat in the counties of Lincoln and Welland in connection with the redistribution bill now being considered in the federal house. Under this bill, historic old boundaries in the two ridings will be severed and out of the two large counties of Welland and Lincoln at the present time, will be carved the new seat of Niagara.

The new Niagara seat will consist of all of Welland and Lincoln counties on eastern side of the Welland ship canal, with the exception of the city of Welland and portions of Lincoln.

There will be a general shake-up in the complexion of the old counties of Lincoln and Welland, but each seat will roughly represent a little more than 28,000 people.

This will mean an additional member for the Niagara riding in the Ontario house. A study of the map indicates that the riding will likely be Conservative in its political color, as its districts included have in the past regularly returned majorities for that party.

Whether a special election will be held, or the next general election awaited is a question, but of course the odds favor the latter.

APPLYING 'CURE' IS MORE COSTLY

The rheumatism cure will cost more in future. This fact was disclosed at this morning's short session of police court, when a penalty for the water sailor, appeared on a drunk charge.

When it came time to ascertain the way and when he procured the liquor which caused his intoxication, he was the old story which now sounds like the winter overcoats appear, "threadbare". He was the story of procuring a doctor's prescription, "rushing" it at the drug store, and then "applying the cure."

The accused was promptly fined Ten ($10) Dollars, which is slightly higher than the usual "drunk" penalty.

Magistrate Masson stated that in future, these persons who used physicians in this way, by representing themselves as suffering from a malady which the courts before him, would realize a heavier fine.

QUICK SETTLEMENT OF FIRE CLAIM

Campbellford, April 4.—On the morning of Tuesday the 25th, March Mr. Thos. Delaney, agent for Watkins Products suffered the loss of his entire stock by fire. Mr. Delaney was insured in the Provincial Fire Insurance Co., of Toronto, who have established a record in this neighborhood for prompt payment of claims. Mr. Delaney having received a cheque in full for claim on Saturday morning, March 29th, from Mr. Wm. Matthews, the Company's representative at Campbellford.

Prominent Figures In Bank Probe

Above is shown members of the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature examining exhibits submitted by Joseph C. RETRENCHMENT DOMINION NEED; PAYROLL HUGE

Grattan O'Leary Points To Great Number on Official List

CLEANING UP

Eighteen Cabinet Ministers Being Paid $229,000 Per Year

Ottawa, Ont., April 4.—Parliament, slow to move, especially, where its own personal interests might suffer is slowly but surely being driven to give consideration to the addresses all over the dominion of Grattan O'Leary, former editorial man of Hon. Arthur T. Meighen, ex-premier of Canada, but who is now without political attachment.

O'Leary is devoting much of his time to a clean-up of the government and civil service of this country. O'Leary has been making figures to show that the total debt of the dominion, including provincial and municipal obligations, is around $4,000,000,- 000, or about $500 per head of population. Of this amount about $2,500,- 000,000 may be chalked up to the great war.

"Compare our position to that of the United States," says O'Leary. "That country has a population of 110,000,- 000 people, important possessions, a big army and navy, and yet it has but eight cabinet ministers, who draw in salaries of $105,000 a year.

"Canada has a population of less than 9,000,000 people, has no outside possessions, and no army or navy worth mentioning, yet she has eighteen cabinet ministers, and pays them including sessional indemnities, $229,- 000 a year. This includes the premier at $15,000 a year, and seventeen ministers at $10,000 a year. Then the sessional indemnity of $4,000 per year.

Head Much Officialism

"Canada also pays, for nine lieutenant governors, salaries ranging from $7,000 to $9,000 a year; 225 members of Parliament get $4,000 a year and ninety-six senators, $4,000 a year —a total of $1,644,000.

"Canada has 9,000,000 people, has 918 legislators and ninety-seven cabinet ministers, including the provincial governments, whose salaries are more than $3,000,000."

SMITH NOT TO APPEAR; FAIR TRIAL

Hon. Mr. Doherty Makes Announcement In View of Pending Criminal Proceedings—Had No Idea Probe Would Assume Such Serious Character—Give Former Treasurer Time to Answer Implications

(Staff Correspondence)

Toronto, April 4.—When the public accounts committee met today, Hon. Mr. Doherty announced that in view of the pending criminal proceedings he had decided to withdraw his motion calling for the appearance of former Provincial Treasurer Peter Smith before the committee.

Extent of Probe

He explained that when he had made the motion he had not fully realized the extent to which the probe was going to be carried. He had desired the appearance of Hon. Peter Smith because he thought it was only fair that he should have a chance to answer all the implications which might be made against him.

A. M. Calvert, former general manager of the defunct Home Bank was the first witness to be called.

More Serious Charges

"In the meantime," continued Mr. Doherty, "the evidence indicates charges much more serious than I had expected.

From what the Prime Minister said in the house yesterday, matters seemed to have reached the point suit criminal action might be brought and desirable.

A. Calvert who was acting manager of the Home Bank at the time of its collapse, identified the Fair Play directors which caused the Bank to close its doors, was the first witness called. Questioning was begun by Col. Price. "Your bank carried provincial deposits."

"Yes," what were your instructions in regard to these deposits." "But how do you mean" Col. Price recalled Wallaston evidence before the fall of 1921, if I remember correctly, that it was going to one per cent or its to carry the Provinces deposit. What rate of interest was paid. "three per cent" Calvert explained how the payments of this one per cent. commission had been made. "Out of whose pocket" asked Col. Price.

Calvert said he had advised the General Manager to take it from suspense account and later to refund it from the deposit interest account. Col. Price then came to the event of April 6, 1921 when a payment was said to have been made to Meson.

Credit Balance

The General Manager would ask for the average credit balance on the Provincial account and he would calculate it on whatever period he was paying interest. That period would be" "Usually whatever he was paying interest on" answered Calvert "The usually three months." "Did you consult Mr. Smith" I believe he did.

Col. Price produced the April 8th

Over-Population of Earth Feared By Health Expert

Dr. Hastings Says Earth will Not Feed Population in 120 Years—Start With Mental Deficients—Advocates Drastic Measures to Prevent Propogation of Mental Defectives

Toronto, April 4.—"If birth control in some form is not practised the population of the earth in 120 years from now will amount to five billion in numbers, and scientific investigation has shown that there is not sufficient arable land on the face of the earth to feed four billion people," said Dr. C. J. Hastings, Medical Officer of Health for Toronto, this morning. Hastings has proved, said Dr. Hastings, that the population of the world doubles every sixty years.

If about 100 years the earth will be at the point of saturation, as China is at present. It was upon these facts that Rev. Thomas Malthus based his theory, according to the M. O. H., who believes the Malthusian doctrine to be sound.

Asked if he would advocate birth control in the farms that it is commonly known, Dr. Hastings preferred not to discuss the matter. It was necessary for the people to be educated farther than they have been before such reforms are introduced, he said. It is time, however, for governments to apply drastic laws to the propagation of the mentally abnormal if the number of these subjects is not to be permitted to grow to a point where the cost of caring it will be prohibitive, said Dr. Hastings.

"How would you stay reproduction amongst them?" he was asked.

Two Methods

"Either by segregation or sterilization," he replied. "This problem has reached the stage where it must be given attention.

The M.O.H. did not wish to discuss in point the sermon on birth control delivered by Rev. Father Bampton, at St. Michael's Cathedral last night. Father Bampton deplored the fact that the birth rate of England has fallen since the war to 20 births per 1,000 of population. Dr. Hast-

TWO DAYS IN JAIL REFRESHES MIND

Harry Lymchik Commencing Two Months' Term Discloses Name /

Oshawa, April 4.—Harry Tymchuk who appeared before Magistrate Major Hind on Monday morning and was given two months for failing to give the name of the person from whom he purchased some high wine which caused him to be intoxicated appeared again yesterday afternoon and the two months' sojourn was withdrawn.

Tymchuk spent the last two days in the county jail and the short visit served to refresh his memory in exceleat style. He gave evidence that the beverage was purchased from a fellow, who while weekly visits to Oshawa selling liquor, and stated the name of the vendor. A witness named Alfonso corroborated the statements of Tymchuk. Additional costs of $4.50 was caged and the former prisoner left the court in smiles. D. A. E. Swayne appeared as counsel for the accused.

NECK BROKEN IN HEAVY FALL

Well-Known Farmer Found Dead Under Tree By Son

Thomas Shearer, aged 62, well-known as a prosperous farmer of Seymour Township, under the Trent river, was found dead underneath an apple tree in his orchard at 4 p.m. yesterday by his only son Gordon. Shearer, though sixty-five years of age, was a big strong man, and after dinner yesterday went down to the orchard to prune the fruit trees, and was not expected back at the house until tea time. When Gordon had been to town, but on returning before 4 o'clock, went down to where the pruning had been made, and found his father dead.

It is believed that the man missed his footing in the tree and fell head foremost to the ground. His neck was broken. Deceased was a widower.

OPTICAL PLANT GAINS HEADWAY

Rapid Progress Made in Completion of Arrangements to Take Over Deacon Factory

Unexpectedly rapid progress has been made by the American Optical Company in completing arrangements to take over the Deacon factory, which they recently purchased.

The company has already moved part of its equipment into the Deacon building and within a week will have full possession of the main floor.

The Optical Company is planning a number of important improvements and changes among them the installation of a complete sprinkler system and an additional guarantee against loss by fire.

A large quantity of machinery that has been held at Southbridge, Mass., for the past month awaiting a decision as to a permanent location at Belleville, will be forwarded at an early date to be put into position. It is the company's intention to add a number of machine lines to those already manufactured here so that the Belleville plant will supply to dealers and opticians a full out-line of the most scientific and up-to-date lenses.

Mr. Harry W. Hill, general manager of the firm making department of the company's plant at Southbridge, has been in Belleville the past two days consulting with Mr. E. W. Worth, manager of the local plant, with regard to the removal and the changes necessary in the Deacon building prior to installing their machinery.

Mr. Hill and Mr. Worth were entertained at luncheon yesterday by the Chamber of Commerce. In the course of a brief address after the luncheon referred to the present business owning movement and said that the Belleville factory would employ in the winters and a summer at Belleville had been decided upon. He was pleased with the city that they had decided to establish been their permanent Canadian location. Improvements over people arrived and took up their residence in a city, they were neglected or forgotten. He was glad to say that the had not been the case at Belleville. They associated with the company had been looked after in a manner right from the start and those attentions and courteous had been continued right up to the present. The favorable effort and lasting impression which was created during the company's decision to purchase property here and become a permanent part of the city.

HELPING CANADA

Yesterday reference was made in these columns to a British Empire session issued by the Christian Science Monitor of Boston. Regret was voiced that so little attention had been paid to the Dominion of Canada. We have since learned that the Monitor issued a special section in its next issue which was largely devoted to the natural resources and advantages of our country. This is a matter for general satisfaction and quite in line with the broad policy of the esteemed Boston publication. We in Canada know that we have a magnificent country with magnificent prospects. It is pleasing to see that there is at least one newspaper in the United States paying attention to the opportunities his nation offers.

NEW CANADIANS

The list of new Canadians is refreshing. A glance at it carries the mind into many countries. These are the new elements coming to weave their share of the national fabric. They came, perhaps, to make their fortune and return where they knew and were known. But when they settled here they found they wanted to be Canadians.

In all our adventures as a growing Dominion, this romance of New Canadianism is one of the most fascinating. It is a blending of interests, a charm of learning. We learn from them and they learn from us, and mutually we gain.

This year thousands will be coming, literally thousands. Most of them will become Canadians. They present to us a duty and an opportunity to mould ourselves and them into elements of the nation, members of the Commonwealth, citizens of the world.

Much has been done already—a sure sign that more is possible.

REJUVENATION

Dr. Max Thorek, surgeon-chief of the American Hospital, Chicago, takes Gertrude Atherton, the celebrated novel ist, to task because she holds out false hopes in her novel "Black Oxen," which is the tale of a woman who rejuvenated youth by medical means. Dr. Thorek says the story is driving many women to quack practitioners, where more harm will be done than than good.

All of us would live longer yet no one would be old. Youth, to the person who is facing the winter of life, seems most desirable. And so we grasp at straws, thinking to defeat Nature.

That cannot be done. But there is reason to believe that the life of the average human can be lengthened; in fact medical science has added appreciably to the span of existence already. Our problem is not to gain youth, but to stay young. Let us grow old as possible—possible keeping our minds youthful by never allowing them to harden. Let them be open to receive fresh knowledge and new opinions, thereby adding to wisdom. That is far more desirable than rejuvenation. If one never really grows old, it is not needed.

BELLEVILLE 'NS A CHEESE CENTRE

The importance of Belleville as a Cheese Centre was considerably increased last year as the result of the action of United Dairymen Co-operative Limited handling its cheese from the Central Ontario District through Belleville. Owing to the success of the Co-operative sales, the secretary, Mr. H. B. Cowan of Peterborough reports that a much larger volume of cheese will be handled by the co-operative company in Belleville this season. It i expected that the co-operative sales will be nearly, if not double what they were last season. Since last fall a large number of new factories that sold to the local cheese Boards have signed contracts with the Co-operation Company to sell co-operatively this season. As far as is known, all the factories which sold co-operatively last season will continue to sell through the Co-operative Company this season, in addition to which there will be the new factories. It is expected that every quality of the cheese made in Canada, about two thirds of the factories in Peterborough County and a large percentage of th Northumberland County factories, as well as a considerable number of the factories in Hastings County will sell through the co-operative Company.

Factors which have influenced many factories to sell co-operatively have been the fact that the cheese is placed in cold storage before it is graded, thus insuring its receiving the best possible grades. The fact that last season over $40,000 worth of cheese sold by the co-operative Company was graded as specials and received a special price, is known and also that the cheese is weighed in Belleville before the sale, thus preventing any dispute over weights. The fact that should the cheese grade low, it is possible for the factory men to examine it with little or no expense before it is sold, which, of course is not the case when the cheese is graded and weighed at Montreal, or other outside points, is another factor in favor of the co-operative company

No wonder the Home Bank failed.

This spectacle of the Alberta economics being all clowd down because of a general strike of miners suggests that perhaps it would not be any too safe for Alberta coal either.

Very welcome is the positive statement of Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer, that he never received that made out to his order and which is missing.

While the pay of the postal workers is increased, the increase will date from yesterday—so says the Premier, who hopes that this assurance will satisfy those who are directly concerned. Of course it will be fine to get a bit of back pay—but it is present relief that the postal workers want most. They cannot live on expectations.

BRINGING UP THE CHILDREN

(Toronto Globe)

Mr. E. P. Wise, writing in The Nineteenth Century, a British Labor paper, believes that the Labor party will deal successfully but quickly but-dread disease with the milk trade. Cheap milk, he says, is universally acknowledged to be the best food for children, yet tens of thousands of children in British cities hardly ever taste it, except in a condensed form. The farmers are not in general to be blamed for the high prices. The cost of distribution is sometimes more than the price allowed to the producer. Lord Rhondda in spite of his natural bias against socialism, was reluctantly driven to the view that the business must either be municipalised or controlled. Notwithstanding the high price, the milk sold in dirty and unwholesome

Watch the manner in which milk, the most easily contaminated of all foods, is exposed in dusty thoroughfares so as to provide a happy breeding ground to all the germs which are the enemies of infantile health, and reflect that in any well-conducted American city this sort of criminal carelessness would land the milk dealer in jail. Study the figures of the periodical scientific tests made of ordinary London milk, and especially that supplied to infant clinics and hospitals, and not that practically all the dozens of samples taken show contamination by manure or evidence that the cow was tuberculous, or both. Bear in mind also that innumerable cases of incipient tuberculosis, which as some of us are cause to know, may permanently ruin a child's health, are due to infected milk.

The remedy proposed is to give larger powers to the municipalities, allowing them to grade milk and insist on cleanliness and care. Mr. Wise thinks also that the milk trust must be nationalized. The question is one of immense national importance, for it is evident that the quantity and quality of the staple food of young children are essential elements in national strength. If the consumption of milk could be largely increased, there would be the further benefit of enlarging the market for British farmers.

WHAT HAVE WE DONE TO-DAY

We shall do so much in the years to come,
But what have we done to-day?
We shall give our gold in a princely sum,
But what did we give to-day?

We shall be the best and dry the tear,
We shall plant a hope in the place of fear,
We shall speak the words of love and cheer,
But what did we speak to-day?

We shall be so kind in the after while,
We shall be so generous then,
We shall listen to each lonely life's appeal,
But what have we brought to-day.

We shall give to truth a grander birth,
And to steadfast faith a deeper worth,
We shall feed the hungry souls of earth;
But what have we fed to-day.

We shall reap such joys in the by-and-by,
But what have we sown to-day?
We shall build us mansions in the sky,
But what have we built to-day

We assert in idle discourse to-day,
That we love our fellowmen,
But here and now do we do our task?
Yes, this is the thing our souls must ask.
"What have we done to-day.

PROGRAM DIRECTOR AT WBZ ACQUIRES LOUD SPEAKER

General excitement and slight disorder prevailed in the downtown office of the Automotive Sales and Radio division recently and it became known that Arthur A. Eisemann, program director of Westinghouse Station WBZ at Springfield, Mass., had stolen a march on his associates and married Miss Lois E. Godelman of Youngstown Ohio, in that city on the first day of March. The announcement came as a complete surprise and despite the short notice and the lack of time in which the members of the office force had to connive any fun-making stunts, Eisemann was given quite a ovation and an appropriate demonstration on the occasion of his enlisting in the ranks of the benedicts.

During the time that he was busy taking care of his new bride's trunks and baggage, the news broke in the office and preparations were started for a combination bride-and-bridegroom greeting. Eisemann came back to the office in too short order, but not before the staff had "framed" the fine-comb orchestra, draped his piano with the colors of the old school with such appropriate household articles as a toy clothes-hanger and a wash board. A later inventory of the gifts brought to him a milk bottle.

The Eisemann-Godelman romance had its beginning just two years and culminated one week after their announcement was made in Youngstown at the home of the bride at 663 State street, Springfield.

"The Least Exertion Tired Me," Writes Mr. Benoit

Lack of the proper constituents in the blood is the cause of anemia. This may result from disease or run down condition of the system. The symptoms are, pallor of the skin and mucous membrane, palpitation, weakness, languor, etc. Anemia, is sometimes the forerunner of consumption. Everything should be done to build up and tone up the system. Many have received Mr. Benoit of anemia. He says:
"I had been feeling weak and despondent, the least exertion tired me. I had no appetite. If I got a few hours sleep at night I was lucky, I wanted to rest all the time. My nerves were on edge. The slightest thing irritated me. In fact I was suffering from anemia. Finally I decided I needed help. Any friend, M. H. Page, the druggist, and ace if he could do something for me. He recommended me to take a Course of Carnol (six bottles). After I had taken the fourth bottle I was a different man. I could eat, sleep and do a heavy day's work without feeling tired. I also bought some bottles of Carnol, for my mother-in-law and she was greatly benefited."—Joseph Aristides Benoit, St. Ledger de Ristigouche, Que.

Citizens Given Gardening Tips

A goodly number of citizens gathered at the City Hall last evening and received valuable information relative to laying out and planting of home grounds. It was an illustrated lecture given by Prof. A. H. Tomlinson, who is connected with the horticultural department of the Ontario Agricultural College. The learned lecturer showed views as to laying out of grounds especially for floral decorations. These views were explained in a manner that was both interesting and instructive. Mr. A. R. Symons, President of the Horticultural Society presided.

200 CHILDREN ENJOY "Y" CIRCUS

Some two hundred pupils of the Ontario School for the Deaf, with from the Children Shelter and children from the Marchmont home were last night guests of the Y.M.C.A. circus and witnessed the clever rehearsal of the circus. All were marvellously pleased with the performance. A special feature was an Indian Club drill by 12 boys of the O.S.D. who to music executed a number of intricate movements in a most creditable manner. Carl VanAllen was in charge of the boys.

He was always kicking. One day his wife took him to a restaurant and he immediately crossed to a corner table for by-washing the silver. It was clean so he minded him, but he wanted knife, fork and spoon in his right hand at once.

"No germs for me," he announced loudly.

"A minute later he drank the water." June 2.

Deaths and Funerals

THOMSON LEBOW

Mr. Thomson Lebow, aged 69 years who for over half a century had resided at Muscoot, North Hastings, passed away last Sunday. Deceased was born at Clarendon in 1863. Mr. Lebow was in religion a Methodist and a local preacher of that denomination. For some years he was a school trustee and occupied other positions in the township. By trade he was a blacksmith. A family of seven children survive.

SYLVIA FARLEY

Mrs. Sylvia Farley, wife of Mr. Samuel R. Farley, passed away quite suddenly this morning at the family residence, 175 Moira street, West. Deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McMullen and was born in Sydney Township in 1857. For the past 42 years Mrs. Farley had been a resident of Belleville where she was well and favorably known. Deceased was a member of the Methodist Church. The husband survives, but no family. Mr. Charles McMullen, of this city is a brother of deceased.

ings produced records to show this city's birth rate has averaged 25.9 for the last ten years. For the four years prior to the war the average was 27.5. For 1922 and 1923 the rate was down to 24 and a decimal, although this is not taken to be significant.

"Quite wisely the English people are guarding against reaching the point of saturation, I think," said Dr. Hastings.

O'Hara Sun Is Bright Operetta

"Ohara Sun" presented by the Pro to Musical Club, in the City Hall next Tuesday evening the 8th, is a very brigit, tuneful operetta with a Japanese garden, abounding in flowers for its setting. O Kashi Kimura, a student of noble lineage, falls in love and would be seeks her hand in that of a Samurai, Kanaya. Finding his love returned he seeks her hand in marriage. Reluctantly her father consents on condition that the marriage takes place in a year's time. O Kashi departs for the United States to study. Meanwhile Prince Nashimoto Pushimi seeks O Hara Sun's hand and Kanaya agrees to his wish if O Kashi Kimura does not return within the year's time. But O Hara Sun has many tearful preparations to marry the old Prince, but love returns at the last moment and all ends happily.

The Ohara Sun Singing Quartette with Miss Olive Cooper at the piano play the part of Japanese maidens and Mr. S. M. Anglin is the conductor.

The Operetta is given in aid of the Hospital X-ray Fund.

AUTO THIEVES HAVE CUTE WAY

Steal Cars and Then Obtain Certificate of Honesty

Montreal, April 3—An important question now being talked up by the Montreal branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association is that of stolen automobiles from the United States whose ravishers make use of the Canadian customs for their own ends.

The system they work on is that of stealing a car in the United States and driving it into Canada without paying duty. The car is then seized by the customs authorities and sold at auction, generally at a low price; being bought up by a confederate of the thief. The customs receipt he then gets gives him a clean bill of health, as it were, with which he can even take the car back again into the States. The customs authorities therefore act unknowingly as participators in these frauds.

LACROSSE PLANS ARE PROMISING

Preliminary Business in Connection with Lacrosse Revival Almost Complete Now

Elmer La Barr of this city former well known lacrosse player has donated a silver cp, which will go to the local city league lacrosse team which wins the league this season. This fact became known at the meeting of the Belleville lacrosse club, which was held at the Chamber of Commerce last night. President Norman Glinta, presided, and Claude Tice was appointed secretary-treasurer.

Among the duties of the newly appointed secretary will be to write the sporting goods stores and secure prices for necessary equipment, also communicate with lacrosse officials in neighboring towns to ascertain what action they are taking this season with their Midget and Juvenile teams.

Three city league teams have entered from the east, west and northern sections of the city. Names have not yet been selected for the respective teams, as yet but officials of the teams will get busy selecting names for their teams but select their practice ground The High School playgrounds will be one ground it is announced, and it is expected that a practice will be held at the High School campus on Saturday if the weather is satisfactory.

Last year's players will be equally distributed among the three teams, and the remaining players will be chosen from recruits. Each team will have one experienced player as a coach Next year a strong junior team will be entered, if the league is a success this season.

At next Thursday's meeting, all juvenile equipment will be turned in and an inventory taken.

After the Lenten season a dance will be given by the Lacrosse Club, the proceeds of which will go towards the purchase of necessary equipment.

The names of the players on the winning team will soon be engraved on the LaBarr cup, as well as the year.

D. Young was selected as Belleville representative at the annual meeting of the O.A.L.A. which will be held in Toronto on Good Friday.

Plans are also being prepared to select a lacrosse team from Belleville and district to meet a good Toronto team here on June 17th, the second day of the monster U. E. L. Celebration here.

PROMINENT HORSEMAN PASSES

Toronto, April 4—The many friends of Joseph Doane, the well-known horse man will regret to learn of his sudden death yesterday at his late residence, 20 Isabella street. It was only on Wednesday that he was down to the Woodbine and left orders for his horse to be scrold to be dressed yesterday morning.

The late Mr. Doane was very popular with horsemen and racing patrons. He trained Ladder of Light when the horse won the King's Plate, while he met with good success with Plaudmore and other horses. He was the official timer at the Woodbine for a good many years.

Stallings Predicts Pennants This Year

Montgomery, Ala., April 4—George Stallings, in an optimistic mood, sees nothing to the International League pennant race except May, but Rochester Club, when interviewed here.

"Boys are odd and I guess to spare," was the burden of his remarks and the big fellow, who formerly was called the "miracle man," spoke as if he really meant it.

Stallings is placing great faith in his pitching staff, and is at present carrying 11 with him. He thinks that Wisner, Kamp and Mogridge, his veterans, will set the Orioles on their heads, and that his batting attack will be better than the Orioles can muster.

Says Veterans "Slipping"

The Rochester boss can't see where the Birds have much of a chance to make baseball history with their bats. He believes that the club will find that many of its veterans have lost their keen eye for the ball with advancing years, and that the younger players, notably Pitt, who came from Rochester by the waiver route, will fall off in the hitting.

Stallings admitted that the Dunnites looked pretty strong in the pitching box, but didn't feel at all sure that some of the flingers in whom Dunn placed confidence would be of much help to him.

"Pitching in the International is an entirely different matter than at college or in jerkwater loops," said Stallings, "and I think that many of the Dunn twirlers will find it out.

"It is doubtful if Parnham can come anywhere near his record of last year, and if he does well, back sox will have faltered."

"If it is another two-club fight this year, Rochester will win, for we look stronger than ever before, and the Birds look worse."

balance slip for $3,500 and Mr. Calvert said it had been prepared on the instructions of Mr. Mason. "The cash would be received from the teller and handed to him," he said. "How that is likely it would be done on the same day. "The actual money may have been paid on the same day." "Yes."

Col. Price also questioned the witness as to the entery on June 19 for $3,000 which he said did not appear in the debit and interest account. Other payments were September 21, $2,900; October 4, $2,000. "Apparently the voucher is missing," said the Provincial Treasurer.

"Said writing." "It is initialled by myself and paid on October 4. Did you make any appointments for Mason after he was taken ill on May first." "Not just at that time." "Any other times?" "He has come and asked to have the Provincial Treasurer come to see him." "At his house?" "Yes."

TWO BOTTLES OF BEER FOR SOBER

Moscow (United Press).—"Two bottles of beer apiece for the sober and no beer at all for the others," is the latest Soviet regulation for Moscow's bars.

The authorities became alarmed over the increasing number of people seen on the streets under the influence of intoxicants. This is small compared with the number to be seen in the 60s cities of Europe or even in New York City, but it has been large for Moscow, where a year ago the sight of a drunken person was an exception.

Other stringent regulations adopted are all boys under 18 years; provides that hot food must be served at a meal as cold; that bars must close at 10 P.M., and that bars must be used for reading purposes "all governmental, professional, party and illustrated papers" for the "edification of customers."

N. B. MINISTER ADVOCATES GOV'NMENT LIQUOR CONTROL

Fredericton, N. B., April 3.—Hon. Fred Magee, President of the Executive Council, speaking in the debate on the budget in the Legislature here last night, came out in favor of a system of government control of the sale of liquor similar to that which obtains in the Province of British Columbia. He advocated a provincial plebiscite to obtain the verdict of the electorate upon his proposition to exchange the present system of licensed vendors, who under the law are allowed to sell liquor for sacramental, medicinal and industrial purposes only, for a system under which liquor could be obtained for beverage purposes, with a permit from government vendors.

Tot—Well, you seem to be perfectly happy.

Headlight Bill was a colored gentleman of sporting proclivities, who, had got his name from a large diamond which he wore as a stud. He had occasion to consult a doctor about a "misery" in his chest.

The medical man eyed the stud with uneasy.

After asking a number of questions, the doctor produced a stethoscope and placed it regularly over the stud. Finishing his examination the doctor looked solemn. So did the patient.

"Ain't it genuwine, doctah?" asked Headlight.

Curious Facts Concerning the Book of Books

The Bible has 1189 chapters; 929 belong to the Old Testament and 260 to the New. The 117th Psalm is the middle chapter of the Bible, its number being 595. Exactly 594 chapters precede it, and 594 follow it.

The middle chapter of the Bible is also the shortest; containing only 33 words, composed of 133 letters. The longest is the 119th Psalm, containing 176 verses, 2,445 words, and 10,- 140 letters.

The text of the Bible is divided into 31,101 verses; 23,144 for the Old, and 7,967 for the New Testament. The shortest verse in the Bible is John XI: 35, containing only two words with nine letters. One verse in the Bible contains all the letters of the alphabet except J—Ezra 7: 21.

The famous inscription on the Liberty Bell, in Independence Hall Philadelphia, is taken from Leviticus 25:10. It reads, "Proclaims liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

SIX BASEBALL MANAGERS BAN GOLF

New York, April 4. (United Press)—Miller Huggins, John McGraw, Ty Cobb, Frank Chance, Branch Rickey, and Charles Griffith have decreed that their ball players must not indulge in golf during the baseball season.

The two champion clubs, Detroit, and the Cards and Washington are quite an array to be lined up against Col. Bogey, but McGraw says it is only a matter of time when the managers of all the major league clubs will ask the players to do their golfing before and after the baseball season starts.

McGraw contends that golf gets too much of a hold on its addicts and that baseball players, who become infected frequently think more of improving their driving or their short game than they do of boosting their batting average.

The Giant manager also expresses the rather original thought that golf does not hurt a baseball player when he is a good golfer but that it has a bad effect upon a duffer who has to take more exercise and spend more time going around the course.

There are some cracks golfers among the major league players, Arnold Statz of the Cubs and Pep Young of the Giants are among the best, and Babe Ruth is no slouch. But if McGraw's idea holds only the good players should be allowed to indulge in the game, were carried out. It would mean practically a blanket ban on the game.

Miller Huggins has been against golf playing for a long time, it was unnecessary remarked last season. Miller took a couple of hundred to go around, and the first week of the game he soured on it. Huggins, however, claimed last year that some of his pitchers were working out so much in the morning with their mashies and putters that they had nothing left when they were called upon to swing on the mound.

During the mid-season last year Huggins had to call on Carl Mays for relief work, after Mays had played thirty-six holes of golf, and Carl did not feel like pitching. He got in bad easy in the box and Huggins made him stick it out and take a terrible beating.

The managers contend that golf playing injured a ball player's eyes, and others have differed and expressed the opinion that it helped to instill the knack that good batters have.

Some players have argued that golf helps them in another direction, that is, it better for them to be out in the air going around than to be hanging around a hot, stuffy hotel. They claim also that golf is a good nerve sedative and that it helps to relieve the strain of a hard pennant race. This all depends greatly on how a ball player's game is played.

Being such a prominent personage, it is natural that Jack Dempsey should be the last to get much consideration. Much of the talk is idle and much of it is grossly exaggerated. When he went to the hospital recently for a minor operation, it was reported that he was dying, and that if he did recover he never would be able to fight again.

It is probable, instead of having his efficiency reduced by the operation, Dempsey will be much better as a result of it. The complaint which necessitated the operation has bothered Dempsey for more than a year. Those who has enjoyed perfect health all his life, Dempsey thought little of it and refused to take treatment. The slight have given him relief. Finally he was forced to the extremity of an operation.

The champion had trouble getting into condition when he was training for the Gibbons fight last summer, and the cause of it was not known. Conjecture caused all kinds of wild stories. It was generally that he had become a drug addict, and that loose living had undermined his health.

As is well known, that was not true. Dempsey was in perfect condition when he met Gibbons but he was as stated before he was not in perfect condition at Shelby was also partly the result of idleness that had passed before he was signed for the contest

The Strollers and the Shamrocks were the two ladies team that played at the Recreation alleys last night, the Shamrocks finishing out 159 pins to the good. Throughout the season every bath, they are very equal for two new teams, both of which will be heard from later.

In the senior league the Wanderers won from the K. of C. both teams as usual going over the 3000 mark, Johnny Yeerz was the father of them all with a total of 738 followed by Dr. O'Callaghan with 723. In the second senior game the Greyhounds or rather the old Ball team had an easy win over the Recreations, Peesy Mills and Harry Evans leading for their respective teams. Players and scores.

All-Canada Soccer Team To Tour The Antipodes

Montreal, Que., April 4.—Arrangements have been completed for the Australian trip of the All-Canada soccer team. The games will take place during the three months of May, June and July. There is only one change from the original team selected. R. MacDonald of Hamilton Ont., being unable to make the trip owing to business reasons. The team will leave Montreal via the Canadian Pacific Railway for Vancouver, B.C., and pick up the rest of the team enroute Toronto westward, arriving at the coast on April 8th where an exhibition will be staged and on April 9th a game will be played at Victoria B.C. the team embarking on the same day on the Canadian Australian liner "Niagara" for Sydney, reaching the New South Wales city on May 3rd.

James Adams, D. H. A., Council member of British Columbia will accompany the team as manager of the tour of the Antipodes. On July the 31st, the team will sail for Vancouver reaching there on August 22nd.

R.C.Y.C. SPONSORS INTER-CLUB RACES

Open Regattas Followed by Special "Yarn Swapping" Believed Profitable Venture

Toronto, April 4.—The plan that was suggested some time ago for the exchange of inter-club races for yachts of all classes amongst local sailing organizations has become a definite one and the program of two clubs, include such a race on their season's program, and arrangements are agreed to by two more, and only dates have to be decided upon before they can be announced. The Royal Canadian Yacht Club, from whom the idea originated, hold the first of these open regattas on May 31st, followed by the Queen City Yacht Club on July 12th. The National Club on July 19th. The National Yacht Club and the Toronto Island Club are also arranging for special races, to be held later in the Summer.

The clubs holding these regattas will be thrown open to the visiting yachtsmen at any days, and much stimulus is hoped for by the executive of the event and a program of yarns by the experience of the day's events. It is only fair to the yacht owners to turn out and enter for these races to make the interclub racing successful and a permanent fixture for the future.

The annual meeting of the Lake Yacht Racing Association, in amending the rules governing the class for the introduction of two schooner classes, decided that any schooner on Lake Ontario there are or will be this Summer this schooners eligible for racing, and all of the class in any probably schooners, are most reasonably to be expected to meet in August at the rendezvous of the L.Y.R.A. at Sodus Bay.

Mr. Beverly Bowes, the very capable secretary of the association, has plans under way, that if they mature and meet with the approval of the council, will prove a great incentive in getting the boats together these special races may be included in the program for schooners only. If that plan be not feasible a combination race for the first division and schooners that should bring out a fine list of entries and make splendid racing on a fair basis of time allowance. The following is a list of the schooners are likely participating rather than available for racing and which form the nucleus for what in a very few years will bring some fine new boats into the racing game and make it great class:

Mariner, R.C.Y.C., 38 ft.

New Gooderham boat, R.C.Y.C. 37 ft.

Alicia, Crescent Y.C., 29 ft.

Seneca, R.H.Y.C., 26 ft.

Thierry, Rochester Y.C., 26 ft.

Sunbeam, Q.C.Y.C., 26 ft.

Hiawatha, Lake Yacht Club, of the R.C.Y.C. has a yacht under way at the yard of Burtis, of Halifax. This if true, would make the seventh vessel and a most welcome addition to the home fleet.

D. A. J. SWANSON URGES DEPT. TO EXAMINE TOPPING

Oshawa, April 4.—A telegram has been forwarded to the Minister of Justice at Ottawa by A. J. Swanson, urging that the department take immediate steps to have independent medical experts examine the evidence on the case of Clarence Topping, who is accused to hang in London on April 10.

Mr. Swanson said that if funds were available for the required court decision that the case would be taken to the Supreme Court. Chief Justice Latchford threw out the appeal and confirmed the conviction at the court of appeal in Toronto last week.

Dance Aftermath Is "Not So Good"

The aftermath of a successful dance which was recently held in Picton accordingly was recently held in Picton accordingly was not so successful, from the details which were disclosed there before Magistrate Ellis Wallbridge, yesterday. The man who was in charge of the affair pleaded guilty to a charge of having failed to publicize dance, and was fined $200 and costs, which he paid. Inspector Fraser, Quebec and Provincial Constable N. Major of this city investigated the case, and laid the information.

It appears that liquor was served free by during the dance, and the results were evident.

MRS. MARY GRAY

CANADIAN MOTHERS, YOU SHOULD BE HEALTHY AND HAPPY!

Vancouver, B.C.—"Motherhood left me a physical and nervous wreck. I was so weak I could scarcely go around and was nervous to alarm. Head headaches and backaches all the time, and distressing pains in my right side. I was in bed for a week. A doctor I had been to no good. A friend persuaded me to taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and before I had taken half of one bottle I was much improved, and in time I was completely restored to health. Have had two fine, healthy children since. Had it not been for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I don't know what I would have done." Mrs. Mary Gray, 172 Hosmer Street.

What Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for other mothers, it may do for you. Get it this very day from your neighborhood druggist, in either liquid or tablet form, and write Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free, confidential medical advice. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory, Bridgeburg, Ont., if you want a trial package of tablets.

Necessity the Mother of Invention

Indicative of the presence of the minister form or forms which originally called into existence that particular Invention.

A well recall the impressions experienced the first time I saw our Indian guide of the French River, driven from his paddle. We had gone up the Mundoch and portaged to Crooked Lake. (A lake that only last year was opened up by the Canadian Pacific Hungalow Camp—above). Nosooner had we got into the canoe and gone a few lengths than the guide erased stroking and caressed the paddle blade so that the clean, cool water dripped as from a clear fountain into his thirsty mouth and throat. No wonder had changed, the canoe still ranged ahead from the last stroke, the guide did not change his posture, there was no sound, the eye still commanded the scene. The action was swift and silent that without bidding my own eye ranged off to the woodside bank, searching for the imaginary foe whose moccasined feet and wary intuition may have created the invasion by the summer campers of this hitherto undeveloped haunt of trout.

Thus swiftly did this simple act recall the time when it was first practiced. That time is the history of Canada when the Red man's foes were so numerous, when the urge of hunting so keen that even when he took a drink of water he first looked and lose that vigilance which kept him always on guard.

In itself a mere straw, it holds a psychological subtlety that in detail shows us to what necessity and to what finesse or inventiveness those who live right down to the elemental were driven by the constantive elemental forces with which they warred for existence.

We admire these things in ancient and distant peoples, but we are given to overlook them and set little value by them when they occur at our very doors as they do now.

Canada is particularly rich in "inventions" of this nature. They are not here things of the Past but of the living Present. I saw the Indian drink from the paddle only last summer. You may see him also.

Adaptation or resourcefulness in so simple a thing among these primitives, progressive after a fashion. The next time our guide took a drink of the cool lake water, he broke the dregs of a bottle of Scott Emulsion and a clump that grew by the bank and made a drinking-cup of it. Not limited to one cup you see. And in the transition from one we can feel there was a transition in poetic fancy. It was the drink of relaxation, a sip of nectar from the flower's heart. And to those of the Far East we should have said: "See the artistic development of this race, last heirs of the West and of the Wilds, it was wholly unlooked for and evoked more of surprise than anything else. It rolled out on elemental feelings of lurking danger or watchful foes, but the pleasing repugnance that Art is Universal and that some of these primitive inventions follow the sweeter paths of fancy, rather than the ever-present Danger spelled of the "car-Liner" cup.

Sulphur Is Best To Clear Up Ugly Broken Out Skin

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur says a well known druggist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, helps the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment of ringworm. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

Bothered with headaches

A lot of people are. Some have headaches from one cause, some from another. A very common cause is eye strain. Probably it causes more headaches than any other one thing. Here is good news—where headache is caused by eye strain all that needs to be done is to get rid of the eye strain. Glasses do that in thousands of cases. I supply them; or advise you that your headache is not ocular.

YOU CANNOT JUDGE BY APPEARANCE

It is impossible to tell the quality of tea by the appearance of the leaf. A rough, coarse, unevenly rolled tea may taste much better in the cup than a closely rolled, well tipped tea that LOOKS much finer. The only way to be sure of getting tea of reliable quality is to buy a tea like "SALADA," whose goodness and purity are guaranteed.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

"Why, aren't they out walking together, and they've just come from the woods, too! If they, ain't keeping company they ought to be. Some people think she's rather good-looking," she added, by way of explanation, "and none; 'felt I don't admire red hair myself."

"No more do I," said Giles; Marie's hair was dark.

Kate's tongue ran the rest of the way, entered the cottage, and sank into a chair. The colour was still going and coming in her face, and there was a strange look in her large eyes. Mr. Clonlon had evidently not minded in the least being seen alone with her at that time of night, had thought nothing of it; but Kate knew what would be thought and said by those who had seen them, and her heart beat with mingled indignation and pleasure. Ever since the day she had first seen Mr. Gordon, a change had been coming over the even tenor of her life. Like Esther, the mistress of Mordecai Kate Transom, the labourer's daughter, had begun to think of him, and, as Esther had so willed it that almost every time she met the king she found favour in him so had the path of protector and friend. He had spared her father, yielding to her entreaties; but had refused her when she had laid down the bank in the spinney; to-night she had walked with her because she was alone and unprotected, and had treated her with a gentleness and courtesy as novel as it was delightful. She was not a labourer's daughter, but from the very first they had recognized a difference between him and the other men on the estate, and Kate had sometimes felt troubled her and make her unhappy, but she had not thought of this. And yet he was as high above her; he looked and spoke like one of the gentry, and even the proud Miss Vaughan was not too proud to walk and talk with him.

With her head resting on her hand she drew pictures in the fire, and observed he had spoken to her; and they all succeeded in one form or other, monsieur words of kindness and courtesy, such as a gentleman would speak to a poor and humble girl like herself. He had never even looked at her inquisitively, as most of the young men did. Supposed he had heard of her and had spoken to her as the gentleman in the wood had done that night, would she have been angry, indignant? Would she have run away from him?

As she asked herself the question the rawson welled up in her heart, and she drew a crimson face with her arm; for she knew that she would not have been able to do that she would have sunk into his arms, would have been helpless in the power her love, and only too glad to avow it.

The door opened and her father lurched in. He was not drunk, but he was not drunk, and he took a bottle of whisky from his pocket and placed it on the table. A man in his position only purchased whisky for some consumption when he is flush of money, and Kate knew that he had done no work for some time, and knew not where the money came from. Though he was a poacher, a poaching, he was sharing in the spoil got by others, and Kate knew it. Every nerve in her father money because she was his daughter.

"Hallo, Kate, my girl, where have you been?" he asked. "Give me a drop of that, I'll take it hot."

Kate got the water in silence, for she knew it was useless to remonstrate.

"Won't you have some supper, father?" she asked, perceiving she must put some bread and cheese upon the table.

He looked at it and shook his head in differently.

"Don't fancy bread and cheese," he said. "It's your kind of tackle for a man as has been accustomed to all England's played out country, and a England's played out country, and a man's as likely to starve as not here.

"Why did you come back then, father?" she asked.

"Why? Why do you stay there and send for me? I might have been a help to you."

Transom shot a half suspicious glance at her, but Kate's face was utterly unconscious.

"I came back because—because I got tired of it," he said. "And you wouldn't have helped me in the least, I'll be bound. Where's the all the same, I wish I was back myself. He eased himself another glass and sat smoking moodily.

"Why don't you get some work here, father?" Kate asked. "I know that—that Mr. Gordon wants some hands, and if you were to speak to him he might employ you." She had turned away to the dresser as she spoke, and her face flushed as she pronounced Jack's name.

Transom took the short black pipe from his mouth and looked at her sideways and sharply.

"Oh, would he?" he said. "You perhaps he would give me a job; but a pretty hand at it would be; boeing or shrbing; twelve hours a day for two shillings at the end of it. No, no thank you. What do you take me for, that?" He chuckled and shook his head with an air of tipsy cunning. "Reckon I know a thing or two as I can make a few bob without breaking my back. Biding my time, that's what I am."

"Father, Mr. Gordon!" she whispered; for a certain significance in his tone and manner aroused her attention.

Transom laughed to himself.

"Never you mind, Kate, my gal," he said, with a hiccough, "I know what I know; but I can keep my mouth shut, and I mean to keep it shut till the proper time for opening it; then I'll open it wide enough for certain."

"Do you mean that you know something about—Mr. Gordon?" she asked, growing pale.

Telltale Symptoms of Woman's Ills

Every woman who suffers from backache, headache, dragging-down pains, nervousness, irregularities, discouragement, irritability, or despondency should recognize in these symptoms some derangement of her system which should have attention for in some more serious ailment develops. These conditions are often evidenced by a sallow complexion, dark circles around the eyes, lassitude and sleeplessness. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been unsurpassed as a remedy in overcoming such conditions and it is now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Comb Sage Tea Into Gray Hair

DARKENS BEAUTIFULLY AND RESTORES ITS NATURAL COLOR AND LUSTRE AT ONCE

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will make your gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, and ask for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is nothing a lot of mess.

When gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening our hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hair has disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant, and you appear years younger.

MUNICIPALITIES TO MEET AT WINDSOR

Alberta Coal Bonus Wins Favor; Secretary to Write Approval

Ottawa, April 3.—The annual meeting of the Union of Canadian Municipalities will be held on August 7 and following days at the city of Windsor, Ont.

Applications for the convention were also received at a meeting of the executive here yesterday from Victoria, Fredericton and Edmonton. The latter was substantially in favor of the Border Cities.

The suggestion of the city of London and other Western municipalities to explore in favor of an Ontario provincial house of 81 per ton on Alberta coal brought to Ontario to assist in developing the coal industry of Canada, was regarded as in the national interest and the secretary was instructed to send a communication endorsing the request.

BRIDGE STREETS TO HANDLE TRAFFIC IS LONDON PLAN

London, (United Press).—Plans to handle London traffic in a new way are being agitated. This includes bridges at busy street crossings so that two continuous streams of traffic may progress constantly, instead of each being held up half the time.

Sir Alfred Yarrow, a well known engineer and shipbuilder, has put forward the scheme for road bridges, which is understood to have reached an advanced stage of consideration by the L.C.C. and other authorities.

The proposal briefly is to construct high-level roads at points where streams of traffic cross. Sir Alfred has offered to erect at his own expense an elevated roadway at a selected point on the condition that the scheme remains in operation for two years, as that its efficiency may be thoroughly tested.

If the plan is regarded as unsuccessful, Sir Alfred will pay for removing the bridge and restoring the road to its original condition.

BOOTLEGGERESS BOTHERS BUTLER

Philadelphia, April 4.—Under the cross-fire reading of Assistant District Attorney D. Butler, Philadelphia's fighting Director of Public Safety, the trade of the bootlegger is becoming more difficult.

However, there is developing a new menace in the form of the thousands of illicit liquor hunters who have increased vigilance, and the prohibitionists. She comes in the form of the bootlegger's wife, who is taking young female wives to the police in the open. She does a cash-on-delivery business and it takes her only the twinkling of an eye to produce the goods.

She is a walking bar, and her clothes are especially made for the trade. Her dresses are in many folds and each fold is equipped with a pocket in which may be hidden a pint bottle. Behind her collar are hidden pint bottle in especially tailored pockets.

"I am the envy of all my lady friends," she is said to have boasted. "When I start out in the morning I look like a stout dowager. When I am through work for the day my clothes hang loose about me and I have lost 15 pounds. I do this every day."

REMOVAL SALE

Dr. Wilson, Dentist, wishes to announce that he has moved into his new office at 21 Bridge Street E. Entrance next door to Standard Bank Chambers.

In Glasgow they tell of a resourceful clergyman who is never at a loss for a report. He was once called to the bedside of a very wealthy but stingy parishioner, he gasped to the clergyman, "if I leave several thousand pounds to the church will my salvation be assured?" Whereupon, the divine responded: "Certainly, but it is too positive, but it's well worth trying."

According to Deputy Coroner Piat, of Philadelphia, garbage is frequently used in the making of bootleg liquor. He says:—"The majority of illicit distillers are aliens of the lowest kind. They have been repeatedly caught, using from garbage can to garbage can along the residential streets gathering the pieces of meat, potato peelings and other refuse, which they use in making their vile concoctions. To one still confiscated by the police, recently, a dead cat was found."

United States Heads List of Traders With Canada

Canadian trade figures for the calendar year 1923 show the United States to have definitely replaced the United Kingdom as the leading dealer with the Dominion. Out of a total business with all countries of $1,918,264,779 that of the United States represented $1,032,416,594, or fifty three per cent of the whole; while the Great Britain's share amounted to only $515,921,823, or scarcely more than 21 per cent. The two chief customers of Canada between them absorb 75 per cent. of the exports. But while Canada's imports from the Republic are in excess of her exports to that country, the reverse is the case as regards the United Kingdom. The adverse trade balance in the first case last year was $168,000,000 and the favorable balance in the second case $305,000,000.

Products Dealt in

Canada's chief imports from the United States are iron and iron products ($153,554,567) and non-metallic minerals ($142,382,261) while her heaviest exports to that country are in wood and paper amounting to $236,146,479. Canada's principal imports from the United Kingdom were metals, $22,000,000; cottons, $13,000,000; alcoholic beverages, $17,000,000; dyed fabrics, $34,000,000; and tea, $11,000,000. Her principal items of export to the United Kingdom were grains, $225,000,000; flour, $25,000,000; cheese, $23,000,000; meats, $20,000,000 and bacon $19,000,000.

A glance through the list will reveal the comforting fact that a continually increasing proportion of this country's exports are in finished products.

GRIFFIN'S MONDAY APRIL 7

Paris Daily Mail, Feb. 1923—Mr. Mark Hambourg had a great reception last night when he gave his second Chopin recital to a very large audience in the Champs Elysees Theatre Paris. Mr. Hambourg's rendering of the Andante Spianato and Polonaise was a bewildering display of the highest order. Even more amazing was the performance of the celebrated and intensely difficult Polonaise-Fantaisie and the pianist's Parisian audience listened spellbound and stirred until the set note had died away Mr. Hambourg had a wonderous ovation at the end.

NORMA HAS THRILLING ROLE IN NEW PLAY

"The Voice from the Minaret," a First National picture starring Norma Talmadge, which is scheduled to open a two day engagement at the Griffin Theatre on Tuesday is proclaimed to be the most thrilling vehicle in which this star has ever appeared. Robert Ricneau, who has gained international fame as a writer of stories of the Orient, is the author of the book on which this production is based. Frank Lloyd directed it.

Swiftly moving, the plot traverses vast expanse, from London Bombay and Damascus the locales. Miss Talmadge is cast in the part of Lady Adrienne who suffers ignominy at the hands of her husband, flees from him, finds love in the desert, becomes the victim of a treacherous plot and is the centre of other misadventures of a highly thrilling nature.

Eugene O'Brien plays opposite Miss Talmadge and gives an excellent portrayal of the role of the lover.

MANY FILM STARS PLAY IN "DESIRE"

Marguerite De La Motte, John Bowers, Estelle Taylor, David Butler, Lucille Hutton, Edward Connelly, Ralph Lewis, Vera Lewis, Russell Simpson and Chester Conklin head the cast of "Desire", which is coming to the Regent Theatre next Monday. Several hundred people appear throughout the picture and there are several sets of unusual size and beauty.

"Desire" is heralded as one of the best of the recent society dramas to have appeared on the screen. It is from an original story by John B. Clymer and Henry R. Symonds and was made under the direction of Rowland V. Lee, one of the brilliant group of young men who are classed among the leading directors. In addition "Desire" boasts an all-star cast in every sense of the word. Every one of the players mentioned above has appeared in leading roles in the films.

"Desire" is a brilliant expose of the inner secrets of high society, immense wealth, the marvelously beautiful and luxurious homes, the ways and pastimes which are the daily existence of this set—these things are all vividly portrayed.

"Desire" is a Louis Burston production through Metro. George Barnes was the cameraman and J. J. Hughes was art director.

"BRINGING UP FATHER" COMING TO GRIFFIN'S

Travelling around various parts of the world with such celebrities as Jiggs Mahoney, Maggie, his fémme fatale and the charming Kitty Mahoney is a treat that very few people slowly rare to miss, At any rate, the opportunity will be provided at Griffin's theatre Thursday night, April 10th, where the latest musical comedy success, "Bringing Up Father on Broadway" will be conspicuously on view. Probably no cartoons have reached the popularity and fame as the George McManus comics and in the latest adventures of the beloved characters whose doings and activities seem to be part of our national life, many novel twists and surprises will be in evidence. The new play which is by John P. Mulgrew, is well-known with its merry pieces, is in two acts and five scenes, running the gamut of action from a roof garden on Broadway to the burning mountains of Sunny Italy three more Maggie aspires for social climbing. How she fares her rebuffs and the amusing complications that ensue forms one of the merriest plots of a merry entertainment.

PRINCE OTTO TO JOIN NATIONALS

Will Lead German Youth in Monarchists' Cause

Berlin, April 3.—Prince Otto von Bismarck, grandson of the Iron Chancellor will sit among the German nationalist deputies in the new Reichstag. The prince, who is 27, has been living in retirement on the family estate at Friedrichsruhe, near Hamburg. He made his political debut at the German nationalist convention yesterday in Hamburg where reactionary spokesmen termed him as the "leader" who is to lead the patriotic German youth into the monarchists' camp in the coming election.

20 HURT IN CRASH

New York, April 2.—Thirty persons were injured, three seriously, when a trolley car smashed into a Government mail truck at Thirty-fourth St. and Third Avenue, Brooklyn today.

Most of the injured were passengers in the Hamilton Avenue trolley car which struck the mail truck. They were cut by flying glass, bruised and shaken up. The truck was wrecked.

Panic was avoided among passengers by several men in the street car, who took charge of the situation and calmed hysterical women.

"There is one thing, Bridget," the new mistress said, "that I insist upon. If you break any dishes, come and tell me at once."

"Sure, ma'am," protested Bridget earnestly, "I can't be runnin' to ye every minute of the day."

DARING ROBBERY WORK OF BANDIT GANG

SNIFF PORK IN DIGGING INTO BILL

Upper Chamber Opens New Phase; Gives Estimates Eye

SNIFF "PORK BARREL"

Lougheed Declares Totals Should Be Cut Down by 40 or 50 Millions

Ottawa, April 5.—The Senate yesterday entered a unusual debate, namely: Taking the interim supply bill as a basis, the Upper House, afternoon and evening, discussed estimates at length.

Sir James Lougheed, Conservative leader, admitted that it was a departure from the practice of previous years for the Senate to discuss estimates, but there was little opportunity for such a course at the end of session; and it was the duty of the Senate carefully to scrutinize expenditures. The Government had emphasized the fact that the budget would balance. The public expected a radical reduction in expenditure.

Smells "Pork Barrel"

Sir James argued that the Government had retained all the "pork barrel" estimates. Large sums were being recklessly spent on harbor appropriations.

The estimates should be cut forty of fifty million dollars, and taxation reduced to a parity with that of the United States. The budget must be fairly balanced by a change in bookkeeping and if fifty millions were advanced the Canadian National was included there would a deficit of thirty-five millions dollars.

Senator Dandurand, Government leader, claimed that the previous Government had not done any pruning, but had left it for the present Government. If after two years of office the budget was balanced and expenditure reduced, he thought the Government was doing very well.

No Politics of Bribery

"There are no 'pork barrel' politics in the Government," added Senator Dandurand, "but public works have to be maintained or else there will be serious loss."

Senator Bennett said automobile cost for Cabinet Ministers were disgraceful. In the Prime Minister's office were six chairs which cost $524, a clock $120, and an electric tea bell $18.

They were discussing girls from the civil service and criticizing them for doing knitting in offices," declared Senator Bennett, "but when these girls pass the Prime Minister's office and sniff the odors of cooking, in which they cannot participate, they go back to their knitting."

WOMAN DROWNS SELF IN LAKE

Port Hope, April 5.—One of the saddest tragedies that has ever occurred in Newcastle took place here Tuesday night last when Miss Maggie Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Graham second concession Clarke, who had been ailing for some time, becoming despondent, ended her life by throwing herself into the water of the wharf at Port Darlington. She had left home about 9 o'clock after apparently rising in her sick mother up in bed, then took off her shoes and stockings and walked across the rough fields a distance of at least three miles to the lake, while her friends missing her from the home searched along the roads. Wednesday evening some of her clothing was found and on the following morning her body. Deceased was a middle-aged. The family have the deep sympathy of the community. Dr. Tucker, Coroner, of Orono, was called, but deemed an inquest unnecessary.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson C. C. Shaw and family desire to thank their many friends and neighbors for the thoughtfulness and kind assistance rendered during their recent sad bereavement, also for floral tributes.

KELLY VICTIM OF BLACKMAIL PLOT, HE SAYS

Contractor Secretary Denies Charges of Missouri Graft

READY WITH DETAILS

Former Winnipeg Scandal Recalled in Kansas City Sensation

Kansas City, Mo., April 5.—Denying charges of graft made here last night in a political meeting, Lawrence Kelly, secretary of Thomas Kelly & Sons, contractors, intimated here to-day that his firm was the victim of a blackmail plot.

Kelly declared he was ready and willing to furnish all details in connection with a check for $5,000 paid to Thomas J. Pendergast, head of the "goat" faction of the Democratic party. Pendergast declared the check was a campaign contribution in the year of 1922.

Shows Cancelled Check

The contracting firm, then known as the Kelly-Dennis Company, built the Turkey Creek sewer for the city, Kelly and Ben Harris, wife of a former civil engineer of the company, exhibited the cancelled check with her charges of graft.

She charged that Thomas Kelly was convicted of graft in connection with the construction of the Parliament Buildings in Winnipeg and was sentenced to the penitentiary.

Lawrence Kelly, his son, said today the Kelly-Dennis Company, while in Winnipeg has been used as a "goat" for graft, but was cleared two parties, and unwittingly had violated an old law that had not been enforced for a decade in both boards of Canada.

Lawrence Kelly is said to be in California at present.

TRY TO WIN A CASH PRIZE

A week from Monday all essays to be entered in The Intelligencer C. E. C. Essay Contest must be in the hands of Anne Hastings, Editor of the Family Page.

If you have not yet started, boys and girls, it is high time to get busy if you hope to win the five dollar cash prize. There are two other cash prizes, making in all five to be given for the best four hundred word essays on the coming of the Loyalists to Canada.

This contest is open for the pupils of primary schools. The few simple rules were printed in last Saturday's paper.

Caught While Selling Gun

Police Sergeant A. Hannan and P.C. William Hamilton, on duty on the docks on tourists at 10.15 this morning saw a man hastily thrust in a French street second hand store attempting to sell a Harrington and Richardson revolver. They were taken into custody.

The driver of the car, Leno A. Fox of Morrisville, Vermont, was not locked up as the gun was not his. The other two men, George McGee, reed worker, residing at 44 Hallowell street, and Stevens A. Cook, also of Baltimore, Queen Kelley up. Cook had the revolver and McGee had ten rounds of ammunition for the gun. The latter was seen rode in a Ford roadster bearing an American license plate. The driver was empty. Cook carries a letter of recommendation from a Baltimore firm with which he was associated and the gun presented a card bearing his name and the motor license.

The trio were remanded for one week.

Find Bottle — He Pays $309

When police found a local man asleep in chair in the Police Office one morning, they also found a bottle in which there was some three inches of rum.

Today it cost that citizen $300 and the costs, several had $300 with him but when given permission to get the other money he left the police room and returned in five minutes with the revolver.

The bottle of gin was the last one of a consignment which accused received at his home before it became illegal to ship liquor from Quebec to Ontario. It was a jug. The gin was worth $103 an inch.

Accused told of feeling ill that day, and taking a drink, poured some of the contents of the jug bottle which he found out, in case he might need another drink. He'd been sure the effects would not have been so drastic upon his quitting.

Royal Canadians Brought Closer In Time of Peace

Survivors of Splendid Regiment To Keep in Communication With Comrades—The Old "Connecting File" Revived in Memory of Veterans—Dreams of Glorious Days

Canada have served in the commissioned or enlisted ranks of The Royal Canadian Regiment, and their dependants, in peace, are at Wolseley Barracks London, Ont., with companies at Halifax, Montreal and Toronto.

But the individuals composing this strong—veterans of South Africa and the late war—army of 20,000, are scattered across the whole of Canada's northland empire.

When they came, as in Canada's other splendid regiments, survivors of four years' dreadful grim test, several thefr faces homeward. Until the Canadian port of disembarkation was reached, war-born comradeships still existed. As men who had grown dearer to each other than brothers, thought of the eventful hour of separation—when Corp. Bill Marr, for instance, would go out west to Calgary. Pte. Lewis Bill, would go back to his home in a bustling little Ontario town —it was with a certain lightness.

"Will Keep In Touch"

"We'll keep in touch," they said, some solemn words of death lurk in the fires of man-made hell.

And then, grown accustomed to crossing streets, to say nothing of daily contemplation of the future journey beyond the setting sun—the journey "West"—forgot that the space would be a different thing in peace than in war, and that a trip from Toronto to Vancouver would be measured by the working journey of a transcontinental limited, and not as was Colonel Bell in a scout plane. And so, five years and more after November 11, 1918, they've not "kept in touch."

In quieter, dreams of the glorious days they saw their old comrades again. Waking memory circulates them. In the old pals and chums, and now and then as pipe smoke breeds recollection one will say, "I wonder how old Jack Andrews is getting along." Then will follow a quarter inches by seven and a half inches, and the other, laid by a White Wyandotte, measures six and a quarter inches by seven and a half inches.

A noticeable thing is that both eggs are absolutely true in form, and perfect in texture. Usually large eggs are imperfect in some manner.

Church Drama Is Stellar Success

A three act drama, entitled "Hero" was presented at the Sunday School Room of the Tabernacle Church last evening before a large and appreciative audience. The cast under the direction of Miss Jessie B. Tutte and no amateur could have done better than the thirteen who portrayed the various characters in the play. In addition to the play some vocal selections were given by the quartette of Mr. F. Duff, Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Broom and Mr. Silas Bryce a solo by Dr. McBrien, two solos and one duet by Miss Pelmer also. All taking part acquitted themselves in a most creditable manner.

Host to the part of The Royal Canadians Regiment, coupled with the urgent request that all former R. C. R. men in their various membership organizations of South Africa, the European, or Great War, should unite at once to Col. Hill in London. In other words, the C. O. is holding office and every veteran is "for it."

LARGE HEN'S EGGS

Eggs Measure Six and One-Half Inches by Seven and One-Half Inches

Two of the largest hen's eggs seen here in some time are being exhibited by Mr. Jack Yerex, Sinclair street.

One egg, laid by a Rhode Island Red, measures six and a half inches by seven and a half inches, and the other, laid by a White Wyandotte, measures six and a quarter inches by seven and a half inches.

A noticeable thing is that both eggs are absolutely true in form, and perfect in texture. Usually large eggs are imperfect in some manner.

Maple Syrup Is Plentiful

Maple syrup was plentiful on the local market today, fairly reasonable in price, namely 50c a quart and $1.25 to $2 a gallon. All offered for sale were pronounced of pure grade and 30 cents a pound.

Fresh eggs, were offered for sale in abundance and as a consequence, prices were somewhat lower, being 30c to 35c per dozen. The former price was demanded and received by producers.

Butter butter and prints at 40c per pound and in a few cases a slightly higher price was asked.

Dressed poultry were also quite plentiful and commanded a fairly good price, namely $1.25 to $2.50 per pair, according to size and quality. A few ducks sold at $1.50 each.

The ruling price for potatoes was $1.50 per bag. Other vegetables were quite plentiful.

Fruit and farm products such as lettuce and radishes found ready purchasers at 10 cents per bunch. Rhubarb sold at 10 cents a bunch.

SEEK TO GET FREEDOM OF HARRY THAW

Inmate of Pennsylvania Asylum Since 1917—Years Of Waiting

CASE REVIVED

If Successful Will be Triumph of Mother Love Over Law

Philadelphia, April 5.—If Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, secures his liberty as the result of proceedings instituted in this city, more Thaw is confined, it will be a triumph of mother love. The hearing is set for April 10, here.

Thaw, since 1917, has been an inmate of the Pennsylvania hospital for mental and nervous diseases, known popularly as Kirkbride. It is a private institution and a branch of the Pennsylvania hospital of this city. It receives state aid and is authorized to take state patients by commitment, where private funds are available for care and maintenance. This commitment is not due to the Stanford White murder, but to the offense of Thaw's assistant Frederick Gump, janitor, of Kansas City, then a boy, in a New York hotel.

Thaw claimed, on the notifier, Mrs. Mary Thaw, a claim for him, through Thaw's attorney, Judge John M. Patterson, of Philadelphia, that Thaw's seven years' treatment in the Philadelphia asylum has restored him to sanity and that he can now be released without action by the courts.

When it was first announced by Judge Patterson that the release of Thaw would be sought, Mrs. Thaw was quoted as being opposed to having against a hearing of the case. Later, however, when the actual filing was made of the petition, Mrs. Thaw stated that she had opposed prosecution of her son's appeal for liberty, until the civic suit of Gump against her son had been disposed of. The Thaw family appear confident that the Gump case ended in a verdict in the financial danger of a prosecution in the New York courts, would be due to be in San Francisco and out of reach of the New York courts. The declines to come east, as he is expected to do, Mrs. Thaw, the petitioner, declare, stated that $35,000 had been paid in full settlement of the Gump civil claim.

May Seek Thaw

Howsfer, District Attorney J. H. Stanton, of New York, has declared that if Thaw is declared sane by a Philadelphia jury the New York people would proceed to press the indictment charging him with assault on Gump. The indictment was returned March 11,"1917, but Thaw's commitment to the Pennsylvania hospital prevented his trial.

"If Thaw is declared sane and is released, we will proceed as with any other indictment," he declared. "The defense charged is an extraditable one, and we will be one of the parties to settlement of the civil suit, my duty being to prosecute Thaw on the indictment."

However, if the Gump case has been settled to the financial satisfaction of the Gump family, it is believed there will be extremely useful to the commonwealth in the trial of Thaw on the week here in June.

Mr. Armstrong has been staging last such events for over thirty years and has come to give complete plans if the committee desire to use them. One of his recent successes was the celebration of the discovery of Lake Superior held at Sault Ste. Marie last summer.

42th Highlanders

Mr. C. Hanna announced last night that it is probable that Toronto's crack regiment the Highlanders will be here for Sunday and Monday 500 strong, accompanied by their famous band. It is also expected that the war dental collection of U. E. L. relics gathered by the Federal Government at Ottawa, will be here, as a feature for the celebration here and displayed at the armories along with local and Toronto relics.

From present indications the four days of the celebration will be packed with interest and entertainment, the difficulty being to avoid having events clash in the limited time.

QUESTION MIND OF WOMAN IN FRAUD CHARGES

Mrs. Eileen Beck, Wanted Here for Alleged Fraud Remanded in Toronto

COUNSEL'S ADVICE

Goes Wild With Pen and Paper in Hand, Says Legal Adviser

Toronto, April 5. — Answering three separate charges of fraud, Eileen Beck appeared in Women's Court yesterday, her counsel, Austin Ross, asking for an adjournment. He also was due to give evidence and be examined.

"We have a flock of witnesses we cannot bring again," said the Crown. "It is hard to understand, in fact the woman would be tried summarily, and that certain facts would be admitted, if counsel had been retained."

"She seems to be subnormal in this thing," said Mr. Ross. "With a pen and paper in her hand she goes wild."

TWELVE ARE BEING HELD IN MONTREAL

Additional Arrests Made During Last Twenty-Four Hours Bring Total to Twelve — Advices from Large Cities in the United States and Canada point to Organized Gang Laying Plans for General Raid

Montreal, April 5.—Additional arrests made during the last twenty-four hours have brought the total number of persons held in connection with the attack on Bank of Hochelaga's college here to twelve.

Organized Gang

Telegraphic advices from the United States and Toronto point to the fact that similar robberies were also planned in several of the larger cities and point to the work of an organized gang that has been operating for five years.

Masks found in the robbers' abandoned automobile, clots discovered yesterday morning as well as the police house, and declarations made by some of the suspects, are stated to be the cause of the detention of three of the men who were taken by the detectives today.

Ask For Body

A fourth man presented himself to Coroner Mallette and asked to be given possession of the body of Harry Stone, the bandit. He said he had been requested by a friend of the dead man to claim the body. On the Coroner's refusing to grant his request, he intimated that he would ask Albert Chevalier, of the Montreal Refuge for the body. Coroner McMahon telephoned the detective bureau, but whether a detective went to the refuge he found that the man had already disappeared there and had not come in person, his request had been refused likewise also.

The Salvation Army has offered to conduct the burial service today on the claim made by Harry Stone, in default of other arrangements.

BOY SLEW FRIEND IN MOCK DUEL

Were Playing Together With Loaded Guns

Summit, N.J.—In a mock revolver duel, 15-year-old Lloyd Beckwith, son of wealthy family, was accidentally shot and killed by Andrew G. Magruth, aged 16 years, in the attic of their playing in the Magruth home last night. The boys would be separated for the second floor while most of the family were at dinner, and found two revolvers on a shelf. Magruth handed one revolver to Lloyd Beckwith, who took it and then, striking a pose, called out "Draw, pardner." They apparently did not know the guns were loaded. The weapons fired, the boys said, and Danforth clutched his chest and exclaimed, "I'm shot" as he fell to the floor. Magruth ran downstairs and told his mother what had happened. Danforth was taken to the hospital and pronounced dead on arrival. Young Beckwith, after shooting in a signed statement, according to the police, declared that he did not make any arrest, believing the shooting accidental.

The dead boy was the son of the late Lloyd Beckwith, president of the American Bank Note company. His mother is in Paris. Beckwith is the son of a New York lawyer.

U.E.L. Committee Told of Pageants

Mr. L. G. Armstrong of the Publicity Department of the C.P.R. gave the U.E.L. Tercentenary Committee a wealth of information last night about historical pageants and how they are staged. Nothing definite was done at this meeting, but the data furnished will be extremely useful to the committee in formulating plans for the big week here in June.

Mr. Armstrong has been staging last such events for over thirty years and has come to give complete plans if the committee desire to use them. One of his recent successes was the celebration of the discovery of Lake Superior held at Sault Ste. Marie last summer.

ONTARIO ROAD TYPE ADOPTED IN UNITED STATES

So impressed have been American tourists and highway officials who, during the past two years, have motored over the Dundas highway, through Cookeville from Toronto to Hamilton, Ontario, with the excellence of this celebrated highway road that they have carried back to their homes stories of its quality and have prevailed upon their highway departments to adopt its type of construction. Numerous American highway engineers, too, have inspected this Canadian road for the purpose of studying the behavior of its pavement and with a view to adopting the type for use in their own localities.

The Dundas highway is paved with an asphaltic mixture laid upon the old highway as a foundation. In this way the Ontario officials salvaged the full value of the old road and effected economies that in view of the excellent results obtained from the new pavement have made a most favorable impression upon Americans. The lower course is of asphaltic concrete commonly known as the "black base" type of pavement. As used on Canadian highways and elsewhere it is a mixture of graded stone or local gravel, sand and asphalt laid to a thickness of from two to four inches largely over existing foundations and upon which is placed the usual wearing course of sheet asphalt or a wearing course of asphaltic concrete itself. In appearance there is little or nothing to distinguish the finished pavement from other asphalt roads but engineers who have had experience with this type of construction make excellent claims for its universal adoption during the next few years, because of its waterproof qualities and its durability, flexibility and resiliency as well as the construction economies involved, the almost total elimination of detours during construction and the low cost of maintenance while in service.

THE PLEBISCITE

It is now stated in legislative circles that when the plebiscite is taken, the people will be given an opportunity of saying whether or not they are in favor of government control of the sale of liquors, and also if they favor the local option plan. There may be other questions but these will be the outstanding features of the questionnaire.

The local option question will be the most important of all, because it will show exactly where the cities stand, and even though there shall be a majority against absolute repeal of the Ontario temperance act, it must be deemed expedient by the legislature to allow such municipalities to have liquor as desire, it, while maintaining dry areas where the people still stand for home dry prohibition.

Prohibitionists claim to have been tremendously pleased by the recent vote on the Pinard amendment, but their enthusiasm was greatest before they learned that the vote were also pleased, as they had bigger game in sight than 7 per cent. beer. But in any event, the liquor question in Ontario stands just where it has stood since the announcement of the government that a plebiscite is to be taken, and neither side to the controversy was strengthened or weakened by the result of the Pinard vote.

But the Ontario temperance act, so long as it lasts, has been strengthened by certain amendments which have been agreed to by the legislature at the instance of the attorney general, Hon. W. F. Nickle. One of these permits the officers of the law to confiscate motor vehicles caught in the illicit transportation of liquor. In regard to the sale of liquor by druggists the changes in the act are most drastic. It is stipulated that medicinal wines must not have an alcoholic content of more than 2½ per cent. But before a druggist can deal in liquor at all, he must take out a special license in addition to the one he holds as a druggist. Then he must mak emonthly returns of his liquor prescription sales. Violation of the law a first time renders the druggist liable to have his license cancelled, but a second violation does this automatically.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Much, how much—depends on the budget.

And now it is Mr. Biggs' turn to take the centre of the stage and face the spotlight.

Possibly there will be good cause why the Drury Government will be remembered as the Commission Government.

Fity the Bank Act cannot be so amended as to provide against successful attacks by armed bandits upon bank messengers who are conveying large sums of money through the streets.

Of course the postal employes have given full consideration to the fact that if they were to strike, their strike would be an act of war against the public as well as against the Government.

The Ontario legislation, under which municipal councils were compelled by a petition signed by one-tenth of the qualified electors to submit a bylaw providing for drastic changes in the assessment system, has gone by the board. It was time. One tenth is too small a proportion. Twenty-five per cent. is not too large.

There is a great big and very apparent need today for better business ethics for more real honesty in the carrying on of public business.

THE CAPITAL OF CREDIT
(San Francisco Argonaut)

Mr. Charles Schwab tells President Coolidge that the country is entering a burning business. Of course it is. Business is undermined whenever confidence is destroyed, and confidence goes smash by reason of dishonest methods in business. The greatest of all form of capital is that intangible quantity the capital of credit. And credit declines under suspicion, or dishonest dealing in high places. There can be no harm in saying again what has already been said in these columns, but there is not the slightest reason why the Canadian business that is not today poorer for the [illegible] of Sidney Dobrey and Charles Sinclair as presumptive bribers of men lately connected with public service.

Broadcast Bill's Radiolays

REGENERATIVE RECEIVER
By M. C. Batsel, Radio Engineer, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co.

There has been considerable written recently in regard to interference caused by receiving outfits. As a result of this discussion the radio public may be confused in regard to the real situation, its causes and possible means of improving conditions.

We are sure that legislation making it illegal to operate a receiver that can radiate, if it is improperly operated will not prevent the use of such receivers. The following facts have led us to this conclusion.

1. There are many more receivers in use in the United States that were constructed by the users or someone in the users locality, than the number of those manufactured by recognized manufacturers. The amateur is frequently changed and experimented with so that there can be no check upon its ability to interfere with other receivers in the vicinity where he is located.

2. The cheapest and most efficient receiver that can be made is of the regenerative type so that the person of limited means dealing to listen to the broadcasted entertainment can obtain it with the minimum investment of money. If he chooses a regenerative set, this is true whether he constructs his own outfit or buys a manufactured set. The non-regenerative set is an inefficient receiver in small. The receivers are very improperly operated will not interfere with other receivers nearby.

3. Simple inexpensive regenerative receivers will operate efficiently on small or indoor aerials.

4. In England the manufacturers of broadcasting stations and broadcast programs were required to obtain approval of the British postoffice before they would be permitted to be acceptable for use. This regulation was that the apparatus should not be capable of producing interference with other receivers. Notwithstanding these regulations, the interference and non-receiving operation has not been eliminated and according to the Wireless World & Radio Magazine devoted to the interest of radio development in Great Britain the British postoffice no longer recognizes that the apparatus be incapable of radiating. This magazine points out how very difficult to construct efficient inexpensive receivers that are not capable of radiating if they are improperly operated and voices the opinion that the way out of the trouble is to limit the power and location of users of receiving apparatus rather than by limiting the equipment to the broadcasted programs to those which can afford to purchase expensive apparatus and pay large maintenance charges.

5. It is not difficult for the user of a regenerative receiver to know that his receiver may be interfering with receiving in the vicinity. When the regenerative amplification has created to more than the useful amount the receiver tears a howl in his own receiver and should immediately reduce the regeneration or amplification until the squeal stops.

It is the duty of the operator of a regenerative receiver who desires to enjoy the broadcast transmissions to know that every time he permits his receiver to operate that his neighbors who may be listening to the same station must endure howling to the same extent, so we are sure that there will be little trouble from careless handling of regenerative receivers.

Should the education of users of regenerative receivers fail to produce results then it will be necessary for the manufacturers of broadcast programs to engage the manufacturers and sale of all apparatus capable of interfering with reception and to discourage the use of regenerative receivers by denying to the public the privilege of obtaining the broadcasted programs with the most inexpensive known receiver for receiving. It is not practicable to prevent the use of a receiver by prohibiting the use of radiating receivers because of the home made apparatus and the experimenter. The fact that a receiver can be used or care to pay for them, to obtain efficient results are not capable of causing interference. These receivers may be operated without taking precautions of any kind and because usually have other desirable features such as the ability to receive local stations no listen to distant stations.

In closing, we emphasize again that if every operator of a receiver that can be made to squeal when the tickler or regeneration is increased will immediately reduce the regeneration until the squeal stops, there will be no need to look up on the simple regenerative receiver with disfavor.

CABINET DINED BY PRESS MEN

First Dinner of Legislature Gallery Since 1914 was a Pleasant Event

Toronto, April 4—Legislature Press Gallery entertained members of the Provincial Cabinet and private members at dinner at Queen's Hotel this afternoon. This was the first dinner of the gallery since 1914 and was an event worthy of the occasion.

W. K. McLeod, president, in his presidential speech, made happy references to their reinauguration of this function after ten years' lapse, and happily connected the last previous gathering with the present by reference to the war's end, and our return to normalcy.

Hon. Joseph E. Thompson, Speaker, in replying to the toast proposed by Fred M. Baker, spoke of the splendid relations which have always existed between the Gallery and the House, and Premier Ferguson, responding to the toast to the Prime Minister, proposed by C. A. Sabiston, said that, although he did not think press reports always did him justice, he was still of the opinion that Gallerymen did their best to give the public a fair summary of legislative events, day by day.

Liberal Leader, W. E. H. Sinclair, Col. the Hon. J. D. Cameron, and Hon. W. F. Nickle replied to the toast to the Members of the House, proposed by W. E. Elliott and after A. H. Chambers had appropriately referred to the long connection of Sir Adam Beck with the Gallery, Sir Adam made felicitous response to his connection with the members of the fourth estate and the cause of public ownership.

As the oldest member of the Legislature present, Sam Clarke (West Northumberland) paid fitting tribute to the Gallery's fair play in reporting all phases of debates, and for the new members, Jame McCausland briefly spoke his thanks for the space accorded maiden speeches.

The remainder of the evening was spent informally, and before midnight the gathering broke up, with many expressions of pleasure that an ancient function had been revived so auspiciously.

A CORRECTION

"BRINGING UP FATHER" GRIFFIN'S APRIL 10

A record-breaking engagement should crown the attraction at Griffin's theatre Thursday, April 10. The new play is entitled "Bringing Up Father On Broadway" and is based on the famous comics of George McManus. Divided into two acts and five scenes, carrying the beloved characters through various countries all over the globe, the offering promises to provide plenty of merriment and unapproachable entertainment. A company, garnered from the cream of vaudeville, farce and the legitimate has been engaged and a first-class production is assured. The musical numbers include twenty song hits, the other features being a real beauty chorus, inimitable novelties, surprises and original ingredients certain to find an echo with the most exacting patron of the theatre. Charles M. Smith is responsible for the music with John P. Mulgrew credited as the author of the book and lyrics. The company is composed of twenty-eight people.

THE VETERAN BABIES

Edward Connelly, Metro's veteran character actor, and Frank Currier, also a veteran of renown, have important roles in "Desire", coming to the Regent Theatre Monday.

They played on the stage together a few decades ago. Neither is as young as he used to be and both enjoy firing hot verbal shots at each other regarding their age.

"Probably, you don't know that Frank Currier was the first white child in California," explained Mr. Connelly to David Butler, also a member of the cast.

"That's right," agreed Mr. Currier, "and Edward drove the wagon that brought me."

"Desire" a Louis Burston presentation through Metro directed by Rowland V. Lee was written by John B. Clymer and Henry R. Symonds. George Barnes was the cameraman, and J. J. Hughes was art director.

NOTABLE CAST IN NEW TALMADGE PRODUCTION

After a lapse of three years, Eugene O'Brien, one of the most popular of male screen stars, again is playing opposite Norma Talmadge in "The Voice From the Minaret" which is coming to the Griffin Theatre on Tuesday as a First National attraction. Frank Lloyd directed it from the novel by Robert Hichens.

Mr. Lee assembled a notable cast to support Mis Talmadge in this independent production. In it are such players as Edwin Stevens, Winter Hall, Carl Gerard, Claire Du Brey, Lillian Lawrence and Albert Prescott, all of whom have gathered enviable reputations for histrionic ability.

"The Voice from the Minaret" is a thrilling tale of romance and adventure, with the scenes shifting from England to the desert and the Orient. It is the most gripping novel ever penned by Mr. Hichens, and Mr. Lloyd has transferred it to the silver sheet with striking fidelity.

Cast as Lady Adrienne, the personification of the governing Monlsey Miss Talmadge has a role that is one of the most dramatic she has ever essayed.

Mrs. Brady is very much improved. She is said to leave the hospital to go to her sister's Mrs. Kellar, Dundas St.

The stork called on Mrs. Clarence Hearns Wednesday, leaving a fine big baby.

The bazaar held at the church Wednesday was a decided success. The dinner totaled $48, while the booths were liberally patronized by the visitors. In the evening the Manston Band gave a concert and sold an autograph quilt which realized quite a sum for the band. The proceeds for the day amounted to over $210. The Ladies Aid are very gratified at the results of their efforts. From comments passed, no dinner is so good as Canifton Ladies' Aid. More dinners in the near future as every effort is being made to repair the church and sheds.

Yesterday a number of men gathered and took down one part of the church sheds as it is very much in need of repair.

A ROYAL LOVE TANGLE. King Victor of Italy and Premier Mussolini are anxious to bring about a reconcilement between Italy and Belgium through the proposed marriage of Princess Mafalda, daughter of King Victor, and Prince Leopold, crown prince of Belgium and Duke of Brabant as well. But Princess Mafalda will have none of this. She loves Prince Nicholas of Rumania, now a midshipman on the British cruiser, "Benbow," and she will marry him or not at all. If forced into a marriage with Leopold she threatens to kill herself. The princess has a royal will, or won't. Above are shown: Top, Prince Leopold; centre, Prince Mafalda and below, Prince Nicholas.

If He Survives

"Good day, Mrs. Brown, how is your husband this morning?"—asked one country woman of another whose husband was ill. "Well, I think he's a bit better," was the reply. He sat up for his tea yesterday and had a little appetite. He ate a couple of chops, a veal and ham pie two helpings of apple pudding, and a stark of cheese. I think to-morrow he'll be able to swallow something substantial."

Why you have Rheumatism

RHEUMATISM is largely due to weakened and deranged kidneys. When the kidneys fail to properly fulfil their duty of carrying away the poisonous impurities in the blood stream, uric acid accumulates, and rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica and other serious ailments follow.

If you suffer from headaches, pains in the back, dizzy spells, or specks floating before the eyes, backache, rheumatism or swelling, you may be sure that your kidneys right, and nature is trying to tell you. Don't neglect them, but help them to do their work. Get a box of Gin Pills at once and take them regularly until relieved.

JUDGEMENT GIVEN AGAINST OSHAWA

Plaintiff's Car Was Struck By Fire Truck Last Election Night

Oshawa, April 5.—Judge Ruddy yesterday found again the City of Oshawa in the case of Gerrard vs. the City. It was said in court that the fire truck belonging to the city had, on election night, struck an Oldsmobile sedan owned by the plaintiff in front of the Post Office on King street. Considerable evidence was offered in the case.

Col. Grierson, City Solicitor, contended that the precedence by-law of the city gave the fire apparatus right of way as it the truck was then operating at an excessive rate of speed as was alleged by the plaintiff, Gerrard. The judge ruled that the by-law held so far as the right of way to the fire was concerned, but based his finding on the evidence offered, which tended to show the truck was travelling at about 20 miles an hour which the judge contended and said was reckless driving at the point referred to and under the conditions that hundreds of people were on the street in front of the Telegram office. Col. Grierson asked for written judgment which he will submit to the City Council. The judge then reserved decision and will hand down his written statement tomorrow.

Strathroy, Ont., April 4.—Mrs. Garnet Currie, mother of General Sir Arthur Currie, died suddenly yesterday morning.

Mrs. Currie had been in ill-health for some time, but her condition was not regarded as serious, and her demise came as a decided shock to the family and friends. The deceased was born in Ireland the daughter of the late Thomas Patterson. She came to this country with her parents at an early age, and the family at first settled at Port Stanley, later removing to Adelaide township. Four children survive: John, Mabel, and Ethel, all at home, and Sir Arthur Currie, president of McGill University, Montreal.

LINIMENT FOUND TO BE POWERFUL GERMICIDE

Originally, Absorbine Jr. was sold only as a pain reliever and as embrocation. It was quickly discovered that the liniment was positive death to all forms of germ life, and it is now used as a mouth wash, for wound dressing and for all disinfecting purposes.

Another surprise was yet in store. A Wm. Pratt of Springfield, Mass., applied Absorbine Jr. to a varicose vein to relieve the intense pain. Not only did the pain leave, but he noticed every day the swollen vein becoming smaller. The treatment was kept up, and, today, Mr. Pratt's leg is normal. The same was said anything else on them, are as smooth as when he was a boy. It has now been proved that Absorbine Jr. is an actual specific for varicose veins, leg ulcers, boils, carbuncles and a number of other ailments and injuries besides those for which it was originally used. Nothing serves so many every day purposes and nothing is better suited to its place in every home. When it is needed, it will be needed in a hurry. Don't wait for someone to be hurt. Get it at your druggist's today. $2.25 a bottle, or postpaid from W. F. Young, P.D.F., 310 Lymans Building, Montreal, Canada. Sold by druggists everywhere.

What Four Great Writers Say of the Bible

ITS WONDERFUL LITERARY AND MORAL VALUE

Macaulay Says: "If everything else in our language should perish, the Bible would alone suffice to show the whole extent of its beauty and power."

When Walter Scott Lay Dying, he said to his son-in-law: "Lockhart, read me something from the Book." Lockhart asked, "What book?" Scott replied: "Why do you ask? There is but one Book—the Bible!"

Coleridge Says: "Intense study of the Bible will keep any writer from being vulgar in point of style."

John Richard Green Says: "As a mere literary monument the Bible remains the noblest language of the English tongue, while its perpetual use made it from the instant of its appearance, the standard of our language."

EXCEPTIONAL RIDING COMFORT

Owners continue to comment on the marked riding comfort of Dodge Brothers Motor Car.

Increased chassis length, low-swung body and generous seat depth have much to do with this.

Primarily, however, it must be accredited to the greater buoyancy of the new spring equipment. The rear springs are ten inches longer, and underslung.

The Central Ontario junior series, with a limited number of years to its credit, is growing and has found favor in Peterboro ball circles. It is doubtful, in such a scheme as the young players will be brought along much faster than in city leagues, whether they make the same pitchers' mark after week. If the plan is carried out, the Peterboro representatives will be Hawkins, the Ontario champions of 1923; Bellevills has already formed two groups in this loop consisting of four teams from Belleville, Trenton-Napanee and Picton. The little old gasoline train which operates between Trenton and Picton promises to be busy this season. Another team will be organized at Marmora. Stirling, Tweed and Madoc, while Petrboro and Oshawa are trying to form a six-team group consisting of Oshawa, Port Hope, Lindsay Cobourg, Bowmanville and Peterboro. The group winners would play off and the final winner enter the O.B.A.A. finals. Since Lindsay Greyhinds have gone to intermediate baseball it is not likely the Scugog town will have a team for the proposed league. Port Hope is looked to for a representative entry.

Happiness prevails in Kingston due to the fact that Harry Balstone, star fullback of the Queen's dominion championship football team, and one of the best amateur third baskers in Ontario baseball, will be with the Kingston team again this season, and will be employed by the Canadian Locomotive Company this summer. Balstone last year was the best third baseman in the league. He cluuted the sphere for an average of .329 playing every game and in fielding he was the top-notch third baseman, having a fielding average of .936. With Bert Daley, he led the league in home runs and was fifth in the matter of total bases.

A fair fan who watches a certain Toronto simon-pure crowd perform every year, asked us how it is possible to determine the percentage of club standing and individual player averages. We rounded up a merchant who is of a methodical mathematical turn of mind and find that to determine lost divide the total number of games won and lost into the number won. To determine batting averages divide the "total times at bat" into the total number of base hits. To get the fielding averages divide the total putouts assists and errors into the total of putouts and assists. In all cases where the remaining fraction is one half or over, a point is added to the average. So easy.

There is a possibility that the Maple Leafs will be without the services of Slim Allen, their regular first baseman when the intermonthly ball season gets going down Guelph way. Allen has just undergone a serious operation and although his condition is reported as satisfactory he will be relieved here on duties for several weeks. The Guelph first sacker holds the distinction of being the lettliest player in amateur ball in westerly Ontario, standing six feet three inches The Maple Leafs are one of the oldest ball aggregations in Ontario, if not Canada, and at one time claimed the world's championship.

Spalding Senior league is losing the services of Umpire Frank Hallinan, who is going to handle the indicator in the Central Ontario league. Frank was well liked by players and fans of the Spalding Seniors and leaves with the well wishes of all appeters. Hallinan has donated a trophy which will be presented to the most useful player of the team winning the Spalding Senior league championship. It is not known yet who will take Hallinan's place, as a number of applications have been received, but from all the dope it looks as if Harry Freeman, who officiated at Stanley Park last season will probably be selected.

WILD FLOWERS

The wild wee flowers that I has pu'd
While yet a giatket ween,
Come kindly forth an' rise an' peep
On memory's path again.
And I can feel, but canna tell
The pleasure ye hae gi'en
Your beauteous tints, and grateful smell,
Wee wild flowers o' the green.

The garden flowers may bloom mair braw,
And flaunt wi' gaudier show,
But cotter weans can only fa'
What nature can bestow.
The dafay fair, the primrose pale,
By them are cheaply seen,
For you our love can never fail
Wee wild flowers o' the green.

And when I miss ye, wild wee flowers,
Upon the wintry plain,
I think about the by-gane hours,
Our sunny days again.
And liken ye las liffer things
That come wi' semblance meet,
The joys that love or friendship brings
Sae fleeting an' sae sweet.

My simmer frien's they smil'd an' seem'd
Like flowers along the lea,
And I was glad and little deem'd
Their love was born to dee.
They passed me in the crowded street
Wi' cold averted e'en.
Then doubly sweet it was to meet
The wee flowers o' the green.

A short-love'd pleasure yet ye gie,
A pleasure without sin,
That warms my heart an' wins mine e'e
Tho' hafflins cauld an' thin.
And, oh! that I could feel an' see,
As I hae felt an' seen,
Your beauty an' simplicity,
Wee wild flowers o' the green.

WHY IS THIS WRONG?

Postal regulations require that the uniqueness of window envelopes must be folded so that they will not shift around, obscuring all or a part of the address. It is also required that the return address in the upper left corner shall include the street address or post office box number of the sender. Much annoyance results when window envelopes do not conform to these requirements.

HEAD OF TORONTO FIRM NOW ROBBER

Russell Scott Dropped Far Within Year

Chicago, April 5.—From the head of a $30,000,000 commodities concern, to a robber, facing a charge of accessary to murder, within a year, is the story told by Russell T. Scott, formerly of Cleveland and Toronto, held in connection with the killing of Joseph Maurer, a drug clerk, in a store in the heart of the business district Wednesday night. Scott says that at one time he was vice-president of the R. T. Scott company limited, of Toronto, which had branches in a dozen cities, and a pay-roll of 900 names. He helped to promote the Detroit-Windsor inter-national bridge, he says, when a Boston Miss, woman filed a $50,000 breach of promise suit against him, Scott, already married, left Toronto and the business, went into a receiver's hands, he says.

He admitted being a partner of his brother, Robert, in the $15,000 store hold-up, which occurred within two blocks of the detective bureau and across from the city hall, while thousands crowds walked by, absorbing to the police. He first admitted the shooting, police say, but later declared it was done by his brother.

He admits, police say, robbing more than two score drug stores and delicatessens during the past few weeks.

Arrested with Scott was Helen Ballard, who is held with her brother, Rex Ballard and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Devine, but police have not declared any results of questioning them.

New Safe Way To Remove Teeth Stains

New Discovery Bleaches Dark Teeth Instantly!

A new safe preparation has been discovered which dissolves teeth stains instantly, giving dull, dingy teeth a charming new whiteness and lustre. This new treatment is called the Bleachodent Combination. It consists of a safe mild liquid and a new kind of paste. The liquid instantly curdles or softens the stains, while the paste removes them and if used daily prevents the formation of future stains. You just brush your teeth with a few drops of the liquid, then use the paste, and before your very eyes your teeth acquire a clear, flashing whiteness that even ten times the scouring by old-fashioned methods could not give them.

It is vitally important that only a safe, mild preparation like Bleachodent Combination be used on children's teeth, which are especially subject to stains and decay. Bleachodent Combination is safe and harmless, for its mild ingredients are especially combined to act only on surface stains. It does not affect the enamel in any way. Gritty and abrasive dentifrices should never be used. If you want sparkling, white, pearly teeth get Bleachodent Combination to-day. Costs only a few cents. At all good dealers, such as Dolan The Druggist, Dolan Drug Store, A. L. Gwen, W. H. Lattimer, J. S. McKeown.

Father and Son Together Again at Bedside of Dying Parent

Windsor, Ont., April 5.—Located by radio, Rev. William Murray, 41 years old, new pastor of a Methodist church at Rose City, Mich., who ran away from th ehome of his father, George Liszert, here when he was only a lad of nine, last night stood by the bedside of his dying father, now 79 years old, and prayed that he be forgiven.

The reunion of father and son was brought about by means of messages sent out from Detroit broadcasting stations last week, which stated that Liszert was dangerously ill and want ed to see his son before he died.

Two days after the messages had gone out the family received word that Rev. William Murray, the name of the family with which young Liszert made his home after he ran away and which name he adopted as his own, was at Rose City. Communication was established and the long-missing son arrived home last night.

A RARE CHANGE FOR READERS

It was said recently that "nothing is so much needed today as a reliable illustion of the broken world as a faith that still holds the lower a higher, divine goal, than mere social and economic and political adjustment—than things that are purely impartial and temporal." Down through then centuries, through wars and nations after nations of wars, the Bible is the link that has held men and nations to the "faith in the higher and diviner goal."

Perhaps no edition of the Bible has ever attained such widespread popularity as has the Pyrit Red Letter Edition now being offered to readers of this paper. It is of course the publisher's aim that it is not bulky, still the type is so clear that old persons or those having defective sight, can easily read it. The outstanding red letter feature of the words of Christ make it very simple to find His thoughts without reference to indexes and concordances. The paper is able to offer this edition in two distinct styles, with but three daily coupons and a nominal distribution fee. Distribution starts on the third day, but attention is called to the fact that the supply is limited. Also coupon in another column.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The moment after Kee had left him, Selby Layton knew that he had made a mistake. He was one of those men who, never under a temptation to force them attentions upon any pretty girl, indirectly to themselves in jewelries, whom they may meet; but though he was blackguard at heart, he was too cunning not to know that he had acted "stupidly." He was, in fact, a difficult game—and how dangerous a one only to know—and he had trifled with the daughter of one of Esther's labourers would certainly not help him to win Esther herself and the Vancourt property. The man stood by his cousin, but that the girl was extremely handsome—if his hand had not been quite so full, he would have regarded her as a desirable prize for his own use—had made a great mistake in addressing her as he had, seriously that she would not recognize him again.

But more he thought of it, the more annoyed he was with himself; he was afraid that everything was going swimmingly with him. Esther had evidently been glad to see him; she had extended to him friendly welcome, and grateful for what she supposed he had done for her, and had sat beside the piano and listened to him with rapt attention as he sang song after song with that wonderful voice of his, and he felt that he was well on the way to the winning-post.

Mrs. French philosopher has said that any man can gain the love of any woman if he be persistent enough and unflagging in his devotion, if he will only be sufficiently engaged; and Selby Layton had no reason to suppose that Esther was not fancy free. Had there been the field on the field before him, he, for by Layton, must have known it. No; Esther had been open to him, and he knew that he had many points in his favour. He was good-looking, had what women call a charming manner, and, more than that, he possessed a wonderful voice which made it difficult for a woman to withstand it.

Often at crowded receptions he had seen the eyes of women brighten and glow from the soldier, the poet, the statesman of the hour—but always at the sound of the piano as by a magnet. A beautiful voice is always powerful in the advantage accruing to that important position; disgraced himself it was, and not with, and he resolved to continue the same standing that since he left off Oxford till he had once or twice qualified between the lines which he must incur by his enterprise.

He did not see Esther again that night, but the next morning, after breakfast, he asked her if she would give him a few minutes alone in the library and Esther at once complied, though with no great eagerness; for she was feeling rather absentminded that morning.

For some days she had not been near the home farm nor seen Mr. Gordon. As she stood by the open window of the library she could just hear the rattle and click of the hay-making machine and could smell the scent of the new mown hay from the meadows in the distance. She had promised to go to the hay-making supper, and had chosen the cotton dress as being suitable to the occasion; but, of course, she was not obliged to go unless she liked. But she felt that she would like, that it would please Mr. Gordon, that he would expect to see people, her people, but more than all s he she knew, in her heart of hearts, that she wanted to see Mr. Gordon, to hear that resonant, masterful voice of his which had so often called her pride to ambit.

She almost started, so engrossed was she in these thoughts was she, when Selby Layton's soft voice said:

"I am afraid I shall bore you terribly, Miss Vancourt; and yet I must do so if I give you a full report of my mission."

Esther turned her head and saw that he had a lot of papers in his hand, and with a woman's shrinking from business detail, she hushed and shrugged her shoulders.

"I don't want to know all the particulars," she said.

He was as bad as Mr. Gordon, who insisted on her going over his bother-accounts.

This suited Mr. Selby Layton very well; it is the remunerative part of it.

"But really you ought to know," he said. "You sent me a large sum of money, and I have a personal for the disposal of a still larger sum—that is, if you approve. I will read you the names of the persons who have applied in receipt of the money," he added; and he unfolded a formidable list.

Esther made a little impatient g esture.

"Oh, please spare me!" she said. "I don't want to know all their names; I shouldn't know any of them! Until this great fortune came to me I did not know any of the family, and I a m almost as ignorant now. As long as the proper persons get the money, I am content."

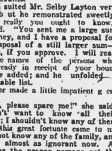

"You trust me entirely!" he said, his voice with the flute stop on, his eyes upturned to her with an intense devotion.

"Headaches, Bilious Spells, Are Now All Gone"

Mrs. John Ireland, Nobleton, Ont., writes:

"I was a great sufferer from severe headaches and bilious spells. I tried a number of remedies without obtaining any benefit until I was advised to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I have completely relieved me, and made me feel like a new person. I am very grateful to Dr. Chase's Medicines for what they have done for me, and you may use my letter for the benefit of others.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Ladies of the Missionary Society of St. James' Church as well as the ladies of several of the other city churches, heard Miss Armstrong, of Toronto give a very interesting talk on China, the country and the people, at that church on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Armstrong was formerly a missionary in the Orient. The special Easter offering received was very gratifying.

Mrs. Harold Izzard and son Wilfred, are here from Montreal, where they will spend the Easter holidays with Mrs. Kingston for the past two weeks have returned to the city.

Mr. Harold Izzard, Arlington street, has returned from Montreal, where he was attending Divisional number four and Eastern Ontario Convention of the Canadian National Railways.

Th Rev. Canon Forneri, M.A., B.D., is spending a few days at Mr. Moodie Cottage.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT QUESTION

Mother—Don't eat so fast Georgie. Remember there was a little boy who ate a cake so fast that he died when he'd been half of it.

Georgie—What did they do with the rest of it, Mother?

15,000 BLINDED BY INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS

New York April 5.—Industrial accidents cause more blindness and eye injuries than any other single cause. Of a total of 100,000 blind persons in the United States, 15,000 become so through industrial accidents. There is hardly any industrial occupation in America which does not contribute annually to the steadily increasing total of the industrially blind. Approximately 200,000 eye accidents occur in industry every year.

The National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness, which is working for the elimination of blindness, both industrial and otherwise, both in industry and elsewhere, has just sent to press a comprehensive report on "Eye Hazards in Industrial Occupations," in which are contained these facts.

This report will be distributed to manufacturers, insurance companies, foremen, safety engineers, engineering and architectural societies, and others interested in the prevention of industrial eye accidents.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENCE

Anne Hastings hopes that more readers of the Intelligencer will write to her and ask questions. She will endeavor in answering their letters in this column.

Mrs. A—A recipe for waffles was printed in yesterday's paper. Now here is another: 1 egg, 1 cup of buttermilk turn to pancakes, griddle-cakes, waffles, etc. Your summer problem you have is a treasure as it must not be greased. Heat the waffle iron and wipe with the tissue-cake smoke. If it is very old it should come under the list of relics the U. S. Government has.

Reader—I am as new to the city as you, unfortunately, but if you will write to the Secretary of the Y.W.C.A. you a little. But I can tell you here and now that you will be intensely lonely and miserable if you sit down and wait for the neighborhood to get interested in the village from which you have come. It simply isn't done here and you must start in on your own and make a thing different. Join a church first, then attend its receptions and its women's work in that church. When you have no more time on your hands, you ought to cultivate a hobby. Whatever you like to do, whether it be music or try. They have a splendid assortment of correspondence schools where you can to use the reading room in the daytime, until then use the public reading system. That is, if you value your eyesight. Write me again. My own experience has been hurrying than yours, so I can sympathize.

Bobbed Hair—Well, in New York and Paris the hair is worn quite aleek and the shingle is not nearly so popular as you know. But if it suits your face don't be afraid to cut it short. It all means do so, and wear it sleek at the back. Don't be a slave to fashion if that fashion isn't kind to you.

As to your other question I must say that the things must be done and do nowadays make me gasp when I think of the girl restricted girlhood. All those things take the bloom and charm from a girl so quickly. You say that the girls who are popular are the girls who do these things, and naturally all girls want to be popular but listen to me little "Bobbed Head" when those same boys are ready for a good time they know where think you will they look for their mate? Certainly not amongst the girls who have been allowed to freely! All the young men of today admit it. Which kind are you going to be?

Will someone please tell this colyumn how to remove ink stains? Thanks for future use. It is necessary to bring it in a bold and sour in boiling?

Will readers also kindly send me a recipe for ink stains; apple syrup outside of griddle cake. Send decided recipes with correct measurements. We will watch your name in the recipes, or if you prefer, initials only. Kindly send before Friday next.

SUITED HER FINE

Mrs. Wain—Doesn't winter with its fog and frost make you miserable?

Mrs. Waite—Not very. My husband is in the coal business.

Bothered with headaches

A lot of people are. Some have headaches from one cause, some from another. A very common cause is eye strain. Probably it causes more headaches than any other one thing. Here is good news—where headaches be caused by eye strain all that needs to be done is to get rid of the eye strain. Glasses do that in thousands of cases. I supply them; or advise you that your headache is not ocular.

BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SPRING

The Spring is a time of anxiety to mothers who have little ones in the home. Conditions make it necessary to keep the baby indoors. He is often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and breathes the air which rack his whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will prevent colds, constipation or colic and keep baby well. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DOCTORS WANTED TO OPERATE

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said at last that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how it was advertised in different papers, and I wrote to where some women had suffered just as I had and they advised me to try taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better. I continued taking it for seven months in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it all the praise I can."—Mrs. Minnie Quillon, 1411 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and backache—they indicate female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

HOME THOUGHTS FROM ABROAD

Oh, to be in England now that April's there,
And whoever wakes in England sees,
some morning, unawares,
That the lowest boughs and the brushwood sheaf
Round the glantree bole are in tiny leaf,
While the chaffinch sings on the orchard bough
In England—now.
And after April, when May follows
And the white-throat builds, and, all the swallows.
Hark, where my blossomed pear-tree in the hedge
Leans to the field and scatters on the clover
Blossoms and dewdrops—at the bent sun's edge—
That's the wise thrush he sings each song twice over

Lest you should think he never could recapture
The first fine careless rapture.
—Browning.

WHERE TWO HAVE SAT
Sea-water in a cup were fitter
Than your wine drunk alone.
And bread unshared turns hard and bitter
As any stone.

Where two haves at, though served but little,
A man may [illegible]
Where two have pleasantly partaken,
There is enough!

"Y" Indoor Circus Starts Off With Good Programme

Dingling and Bungling's Mammoth Indoor Circus One of the Best Seen Locally — Twenty Numbers On List of Amusements

Dingling and Bungling's mammoth, indoor circus is in the city where it holds sway at the Y.M.C.A. until the conclusion of the final performance tonight. The big show opened last evening along at 8, following a street parade of Dunbano's eagery band, under the leadership of director Dunbano, and after the box office of the big "before the circus" side show, had rung up "good business" as a result of the "Barney Bally hot" method used in the introduction to the crowds of the Carolina minstrels, who with the two fared out, the curtain rose and other exhibits make up the side show deluxe.

The circus proper is the best entertainment of this type ever witnessed at the Y by the writer, and consists of a programme which should not be missed by anyone in the city who will have time to spare to-night. It is a long show, where full value for the money is given, and the preparation and presentation of the performers acquires of brain and brawn combined in every inhabitant. Physical director William Secord and every person who so faithfully assisted from the assistant boss' and police up, deserves plenty of credit for their efforts, for they certainly have been appreciated.

Professor O. U. Poseloogski is the ringmaster, and when of the type known as Stan Nurse. With the aid of an animal who seems to be able to keep harmony among the quintette of gloom chasplers, the clowns. These five buffoons have a continuous repertoire of nonsense which is a riot. They are everything including, musicians, tumblers, pugilists, baseball stars, beauty contest judges and "flirters." Their work is excellent. The clown programme consists of such well known young men as "Pig" Woodley, "Slush" Brown, "Amos" Armstrong, "Curly" Horwood and "Flap" Gifford.

There is a long programme of twenty numbers not to mention the buffoonery, also everything is done to the strains of either the saxsy circus band or the circus orchestra, which is under the service of the circus executive at all times. To select the proper spots of the circus is difficult, and yes a pure does not permit a lengthy reference to each, and every one is entertained, of course; everyone is interested in the tooth of King Tut, and how many times he will bite the apple, and the amazing circus. Everything in it is over 2000 years old and the way those clowns tell the story is a revelation. Mr. Bernard Shaw could not compete in person with that horse of horses "Sleepy Hog," though recently confined to hospital with an attack of heart failure, and the pongo Sparker has had "Hector Jeebies" again of late, both appear in a wanderful specialty. Two pantomime stunts too. Sparkle dances, breaks her own record, tells gramma's age and does more than most equines. Mr. Buchanan's "record" and Jack Kerr is "Flap." Jack Deacon is Barney himself. Everyone is interested in a beauty contest and a real feature of the circus is a beauty contest in which young ladies of the audience are invited to "show their cosmetics". Last night a girls were here engaged for the coronation Napanee and Foxboro way, and seven girls did appeared before the blushing judges. It was a hard task to select the Circus belle, but one young lady was selected. The name is not being disclosed until the close of to-night's entertainment, as the contest will be continued to-night unless there is murder in the judges' camp.

Small boys can smash applause with their Indian and cowboy dances, which are well and appropriately given. Young girls scorch the boards in their Dutch dance, and the keepsie dance. Master Sparkle gets a couple of Miles Owen Lasters, and the Dutch maidens are held likewise.

The physical training work demonstrated by Captain Secord and his classes showed the real worth of a Y.M.C.A. in any town, as did the work of the junior leaders on the Gym horse. Junior Hayley leader, Ralph Mordew's class of sculpsord boys are a well set up group of boys who build their bodies physically with ease and grace. Mat pyramids by the Boy Scouts was a finished act, and the senior pyramid by the Y.M.C.A. finished her pyramid work. Hats bar workers of the apparatus squad, led by Mr. Bowie "pull" some good ones and get a great reception. Members of the "injuries" squad (one member) also accomplished at his work and they work themselves in on the act every time they have an opportunity. The tumbling act near the end, is a bright spot when three young men show laster wares as "The Rubberized Trio". They are good.

The second drill by the girls' classes is pretty and requires stamina on the part of the girls. The Y brought round after round of flydlause with their members and well trained exhibition.

Finally her work by the the apparatus squad round off the show with their daring feats.

An extra added attraction is the appearance in person of Cleopatra, the historical ravisper, who heeds only the beck and call of Ajax, "the God of the sea". After wooing her faithfully, poor Ajax is rejected and finds solace during the evening of his life, in the fair but worthy daugter. He is removed from the arms of both in the Chem sandal shoe.

The three tumblers are Messrs. Van Allen, Lee Barlow and Ike Woodley. They certainly transport one, who needs a clumbell but is not one, was Lyde At-kinson prior to joining the big top show as "sleuth". Miss G. Faulks Silcings is the pongo hostess for the circus drills and exercises.

The same performance will be presented tonight, and the Carolina minstrels with the freaks and oddities of ages and does more than most equines. Mr. Buchanan's "record" and Jack Kerr is "Flap". Jack Deacon is Barney himself. Everyone is interested in a beauty contest and a real feature of the circus is a beauty contest in which young ladies of the audience are invited to "show their cosmetics". DAMAGES FOR BOBBED HAIR

Paris (United Press).—On the grounds that her social and business prospects were "crippled" with her hair, a pretty young Parisienne has brought action for damages against a hairdresser here. She went to get her hair curled. She was reading one of those fatally interesting illustrated papers of Paris and when it was getting cause to an end she discovered that she was "bobbed." At her office she was told that her services were no longer required.

CHEVROLET

Brings your friends close to you

THE isolation and loneliness of the farm have gone. Friends miles apart are now neighbors. Cities once the mecca for holidays and market days only, are now only a few minutes away.

On the other hand, the country places, the beauty spots of nature and the friends in the country are now within easy reach of the city folks.

And in bringing this service to Canadians, Chevrolet has gone beyond any other car built. Not only does Chevrolet provide everything any other car can give, but it brings its service to the largest group of buyers. Chevrolet offers quality, dependability, comfort and full equipment at a price unapproached by any other quality car in the world.

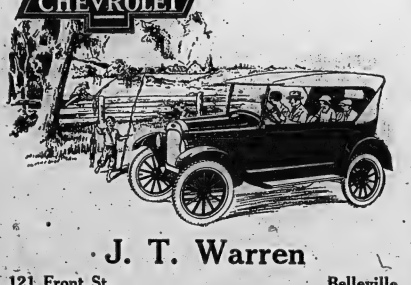

Moreover by its low prices and easy payment plan, Chevrolet has further enlarged the group of those who can afford to own this quality car, and bring to them the enjoyments of motoring to a still greater degree.

Before you buy a car at any price, see Chevrolet. Examine its fine quality thoroughly, ask us for a demonstration.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR SPRINGTIME

Do Not Use Harsh Purgatives—A Tonic is All You Need

Not sick—only not feeling quite well. That is the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives as many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Keep away from them. Help the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you that this is true. What you need in the spring is a tonic that will enrich the blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine helps to enrich the blood, which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired, depressed men, women and children bright, active and strong. Mr. Henry E. Robinson, Cruickshank, Sask., says:—"My blood was out of order and I was nervous and run down. I got a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking them for a while they fully restored my health. I am now feeling fine and have no hesitation in recommending these pills to all who are feeling out of sorts.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail, at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

That Body of Yours

By Irene W. Barton, M.D.

TUNING IN ON HEALTH

I heard a preacher say the other day that the reason that many folks didn't get an answer to their prayers was because they were too busy talking to God instead of listening to him.

"It is like the radio", he said. "You can hear all kinds of music in the air coming from hundreds of miles away, but if your machine is not "tuned in" you can't hear it.

I just thought of how wonderfully that illustrated that body of yours, and the enjoyment of good health.

You go along enjoying good health, you lose it for awhile, to regain it again.

Now just as long as you are enjoying good health it means that that body of yours is tuned in to the laws of good health.

Your body given to you by your parents was tuned in when you were a baby.

As you grow older and exercised ordinary, care whether you know it or not) you were always well, you enjoyed good health.

That meant playing outdoors, eating plain wholesome food and getting the necessary amount of sleep.

And so you went along until some illness, silent as a wave, attacked you. Immediately the laws were set at nought and did not get the full amount of health and strength that was usually yours.

Accordingly your parents or yourself set about getting the right, getting you tuned in to receive the blessings granted to those who are attuned correctly.

And so the errors for which you were reasonable yourself, or the errors due to outside influences, which interfered with the waves of good health that should have come to you, are removed, and you are again "tuned in."

Now the min point to remember is this.

In the radio you must know something about electricity, about wave lengths, about the mechanism of the receiving apparatus.

If you have a few hundred pile instrument that are not suiting what is broadcasted from that distance, your machine is not doing what it can do.

And so with that body of yours. You are entitled to good health, because your body was built to give it to you. If it doesn't do it, it is up to you to find out the reason. You'll likely know the reason if you are real honest with yourself.

If not, your doctor will likely locate the trouble for you.

WAR THREAT HANGS OVER EAST-WEST

Britain Sees "Gesture" in Extension of French Zone of Occupation in Ruhr—Japan Declared Preparing for Military Aggression Against Russia—Military Drive Plot Against Soviet Paris, April 7.—A Berlin report that French occupational troops have advanced their lines north of Eberfeld in the Ruhr was formally denied by the Foreign Office today.

"No military operations nor movements are contemplated in the Ruhr," it was stated.

French troops have arrested 61 members of secret German military organizations in the Ruhr and Rhineland, according to the Echo de Paris today.

British See "Gesture"

London, April 7.—A report reached the British Government today that the French have extended their zone of occupation in the Ruhr. Whitehall officials said they regarded the French movement as a "gesture" in view of Germany's recent note suggesting that the investigating into the military constitution in Germany be turned over to the League of Nations.

Great Britain is not taking any action but when the reparations experts have submitted their report to the British Cabinet will consider the whole situation, formulating a definite policy regarding military occupation of Germany, reparations, debts and the general German situation.

SEE JAPAN ARMING

Moscow, April 7.—Japan is preparing for military aggression against Russia, it was charged today in Soviet circles here.

In proof of the alleged Japanese military plot, officials to the connection of Japanese troops in the Far East to Japan's failure to evacuate the southern Manchurian railroad and the current negotiations of General Semenov, a noted anti-Bolshevist, with Japanese militarists.

Christopher Columbus' Map Found in French Library; Inspired His Western Trip

Paris, April 7.—A map made by Christopher Columbus and of great value, owing to its possible bearing on the discovery of America has been found under curious circumstances in the National Library by M. De La Roncière, head of the printed book section.

M. De La Roncière told the Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres that he believed the man to be none other than the one which inspired Columbus' memorable voyage.

It was filed in the library as a Portuguese map of the 16 century.

An illustration accompanying the document gives a very fine view of the port of Genoa. An inscription in Hebrew indicates relative to the apocryphal character of the earth are translated with autograph notes by Columbus presented by Cardinal Pierre Gailly.

The map represents the earth as it was then known, in the form of an island enveloped by four oceans, and gives in detail the coastlines of Europe and of Africa as far as the Cape of Good Hope.

BURNABY FOR CLEAN PARTY AT ALL COSTS

Former U.F.O. Chief Appeals for Slam at "Rottenness"

OUT ON WRONGDOING

Let Bricks Fall, He Says; Must Either Defend or Repudiate Charges

Toronto, April 7.—R.W.E. Burnaby, former president of the U.F.O., and former member of the Ontario Drainage Council of Agriculture, discussing recent disclosures before the Public Accounts committee, said on the 11th ult. Premier of Ontario to condemn rottenness and wrongdoing, "let the bricks fall where they may," and write as he thinks.

"In view of con reccns charges and insinuations made on the floor of the House at Queen's Park, as well as editorials and other articles in the public press, I feel that organized agriculture should speak in no uncertain voice and let the public know where it stands. Prevent particularly and all those who have supported me, and who, and, its principles, have a right to know where we stand.

Defend or Repudiate

"The organized farmers were in a large measure responsible for the election of the late Government. Surely then, our duty is plain. We must either defend or repudiate the charges and insinuations or repudiate them.

"Some now say that little has been proved, and I suggest should be withheld until we have heard all the case; possibly so for final judgment; but have we not seen and had too much proved already to sit back and say nothing? Can we, as organized farmers believe and say that nothing has been proven? Are the farm men and women, the farm boys and girls in our organizations to remain silent, content to allow this bundle of charges if not the worst mess of graft to be dealt on organized agriculture?

"I say, and want every member of the U.F.O., both past and present to say with me, that I have a right to record me in so many words in the past and I feel it a duty to come out boldly and say that I think the U.F.O. as an organization were to be condemned to declare itself just as it did on the 'let-bricks-fall party'."

Food Gone; Babes Dying; Cable From Greece Lays Pitiful Appeal To World

Dr. W. A. Kennedy, the Canadian at the head of the "Save the Children Fund's" work among the Christian refugees in Greece, cables today:

"10,000 additional refugees from Pontus (Northern Asia Minor) are landing at Salonika this week end. Owing to financial stringency the Government soup distributions cease to-morrow. We must step in and feed still more of the children thus threatened with starvation. Earnestly appeal for utmost assistance help from Canada. Malaria developing in Thessaly; am bombarded with requests for supplies of quinine. We are now co-operating with the League of Nations Commission in definite reconstructive settlement work in Western Macedonia.

POLICE SAID IMPLICATED IN HOLD-UP

One of Greatest Surprises in Sensation-Ridden Montreal Declared Due to be Swing Days—Well-Known Alderman States Trial of Robbery Will Lead Back to Police Headquarters

Montreal, April 7.—One of the greatest surprises that ever startled sensation ridden Montreal will be sprung within the next few days in connection with the holding up of the bank messenger of the Bank of Hochelaga on Tuesday last, according to well-known local men. He stated to-day that when the end of the trial is reached it will lead back to police headquarters. The force will be shaken to its foundations, and heads will fall which were supposed to be fixtures on the force until Father Time retires them.

It has also been informed on the best authority, it is said, the underworld route, that other men mixed up in the affair are Mike Valentine, a notedy and whose names the police refuse to divulge are Mike Valentine and Joseph and Gambiano. A character named Mickey Guerriero, supposed a brother of a woman who runs a restaurant on Dorchester street, is also understood to be mixed up in the sordid business.

"Big Guy" Gang

All the members of the gang now in custody are understood to belong to a local branch of the Big Guy Gang, who have their headquarters in a joint on Lesage Road. That gang has always seemed to be well supplied with money and automobiles. Furthermore, it is reliably stated that the dead bandit, "Big Paul," aided his escape from the Atlantic penitentiary, slipped through the bars of his cell. It

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

The hamlets of Charing Cross, Kent County, boasts five couples whose lives represent 281 years of matrimony. Not one has been married less than 50 years; one husband and wife have weathered the storms and storms and reaped the happiness of living together for 63 years.

All are to be congratulated; their record is a creditable one for all it is not smooth sailing in matrimony. It is a give and take proposition, for no two people,even though they love each other,deify, as railways agree. And the country that produced them is likewise to be commended, for their lives are the embodiment of the sort of high ideals that go to make up the kind of nation we want to have.

Best of all, such news at a time when the public prints so many stories of divorces, triangle and tales in which mere sex plays such a part is really refreshing.

FUNNY BUSINESS

Milarad Nicskivotch, Special Commissioner from Jugo-Slavia to the United States, has declared: "France and Italy, which owe to the United States large sums, do not want the smaller countries to set a precedent in the payment of war debts." While the delicacy of the task is evident both for creditors and debtors, it is time drifting were ended. Otherwise the life of the debt commission will have to be extended, not in itself such a serious matter, but a reflection of a condition of affairs that is a drag on world commerce and industry. Italy's economic recovery in the last two years has put it in a position to begin action toward an adjustment, and France at no time has been justified in making debt payments contingent on reparation payments by Germany. Frange has since the end of the war found it possible to lend consiederable sums to some of the smaller countries in Europe for political and industrial purposes.

BLACKMAIL

The Lord Chief Justice yesterday sentenced two blackmailers to twelve years' penal servitude. They were brothers, aged respectively twenty-eight and thirty. They had blackmailed a nurseryman for ten years. They had extorted from their victim over four thousand pounds. Lord Hewart described the case as the worst in his experience. He pointed out that the maximum sentence for blackmail is penal servitude for life. We wonder how many more years of paying blackmail because they are afraid to face the ordeal of publicity. The only weapon which the blackmailer fears is publicity. He fattens and battens on the moral cowardice of his victim. But if everybody were to call the bluff of the blackmailer this form of moral murder would be extirpated. It flourishes in decrpupt and decadent society. The severe sentence passed by Lord Hewart will make every blackmailer in England turn pale. Let us hope it will also endow the miserable wretches who pay Blackmail with moral courage. There is no peace or hope for the blackmailer.

ANARCHICAL ELEMENTS

For some time past there has been lacking in British trades unionism that respect for authorized leadership that one time was one of the strongest characteristics of the movement; solidarity has ceased to be such less than it was wont to do. In almost every industrial organization there are minorists who are not union men. These anarchical elements have been bringing the movement into discredit and its leaders into contempt. They are Communists who abide in the tabernacles of unionism, which they regard as an effete form of industrial organization.

ANOTHER FOOLISH HIKE

Municipalities along the route will be interested in hearing that unemployed in Toronto are proposing a hike to Ottawa for the purpose of impressing upon the Federal Government the necessity of proceeding with the famous viaduct.

One of the leaders behind the movement thinks that he can persuade 2,000 men to take part in the expedition.

The good folks of Oshawa and Port Hope and Cobourg and Belleville and other towns along the way, remembering how they had to feed the "hiking harvesters," will no doubt throw up their hats and cheer madly when they realize that they will only be have the honor of entertaining a small army of unemployed.

This "hiking" farce has been overplayed, and the municipalities likely to be affected should lose no time in declaring that they do not propose to be cafeterias for every band of out-of-works that chooses to parade along the highway.

If Toronto wants the moral support of several thousand unemployed to strengthen its claim for the building of the viaduct it is up to Toronto to see that the hikers are provided with enough food to carry them through to Ottawa and back.

There is no reason why other towns should have to continue this Santa Claus business indefinitely.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Now to combat spring fever.

From criticism of the Elgar Choir concerts one gathers that Bach portions the appropriate for prohibition music.

Sir Fred Stupart says there is no such thing as artificial gum-making. Not even predictions of the weather by his weather bureau?

How easy and clever of the Tories impotice to foil a big bank raid by armed bandits, staged to take place some time in the future!

The organization of the "Constitutional Republican" party in the Irish Free State diminishes the chances of the union of the Free State and North Ireland.

The belief grows that the Government at Ottawa has about concluded that it will be safer to dispense the Progressives in the matter of the tariff than to offend the industrial magnates.

PRESS OPINIONS

HYDRO AND TAXES

In a published report of the proceedings in the Legislature, one reads that Adam Beck stated, amid applause, that not a single taxpayer had had to pay a cent personally on municipal taxes on account of Hydro. Applause is inexplicable. One can hardly imagine that any part of that applause came from Niagara Falls folk.

In 1920, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, acting as owners of the Canada Atlantic Power Company, fought Niagara Falls in the courts against the assessment which meant that the commission need not pay any taxes here. After certain possible wrangling an arrangement was arrived at by which the commission, as a last resort, gave this city a maximum amount of thirty mills on an assessment of $2,500,000 or an annual sum of $75,000.

Had the commission paid taxes in the ordinary way as any other power or other company must, this city would have received then the sum of $102,500, so that there is an annual loss of exactly $27,500 to the taxpayers of this city. The assessment of the Ontario Power Company was made in the ordinary way by the assessment commissioner, fully backed by the Courts of Revision and the county judge.

There are 3,445 taxpayers in Niagara Falls, so that the average man pays just a fraction under eight dollars a year more into the city exchequer because of that agreement. The actual loss to the general taxpayer is greater even than that, for the Board of Education takes almost half of the $75,000. Every man, woman and child in Niagara Falls must double around a dollar and a half a year to make up for what should come from the Hydro.

The Review is not criticising the agreement from the point of view of those who, at that time, made it. It was the best bargain procurable at that time. It is obvious, however, that when Sir Adam Beck states that not a single taxpayer has had to pay taxes because of the existence of the Hydro, he ought to have excepted Niagara Falls, at least.

When Mr. Average Man pays his taxes this year he will have paid twenty-four dollars more in three years, because the Hydro does not recognize the right to pay taxes in the ordinary way.—Niagara Falls Review.

CHEERING THE FLAY

The French theatre is an emotional place. So is the chamber of deputies. And both are representative of the people. There is nothing to the wonder that in a parliament declaring war with the utmost enthusiasm while in another part of the city a houseful of people madly applauds a pacific play.

The members of parliament would probably applaud the play also; and the theatre audience would probably go right around the corner and enlist, if they found after the show that war had been declared.

You never can think about any people by the theatrical productions they choose. Can you imagine which they cheer. Did you see the heaven holy America!—Detroit News.

In Regent street, in Jermyn street, in Westminster, in the Strand, the housekeepers are at work; and decorators fronts are thrown down to reveal pitiful secrets of shabby walls and disused hearths. In short we call the West End is vanishing. with all its multicolored memories; and its passing marks the beginning of the passing of an epoch. There is no law in lamenting what cannot be. The puzzle of new London threatens to be as sharp as that of the London that is dissolving into dust. The new London is being built of Portland stone—a noble and very durable stone that fits naturally the massive and the pompous. One may look in vain for anything massive or pompous in the streets of the past that has chosen it—no restless and uncertain age, a makeshift, aspiring age, an age that wore letter expressed by any kind of material than by the hard plain statement of Portland stone.—London Times.

WHY IS THIS WRONG?

It is wrong to guess the weight of a letter to determine the amount of postage required. Such guesses often results in "Postage Due," which may cause delay in delivery, and, in the case of business letters, often results in a dissatisfied customer.

Broadcast Bill's Radiolays

When I think of the hours an' hours I spent in waitin' on my wife back in those days of courtship now before our married strife! Those precious moments wasted while she curled her golden hair an' I set in the parlor on her Dad's best hair-cloth chair! The young folks of this day an' age don't do like that, all, there ain't a second wasted when th' young buck comes to call. Her father meets him at the door an' says "Good evenin' Joe," "Yes daughter's upstairs doin' up. Come hear my Radio." Seems Joe's a endless hug himself of course he doesn't even how long it takes him a wrestle when there's somethin' on the air. Those early courtin' days of mine were not at all like these when I sat in the parlor with the album on my knees. That precious red plush heirloom with its unutilized faces once answered for the purpose that the Radio replaces! Where I could memorized the names of all my wife's relations, tho lad who goes a courtin' now must keep the station set an' must thrust dope on the stock reports an' such stuff can be had or method th' dance orchestras that make a bit with Dad. I have no advice to offer with the lad but know where he can get good programs an' her father's Radio. Sometimes while I wuz waitin' my prospective father-in-law would tell me what he ought to get per ton for his hay an' straw, or we'd discuss the war an' then just to keep up conversation on Wednesday nights an' Saturday nights we'd touch on variation. But nowadays its Radio an' not the price of hay that interests her father an' when I pass the time away till later with th' boys out of Youth adjusted to the cheek, the daughter trips in sayin' "Joe can't keep ya waitin' Sunk." Music & Drama

"BRINGING UP FATHER"
The beloved, but unfortunate Jiggs Mahoney, has been aided on the road of immortality through the efforts of his creator, George McManus, is to be seen at the Regent Griffin's Thursday, April 10. Jiggs, as his legion of admirers know him, even "Bringing up Father" of "Bringing Up Father" fame, the popular comics of Mr. McManus and Mr. Knibbs have given joy to millions and already has become a national institution. The new play which is described as a musical comedy in two acts and five scenes is entitled, "Bringing Up Father On Broadway". The other characters who figure in the side-splitting adventures as record in the cartoons all over the country every day will be conspicuously in evidence, particularly Maggie, Jiggs' managest wife; Dinty Moore, who is still plotting Jiggs' destruction and Kitty who still has numerous suitors for her proud hand. All told it should be a merry occasion and one calculated to add to the glory and reputation of one of the most fortunate comics of the day. A large cast has been employed and special music, music hits and innovations will be provided.

"DESIRE" SCORES
SCREEN TRIUMPH
"Desire," a special Metro production, is the feature picture at the Regent Theatre. It is a society drama of the highest type and embodies engaging entertaining qualities along with the dramatic interest.
The story deals with two wealthy young people of the best families about to be married. At the altar they realize that they are not in love with each other and flee. Later the young woman marries her chauffeur, separates from her family and eventually finishes her life in great unhappiness. The young man, discouraged, meets a charming girl and the tragedy in his life is forgotten in the great love.
"Desire" is a petgnant story calculated to stir the deepest blood of any blase audience and to send them away in a happy mood. It is a fitting vehicle to the "wheels within wheels" which go to make up life.
One of the highlights of "Desire" is a great fashionable wedding staged in a beautiful garden. It is lavish and highly interesting.

EXCEPTIONAL CAST IN NEW TALMADGE DRAMA
The impressive cast of players chosen for Norma Talmadge's big production, "The Voice From the Minaret," which is realized by Director Frank Lloyd, and is the screen version of the novel of Scribe saw to it that the players selected should be able to meet the demands made upon them by their roles. Surrounding Norma Talmadge, therefore, are such favorites as Eugene O'Brien and Owen Stevens, together with Claire Du Brey, Carl Gerard and Winter Hall.
The highly emotional role of Lady Adrienne Carlyle bids fair to be Miss Talmadge's most impressive effort. That of Andrew Fabian is played by Eugene O'Brien, whose handsome face and magdo forces after an absence of three years. Owen Stevens has borrowed from a high place in fashionable society to play the part of Lord Leslie.
Claire Du Brey, entitled the megaphone as he did in Miss Talmadge's all-country picture, "Within the Law Flame," Frances Marion adapted the Hichens story to screen form and Sidney Goodson, as art director, designed the stupendous sets. Norbert Brodin's fame as a cameraman is well established, and Dr. H.B. Maddox assumes in his knowledge of Mohammedan countries, was in charge of research work. "The Voice From the Minaret" is a First National picture. It comes to the Griffin Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

TAKE A WALK AROUND YOURSELF

When your criticising others,
And are finding here and there
A fault or two in people's ways,
Or a weakness you can't bear;
When you're blasting everyone's mean note
Or scanning some of pelf—
It's time that you went out
To take a walk around yourself.
There's a lot of human failures
In the acreage of us all,
And lots of grave shortcomings
In the short ones and the tall;
But when we think of others
Men should lay upon the shelves,
It's time that we all went out
To take a walk around ourselves.
We need so often in this life
This balancing of scales,
This seeing how much in us wins
And how much in us fails;
But before you judge another,
Just to lay him on the shelf,
Why don't you start right in
To take a walk around yourself.

FALLS ON SIDEWALK FRACTURES HIS HIP

Henry Gavin, aged 81, of Canifton, was removed to the General Hospital on Saturday night with a fractured hip, sustained in a fall on the sidewalk there Sunday evening. Dr. G. S. Cronk, who was summoned, found that the right hip had been fractured and ordered the aged man removed to the hospital where he is resting as well as could be expected today.

W.M.S. NOTES

The members of the Centenary auxiliary of the W. M. S. held a very successful At Home on Tuesday evening last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Wellman. Owing to the stormy weather only thirty were present but a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Also on the Friday evening previous Mr. and Mrs. Wellman entertained the members of the Young Peoples League over fifty being present. A good program was given after which luncheon was served and a good time enjoyed.

Protection as an Investment

In 1903, when Hugh Clifton took out a North American Life Endowment Policy for $10,000 he did so with the clear-sighted knowledge that here was the ideal way to save money and provide for an independent old age for his wife and himself.

In September, 1923, this policy matured.

Reviewing the entire transaction, Hugh Clifton finds:

(1) That the cheque which he received from us at the maturity of his Endowment Policy was for $3,250 more than he had deposited during the twenty years.

(2) That not only did the $10,000 protection which he provided for his wife during those years cost him nothing, but that he actually made money while providing it.

Could any contract have been more liberal and satisfying than this?

You should acquaint yourself with the many unique advantages of insuring under the North American Life Endowment Plan. The attached coupon will bring full information.

POSTAL MEN IN PROVINCE FAVOR STRIKE

Result of Vote Taken Throughout Ontario Many Involved

NO OTHER STAND

Takes In Clerks, Carriers and Railway Staffs—Quebec Solid

Neville Chamberlain who moved the amendment to defeat the eviction bill in the British House of Commons.

Toronto, April 5—Postal employes in Ontario are united in favor of the proposed strike, according to G. R. Jackson, chairman of the Canadian Federation of Postal Employes, who announced yesterday the result of a vote taken throughout the province. This result, he said, indicated that Ontario was solid for the strike.

Mr. Jackson also received yesterday a telegram from T. A. Pelletier head of the Railway Mail Clerks of Quebec, which read as follows: "Quebec solid as a rock. No difficulties arising anywhere." Results of the strike vote from the other provinces have not yet been received, but indications are, Mr. Jackson claims, that they will be similar to the general opinion in Ontario and Quebec. If such proves the case, in the event of a strike it is expected that only a very small number of the older employes would remain on duty—not nearly enough to move the mails.

Attitude of Brotherhoods

It is said that the railroad brotherhoods, if the railway mail clerks go out on strike, will refuse to haul railway mail cars manned by strike-breakers. Postal employes emphasized this yesterday, in view of preparations being made by the post-office department to cope with the strike. It was also pointed out that, unlike the last postal strike, which was simply on the part of the letter-carriers, the proposed walkout on April 14 will be a combined effort by the postal clerks, porters, carriers and railway mail employes to secure better terms.

Yesterday afternoon, E. V. Browning, president of the Dominion Letter Carriers' association, announced that half the votes of his association had been counted, and that members were practically unanimous in favor of striking. Ballots received are from all parts of Canada. By to-day all votes will be in, and it is expected that the total result will be similar to the incomplete returns already received.

Deemed Necessary

An article in a recent issue of the Postal Journal explains the demands of the postal employes. It is claimed that salaries necessary to meet the increased cost of living range from $2,0?5.00 in the case of a post-porter to $2,566.20 in the case of a railway mail clerk, whereas the highest actual salary received is $1,762.

BRACEBRIDGE MAN GETS $5,000 FOR HEART BALM

Bracebridge, April 5—In a suit for alienation of his wife's affections, tried before Justice W. R. Riddell yesterday, John Stackhouse, Gravenhurst, was awarded $5,000 against Wm. Robinson, a clothing merchant of the same town.

BIT OFF NOSE OF SWEETHEART clock that evening.

Paris, April 5—Pierre Nicolas terminated a 3 years' love drama in a cemetery here. Suzanne had been in the habit of coming to town once a week and spending the day with her lover. The last time she came they went to the cemetery, where she placed some flowers on the graves of her parents. Then she told Pierre that she couldn't remain with him after 8 o'clock. Pierre became madly jealous. He attempted to strangle her, and in her resistance they fell. In his fury he compromised and bit off the end of her nose and escaped.

So glad to see you, smile spring,
You're looking well—but say,
Why be so formal? Won't you please
Take off your things and stay?

Make Farms of Lands Used Only For Amusement

Labor Threatens Reintroduction of Bill

London, April 5.—The entire sitting of the house of commons last night was occupied by a discussion on agriculture, in the course of which Noel Buxton, minister of agriculture, held out a threat of the possible introduction of the bill to control uncultivated land. The minister said the country was hampered far too much by the large ownership of land used merely for the pleasure of the proprietors instead of for agricultural purposes and more active farming was necessary.

Some agricultural laborers' wages, Mr. Buxton said, were as low as £1 a week. Such conditions must be changed, he declared. "Development" should be the catchword of the government's agricultural policy and this could be achieved. If £200,000 for co-operative organization should be insufficient to carry out the policy of development of the agriculture industry, the ministry of agriculture would not hesitate to go to the treasury for more, Mr. Buxton said.

The minister of agriculture said he hoped there would be a definite period during which the growers and workers in the best industry could be assured of government assistance to the industry, the importance of which everyone recognized.

Food Production

Something should be done to brighten village life, Mr. Buxton continued, but legislation along this line was not likely to be enacted this year, in the meantime the government's policy was to enable the farmers to make economies and extend the areas of paying cultivation.

A Conservative motion declaring that the house of commons viewed with alarm the danger of a diminished food production in this country and the accompanying prospect of further unemployment and lower wages in the arable districts and calling on the government to declare without delay what action it proposed to take to deal with the situation was rejected by a vote of 160 against 79.

LOVE BRINGS ELECTRIC LIGHTS

Kasan, Tartar Republic (United Press).—Progress sometimes comes in queer ways. Ali Mukhtar was madly in love with Fatima, in an adjoining village. In the olden days he would have grabbed her, thrown her on a horse and escaped with her. To-day he went to her father's house and asked for her hand. The father told him the Tartar equivalent: "I won't give my daughter to a man who lives in a miserable hut in a village where there is not even an electric light."

All went out in advance of the parental fool, but became an agitator, not against the Government, but for electric lights.

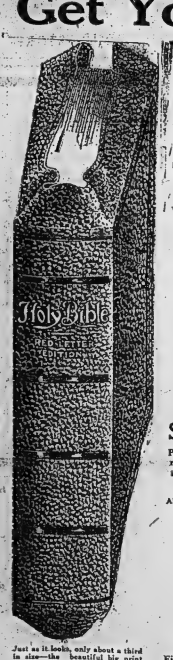

The Kasan Government is now working steadily toward the completion of the work of electrifying the Russian village. The number of villages with electric lights in the peasants' huts is rapidly increasing.

HOME FOR EASTER

A most convenient service is provided by Canadian National Railways for all those who desire to take advantage of the long week-end at Easter, or to enjoy a more extended holiday during that period. Parents or relatives wish ing to bring students or pupils at school, etc., home for the holiday can arrange all details through the Railway Company. Any Canadian National Agent will transmit to all parts of the System orders for the delivery of rail tickets, sleeping car berths or parlor car seats, and if required, cash payment for travelling expenses and will cheerfully render any other service that may be desired. Personal attention will be given passengers at ticket offices or depots and everything possible will be done to contribute to the comfort and safety of those who may be entrusted to the care of a Canadian National Representative.

For further particulars apply to any Canadian National Ticket Agent.

What Four Great Writers Say of the Bible

ITS WONDERFUL LITERARY AND MORAL VALUE

Macaulay Says: "If everything else in our language should perish, the Bible would alone suffice to show the whole extent of its beauty and power."

When Walter Scott Lay Dying, he said to his son-in-law: "Lockhart, read me something from the Book." Lockhart asked, "What book?" Scott replied: "Why do you ask? There is but one Book—the Bible!"

Coleridge Says: "Intense study of the Bible will keep any writer from being vulgar in point of style."

John Richard Green Says: "As a mere literary monument the Bible remains the noblest language of the English tongue, while its perpetual use made it from the instant of its appearance, the standard of our language."

The Pittsburg Pirates Are Greatly Improved Club; Youngsters Are Promising

Kansas City, Mo., April 7.—Any club that finishes a good third in major league pennant chase and during the of season adds five, possibly six, promising youngsters to its roster is entitled to some consideration when big chances are speculated upon for the ensuing campaign.

Such is the outlook for the Pittsburgh Pirates this spring, brought about by these wise purchases from minor league clubs by Barney Dreyfuss: Ray Kremer, Oakland; Herb May, Omaha; Emil Yde, Oklahoma City; Mason Cuyler, Nashville; Glenn Wright, Kansas City; Eddie Moore, Atlanta.

Weak points of the Buccaneers were their pitching staff and second base. If the keystone rock Johnny Rawlings failed to fill the void after he was acquired from the Phillies. Also, Myers Bigbee, usually a sterling player, was troubled by a chronic ailment and was through what was undoubtedly his worst season.

Present indications are that the second corner of 1924, figuring that Moore, May and Yde will continue to improve during the rest of the training season, as they have since the camp opened at Pass Bridge, will be occupied of seven high-class flingers—Ray Kremer, rejuvenated last season, is being counted on for regular duty, and to these four, Cooper, Morrison and Meadows, a trio apparently in for a fine season and the "royal seven" of the Cincinnati club may be challenged for visiting honors.

The troublesome second base question apparently has been solved by the shifting to that position of Maranville, and the Rabbit is playing the game of his life.

Glenn Wright who cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 is not known as the find of the year and seems destined to fill the shortstop position as expertly as Maranville ever did. Moore is not a star by any means but will at least be a valuable man to have around for utility infield duty. Grimm and Traynor are playing better than ever.

Bigbee is rounding into form, having undergone operations for the removal of tonsils and to alleviate a sinus condition and may be the player of old once more. Carey, despite advancing years, is as versatile as ever and Barnhart is the same sound wooden at bat.

If one of the regulars falls down, however, Cuyler and Mueller are ready to jump into the breach and fill admirably.

Behind the bat, Walter Schmidt and Johnny Gooch hold away, forming about the best receiving combination in the business. Three youngsters, Alley, Knox and Kopachuk, each with no even chance of success, were battling for the extra berth.

Canadian Is Coming Champ

St. John, N.B., April 7.—Al. Shrubb, former world's champion middle distance runner, predicts that Canada has a coming champion in Johnson, the McGill Rhodes scholar to Oxford, was a statement made today by M. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic team on his arrival here to-day on C.P.R. S.S. Montrose from Liverpool. Shrubb saw Johnson win the quarter mile event in the recent big track meet between Oxford and Cambridge and was greatly impressed by his style and speed.

PRINCESS, A BEAUTY QUEEN. Princess Max of Hohenlohe-Langenburg, formerly the Marchioness di Belvia de las Yaras, will forsake sunny Spain, says a Madrid despatch, and she and the prince will make their future home in equally sunny California. The princess is considered the most beautiful aristocrat of the land of bull fights and lace shawls.

O.B.A.A. Has Successful Year Healthy Balance of $3,591.63

Pat Kennedy is A.A.U. of C. Governor — Secretary Mark Dulmage Resigns After Three Years' Good Service

Toronto, April 7.—The Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, at its sixth annual meeting, held in the Carls-Rite on Saturday, concluded that professional coaching was beneficial to amateur baseball, and unanimously voted to allow clubs to employ a professional coach and allow him to sit on the bench and direct his team during games.

Kennedy Succeeds Smith

The principal officers of the association were all elected by acclamation, and P. M. Kennedy succeeds W. J. Smith as A.A.U. of C. governor, the latter retiring through ill-health. The contest for positions on the executive resulted in C. R. Penfold of Guelph, vice-pres.; D. Martin of London, Hugh Maguire of St. Catharines, and W. H. Farrell of Sudbury being elected. Two others will be chosen by the president. The list of officers follows:

President, D. P. MacFarlane, Hamilton; First Vice-President, Wm. J. Snyder, Hamilton; Second Vice-President, J. J. Solomon, Peterboro; Treasurer, A. J. Welsh, Toronto; A.A.U. of C. Governor, P. M. Kennedy, Toronto. Executive Committee—C. R. Penfold, Guelph; Geo. S. Martin, London; Hugh Maguire, St. Catharines; W. H. Farrell, Sudbury.

F. E. Robbins of Hamilton, O.B.A. A. president, 1919-20-21, presented to P. M. Kennedy of Toronto, past president, a beautiful diamond stickpin as a small appreciation of the great work done by Mr. Kennedy for amateur baseball in Ontario.

Real "Watchdog" of Funds

Treasurer A. J. Welsh's report showed a balance on hand of $3,591.63, which is a increase of $794.78 over the previous year.

The final game for the senior championship between Peterboro, O.R.C. (Toronto), and Galt, which was played at Guelph netted the association $669.90. The paid attendance at the game was 7,000 which is the largest that ever attended a game in Western Ontario.

Raise Travelling Expenses

The motion nthat 10 cents a mile be paid teams when a third game is necessary to decide a winner and playoff on neutral grounds was set aside, but on an amendment which was carried it was raised to 15 cents per mile. When a game is postponed on account of rain and the team remains in town or city over night it will be paid actual hotel expenses by the home team.

The association now has control of baseball over every series from bantam to seniors. The former was added at this meeting and the age limit is to be under 15 years May 1. In midget series the scorer ball will be used.

Residence Rule

The January residence rule, making it compulsory for all players to be bona fide residents on January 1 was in effect in all leagues last season, with the exception of the Nickel Belt League which waived its claim to participate in the finals and while in some cases it proved a hardship and perhaps weakened some of the teams, on the whole it was a success, and will be continued.

Where players' class is governed by an age limit and there is no team of class where the teams will be permitted to play with the nearest team in his class.

In intermediate series the visiting teams are allowed 10 cents a mile for legitimate travelling expenses.

Change in Constitution

All leagues and association must forward to the secretary by August 10th, the grounds, dates and general expense regarding grounds where their championship teams will play.

The motion that a professional under condition of the amateur definition should not be eligible for reinstatement and that the executive have no power to entertain same, and only reinstatements for players repelled be considered at the annual meeting was defeated.

Any team guilty of playing a man over age in a limit class, will be dealt with by the executive.

All players and teams playing in exhibition games must secure consent of their executive or association and violation of this clause will render club or player liable to suspension.

Any club or player who shall play under an assumed name, or who shall play on Sunday, shall be suspended from the Association. The Executive shall have no power to reinstate such club or player, and the club for which he has played shall be suspended.

The executive was empowered to revoke certificates, but the player must be given notice of same.

In case of change of residence the Executive is given permission to grant certificates and to deal with special cases.

Owing to the unsettled condition of amateur baseball in the Nickel Belt League, Mr. H. Farrell suggested that the association send a man to organize amateur ball in that section of the province, and it will be done.

A resolution was passed that a letter of congratulation be sent from the O.B.A.A. to Messrs. Grimble, Soo and Owen Sound clubs on the great success they achieved in hockey this season.

The secretary and treasurer were voted a substantial honorarium for their year's work.

A fine system has been inaugurated which will take care of the correspondence and records of the association, and a card index system has been started, which will be invaluable in the years to come, as every player is indexed and his record kept.

Wants Nurses To Get More Money, In Vain

Winnipeg Woman, M.P., Works For Public Health Nurses

Winnipeg, Man., April 7.—Mrs. Arthur Roberts of the local Home did her best to induce the Government to change its prospect reduction of the amount allotted to the work of public health nurses—but in vain. Last year $35,000 was given; this year $25,000 was the sum suggested. Mrs. Rogers was certain this was bad policy, in view of the excellent work the nurses were doing. Mrs. Ivon Peterkin having the children in every school in the province inspected by a nurse at least twice a year. It was pointed out that the Government had not changed any policy in regard to health nurses. It was still ready to pay one-third of the cost of maintaining a public health nurse to any municipality that must ask for assistance etc. Mr. Bancroft of Springfield said: "All these health services cost money. The Government would see that the health service of Manitoba was equal to anything in the Dominion just as soon as the people were ready to put up the money."

IRWIN IS TORONTO CHEQUER CHAMPION

Toronto, April 7.—The 1924 City Championship Tournament, held at the Central Y.M.C.A. under the auspices of the Toronto Checker Association, was brought to a victory for Irwin, Irwin, vice-president of the Association, and one of the outstanding figures in Dominion checker circles, with contests with local circles covering period of fifteen years, and his great enthusiasm and encouragement in the line experienced, to whom he is always ready to give the benefit of his knowledge, has resulted in his great popularity.

Guard Your Mouth

Let WRIGLEY'S be the guardian of your mouth and throat.

It will combat trouble of various kinds. It helps to keep the teeth free from food particles that ferment and cause decay.

It has an antiseptic effect. It relieves acid mouth and thus not only prevents harm to the teeth, but serves to sweeten the stomach.

It stimulates digestion and helps to prevent the forming of gas that causes dyspepsia.

Read from a widely known medical work:

"Chewing gum aids tooth nutrition and the cleansing action is a definite benefit—it prevents dyspepsia. Good chewing gum is excellent for bad digestion.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

L. J. Bender, "chief" for one of the strangest assortments of "breeders" ever assembled in an eating place. He prepared the meals for trillions of the bacteria, used in the research laboratories of the United States public health service, in studying diseases. The finest steak, ripe potatoes, fresh milk, various chemicals and other edibles are prepared in a sterilizing glass flask, and then put into "ovens" by him. The day the photo was taken he had prepared 6,000 tube "dinners" all of which were to be examined to determine what organisms could thrive on each, one of which he is examining at right. He estimated that each tube of food would satisfy the appetite of some 10,000,000,000 bacteria. Mr. Bender's little boarders seem to like their food and grown plump upon it.

WHERE THE BEST TEA GROWS

The tea plant flourishes best on the well drained side of a mountain in a country where there is plenty of moisture and a warm sun. Certain parts of Ceylon, India and Java are ideal for the growing of delicious tea, hence from these countries come the finest varieties. "SALADA" is a blend of the choicest qualities grown in these, the three most famous tea-growing countries in the world.

WOMEN UNITED AND INTERVIEW WITH HIM

Vancouver, B.C., April 7—A woman writer for the Province recently was given a special privilege by the famous basso, Feodor Chaliapin, when singing in Seattle. Mr. Williams had an interview, almost by a fluke, for it is always hard to obtain one with Chaliapin, but when he found she had come from Vancouver to see him he drew for her a portrait of himself as Mephistopheles.

"MUD FERRY" DOES LIVELY BUSINESS

Motorists who travelled between Cobourg and Belleville yesterday following the rain storm, experienced difficulty in driving through a deep and long mud stretch just this side of Cobourg. The stretch of road became so deep in mud that motorists would not attempt to go through, and a farmer was stood by the roadside with his trusty team of horses ran a very profitable "mud ferry" business throughout the day. Several became lodged in the mire.

Motorists who came through from Toronto were very much surprised as there were no indications of rain in the Queen city yesterday.

Girls Correct Wage Board's Recent Budget

Bindery Workers Say Girls Cannot Live under $15.45

Toronto, April 7.—After a month of work, Bindery girls of Local 28, International Brotherhood of Bindery Workers, who questioned the budget and the Minimum Wage Board, and were determined to make investigation if need be, have completed their labors. The girls have decided that $15.45 is the minimum weekly wage on which a girl can maintain herself in frugal comfort. Board and lodging is fixed at $8.45, clothing at $3.26 and sundries at $2.64 a week. The minimum wage of the board is $12.50, and, while there is some difference in board and lodging, the major differences between the girls and the board are regarding clothing and sundries. In a letter accompanying the budget, the girls state that their feeling toward the board is not one of hostility, and that they are prepared to recognize the work which has been done in their behalf.

Bothered with headaches

A lot of people are. Some have headaches from one cause, some from another.—A very common cause is eye strain. Probably it causes, more headaches than any other one thing. Here is good news—where headache is caused by eye strain all that needs to be done is to get rid of the eye strain. Glasses that do that in thousands of cases. I supply them; or advise you that your headache is not ocular.

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair By Washing It

When you wash children's hair, be careful what you use. Do not use preparad shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dr-es the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is forming a heavy lather and will remove every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations, and don't be name Watkins on the package.

BAPTISED ON HIS DEATHBED: WINS JEWISH BURIAL

Warsaw, (By mail to United Press). —A catholic cemetery was refused to an end here with the burial of Ignacy Felsenkrans in the Jewish cemetery.

Felsenkrans, an orthodox Jew, and for many years editor of the Asekuracyjna Zeitung, died recently, and it is said a daughter who became converted to Christianity and adopted the Christian name of Zofia Wojciechowska. When her father was dying she revealed that he should die in the Christian faith, so she had him baptised while unconscious on his death-bed.

Then she was smitten with remorse and hurried off to the chief rabbi of Warsaw and asked him to readmit her to the Jewish faith. The chief rabbi hurried with her to the house that they were too late. The old editor had passed on.

There arose the question where the remains were to be placed. The Jewish community felt that as he had been baptised he belonged to the Christian burial ground; the distressed family appealed to the secular authorities, who replied that they could not overrule the Jewish community. Then the family carried the appeal to the Rabbinical Council, which decided that Felsenkrans had never consciously abandoned the faith of his fathers and was entitled to Jewish burial. So, after eight days of intense public discussion the old editor was laid to rest in the Jewish burial ground.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"Entirely," she said, lightly. "I have every confidence in your discretion and judgment. I think it is very kind of you to take so much trouble; but I shall not that your kindness is very much lessened if I have to go into every particular." You see that it was a large sum I had sent you." Anyway, Selby Layton had found it a very useful sum when he had paid it into his own banking account. "I did not think it a large sum; I thought you would ask for ever so much more."

His heart grew warm, and a comfortable feeling spread all over him.

"I was going to ask for some more," he said; "in fact, I was going to ask you for a thousand pounds."

There was a falter in his voice, genuine enough; for he expected Esther to be startled. But she had told so often by Lord Mr. Fane, and by Selby Layton himself, that her income was an enormous one, that a thousand pounds seemed very little to her.

"Is that all?" she said.

Selby Layton felt that he had made a mistake in not asking for two or three thousand.

"All at present," she said.

She went to the bureau, and taking out her cheque-book, wrote a cheque.

"Of course, you will take care that they shall never know from whence it came?" she said, as she gave it to him.

"I'll be very careful," said Selby Layton, placing the cheque in his pocket-book. "Your trust in me is very great, Miss Vancourt, and I am very sensible of it."

Esther laughed.

"Why shouldn't I trust you?" she said; "and I am very grateful for all the trouble you have taken and are going to take, and still more grateful that you have not insisted upon giving me the details. Old Mr. Fane—dear old man!—would have insisted upon going into every particular, and wouldn't have been satisfied until I had told him I understood every mannie detail. You don't know the relief it is to an ignorant young woman who has suddenly come into a large fortune, and has no idea how to manage it."

Selby Layton's breath came fast as he bent over her.

"I think I can understand," he said. "You need some one to tell you how you could come in any and every difficulty —a man with a knowledge of the world —a man upon whom you could rely; who would share with you the responsibilities of this vast estate. That man, whoever he may be, must need be a proud and happy man."

His voice quivered and his eyelids drooped; but Esther failed to see the significance of the beautifully delivered speech.

"Oh, I daresay I shall get on very well," she said, innocently; "and recently and unsuspectingly that Selby Layton coughed, and a hasty mass of his sip showed itself as he turned away.

Miss Worcester came to the open window at that moment.

"You will not forget, Esther, dear, that we are dining at the Bruces' tonight?" she said.

Esther had forgotten all about it, and her face fell. If she dined at the Bruces', she certainly could not be present at the hunt-supper. Well, it would be a very good excuse.

"All right, aunt," she said. "But I had forgotten all about it, and I must tell Marie. She likes to know, so that she may worry about my frocks. I always wondered why people kept ladies' maids; but now I know. It is to save themselves the trouble of deciding what they shall put on. Marie always goes through the form of asking me what I will wear; but I notice that I always wear just what she chooses."

It was too late for her own a drive, and Esther flustrated between her own cool and shady room and the still cooler and shadier shrubbery park. She could hear the rattle of the lawn-mowing machine all day, and they seemed to sound an invitation in her ears. She thought that Mr. Gordon would no doubt be disappointed her afternoon call, but Gordon would not be disappointed; he would not care. Perhaps it was her duty to be present. She felt undecided, and the feeling of indecision with the best, gave her a woman's privilege. She was silent and abstracted all through lunch and the afternoon tea, and quite little attention to Selby Layton's soft murmurings; and when she went up to dress, her head was so bad that Marie was quite concerned, and was not at all surprised when Esther said:

"I don't think I will go, Marie. Please go and tell Miss Worcester and Mr. Layton that they must go without me. I shall lie down.

Of course Miss Worcester came full of anxiety and offered her eau-de-Cologne and sal volatile; but Esther would have none of them.

"We will all stay at home," said Miss Worcester.

But Esther would not consent to this.

"Why should I deprive you and Mr. Layton of a pleasant evening?" she said, speaking with her head turned away, and with her eyes closed. "Please go, both of you, and don't bother!"

When Esther spoke in this tone, her aunt knew there was nothing for it but to obey; and so, with more anxious lamentings, she departed.

Esther tried to sleep but she could not, though the scent of the hay and the distant rattle of the machines came soothingly through the window; but scarcely soothingly, for they still reminded her of Mr. Gordon's invitation. After a time her headache fled, after the fashion of such headaches; she rose and bathed her face, and opening the wardrobe drawer looked wistfully at the cotton dress and sun-bonnet which she had intended to wear. Why should she not go?

She was ashamed to summon Marie and she slipped out of her morning-dress and put on the cotton frock and sun-bonnet quickly. When she had donned them she looked at herself in the glass, and with a blush of shame discovered that they were exceedingly becoming. The sun-bonnet especially, for it made a deliciously effective frame for the clear oval face and the soft, dark hair.

Clean Kidneys By Drinking Lots of Water

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS IF BLADDER BOTHERS OR BACK HURTS

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form maybe wellknown authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headache, acid stomach constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

"The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of pure water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then get fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. If all means have your prescription examining your kidneys at that it would have to frame an entirely the physician examine your kidneys at that it would have to frame an entirely new sentence.

WHOLE SOCIAL STRUCTURE TO BE SHAKEN UP

Rent Evictions Bill Only Start of It, Says Wheatley

HARD NUT TO CRACK

British Labor Governmen Goaded on by Left and Faced With Defeat

London, April 7.—Speaking at Glasgow yesterday, the Minister of Health John Wheatley, said that if the country had really been startled by such proposals as were contained in the rent evictions bill, "God help their true quality in the days to come," for then a Labor majority appeared in the House of Commons it would after the whole social question.

A little earlier, in the House of Commons, David Kirkwood, another Clyde side champion, protested against the policy of the Government regarding the evictions bill, declaring the country might as well have the Tories in power as the present Labor Government which had done nothing to end the evictions of men who could not get employment with which to pay their rent.

Take Chance on Prisons

He added that if the Government refused that if these, dUbdelibpl ,Tr fused to act he would go to his constituency and put the evicted tenants back into their homes, defying the law even if it landed him in prison.

The Government seems to be between Scylla, and Charybdis on the question pushed hard on the one hand by the Glasgow men and others of the Labor left wing, it is on the other encounter ing solid opposition from the Liberal and Conservatives, who declare they will have nothing to do with the Ministerial plans as thus revealed.

"In Mess of Muddle"

The Liberal position today is an emphatic as the Conservative in this regard, the Daily News, for instance changing that the Government in pressing the tenant is robbing the land lord and "floundering in a mess of mud dle and make-believe."

Members discussing the bill in the lobbies last night professed sympathy with bone evicted. With the exception of the Laborites, however, they were skeptical of the Government's ability to produce a plan by Monday which would remove the difficulties and contented

Plans Being Drawn by League of Nations—"Disarmament Year"

PROJECTS MADE

Concentrating on Three Separate Moves to Bring Better Understanding

Geneva, April 5.—The league of nations is definitely decided that 1924 shall pass down in history as "disarmament year."

After nearly four years of study and preparation of the question, including consultation with the half hundred states that are members of the league, the latter is convinced that it has not reached to a definite and concrete basis all that can be done in the matter of reduction of armaments at the present time.

These possibilities will during the course of the coming summer be shaped into shape in the form of international treaties for submission to the fourth general assembly of the league in September.

Once the league's assembly has pronounced the final word on these treaties all members of the league, as well as states that are not members, will be asked to sign them.

If the signatures are not forthcoming blame for the failure of disarmament, leaguers declare, will not rest with the league, but with the individual states, and each will be obliged to file refusal to sign the treaties to accept full responsibility before the entire world.

The league has concentrated on three different projects, each dealing with a special feature of disarmament.

The first of these projects has not begun sent to all governments, including the United States and other members of the league, is the league's initial part of guarantee. It provides that in exchange of guarantees by all signatory powers to protect each other from outside aggression each nation shall proceed to a partial disarmament compatible with its national security. All governments have been asked to send into the secretariat of the league their final observations on the draft project as now prepared. These observations will be placed before the fourth assembly of the league in September.

NOT A REAL "DEAD HEAD"

(Joyhawker, In... Press)

Harry Woode, of the Wellington Kids, News went to a church supper some time ago to which he had been given a "free" ticket.

As he neared the portals, he heard one good sister whisper to another, "Here comes one of those dead-heads."

Reflectively he ate his chicken was and returned to his office and got out his trusty pencil. He found that he had given that particular supper just $6.43 worth of advertising and in return therefore had received one chicken wing and the name "dead-head." Since that day he has collected cash for all church suppers and other pay-as-eats, has never received a free ticket to anything and he also gets the choice part of the chicken.

Perhaps you have never heard them call you "deadhead" but they probably have.

Here and There

For the first time in Ontario, an attempt will be made this spring to organize a voluntary pea pool. Arrangements for the undertaking have been completed by the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, and it is hoped to control absolutely the pea market in the province.

During the year 1923, 3,280 tourist automobiles entered the province of Nova Scotia, the Trail of Evangeline, according to the annual report of the Nova Scotia Tourist Commission. Altogether 63,000 tourists visited the province, and distributed a sum estimated at $6,000,000.

A picked detachment of an officer and 24 men of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police recently crossed the Atlantic on the Canadian Pacific liner Melita. Their duty will be to guard the Canadian exhibits at the British Empire Exhibition. The exhibition and buildings cost about $200,000,000.

A chain of factories stretching across Canada will be established by the Canadian Red Cross on a permanent basis, sponsored by English interests. This was announced by the Earl of Dunmore, V.C., and Sir Harold Bolton after a recent visit to Canada. Sites have already been secured in Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Toronto.

Canada's trade balance is being steadily strengthened, according to the February returns, just issued, the imports for that month, which totalled $87,133,882, showed a decrease of $3,173,817 from the same month last year, while the exports for February this year, totalling $67,274,243, showed an increase of $9,618,332.

Hon. George H. Henry, Ontario minister of public works and highways, has announced a change in the method of financing the planting of trees along public highways. Instead of sending out its own workmen, he says, the Government has a scheme whereby farmers planting trees in front of their own property will be honored so much per tree for planting.

Over $1,000 has been paid by the Province of New Brunswick to wild cat bounties since the commencement of the present fiscal year. Already approximately 400 claims for the 23 bounty offered for each animal have been handled by the chief game warden's branch of the Department of Lands and Forests, as compared with the 51 claims made in 1923, following the bounty offer passed by the legislature in that year.

The splendid success attained by irrigationists in Alberta is evidenced by the last financial statement of the Taber Irrigation District. The report reveals a total cash collectable or on hand of $30,000, of which $7,000 is on deposit in the bank. Operations have been so satisfactory that negotiations have been entered into with the Canadian Pacific Railway for a sinking fund of $2,700 to $5,000 of the bonds of the district held by the railway. In this way it is hoped that the district will be cleared of debt in a few years.

The Canadian Pacific Railway announces that it will resume its winter cruises in 1925, one around the world and the other to the Mediterranean. The 22,000-ton Empress of France has been selected for the former cruise, which will last four months and will completely encircle the globe. She will start from New York on January 27th. The ship has been overhauled and made to as all-burner and entirely renovated. The Empress of Scotland, 42,500 tons, will make the Mediterranean cruise, lasting four months and including all points of interest on that sea.

The Trans-Canada Limited, the crack daily train of the Canadian Pacific between Montreal and Vancouver, and the longest continuous and fastest long-distance express in the world, will resume service on June 15th, at both ends of the route. The running time between Montreal and Vancouver, formerly 92 hours, has been cut by two hours and the running time between Toronto and Vancouver, formerly 86 hours and 50 minutes, by one hour and 15 minutes. These cuts will benefit those going to Europe and the Orient.

Do not rub the nap away—

BLANKETS are given a nap to make them soft and fluffy, and to give them warmth. They should therefore never be rubbed as this will remove some of the nap, and it will also felt and shrink them.

To thoroughly cleanse your blankets without rubbing them try this method.

Washing Directions

A rich live suds is essential throughout the entire process of washing blankets. To obtain this, use two tablespoonfuls of Lux to every gallon of water in the washing.

Dissolve the Lux thoroughly in very hot water, whisking it into a thick suds. Add cold water until lukewarm. Put the blanket into the rich suds, work it up and down, and squeeze the suds through the entire blanket. If the suds die down add more Lux, taking care that it dissolves before you put the blanket in again. Take care to press the suds through the very softest spots, but never rub the blanket.

Rinse in three or more lukewarm waters, of the same temperature as the suds. Feel evenly, not too thick, a loose wringer, and hang dripping. Never wring them. Stretch and pull into shape at intervals when drying.

Blankets washed the Lux way will retain their soft, fluffy appearance even after innumerable launderings.

Pioneer Spirit Is Still At Work.

President of Canadian Pacific Tells His Officers of Railway's Efforts in Nation-Building—The C.P.R. and Politics—Good Wishes for the C.N.R.

With the exception of the Canadian Parliament at Ottawa, there seldom comes together in this country a group of men as thoroughly representative of Canada as met in the Ritchie Building recently when 650 of the higher officers of the Canadian Pacific Railway gathered for

They came from every part of Canada and, dealing as they do, with every phase of Canadian industry and trade, they represented to a remarkable extent the progress and development which Canada is now enjoying.

The atmosphere of the gathering was marked by a speech from President E. W. Beatty, which set forth in illuminating terms the present position of the great company and something of the lines along which it is pursuing the task for which it was first constructed, namely the building of a great Canadian nation.

Mr. Beatty began with a tribute to the bold enterprising men, under such leaders as Champlain, and within sight and sound of the Chateau Frontenac where he was then speaking, had laid the first foundations of nationhood. The spirit of Champlain did not die in 1635, he said, it carried on through the centuries, cleared the forests, tilled the land, founded cities, established routes of trade and commerce, constructed railways and waterways and made today seen wherever Canadian men and women were at the work of nation-building. It was this spirit that had built the Canadian Pacific.

Mr. Beatty's utterance on the matter of politics was as frank as it was important. He said:

"Every Canadian is naturally concerned with national politics, whether they emanate from one political party or another, and with good reason for of its tremendous stake in the Country and the fact that it is a trust for hundreds of millions of British, Canadian and American capital, jealously guards those interests against unfair tax or the adoption of any politics calculated to destroy the integrity of those investments. When I say that, however I have said all. The company is not in politics and I would suggest that it has little, if any, political influence. No officer or employee of the Company has, in my recollection, and certainly not in recent years, been ever asked or requested to discharge his franchise save according to his own belief and conscience that has been the case with that freedom unembarrassed by any one's views or predilections."

Mr. Beatty's reference to the nationalization system of railways was equally frank and timely. He pointed out the peculiar anomaly that: "The less profitable are the operations of the National Railway System the more revenue must be won in its taxes."

He further said: "We may conclude that the test of government ownership is being made under as favorable conditions as can be assured. The railway mileage of the Country is proportionately greater than the traffic available to support it. This Company has a very real reason to hope for the success of the National Railways, provided it is accomplished without withdrawing from us the traffic which we have taken many years to build up and secure. The greatest factor which will contribute to the National Railways' progress is the development of Canada, the increase in population and the expansion of industry. In a happy combination of those factors the progress of the National Railways will continue, I, for one, will be glad because it will carry with it the assurance that Canada's further progress will be still greater in the future than in the past.

The greatness of a railway is accurately gauged by the character of the men it employs. No institution in the country has produced so many outstanding men in their various communities. I speak not merely of such as Sir William Van Horne and Lord Shaughnessy... I speak of hundreds of C.P.R. officers who have so finely served the Company and the Country. Owing to these men, the Canadian Pacific has not been merely a collection of subsidies or a machine for earning profits. It has been a powerful force in the life and progress of Canada, and, during the present building new industries, developing latent resources, opening up waste lands, introducing outside capital, bringing to us tourists or immigrants vast armies of purchasers to consume her products."

The C.P.R. man is inspired by the thought that without the Canadian Pacific Railway, Confederation would never have been agreed to is principle, and would never have been maintained in actual fact. The present King of England while Prince of Wales said: "We all know how the Canadian Pacific Railway has helped to make a Nation." That knowledge accounts more than anything else for the magnificent record and the splendid spirit of the officers of the Company.

Providing our politics are conceived in wisdom and executed with vigor, we have the assurance of great national development, and commercial prosperity. All we can expect in the privilege of contributing to and sharing in the development, because of the Canadians, and because the future of this Company is inextricably connected with the future of our great Dominion."

MacDonald Government Defeated on Rent Evictions Bill—Conservatives Lining up for Concerted Attack—Labor Refuses to Relinquish Reins of Power—Lloyd George Mooted as Coming Power in British Politics

London, April 8.—Premier Ramsay Macdonald's Laborite Government was defeated by 221 to 212 votes in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon when the rent bill, designed to aid unemployment was rejected on second reading.

Hot Battle Coming.

Despite the defeat administered the government, the officials have refused to resign and a hot battle is now certain in Parliamentary circles.

There are indications the Conservatives will make a concerted assault in an effort to force the Laborite Government from office.

New Lloyd George Party.

It is rumored former Premier David Lloyd George may withdraw from the Liberals and form an anti-Labor party.

One of the hardy problems before the Government was protection of unemployment from eviction for non-payment of rent.

Members of the Government proposed to make the treasury pay rents, but such a provision would be a powerful opposition.

Conservative papers are commenting upon the "twilight of the Labor Government."

They indicate Conservative leaders will make a supreme effort to force the Cabinet out of office and to bring about a general election.

Government Near Finish.

While the Conservative attacks are proceeding, the old whisper of "watch Lloyd George" is among the rounds. Among the possibility of the formation of a new party, no one seems to know what the former Premier intends to do.

Political observers call it several months that the Macdonald Government could last more than a few weeks.

COMMUNISM IS FOUGHT BY BOYS

Those present at the Kiwanis luncheon today were given a new insight into the great good being done not only by Communism, but the entire Dominion and the world proper by Boy Scout work.

The speaker, Capt. Jones, Provincial Scout Commissioner of Ontario in his address, told about his mission that he has the spirit of the movement very much at heart, and his principles for the preservation of the old-boys and men toward the true meaning of the spirit of "Scouting" met with very favorable response.

One passage of his address, in which special interest was taken, was the assertion that the Communists of Russia realizing that the Scout movement is the greatest obstacle to the spread of their propaganda, are trying to fool boys into the movement to undermine the loyalty taught to God, King and Country.

The local club is planning to make their contribution to the good work to be remembered in Provincial Kiwanis, and arrangements are now on to invite clubs from many cities in the Province.

Rum Runners Had Hard Luck On First Business Trip of Year

Oshawa, April 8.—Eighteen cases of liquor confiscated and fines aggregating $1,500 was imposed on William Lavoy, Bob Dorey and Ernest Leibutt, and Dan Decharne both of Toronto, when the men and they were arrested at Whitby Saturday night by Provincial Officers Arthur Mason and Taylor and Chief Constable Lavery of Oshawa. Lavoy said it was his first run from Montreal this year and that he had got stuck in the holes several times that had cost him $120 to be hauled out of. The liquor consisted of bootleggers prices, is worth more than $3,000. This together with the fine and costs and expenses of the trip will mean a loss nearly $5,000.

26 KLANSMEN HELD IN JAIL AFTER FIGHT

Face Formal Charges, Riots and Murder at Lilly, Pa.

POLICE KEEP GUARD

Streets Patrolled; Battle Leaves Two Dead and Fifteen Injured

Johnstown, Pa., April 8.—The 26 klansmen held in jail here since they returned from the fatal rioting at Lilly, Pa., on Saturday night, were before an alderman this morning formally charged with rioting and murder, according to announcements made this morning by D. F. Weimer, district attorney. The men have been held incommunicado since their incarceration on Saturday night, despite several attempts to have them released on bonds.

At least one of the klansmen in jail here is known to have given a fictitious name when he was arrested from the statements made by several Johnstown citizens. Other klansmen included some of the most prominent business men in Johnstown and nearby cities. Two constables from Indiana, Pa., were also among those held.

Under a state law those charged with murder cannot be released on bail until they appear before a court of justice.

Police Guard Streets

Lilly, Pa., April 8.—The situation was tense today after the meeting between citizens and Ku Klux Klansmen late Saturday night, when two persons were killed and 15 wounded, three of them critically, in a pitched battle. There are in a serious condition in an Ebensburg hospital.

State police are patrolling the streets here, while 36 alleged Klansmen are held in the jail at Johnstown. Two townsmen are in custody here and several more were taken to the county jail at Ebensburg under a heavy guard of mounted police last night.

Saturday's trouble was not unexpected, according to citizens here, who declared Klansmen have visited Lilly during the past few months and they crosses, which were torn down by irate citizens.

Turns Water on Klan

The Klansmen said to have summoned here in some fifteen motor trucks, one from Altoona, the others from Johnstown. After ceremonies held on Piper's Hill, near the city, the visitors marched to the train, followed by about 500 townspeople, men and women.

As the Klansmen waited for the train to arrive, a large spectators' crowd attached a fire hose to a hydrant and turned the water on the Klansmen. A few minutes later several shots rang out and Conrad Saul fell dead, shot through the heart, and there was another barrage of shots.

Arrest Member of Spracklin Squad

Stanley M. Hallam Now Held on Charge of Theft of $500 in Connection with Trucking Business

Toronto, April 8.—Stanley M. Hallam, once a member of the famous Spracklin liquor enforcement squad at Windsor, was arrested today on Peterstreet, by Detective-Sergeant Wellington Smith and Staff Sergt. Hunt from Barrie, charged with theft of $500 from Harry Reed. A number of similar charges will likely follow.

Hallam, according to the complainant, had inserted advertisements in newspapers asking for truck drivers, who were required to put up $500 as bond. Reed declares he, with a number of other truck drivers, answered the advertisement and put up the $500 bond.

Corporation Formed to take Over Vaudeville Houses in Principal Canadian Cities

Montreal, April 8.—An important development in the local theatrical world is announced today in the formation of a five-million dollar corporation to take over vaudeville theatres in Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa and London and to extend operations to other cities.

E. F. Albee, head of the Keith Vaudeville organization will be the head of the new organization, which has been effected through Canadian interests.

The new concern will be known as the B. F. Keith Co. of Canada, Limited and will be operated in conjunction with the B. F. Keith vaudeville in the U. S. Details of the formation of the corporation were given here today by Percy Douglas, barrister, representing Mr. Albee. He said he was making application for a Dominion charter. The company will have an authorized capital of $5,000,000 divided into 50,000 shares of one hundred dollars each.

Suburban Road Question Laid Over Two Days

A rather lengthy discussion took place last evening at the City Council relative to the appointing of a suburban road commissioner. The matter was finally laid over until an adjourned meeting of the Council on Thursday evening of this week. The following communication from the City Solicitor is explanatory of the matter:

Council Hall, Belleville, Ont., April 7th, 1924.

To the Mayor and Members of the Council of the City Town or Township of Thurlow.

Re-Suburban Road Commission Dear Sirs:—

As requested, I enclose you draft of a Bill for the appointment of a member of this Commission.

In reading Section 3 of 5 Geo. V. c. 51, I notice that there is no time mentioned for the appointment of the Commissioner after the same is authorized by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, and by Chapter 19, Section 3, there is an amendment passed stating that the Bill shall be laid before the Council of a City, Town or Township for the appointment of members to compose a Commission as in the Act mentioned, within thirty days of the receipt, by the Clerk of such municipality, of a copy of the Order-in-Council authorising such commission.

I have nothing to show me when the Order-in-Council authorizing such commission was made. Probably, it might be well for you to ascertain whenever Order-in-Council was made or received by the County Clerk.

Yours truly,
(Signed) S. Masson.

Ald. McCreary—A precedent is being established. I would appoint a commissioner when means an expenditure of money. Table it.

Mayor Mikel—The City and County Council members have considerable work and they appoint a third commissioner and the whole thing is another bother thing. He could not say what the department of highways would do, but he had the power to appoint a commissioner and the Council would have no power in the matter. The question is that the city may refuse to do something that may be detrimental to the city should the Act pass.

Ald. Crombie—The commission if appointed can demand $5 grill every year.

Ald. McCreary—Would we be prejudicing the matter if we laid this matter over for further consideration.

Mayor Mikel said he could not see that there would be any prejudice to the matter to lay it over for a few days.

A motion prevailed to refer the matter over for further consideration at

MAJORITY 300 TO MUSSOLINI IN ELECTIONS

Italian Dictator Has Free Rein in New Rome House

60 PER CENT. OF VOTE

Fascisti Party Leads at Polls, With Results Never in Doubt

Rome, April 8.—When the result of Sunday's general election officially announced, it was learned that Premier Mussolini's Fascisti party won.

The Government party had 60 per cent polled 60 per cent of the total vote.

Public interest was slight, as it was a foregone conclusion the Fascisti would win. Only about 55 per cent of the voters went to the polls.

The Central News circulated a report that Mussolini's ticket received 250,149, while the opposition got only 13,941 votes.

Fascisti On Guard

There were few incidents. Fascisti militia men and police were on guard in districts where trouble was anticipated. Fifty per cent of the vote in Rome was cast; 40 per cent in Naples; 70 per cent in Tuscany, and 65 per cent in Lombardy, Piedmont and Venetia.

Mussolini's Government will have a majority of about 300 in the Chamber of Deputies, placing the Cabinet in complete control of the legislative machinery.

Socialists Gain

A surprising feature of the election was the strong vote polled by the Socialists, while the Democratic party polled less than had been expected.

The Socialist party gains nine seats in the chamber. It is estimated that, with the 179 seats secured by the Fascisti party, the Socialists and Communists will have 150 seats. The latest returns stated that the Fascists already have secured 357 seats.

DEBENTURE ISSUE WITHOUT ASSENT OF ELECTORS

City Engineer C. Campbell, Mr. S. Masson, K.C. City Solicitor and Ald. W. R. Cleary Attend Toronto yesterday on city business. Before the Railway Board Committee of the Legislature a private Bill was passed for this city, the bill being as follows:

A Bill to authorize the Municipal Council of the Corporation of Belleville to pass a By-law authorizing the issue of debentures of the said corporation to the amount of $25,000 without the assent of the electors for the purpose of paying the cost of construction of a storm sewer on Burnham street.

DID NOT SING

Mr. J. H. Rather did not sing at Christ Church service Sunday night, as announced in the church service on Saturday was an error.

Ald. Treverton—If the Corbyville bridge will assist in the improvement of that road and the county also, the city should do its share.

Ald. Gronlund—The commission if appointed can demand $5 grill every year.

Ald. McCreary—Would we be prejudicing the matter if we laid this matter over for further consideration.

Mayor Mikel said he could not see that there would be any prejudice to the matter to lay it over for a few days.

A motion prevailed to refer the matter over for further consideration at

Corby Baths To Become Reality After Nine Years—Council To Act

Some nine years ago the Hon. H. Corby passed away and amongst his bequests was $5,000 for the establishment of a bath house on Victoria Park. The proposed bath has been brought up year after year in the Council but no definite action taken. This year's Council will however carry out the proposition as the following recommendation was last night unanimously adopted.

Recommended that the sketch of the proposed Corby bath on Victoria Park prepared by Mr. J. A. Thomson in collaboration with the City Engineer at the request of this Council and upon the sanction of the Parks commission and Labor Committee, together with complete plans and specifications be prepared advertising and tenders called for construction of same.

ANTI-BETTING MOVE CLAIMS SLIGHT HOPES

Good's Resolution Not Likely to Pass in Present Session

TIME CUT TOO SHORT.

Only Wednesdays Left for Private Members in Dominion House

Ottawa, April 8.—With only Wednesday afternoon remaining for private members' resolutions, prospects for action upon W. C. Good's anti-race betting measure have diminished considerably.

Up to last week Monday sittings were held for resolutions submitted by individual members. But the Government moved to have this changed and the sessions cut out. Mr. Good was the only representative to make a spirited protest. It is believed he had his measure for anti-tote betting legislation in view at the time.

Anxious to Speed Up

Supporters of the Government pointed out that time was passing and their private members had been allowed their resolutions to stand over. Premier King said he was anxious to get on with the work of government. The view with the support of the majority of members.

It is fairly obvious that no resolution calling for such drastic action as that demanded by Mr. Good could be debated and passed upon by Parliament before the end of the session. The decision would be adjourned and the measure remained in the indefinite future. Many resolutions which meet with the fate never come up again during the session.

No Liberal Support

As Mr. Goofs resolution is opposed to the race course interests and to the Government proposes to submit it, it is considered improbable that the Bill will receive Liberal support.

Conservatives are by no means pushing it to the front. They will avoid a meet with "Progressive approval only. Many Conservatives make betting practices illegal, while the Government desires to see racetracks operated in the few provinces to prohibit publication of information of value to book patrons.

"Y" Director Leaves City

Captain William Bowie who for the past seven months has been the popular Y.M.C.A. director here, left for St. John, N. B., this morning, where a farewell function was accepted at a meeting of the Belleville executive of the Y.M.C.A. held yesterday afternoon at the Y. and presided over by President George Hall. Bowie is the second director of the committee appointed their resignation during the past year, the service which he had so successfully rendered extending for little more than half a year.

Captain Bowie will go to Montreal as Director of Athletics, and will be chief supervisor of twenty-three playgrounds conducted there.

Since coming to Belleville in September Captain Bowie has done a splendid outstanding work. He organized the Y.M.C.A. basketball team, one of the classes, and entered teams in basketball and other sports competitions. Only last week end, he was responsible for the local basketball team's successful invasion of Peterboro, where their prowess ever presented in the city. By accepting the Montreal position Captain Bowie will benefit from a summer course at McGill University which he will attend, and a three year course at the University also carries the title of Bachelor of Physical Education.

Captain Bowie first became interested in Association work at Broadview, Y.M.C.A. Toronto, and continues with the original Princess Patricia Regiment, and Captain Bowie later transferred to the Royal Scots Fusiliers and experienced the military training with General Allenby in Asia Minor and Palestine.

SCANDAL IN MONTREAL IS GROWING

Evidence of Strong and Certain Nature to be Given Against at Least Two of Men Held—Chief of Police Comments re Implication Against Forest

Montreal, April 8.—Evidence of a very strong and certain nature will be given against at least two of the men who are held as suspects in the murder and bank robbery, according to information gleaned at headquarters this morning. The clues which has been placed on all detectives and officers, is growing more effective day by day with the result that any new clues or evidences is kept secret and it is only through corridor gossip and a word here and there that any information may be had.

It appears, according to these rumors, that when the inquest is opened on Thursday the testimony of detectives and others will startle the city. Sensational developments is promised, with the effects not only concerning the men now standing all over the country and into the United States.

Chief Belanger, Inspector Egan and Crown Prosecutor Calder will say absolutely nothing about the affair except that the inquest will provide all that is expected and a whole lot more.

Another one of the men, who was taken in on Thursday morning is said to be a well known man one of the United States Penitentiaries who is also wanted in New York on a murder charge. The person now in the city today, at headquarters in connection with the holding is alleged to have a record, and to be wanted for some crime or other.

When questioned about the report in which it was also mentioned had already that the police were implicated in the holdup, Inspector Egan would not comment, but admitted the possibility of some officer or officers being connected with it, but he certainly did not know anything about it, "if information of this kind was given", stated the inspector, "they would have suppressed their proof to us and we certainly would have investigated it." It is now notable what has been done.

The discovery of the $27,000 which was contained in a black satchel came about through the efforts of a painter who was working in a room at the house on Cournol street, in the basement of which was found a bank of work on the wall in cupboard when he noticed that the cement appeared to have been made there and that an aperture had been filled in with putty and covered with wallpaper. He investigated further and found the satchel and notified the police to call. On opening the satchel he was astonished to find a roll of bills and thinking immediately of the hold up in the Bank of Hochelaga, he tried to headquarters after taking into custody three men men who were found in the house.

Sensational Charges

The startling statement according an alderman as authority for the statement that the men held in the Montreal Bank hold-up would likely leap to "suicide" rather than make confession at head-quarters. The alderman's statement continued that if an investigation were held, there would be a sensation that would shock the city to the foundations and result in many official heads falling by the wayside.

When interviewed this morning regarding the above statements, Chief Pierre Belanger said that if the alderman quoted, had anything to say he thought, it was only fair that he should say it to the head of the force. He also said that the present members of the police or detective forces were capable, and that said he would welcome an investigation at any time.

"There may be something in the above statements, but no information here is nobody under surveillance at present", stated Chief Belanger. "The moment I find the finger of suspicion pointing to any of the men, he goes."

"We are doing everything possible to clear up the robbery and to date we have done good work. We say men have done good work. We say men have been arrested and it is in the interests of justice that their names be withheld from the public for the time being. No good purpose will be served by divulging them.

"I think it is only fair that whatever spread that story of collusion between the underworld and police should be denied and confer with us. If it is an alderman, he as one of the members of the city, should confide in the police executive."

W.C.T.U. Ladies Were Victims of Light Fingered Artist — No Round-up Made Yet

Peterboro, April 8.—An afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. A. A. Morrison, 452 Hunter street, under the auspices of the W.C.T.U. on the eve of an outrage on Thursday last, when a well collected purse was removed from $5.00 to $50.00 from coats and wraps left in the hall. The affair which was a most successful affair, attracted a large number of ladies, who resided in the downstairs part of the house and it is understood that a large sum of money was obtained.

The happening had been kept quiet by the ladies in an endeavour to locate the culprit, but inquiries at the police office this morning elicited the information that no arrests have been made. Since the hallway was crowded throughout the evening the authorities are puzzled as to the method successful in making his way to the room where the coats were left.

STRETCHING HIDES

There are now some 25 investigations of alleged political trickeries now under way at the United States capital but the probe in the manipulation of bond purchases and sales by the Provincial Treasurer's department of the Province of Ontario will get the first attention of residents of this province.

Enough has already been brought out to necessitate a most thorough probe. If officials of the department have been kicking their duties or have been "feathering their own nests," then it is time that the taxpayers of Ontario knew it.

A lot was said during the last election about "tides on the fence" but most people merely took it for the usual political talk that politicians appear to love around election time. Things have, however, taken on a new aspect in the past few days and regardless of whose hide is stretched, the people want to have all the facts.

JUST AN ACCIDENT

A young wife, mother of a child ten months old, got into a scrap with her husband, with the result that she spent a week in London jail on remand. When an effort was made to bring about reconciliation with her husband, she objected. The week in jail, she declared, had been the happiest of her married life. She was warm and comfortable; she had three meals a day and nothing to worry about.

Fortunately that woman's case is not typical, yet it is not without significance. That a young married woman should find happiness in jail in comparison with her own home, indicates a very sad state of affairs. There are probably not many such cases in this country, but even a few would be too many. The case suggests that possibly in our zeal for uplifting the heathen, who may be quite contents with his lot, we are overlooking work right at home that ought to be done.

There is another thought. This young woman found comparative comfort in the jail. She was warm, she had enough to eat and she was free from responsibility. This is a reminder of what often happens when a person convicted of an offence against the law is sent to jail. In far too many cases the punishment, or the worst of it falls upon the innocent dependents of the person so sentenced. The period in jail will have food and shelter; his dependents outside may have neither.

GIVEN UP FARMING

The editor of the London Advertiser is grieved to see so many farms sales advertised in the papers. But perhaps it is not such a bad sign. The persons speaking to dispose of their farms may be in a position to retire. It is not the ambition of every farmer to be able to retire before he gets too old, so that he may "wrestle a year with labor and rags of ease!" Some are quitting farming, no doubt because they have found, or think they have found, the chance of bettering their condition. That is really a bad sign. Most people are looking for such chances.

Some farmers make the mistake of retiring too soon; some make the mistake of retiring at all. Some retire before they have quite enough laid away. They find the cost of living in the town or city much higher than they expected and they are forced to dip into themselves. And there are others who find it difficult or impossible to accommodate themselves with leisure time on their hands, and they don't know how to use it. They have acquired the working habit, and they seem lost when they have no work to do. There are many farmers who would find more happiness in their old age if, instead of going into town where they decide to give up the farm, they built themselves cottages on the old homestead and reserved enough land to satisfy their need for something to do.

PRESS OPINIONS

THOUSAND DOLLAR COWS

(Border Cities Star)

A Woodstock cow, Columbia Mercena, Ormsby, the three-year-old Holstein which topped her class in the 305-day division of the R.O.P. tests has been sold to the Japanese government for $1,000. It's just as easy to raise $1,000 cows as it is to raise $150 ones. The Japs, who, by going into the dairy business, intend to replace the rice and fish diet of their people, with one more like that which has made the white races what they are, take no chances with buying scrub cattle. Neither should our farmers. If they can sell cows for $1,000 apiece, they should raise that kind.

SUCCESS IN RETAILING

(Canadian News)

One of Canada's most successful retailers summed up the ten main reasons for his success as follows:

1—He kept up with the times.

2—He didn't try to do everything himself.

3—He took time for exercise and recreation.

4—He maintained efficiency by developing able help.

5—He did not permit system to run into red tape.

6—He did not practice cheeseparing economy.

7—He did the little things worth while.

8—He developed his capacity for larger duties by avoiding the pitfalls of detail.

9—He took frequent inventory of himself and his stock, and knew but not least—

10—He was a regular and consistent advertiser.

HARD FIGHT TO KEEP ON TOP

(Financial Post)

"In the members of the Canadian National Newspapers and Periodicals was given recently by the Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario Government when he pointed out that the hardest fight in life was not to reach the top but rather to stay there.

"People tell me that I have arrived, that now my reputation is made I shouldn't have to advertise," said Hon. Mr. Martin, adding: "But that's where they make a mistake. It is usually a hard fight to reach the top, but it is twice as hard to stay there. The man who is a success is hampered at on all sides and he has to work and fight even harder than before to keep the advantage he has won.

In the foregoing statement is a message for every man in the food-stuff business—manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer, says Progressive Grocer. A substantial business and a reputation for service and quality mean to quit, to rest on his oars, just as Mr. Martin points out, that is a dangerous policy. The struggle to "get there" must be succeeded by the struggle to "stay".

THE ORIGIN OF PAPER

("Publicity")

Paper is one of the most important things that ever came from the Orient. The Chinaman who made the first sheet of paper by covering a skeleton of willow switches with the wet pulp of silk started an industry that has been one of the foundations of civilization.

Centuries ago, when the rulers of the European nations were unable to read their names, the peaceful inhabitants of China were manufacturing paper from vegetable fibre and rags, and the Chinese Emperor was the possessor of a library containing more than 50,000 books.

As early as the ninth century the Chinese made a good quality paper from mixed pulp of various fibres and rags, and gave this paper a smooth writing surface by either coating it with gypsum or sizing it with starch or gelatine procured by burning hides or other plants.

The Arabs gathered a knowledge of paper manufacture from the Chinese and by the year 900 the Mohammedan people had become leaders in the art.

Broadcast Bill's Radiolays

Senor D. Santini, who acted as announcer during the first Spanish radio program ever broadcasted from station KDKA, the world's pioneer broadcaster operated by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, is one of the few men in the United States who can speak the Castilian language.

In Senor Santini's case his ability to speak this language comes naturally because he was born in Santa Fe, about 150 miles from Buenos Aires, Argentina.

It was in pursuit of education that he finally came to the Westinghouse Company. In his native country he graduated from the Escuela Industrial Regional de la Nacion in 1918. Feeling that he needed a more thorough technical education he came to the United States in 1919 and worked in Salt Lake City for a time until he learned the English language. Next he matriculated in Ohio State University in 1920 where because of his previous education he was allowed one and one-half year's credit toward an electrical engineering degree. He graduated from Ohio State in 1923 with the B. E. degree and immediately came to the Westinghouse Company where he entered the graduate student courses.

WBZ NOTES

"It is a romantic thought to wonder what the early colonists would have said if, during the days of the Indian battle in Springfield, Mass., were heard in Hanover, Mc., 100 miles away, a more fan thinks of radio accomplishments," remarked Dr. Frank Conrad, chief engineer of station WBZ and KDKA, Pittsburgh. "Yet that is the marvel of today. Not knowing what the future holds in store for radio, I am thought is that the world should be started off right each morning with a good dose of buoyancy. He also states that if the regular artists don't liven up their early, he has a second team play or even the scrubs, as he expressed it. This fellow sure has the radio fever.

BLAZE ON CAMPTON ROAD

When a fire-bell tolled in the home of George Smith, Campton Road, caught fire, the fire brigade made a hurried run to the scene of the blaze and prevented what might have been a serious fire at 3 a.m. or 4 a.m. Very little damage resulted, and the cause of the blaze is unknown.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Phyllis Dorothy Stanley, who died April 8th, 1923.

There are two who miss you sadly,
And find a year lonely since you went
There are two who think of you daily
But try'er to be brave and content.

You have gone across the river
To the shore of evergreen,
How I long to see your dear face
But the river flows between
And my aching heart is calling,
To the shadow dark and grey
For the dear one who has left me
Just one year ago today.

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all.
From memory's page time cannot blot
Those little words forget-her-not.

Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break but all in vain,
To have to love and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
Years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

In Masonry For 63 Years

Monday April 8—At the regular meeting of Masonic Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, Mr. Charles O'Hara, at 82 winters, was presented by his worthy sire and celebrated the sixty-third anniversary of his Masonic career.

Mr. O'Hara was admitted into Masonry in March 1861, when Madoc Lodge was in its infancy without substantial membership or lodge room.

In the year 1870 the Lodge decided to build a hall. Under enormous difficulties, the members, being of iron clad form with lion courage of pioneer days, volunteered their savings and purchased the premises they now own and set forth to build a real Masonic Hall.

Brother Charles O'Hara donated and built the foundations. His brothers, James and Henry, contributed the lumber and other members gave timber, money and labor and in a comparatively short time the building was completed and has stood the test of time for more than half a century.

Bro. O'Hara has been a constant member, taking part in filling various offices in the Lodge and is now reputed to be the oldest Masonic Mason in Canada. The Lodge welcomed him warmly and his career in Masonry was reviewed from early admission into the Craft, revealing the facts of his devotion to the principals of the Order, his valued services, his true brotherly love in faith, hope and charity and a desire for further light in Masonic science.

At the conclusion of many complimentary congratulations from his fellow Craftsmen, Bro. O'Hara was presented with a handsome sum of gold.

It is the easiest thing in the world to forgive yourself for the sins you condemn in others.

Loss of memory seldom becomes so serious as to make you forget the people who owe you money.

Scandal

Chief Belanger said he was determined to probe any rumors and would not rest until every member of the force was free of the stigma of suspicion. He repeated that he welcomed the light of publicity and would also welcome confirmation of the above rumors. He concluded by telling that time would tell whether his men were mixed up in the bandits or not. Till then they would carry on in their own way and eventually bring the bandits to justice. The chief also denied that any important changes in the force were contemplated at the present time.

The Chief then switched to the elections, remarking that they were ready for any trouble that may arise. Special motor cycle squads are ready to jump into action at a moment's notice. There had been very little trouble up to the time of going to press, but a watchful eye was being kept on every section of the city.

As the results of examinations made by bank officials on Saturday afternoon, it was announced at headquarters that a great number of the bills recovered by the detectives in the house at 57 Coursol street, have been positively identified as a portion of the money which was stolen from the collection car of the Bank of Hochelaga on Tuesday afternoon last, when a messenger and bandit were both fatally injured. The amount recovered by the police has now reached the total of $33,000 of which $6,000 was found on the suspects arrested on Tuesday night, and the remaining $27,000 in a black satchel in the wall of the same house on Coursol street on Thursday night.

The initials of bank tellers, who handled the money before it was given to the messenger in the car, were said to have been found on many of the bills which go to make up both amounts discovered by the police. Examination of the black cloths found in the house resulted in the discovery that the pieces were of the same material as the cloth used in bandits' masks and that many sections used to make the masks were fitted to the pieces found in the house, they made a complete section.

Proof that some of the suspects held actually took part in the holdup was also said to have been found, and though it was not confirmed, it is rumored that the evidence in this connection is very strong.

Denial of the statements that eleven persons were held at headquarters in connection with the double crime of Tuesday, was made at detective headquarters. Inspector Ezra having told Coroner McMahon that only eight suspects were in custody awaiting the inquest on Wednesday. This inquest promises to produce some very startling and strong evidence according to the police. Dr. Derome has examined all the articles and will make a report on his findings at the hearing.

Chamber Given Rebate on Tax

A recommendation relative to the payment to the Chamber of Commerce was adopted by the Chamber of Commerce Conduct last night, was adopted. Ald. Robinson called for the yeas and nays to adopt the report and was the only dissenter. Those voting for the adoption were Aldermen Foster, Gardiner, Greenleaf, LaRocke, McCreary, Patterson and Treverton.

The recommendation was as follows: Recommended that the Council of 1924 respect and carry out the understanding arrived with preceding councils in regard to the assessment on the northerly half of the building occupied in part by the Chamber of Commerce, that is to say that the assessment be fixed at $5,000 and because of the fact that the assessment was raised to $10,000 for the year 1923, without the knowledge of the Chamber of Commerce that said Chamber of Commerce be given a grant of $87.40 to cover overcharge of said year 1923.

Council Has

Considerable business was transacted at the Council meeting last night and in consequence the session was somewhat prolonged. Many recommendations were acceded to, a number of accounts were passed and several by-laws.

Members present were Mayor Mikel, Aldermen W. H. McCreary, A. E. LaRocke, R. J. E. Graham, H. W. Greenleaf, W. H. Paterson, E. Gardiner, G. E. Foster, S. Robinson, R. H. Treverton.

After the reading and confirming of the minutes of last meeting the Council went into committee of the whole on reports etc., Ald. Gardiner in the chair.

Recommendations

In addition to the recommendations passed at the civic committees on Thursday evening last the following were passed.

Recommended that the chairman of market and City Property be authorized to arrange for necessary repairs to the roof over the boiler room of City Hall.

Recommended that the report of consulting engineers Gore, Nicholls and Storey be adopted and said engineers be instructed to call for tenders covering completion of water works improvements.

Recommended that the tender of Drummond McCall & Co. covering a car load of six inch water pipe be accepted.

Want to erect Tank

The Quinte Volcanizing Company asked permission to install a gasoline tank on property on Front street with a goose neck attached extending over the sidewalk.

The matter was referred to the Public Works and Market and City Property Committee.

Claims for Damages

Claims for damages were asked by Rev. W. P. D. Wilson and Mr. G. Graham on account of water backing up on their premises. This was caused by a sewer becoming blocked.

Peddling Fruit

Mr. Fraser Way addressed the Council requesting that he be allowed to peddle vegetables and fruit about the city without having to pay a license at the present time. He would later take out a license. The applicant stated he had a wife and four children and was without work.

Permission was given Way to peddle for a month without a license.

Motions

Ald. Greenleaf moved, seconded by Ald. Foster that pending the opinion of the City Solicitor in the matter of the debentures bylaw for the Parks Commission that the Treasurer be empowered to issue cheques up to $1,000. Carried.

Ald. Paterson moved, seconded by Ald. Greenleaf that the Roller street sewer be constructed under section 9 of the Local Improvement Act. Carried.

Coupons are Ready

From now on, as long as this great offer lasts, a Bible Coupon is being printed in these columns daily. Three of those coupons will enable the holder to take advantage of our offer explained therein. The idea is to encourage Bible reading in order to overcome the world's unrest—a movement which is being sponsored by leading newspapers of this country. Make your selection early to-morrow—style A, as shown in the accompanying illustration; or style B, which is less elaborately bound but just as complete and durable.

Wonderful Lessons in the Bible's English for Writers and Speakers

Shakespeare was master of nearly twenty thousand words, Milton of about thirteen thousand. But the whole King James Version of the Bible contains not over six thousand words; not a half of Milton's, not a third of Shakespeare's vocabulary.

Short words are always strong words; they explode like bullets. Do you know that the average word in the English Bible, including even the proper names, is composed of less than five letters? Leave out the proper names and the average word wouldn't have even four letters.

In the beloved 23rd Psalm there are 119 words; 95 are words of one syllable.

In the Sermon on the Mount more than 80 per cent. are words of one syllable. In the often Commandments, which are based all the laws of all the world, there are 319 words; 295 are words of one syllable; and only 60 of two and more syllables. In Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg, perhaps the greatest in the world, there are 266 words. Of these, 194 words are of one syllable; 53 of two syllables; and only 19 of three or more syllables.

There is food for thought in these figures. What an improvement in our writers and speakers, if, like Lincoln, they would only give study to the English of the Bible.

Greatly reduced illustration of the large Red Letter volume—Style A—with Christ's sayings printed in red for instant identification.

The Intelligencer's Big Offer to Its Readers

COMMENCE WORK ON TENNIS COURTS

Every Promise of a Very Successful Tennis Season Here

Tennis enthusiasts will be glad to hear that a start has been made in getting the courts into shape on the Armory lawn. They had a good rolling today and this will be continued until the playing starts. Last season was the most successful in the history of the club. So successful indeed, that there's some talk of rebuking the 16 plus year, the finance, owing to such good shape. This matter will be discussed and decided at a meeting of the club members on Thursday night at the Y. M. C. A. According to the talk one hears, there is going to be more doubles playing tennis this year in Belleville than ever before. The president of the club informs the intelligencer that every encouragement is going to be given to any who wish to join and learn the game. They will be instructed and coached by the older players who have heartily agreed to this arrangement. It was the opinion of that officer that there are not many young people in Belleville, who are content to watch others play instead of playing themselves, too many riding in motor cars that should be walking or for a little healthful recreation, and that there are others who, dressed in heavy coats and tweeds, will look over the railings during evenings at the lucky people who can get out in the sunshine in the lighter and whiter of white dark clothing, and get the exhilaration and tingle in the blood that comes from strenuous exercise in the open. Sunshine is the great brightener, Uncle Angus Bruce used to say, all those people to come out and be brightened up, learn a good game, get fit, and incidentally meet some very nice people.

SPRING HAS COME NEW YORK SHOWS SEASON'S FASHIONS

The capricious season had arrived, says New York. Crocuses are glowing among the ivy tangles about the fountains in the old fruit yards of Washington Square despite the snow of last week. Pussy willows fringe the pools in Central Park, and verdure on the avenue offer trays of violets and fruit ing attitude. These pleasant signs and a teasing wind that one day blows warm and another chill are sharp reminders that one must set earnestly about the task of completing the wardrobe for spring and early summer.

Never before has so much been offered from which to choose. styles from Paris are remarkably artistic and individual, and the accomplishments of American designers are coming up and up. Many features that proved to be thoroughly unartistic often pure nonsense have disappeared, and the appeal in the latest fashions is sane and makes largely for grace and beauty.

Tempt Fair Shoppers

The display in the New York shops, department stores and special houses alike, offers subtle temptation to women of appreciation, for the styles are novel, materials are lovely, and the ever-to-be-desired quality of youthfulness is successfully expressed. A most grateful feature of the Spring "sales" is the reasonable valuation of even the latest and smartest things—more reasonable now than has been at any time since pre-war days.

Wrap is Popular

The first item in the Spring outfit for which need is felt is the wrap. The fur coat, which has been more generally worn the past Winter than ever before, becomes quickly burdensome as the days grow gentle, and the demand is for some thing of medium weight to replace it. The coat of soft green cloth made a separate wrap indispensable and was brought into fashion among new models in coats capes and variants of the [illegible]. The new models express so [illegible] great trends that selection is [illegible] a matter of personal taste and of adapting the wrap to the gown with which it is worn.

Straight Lines

For the chestnut brick and most of the straight-line gowns a plain coat strictly tailored and unbroken in silhouette from neck to hem is the accepted type. It is cut full length, three-quarter, or to the knee and below the knee that has been accepted as ultra smart. This model appeared with the authority of an exclusive house in Paris among the Fall coats, and was developed in several materials and colors, fur trimmed.

BLUNDERS

WHY IN THIS WRONG?

One of the many annoyances that the postal service has to contend with is the receipt of bundles of carelessly sealed letters, many of which are stuck together. Since letters can be run through the canceling machines only one at a time, all those stuck together must first be pulled apart by some postal employee. This may result in mutilation of the addresses or in placing the letters to one side until other mail has been handled.

MULQUEEN HOME

Chairman P. J. Mulqueen of the Canadian Olympic Committee returned home yesterday morning from attending the winter Olympics and touring Europe with his family.

He was naturally delighted with the hockey team, as players, sports men and well behaved boys. Gorman, the St. John skater, did remarkably well, but lack of ice and no practice at all destroyed his chances.

He is greatly pleased with the reports of the Canadian quarter-miler, Johnston, now at Oxford, and St. John also has a boy of great promise.

Preparations for the summer Olympics will have his attention from now until the contingent sails, June 20.

75-YEAR TERM GIVEN CONFESSOR OF MANY CRIMES

Chicago, April 8.—Henry C. Thomas who confessed one murder and 375 robberies, in addition to numerous assaults upon women and little girls was given a sentence of 75 years by Judge Cavely on the single charge of criminal assault upon a woman. The court criticised the state attorney's office for handling the case and said a mad could not be convicted of murder upon his confession alone, but the state must bring some evidence to sustain the confession.

Thomas is 48 years old. Under the good behavior and other clauses in the sentence, he will have to serve about 40 years before he is eligible for parole, but at the rate criminals are being turned out of the penitentiaries in this state, he may be at liberty shortly.

Mrs. Audley Pelorton, 83 years old, testified that Thomas with a revolver pistol dragged her into the prairie near her home last April and attacked her outrage. Thomas admitted the guilt. Experts pronounced Thomas sane and he insisted he had murdered William Krauter, but the court ignored this confession, although the police and others believe it true.

THE DANGER SIGN

"So you've dropped her?"
"Yes, I found it was getting dangerous."
"What happened up there?"
"Well, the last time I called she began to tell me the kind of a house she hoped to have some day, and I decided she'd be proposing to me next, so I called it off."—Detroit Free Press.

Carnation Milk

What the Red and White Label Means to the Modern Housewife

It means real economy. Carnation keeps—none is wasted. It serves every need for milk. In place of cream for coffee, cereals or fruits, use it just as it comes from the can. For cooking, simply add water as desired. For tea use one part Carnation, three parts water.

It means wonderful convenience! Get it with your groceries. Store it in your pantry. It is always ready, always sweet and pure—always the same dependable quality.

Carnation is just pure fresh milk, evaporated to double richness, kept safe by sterilization. It bears a label the housewife can trust.

Order several tall (16 oz.) cans or a case of 48 cans from your grocer. Test it, critically, yourself.

The Carnation Recipe Book is a splendid collection of 100 tested recipes. A copy of this Recipe Book is ready for you. Write for it today. It's FREE.

RICE PUDDING—3½ cups water, 1¼ cups Carnation Milk, ½ cup rice, ½ tsp. salt, 2 tbsp. sugar. Wash rice, mix ingredients, and pour into buttered baking dish. Bake two and one-half hours in a very slow oven, stirring every twenty minutes the first hour of cooking to prevent rice from settling.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY
CHARLES GARVICE

"Perhaps if I were a labourer's daughter, I should be ever so much happier," she thought. "But why can't I be happy as I am? I am the mistress of Vancourt Towers; I have more money than I know what to do with, and all the beautiful dresses and jewels I used to covet a few months ago, and yet—and yet—" She shrugged her shoulders and tried to laugh away the feeling of discontent and wistfulness which had of late come upon her.

She was almost ashamed to go through the house in her rustic garb, but she put aside front on it and marched down the stairs with her head well up. As it happened, there was no one in the hall to see her—none of the servants had gone to the hay-fields, and she left the house and went across the park towards the home meadows.

The hay-making was in full swing. Jack had had a busy day, and under the cool, but energetic away, the hands had worked as they had never worked before. The new machines had answered admirably; the grass had been cut quickly— with a rapidity which amazed the old-fashioned Vancourt folk—and the heat being great, the hay had "made" almost at once and was now ready to carry. Before Esther had left the house, the wagons, or wains, as they were locally called, were in the fields and the men were beginning to load.

The scene was one of those charming ones which can only be seen in Old England. The hay formed huge billows on the smooth, newly cut field, and men, women, and children, were spread about in picturesque groups. In a corner of one of the fields sat Mrs. Martin, with Nettie beside her, and in front of them were huge cans of tea, and still huger hampers of bread and butter and cake, with which the hay-makers regaled themselves.

Jack seemed to be all over the place at once; now he was directing the forking-machine, at another moment he was pouring out beer from a four-gallon jar—it is wonderful how much beer a hay-maker can drink—and now he was pitching hay into the first of the wains.

Every now and then, as he passed Mrs. Martin and Nettie, the child would call to him and Jack would stop and throw himself down beside her and take the piece of cake or bread and butter which she had ready and waiting for him, and then would once he picked her up in his arms and dropping her upon one of the hay cocks, covered her with hay.

He was the life and soul of the party and wherever he strolled near a group of workers that group worked all the harder.

To him the free meadows of limited acres must have seemed very small compared with the miles of pasture with which he had been familiar in Australia, but Jack was one of those men to whom the work of the moment was all important and did not admit of comparison; and he worked as hard as if the hay he was getting in for Miss Esther Vancourt were actually his own.

Every now and then, when his duty of supervision took him to the crest of the hill he glanced towards the Towers. He had sent her an invitation, but she had not come. She was evidently too proud, too indifferent. All right, it did not matter; they could get on very happy without Miss Vancourt of the Towers.

Amongst the workers was Kate Trahorn. She, like Esther, had hesitated about coming; but she had not been able to remain away. She had started working in company of two or three other girls, but she had gradually drifted away by herself. At times Jack came up to her and spoke to her. At the first occasion he noticed that she was working with a heavy hay fork.

"That's too big a weapon for you, Miss Trahorn," he said. "Here, I'll find you a lighter one."

He strode across the field; found a smaller fork and brought it to her.

"Don't you work too hard now," he said. "You're not strong, you know."

"I am very strong," she said. "See!" She lifted up a forkload of hay above her head; but she had taken more than she could hold and she staggered and seemed about to fall. Jack put his arm round her quickly, as he would have put his arm round the oldest and plainest woman in the field, and prevented her from falling.

"You see!" he said. "Don't take up too much. I should never forgive myself if you hurt yourself."

The red flooded her face, but it was hidden by her sun-bonnet as she turned away.

Now, it chanced that the little episode was seen by Esther as she entered the field. She could not hear Jack Gordon's quite composed and common-place tone and words, but she saw him put his arm round the girl, and she stopped dead short with a strange feeling of doubt and disgust. Had she stayed away from Mrs. Brutes' dinner, danced music after and come down to the hay-making solely to witness Mr. Gordon canvassing a curtsy?

After a moment she went forward, softly biting her lip, and Jack from the farther end of the field, noticing, with his quick eye, a new comer, strode up to her. He was so absorbed in his work that he saw only another country girl in a cotton frock and sun-bonnet; she, glancing up at him almost shyly, saw a stalwart man without coat or waistcoat, his shirt open at the neck, a broad leather belt round his waist. He looked every inch a man, sunby his sun-burnt face and quick, flashing eyes; and the grace most reluctantly strongly waiting over reluctantly, because of what she had just seen.

"Have something to do?" he asked. "Rake that hay into a heap for the wain that's coming here. Here's a rake;" and the blood rushed to his face. But it was only for a moment; then he said coolly enough:

"Oh, you have come, Miss Vancourt! Do you only want to look on, or do you want to work like the rest?"

"I want to work—like the rest," said Esther.

"All right," he said in a matter-of-fact way. "Here's a rake; you can have it like into a heap, and I'll lift it into the cart."

USES OF ADVERSITY

"Poverty has its blessings," remarked the philosophic man.

"That's right," responded his companion. "It was annoying to be stepped out in the stock market as I was last week, but it's put an insolate stop to a threatened breach of promise suit."—Boston Transcript.

The Letter Box

Kingston, April 2, 1924.

To the Editor,

Dear Sir:

As a reader of your paper for years, I wish to write a few lines. I have friends of poor health, caused by my name that floats around Belleville Hectopitic and other places.

I do not care when the truth is told but a lie may be a good thing for some people if they had to prove what they say.

If have suffered enough from others that try to do all the harm they can against me, so I hope this will be a hint to those that like to talk and say what is not true against a poor woman that works hard to make a living for herself but those people that live in glass houses forget they should never throw stones. Thanking you kindly for space, sincerely,

Mrs. F. PECK.

EXCRUCIATING PAINS, CRAMPS

Entirely Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ekerts, Ont.—"I started with cramps and bearing-down pains in the age of seven years, and I would get so nervous I could hardly stay in bed, and I had such pains that I would scream, and my mother would call the doctor to give me something to take. I got married, and I have had four healthy children, but I still have pains in my right side. I am a farmer's wife with more work than I am able to do. I have taken two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel that it is helping me every day. My sister-in-law, who has been taking your medicine for some time and uses your Sanative Wash, told me about it and I recommend it now, as I have received great relief from it."—Mrs. Albert Tory, R. R. 1, Ekerts, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for ailments common to women. It has been used for such troubles for nearly fifty years, and thousands of women have found relief as did Mrs. Tory, by taking this splendid medicine.

If you are suffering from irregularity, painful illness, nervousness, headache, backache or melancholia, you should at once begin to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a good medicine to strengthen the system and help to perform its functions in time and regularly.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. JOHN HARRIS

Many were yesterday afternoon in attendance at the funeral of the late Mrs. John Harris, being an evidence of the esteem in which deceased was held. At the house Rt Herchimer St., Rev. Music & Drama

"DESIRE" SCORES SCREEN TRIUMPH

"Desire," a special Metro production, is the feature picture at the Regent Theatre. It is a society drama of the highest type and embodies an amazing entertaining qualities along with true dramatic action.

The story deals with two wealthy young people who by the best families about to be married. At the altar they discover that they are too in love with each other and flee. Later the young woman marries a count, returns and save from her family and eventually finishes her life in great unhappiness. The young man, disconsolate, meets a charming girl and the tragedy in his life does to give place to a great love

"Desire" is a poignant story and is filled to the brim with blood of an blase audience and to send them away thoroughly satisfied with keen relish to the "wheels within wheels" which go to make up life.

"BRINGING UP FATHER"

What is underlined as a real merry treat for those who like their amusements served in an appetizing and original manner undoubtedly will be pleased at the announcement of the title of the attraction at Griffin's theatre this Thursday, April 10. The piece is nothing more than the latest version in stage form of the many adventures of Jiggs Maloney and the rest of the characters made famous by George McManus in his popular comics, "Bringing Up Father." This time under the caption of "Bringing Up Father On Broadway," Jiggs will be compelled to travel to many places including a visit to King Tut's Tomb in the valleys of the Nile, Egypt. That the fun will be rampant, exotic and infectious, coupled with pun sent wit, screams, novelties and other talent and distinctive features goes with one saying. Two acts and five scenes will be required to tell of the merry and absorbing escapades of Jiggs, Maggie and Dinty and other pleasure loving cuts. A large number and unusual surprises are promised

MUEZZIN'S CALL WRECKS ROMANCE

They met in the Orient. She was a wife, fleeing from a callous husband. He was a youthful Englishman, on a pilgrimage over the desert.

Under the spell of the Oriental nights, with their soft moons and languorous zephyrs, they fell in love, caring only that they had each other. Love transcended the convention, and life was good. So they spent happy days as they made their way to Damascus, that ancient city where Mahommed, the prophet, only was honored.

A cry pierced the air—it was the call for the faithful to face in the direction of Mecca and to pray to Allah. To the lovers it was like the tolling of a knell, for it suddenly brought home to them the peril of their course. So they separated; both had vows to fulfill.

How the lovers were reunited is shown in "The Voice, From the Minaret," Norma Talmadge's latest First National release, now playing at the Griffin Theatre. It is based on the popular novel by Robert Hichens and was directed by Frank Lloyd. Eugene O'Brien is cast as the lover.

"Eczema on My Face Completely Relieved"

Miss Winifred Ernest, Box 46, Blockhouse, N. S. writes:

"Ever since I was a little child, I suffered with eczema on my face. At times my face was completely covered with large sores, and I tried every kind of medicine that I heard of with no results. The last year or over twenty years, until one day I asked the advice of my druggist, who told me to get Dr. Chase's Ointment a trial. After using the Ointment for a few days, the sores began to heal, and soon I was completely relieved of the disease."

HE PAYS WITH CASH

Toronto, April 8.—Hon. Peter Smith former, Provincial Treasurer, has long been referred to by his many friends as "Ready Money" Smith, owing to Peter.

He acquired that sobriquet from his habit of paying in cash instead of by checks when making purchases. A case in point was the placing two or three years ago of a commission for a number of oil paintings with a well-known Western Ontario artist. The order totalled a matter of about $800, instead of sending a check the Hon. Peter sent his wife to the city in which the artist resides with a roll of bills and the settlement was in cash.

COMBINATION OF WRONG COLORS IS HELD AS BANEFUL

Chicago, April 5.—It's the wrong color combination in the home that drives hubby out to soak himself in synthetic gin. Wearing the wrong shade turns a hopeful "bud" into a neglected wall flower at her first formal party, and the color of walls and draperies will make or ruin a new restaurant.

These are the observations of Mrs. Hazel H. Adler, "color counselor," who addressed women on color harmony. She cited instances where pewits dissatisfied factory employes had been brought to a cheerful frame of mind by changing the color of their working rooms.

"A woman I know had much difficulty with her nerves, highly-strung daughter, but the calmer, her temperament when she stopped dressing her in the scarlet and orange shades she thought becoming to the fair-haired brunette coloring, now she dresses her in soft greys, blues and greens and there are no further outbursts of temperament. "Restaurants and cafes decorated in blue are usually failures. Certain shades of blue are depressing and not conducive to appetite. I know the manufacturer of a fine soap, designed for society women, who formerly used a violent orange wrapper and it cost him thousands of dollars before he corrected the mistake and submitted a different color. Fastidious women judged the soap by its hectic wrapper and bought something else."

CANES FOR GIRLS

For the girl brave enough to stand the smiles of the man-on-the-street, there are canes that promise a wider popularity for the spring. Men have always considered the carrying of a walking stick for ornamental purposes a Heaven-sent prerogative of their own; and are apt to poke fun at the matron or maid who affects their style.

At the age of seventeen Pamela Bianco has engaged an international reputation as an artist for five years. When she was twelve years of age her work was first recognized by being exhibited in Rome. Since that time her later work has won a place in British and American exhibitions.

NEAR-NUDE PASSING FROM THE STAGE

Philadelphia, April 7 (United Press) —"The almost nude in musical comedy or other stage shows is quickly forgotten. I can tell you that the undressed girl is no longer popular with theatrical producers," said Fred C. Nixon-Nicdlinger, manager of the Theatrical Managers' Association of Philadelphia.

"The day of the semi-nude girl on the stage is passing," the manager continued. "She never caused as much trouble as has come with the suggestive play.

Filled In Gap Made By Lost Indian Bride

Didn't Turn Up at Church So Another Offered

Vancouver, B.C., April 7.—Leap year means something to British Columbia Indians. In a coast village recently, according to G. C. Perry, Indian agent, a widower awaited vainly in the church for his bride. Time went on and soon there were titters of laughter and mumbled jests from the guests. Then the little brother of the missing girl appeared with the announcement, "Sister changed her mind. She's gone to Vancouver." The disappointed man was about to leave the church when a young woman rose blushingly in the back of the church.

"If he wants to get married, and if I'll do, I'll marry him. 'This is leap year, so I guess it's all right." The surprised man looked around, inspected the proposer with a critical eye, "Yes," he said, "you'll do." The preliminary arrangements were soon made and the guests again assembled after a brief dispersement to witness the leap-year wedding.

COMMITTEE'S SCHEME WIN FOR BELGIUM

Allied Experts Using Brussels Plan as One Of Bases

WILL SHARE REVENUE

Germany to Get Part When She Guarantees Fixed Sum for Entente

Brussels, April 7.—Baron Maurice Houtard, Belgian member of Brigadier-General Dawes' reparations committee, made an important declaration concerning the committee's work upon returning from Paris to-day.

Belgium, he said, had reason to be particularly gratified, because the committee's conclusions were based largely on principles proposed formerly by Belgium, and in addition technical proposals made by the Belgians had been amply utilized in the experts' report.

On Bonds and Debts

The committee proposed in effect that the reparations should be based upon the issuance of bonds guaranteed by the German railroads and on the delivery to the Allies of part of the profits from German industries as well as receipts from the excise taxes, the latter being considered more as guarantees for the Allies than as a source of revenue for Germany.

In other words, Germany was to receive a certain part of these revenues from excise taxes only after having secured a certain sum annually to the Allies.

Restore Resources

Baron Houtard added that the report would recommend the restitution to Germany of full possession of the financial resources of the occupied territory which had hitherto been administered by the Allies.

Germany, however, would be given her choice between payments based on the receipts controlled by the Allies and continued exploitations by the Entente powers of certain German territories.

DAWSON CITY MAKES BREAD OF OWN GRAIN

Dawson City, Yukon, April 7.—Bread made from wheat grown within seven miles of Dawson City is on sale at all restaurants here.

Dawson is 65 degrees of latitude in then the most northerly wheat producing point in the Dominion. The quality, according to an expert from Manitoba, who was here last summer, is equal to No. 1 Northern.

JUNE RAIN

(Louise Driscoll in N.Y. Times)

After the rain springs bends
With accented blossoms at the ends
Of all its curving boughs, I think
That Pan himself might pause to drink

At such a fountain as I see.
The heavy-headed peony
Drops silken petals, rosy sweet,
Like some soft, fine embroidery
Upon a carpet for my feet.
And still the long wistaria drips
Its languid blossoms where the bee
In drowsiest contentment sips
From the deep wells of sweet that he
Has come so far to find. The rain
Sent him to hiding; with the sun
He shakes his pelt-soaked bumbles
And lifts his frail strong wings and flies
To see what harm the rain has done.
And tries the blossoms, one by one.
The meadow grass is growing long.
It's silvered with the drops that cling
Like note that follows each song
Or crystal beads upon a string.
There's beauty of the moon and sun.
The close of day and day begun,
And I have sung the Milky Way,
And shimmering river, cool and gray,
And hills that are so near to me
I count the rewith my family;
But of the joys that I have had
In gifts the years bring back again,
Year after year to make me glad,
I love the clean green after rain
When yet there is no rust or stain
On any leaf, but all things are
As if we lived on some new star.

TARIFF CHANGES EXPECTED AT OTTAWA

BOYS TOLD HOW SCOUTS MAKE GOOD

Unusual Plan Offered by Mayor W. C. Mikel, K.C. in Connection with U.E. L. Celebration—Proposes Troops of Scouts to Hike to Ottawa with Invitation For Governor-General — Captain Jones is Able Speaker

Some thirty Boy-Scouts and enterprising business and professional men who are behind the scout movement in this city enjoyed a banquet presented at the T.M.C.A. assembly hall last evening by the mothers of the scouts, and served by the Girl Guides. Mayor W. C. Mikel K.C., presided as Toastmaster, and the outstanding speaker who was present through the indefatigable efforts of Scoutmaster Rev. F. E. Maiolt, was by the way deserves the credit for reorganization of the Boy Scout movement in this city)—was Captain Edgar Jones Scout Secretary, for Boy Scout work in Ontario.

Interesting Demonstration

Following the banquet, Captain Jones gathered the scouts about an electrically impregnated camp fire, and before the guests, conducted a most interesting and instructive session of scout work, camp fire work, stunts, games and all the principal activities of scout work. Story telling was also a feature, and the boys were given the various scout yells.

Speakers Are Heard

Brief introductory remarks were heard from Mayor Mikel, Principal F. C. MacLaurin, of the High School and Rev. F. E. Maiolt, after which the meeting was turned over to Captain Jones. Community singing add ed zest to the meeting, and following the demonstration by Captain Jones three cheers were given for the "V" the ladies, the local associations and Captain Jones.

The Scouts plan their first hike for next Friday, and also plan to march in the Victoria Loyalist parade which also here in June next. They meet each Monday night at the "Y" at 7.30p

Elect Officers

Before the banquet, there was a meeting of the Association at which the following officers were elected.

Charles Hanna—Chairman.

Rev. F. E. Maiolt—Vice-Chairman

George Lee—Secretary-treasurer.

Jack Crooks—Assistant secretary treasurer.

Completely Re-Organized

The determined work of Rev. Maiolt with busines and professional men who have consented to assist behind him, the scout associatio of Belleville has been thoroughly re-organized, and early one complete troops of forty members has been organized, with a second troupe of twenty members recruiting. This has been the result of the work commenced by Rev. Maiolt and Captain Williams, Scout Master director at the Y M C A, early part of the winter. Mr. Bowie certificated secretarial end of the work and Rev. Maiolt had charge of the leadership. The local association of business and professional men is as follows: Mayor Mikel, Ex-Mayor Hanna, Dr. G. E. Cronk, Dr. W. Bell, Dr. Bowie, Dr. Geo. Bonesteel, George Griffin, F. C. MacLaurin, E. L. O'Flynn, Rev. F. E. Maiolt, Jack Crooks and Andy Davis.

May Hike to Ottawa

A remarkable feature of the meeting was a proposal by Mayor Mikel that a committee of scouts consider a scout hike to Ottawa during the Easter vacation week, and personally extend an invitation to the Chief Scoutmaster of Canada to attend the 140th anniversary of the settlement here of the United Empire Loyalists. The Chief Scoutmaster, of course, is no less a personage than His Excellency, the Governor General, Lord Byng.

The plan is that the boys hike along the road and be received in the various towns and villages by scout bodies there, and personally extend the Governor General at Rideau Hall.

Romance Buried For Fifty Years, Blooms Again When Weary Minstrel Sees Home

New York, April 9.—A story rivaling that of Edith Archie came to light today when John N. Norris, minister, after years of "drifting" was reunited with his wife and son he had not seen for 50 years.

Back in the days when he was singing "Shoo Fly, don't Bother Me," Norris, tired of the world of make-believe put away his bones and tambourine, and took a railway job at New Brunswick, N.J. There he eloped with pretty Elizabeth Hall, who was 15 years old.

After her family forgave them and a son came, Norris tried to persuade Elizabeth to join him in a vaudeville venture but she refused and one night he disappeared.

She divorced him in 1874, moved to Ridgefield Park, N.J., and there the boy, William, became a prosperous business man, married and reared two children.

The other day, reading a lodge magazine, he came across the story of a brother Elk. It was John N. Norris, retired minister at Peaucliff, Ore., who had been known on the stage as "Happy Burton".

Today "Johnny" is home in Ridgefield and William even hints that his father and mother may remarry.

REPUBLIC WIN POSSIBLE FOR SOUTH AFRICA

Empire Break Hinted When Union Votes; London Anxious

DRIVE GAINS FORCE

Campaign Against Premier Smuts May Sweep Him Out.

London, April 9.— The impending dissolution of the South African Parliament is discussed here as having possibilities of greatest importance not only for the South African Union but for the British Empire.

The political campaign against the Premier has been for a long time gaining force, while the strength of the Nationalists and Laborites has been correspondingly growing, and General Smuts at the moment fills the familiar position of a prophet less welcome in his own country than elsewhere, although this is set to say that he lacks a following in the Union.

Republican Win Possible

Upon the question whether General J. B. M. Hertzog, who stands for Republicanism, or General Smuts, with the support of the British community in the prosperous Dutch centres by day at the election events of far-reach ing consequence depend.

The possibility of a triumph for Republicanism is considered in the minute of the people here.

"It is very possible that a National majority will be returned in the coming elections, and nationalism in South Africa strong for republicanism although the Nationalists are not unanimous in favor of immediate republican views."

Hard Row To Hoe

The London morning papers comment on the Premier's unexpected announcement of Parliament's dissolution, dealt out—as unwonted as the shock with which evidently unexpected. The Times says General Smuts has a difficult and futile to attempt to pay off the debt incurred in the war.

The Morning Post thinks the coming elections will result in the expulsion by the Labor party and certain Nationalists of the present Ministry.

The Daily News says that if Labor supports the Nationalists reversal objection of establishing a republic, a constitutional crisis may follow which may put South Africa into a danger, ous, futile and awkward repetitions in Great Britain and distant parts of the Empire.

JUST TWO CASES AT POLICE COURT

Alcohol which was brought into the home by the "head of the house," and which resulted in the wife and "head" being charged with intoxication in the police court, was the subject of police court today. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $10 and costs, the minimum. Just an unfortunate case of a hard working man making a false step.

Motorist Likes Darkness

Alleged to have driven his motor car on Front Street Monday night with no lights and refused to show, and "sailing" past the officer whose duty it is to apprehend him, a motorist found "his number up" when he appeared in the police court today, and without costs for an offence against the new Highway Traffic Act.

Irish Preacher the Hero of Many a Story of Early Canadian Days—Laughter and Tears Attended Careers of Itinerant Missionaries

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Fragments of wit and tragedy which attended the formative years of Methodism in Upper Canada and Manitoba are being recovered in connection with the forthcoming centenary of the Methodist Missionary Society. Rev. E. R. Young of Islington, Ont., grandson and grandson of pioneer preachers, tells the following story of Richard and of an Irish character, Rev. "John" Black, an incorrigible wit.

By Egerton R'erson Young

Milton has been the impossible task of emulating the early careers of a missionary father" and grandfather. But as a result of associations I can give glimpses of their times as they their work can be commemorated.

"Tyro, mother" and grandfather after returning from quarterly meeting, "There are seventeen dollars lying in the kitchen to keep us for the next three months. I gave the rest of our salary to the Victoria College debt."

The early Methodist missionaries were driven by the necessity. Magistrates forbade even the lonely preacher to harbor them. In Toronto the mob did McCarty to death. The plantation was called "Hell-gate Valley" shouted old Major Neal, Methodist founder, as he waved his hat to the right up on the pulpit, "let them that object, show that kind of Spirit."

Hardships and Death.

My grandfather, William Young, on his three-weeks' circuit in Peel and Halton Counties would never have returned to shelter or food. He would swim the Etobicoke river in flood and visit the people of Scarboro' to get him to bed and dry his clothing. When Rev. Wm. Case, founder of the Episcopalians and the Trustees gravely refused the preacher the allowed log camp in the church. But they had to reconsider after his death. Many were ruined on Sunday and they could not go to worship and move to church mid-week. Under such experienced hands Methodism has thrived.

Methodism has sold the price of her victories in blood. Rev. Richard Ryerson's mother's son, lost two children when returning from Europe in the stormy House. Northern Manitoba to back into these families of preachers. Of the new forces, consecration and deaths marked their trail as they left their homes and mothers for the cause.

And yet there were other men among them, celebrated for their wit and humor.

An Incorrigible Wit

There was Johnny Black, officially called the Hev. John Black, late of Ireland, who was incorrigible and recorded the laymen of his needs. Taken to task for lateness at church he replied from the pulpit:

"The Reverend complains that I have kept you waiting, but, dear friends, I just couldn't whip up your filly, Nancy, to make her go any faster this month."

The last bit was filled the next week but his circumstitions continued to scandalize officials and laid an accuser of mine, 'Father' Marsh, a man noted for his bass tone, to sing up for church trial.

The defence was simply. "Oddities, oddities, brethren: I'm called to account for my oddities. They are to help my oddities more than Brother Marsh can help his bass voice."

In early times an English Wesley was brought out only to "pay and abide at Conference. Once the Presiding Elder was ponderous and let his session drag over time. He asked Johnny to close. This young Irishman promptly said, "Lord, bless the Queen and everybody else, with every needed blessing." He had added the Amen and was half way out of the church when the presiding Elder called out, Black, what do you mean by a prayer like that?"

"Better it, better it," demanded Johnny Black, "when you session is so long and our billets are far and on Monday's mailing. It's no matter for long prayers Good day, Sir." And he was gone.

POSTAL UNION MEMBERS IN MOOD TO QUIT

Men Eager to Fight, Says Chairman of Deputation

VIEWS ARE AIRED

Eight of Federation Lay Claims Before Board Sitting in Ottawa

Ottawa, April 9.—Eight representatives of the Canadian Federation of Postal Employes presented their claims for an upward salary revision to the Civil Service Commission yesterday.

Executives of the organization, while claiming to have come to the capital in a conciliatory mood, made no secret of their intention to insist upon what they feel are their rights.

Men in Dangerous Mood

Asked if he thought that the danger of a strike had been averted, Chairman G. R. Jackson, Toronto, explained that the danger of a strike had been doing their utmost for some time to maintain the men, who were in a dangerous mood. Delays in getting the matter considered by the commission had not helped matters and he could not promise to predict what might happen if the situation continued.

"No, I wanted a strike," he continued, "but the postal employes had been assured that they would get justice if this state of affairs continued, the strike would be averted, and some drastic steps."

Archer Has Schedule

J. E. Archer, Hamilton, secretary of the federation, is prepared to submit a schedule showing that postal workers' salaries since 1913 have shown an average advance of seven percent as compared with an average of 45 percent in the civil service.

Mr. Archer arrived in Ottawa Monday night. He was joined this morning by W. J. Way, Ontario vice-president, of the postal organization.

The Government upon its part has made plain its position in a letter dated April 4 and forwarded to Mr. Jackson by Hon. Edgar Rhodes, acting Postmaster General. After expressing that the men's claims be heard by the Civil Service Commission and not only by the Government, the communication says:

Not Much Impressed

"In connection with it I state that the Government is not impressed with the suggestion of a strike or any branch of the civil service on April 14, unless prior to that time the Government takes action laid down and defined.

"It is known that no distress or other condition is in effect relating to the employment of the men which would justify such drastic action as a general strike of postal workers. Delays and the Government will, of course, take all the time that it is necessary to insure that the postal service may not cease to function on April 14.

"Postal employes or other servants of the public have definite duties to perform and taking action to stop the functioning of the Government service, or other services, will, of course, expect to be regarded as out of the service.

BODIES OF BRIGAND VICTIMS TO TIRANA

Albanian Troops Enforce Martial Law Following Double Slaying

Tirana, Albania, April 9.—The bodies of George B. De Long, of New York district where the massacre occurred on Sunday, arrived here today by motor truck.

Practically all the shops in Tirana were closed and immense crowds lined the streets manifesting their sympathy in front of the United States legation.

The automobile bearing the bodies could hardly get through the jam.

The Albanian Chamber of Deputies suspended its sitting for ten minutes out of respect.

Troops are enforcing martial law in the district where the massacre occurred and police have been sent to the mountains in search of the brigands.

Conflicting opinions are held, but police believe the killing was killed the wealthy Americans hoping to obtain a large sum of money.

Such, downgirthness and independence marked the times and the people. A Wesleyan minister would not do in those times when everything was in the making. We can thankfully be thankful that "better it, better it," demanded Johnny Black, "when our session is so long and our billets are far and on Monday's mailing. It's no matter for long prayers Good day, Sir." And he was gone.

English Bartenders Climb Into New Social Status, Is Verdict of Publican Vicar

London, April 9.—The English bartenders are becoming respectables—in fact, many of them lead excellent lives says the Rev. A. W. Barker, vicar of St Mary Magdalene Church, London, who has been known as the publican's vicar since he held a special service for those men on Sunday last.

The Rev. Mr. Barker has been severely criticized by temperance workers for the interest he takes in the publicans, but he stands firm.

At his service last Sunday, attended by 700 publicans and barmaids, he said that so long as the bartenders were members of a legitimate trade they would continue to receive his administrations.

The grateful publicans have pledged themselves to support the vicar's parish activities by attempting to keep ten the lives of the poor children living in the neighborhood of their saloons.

No Injury Done By Chlorine In Water, Declares Expert

No Injurious Effects in Water, Says Dr. Roberts, M. O.H.—Couldn't Detect It, His Promise; Wouldn't Hurt Boilers, Etc.

Hamilton, April 9.—"The public has absolutely no reason to fear chlorination of water," Dr. James Roberts, M.O.H., declared this morning, answering the qualms of many who think that chlorine will prove injuriously affect the drinking water or at least make it distasteful.

On the other hand, Dr. Roberts declared most emphatically that it was his opinion that the outbreak of typhoid fever and dysentery occurred through contaminated water, and could be proved in the courts that the City Corporation knew of the danger and knew of this contamination the city would be held liable.

Can't Detect It

Dr. Roberts also denied that chlorination of water would affect it in such a way as to be injurious to boilers, tanks and other metal containers as claimed by some manufacturers. It was not chlorine in water which caused excessive hardness or caking, he said, but generally calcium or magnesium.

Many cities in Canada already chlorinate their water, he declared, including Toronto and Windsor as examples. Hamilton had in the past been particularly fortunate in its water supply in No City on the Great Lakes was situated like Hamilton with its harbor set off from the lake by the Beach. If it had not been for the existence of this beach, Hamilton would have been in the same fix as Toronto, forced its water supply 25 years ago, Dr. Roberts said. Now Hamilton had grown to such an extent that the lake was no longer considered upon her were not sufficient.

Very Little Chlorine

Experts had agreed that the presence of one part of chlorine to 100,000 parts of water could be taken to indicate organic contamination past experiment, Dr. Roberts declared, "but water supply had shown only about one part of chlorine to 1,000,000 parts of water, but lately the tests had gone up to 2, 3, 5, 8 parts and as high as 10 parts.

"We cannot avoid taking some action with regard to the water supply," he said, "and I propose to provide myself with a safe water supply. I would be unthinkable for any kind through failure to do this."

Fight Alimony Award With Plea Against Evidence Admitted

Toronto, April 9.—Acting on behalf of Russell Kinnear, his counsel Mc-Fadden, K.C., appeared in the appeal court at Osgoode Hall against the alimony award of $40 a week to his wife, Mrs. Kinnear, on the contention that much of the evidence admitted at the trial of the case a few weeks ago should not have been admitted.

Russell Kinnear was also suing his cousin, Thomas Kinnear, who was fighting the action, for damages of $50,000 damages on the charge that he abducted the affections of his (Russell Kinnear's wife.

LABOR CLINGS TO OFFICE IN FACE OF LOSS

Macdonald Ministry Shapes Action for Early Future

WON'T QUIT JUST YET

Not Good Move at Present, Premier Thinks; May Appeal Later

London, April 9.—Premier Macdonald announced in Commons this afternoon that the Government will not introduce a new rent bill but will seek to amend the Liberals' rent bill which passed second reading stage last night. The Government has decided against the Laborite's rent bill to prevent waste of parliamentary time.

Stays, With Office

London, April 9.—The sovereign of Premier Ramsay Macdonald's Labor Government has evolved boldly through its debut in Commons on Tuesday that it clung tenaciously to power today.

The Cabinet met at noon to consider future policy. It was understood the question of resignations would not be raised.

Through the action of the Conservatives and Liberals in Commons upon the rent bill, Premier Macdonald has been hamstrung in his Government's one of sufferance. It has been defeated twice since assuming power.

May Appeal After Budget

After the budget has been introduced and the reports of the international reparations experts have been studied by the Cabinet, the Laborites may decide to go before the public in a general election on November 4 or 11, it is reported.

Premier Macdonald is anxious to attempt a joint Allied reparations settlement. Furthermore, he believes his resignation at this time would not be in the public interest. Parliamentary opinion does not understand the rent bill.

The left wing of the Laborites feared the rent bill upon him, claiming that it gave protection to unemployed against eviction from their houses.

THOMPSON MISSING

Former Republican Body's Chairman Goes to U. S. Marshals

Washington, April 9.—Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, today ordered United States marshals all over the country to join in the nationwide search for William Bevee Thompson, former chairman of the finance committee of the Republican national committee.

Thompson was ordered before the committee on March 27 but has failed to appear, in response to subpoenas which have been issued for him. Process servers for the Senate Public Lands Committee reported to Walsh that they have been unable to find any trace of him.

EARLY DATE FOR BUDGET ANNOUNCED

Likely Action Foreseen with Fiscal Program coming To-morrow Sir Lomer Gouin Stays Away From Ottawa While Tariff Question Draws Former Progressive Leader Into Parliament

Ottawa, April 9.—Speculation regarding impending tariff changes was given a new lease of life by Hon. J. A. Robb's announcement that the budget would be brought down on Thursday.

Prevailing opinion favored Tuesday of next week as the most likely time for the sessional epoch, and there was a general air of surprise apparent in the House when the Acting Minister of Finance gave his unexpected reply to the daily question which Sir Henry Drayton has been asking for a fortnight.

While there is a general impression that the budget speech will not be so widespread or so pronounced as was thought immediately after submission of the speech from the Throne, it is believed that there will be some cuts and that, in a number of cases, the consumer will benefit through removal of the sales tax.

It is considered probable that some relief will be extended to the textile and other industries, which complain of British and foreign competition, by re-imposing anti-dumping and currency equalizing legislation.

Ovation For Crerar

Hon. T. A. Crerar, former leader of the Progressives and M.P. for Marquette, was given an ovation by the House when he took his seat for the first time this session. It is thought that the former premier's agrarian leader was lured to Ottawa by the hope that a tariff cut in the budget was in the immediate offing.

This same consideration was expected to attract Sir Lomer Gouin to his vacant chair on the Liberal side of the chamber, but the former premier Minister of Justice has kept aloof from Ottawa.

Rotarians Heard Over the Radio

Radio fans to-day experienced dignified "tuning in" on the Interstate, when conversation relative to the proceeding of which are being broadcasted.

GARBAGE ABUSE

The following letter from a prominent local citizen is worthy of special mention in these columns. Should such a condition exist as the one he outlines, civic action should be taken.

It is such conditions that breed contagious disease. —

Editor of Intelligencer—

"Will you kindly allow space in your columns to draw the attention of our Sanitary Inspector to an abuse when he is making his spring inspection.

"In different parts of the city, there are narrow lots extending from one street to another behind them, with houses facing on both streets. In many cases people will gather up their garbage in the spring and throw it over their back fence and leave it there, which means it is at the front of the houses that are unfortunate enough to have their homes facing that street. This abuse has existed for some time, even if the back of a lot is vacant no street should be made a dumping ground for people who are too lazy and shiftless to have the men who gather garbage take it away, but leave it as an eyesore for every person who passes and an abuse to the people who want their homes to look respectable.

"Hoping our Health Inspector can remedy the nuisance for which many will be grateful.

"TAXPAYER"

OF ONE OPINION

It is a refreshing fact that the Ontario Legislature, without a dissentient voice all three parties joined in passing the Government resolution protesting against the illegal diversion of lake water at Chicago and urging the Dominion Government to take action to force the discontinuance of the steal. There should be like unanimity in the federal parliament on this question, for it is one in which the welfare of Canada is directly and very seriously affected. Of the Canadian provinces Ontario probably stands to suffer most by the draining away of water from the Great Lakes basin, but Quebec interests are also directly threatened, while the waterway service also must suffer from injury to inland water transportation. ,

F. H. Keefer, M.L.A., Under Secretary for New Ontario, who has given special study to the question, estimates that if Chicago be permitted to continue the illegal diversion of lake water into its "drainage" canal, the loss of the water will cause a perpetual lowering of the lake levels—that the levels of the upper lakes will be lowered by more than six feet, Erie will fall 5 feet 4 inches, Ontario 4 feet 6 inches, the St. Lawrence 4 feet 8 inches, and that the water level in Montreal harbor will drop more than 10 inches.

If these estimates are even approximately correct, the safety of lake-and-river navigation would be imperilled in order that one American city shall enjoy an exclusive privilege illegally exercised — the privilege of appropriating a vast quantity of lake water so that it may escape the cost of installing a modern system of sewage disposal and also be enabled to revive about a million h.p. now lost to the development

THRILLS BACK HOME
(Halifax Chronicle)

Unfortunately the despatches from Ottawa at the time of its delivery gave a wholly inadequate idea of the concision and brevity of the speech of Mr. H. J. Logan, M.P., on the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. This speech, was one of the ablest, most admirable and timely ever delivered at Ottawa by a representative of this Province. It should be placed in the hands of or made available to every Nova Scotian, and as many other Canadians possible, as

REP. BY POP.
(Edmonton Journal)

Mr. Hocken of West Toronto urges that the principle of representation by population in its entirety should be adopted in the House of Commons. At present the unit of representation is much smaller in rural than in urban ridings. There are formerly good reasons for this, but as the farmers have become organized for political purposes they have secured an influence in parliament out of all proportion to their numbers. The argument for making the change is unanswerable one and it must come in time. But it is not to attempt to make connection with the present bill.

WHAT DO THEY WANT?
(London Advertiser)

"The harvesters hiking from Toronto to Ottawa have been offered jobs at several places along the way. They have refused, preferring to go to Ottawa and stage their performance according to schedule.

When they get to Ottawa they will again be offered work. Their performance is bad to understand. They have a chance to go to work, why don't they do it?

TRULY OBLIGING
(Montreal Star)

The farce goes on and last month 121,736 cords of pulpwood were officially being shipped over the border to be manufactured into paper products. Had this also been one industry resources been manufactured on this side of the line, Canada would have given employment to many hundreds of workers and have effectively called a halt to the path along which she is now travelling at a speedily accelerated pace on the United States for yet another key product.

PICTURE FANS WANT BIG ACTION THRILLS

Action!

That's what photoplay fans want. In "A Man of Action," at the Regent Thursday to Saturday, Thomas H. Ince has produced a picture to satisfy that, all action from start to finish.

There's a high love, a plot the fans can't guess and a climax, plenty of laughs and a big thrill. "Man of Action" is accurately described as a "movie that moves."

Here's the plot in brief: Douglas MacLean plays a silk stocking youth with more dough than ambition. The girl he loves (Marguerite de la Motte) has enough pep for a whole boarding school. She drives him mad to do something—and he does!

Well, you know! He gets mixed up with a band of crooks, who black-jack him into robbery of his own mansion. Had a mix-up, cops, crooks and kisses!

The epic of "A Man of Action" is a stronger one, Douglas MacLean in a big favorite with the fans—especially the ladies. And Marguerite de la Motte, featured in "The Three Musketeers," has the principal feminine role.

NCTED STAGE SUCCESS FILMED BY FRED NIBLO

A famous play, Walter Hackett's "Captain Applejack," filmed under the title of "Strangers at Night" is coming to the Griffin Theatre on Friday and Saturday. It has been produced by Fred Niblo who directed "The Three Musketeers," "Blood and Sand," and "The Mollycoddle," and is presented by Louis B. Mayer through Metro.

Niblo was given free rein to build Applejack's setting and cast. He made up exclusively of players recommended to be classed as stars. Mae Moore, Enid Bennett, Barbara La Marr and Robert Ellis are but the four principal roles while such favorites as Emily Fitzroy, Otis Harlan, Edward Brunduer and Thomas Ricketts share honors in the secondary roles of popular players.

The story concerns a timid British sea lion whose father spends most of his time on the crest of a storm. Beau Meredyth adapted the story to the screen and it was photographed by Alvin Wyckoff.

HEART THROBS HEARD BY RADIO

To demonstrate the extreme sensitivity of the glow-discharge microphone perfected by Dr. Phillips Thomas and also to present an unusual broadcasting feat, KDKA, the world's pioneer broadcasting station of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company transmitted April 8, at 4 o'clock, a program of radio heart throbs.

The chief characters in the 30-minute presentation were two hearts, encased in the bosom of a strong youth while the other is a part of a comely young woman.

Electric hearts were made to do tricks according to what the stage or director said there were somewhat surprising things demonstrated to the radio audience.

For instance how many people know that anything will increase the action of the heart or how much a single inhalation of smoke will increase the pulse. This demonstration was one of several.

Another interesting demonstration was the effect of a kiss upon the pulse of a fair maiden. It is among physicians that excitation increases the heart beat and that the normal action of the man is different from that of the woman. The unusually interesting demonstration of this heart throb was also made.

The glow-discharge microphone or as it has been known, the ultra-audio microphone because it responds to sounds of higher pitch than the human ear was used in the demonstration. This microphone was perfected by Dr. Phillips Thomas, research engineer of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company after some years' of study and development in an effort to secure a pick-up for broadcasting purposes which would respond to all sound frequencies, something that the ordinary microphone does not do.

After developing the microphone, Dr. Thomas found that it would respond to frequencies far above a million per second, or far into the ultra-audible range of sound frequencies and was glad it would respond to the sub-audio range.

It is said that Dr. Thomas' microphone is the only pickup used in radio broadcasting capable of reproducing clearly and distinctly each heart beat even though the microphone be placed not directly on the skin of the subject but on the clothing at a point just above the heart.

The officials in charge of KDKA are interested in knowing just how the these heart beats carry and want all who heard the heart beats to write, particularly those at points distant from East Pittsburgh. To assist in carrying the heart-beats to distant points KDKA repeated the heart throb program through repeating station KFKX located at Hasting, Nebraska.

The Tutankhamen, Quartet.
The ancient Egyptians believed that in 3,000 years the soul returned to the body of the mummy. Tutankhamen's spirit seems to be a spirit of discord!

Thirty-two hundred years ago
They buried young King Tut,
With ceremonies glorious—
I'd almost said Luxurious—
For his long slumber, but—

The scientists have dug him out
In quest of Egypt's history.
The how's, the wherefore's, and the why's,
Which, even to our wisest wise,

are deeply wrapped in mystery.

CANADA'S NATIONAL PLAYGROUND

Canadians are fortunate in their National Parks, in that they have within their borders Alpine scenery which is not equalled anywhere on the continent, and rivers and moreover are realizing that holidays in Canada hold for the lover of outdoors all the thrills that could be found anywhere in the world. Jasper National Park contains many high peaks, eternally snowcapped, and on the sides of the mountains are glaciers which have stood the test of ages. Millions of tons of ice, stretching, in some instances, almost as far as the eye can see, lure the adventurous climber to new attempts, while in the calm, peaceful valleys, wild game of all kinds live at peace with mankind and the world.

Additional bungalow for the accommodation of guests are to be erected at Jasper Park Lodge, the log-cabin bungalow of the Canadian National Railways at Jasper National Park, in time for the opening of the 1924 season, it is announced by officials of the Hotel Department of Canadian National Railways. During last season the popularity of Jasper National Park was so great that the capacity of Jasper Park Lodge was taxed, and the additional bungalows being provided this year will take care of many more guests.

Four 4-room bungalows, each room with bath, and two 12-room bungalows, each room also having private bath, are being erected. In addition, a double-deck boathouse, with the upper floor for canoeists, etc., is being constructed, and an octagonal tea-room building is being built near the Lake Lodge. Four new bathhouses are being erected to serve as employees' quarters, the kitchens are being extended and the main kennels are being enlarged to provide for pets. Indoor recreation rooms and for a music library and gramophone.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. HARRY GREEN

The esteem in which the late Mrs. Harry Green was held was evidenced yesterday afternoon when the funeral took place. Many citizens were in attendance to pay their last tribute of respect to the departed. At the residence of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Masons Hear Able Speaker

One of the most remarkable addresses ever delivered in Belleville was that given last night by Prof. F. K. Stanfield, head of the Department of English Literature at Queen's University, at the annual "Ladies" night of Quinte Friendship Chapter, Royal Arch Masons. Prof. Stanfield is easily one of the most gifted after-dinner speakers in Ontario. His inexhaustible humor, his pungent wit and his mildly satirical rallies at the expense of his fellow-countrymen brought forth volleys of laughter and applause from the thoroughly amused and delighted audience.

The address was one of those extraordinary efforts that must be heard to be appreciated, for the impression in cold type would give of it only a faint distorted impression.

He divided the English from physical characteristics, into two classes—the big, bloody type and the smaller, wiry, dark type. The former class made up the landed gentry, the aristocracy—in brief, the men who had ruled and dominated England until within the last few years. The small dark class had now come to rule England and was encouraged by the labor leaders and workers.

The four outstanding characteristics of the Englishman, according to Prof. Sandwell, were his passion for privacy, his respect for property, his external modesty combined with internal pride and his extreme sensitiveness. The development of his dress along these lines gave the speaker rare opportunity for the expression of his genius for humor, wit and satire.

A tremendous outburst of cheering and applause marked the conclusion of the address.

The musical part of the program was almost as notable as the address. Eureka Orchestra was stationed at one station upon its rendition of a medley of English Airs that quickened the pulse and stirred the imagination.

Comic Harry Mackay sang with his usual style and "and had two unanimature encores, Masters Raymond and Leslie Leandre, the former at the piano and the latter with the violin, gave very fine Beethoven's Minuet as an encore.

Mr. Fred Brake was never in better voice than when he sang "Out in the Dawn" with "The Answer" his response to a lovely demanded encore.

Comp. I. D. Hunter led in appropriate English community songs and rendered with dash and spirit that fine song, "The Fighting Temeraire."

Comp. Thos. B. Hutton gave a beautiful interpretation of that best of recent lyrics, "I Passed By Your Window."

Prof. Ernest Wheatley, who was last night initiated into the mysteries of this bible-of search of Masonry, presided at the piano during the banquet.

Comp. John Ostrom, first principal of the Chapter, presided most efficiently as toastmaster and had the satisfaction of arranging the presentation of what was probably the most thoroughly enjoyable banquet program ever presented upon a fraternal evening in Belleville.

Picture of Voice Made To Cure Ills

London, April 8—A fascinating playground—it is also a workshop of science—is being explored by Prof. F. W. Scripture of Vienna, the nerve specialist, with his apparatus for getting the voice to make pictures of itself. He calls it "experimental phonetics."

At King's college recently where he was lecturing the audience watched the "recording" of the sentence, "Peters Peppers." There was a revolving drum covered with smoked paper and by use of a little mechanism which is said to emulate the vibration of the bones in the eardrum, a man who said these words into a tube had the effect marked on a paper in a series of jerky lines like a fever chart.

"Ps" Jump Feverishly

The "Ps" made a leaping line like a high temperature, the vowels were more level. There were extraordinary variations in the chart, according to the way in which the words were pronounced.

This, Professor Scripture calls "applying a microscope to the voice." Some of the most interesting results are obtained from the voice in singing. He made a minute study of the voice of Caruso and detected secrets of his art which Caruso knew nothing about—indeed, Caruso was indignant when Professor Scripture confronted him with his charts.

He said he didn't sing it that way at all—for instance, pulling a vowel before a consonant to soften it and "carry on the vibration". Still the moving finger of the needle had written it and could not be gainsaid.

Has Medical Value

The medical use of voice charting is chiefly in the detection of nervous diseases, healthy people have normal ways of saying three words in nervous or paralytic cases the "melody" lines are abnormal.

Professor Scripture says his method in Vienna in diagnosing cases of general paralysis and in testing the progress of the new cure practiced there by inoculating the patient with malaria.

Good Understanding

"If it wasn't for me," said Dan proudly, "my class wouldn't have any standing at all." But I thought you were always at the foot of the class," said his mother. "Well, so I am," admitted Dan, "and how could it stand if it didn't have a foot?"

A fellow in the machine shop who had the habit of driving somewhat faster than the law allowed, was hailed before a local justice, who imposed a fine of $15. The motorist drew a roll of bills and laid a sum of money on the desk and started to leave the room.

"Here," the justice called. "There is $20 here."

"That's all right. Keep it. I am going out of town faster than I came in!"

Coupons are Ready

From now on, as long as this great offer lasts, a Bible Coupon is being printed in these columns daily. Three of these coupons will enable the holder to take advantage of our offer explained therein. The idea is to encourage Bible reading in order to overcome the world's unrest—a movement which is being sponsored by leading newspapers of this country. Make your selection early to-morrow—style A as shown in the accompanying illustration; or style B, which is less elaborately bound but just as complete and durable.

Wonderful Lessons in the Bible's English for Writers and Speakers

Shakespeare was master of nearly twenty thousand words. Milton of about thirteen thousand. But the whole King James Version of the Bible contains not over six thousand words; not a half of Milton's, not a third of Shakespeare's vocabulary.

Short words are always strong words; they explode like bullets. Do you know that the average word in the English Bible, including even the proper names, is composed of less than five letters? Leave out the proper names and the average word wouldn't have even four letters.

In the beloved 23rd Psalm there are 119 words; 95 are words of one syllable.

In the Sermon on the Mount more than 80 per cent are words of one syllable. In th eTen Commandments, on which are based all the laws of all the world, there are 319 words; 280 are words of one syllable; and only 60 of two and more syllables. In Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg, perhaps the greatest in the world, there are 266 words. Of these, 194 words are of one syllable; 53 of two syllables; and only 19 of three or more syllables.

There is food for thought in these figures. What an improvement in our writers and speakers, if, like Lincoln, they would only give study to the English of the Bible.

Sea Current Is Proved By Bottle's Trip

Quebec, April 8—After having traveled across the north Atlantic from Greenland to the Hebrides Scotland, a message was thrown into the sea near Greenland, last year, has returned to Quebec.

Adrien Falardeau, K. C., crown prosecutor in connection with the murder of the three Eskimaux at Pond Inlet who went north last July on board the G. S. Arctic, threw a bottle into the sea at Cape Farewell, Greenland, out which was the current run from that place. The bottle was thrown from the Arctic at midday on July 21, 1923, and it was not until March 7, of this year that it was picked up at Port of Ness, Stornoway, Scotland. The bottle had traveled over a thousand miles and its message was still intact. The bottle contained the following message:

"On board Arctic, July 21, 1923—Those finding kindly report to the department of the interior, Ottawa, Canada, or to undersigned, mentioning latitude and longitude if possible the date found, name of place, if ashore and so forth. Thrown into the sea at twelve noon in latitude 55 degrees 42 minutes 15 seconds, north, longitude 54 degrees, 42 minutes, 20 seconds west.

(Sgd.) "A FALARDEAU,
Quebec, Que.
Crown Prosecutor.

Mr. Falardeau had almost given up hope of hearing about the message again, and was, therefore, glad to get the letter from Scotland. He has forwarded the letter to Ottawa for the information of marine officials there. The fact is taken as an indication that there is a direct current in the north Atlantic running from Cape Farewell, Greenland, towards Scotland.

Occasion for Anxiety

"What are you crying about?" the kindly old gentleman asked the small boy.

"Cuss my pa's a philanthropist."

"Well, that's nothing to cry about, is it?"

"But he says he'll give me $5 for Christmas, only providing I can raise as much more myself."

VALUABLE ADDITION TO LIBRARY

What the general reader of the Bible most wants to know is received by many pages of theology—these might be called an appendix—which are with the encyclopedias heaped by the way—of the new Bib Print Red Letter Edition of the Bible now being distributed to readers of this paper. This volume and especially are essential in a library as an encyclopedia. In the average book shelf, where the number of books do not warrant the term library, such a Bible is even more necessary. The smaller collection, the more important it is to have it comprise the best and most concise of reference works.

This is the best edition that has ever been offered to the public for much more than the present nominal cost and the three coupons. The red letter feature of Christ's words alone mark a special desirability. Then there are the comprehensive annotations and the helpfuness which add immeasurably to its value. Even with other Bibles in the home, this particular edition should be there also for its convenience and for the excellence of its additional information other than the regular text. The coupon offer is explained in another part of this issue.

Easy To Darken Your Gray Hair

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell because it is done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though at home is musy and troublesome. A little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

The hand pat is to love your neighbor as your self.

Healing Cream Stops Catarrh

CLOGGED AIR PASSAGES OPEN AT ONCE—NOSTRILS CLEARED

If your nostrils are clogged and your head stuffed because of catarrh or cold, get Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage to your head. Instant relief.

How good it feels. Your head is clear. Your nostrils are open. No more hawking or snuffling. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic.

Giants Do Not Look Like Championship Outfit at Present Time, Says Expert

New York, April 8.—One of the leading baseball authorities in this city or any other city has dropped a rather broad typographical hint to the effect that all is not serene in the camp of the New York Giants. The man "peeved" the first four teams in the National League and the first three in the American last year in order of their ultimate finish and he intimates now that the Giants are much too careless, lackadaisical blase and indifferent to achieve the best results. The club looks singularly unlike a championship outfit, he infers.

The main complaint is that the Giants according to our critical friend are prone to accept defeats with marked serenity and, in spite of the fact that they are not hitting, do not seem to have a care in the world. It was always thus with a chronic winner.

The present Giant outfit has reached the critical stage of its career, the moment, when simultaneously triumphs become tasteless and efficiency is the vital issue. This attitude is the cardinal answer to the fact that no modern ball club has been able to win four consecutive pennants, in spite of the wonderful machines turned out by McGraw, Chance and Connie Mack.

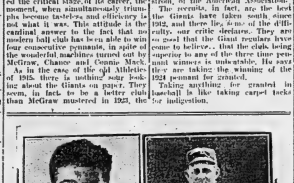

As in the case of the old Athletics of 1915, there is nothing sour looking about the Giants on paper. They seem, in fact, to be a better club than McGraw mustered in 1923, the addition of Billy Southworth to the outfield eliminating what was something of a defensive sieve. Neither McGraw nor anyone connected with the club regrets the Bancroft deal. It removed a fine marketing and introduced a great ballplayer to the outfielders. Bancroft's successor, young Jackson, has been far from a riot in the south, but the few remains that his games were lost last season is considerable than were won at shortstop.

In addition McGraw has improved his pitching no little by getting Jesse Barnes from Boston, Wayland Dean Wichita and Howard Baldwin from Newark. Dean's $20,000 worth of right arm has been the sensation of the spring and Gooslger is pitching in his fifth of several years ago. Also two fine recruit infielders have been uncovered in Bill Terry and Fred Lindstrom of the American Association.

The recruits, in fact, are the level the Giants have taken since 1923, and there lie, it would seem, the difficulty, our critic declares. They are so good that the Giant regulars will come to believe that the club being superior to any of the three time pennant winners is unbeatable. He says they are taking the winning of the 1924 pennant for granted.

Taking anything for granted in baseball is like taking carpet tacks for indigestion.

JACK BLOOM, big heavyweight from New York who bests Jack Reddick in Toronto tonight.

MAH JONGGS BREAK RECORD

Ladies Spill Them For Total of 2,332—Other Chinese Team Defeat Cyclists By 151 Pins

In one of the most exciting games ever played in the ladies' league the Lucky Strikes after winning twelve straight games lost to the Mah Jongs, a new team on these alleys and who also broke the alley record for a league game when they spilled them for a total of 2332. The Lucky Strikes got a lead on the Mah Jongs of 39 pins in the first game, but not to get done the Mah Jongs came back with 53 in the second or getting them a lead of 5 pins on the two games. The third game was nip and tuck all the way, each team won and lost several times throughout the game, finally from the 9th frame on the Mah Jongs' bowling got a stronger score per and piled up a two pins to the 3 they already had. Skip-Herrin and Whipps were best, high with over 550 each.

In the second game of the junior league the Hi-Li, another Chinese team, won from the Cyclists by 151 pins. A. Newman being the highest three string bowler with 605, Players and scores:

'HOWIE' MORENZ HOME STILL FEELS EFFECTS

Stratford, April 9—Howard W. (Howie) Morenz of the Canadiens, world's professional hockey champions and home yesterday morning to recuperate after his strenuous season in professional company. Although badly hurt in the final game for the Flying Frenchmen, Howie is getting it feel too badly. He is still suffering from the effects of the blow which tween St. Paul and Hamilton. Of this latid him out and kept him confined amount, $3,700 was paid for tickets to his bed for several days, but expects it to wear off ins few weeks' time. Howie says that the galety in ness hockey while different in some respects is not much rougher in the ordinary way than that which holds in senior O.H.A. He describes the fans in Montreal as most enthusiastic and most generous to a winning team.

CHARACTER TELLS THE STORY!

People throughout this country are giving more and more confidence to the purity of remedies on the market, but no one doubts the purity of Doctor Pierce's remedies, because they have been so favorably known for over fifty years that everyone knows they are just what they are claimed to be. These medicines are the result of long research by a well-known physician, R. V. Pierce, M. D., who compounded them from health-giving herbs and roots long used in sickness by the Indians. Dr. Pierce's reputation as a leading and honored citizen of Buffalo, is a further guarantee for the purity of that splendid tonic and blood purifier, The Golden Medical Discovery, and the equally fine nerve tonic and system builder for women's ailments, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Women Have He-Harems Among South Sea Isles

Portland, Ore., April 4.—Hot for the islands of the South Seas, where big, brown women hungrily look by the half dozen.

But right there is the trouble; the girls not only take all the husbands' their hearts desire, but they boss them and rule the females and the jungles.

Such is the state of affairs on some of the many Marquese Islands, according to Captain C. R. Campbell, master of the barkentine Alicia Harvander, in port for a lumber cargo.

Captain Campbell is very familiar with the South Sea Islands. He has sailed windjammers among them for years.

On the Marquese Islands a most peculiar matrimonial state of affairs exists. The women are all very large and strong, and although the men are of big stature, they don't compare with the women in strength and physique.

Whether this is the reason for the girls commanding so many husbands, or whether in times long past there arose a new conception of man, would take scientific investigation. But the cause of the "he-harems" is of no importance to the natives. They take things as they are.

According to Captain Campbell this land of love has a dozen husbands to each fair maiden. It prevents bloodshed in the islands. It means that all the handsomest finds hubby too inattentive and if she falls in love with some more or less strolling dusky she doesn't have to resort to poisoned dart or to enjoy the warmth of her new suitor's affections.

She merely takes her bamboo rolling pin, or whatever weapons the women use there, and shoves the new man into her "he-harem."

Another happy feature of this novel scheme is that the mians doesn't have to worry if she or her native sweetie diet or is "carnival." There are others to bring home the cocoanuts.

Oh' many of the Marquese group the women's clothing consists of scanty woven straw garments. They don't worry about Paris fashion changes—for a new dress they go out and pull a bunch of straw.

In these islands one's life is safe enough, while on others a faithless husband may be turned into stew at any time.

Captain Campbell states he finds these conditions where steamers do not visit and tourists do not come in contact with the native customs. The real situation one has to get away from the beaten track.

In spite of the barbarism of some of the islanders, they are surprisingly advanced. For instance, Captain Campbell said, they have a written language and have a religion that has many merits.

The islanders, however, have no moral conception, he declared. This is particularly true where the contact with other people has left no tracks. In those parts where the steamers do not call, he says, the islanders have acquired all his vices, but none of his virtues.

Bobbed Hair Is Cause of Legal Battle

Seattle, Wash., April 9.—Whether a bobber is a barber, a question that has disturbed the State of Washington since the legislature a year ago enacted that barbers must have licenses, evoked the clauses when a case reached Judge J. T. Ronald in the superior court here on appeal from the justice court.

"Beauty parlors for baseball, have become a national amusement," Judge Ronald remarked in deciding that bobbers need not be licensed barbers.

The lawyers having dealt with the case of Lucien Gaudin and Ida Hughes, brought out some fines from "Milton and Webster" and "Funk and Wagnalls" in the modern spirit of woman, "which has robbed her of the ability to make soups and tongues for men," the court yet admonished the jury:

"Then cease, bright nymph, to mourn thy ravished hair

"Which adds new glory to the shining sphere."

Perhaps, mused the judicial mind as it read aloud to the jury, Anna Lawson, whose locks William Hoffman, unlicensed, bobbed in a beauty parlor, had "lived loose hair flung deftly around her head," or perhaps

"Was a beautiful mist falling down to her waist,

"Was a thing to be braided and reveiled and kissed."

After all, the court concluded, beauty parlor workers oughtn't to have to learn the jokes to pass examinations as barbers.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Much Interest Being Shown in the Large Number of Women Safely Carried Through the Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The Following Letters Are Impressive

Owing to modern methods of living, few women escaped this perfectly natural change without experiencing many annoying and often painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, nervousness, headaches, melancholia and irritability are only a few of the symptoms indicative of this trying period of a woman's life, and the following letters tell how this medicine Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has overcome these abnormal conditions.

"Pikeville, Ky.—"For several months I was under the doctor's care, as he said my nervousness, chills, hot flashes and weakness were caused by the Change of Life, but I did not seem to get any better. I was not able to work and spent most of my time in bed. I was so discouraged that I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I cannot tell you how much good the medicine did me, as I had such a hard time before taking it. I can truly say that every woman passing through the Change of Life, should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it did so much for me."—Mrs. Lena Hall, R. Hall, Star Route, Pikeville, Ky.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario. This book contains valuable information.

A Michigan Woman Helped

Ionia, Michigan.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and had been under the doctor's care without any benefit. A friend in Ionia, Mich., asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as I feel fifty per cent better already. I say use it and you will soon realize the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help you. I will gladly answer their letters."—Mrs. Max W. Ayers, 321 N. Jefferson Street, Ionia, Mich.

A New York Woman Helped

Syracuse, N. Y.—"I was used up with nervousness, weakness and hot flashes so I could hardly keep around, and could get no help until I took a course of those awful prickly feelings. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helping another woman with symptoms like mine. My husband got some for me, and after taking it a few weeks I was stronger and even do my housework, washing and ironing. Now my many friends can see what a change it has made in me."—Mrs. Ella Sweeney, 1124½ Burnet Avenue, Syracuse, N. Y.

A harmless examination

There is no annoyance or distress in my examination. Even the smallest child can submit to it without the least nervousness. No drugs are used, and the procedure all the way through is as harmless as wearing the photograph taken. The time required varies from a few minutes to maybe an hour in more difficult cases. Only good can come from a visit here. Consultation by appointment.

WOMAN DESPONDENT, COMMITS SUICIDE

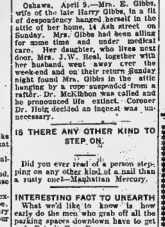

Oshawa, April 9.—Mrs. E. Gibbs, wife of the late Harry Gibbs, in a fit of despondency hanged herself in the attic of her home, 14 Ash street on Sunday. Mrs. Gibbs had been ailing for some time and under medical care. Her daughter, who lives next door, Mrs. J.W. Heal, together with her husband, were away over the week-end and on their return Sunday night found Mrs. Gibbs in the attic hanging by a rope suspended from a rafter. Dr. McGibbon was called and he pronounced life extinct. Coroner Dr. Holy decided an inquest was unnecessary.

That Body of Yours

By Isaac W. Bertin, M.D.

What Nature Expects From You

is often wonder what Nature thinks about the help you give her to maintain the body of yours.

She gave you a body that will do almost everything.

She provided food of every kind, and then made a body that could use that food.

Further you don't have to be an expert mechanic to keep it in shape. All you have to do is to use ordinary care and common sense, and your body runs along of its own accord.

Someone has said that the body is the most wonderful machine ever made, because it is automatic and absolutely "fool proof".

I agree that it is the most wonderful mechanism known. But it is not fool proof entirely, because you know what happens to it sometimes due to your own foolishness. It is because it is so wonderful that you take chances with it. It seems to be able to stand so much. It's very perfection, as it were, makes you careless. However what I had in mind in this number in which Nature does her part in holding up the intestines and other abdominal organs is another important place.

She has glands going out from the spinal column, behind, which hold the organs up in their places.

In front she supplied you with abdominal muscles which are to hold them up in front.

Thus she has the support behind and in front, the organs would not "drop" out of place.

What about these muscles of the abdomen?

You will remember that they run up and down, across, and also obliquely over the abdomen, forming a regular muscular wall in front, which Nature expected would be sufficient to hold the intestines and other organs in place.

What about these muscles of the abdomen?

You will remember that they run up and down, across, and also obliquely over the abdomen, forming a regular muscular wall in front, which Nature expected would be sufficient to hold the intestines and other organs in place.

Why do they not do their work and permit the dropping mentioned above.

Simply because Nature expected you to do your part.

When you were created you were to earn your bread by the "sweat of your brow". Your body was meant to function in every way.

It was never intended that you should sit at a desk day after day, stand at a bench, or do the various things so necessary in this complex civilization of ours.

What is the result?

That the front abdominal muscles that can be kept strong only by bending and twisting the body, get no exercise whatever, or so little but it is practically none. And so you have flaccid muscles allow the abdominal contents to sag. Often the intestines and intestines drop inches below the normal position with the result that they cannot do their work properly. Constipation is a general sluggishness of movement that in time results in the well known condition of abdominal muscles, and the whole abdomen.

That if you are weak or sick, that you wear an abdominal belt for awhile until you get stronger. That rational treatment is to get back and develop the muscular belt or support that Nature gave you, in your abdominal muscles. Bending forward and backward, sideways and twisting and rotating the body, will show a hardening or a tightening of the abdominal muscles in six weeks. Your good sense will keep you from it, but, exercising twice a day will be all that is necessary.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Esther made a weak and feeble attempt to rake the hay into a mound, and he watched her for a moment or two in silence, just as he had watched her attempt to notch the trees.

He shrugged her shoulders with affected indifference; but she tried to obey his directions. The waist came up, and Jack, with his huge fork, gathered up the hay and loaded it into the cart, and he took no more notice obere than if she had been one of the peasant girls working in the field.

It nettled her, and presently she said:

"Give me your fork, Mr. Gordon, I want to boost some hay up."

He looked at her doubtfully.

"You can't; you'll make a mess of it."

"No, shan't," she said; and she stuck her fork in the heap of hay and tried to raise it. Though it looked so light, it was so heavy that it seemed to bear her back with it; but she still persisted, and she would have fallen ignominiously if Jack had not stretched out his strong arm and supported her; for she had not supported Kate!

"Now, toss!" he exclaimed.

He put his hand to the handle of the fork as he spoke, and up the hay went. He threw it over his head and over his waist and had held her in a grip of iron.

She felt his arm round her—a bond of steel, of living muscle; it seemed—and the blood rushed to her face, and her breath came so fast as almost to suffocate her.

"You took too much," he said, quietly. "That's the way with women; they will never be satisfied."

He left her at once, and she saw him striding across the field towards another team. A foolish feeling of indignation and resentment took possession of her at his desertion. Evidently any one else on the field. And she was Miss Vancourt of the Towers! Surely he might try to have stayed beside her. She had given up a dignity to be present at this hay-making of his, and he treated her as if she were a nobody. The blood rankled in her face, and she caught her breath; but she still worked on.

Jack did not come to her again for another half hour. She saw him striding hither and thither, the white hay among them all, his shoulders thrown back, his head erect. Now and again she heard his voice—the voice of the man who is accustomed to commanding; directions, and she noticed that his directions were promptly and cheerfully obeyed by every one.

But still he did not come near her. Was she of no account? She was the mistress of all; and yet there she was working in the field like a common laborer, and Jack must have been requesting it at the Bruce the moment he arrived.

The veins were filling; everything was carried save one load. She saw the waggons proceeding slowly to the farm, and presently Jack came up to her.

"We are all loaded, excepting the last, which we reserve for after the supper," he said. "Will you come to the farm, or would you rather go home, Miss Vancourt?"

Esther would have liked to have said that she would go home, but she would not.

"I will go to the barn, Mr. Gordon," she said.

"All right," he said in his cavalier fashion. "They are not the proper all laid, and they're only waiting for you. I said I thought you'd come."

She walked beside him and she wish which was already loaded, and they entered the barn. A hearty cheer arose as they entered, and Esther paused, shy and uncertain, but Jack, quietly but masterfully, put her at the head of the long table. Mrs. Martin, assisted by her underlings, brought in huge dishes of boiled beef, potatoes, greens, and cake. Every man and woman stood expectant.

"Say grace," said Jack to Esther.

Esther commenced and paused once. "I can't," she said. "You say it."

Jack, with an instinctive glance at knife and fork on plate, Jack seized a piece of boiled beef and put it before Esther. "Eat," he said; "they'll be offended if you don't."

She had had a very poor lunch, and she tried to eat; but her heart was beating fast. The sun had taken full possession of her, and she was trying to fight his influence, but in vain.

But the rest of the hay-makers, free as any such sentiment, ate heartily enough. When they had finished, they sang songs, and cracked jokes as old as the flood. They were happy with a happiness beyond words, and Esther envied them. Why could not she be happy? What was it she wanted?

Suddenly Jack rose to his feet. They were evidently expecting a speech, and Jack, knocked the table with the handle of their knives.

"My friends," he said, "I give you the health of our masters, Miss Vancourt, she is here to-day, to share our labours and to join in our prosperity. Here's her health, and long life to her!"

They all rose to their feet and gave a hearty cheer.

Esther, white and red by turns, looked at Jack.

"What shall I say?" she asked of Jack.

"Say what you like," he replied.

But still he did not move from her bench. Was she of no account? She was the mistress of all; and yet there she was working in the field like a common laborer, and Jack must have been requesting it at the Bruce the moment he arrived.

"O Hara San" Is Pleasing Play

"O Hara San" proved to be a pleasing offering by the Presto Music Club at the City Hall last night. The principal roles were well cast and the chorus singing extremely well done. At the opening some of the performers had a little little lack of confidence, but they quickly swung into the spirit of the Operetta and gave a most satisfying performance.

Miss Kathryn Sisson sang the star role of "O Hara San", giving a pleasing conception of the little Japanese maiden separated from her lover and in danger of being forced into an unwelcome marriage. As the lover, Mr. J. B. Benkler used his fine tenor voice with good effect.

Of the other principals, Mr. Jack Deacon carried off the honors as the comic lover for the lines. While he did not have as much to do as the others, his acting and stage presence added spirit to the performance.

Mr. Arthur Hertig as Mr. Wrightwright as the father and mother of "O Hara San" did not have much solo singing to do but filled their parts well. Miss Aileen Kay was the Prince Pushimi, the disappointed suitor of "O Hara San" acted and sang his part with skill and zest, and Miss Clara Yeomans, after the first appearance, very pleasingly as the Chief of the Maids.

The chorus singing, particularly in the second scene, was tuneful and in splendid volume. Those taking part were the Misses Winnie Black, Calliarine Bailey and Irene Woodley; Geisha and Mrs. R. S. Lewis, Mr. R. L. Bowen and the Misses Beard-Handley, Marjorie Davidson, Wilfred Palmer, Phyllis Bogart, Lazelle Brown and Helen Cooper as Maids. Mr. Howard and Mr. Harwood filled in with the principal male singers in the chorus.

The Operetta reflects much credit on [illegible] singers and conducted last night.

Miss Olive Copper at the piano and Miss Flora Stirling Guertine handled the light pleasing airs satisfactorily.

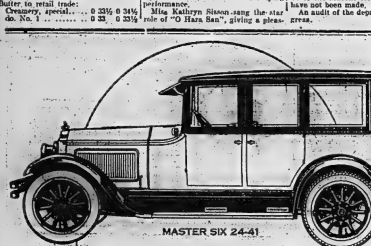

A capacity house enjoyed the performance and warmly congratulated Mr. Anglin and the Presto Music Club on the success of the evening.

U.S. Wealth Is Placed At 320 Billions

Washington, April 8.—The American nation, reputed to be the richest in the world, in the year 1922 had, according to the department of commerce reported today, [illegible]

In ten years, between December 31, 1913 and December 31, 1922, when the last survey was made, the national wealth increased 72.3 per cent. On December 31, 1913, it was placed at $186,299,656,000.

Per capita wealth increased from $1,556 in 1912 to $2,313 in 1922, an increase of 48.6 per cent.

The huge increase in the money value of the nation's wealth, the department said, is due principally to the rise in prices in recent years, and not entirely to a corresponding increase in the quantity of wealth, as commodities figure it.

Property Values Increase

All classes of property, except livestock, increased in value in the ten-year period, the department reported. The estimated value of taxed real property and improvements increased from $96,275,626,000 to $165,908,525,000 or 69.9 per cent.

Exempt real property, exclusive of national parks and monuments rose from $13,213,529,000 to $20, 05,819,000 or 56.5 per cent.

Stocks of goods vehicles other than motor furniture and clothing rose from $24,324,291,000 to $75,383,607,000 or 121.3 per cent.

Railroads and their equipment rose from $16,146,532,000 to $19,950,800,000, or 23.5 per cent.

Industrial Growth

Privately owned telephone and transmission enterprises, other than railroads increased from $9,572,855,000 to $13,607,570,00 or 42.1 per cent.

Manufacturing machinery tools and implements rose from $6,091,451,000 to $20,000,000 to $203,885,000 or 24.4 per cent; gold and silver coin and bullion from $2,616,642,000 to $4,378,155,000 or 67.3 per cent and the United States navy from $42,352,000 to $1,445,932,000 or 3,358.4 per cent.

Trade In Tea Reaches Huge Total Yearly

London, April 8.—One of the little known wonders of London is the great tea auction which is held every week day in a salesroom in Mincing lane, says a writer in Tit-Bits. The attendance comprises from one hundred to two hundred persons, made up of buyers from the great tea-blending firms, blenders, brokers and growers' agents with a sprinkling of visitors from all parts of the world.

It is here that the bulk of the tea consumed in Great Britain, which next to China and Japan, is the greatest tea-drinking nation in sold. Last year 284,001,700 lbs of tea was dealt with in this salesroom, involving the sum of £19,230,316. Every day, if you are an average tea-drinker, works out at 5¼ lbs for the year.

An Absorbing Romance

The story of tea is one of the world's most absorbing commercial romances. The early history of the beverage is almost entirely a matter of tradition. Who made the first cup of tea will probably never be known although there is scarcely any doubt that he was a Chinaman.

According to an ancient Chinese legend the virtues of tea, which for some centuries was known as "cha" were first discovered by the Emperor Shinnung three years before the birth of Christ.

Tea was first used in Great Britain in the middle of the seventeenth century, when it commanded from £5 to £10 a pound.

In the Mercuring Politicus of September, 1658 appeared the advertisement: "That excellent and by all Physitians approved Chinese drink, called by the Chinoians Teha, the other nations Tay alias Tee, is sold at the Sultaness red, a coffee house in Sweetin's Rents, by the Royal Exchange London."

A year or two later, a London merchant, Thomas Garway, bought a large quantity of tea in bulk and offered it at the then novel price of from 15s to 50 s a pound, and also in liquid form at so much a dish. It was not until the latter half of the eighteenth century however, that tea began to be consumed regularly by all classes.

Story of Clipper Ships

Among the various subsidiary romances connected with the tea industry, those associated with its transportation from the east to Great Britain loom largely.

As the trade developed the need for rapid transit grew, and a special type of tea-carrying ship was introduced. Known as "China clippers" these ships engaged in keen competition for the honor of making the quickest passage to London.

One of the most notable of these races was that which took place 57 years ago. Nine ships sailed simultaneously from Foochow, the Chinese port three of them Greenock-built vessels, docking in the Thames within two hours of each other 99 days later.

The ships had not sighted each other for over 16½ months until they reached English Channel, Here ensued a terrific neck-and-neck race that was destined to become historic.

Titles Still Finding Favor With Germans

Berlin, Apr. 4.—American women of wealth who have married titles in Almanac de Gotha are mentioned in such an unpleasant manner in the German reviews of the new issue of the publication, that little encouragement is offered those who have such features to the rehabilitation of medieval castles and decayed titles.

There have been rumors that the Almanac de Gotha was about to be discontinued, and European nobility was in a great panic. Without the Almanac, the hordes of princesses, dukes and counts in Europe would hardly know how to get along. Without the Almanac, the hordes of princesses, dukes and counts in Europe would hardly know how to get along. Without the Almanac de Gotha to supply information they would find it difficult to establish their social position, lacking a pedigree certificate of the first class.

But it isn't true that the Almanac de Gotha is suspended. The German issue for 1924 is already out, and the French edition is in preparation. Germany still has hopes of supplying Europe with kings and queens in future republican days, and the publishers of the present edition declare they have celebrated volume declare they have not thought of stopping the publication of the Who's Who in Noble Circles.

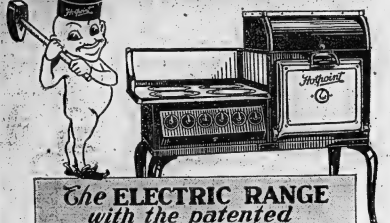

In its discussion of the new issue of the almanac, the Berlin Montags-Zeitung reflects upon the marriage of Prince Erik of Denmark to a Canadian heiress, and says the Canadians are now joining the Americans in the "victory route". The newspaper continues:

"It is true that the war brought almost many divorces of American women who had joined European princes and counts in order to embroider a coat of arms upon their underwear, or have it printed on their stationery, but it appears that in the long run titles and names are as attractive to American women as to former years. At least there are some new names added to the Almanac de Gotha."

Americans may be interested to know that the Almanac de Gotha refused to mention the United States until 1854, because the new republic had no connection with the royal families of Europe. The first issue of the almanac was in 1763 and the first copy of the book which is available in the British Museum is dated 1774.

The Almanac de Gotha is a German-made product, and refuses to surrender the German perspective of supposing the real Europe with kings. For example the Prince of Wales, who was the king of Albania, for a few minutes before the war, is still carried in the almanac this year as "King of Albania." It would doubtless be good news to the warlike Albanians to hear they still have a king but the "House World" is solemnly proclaimed in the almanac of this year not William Frederick Henry, Prince of Albania, and his children are unfaithfully tabulated among the immortals.

Titles Still Finding Favor With Germans

Berlin, Apr. 4.—American women of wealth who have married titles in Almanac de Gotha are mentioned in such an unpleasant manner in the German reviews of the new issue of the publication, that little encouragement is offered those who have such features to the rehabilitation of medieval castles and decayed titles.

There have been rumors that the Almanac de Gotha was about to be discontinued, and European nobility was in a great panic. Without the Almanac, the hordes of princesses, dukes and counts in Europe would hardly know how to get along. Without the Almanac de Gotha to supply information they would find it difficult to establish their social position, lacking a pedigree certificate of the first class.

But it isn't true that the Almanac de Gotha is suspended. The German issue for 1924 is already out, and the French edition is in preparation. Germany still has hopes of supplying Europe with kings and queens in future republican days, and the publishers of the present edition declare they have celebrated volume declare they have not thought of stopping the publication of the Who's Who in Noble Circles.

In its discussion of the new issue of the almanac, the Berlin Montags-Zeitung reflects upon the marriage of Prince Erik of Denmark to a Canadian heiress, and says the Canadians are now joining the Americans in the "victory route". The newspaper continues:

"It is true that the war brought almost many divorces of American women who had joined European princes and counts in order to embroider a coat of arms upon their underwear, or have it printed on their stationery, but it appears that in the long run titles and names are as attractive to American women as to former years. At least there are some new names added to the Almanac de Gotha."

Americans may be interested to know that the Almanac de Gotha refused to mention the United States until 1854, because the new republic had no connection with the royal families of Europe. The first issue of the almanac was in 1763 and the first copy of the book which is available in the British Museum is dated 1774.

The Almanac de Gotha is a German-made product, and refuses to surrender the German perspective of supposing the real Europe with kings. For example the Prince of

Ontario Echo of Bulpitt Case Brings Plans for Remedy in Homes

Toronto, April 8.—Echoes of the Bulpitt and Payne cases will be heard in the Legislature Chambers this afternoon when Hon. W. F. Nickle, K. C., will introduce a bill dealing with child immigration.

The details of the bill were being considered by the Cabinet before the House meets. It is contemplated that the bill will provide for the careful inspection of all homes before any child is allowed to go there.

One of the things to be overcome, through the Children's Aid Society, will keep a watchful eye to see that the child is properly treated. Not only will the province see that the child is kindly treated, but it will also insist that its educational and spiritual welfare are not neglected.

Ratus was looking for work and the employer was asking him the usual questions.

"What's your name?"

"Charlie Jackson, sah."

"How old are you?"

"Ah is twenty-one yeahs, sah."

"Are you married?"

"No, sah. But ever on ma head is where a mule done kicked me."

$3,000 IN FURS RECOVERED--MEN HE

C.N.R. HEAD CHALLENGES ASSAILANTS

Sir Henry Thornton Scores Policy of Assassination and States Efforts to Detract from Good Work Done by Lines is Obverse Propaganda—Is Going to Protect Company from Slanderous and Libelous Gossip

Montreal, April 10, Special to The Intelligencer—"We have reached that stage in our career on the C.N.R. when we may maintain a degree of self respect. I don't mean egotism—I don't mean pride, but I mean holding able self-respect. There are unfortunately those in the land who adopt a policy of assassination of character, character in so far as the Company is concerned, character so far as the officers are concerned. They whisper maliciously and say: "Well, after all, this net showing you have, was merely faked, we must not pay any attention to that it is merely bookkeeping."

That is one of the things they started in an effort to detract from what had been done, and a good many things of that kind are going on."

Issues Challenge

"I say we are going to challenge statements of that nature. We are going to protect both the Company and the officers from slanderous and libelous gossip, wherever it appears. This statement was made last night by Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways in an address broadcasted by him over the radio from station CHYC (Northern Electric), Montreal, to officers and employees of the National system.

This was the third occasion upon which Sir Henry had spoken to employees of the organization by radio, from stations in Eastern Canada since the National system inaugurated its radio broadcasting service last prize to the close of last year.

Appreciates Loyalty

After expressing his appreciation of the loyalty which had been shown by the administration during the past year by the officers and men, and announcing that this year's objective is thirty million dollars net, Sir Henry delivered the statement quoted above. He then continued, "I have set the task to say, we are going to play the game straight. We are going to play the game as sportsmen. We are not going to come hat in hand to the people of Canada and ask them to give us their traffic, because by doing so they will reduce their duty, or by doing so they will be patronizing their own railways.

We should ask for traffic for only a reason but because the merit of our service entitles us to that patronage.

Steady Reduction

It seems to me that our problem is chiefly the problem of increasing our revenue and that has been a steady reduction in transportation expense that is to say, expenses which are chargeable to meeting the traffic. It is the last two months of 1924, we have reduced our operating expenses nearly $2,000,000 as against 1923, and put all those that a decrease in total transportation expenses is a dollar earned

"Our traffic department has been exceedingly well, and if we had a sufficient amount of business on the railway, a business which was something equivalent to its mileage, we would have a railway problem, the thing would be solved on the National Railways.

For Real Service

Every one on the system has got to pull for the traffic department and try to add, in some way, only for each week, each month, to our gross receipts."

In concluding his message, Sir Henry referred to the feeling of good fellowship which has grown up between all departments of the system and he again expressed his heartfelt gratitude for the splendid efforts which the past month last year and which were made at the present time by all employees in the service to make the Canadian National Railways a success. At the conclusion of his remarks Sir Henry repeated it in French for the benefit of the French speaking members of the organization.

Group of Five Men Framed Mer Rouge Plot, Dr. Busey Reveals; Probe Under Way

Atlanta, Ga., April 10.—A group of five desperate men, all members of the Ku Klux Klan, plotted the slaying of the hooded mob murders of Mer Rouge at a midnight conference in a Texas town in August, 1922, according to the "inside story" of the crime, revealed by Dr. A. C. Busey, "man of mystery," who has disappeared from the federal prison here.

As a result a new investigation of the murder mystery is under consideration today by the Department of Justice.

Comb Country for Busey

A nation-wide search meanwhile was continued for Busey in the belief he might solve the tangle which stunned the nation more than a year ago and which has since defied solution.

The Texas conference, Busey claimed, developed into a fight Klan upon Klan in Morehouse parish a few weeks later, vendetta slayings in the resulting murder of Watt Daniel, world war veteran, and the "mysterious imprisonment" of Dr. Busey, Dr. Thomas E. Richards, who has betrayed the former soldier to his doom.

Turned Thumbs Down

Before he disappeared, Busey told friends the name of a clergyman, a town official, two wealthy men and a planter, all klansmen, when attended the Texas conference and turned thumbs down on Daniel's life. The death verdict was decreed by these five men because Daniel "ran" bootleg liquor into Texas oil camps.

In his story of the plot and murder Busey charged the State of Louisiana with "plotting" in Lake in Fourche two fake bodies, culled from a medical school and charity hospital in New Orleans to take later indentified as those of Daniel and Richards. The body of Daniel, he said, was still hidden in an impressive burial ground believed to be a mystery log, not far from the lake. Richards is still alive, he added, and a captive of Daniel's slayers.

The plot, launched in the Texas conference, spread like a prairie fire, Busey said, to the then daylight kidnaping of five parish officials, including Daniel and Richards, and culminated in the brutal murder of the war veteran.

JURY HOLDS 2 SUSPECTS AS RAIDERS

Evidence at Inquest Graveley Implicates Coro Negro Nieri and Guiseppe Serafini as Principals in the Crime in Which Two Men Were Killed and $42,000 of Bank of Hochelaga Collections Were Stolen

Montreal, April 10.—Coro Negro Nieri and Guiseppe Serafini, were held responsible by a Coroner's jury for the death of Henri Cleroux, bank car chauffeur, and Harry Vincent Stone, bank guard, who met their deaths during the holdup of the Bank of Hochelaga collections, when $42,000 was stolen on a day after an inquest which lasted for over two hours and before a room crowded with detectives and men and women who had been called as witnesses of being connected with the crime. Nieri and Serafini were arrested by the detectives on Tuesday night, April 2nd, when the alcohol raided a house at 57 Cuvrol street and found the two men with two women and a child in the accompany. Part of the money was identified in court as that stolen from the collection car.

The most important witness was Rose Ionna, a girl of the age of 17, living with Nieri when he was arrested. Her evidence at the inquest is the strongest point in the Crown's case. The hearing has been interrupted frequently by counsel representing the suspects, and again by Nieri, who protested against the manner of identification by Rose Ionna. Counsel for Coroner Serafini sat through the hearing without making his presence felt, but Nieri was not represented and kept talking under his breath continually.

Dr. Wilfrid Derome, medical expert, stated that he had made an autopsy on the body of Henri Clerouz, and had found that the bullet which entered the left side of the neck through the collar of the overcoat, had broken two of the vertebrae and had come out on the right side of the neck, leaving the exact of the victim where he found it. The bullet, he said, had been fired from a distance of 22 calibre, but could not be found in the bandit car by the police.

In the case of Stone, a revolver bullet had entered the left side of the lungs and then its heart causing almost instant death. The bullet found in Stone's body did not fit any of the revolvers or rifles found in the bandit car.

Young 'Romeos' In Law's Hands

While doing back door duty, flat night as the police term it, Detective Chief Inspector Masson of the city detective department, but it developed that the real cause of their presence there was romantic. It was the case of love, not burglary, that drew a visit to the apartment of a "Juliet" which, may be added, was not in the interior state case. Just before the alleged burglary, Chief Masson had called on and the show started. The officer said that he had received a tip and after the rays of the light.

Both the young men, a young man aged 22, with a high school education comes from a good family, and two of his brothers are well known men. He has been unemployed for a time. The other young man is the son of a resident of Chief Kidd, who has had two complaints laid in the city Chief. The younger youth is from the farm where many of the best men of the country come from. He has been in town two months, and was advised to change his association, or he would "go to the devil."

Magistrate Masson, who by the way, always endeavours to assist young people in every way he can, said that they will make a clean breast of their affairs, and that as they were young he kindly manner, and reprimanded one accused for associating money from his employer.

"You should put the clamp on such associates, and keep away bootleggers, and should not accept money from your mother who has already done too much for you," exclaimed the Bench.

"That is one thing about mothers. They will give their last cent to a son invariably, and nearly always do more for them than a daughter. But in providing for your mother, and now the greatest comfort you can be to her is to leave such things alone and get work. If you cannot get a governmental position, take any kind of work."

GERMANY HITS OUT AGAINST DAWES REPORT

Will Not Agree to Proposals as Outlined in Report By Experts

BRITAIN SATISFIED

German Populace Apathetic Regarding Statement on Reparations

Paris, April 10—A despatch to the Havas Agency from Berlin says that the reports of the commission submitted by experts will be presented to the Reichstag this afternoon. First attention will be given to the chief specification regarding the payment of the reparations.

Karl Jarres, Vice-Chancellor and Minister of the Interior in the German Cabinet, is reported to have declared that the German Government will not agree to the proposals outlined by the experts. The German People's Party, which Jarres belongs, will consider the proposed plans immediately, the Vice-Chancellor said, according to the Havas report.

League Figures

Paris, April 10.—The League of Nations figures published in the Dawes report.

In the annex it was stated that if a disagreement arose over the value of gold in the future and the disputants could not reach a settlement, the League of Nations should appoint an arbitral committee to effect a compromise.

British Satisfied

London, April 10.—Foreign Office officials this afternoon refused to comment upon the Dawes' report, but intimated they were satisfied with the general outline.

Owing to its size and the intricacy of the details, the experts have not yet finished studying it.

Premier Baldwin's printed only sketchy outlines, giving most promising evidence to the report of the expert committee, headed by Reginald McKenna.

"How Germany tricked the Allies," was a headline employed by the Berlin mere newspapers over the McKenna report.

The Standard referred to it as a "mark scandal."

Premier David Lloyd George refused to comment upon the Dawes' report, saying he had not time to read and study it.

Study Reports Friday

Paris, April 10.—The Inter-Allied reparations commission will meet informally Friday afternoon to study the reparations reports.

Germans Apathetic

Berlin, April 10.—The German public has awaited the official text of the Dawes' report apathetically. Talk of the report is already hard trickled into Germany from Paris and has been published in German newspapers.

OULETTE ARRIVES

Jack Oulette, steam ball right hander who will be one of the mainstays in the pitching staff of the Grand Trunk baseball team this season, arrived in the city yesterday from his home at Fenelon Falls. Jack with Keon, formerly of Belleville, was the first rank hurlers with the Moguls this season. (Kingston, Ottawa and Peterboro papers please copy).

COURT ACTION FOR WHEELER ON OIL LANDS

Senator Indicted on Three Counts Over Money Receipt

BITTER FIGHT LOOMS

Washington Probe Will Go Ahead Despite Snag, Leaders Declare

Great Falls, Mont., April 10.—United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler, "prosecutor" of the Daugherty Senatorial investigation in Washington, was under indictment here today on three counts involving receipt of money for representing clients in tal land litigation before the general land office of the Department of the Interior in Washington.

Senator Wheeler was United States district attorney for Montana under the Wilson administration.

Charges Three Others

Another indictment jointly charged Gordon Campbell, Charles F. Bloomhuff and Edward J. Dailey with misrepresentation in selling oil shares.

Dailey was convicted in the federal courts of Texas three years ago in connection with oil frauds in that state.

Political War Issue

Washington, April 10—One of the chief interests here today in developments today as a result of the senatorial Montana indictment of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democratic prosecutor of the Senate's investigation of former Attorney-General Daugherty's administration in the Department of Justice.

Although Wheeler probably will eliminate himself in the near future, it has leaned definitely that the investigation will be continued. Instead of stopping the inquiry, indications were that the effect of the indictment would be to increase the bitterness that has marred the inquiry from its outset.

Democrats in Defense

It was indicated in the Democratic leadership in the Senate would direct Wheeler's defence. That course would be adopted because the charges against him reflect on the Democratic party as well as the senator. It was learned that Wheeler probably will be right in consultation with Democratic leaders.

Parades To Be Held Separately

The following letter has been received from Mayor Wood, secretary-treasurer of the different fraternal societies:—

A meeting has been called to report circulated in the City to the effect that the parades of the different fraternal societies during the U. E. L. Celebration on Tuesday, the 24th of June 17th, will be all one parade. This is not correct, as the arrangements of the ternal society will be entirely separate and distinct from the parade of any other fraternal society, and no objection as if held in different towns or on different days. Each fraternal society will start from a separate point and march to its own course and will be entirely under the control of its own officers and not under the control of the Grand Marshall. It is unfortunate that a report likely to cause a lot of adverse in the city in the celebration should be circulated. The fact is well known that a dispensation would not be granted any fraternal society unless it made separate arrangements with others, and for that reason the above arrangements have been adopted and announced publicly some time ago. Belleville people are putting time and money in the celebration, and it is therefore, not good business to knock the celebration in any way.

Later in the evening there present the militia officers engaged in a volley ball competition and were successful in winning three games.

CONVICTS ARE STILL AT LARGE

Simpson and Bryans Slip From the Police at Ogdensburg

Kingston, April 10.—Despite the act that detectives and other officials have been on the trail of Gordon Simpson and Thomas Bryans, remaining members of "Red" Ryan's gang who escaped from the Portsmouth penitentiary last September, and who have been known to be in Ogdensburg, N.Y., the wanted fugitives from justice are still at large, though it is hoped expected that they will be apprehended. At the Portsmouth Penitentiary matching has been occupied in the yard to the routine of the men.

It is stated that it was "Red" Ryan, the notorious desperado, now serving life sentence in the penitentiary, who gave the information to the police which has now led to the tracing of the two wanted men. According to word from Ogdensburg, Ryan told the police after his arrest in Minneapolis where Simpson was, and the long search since Ryan's capture has final.

Bryans, Simpson and Bryans, Lough for the thing being the two convicts have slipped away. Evidently are also working on a clue that Simpson has been staying at the home of a retiren captain at Ogdensburg. In the event of the capture of the two men, there will be little time lost in having them extradicted, as was after the return of Ryan to the penitentiary warrants were sworn in, charging Simpson and Bryans with escapint, setting fire to the stables at the institution, stealing a car and the automobile it was in. Therefore it is expected that when the men are arrested they will be sent across the line in a hurry.

WILL ADDRESS ODDFELLOWS

After the usual business meeting tonight of Belleville Lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 81, Dr. J. L. Toner, of the city, will give a talk to the members, the subject being selected.

MURRELL AND TOPPING DIE

Trap Sprung in London Jail Yard at Five-thirty This Morning

London, Ont., April 10.—Special To The Intelligencer—At five-thirty this morning in the courtyard of the London jail, Sidney Murrell and H. Topping paid the death penalty for their crimes, on the gallows.

Seven minutes after the trap was sprung life was pronounced extinct.

The execution of Murrell and Topping ends since they have occupied the public eye for several months. They never knew that Williams, also under sentence, of death, had been granted commutation to life imprisonment.

Mrs. William Murrell, mother of Sidney, and also a sister, Mrs. Murrell farewell for the last time yesterday afternoon.

Application has been made by Topping's family for his body. This application must be approved by the Attorney-General before being granted.

SKINS FOUND ON PREMISES OF FARMER

Charles Seguire, Living Near Wadsworth, and Father-in-Law Arrested by Provincial Police—Real Detective Work Employed in Finding Location of Hidden Cache — Impression of Auto Tires Leads to Arrests

Charles Seguire, farmer, living on the Campbellford road, sixteen miles north of Brighton, near Wadsworth, and his father-in-law, a nearby farmer, were arrested last night by Sergeant of Provincial Police R. G. Atkins, Provincial Constable A. Martin of this city, and Provincial Constable Thomas Cousens of Colborne. They were taken to Cobourg jail as well as $3,000 worth of fur, fox and coyote skins which they are charged with stealing from a house owned by Grant Quick at Percy Isle. The pair may be charged with burglary.

Commit Burglary on 4th

Between seven and twelve o'clock midnight on April 4th, the furs were taken from the Quick residence and transported in a motor car, which was equipped, with. Mallets, Crow tires on the front wheels, and Goodrich tires on the rear wheels. The impression made by the tires in the snow on the night of the burglary played a prominent part in the investigation. Chief Constable Quick called Officer Cousens early the following morning and the investigation was then notified by Cousens in turn, after he had gone to Brighton and made extensive enquiries. At that time a Cobourg man was suspected.

Police Watch Seguire

Last Thursday, one of Quick's sons, happened to see a telephone message from Campbellford from a man who wished to buy a quantity of fur skins for sale. This was the day before the Easter holiday. The employee took down the message, and yesterday Quick went to Campbellford, where he learned that a farmer had been sold there to a Peterboro buyer, and a description which he secured at Campbellford, he called at the Seguire farm on his way home last evening, and immediately noticed that Seguire's Star car was equipped with tires which corresponded to the tracks which he had seen at the residence on the night of the burglary. Quick called Cousens, who immediately came down to Brighton and called Atkins and Master Martin. The local officers left immediately for Seguire's home, and on entering the house by Seguire, were informed that he and his father-in-law had been in Brighton on Friday, April 4th, in his car. He stated that he did not have a license

Deaths and Funerals

WILLIAM JENKINS

Death has recently claimed a former well-known citizen of Belleville in the person of William Jenkins, who passed away yesterday afternoon after a brief illness. An attack of pneumonia was the cause of death. Deceased was 76 years of age and a bachelor. He was the only brother of Mr. James V. Jenkins, proprietor of Hotel Quinte. Deceased was born at Victoria and for upwards of half a century had been a resident of Belleville where he was well known and much respected. Some years ago Mr. Jenkins was connected with the Grand Junction Railway and suffered injuries and had since lived a retired life. Deceased was possessed of a kindly and jovial disposition which made him many friends who will regret his passing.

JAMES BOYD

Mr. James Boyd a resident of Thurlow Township and a former well-known Belleviliian, passed away last night at the family residence, 3rd concession of Thurlow. His demise was by no means unexpected as he had been ill for a considerable period. Deceased was born in Ireland and was 76 years of age. For forty years Mr. Boyd had resided in the locality where he was known and much respected by a large circle of friends. Jim, as he was familiarly called was a kind and true hearted Irishman, ever ready to lend a helping hand to those deserving same. In religion he was a Presbyterian. Mr. Boyd was a member of Moira Lodge No. 11 A. F. & A. M., and Mizpah Lodge I. O. O. F. No. 127. After residing in the city for some years deceased took up farming in Thurlow Township where he had since resided. A widow, two sons and a daughter survive. The sons are John on the homestead, and Harry, of North Hatteford, and the daughter, Mrs. P. G. Deuker, of this city. One brother, John, resides at Star City Sask., and a sister, Mrs. Fenaise resides at Rochester. The sympathy of many friends will be extended to the bereaved.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. John Harris and family desire to express their sincere thanks to their many friends and neighbors for the thoughtfulness and kind assistance rendered during their recent sad bereavement, also for the many expressions of sympathy and beautiful floral offering. 10-1td

The Intelligencer's --- Bible Offer

When it was proposed to make the leading newspapers of the country the channels through which this Bible stream would flow, it was thought by some critics to be impossible, because it was claimed that the press is interested only in the news of day. It would be an unworthy newspaper, indeed, that would not lend its aid toward encouraging Bible reading, and now that the movement is well under way, the critics are forced to admit their error. The present offer includes two different volumes—Style A, illustrated below, and Style B, which is fully as complete but less elaborately bound.

CLOSER CURB ON DRUGGISTS AIMED IN BILL

Committee of Whole Legislature Gives Its Approval

WILL ISSUE "PERMIT"

Wording Altered, Request From Drug Stores, Says Attorney-General

Toronto, April —After considerable discussion, the bill of the Attorney General amending the Ontario Temperance Act, providing for closer control over druggists in respect to the sale of liquor for medical purposes, was approved yesterday by the committee of the whole House of the Legislature.

"One of the principal changes made was the altering of the word "licenses" or "licensing" to "permit," which was done, Mr. Nickle said, because the druggists themselves desired this wording.

O. K. If Cy Prescription

In answer to questions, Mr. Nickle said that a man taking liquor home from a dispensary, which he had obtained on a prescription, could not be thought be arrested on a charge of "having" liquor in his possession.

An important point was raised by Edmund Proulx (Liberal, Prescott) respecting the clause giving the right to confiscate cars used in carrying liquor for illegal purposes, as to rights of lien holders. Many cars were sold on lien notes or chattel mortgages, he said.

Danger on Lien Notes

Mr. Nickle said representatives of commercial organizations that carried these lien notes had been to see him last Friday, and he had told them frankly that, if these lien notes were recognized, then those persons wishing to evade the law would have lien notes against their cars. There would be careful consideration given in the way of executive clemency in the case of cars confiscated, against which there were lien notes, but if such lien holders were fictitious the Government would not be sympathetic.

In moving the application of a clause giving the right to search vehicles on the highways, or boats where it is suspected that liquor is being kept for sale or intended to be sold, Mr. Nickle said he had no desire to invade the personal privileges of persons traveling on the highway. What he had in mind was to strike at the trafficking in liquor. The law as it stood today made it an offence for a person to have liquor on the highway. He said that he sometimes doubted if the severity of the penalty for the technical or trivial offence had a tendency to make the act popular. He made another change in the act, to improve upon the inadequate that where a car was confiscated, such confiscation must be sustained by the evidence.

Druggists Give Assistance

The price of a permit to be issued to the druggist is to be $1 instead of $5. Generally speaking, he said, the druggists of the province were cooperating sincerely and in a most praiseworthy manner in the carrying out of the act. Two druggists themselves were living a bill introduced giving greater power to the Council of Pharmacy in disciplining druggists for infractions of the act, and in return the Government was putting through these changes.

HOME FOR EASTER

A most convenient service is provided by Canadian National Railways for all those who desire to take advantage of the long week-end at Easter, or to enjoy a more extended holiday during that period. Parents or relatives wishing to bring students or pupils at school, etc., home for the holiday can arrange all details through the Railway Company. Any Canadian Nation. al Agent will transmit to all parts of the System orders for the delivery of rail tickets, sleeping car berths or parlor car seats, and if required, cash payment for travelling expenses and, will cheerfully render any other service that may be desired. Personal attention will be given passengers at ticket offices or depots and everything possible will be done to contribute to the comfort and safety of those who may be entrusted to the care of a Canadian National Representative.

For further particulars apply to any Canadian National Ticket Agent.

Self Poisoning Today's Danger

Modern Hurry Upsets Run-Down People, Vital Organ Becomes Clogged and Poisons the System.

Hurried eating and lack of abdominal exercise clogs the system and overloads the liver. This important organ is the body's filter, and when it becomes sluggish and clogged up, the poisonous waste of the body is improperly eliminated. No longer can the liver properly secrete juices so essential toelegestion and correct movement of your bowels. No longer can it properly filter and purify your blood. The result is self poisoning.

This explains why a sluggish liver is attended by such symptoms as constipation, biliousness, sick-headaches, sourness and gas on a weak stomach, loss of appetite, pains in the back and sides, and an irritable, run-down condition—symptoms that lead to the dangerous and expensive sick-bed unless corrected in time.

Dr. H. S. Thacher, noted physical practitioner, perfected a wholesome vegetable prescription to keep the liver healthy, it is giving quick relief and renewed strength, energy and vigor to numbers here. This prescription known as Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup, is pleasant to take and contains only harmless ingredients that are known to physicians for their corrective and health-building properties.

Try this great prescription; yourself. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise there will be no charge.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Dolan the Druggist and W. H. Lattimer in Belleville and T. L. McCullough in Deseronto, and by leading druggists in each city and town.

Current Sports In Brief Form

If you happen to be interested in a study of batting form you might take a look as early as possible at Tris Speaker.

We can think of no other ball player who has better timing, better rhythm or a smoother wing, where wrists arms and body work so well together.

The clouting tailpin of Cleveland and Hubbard City, Texas, has been round some years—seventeen in round numbers—yet last season he batted .389 and was only a jump or two back of Heilman and Ruth all summer, despite the fact that he was also handling a ball club on the side.

Speaker was the first man to break up Cobb's long hitting and today is a pinch hit is as dangerous as any man in baseball.

Speaker isn't a chop swinger—he hits on through—not quite as lustily as Ruth, but in a more conservative way.

A Carpenter Return

If Carpenter is in good physical shape and his hands will stand up to the heavy thumping, he could carry Tom Gibbons at a lively clip and make a match worth seeing.

But Carpenter broke his hand in the Dempsey fight, he cracked one or both fists later against Sibi and we understand that in knocking Beckett three-cornered he injured his right fist again.

Carpenter is younger than Gibbons and, about the same weight, but from what condition he is in and just what shape his hands are no two matchers to be judged later on.

If anything happens to the Carpenter case, there is no need to find a close contender much nearer home. The party referred to is Gene Tunney, well able to take care of Gibbons himself in any company below 180 pounds.

Ad Wolgast, once lightweight champion of the world, now claims that he had a change to regain the crown, but no one else shares his belief. Wolgast is in California and a Kansas City writer, who we met in the land of sunshine with the blues, writes as follows of the former champion:

"Ad Wolgast is a mental derelict. Every day he trains for the fight Jack Doyle is arranging for him. Sometimes two to a day for months. He seems to be ready for the man Jack Doyle picks for him. He's hard as nails and brown as a berry, but something is "loose up there" as he goes on training day by day for the fight he'll never make.

There's something pitiful about it—not something beautiful. Jack Doyle lets him go, on. When the former champion is in his pitiable way asks him when he is to "go on" and who he is to fight Doyle puts him off. Always it is next week and the week after that and so on into the future.

Ad Wolgast believes he is training for a fight. Jack Doyle lets him go on believing that. In fact Doyle abets him in the delusion. And why? Wolgast is contented in his training. Well work for hours at a time. He is happy in chasing the rainbow, the beautiful rainbow of his dreams, that rainbow that has no end for Ad Wolgast save when the Great Referee tolls the final lid.

Charlie Conkle has undertaken to manage Bobby Eber. Judging by what has happened in the past, that is a real "big-league" job, but Charles has undertaken great tasks before and was usually successful.

He has been known for some time that Eber and Walter Obermeyer were the best prospects in pugilism. Obermeyer proved a great trainer; and on account of circumstances had Eber in wonderful form, especially when he met Midget Shields and Johnny Curtis in the ring. Patsy Wallace at Toronto. He devoted practically all his time to the little Austrian and designed from a good exterminator all the traits that Eber was getting every possible attention.

It turns out all he had to contend with Bobby, their agreement being a verbal one, was him left free to go and make a change any time he so desired so that Obermeyer can do no more than say farewell to his former charge.

INDOOR BALL

In two scheduled baseball games at the Armstrong last evening, the Diamonds out the Express nine in an exciting game by the score of 12-10, and the C.N.R. Royals administered a shutout down to the Post Office. Both games were productive of some snappy ball.

Belleville Pitchers Are Respected In Kingston

Kingston, April 10.—While the next few days it is expected that Manager Joe Dailey of the local C.O.B.L. team will sign up several more players for the aggregation, and those may include Arthur Quinn, general utility man of the Tanners last year. Quinn is a real handy man to have around on any team; he can catch, play the infield and the outfield, and would fit in well.

Despite the feeble wailing of a Peterboro writer, it looks more and more as if the Petes are due for an awful slamming this year. Kingston is a fine outfit, but when Kingston and Oshawa, especially Kingston, start hammering for dinging, the collection will be pounce their legs off. The local team will have a strong batting array, better than last year's, and the other teams will have to be mighty strong on the defence to stop them. The silence regarding their fears in Peterboro has been most noticeable, but its dollars to doughnuts that when the Petes line up against the Belleville team for this first game, the same old bunch of veterans will be on the job. Last year the Petes had Mike the "Hollow Leg" Kelly, but steady work in the field, and Heckman's almost super-human effort entered them through. Without their ace twirler they were like a ship without a rudder, and in a row that Heckman won't be so effective this year, with pressure opposition against him.

As to Belleville somebody has come to Kingston, William is here, and the best Belleville is in a far better position than Peterboro, for Jack Odette is just as good a twirler as Heckman ever thought of being, and Keen is better than either Hutchinson or McIlroy of the Petes aggregation. Keen by the way, is a Rolfton boy, who was discovered a few years ago by the late Father Halligan, when a St. Mary's Juniors were playing a game at Sydenham. Keen came to Kingston and pitched for St. Mary's that year, subsequently pitching for Irishmen, and then Sydenham, later going to Tweed where he pitched great ball last year.

Then there is Oshawa, and here Kingston will have the toughest chewing. With fair pitching, which will make the heavy-hitting Motor Town batters jostly in check, Kingston will have more than a good chance to win, and everything will be cushy, even though the Heyboro entry may be looking for the Kingston crew to remain unlatched this season.

"FISHERMEN'S LUCK" FOR FISHERMAN

The fishing season will soon be here so Lew Macdonald, Point Anne fisherman, rose to Belleville with a friend yesterday afternoon and secured his license—but it was all for naught, for days before coming into town he had seen a Shannonville physician, secured a "scrip" for the Kingston vendor, and had secured a bottle of brandy.

When P. C. Harris learned of Lew's cafe last night, he was very merry and bright, and the Bow Bells rang and the pal was mirthy. Thlay Lew contributed $15 and again $15 when the quartet appeared before Magistrate Masson.

"We drank the whole bottle after dinner, came to Belleville, did our business, went to see a show, then went to a cafe, and then were intimidated," explained the accused, who admitted his condition, when he explained that had he been sober, the office would never had "landed" him as he is a sprinter, though a middle aged man.

Now for the fish.

At a well attended baseball meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. last evening, officers were elected for the newly formed junior baseball league which will be known as the Trent Valley League, and arrangements were made for a successful start when the ball season opens. The election of officers resulted as follows: President—Aubrey O'Flynn; First Vice-President—Tim Sullivan; Second Vice-President—Frank Thompson; Secretary-Treasurer—Gerald Lynch; Team Managers—Cecil Soanes.

The President, secretary treasurer and manager were appointed a committee to attend a meeting at the New Queen's Hotel on Friday evening next, when the league will be formed and the schedule drawn up.

ON THE GYM

The Hall School and the Senior Division team met in a league volley ball fixture at the Y Gymnasium last night and due to the fact that the Seniors won the first game, three games had to be played before the Hall School Five were declared winners.

In the Fifteen-Ten, was the result of the first game but the school got under way about then and took the following two games, the first 15-3, the next 15-10. Superior combination and team play were for the school against individual efforts.

The teams:

High School—Cole, Detwiler, Barbour, Peart, Faulkner, Weir.

Seniors—Mabs, Jeffery, VanAllen, Weir, Palmer.

Intermediate Loop Is Now Proposed

Port Hope, April 9.—A successful meeting was held in Queen's Hotel last night, looking to form an Intermediate League known as the Middle Ontario League, several speakers from the different towns intending to enter the league were present in favor of the move and expect it to be a big success. Four towns were represented at the meeting, namely the C. G. E. and the Hayshedon of Peterboro, and two teams from Cobourg. Trenton was unable to have a representative, but it is expected that the league will be formed they will enter a team as there is plenty of baseball material in that town for a team or two. Port Hope has also stated whether they will enter or not, but they have asked for consideration. If Trenton come in so they will have a chance of making the sixth team.

W. H. McFadden, president of the Canadian General Club, was elected president and he will no doubt show that he is worthy of the position before the season is over.

A constitution will be drawn up immediately, leaving no outer for the league are to make the application to the secretary not later than April 15th, accompanied with a fee of $10.00

A constitution will be drawn up immediately after a protest committee formed in the near future.

The following officers were elected:

Hon. President—Mr. R. A. Abbott, Peterboro.

Hon. Vice-President—Mr. A. C. Kimmel, Cobourg.

President—Mr. H. T. McFadden, Peterboro.

1st Vice-President—Mr. B. H. Piper Cobourg.

2nd Vice-President—Mr. W. Kay, Peterboro.

Sec'y-Treas.—Mr. W. G. Nicholls, Peterboro.

Executive—Mr. C. R. Gummow, Cobourg; Mr. J. Toms, Cobourg; and one representative from each club.

The league will go into action on May the 24th with a double header at Cobourg and the Cobourg people are going to have a big day.

FRY OBJECTS TO HOCKEY MIGRATION

Soo Greyhounds Honored at Banquet and Presentation

Sault Ste. Marie, April 9—President W. A. Fry of the O.H.A., in presenting the Allan Cup to the Soo Greyhounds at their hockey annual banquet, intimated that the O.H.A. could not be much longer expected to stand for the migration of senior players across the border in face of the fact that American teams did nothing to support junior and intermediate teams and thus gave nothing to the game.

He was supported by President D. M. Brodie of the N.O.H.A. who said that it was his intention to promote drastic measures to prevent United States teams from raiding Canada and carrying off men who had received their hockey education in Canada. He even went so far as to say that he would not stand for Northern Ontario players affiliating with Southern Ontario teams if a still residence rule could prevent it.

There were three hundred at the banquet, which naturally was the most successful and enthusiastic one in the history of Northern hockey. During the evening Mr. Allan, son of the donor of the Cup, N.O.H.A. Cup and the McNaughton Cup reposed on the head table, and the players, besides receiving the individual N. O. H. A. cups, were each presented with a miniature of the Allan Cup by the C.P.R. rehile Coach Geo. McNamara was teh recipient of a gold watch. The Hounds were also presented with memberships to the Soo Country Club.

ALLEY RECORD AGAIN BROKEN

Dr. O'Callaghan Rolls Three-String Total of 909 —Also Holds Single

Dr. O'Callaghan Rolls 909

It seems that records come all in a bunch. Only a few can be made in two days, was made by Dr. O'Callaghan who rolled 253 335 320, a total of 909 in the duckpin competitive game. The previous record was held by Eric Pinkerton with 900.

Hardware Roll 3300

Another record was set at the Recreation Alleys last night when the Hardware team rolled against the Recreation broke all alley records for a league game when they rolled 3300. Ritzy Hardware rolled all the highest three string score with 761. It is a record that is going to take a long time to beat and a score that any team can be proud of. The Hardware rolled three consecutive games starting off with 1122, 1105, 1073. For the losers Macklan was high single and three string, with 282 and 691.

In the Ladies League the Maple Leafs lost to the Strollers by 21 pins, Mrs. Rehle Coach Geo. McNamara was teh highest of the losers.

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and logy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, remove all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad, you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels get sore, weld sometimes you are obliged to get up in bed two or three times a night.

Either consult a good reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys also to neutralize acid in the system so they no longer irritate thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

HOLD ANNIVERSARY AT MARMORA

Professor Maines of Albert College Conducts Both Services

Marmora, April 9.—The anniversary services of the Methodist church were held on Sunday and Professor S. F. Maines, M.A., D.D., of Albert College, Belleville, was the speaker for the occasion.

To the morning, in speaking on the text John 12:32, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me," he gave a wonderful account of the life of Christ, taking it from the physical, social and spiritual viewpoints.

By drawing illustrations from Christ's life he showed Christ's standards of appreciation and life, for example Christ approved of the Publican rather than the Pharisee, and his character by their present life, but because of the possibilities of growth in their lives.

In closing he made a strong appeal to the church to stand for something worth while and to do away with all worldly pomp, artificiality and carelessness that the church during the coming years may be the highest ideal by imitating the Christ-life.

Mr. F. B. Pearce sang a solo. At the evening special music was heard.

Rev. Professor Maines took as his text Matthew 16-8, "Thou are Peter and upon this rock I will build my church." He spoke of the different interpretations taken of the verse, but as he understood it the idea underlying the verse was that men who like Peter were strong in character would be the founds of the church.

He spoke of the old idea of changing the name when the character changed so Jacob's name changed to Israel as he became a prince with God, Simon to Peter's name, which had been Simon Barjona or Simeon, the son of Jonah, was Cephas, Peter-the-Rock, when he character became steady and to be trusted.

Rev. Maines spoke of the temptations (1) natural after his lower nature, (2) his vanity, (3) his ideals. These temptations come to every organization and woman of to-day and character must conquer the temptation.

Christ formed his own character when he overcame the temptations. So must we form our character day by day in the same way.

He spoke of the words of Christ "Two women shall be grinding in a mill. The one shall be taken, the other shall be left. It was a case of character which would be developed more completely they were alike.

The whole idea was that in building our character we should take Christ as our ideal and so build the right kind of character.

The traveller had returned to his native village after being abroad for twenty years. He stopped as he saw a little boy with a small baby coming down the road.

"Ah! a new face, I see!"

"No, it isn't, sir," replied the boy, looking at the baby. "It's just been washed, that's all!"—Western Christian Advocate.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo. This is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is in sufficient use to last several weeks supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY
CHARLES GARVICE

Jack turned to Esther.

"Get up," he said in his masterful way.

She hesitated, but he put his arm round her and hoisted her up.

Then she had enough, but worse was to follow. The cart had been badly packed, and Esther, as she sat on the top of the load, felt it sway uncertainly beneath her. She made nothing, and sat tight, but as it neared the rick-yards she felt it sway a-going, she felt she may move dangerously, as if it were going to fall in any direction. There was no one beside her but Jack Gordon; he was the last man in the world she would look to for help, but he was there, and he kissed her.

CHAPTER XIX.

He had kissed her. Had he suddenly gone mad? Esther looked at him, looked to him that he had been bereft of reason; and in the moment that she looked at her as a man might look who contemplates the horrible spectacle of lightning to flash out and strike him. He felt her quiver in his arms, then they fell from him and he stood, as if he were waiting for the doom he deserved.

As his lips had touched Esther's he enamoured, half-unconscious of the emotion, then, following on the instant was a strong sense of repulsion. Esther has been one entirely of anger and indignation at her conduct, but as she felt, had quivered at the shock, but the thrill had not been that of the shudder of resentment and stricken pride.

The blood had flown to her face, and a sense of helplessness almost of faintness had swept over her, and she had enveloped her like a cloud. Wrath and indignation would come presently and swiftly, but at the moment it was nothing but the emotion that shot through her was compounded of fear and loathing. Slowly ebbed away from her face, she grew white to the lips, and then trembled. She shut closed from her eyes and they drew quilt on him with horror and resentment, and she stood and gazed at him, her bosom heaving with the breath that was too laboured, came too painfully for her to control it.

His eyes fell before the anger that burnt in hers, and he, usually not weak, though every fibre in his body clamoured acutely for her forgiveness. Suddenly as if the incapacity of speech smothered her and she could not speak and he waited patiently for the blow; but her hand fell to her side, and without a word she turned from him and walked away, not quickly—he might have ventured to follow her but—slowly with the air of an outraged queen; and yes with something in the droop of her head that was exactly womanly, something that he had not seen in her before, and that was pitiful.

She walked slowly until she had left the field, and reached the shelter of the wood, then she stopped and with an impatient action pushed the bonnet from her head and covered her eyes with her hands. She was trembling now, trembling as she, half-unconsciously, sank to the ground and leant against the trunk of a tree for support.

It was hard to realise it. This man, this stranger, her own servant, had dared to touch her lips with His—had treated her as if she were no higher, no more important than one of the farm girls! Had he gone mad—had he been drinking heavily—as she could find no such excuse, if excuse it could be. He had always been most attentive and yet, at the moment he had been forward to kiss her, something like madness, intoxication had shone in his dark eyes. She shuddered and hid her face, and yet—There had been something of worship and reverence in his eyes, the kiss had been gentle and tender, not rough or violent, and, the moment he had done the deed, she had seen his face grow white with remorse and self-reproach and the mute prayer for forgiveness. It was the first time in her life that a man's lips—other than her father's—had touched hers, for Esther had had no flirtations, no "rot" to make her familiar with a caress. The thing had taken like a bolt from the blue, suddenly, without warning. He had always been kind and gentle with her, but he had never by word or look conveyed the presence of any warmer feeling than respectful friendship. Esther had been startled even by her by his brusqueness and the curt, masterful manner which in another man in his position would have been considered impertinent.

Why had he done it? He had seemed the least impulse of men, so singularly self-possessed and cool; yet yet that instant, as his arm had tightened round her, his countenance had fled and he appeared to be swayed by an irresistible impulse. As she stood trying in a confused and bewildered way to analyse the problem, to find some salve for her outraged pride, she suddenly remembered the little gentle shock the handkerchief; was it possible that he had gone back for the handkerchief and carried it in his bosom because he loved her?

The colour rose slowly to her face, and a thrill of surprise and subtle joy ran through her. She tried to put the thought from her, to thrust it away as of no importance to th reputation, but she could not; it came back upon her with a persistence that forced all other thoughts from her mind. Did he love her? Was that the reason why, finding

DRUGLIKE WEED CULTIVATED FOR ILLEGAL MARKET

New Orleans, April 8.—"Marihuana" or "Marijuana" as some spell it, the everyday "loco weed" that formerly grew wild on the deserts of northern Mexico, now is being cultivated on thousands of acres in that country for sale to addicts of the plant is this country according to Valdo Santos, arrested here with five pounds of it in his possession. Santos was charged with violating a city ordinance against the sale and possession of the product.

The weed, which Santos said he buna sent from Mexico to agents in all parts of the United States for distribution, is smoked in the form of cigarettes; and according to Santos, "the business beats bootlegging because the fines are smaller and I sell it for thirty-five cents a cigarette."

Authorities say the stuff has almost every known effect upon persons who use it. In some it produces a feeling of exhilaration or grandeur, but Instan thousands of users it is known where crazed addicts have committed murder.

Mrs.—Hoane at last, eh? Well, Mr. Stan, I have a lot of things about which I want to talk to you.

Mr.—Glad to hear that, indeed, you generally want to talk a lot about things you haven't got.

Society Founded Forty Years Ago

Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, a fine audience assembled in the Sunday School room of the Church of the Redeemer, Deseronto, on Wednesday evening, to celebrate the 40th anniversary of the formation of the Loyal Lodge Missionary Society. The pastor, Rev. W. C. Sherman, presided, and conducted devotional exercises. A charming duet was sung by Miss Gordon and Miss Crook, and Miss Van Alstyne sang very sweetly "My Redeemer." The Choir which has greatly improved of late, rendered an anthem with fine prestige and expression.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Dr. MacTavish of this city who was for ten years pastor of the Deseronto Church. After congratulating the society there on the noble work it has done during the past forty years he gave a review of the work done by the General Society and the splendid contribution it is making toward mission-building in Canada and in many other lands. He pleased us all in the great need in the world and the best means of meeting that need. During the course of his address he read a historical narrative of the work done by the Deseronto society during the first five years of its existence. The story was written by Mrs. Russell, now of Belleville, but for about 30 years the efficient secretary of the Deseronto society. This sketch was listened to very keenly and was read especially by the older members of the society who knew about the struggles and triumphs of the society in those days when it was small and the difficulties both great and numerous.

To those who had contributed to the programme of the evening, a cordial vote of thanks was passed, on motion of Miss Warren, the secretary, and Mrs. Allum, who has been for 25 years the treasurer of the society. A pleasant and profitable evening was brought to a close with the serving of dainty refreshments.

It may have been a mistake that alluded by both compositor and proof-reader, but we feel more than a little suspicious that the linotype jargler, who set the following item, had juiced a session with his local medico. "Er" is a long way from "O."

"Having first felt his patient's purse the physician announced that there was no hope."

SKINS FOUND

for buying furs, but had a muskrat skin in the cellar having trapped it himself. On investigation, the officers found this to be true, but also came upon other rat skins. Searching the house from top to bottom, they finally located other rat skins in the woodshed, and out in the yard found the remainder of the 85,000 cargo underneath a huge heap of excelsior wood, which was carefully piled in a heap in the yard. The skins were in bags and well hidden underneath the wood piles.

Owner Identifies Skins

The officers immediately sent for Quick and when he arrived, he immediately identified the skins as his property. Quick, who is a trapper, is regarded as one of the best authorities on rat skins which are trapped in the Trent Valley district, and recently gave expert evidence when called in the Black fur robbery case at Hamilton. They white strings which he had placed on the skins, and which still remained there, thoroughly convinced him that they were his stolen skins. Seguire and his father-in-law were immediately taken into custody, and the huge cargo of skins were placed in the big Hudson car and taken to Cobourg. Seguire stated that "a fellow had brought the skins to his place a few days ago, and had asked him to keep them for him," which he did.

Search Local Store

In connection with this case, one Belleville store and one Toronto fur house was searched, but they revealed nothing. A car was seen at Seguire's home on the 11 inst. on the night of April fourth. There were 200 rat skins stolen, besides a number of skunk skins, also stolen.

Quick, who operates the Presquile summer hotel, owns other property in, and adjacent to this summer place. The house where the skins were stored, and where the burglary was committed was not occupied, but a wire and bell arrangement between the house and a neighbor's residence, sounded an alarm if anyone opened the door of the house where the furs were stored.

burglars entered by a window, evidently knowing the alarm arrangement, and Quick recalls innocently explaining the workings of the mechanism to persons who visited him one day, and who now don't know something of the burglary.

WORK WORN PEOPLE

Find Renewed Health by Improving Their Blood.

If you feel run down, it means that your blood is thin and watery, that your vitality is low, that you are easily chilled. You do not sleep well and you are tired when you rise in the morning. You find no pleasure in your meals and are listless and dispirited at your work. You have no energy to enjoy yourself.

Nothing will make you run down by anxieties of work. Thousands of weary men are broken down by work they hold toil, with tired limbs and ach ing backs; thousands of girls are pale, listless and without attraction. It all means the same thing—thin and watery blood, vitality run-down, anaemia, poor appetite, palpitating heart, short breath.

Do not submit to this. Get rich blood and with it new vitality. There is no difficulty in doing this. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up rich, active blood, which brings with it new health, and vitality. The girl, man or girl who takes Dr. Williams' Pink Pills never runs down, and friends notice how energetic they are, what a fine appearance they have, and what enjoyment they enjoy life.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

Dr. Price—What do you mean that I owe you money?

Willie—Don't you pay any commis sions? I'm the boy who spread the whooping cough all over the neighborhood.

TO PAY OFFICIAL VISIT

Bro. G. G. Way of this city, D.D G.M. of the I.O.O.F. Society for Eastern Ontario, is expected early in official visit to Brighton lodge No. 362 which will be accompanied by the members of the local lodges. The meeting will be opened in the I.O.F. hall lodge No. 219, Napanee will be in attendance to exemplify the first degree.

ADJOURNED CITY COUNCIL

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held this evening. The object of the meeting is to consider a by-law relative to the appointment of a commission on the suburban area commission. Mr. J. Haggerty is City Council's representative on the commission. The general purpose committee and the members of the City Council is that it is not necessary for the city to appoint a member.

'Vimy Dinner' To Be Held By 'Iron Seconds'

A Reunion Dinner is to be held at the Hotel Quinte, Belleville, Ont., on Good Friday, April 18th, 1924, the Dinner is to be designated "The Old Iron Second's Vimy Dinner, 1924." Good Friday has been suggested on account of it being a Dominion holiday.

A reception will be held at the Armories, where all comrades will rally to-gether and muster before proceeding to the Hotel for dinner. This function will be at the disposal of the 2nd Battalion during their sojourn in Belleville.

The following are the Chief Speakers and have signed their acceptance:—General Sir Arthur W. Currie, G.C.M.G., K.C.B.

Major-General Sir A. C. Macdonell, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O.

Major General The Hon. W. A. Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O.

Brigadier-General A. E. Ross, D.S. O.

Colonel L. T. McLaughlin, C.M.G., D.S.O.

The following are the Committee in Charge of the arrangements:

Chairman—Colonel L. T. McLaughlin, C.M.G., D.S.O., who commanded the Second Battalion for the last two years of the War.

President—Lieut. Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater, D.S.O., who was 2nd in command for the same period and who commanded the Bn. at the Battle of Cambrai (when Col. McLaughlin was wounded).

Lt. Col. E. D. O'Flynn who was Adjt. of the Battalion for over a year and one of the Originals, Major H. D. Poston, Major R. S. Donnelly, Walter A. Hutchison, William Styles, George B. Lancaster, E. McFeilly Clarke are all members of the First Contingent to leave Belleville and who served in France with the 2nd Bn.

The remaining members of the Committees all had long service in France, Belgium and Germany:

W. C. Jack, D.C.M., M.M., and Bar, W. O. Mannings, M.M. and Bar, Major Vermilyea, Capt. Ruben Cooper, Capt. S. J. Gilmore, Capt. A. J. Wood, H. Campbell, H. Allen, M.M., J. R. Babcock, D.C.M., H. Wilmot Carter, Major D. T. McManus, Adjutant of the A. L. I., is Secretary Treasurer. Nearly 600 have been communicated with and it is anticipated that quite 700 will turn out for the Dinner.

Applications from as far East as Ottawa and West as Vancouver have been received which will show what it means for the Old Second Boys of Old Iron Second old iron Second as the Battalion was affectionately known to all will take again, together a meal, and a shake of the hand.

Brig. General The Hon. A. E. Ross, C.B., C.M.G., M.P.P. of Kingston and Major General J. H. Elmsley, C.B.C.M.G., D.S.O., Commanding the Third Divisional will also be here.

The band of the Argyll Light Infantry under the able leadership of Lieutenant Reg. Hinchey will supply the music during the dinner and Bugler Major Albert Johnstone will supply the Pipe Music during the intervals.

"Exhausted Nerves and Palpitating Heart"

Mrs. L. Whiting, 302 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes:

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would palpitate so and I would take such week spells in the pit of my stomach that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I tried several doctors, but it seemed nothing they gave me helped. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I tried it, and can say it certainly has done wonders for me. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes."

ORDINATION FOR WOMEN IS NEEDED SAYS W.M.S. HEAD

Mrs. J. D. I. Walker, Toronto, President of Provincial W.M.S., Presents Annual Report at Opening of Three-day Meeting

The tenth annual meeting of the Provincial Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, and the second held in Hamilton, opened Tuesday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock in Knox Church, with many hundreds of delegates from all parts of Ontario filling the church. Rev. Dr. S. Banks Nelgie gave the benediction with which opened the meeting.

Miss M. E. Bell gave the opening Scripture reading and Mrs. Kanawin the prayer for the Holy Spirit. Mrs. J. A. Lochead, who is convener of the General Committee, gave the address of welcome to the delegates.

President's Address

In the course of an inspiring address, in which she touched on all points of interest in the work of the provincial society, Mrs. J. D. Walker of Toronto, Provincial President, urged upon the senior auxiliaries to get into closer touch with the young people of the church. They needed kindly assistance and sympathy, and it was the duty of the auxiliary members to study earnestly and prayerfully how best to approach them. Mrs. Walker suggested that some members might be especially appointed for this task, choosing those who were tactful and sympathetic with the girls and who spoke the language that they understood.

Miss Hazlitt, as the result fo a request from the Provincial Girls' Work Board, had been appointed as the Provincial Society's representative at the executive meetings and the same courtesy had been extended to one of the Girls' Work Board members for the present meeting of the W.M.S.

Work of Year

Reviewing the work of the year, Mrs. Walker spoke of the opening at Hearst, Northern Ontario, of the second War Memorial Hospital of the W.M.S. It contains ten beds and is filling a great need. The Purchasing Committee of the hospital was composed of Mrs. Millar (supply secretary), Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. J. G. Gould and Mrs. Walker herself.

The Rosedale War Memorial Hospital at Matheson was doing excellent work, said Mrs. Walker. Sincere regret was expressed at the resignation of Miss Chambers, superintendent, on account of ill health. She had left, said Mrs. Walker, the impress of her consecrated personality there and the Ontario Provincial W.M.S. owed her a debt of gratitude for what she had made of its little pioneer hospital and the splendid business basis on which she had placed it in two years.

DAUGHERTY FILES RIFLED BY BURGLARS

Washington, April 9.—Former Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty was advised today by friends in Columbus, Ohio, that all of his personal files for 20 years have been burglarized.

The files were removed in Daugherty's home in Columbus from his law office when he became Attorney-General in 1921. The robbery is said to have occurred last Friday night, but Daugherty did not learn of it until today.

He said today that he did not know what had been taken from the files and would not be able to determine what was missing until he had made a personal investigation.

HONOR THE OLD U. E.'S.

Adapted from "Honor, Old Varsity," in the Toronto University Song Book.

Minstrel, awaken the harp from its slumbers,
Gratefully strike for the noble U. E.s.
High and heroic, in soul-stirring numbers,
Strike the full chorus for the brave refugees.
Old recollections wake our affections,
Each time we speak of the days that are past,
Hearts beat lightly, and cheeks glowing proudly,
Honor our forefathers, ay, to the last.

Wide now are scattered their sons and daughters;
Oft when begin the long shadows to fall,
On us in floods, like the swift-rushing waters,
Crow recollections of days past recall;
Days when the storm of war burst on New England's shores;
Days when our sires drew their swords for the King!
When their all losing, Canadian-wide choosing,
Where Rule Britannia still they might sing.

Minstrel, awaken, the harp from its slumbers,
Gratefully strike for the grand old U. E.'s,
High and heroic is soul-stirring numbers,
Their praise and glory we give to the breeze;
Heedless of others, countrymen! brothers!
Copy their virtues, be brave, loyal, free;
Our dear land shall never, from old England sever,
But cling to her bright gem over the seas.

—R. S. F.

SIMPLY soaking in Rinso suds loosens dirt, so that it rinses right out.

The old wearing method of rubbing soap on the clothes and then rubbing the clothes is done away with. There is no need of it with Rinso.

Only the dirtiest places—where dirt was actually ground in—will need just a light rubbing. Where this is necessary, use a little dry Rinso.

Rinso is made by the makers of LUX—the largest soap makers in the world. It does the family wash as wonderfully as Lux does fine things.

Rinso does the whole job with it you need no other soap

CHAOS SEEN BY BRITISH STATESMEN

Britain's Feeling of French Attitude Assumes Gener al Note of Apprehension Over Dawes Reparations Report — Germany Discussing Report of Experts in Half-Hearted Manner —Awaiting Allied Request

London, April 11.—There was a feeling of apprehension throughout England today over the attitude France may assume toward the Dawes reparations report. The view was openly expressed that French action may bring European peace or further chaos."

"There are indications that Briand, Poincare are ready to support Premier Macdonald if he accepts the report in behalf of England.

Opinion is general that if France accedes, Germany will be bound to accept the Dawes plan.

Offers Good Basis

Premier Macdonald is studying the report and has not yet disclosed his views. It is learned, however, that most members of the Government believe the recommendations offer an exceptionally good basis for negotiations for settlement of a problem that has been disturbing Europe for five years.

The Cabinet will not act upon the report until the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission at Paris has passed upon it.

Germans Tackle Report

Berlin, April 11.—German Government officials today began an intensive study of the Dawes report until a mixed atmosphere of doubt and optimism.

The press as a whole pointed out that decided progress had been made, the chief criticism being the absence of a definite amount Germany must pay.

Await Allied Request

"The Government will not take any official step until officially requested by the Allied Reparations Commission it was learned this afternoon.

Official comment might be summed up by saying that the Dawes plan offers a basis for discussion.

The only organ which suggests the recommendations should be bluntly rejected is the Nationalist Deutsche Zeitung, which declares four words involve "the enslavement of Germany."

FIRST DIVE MADE IN BAY OF QUINTE

What is believed to have been the first dive into the bay of the season occurred yesterday afternoon, when Jack Munroe went in after a human belt which had "eluded" the young man who were "playin' catch." Munroe felt for an shore, and upon finding that was fully stirred when he made the jump. He recovered the belt.

The curious crowd which gathered believed that the youth was throwing out the body of a local woman, believed drowned in the river, during the winter.

This is a record breaker. Last spring two high school students made their initial plunge in April but not so early in the month.

An employee of the Canadian Consolidated Distilleries at Corbyville who is a student of physical culture, has been taking a daily dip in the chilly waters of the Moira River for several times now however, having often jumped in early in the springtime when the water hole was bordered by thick ice.

HUGO STINNES DIES IN BERLIN

Berlin, April 11—Hugo Stinnes is dead.

Rising fever conquered the shriveled frame of the industry industrialist and at 8.20 o'clock last night he collapsed and the same subjected his bedroom to the fashionable Berlin sanitorium to whisper to the waiting family and last-minute friends. The man whose hands had gathered while Germany crumbled, that he who knew no defeat in the relentless pursuit of world power had lost it.

Sanitary Sewer on Highland Avenue and Re-planking of Bridge Favored

PURCHASE APPROVED

Suburban Area Commission Project Laid Over for Further Consideration

Mayor Mikel, Aldermen La Roche, McCreary, Hanson, Robinson, Treverton, Greenleaf and White were last night in attendance at an adjourned meeting of the City Council.

Suburban Commissioner

After some discussion had taken place relative to the appointing of a commission on the suburban area commission the matter was laid over for further consideration. Other business transacted was the adopting of the following motions:

Moved by Ald. Roche seconded by Ald. Robinson that a sanitary sewer be constructed on West Dundas street from Highland Avenue to the present city limits under section 9 of the Local Improvement Act and that Clerk and City Engineer arrange the necessary advertising—Carried.

Motions

Moved by Ald. La Roche, seconded by Ald. Patterson, that the Chairmen of Market and City Property, Finance and Power be a special committee to investigate and report to Council upon the request of the Public Utilities Commissioners re purchase of the old Pinnacle street school property—Carried.

Replanking Bridge

A special committee reported that the lower bridge should be replanking, and a motion was adopted as follows: Moved by Ald. McCreary, seconded by Ald. Greenleaf, that the report of the special committee on replanking of lower bridge be adopted and the committee be given power to act in the matter.

WOMEN SEEK ORDINATIONS FOR MINISTRY

Ontario Presbyterians Are Equal Status in Church Work

RESOLUTION CARRIED

Has Proved Her Ability to Serve in Gospel, Says Motion Passed Here

Hamilton, April 11.—The Presbyterian Women of Canada, as represented by the 900 delegates meeting here as delegates to the Ontario Provincial Conference of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, decided yesterday to petition the General Assembly to accept women as ordained ministers of the church.

The resolution was moved by Mrs. F. Rae of Unionville and seconded by Mrs. Jenner Hamilton, Goderich, and carried by a large majority.

The resolution followed:

"Has Proved Ability"

"Whereas women have extended entrance into practically every sphere of life today; whereas she has proved her ability to serve in the Gospel both at home and abroad; whereas the best work she has achieved is in the cooperation between man and women, and whereas this cooperation would be already open to women; be it resolved that we, the delegates assembled in the W.M.S., memorialize the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church to receive into the ministry women who qualify for the ministry of the church."

Campbellford, April 10.—Little Mildred Dalgleish, aged 8, had the misfortune to fall down the steps at the Public School on Wednesday afternoon, receiving a severe cut over the eye, requiring several stitches.

HOTEL MAN GUILTY OF BREACH OF O. T. A.

Percy W. Limmiss, proprietor of the Kesby hotel on Bridge street, was found guilty of having liquor in a public place and was assessed $200 and costs. Failing to pay said fine, Limmiss will leave Stirling it is believed.

It will be remembered that Inspector William Nugent of Maske discovered two sealed rum, four bottles, each of which contained a small amount of liquor, a funnel and a quantity of corks underneath the flooring of the bath of the barn at the rear of the hotel. The was the evidence which convicted Limmiss of the charge laid before Magistrate R. R. Carmont. Judgment was reserved for one week on the day of the trial.

The wooden structure hiding the scaffold from the gaze of people who might otherwise obtain vantage points outside the jailyard can be seen at the top left hand corner of the yard at the right. Just showing above the wall behind the wooden structure is the new death cell, built at a cost of $1,200 after the two Murrells made their escape.

FARMERS HELD IN FUR THEFT ARE REMANDED

Bail of $25,000 Is Refused-Officers Are Continuing Investigation

DARK, STORMY NIGHT

Story of Recovery of Skins Read Like Real "Movie Thriller"

Charles Scoyire and his father-in-law, farmers who live near Codrington, appeared in police court at Cobourg yesterday morning, and were remanded to jail to await trial on a charge of theft of $2,000 worth of raw fox and mink skins, the property of Grant Quirk, proprietor of the Dropside summer hotel, and other adjacent property. The two men are being detended by Mr. R. Wilmot, of Cobourg.

Bail of $25,000 which was offered was refused, both men being remanded.

Provincial constable Thomas Cowens is continuing an investigation into the theft, and others may be implicated in the affair before the trial commences.

Asked today how the suspicions of the officers had been directed to the apparent wood pile which stands in the Scoyire yard, and which could the traps containing the greater part of the $2,000 fur owner, Sergeant of Provincial police D. G. Atkins told of the search.

It was Wednesday night, dark, murky, raining and cold. The three officers were in the yard, following the search of the house. They believed that the remainder of the skins were about the premises somewhere. They were not in the house, and there on no other buildings than the house, the other buildings being away across the road. One officer turned his flashlight on the woodpile, and began to move some of the wood blocks.

"They are unobtainable the word jabbed," exclaimed Scoyire, and the jig was up. Scoyire was convicted on a charge of selling liquor to an operator some few months ago, it will be remembered.

UNKNOWN DRIVER IS REAL "SPORT"

Motorist Sends Hundred Dollars to Man Who Lost Horse

Mr. W. A. Reid of Sidney Township has received one hundred dollars through the mail from an anonymous party in Toronto.

The money, according to the enclosed letter was to reimburse Mr. Reid for the loss of his horse which had to be shot as the result of a fracture leg sustained through a collision with an unknown auto some two weeks ago on the Trenton-Belleville highway.

The money was sent in the name of Mr. Reid's son, John, who was driving the animal at the time of the accident. The sender, who gave no name, requested that Mr. Reid acknowledge receipt of the money through one of the Toronto papers. This he has done.

While the money is some compensation for the loss Mr. Reid has suffered it does not fully cover the value of the horse.

Board To Pass On Salaries

Hydro Power To Rural Ontario

Toronto, April 11.—Rural Ontario's interest in Hydro Power, which the Ferguson Government has made its concern by a bill to bonus rural secondary Hydro lines, was strongly emphasized yesterday in the legislature by Hon. G. H. Cooke, Hydro Commissioner. Speaking on the need for more power to secondary lines to keep up for second growth, Mr. Cooke pointed out that but one per cent of the power at present developed in the Province was used by the agricultural section of the population, and he promised from the present Government a power policy that would make Hydro power so available to rural communities that this condition could be remedied and Hydro become the tremendous factor in rural development which it was capable of becoming.

Leans Over to Close Coupe Door—Smashes Into Bank

PASSENGER HURT

All Glass and Top Part of Car Demolished by Impact

Momentarily leaning over from behind the wheel in an attempt to close the door of his coupe, which had not been crossed tightly, proved unfortunate for Mr. James V. Lapum, Excise Officer with the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company and the Canadian Consolidated Distilleries Ltd. at Corbyville, yesterday morning. When he reached for the handle on the door, the car which was being driven at a very reasonable rate of speed, shot into the deep ditch about half way between the city and Corbyville on the Moira road, and burying its nose in the soft bank remained suspended in that position with the back of the machine and the rear wheels in the air. The accident occurred about 8.45 a.m. yesterday while Mr. Lapum was on his way to business.

Although all glass in the windshield and body of the car was shattered, the driver was not scratched, and apart from a slight abrasion, escaped unscathed. George Drummond, also employed at Corbyville, who was a passenger in the car, was cut above the eye, the wound requiring three stitches. Both men escaped serious injuries in a miraculous manner.

Drummond who was walking to work had been "picked up" by Mr. Lapum, and had got closed the door tight by after entering the car. The unfortunate passenger had not been more than rightly settled in the car until he figured in the accident.

One side of the car was torn off, one fender and guard demolished, all glass and practically the whole top part of the body of the car also being a wreck.

Belleville Motors mechanics towed the wreck into the city during the morning. The two men were taken to Corbyville by a passing motorist and Drummond was later taken to a physician.

ALIENISTS JUDGE HARRY THAW SANE

Pennsylvania Courts Soon To Decide Question of Freedom

Philadelphia, April 11.—Harry K. Thaw has been adjudged sane by five of the Philadelphia alienists recently authorized by the court to investigate his mental state.

The results of the investigation became known yesterday, though the report presents the physicians to the former Judge John M. Patterson, who will act as the court counsel for Thaw when the latter attempts to obtain his freedom from the Pennsylvania Hospital for Mental and Nervous Diseases, April 14, before Judge Mona Lisa.

The opinion is held by Dr. Charles K. Mills, Dr. Max H. Bochroch, Dr. Charles Potts, Dr. Elwood Kirby, and Dr. George Stuart.

It should Thaw be adjudged sane by the jury next week he will automatically regain control of his estate, held by financial experts to have increased greatly since his incarceration.

Concessions Made

In handing out the reductions on farm implements as a concession to the Progressives, in order that they may remain in office until the end of their term, the Liberal Government has dealt one of the most dire blows at the implement manufacturing industry of Canada which it has been the lot of that particular form of Canadian activity to suffer for many years.

Meighen Makes Statement

That the public should not remain in doubt as to the Conservative position on this issue, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen made the following statement:

"The Government has succeeded in preserving its habitual practice of apostacy to pledges, and at the same time of purchasing the support of support in Parliament to prolong its precarious hold on the reins of power. Its step toward the fulfillment of the tariff pledges consists in the Liberal party is a short one, but nevertheless it is a step. The step so indirect and the country generally will be serious. The tariff reductions are an unrelieved attack on special industries and, localities, dictated solely by a consulting of heads in Parliament and based on no principle whatever. These industries, vital to our economy, are dealt a ruthless blow and all others are let out for the time being under suspension of sentence. I realize vividly the position of these Government supporters who depended upon guarantees that the Manufer-Fielding Tariff would be maintained and the repeated proscription pledge of the Prime Minister that no legislation industry would suffer.

"This move of the Canadian Government will be a surprise in the United States and in Europe, but has no warrant of welcome in Canada. It will be explained by the Progressives as a step in the right direction, but will be followed by

TEAM WORK

As frequently happens, the sporting experts have again proved unreliable in their opinions and predictions of the outcome of a great sporting event. All the predictions made of "dope" about the annual Oxford-Cambridge boat race was strongly in favor of the Oxford crew. Indeed, it was generally regarded as a foregone conclusion that the Oxford crew would worry an easy victory. It was pointed out that they were much heavier men than the Cambridge eight, and, man for man, were better oarsmen. Add up, just before the race, the betting odds on the Oxford crew were four to one.

The easy victory of the Cambridge men was something of a shock to the sporting fraternity, and probably to almost everybody else.

But there were two things that the deposters evidently did not take account of. One was the fact that, although the Oxford men were bigger and heavier than their opponents, they had just that much more weight to pull through the water; their superior weight was indeed a handicap rather than an advantage, unless it was balanced by superior strength and skill. And the other thing was that although the Oxford men may have been individually the better oarsmen, the Cambridge men were superior in team work. That superiority it was, no doubt, that gave them the victory.

In all athletic competitions in which more than one are engaged on each side, and in most other competitive events of more importance than athletic competition, team work is one of the most potent factors of success. The race is not always to the swift nor the battle to the strong. More often success comes to those who, striving for it in company with others, have learned how to give their effort its greatest possible value by using it symbiotically as parts of a general plan—to subordinate themselves to the common aim, not seeking to shine individually at the risk of weakening the system of combined effort.

Many a great man has failed to give the full measure of service that it was in his power to give, because he was incapable of doing good team work. Perhaps the most conspicuous example in Canadian history is that of Edward Blake. Intellectually, he was probably the most richly endowed of Canadian statesmen. Without his peer as an oratorical and mighty constructive genius, moved by high moral purpose and genuine patriotic sentiment and public spirit, Blake could not "get on" with his team mates; there was in him a certain petulence amounting almost to childishness at being crossed; he could not give and take; abnormally sensitive, he was too apt to regard as a personal affront or as an expression of want of confidence any policy which he favored. Because he could not subordinate himself to the common purpose he became impossible as a party leader. And so he passed out of Canadian public life a comparative figure in spite of his magnificent gifts.

A WHOLESOME NOTE

Only three years old, Muskoka Assembly, the Canadian Chautauqua, located on an Island in Lake Rosseau, is already beginning to make its impress as a cultural centre. Last year it provided recreation and a chance to study for some 1,400 people. Its presidents is a Hamilton man, the Rev. C. S. Applegarth. Its aims are the same as those of the original permanent Chautauqua in New York State, now 50 years old, and called by the late President Roosevelt as the most typically American institution in the country.

There is this difference: The Muskoka Assembly claims to be a Canadian cultural centre, drawing on the best in our national life, and embodying the ideal of education through recreation. Already it has attracted visitors and leaders in the religious fields. With all of this there is an atmosphere of wholesome fun with a background of Nature at her best; plenty of places to explore, with bathing beach, tennis courts, bowling green and golf.

The idea behind such a movement is essentially sound. In an age that is noted for what many regard as too strenuous sport, the Chautauqua camp, as embodied at the Muskoka Assembly, strikes a wholesome note. The plain, simple pleasures are those that really count, after all, and study can be made an attractive pursuit. It is up to Canadians who believe in perpetuating the wholesome spirit of this nation to encourage such a wholesome spirit of this nation to encourage such a movement as the Muskoka Assembly.

ONTARIO HYDRO LEADS (London Free Press)

As a matter of fact, thanks to Sir Adam Beck and the Hydro-Electric Commission, Ontario is far in advance of the way of electrical development of any country in the world. REVISION OF VALUES
(Boston Globe)

It is sometimes said that the men whose memories are kept green are the dead radicals of a previous generation. This is sometimes much truth. The civic saint of to-day was yesterday's despised leper plastered with mud hurled at him from the gutter. A man with a new idea, or with an old idea with a new face put on a rejected idea, must expect abuse.

It is only nothing the ordinary run of the rest of us fear so much as a new idea. It is the one thing equal to clean them across a blow at things as they are is a signal that is met with howls about the head of its author.

OPPORTUNITY FOR OWNERSHIP

Printing was invented in the first half of the fifteenth century. Few books were to be had even after that time, other than in manuscript. Owing to its bulk it was very difficult to secure a copy of the Bible. To own one meant an enormous outlay for that period. So the masses of the people were obliged to rent a manuscript and pay for it by the hour. It is said that a load of hay was the price for rental for one hour a day, and that it was not so easy to get the one hour. People then, as now, were eager to read the Scriptures, but to do so they had to make sacrifices. Many have paid for it by imprisonment and some with their lives. By contrast, what opportunities we have today. There is no restriction on reading, the world is full of books and very best and greatest of them is within immediate reach of everybody who reads this paper. Whether we approach it devoutly or whether we desire it as a specimen of the finest literature, aimed for the advancement of our own race, of the best editions of the Bible ever printed. For three coupons cut from this paper daily, and a very small sum the Big Print Red Letter Bible is yours. See another column for offer.

Have Dark Hair And Look Young

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

OSHAWA LAWYER THROTTLES WITNESS

Oshawa, April 10.—While acting for Constantine Gleeoff, charged with a second offense under the O. T. A., and who was convicted and fined $400 or six months in jail and three months because of his previous convictions, D. A. Swanson asked witness why he had not worked in the past five years. In answering the question, witness stated he had not worked because of disabilities received overseas "fighting for the likes of you." Mr. Swanson, who served from 1915, grabbed witness by the throat and choked him until the court officers dragged him away.

"You're broken with Billie?"

"Yes, he said he couldn't afford to take me to the annual ball this year."

"A very sensible young man. He should be commended for his courage."

"That may be, but I'm afraid that man who is that sensible before marriage will be unbearable after marriage."—Detroit Free Press.

The Letter Box

PULPWOOD EXPORTS

Sir:—

The anxiety of the American interests who are opposing an embargo on Canadian pulpwood, to pull the wool over the eyes of the Canadian public is well illustrated in the Sophistries given in their published literature to a statement that the amount of pulpwood exported from Canada to the States represents "but 5 per cent of Canada's annual forest cut", the obvious intent being to mislead the public into believing that the proposed restriction would affect but 5 per cent of the total cut of pulpwood, which, they assert, would be negligible to affect either forest conservation or Canada's economic position.

What are the Facts?

The facts are that Canada, during the past ten years, harvested 22,277,-223 cords of pulpwood, while 20,-118,500 cords were used in Canada, and 12,178,666 cords were exported to the United States. The exports, consequently, constituted 37.7 per cent of the total cut of pulpwood for the period given. Instead of being a mere bagatelle—in comparison to the cut—which the American interests are trying to make out, they constitute more than one-third of the total harvest.

One has but to consider the extent of the industries in Canada which exist on the properties of the pulpwood harvest consumed in his country—the fact that they represent a capital investment of nearly $400,000,000; that they give employment to some 35,000 mill operatives, earning $25,000,000 a year in wages and salaries, as well as to about 25,000 woodsmen, and that they yield products to the value of more than $150,000,000 a year—to realize just what his drain on the country of an amount equal to more than one-third of the total cut actually means.

It must also be taken into consideration that the pulpwood exported represents wood of the highest grade, taken from our most accessible forest areas, and from those least subject to destruction by fire. The home mills use culls, windfalls, burnt and insect-affected timber, as well as sound wood, but the American importer demands and gets only high-grade raw material. In cutting for export, unsound timber is left in the woods and becomes a total loss, while in cutting for domestic consumption it is harvested and utilized in the mills. Wood for export, furthermore, is derived from stands nearest to transportation facilities, while Canadian manufacturers are being driven every year farther and farther away from their mills for their supply, a circumstance which contributes materially to their production costs.

In the same vein, the American argue that an embargo, imposed, could only affect one-two-hundredth part of the wood now consumed or destroyed. If it is true that we are losing by consumption and through extraneous causes, such as fire, insects, etc., two-hundred times the amount pulpwood we are exporting and that exports still constitute over one-third of the annual cut, this only portrays an additional argument for retaining what we have in the country. It goes to prove what I have always contended, that the inroads now being made on our available supplies by preventable and unpreventable means, as, such as to threaten our supplies with practical extinction within ten years unless means are taken to save them, and that the first and most practicable as well as the most effective means offered is that of stopping the needless drain on our resources now represented by the exportation of unmanufactured pulpwood to the United States.

MUST HAVE HIS JOKE

At the Soo on Monday night during the presentation and banquet to the Allen Cup team, there arrived "presents" for the various players and officials. Granite mugs of the players as "boners" from some "enthusiastic fan." And to "Mike" Rodden was represented a wooden mallet, with the name "Mike" on it, and neatly wrapped in red and white paper. "Mike" was not presente receive his prize, but it was brought to Sunday by President Fry, of the O.H.A., who attended the affair. The "donor" of these "prizes" is not known, but suspicion points in the direction of Sudbury, and as one "Joe" rady lives in that town and is known for his "prize-giving generosity" the fans can use their own judgment.

Merry is the feast-making until we come to the reckoning.

Strolling along the quays of New York Harbor an Irishman came across the wooden barricade erected around the enclosure where emigrants suspected of suffering from contagious diseases are isolated.

"Phwat's this boarding for?" he inquired of a bystander.

"O," was the reply, "that's to keep out fever and things like that, you see."

"Indade!" said Pat. "O've often heard of the Board of Health, but begobers, it's the first time that O've seen it!"

Junior Baseball Prospects Bright In Belleville Now

Four Teams Definitely Decide to Enter Trent Valley Junior League—Practice Called for Tuesday Next and Every Youth Under Twenty is Invited

Organized junior baseball looks certain for Belleville and district this season. At a well attended meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday evening, the officers were elected and uniform working plans made. A practice has been called for Tuesday evening next at the High School grounds at 6.30 and every red blooded boy in the city who is under twenty years of age is cordially invited to attend the initial practice and display his baseball wares.

Robert Colling "The grand old man of Baseball" in Belleville received word on Thursday afternoon from the Central club in the effect that they had definitely decided to enter the league and now there are four clubs entered in the Trent Valley Junior Baseball League for a certainty. The teams to be are Tweed, Marmora, Madoc and Belleville.

On Thursday evening at the Queen's hotel, representatives of the four teams in the new league met, mixed and form the league and draw up a schedule.

For the past three or four years Belleville has not developed one new player, and still there is a shortage felt when the seniors leave the city causing vacancies in the ranks of Belleville's good senior team which accessedingly hard to fill to satisfaction. This is the situation which has caused "importation" practices in more than one Central Ontario League baseball town in the past few years. Junior leagues or "feeder" leagues will fill the one and only logical league to which the youth of any town or city is trained into the finished article which is necessary in any senior baseball team in the province. "Get them young and bring them up right" certainly applies to ball players and what Belleville has hit upon the plan which will assure them of material to carry on some for their Province, reputed senior ball team.

Material A Plenty

"In Belleville there is a real abundance of real live young players who are anxious to become attached to a live ball team, and it only seems natural that they should desire to become associated with a team, the players of which are under twenty, where everything will be operated on an equal basis, and where they will meet organized opposition in teams which they meet. The baseball career of many youths has been hampered by their having played with older men, who probably used their best of baseball experience to intimidate the youngsters while at bat and on the bases. When everyone on two contesting teams is under twenty, the whole game is fifty-fifty.

Idea Seems Logical

When asked as to the prospects of Intermediate ball here, Mr. Colling yesterday expressed his opinion that in a town the size of Belleville the senior club and its "feeder" club were sufficient. Often intermediate teams are composed of "has been" seniors and inexperienced juniors, and history has shown that the feeding qualities of the intermediate teams have been below the marks of junior qualities.

"We will give every boy a fair trial and will show absolutely no favoritism," emphatically stated Mr. Colling. "The boys must "hit the ball" to catch a place. That means that they must be "there" in every department, special attention being paid to the "sticky wielders." The ball must be hit to get the runs.

Plan Ticket Sale

The new club will require $200 to start their league, but already the officials have been promised several free ball donations. The plan is to sell season tickets for the junior games here, for the sum of $2 each. These tickets will be transferable. "We want crowds" is the determined motto of the officials.

The Belleville junior team have decided to accept the option on the Exhibition ball park after the Grand Trunks, not only for practice nights, but playing days, so Mr. Colling informed the Intelligencer. The junior league will open here on Victoria Day.

ON THE ALLEYS

LADIES' AND MEN'S LEAGUE ACTIVE

Four teams were in action at the Y Alleys last night and two sensational games were run off in quick order. In the first game the Olympics were the opponents of the trappers and fell victims to the latter in a hard fought game. The first two strings of the affair were closely contested but in the final string the Trappers ran up a considerable lead, winning by a total of 235 points.

Rattlers vs. Radios was the second fixture of the evening and it proved to be quite an exciting contest. In the early stages it looked like a win for the Radios but in the final game the Rattlers turned in and jammed the Radios out by just four points. Miss Rainford for the ladies and Miles for the men's division, were the leading performers.

In the ladies league game at the Recreation Alleys last night the Belmonts won from the Shamrocks, Miss V. Gorman rolling the three highest strings.

In the junior league the National Casting started out with a win, trimming the Baby Shoes by over 200 pins. (Smiler) Hall rolling the three highest strings with 601.

The second game between the Bowlers and the Hikers resulted in a win for the Bowlers by 105 pins. This is the Bowler's first win after they have rolled over 3000, a big improvement over last week. The Hikers rolled over 3000 and is the second game they have lost over the 3000 mark. For the Bowlers, Fred Liberty led the way with a total score of 720 while Morrell for the Hikers rolled 703 for his single and 670 for his three strings

Facts About the C.O.A.B.L. By Official Who Knows

After the Publication of Articles in Almost All C.O. B.L. City Newspapers, Which Were "Mostly Vind", Jack Nott Hands Out Some "Real" Baseball Dope

Oshawa, Ont., April 11.—According to early season dope, baseball in Central Ontario cities is due for a record season. The senior or inter-city division of Kingston, Belleville, Peterboro and Oshawa should be the strongest ever grouped east of Toronto, and a battle from the time the umpires call "Play Ball" to the opening game on Wednesday, May 21, with Oshawa at Kingston and Peterboro at Belleville until the closing of the schedule on Wednesday, Aug. 13, when Kingston goes to Belleville and Oshawa travels to Peterboro.

Many new faces will appear on the line-ups of the different teams in the senior circuit, Manager Jack Nott of Oshawa will again have Harry ("Red") Batstone, who won 20 games Limestone City from the champion Hillcrest team of Toronto, covering third while a new boy, Purvis, will hold down the first station, Compeau, a graduate from the Kingston City League, who is reported fast at handling hard-hit balls and a sure pan will replace Jack Bowman at bat for the middle bag three of the old guard are being counted on to hold up the garden Cherry and Teepel look like fixtures, while new material will be given a chance in the old positions Pat Gingrey, "Ted" Gallagher, the good portsider out in right and his record of the past two seasons. and as relief will have two right-handers Moore and Cherry the latter coming to us from the outfield to take his turn on the slab. Rice, who did some of the receiving last year, will likely carry the big share of the work the coming season, while Quinn, who was with the City League team a year ago will fill in with the big mitt and pads besides acting as utility man.

Grow Signs White

Manager Grow of Belleville has all his last year's infield—Harry Mills at first, Meagher at second, Wetz at short and J. K. Williams at third with a new boy named Wilson, who will make the old guard hustle to keep their place. In the outfield the joss of Harold Bowerman who has migrated to big brave city, Toronto, will leave a hole that will have to be plugged up and Stan Hagerman, relief catcher, will likely cover centre. Casey in the sunfields and "Wicky" Ross will cavort around left-field. For slab duty, Grow has Jack Oulette, the speed merchant, who looks ready for his best year in the league; another right-hander, who hails from the Trent Valley League, named Keenan, and Gaffrey, a graduate of the Quinte City league, or Potsider, who found in a good game at Oshawa in his only start in senior company. "Penny" Mills will again do most of the receiving, with Hagerman as relief.

Jake's Selection—Jake

For Peterboro, "Red" Legon, who is pitching, Dorothy Connolly will return to cover Jellifiel, while Herb Wolfe, G. Nelson or Ben Lowe will fill up the other outer garden gaps. Frank Collins will again hold down the third corner, P. J. Johnstone second, while "Hap" Harrison, after a couple of years' absence from the Central Ontario League will attempt the first station. Ed. Hunter, scorer, and the big boy arrives he will strengthen the Peterboro batsmen's power defence. The shortstop position left vacant by Ralph Young back to Boston is causing the Pete's manager some uneasy moments—Miss Ferguson, one of the headiest catchers in amateur ball, will again wear the big mitt, while on the firing line will be Al Heckman, who carried the kilt back City into a playoff with the Oshawa team in 1922. Harrison will be asked to vacate the first station to pitch in a game or two, and then Solomon has a left-hand flinger from Eastmount who is already training for the season.

CRESCENT STRONG

Oshawa will have the combination that looked like a million dollars in the Belleville-Oshawaw play-offs last year, gathering in the high ones in the outer garden, Goldie at left, P. Fair in centre and W. Fair in right. Mickey Murray the Eastmount baseball third-sacker, will cover third, Jack Morrison will again work at short, "Kip" Rowden at second, while a right-hander, J. Tynan who is a top-notch catcher and one of the leading batsmen in the league, will do the work behind the plate and coach the younger material, and he has his flinging staff at work at the rotation for the stiff of the Hampden Park club which, in three previous years, has rolled there on Saturday April 26.

"I Had General Debility," Writes Mrs. Pelletier.

General Debility or a run-down condition of the system may be due to over-work, going out age soon after an illness, worry, neglecting to take proper care of one's health, sleeplessness, etc. Its symptoms are weakness, lack of energy. The person so afflicted is easily fatigued, nervous, depressed. Headaches, nervous dyspepsia are other symptoms of nervous debility. Building up the system with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is of great benefit. Her letter follows:

"I had general debility. I was all run down. I hadn't any appetite and could only digest liquids. I was nervous. I couldn't sleep. I was losing weight. The least exercise tired me. I consulted my doctor. He said I had general debility. He told me to take several bottles of Carnol Beverin I needed building up. When I told Mr. H. H. Page, the druggist, my trouble he said he knew of no finer tonic. He said he always recommended it when a good, reliable tonic was needed. After taking three bottles I got relief, but I am still taking it. My appetite has come back. I can sleep. I have no more headaches and have already gained ten pounds. I am well satisfied with Carnol and always recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. H. Pelletier, Riviere du Loup.

Carnol is sold by all good druggists everywhere.

ANCHORAGE

The ship that sails unbalanced
May travel fast and far,
But many winds may play her sheets
When tacking round the bar.
I'm weighted down you say with cares
And pressed with many a load,
Then thank God for the ballasting
That helps me stem the squall!
The gay white ships go sailing forth
So light and free to roam,
But one gray bark, with thin, torn sails,
Is anchored, close at home.
You see I'm burdened by my tasks
Keeping a hearth fire warm!
Then, thank God, for the anchorage
That helps me ride the storm!
—By Clarissa Brooks Jenks.

Dinah, smoky belly had purchased a stunning yet hat and she was showing it to her friend Maudy. The latter regarded it critically. "I think it's a lovely combination," she remarked, "but it don't suit you."

"What's de reason it don't suit me?" demanded Dinah.

"Well, honey, if yo wants mah honest opinion, Ah thinks it makes yo look too French."

SOCIAL EVENING HELD

The members of Class No. 3 Reidsville Sunday School met at the home of their teacher, Mrs. J. B. Fallis on Wednesday evening. The evening was spent in various games after which the delicious lunch prepared by the hostess was served by all.

Mr. Allan Dempsey, President, made a few very timlie remarks on behalf of the class in appreciation of the teacher's efforts and Mr. Sherman Hallett, Secretary presented the teacher with a very beautiful fountain pen.

The teacher who was taken by surprise and expressed her appreciation in a few words and the gathering broke up about midnight, each one having spent a very enjoyable evening.

Telltale Symptoms of Woman's Ills

Every woman who suffers from backache, headaches, dragging-down pains, nervousness, irregularities, displacements, irritability, or despondency should recognize in such symptoms some derangement of her system which should have attention before some more serious ailment develops. These conditions are often oddly aided by a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude and sleeplessness. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been successfully employed in overcoming such conditions and it is now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. Lizzie Alonas

HERE IS THE REASON WHY CANADA HAS SO MANY HEALTHY WOMEN!

Toronto, Ont.—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can be relied upon as a woman's medicine. I found it so very beneficial that I do hesitate to recommend it highly to my friends. I was suffered with a severe nervous breakdown, caused thru my having feminine weakness. I had no control whatever over my nerves, could not sleep and I suffered with severe aches and pains extending down into my limbs. I also had severe bearing-down pains. I was a physical and nervous wreck when I first started to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I put the tablets on my feet and removed the cotton. My nerves became strong and I did not suffer any more with any of the above ailments."—Mrs. Lizzie Alonas, Box 35 Ontario Street.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

What should she do? He must go at once. She must not see him again. He would be here soon, and he would say words that would make her heart leap with joy, the sound of which her very soul loved, and then she would be lost. She must not, she must not! She must crush them down, down, down, and they struggled and fought against her.

"It is possible that I—love him?" she murmured, her breath labouring under the stress of the thought. "That I love the man, this stranger—of whom I know nothing? Oh, it is shameful, shameful!"

Her hand flew to her face as if she would hide it from the eyes of the lieutenant her; then she looked straight before her into the fire and lapsed into strained lips.

"It is possible that she must crush it down, tear this love out of her bosom, must hide it from every eye, must kill it with self-scorn and ridicule. She would remind herself a hundred times a day if necessary, that she was a Vanicord, the mistress of the Towers, and that this man was little better than one of the labourers on her own estate.

It was a grand resolve, but, alas! as she made it, the wish that she was one of the labourers' daughters came into her. And she knew, too, that, train though he had received, he was not a gentleman; that in manner and speech and bearing he was the gentleman's equal—until to-night, when he had so strangely lost self-control—he would forget him, and—he must go; but how could she send him away? And she knew with an almost fierce bitterness. Every hour of the day she would miss him, every hour of the waking night—and it seemed to her as if she should never sleep again. If he had only gone before—to-day!

Suddenly she remembered the love of one of her pupils. The girl was one of those pretty, pliable, affectionate natures, apparently so cold to Diana; absorbed in her grief and coldness that, with the thought of or desire for love. Then the man had come, and the wood lost, but in vain.

"I could not care for him," she had said to Esther, in her placid, maidenly way. "I am told only to accept love, and I do not think he is. I hope I shall not see him again."

And a fortnight later she had, told Esther, as they sat at the piano, that she was going to marry him: and that she loved him!

Esther had stared at her in amazement. The girl was transformed; there was a light in her dreamy eyes, a flush upon her lips. A subtle change had been wrought in her.

"Why, you told me you could never possibly care for him!" Esther had exclaimed.

"Yes—I remember," responded the girl, simply, "And I meant it. But it was then way. He came in then, on this room"—she had looked round as if the room then had been transformed from a commonplace drawing-room to the antechamber of paradise—"and told me that he loved me. Then, even while I said 'no' he took me in his arms and kissed me—and I felt changed in all, somehow— Oh, yes, I told you that I should never care for him; but he hadn't kissed me then."

Esther had looked uncomfortable it, had understood now as she sat face to face with wonder and bewilderment at her with her own heart, in the stillness of the hood. She knew now!

"But I am different!" she exclaimed, almost shout. "I am not like you!" Sophie Clark did. I will fight against it to the death, and I will crush it out while I ever it may cost me."

She rose as she uttered the words through her clenched teeth; intending to go home and bend down the light in her own room; but while she was speaking her sub-conscious she heard footsteps approaching. She knew by them too well also! and with a beating heart she leant against the rail and waited till her should pass.

Clark had even a worse time than Esther. One of the disadvantages of being a gentleman is that he remorse which he suffers when he forgets the fact and sins against it. And Clark had known that he had sinned very deeply, heinously, criminally!

As Esther walked away he wished that some one would be kind enough to shoot him, and felt very much inclined to go home and shoot himself. For some time past he had been fighting against his love for Esther, and had flattered himself that he was succeeding; but that love had sprung up like a giant, like a deep, tropical growth, at his feet in his arms; and in that moment of passion he had forgotten all restraint of self-respect, of his homage for women, the instinct of gentleman-ness, even!

"I'm a ruffian, that's what I am," he said to himself, grimly. "I'm as bad as Sophie said of me. I went to look down upon one there in the bush. Poor little girl! Esther would shrink me. I deserve it. Deserve it!" He groaned aloud. "There's nothing too bad for me. What am I to do? There's only one thing; I must clear out at once. I mustn't run the chance of meeting her again. The mere sight of me would be an insult to her. And I promised poor Jack that I'd care of his little sister; I must have been mad for the moment. Yes, I ought to be shot as something too dangerous to be left at large."

He leant on a hay-fork and shook with the conflicting emotions that racked him.

"Shall I love her!" he muttered. "And I shall never see her again! Jack had to bear—never see her again!"

He started and raised his head as one of the men came up, and the man stopped short and stared at him.

"Never feel queer, master?" he asked. Jack laughed, and the laugh made the man think he was right.

"What the devil do you mean? Why, do you look ill? What are you looking about for?" Then he bit his lip "Yes, I'm rather queer; but it's all right now. What do you want?"

"If you please to give an eye to the rick before to leave, sir," the man pronounced; and Jack, with a nod, followed him, mounted the rick and mechanically put the last touches to it. Then he came down and sent the men home. When they had gone he walked round the field, as was his duty; but he moved like a man in a dream, and every now and then he stopped and leant on the fork he still carried, as if he were worn out. A sense of shame lay on him, and he went wearily to shut up. As he did so, Kate Vanicord came down the lane before him. She reaped her head and glanced at him. Jack lifted his hat; then she passed as if struck by the look on his face, and stood gazing at him with timid anxiety.

Ogden's CUT PLUG TOBACCO

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

TEETH EXTRACTION:

You have been having pain in some of your joints, perhaps the knee or hips.

After your physician has gone over you, he suggests that you get an X-ray of the teeth.

After examining the plate and its constitution with your dentist, it is decided that some of your teeth must come out.

Most physicians and dentists try to retain the natural teeth for you if possible, because they attend the food better, and are more comfortable.

So if they advise the removal of the teeth you may rest assured that it is necessary.

And now comes the big worry. You must undergo the extraction of teeth.

As you go to the dentist he tells you that he can extract teeth by three methods.

First, remove them without preliminaries whatever. Simply put on the forceps and draw them out.

This was the old method.

Second, he can put an anaesthetic into your gums that will block the nerves and you will feel no pain, whatever.

Third, he can use gas, which will put you into a dreamy state and you'll feel no pain.

What are you going to do about it?

My suggestion is that you take the dentist's advice in the matter.

If the teeth are diseased and are getting loose in the sockets, there is no need for any anaesthetic, either into the gums, or by means of gas.

If the teeth are solidly in their sockets, which is the best method, blocking the nerves with the local anaesthetic, or taking the gas?

My suggestion is that if the dentist is an expert on the administration of the gas, it is the simplest and most satisfactory method.

Why?

Well, there is no preliminary pummelating of the gums by the gentle, although it is not very painful.

You do not have to wait in suspense until the local anaesthetic gets your gums numb.

There is not the possibility of the local anaesthetic having a bad effect upon the gums afterwards.

By taking gas, it is all over in a minute or two. There is no shock from the gas like that from either ether chloroform.

You feel all right in a few minutes after getting out of the chair, and do not have any after effects such as nausea, vomiting, as you do after ether and chloroform.

So that if your dentist advises gas don't be afraid of it.

SURVEYING CANAL ROUTE FROM LAKE ERIE TO OHIO RIVER

Fremont, O., April 9.—United States engineers are surveying a proposed canal that would connect the Great Lakes with the Ohio River and the Mississippi River system.

The route, now being surveyed by a party of federal engineers under F. J. Hughes, Cincinnati, O., is from Lake Erie, to Sandusky Bay, to Sandusky River, south to Scioto River to Ohio River. The Canal would pass through Sandusky, Fremont, Tiffin, Columbus the capital; Chillicothe and Portsmouth, an actual cut of a few miles would join the Scioto River with the Sandusky River in Marion County.

Thus the proposed canal would split the state north and south, connecting the Great Lakes waterway with the Ohio River and the Mississippi.

The project of connecting the Great Lakes with the Mississippi River system has been discussed many times. Congress recently authorized a new survey.

Sunlight—for your Washing Machine

A WASHING machine is made to wash your clothes without rubbing or boiling — and it succeeds just in proportion to the value of the soap you use.

Sunlight Soap dissolves quickly and completely in hot water and works up into an abundant suds. Then the very lemonary so that its rich cleansing ingredients may search through and through the meshes of the clothes and dissolve the dirt and soil spots. Then, when rinsing comes, all dirt and soapy matter runs entirely away, leaving your clothes sweet, fresh and snowy clean.

Pare half a cake of Sunlight into hot water in your machine and thoroughly dissolve suds. Put in the clothes and operate the machine—your clothes will be clean.

LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED
TORONTO

The pure lather of Sunlight Soap cleanses the clothes naturally, not chemically. The $5,000 Guarantee of Purity is stamped on every cake of Sunlight Soap.

GOING TO WESTERN CANADA?

Every year at this season thousands of families consider perhaps for the first time the idea of permanently locating there if they find suitable locations.

The very best train to take from Toronto is the NATIONAL, the finest equipped Canadian National train leaving Toronto every day at 10.45 p.m. The NATIONAL offers exceptional service, carrying Standard Sleeping Car, Diner and Compartment Observation Car and Coaches, as well as Tourist Sleeper and Colonist Cars.

The Colonist passenger will find the lunch counter service a great convenience. An attendant is on duty all day from whom hot and cold drinks, as well as regular lunch counter food, may be purchased.

Argyle Tennis Club Is Formed

The postponed meeting of the Argyle Tennis Club was held last night in the Y.M.C.A. parlours. Mr. Parker, the president in the chair. Mr. L. L. Cook, Sec-Treas., presented a very favourable report of the activities of the club last year. Officers were elected for the coming season as follows:
Hon. Pres.—Col. R. Sandwerster.
Pres.—Mr. H. J. Parker.
Vice-Pres.—Major McMenne.
Sec.-Treasurer—Mr. L. L. Cook
Grounds Committee—Mr. H. J. Parker, W. Deroche and W. Pinkerton.
Tournament Committee—Messrs. W. Deroche, R. Morden and A. Armstrong.
Social Committee—Miss Ruth and Miss Helen Sinclair and Miss Sylvia Rose.

After some discussion it was decided to reduce the annual fee for individual members from $3.00 to $2.00, and for a family ticket from $7.50 to $5.00. The executive proposed this reduction in order to give everyone a chance to play, and they expect that their revenues will be about the same because there will be 125 join at the $2.00 fee. Last year the club had thirty members, this year there should be sixty. If necessary two more courts can be provided to accommodate the increase.

It was decided to start the season with a handicapping tournament on Monday, May 6th, details for which will be announced later.

Anyone wishing to join the club may procure their membership tickets from Mr. L. L. Cook, at the Union Bank.

Bay of Quinte Cup Now In Kingston

Kingston, April 11.—The Bay of Quinte Hockey League championship cup, which was won during the past season by the Kingston Athletics, arrived in the city Wednesday afternoon from Point Anne where it has rested since last year. The cup was brought down from Napanee in charge of Mr. W. H. Roe of Napanee and was handed over to Dr. R. P. Millen in his office. The cup will be placed in the window of a local store very shortly, possibly Lindsay's, and Kingston followers of the Bay League and others will have a chance of seeing this wonderful cup of which so much has been said.

It is certainly a magnificent cup and is far larger than any of the rugby cups won by Queen's either Intercollegiate or Dominion and beautifully engraved. The cup was put up for competition years ago in the old Bay of Quinte League and was offered again for competition in the new League two years ago when the Bay of Quinte League was re-organized.

COBOURG UNDECIDED

Cobourg, Ont., April 11.—The Town Baseball League held its annual meeting in council chamber. It was decided not to affiliate with the O. B. A., in the event of a team from Cobourg being entered in the new Midland Intermediate League. Election of officers resulted as follows:—President, E. E. White; vice-president, Kent Parker; secretary, Murray Walsh; treasurer, Roy Dodge; representative to league meeting, E. E. White and Murray Walsh.

CANADA IS PRAISED FOR GRECIAN AID

Cable From Stricken Areas States Many Hundreds of Thousands of Refugees Pouring Into Salonika and Other Ports — Lord Cecil's Appeal Meets with Prompt Response of Churches All Over World

Special to The Intelligencer

Salonik, April 12—Dr. W. A. Kennedy, the Canadian at the head of the "Save the Children Fund's" work among the Christian refugees in Greece, cables to-day:

"Our feeding stations now sole aid of refugees in Salonika as Government still other organizations are unable to continue. Situation is difficult as refugees are continually arriving from Turkey by rail and boat. Yesterday forty-six hundred and fifty Pontus refugees arrived from Samsoun. One hundred thousand additional refugees waiting at Black Sea and eighty thousand more are expected from European Turkey, the majority landing at Salonika. Please thank Toronto for the thirty tons Canadian flour. Our work is very much appreciated in Greece."

Lord Cecil's Appeal

The appeal of Viscount Cecil (formerly Lord Robert Cecil) on behalf of the Imperial War Relief Fund, which is co-operating with the "Save the Children Fund" in feeding of Greek refugees in Greece, has received powerful support in the form of the following letter published in the principal Scottish newspapers.

"We are about to commend Lord Cecil's appeal for the refugees in the Near East, which will shortly reach ministers in charge of churches throughout the country, to the sympathetic consideration of all Christian congregations. Serious as is the distress at home, we have too little experience of real starvation and nakedness to be able to picture them to ourselves; the mind refuses to take in the fact that large numbers are literally dying of want. The tragedy of this is the greater in that at last the establishment of the refugees on a self-supporting basis appears to be in sight, if they can only be kept alive to benefit by it. The international loan which it is hoped will be floated to finance the resettlement scheme must be used for purposes of relief, and whether the refugees will survive in the meantime depends on the charity of the world.

"The fact that the sufferers of the refugees are largely the penalty of their Christian faith adds to the claim of their sheer need upon all Christian people. We most cordially invite all to contribute as far as they are able."

G. MILLIGAN, Moderator, The General Assembly, Church of Scotland
DAVID S. CAIRNS, Moderator, The United Free Church of Scotland.
GEORGE MACKAY, Moderator, The General Assembly, Free Church of Scotland.
GEORGE G. SHLNE, President Congregational Union.
W. J. P. ROBERTS, Primus of the Episcopal Church of Scotland.
A. R. BRUCE, Archbishop, Roman Catholic Church.
THOMAS F. STEWART, Secretary, Baptist Union.
R. WILCOX SEWCHER, Chairman, Wesleyan Methodist Church."

Answers Lord Cecil

In this connection Lord Cecil has received the following letter from the Archbishop of Canterbury.

"I trust that your forceful appeal, coming as it does from one who has pre-eminently the right to speak to us and to stimulate our endeavor, we prayit in such a substantial aid as may really liberate the sufferings of those unhappy people and enable them to take advantage of the offer made by the League of Nations Settlement Commission.

TRUCK COMES TO GRIEF

Violins Comparable To Old Masters Are Made Here

Few of the local citizens are aware of the fact that a local wood-carver has gained wide-spread recognition as a violin maker and is being much sought after for the unusually fine instruments by musicians in Canada and the United States.

Mr. W. A. Elliot, 216 Albert street, in an interview with the Intelligencer, gave some interesting data on his methods in shaping and completing the instruments he makes. The first step and one of the most important, stated Mr. Elliot, was to obtain the proper quality of wood, selected from thousands of other pieces. The top material he uses come from the Swiss Alps, a special grade of spruce, and the back is made of Bird's eye maple. Stradivarius, the great violin maker, used the same grades of wood in making his instruments, some of which are now priceless.

The wood must then be shaped by hand, carefully graded in thickness to play piano, and every part calipered to the ten-thousandth part of an inch. The slightest variation will affect the purity of the tone desired. There are three different zones of thickness in the top alone.

After the violin has been shaped, it must be covered with from eight to twelve coats of varnish prepared by hand, depending on the color desired. Experts have declared that the varnish Mr. Elliot uses, made with his own formula, is largely responsible for the rare tone of the instrument he makes. The tone, unusual in a new instrument is mellow, soft, yet penetrating to the extreme, and approaches nearest the tone of the old masters.

Three months is usually required to complete one of these instruments, the delicate care taken with every operation necessitating the most careful preparation.

A sample instrument shown the writer was of a rich golden color, the finishing was perfect and the tone of that indescribable quality only found in the older instruments.

BEAUTIFUL BELLEVILLE AIM OF CITY

Horticultural Society Offers Hints to Local Home Gardeners on How to Make Places of Beauty Out of Bare Patches — Board Doing It's Share to Beautify City

Through the courtesy of the Belleville Horticultural Society, and members of the Ontario Horticultural Association, the following notes, and hints on flower gardening have been issued for publication.

It is necessary that the home garden be planned so that proper results are to be obtained.

The local Parkboard is making every effort to add to the natural beauty of Belleville, and it is of civic importance that the home garden be planned to add to the beauty of Bellevilleand Area.

SOWING PETUNIA SEED

By J. E. Carter, President of the Ontario Horticultural Association

Many failures are encountered by amateur gardeners in growing petunias from seed. Prepare the seed bed by taking two parts of any light compost or leaf mould thoroughly mixed with one part of clean sand. Sift through a fine screen. With the mixture fill flats or seed pans, pressing down the soil so that it is evenly and solidly two inches of the top. Give a thorough watering. Sow the seed evenly into the soil, sprinkle the petunia seed evenly over the surface and do not cover with soil. To prevent attacks of fungi, which usually kill the young petunia plants, sprinkle the newly sown flats with charcoal dust. Place a piece of glass over the flat or seed pan, and in the daytime, to prevent the sun's rays, place a single sheet of newspaper over the glass to prevent burning. At night, and in dark weather, remove the glass and paper. Avoid practically all excess of moisture.

As soon as the seed sprouts, expel right or ten days. If kept at a temperature of sixty degrees) take all the glass and paper off. The young plants should be transplanted as soon as possible into box boxes, spacing them an inch apart. Shortly thereafter plant singly in two-inch pots or three-inch pots, or set out in the garden.

If the seed is handled right most of the seed will germinate, and will come off the seed if they have accepted it. Petals will be among seeds lines a great many in one night. For this reason seed boxes should be placed on a table in a room where they can be reached them. Most of the loss of seedlings is caused by the failure to suggest in this case that the seed box be placed on a table in a room where the blacks resting on jars or pans, and the latter is exposed to the air or water. The ants and snails are unable to enter the room and their activity generally cannot reach the seed.

Classified Soils

All soils can be roughly classified into four

1. Sand loam; 10 to 40 per cent of clay.
2. Loamy soil; 40 to 70 per cent of clay.
3. Clay loam; 70 to 85 per cent of clay.
4. Strong clay; 85 to 95 per cent of clay.

Number two is the best soil for all general purposes, containing a better proportion of sand, clay, lime and humus. Everything grown can be raised on it. It is easily worked and needs little atmosphere.

Humus is not the power to change or affect the latter to any great extent or for any length of time. It is the power to change the soil by adding to it those constituents of which it may be lacking.

If a soil is too acidulous, administer lime, which reverts the soil and also greatly aids the decomposition of organic matter. Lime is also a valuable source of nitrates which are available plant food.

If lacking in nitrogen and humus, either a green manure or barnyard manure or some other artificial fertilizer, which is rich in nitrogen.

Some soils are deficient in potash and phosphates, his may be made by applying bonemeal and wood ashes in Spring. Clay may be given to sandy soils, and sand to clay soils, while humus in its varied forms is used to all soils to good advantage.

Not least of all is the great power we can exert in changing the physical condition and increasing the fertility

FIGURES ARE GRATIFYING TO CITIZENS

Despite additional Teachers and Increase in salaries Board of Education Asking Less than $2,000 increase in Appropriation For Year—Detailed Statistics

Despite the fact that additional teachers had to be engaged this year for King George School and salaries of teachers increased the Board of Education is only asking the City Council to provide less than $2,000 more than last year's appropriation. By reducing the surplus account down to the lowest possible limit this was accomplished. The session last night was one of considerable length, it is true until after 11 o'clock.

Members present were Messrs. H. W. Ackerman, J. W. Cook, J. E. Wm. Harper, F. Hartley, A. Meigh, F. B. Smith, G. B. Smith, C. W. Thompson, Mrs. Florence Boyce, Dr. Jones, A. E. Moffatt.

In the absence of Mr. G. T. Woodley, chairman, Mr. H. W. Ackerman was voted chairman.

Increase In Nurses Work

Mrs. Sinclair, School Nurse, advised the members of the Board briefly by her work in the School, which was very satisfactory. Mrs. Sinclair explained how the survey of children was made by a dentist and other children were under the survey. Much good has been accomplished by this work in the schools. Miss Sinclair referred to the Belleville Dental Clinic being by the Rotarian Club of this city in providing means to assist some needy children. The principals and teachers of the schools had materially helped her in her work. Mrs. Sinclair presented to the Board a report of the work under her supervision, which will be given with information.

After reading and confirming of the last meeting the Board went into committee, with Mr. Ackerman in the chair, Mr. J. W. Cook in the chair.

Mrs. Sinclair presented a report recommending the payment of a number of refreshments.

Reports

The Printing and Supplies Committee recommended the purchase of some adjustable seats for King George School and that the sum of $200 was required for that, etc.

It was decided that the tender of the Schuster Company Limited for the supplying of new desks for Bridge be accepted, it being the lowest tender received.

The report was adopted.

Chairman Explains

Mr. J. Graham, chairman of finance, said it was necessary to ask an increase of upwards of $4,000 above the amount of the estimates for the amount required last year. As increases had been made which were impossible for the increase asked for. He explained that although $4,000 was the requisition as low as was possible to make it, and was exercising every economy possible.

Col. Ponton stated that in the public schools the commandant's organization throughout the country and this city in particular had given the Board $4,000 increase in two or even a lower figure.

Dr. Ponton moved that the $1,000 for the Board re purchase of the Public Library Building and that $2,000 more from the surplus now to the credit account.

Mr. A. Jones desired it it was possible to have the estimate so as to make them the same as last year.

The motion of Col. Ponton prevailed, and the estimates as the City Council was reduced by $2,000.

SECOND CONSIDERATION

The question of the number of persons desiring to be placed on the voters' list was then taken up and referred to the School Management Committee.

Permission was given to the cadet corps of the school to take part in the I. O. D. E. celebration parade to-morrow it does not interfere with the school examinations.

The committee rose and reported.

The requisition below was passed through in various grades and numbered.

Motions

Col. Ponton moved, seconded by Mr. W. J. Bleecker, that the school uniforms and equipment now on hand or hereafter to be purchased be returned to the respective principals of the schools on the understanding that they are and shall remain the property of the Board and, that it shall be the duty of the principals and their staff to see that all uniforms and equipments are returned from time to time in good order at the end of every school year or at such dates as each Principal may determine.

Col. Ponton moved, seconded by Mr. A. Jones that the Department of Education be officially notified of our decision to establish an auxiliary class, and the department grant a temporary certificate to Mr. Reynolds

CHANGES FOR BERLIN WITH STINNES GONE

Strong Man's Passing Stirs Speculation on Reparations

SONS TO TAKE OVER

Both in Close Touch With Father's' Giant Trade and Industry Plans

Berlin, April 12.—"Germany's strong man" of industry is gone with the passing of Hugo Stinnes, and speculation was rife today as to the ultimate effect upon the internal organization and on the reparations settlement.

The end came at 3.30 o'clock last night when his frame, weakened by the effects of three major operations within four weeks, the man who would admit of no defeat in the matter of business succumbed to the ravages of disease.

It was characteristic of him that down in the final hours he asked for the details of the Dawes report on the reparations problem.

Big Business Involved

Next to the name of Mr. Stinnes, who wields such important influence in the reconstruction of Germany and reparation policy, interest centres in the future of the business with regard to his manifold business interests, the trade and industry of which are a matter of personal concern with him, and which he continued to supervise up to his death.

The administration of these interests will devolve on his sons, Edmund, aged 25, and Hugo, both of whom have been associated with their father's enterprises during the last five years.

Edmund, the elder of the two, is the most active in the affairs of the Stinnes offices in Berlin, while Hugo, jun., has had charge of his father's shipping interests in Hamburg.

COOK CHOSEN BRITISH MINE UNION LEADER

Extremist Elected as Secretary; Out For Aggression

HODGES' SUCCESSOR

Holds Powerful Post With Federation; Declares He "Is Still a Red"

London, April 12.—A. J. Cook, leader of the South Wales miners, has been elected secretary of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain in succession to Frank Hodges, who almost ceased the post upon his appointment as Civil Lord of the Admiralty in the Labor Government.

In view of the immense industrial and political power wielded by the big trade unions the filling of this post in the Miners' Federation, the membership of which approximates one million, may easily be an event of national importance, as Mr. Cook has the opportunity to exert influence equal to that of such leaders as Premier Bevin of the Dockworers' Union and J. H. Thomas, formerly the Railwaymen's chief and now Colonial Secretary.

For Militant Policy

Cook, who is an avowed extremist and a devotee to the Marxian theories, when interviewed upon his appointment, said he interpreted the miners' choice as a desire for a militant, aggressive policy.

"I am in favor of a real live national and international miners' organization," he said, "and am convinced that the miners cannot retain even their present bad conditions without it. I am still a red, and all that I stand for and I will not rest satisfied until private enterprise in the mining industry is abolished."

REPARATIONS BOARD ADOPTS DAWES PLAN

Commission Approves, and Urges Allies to Do Likewise

Paris, April 12.—The Inter-Allied Reparations Commission has unanimously adopted the Dawes report recommending ways to balance the German budget, stabilize currency, restore normal economic conditions, and to commence immediately at the office of the chairman, Louis Barthou. The next step will be to obtain the views of the various governments.

The Commission's decision that the Allied Governments to accept the report, provided Germany accepts and carries out every measure to carry it out.

Hear Them April 17.

The reparations commission will hear German representatives on April 17.

In official declaration by the commission, signed by Louis Barthou, its president, accepting the commander in post, was issued shortly after 5.30 o'clock this evening.

WORKERS OUT AGAINST PAY RAISE OFFERS

Miners Reject Wages Increase Proposed by Operators

LOCKOUT BY TO-NIGHT

Shipyards Tie-up Near in Old Country; Move on Way to Avert it

London, April 12.—Another coal strike loomed on the British industrial horizon today when the miners by a majority of 16,258, voted against accepting the terms of the new agreement for a wage agreement.

Measures are under way to avert the threatened lockout of shipyard workers which is scheduled for tonight.

It is thought the Miners' Federation will almost certainly proceed to demand a Government inquiry as to the whole question of miners' wages and the government will grant it.

Marxian in Charges

Notwithstanding the present attitude of moderation shown by the miners it is notable that the new secretary of the Miners' Federation.

Southampton Blamed

The Shipbuilding Employers' Federation announced today that many of the striking shipyard workers at South Hampton had been locked out in accordance with the instructions of the employers' council as the unions' labor policies throughout the country would become effective at the close of work tonight.

Approximately 100,000 men will be affected by the lockout.

BAPTISTS' NOBLE WORK IN INDIA

Toronto, April 10.—Closing the three-day Baptist jubilee missionary meetings in Massey hall last evening with an immense crowd present and in attendance, members of the Baptist churches from Ontario and Quebec presented the chairman, J. H. Moore, with pledges totalling the sum of $23,318, as an expression of thankfulness giving for the work done in the foreign field and as a jubilee anniversary offering to further extend the foreign missionary work of the church and the many activities in Bengal, Central India and South America, who still sit in darkness and the shadow of death. In announcing the amounts that had been received, the chairman stated that five pledges for $1,000 each had been received.

Appeal For Missionaries

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Dr. John MacNeill, pastor of Wimmer Road Baptist church Hampstiring in his address the power of Christ and Him crucified, and the power of the Christian Gospel to regenerate the whole world, Dr. MacNeill, in a treamendously impressive appeal, urged the young people of the church to invest their lives in missionary service.

BETTER BUSINESS ETHICS

Another champion for the modern trend is Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, of Queen's University. He does not believe the world is growing worse. A much more high standard of ethics is needed now than of old, Dr. Mackintosh explains. Business, he adds, has grown so rapidly of late years that no set standard is available to keep pace with it.

In other words, business has developed faster than the conception of business. Business is no longer a mere accumulation of a financial debancement. Compare the principles of Henry Ford or the late Andrew Carnegie Company to the dictum of a Roman Neno. Attributes of a high order is demanded today to temper the old slogan of "take by force if necessary, but take."

Perhaps Dr. Mackintosh is right, there is no written standard to follow, but it is doubtful if there was ever in the history of commerce. That is why successful business men of today, whether they realize it and will it or not, are adopting the Golden Rule. As ancient wisdom points the way to stability. This is no mere theory; it is the history of recent years, particularly of the last two, and it applies to individuals, corporations and to nations.

SPOKEN IN HASTE

"Never again, under any conditions, will war have our sanction or our blessing," is the solemn utterance of the Christian Guardian, the official organ of the Methodist Church in Canada.

The Guardian's hatred and horror of war is shared by almost all right-thinking and human persons. But, horrible as war is, it is not the worst of human evils. To a people who can understand, appreciate and make good use of free moral freedom, slavery is worse than war. Shame ful submission to enforced injustice is worse.

War is terrible and horrible because it is the cause of cruel suffering and violent death to many. But physical suffering and death, even by bereavement and lasting sorrow, are less to be dreaded than are evils which sap the moral strength and taint the spiritual life of a whole people. There have been cases of nations being redeemed and morally regenerated by war.

If Canada were to be wantonly invaded and overrun by a barbarous enemy, it is very probable that the editor of the Christian Guardian would reconsider his vow never to sanction war. He would keenly realize that there are some things even worse than armed resistance, to oppression—in a word, than war.

SALVAGING GERMANY

To-day writes history in Europe. Two committees of financial experts chosen by the Allies present the result of their findings on the fields of Central Europe. They have been guided by Mr. Reginald McKenna, former Chancellor of the Great Britain, and Mr. Charles G. Dawes, of Chicago.

A new bank issue is recommended for Germany, capitalized at 600,000,000 gold marks; an external loan is proposed for the German railways, the Reich's great asset, are to be security for the issuance of 5,000,000,000 gold marks preferred shares; finally, the German budget is to be balanced and inflation is to be stopped.

These, in skeleton form, are the conclusions of the experts, from whose reports excerpts appear in The Herald today. They will form the basis for decisions to be taken by the interested Allied governments. It is likely they will be followed in substance.

Two things occur to the layman. One is that the Allies, whose first ambition was to cripple the Germans as a nation, are now bending their efforts to preserving it. They want it as a bulwark of Central Europe and an economic barricade against worse evils than those charged to Berlin. The second is that before they are through it will cost the Allies more to collect reparations than it will bring in.

Today marks the first chapter in the first real business-like effort to settle Germany's (and Europe's) troubles. It will be either a brilliant success or a dismal failure. It is safe to say there will be no middle road. On the one hand the leading Powers are candidly requiring a broken kingdom for a sister-in-law; whatever the German white turns again to a throne, as it probably will sooner or later—most likely sooner. On the other hand, lacking constructive force from the outside, the German industrialists have the whip hand; they are defiant, they are tenacious, and they will stop at nothing to escape paying a single penny to the nations whom they never will admit as victors.

The new effort is possibly unique in history, for politics and jealously have so far been kept out of it. Further, more, once this gigantic reconstruction plan gets under way, may politics stay out of it, for no nation on earth can play a better or more dangerous game of politics than a rejuvenated Germany. Home trade and business ethics will give the experts' plan a fair chance for success; national rivalry will wreck it.

THE CANADIAN ROUTE

In the Napoleonic wars it was said that instead of British blockading France by the celebrated orders-in-council, she was only making action against herself by blockading it of himself by the Berlin decree. Likewise, the present administration at Washington, instead of permanently injuring the commerce of other nations by its arbitrary barrier and its immigration restrictions, is proceeding towards the goal of blockading in the United States.

The Liverpool Journal of Commerce, noting the Republican party's ineptitude, remarks that the immigration restrains and Ellis Island administration have done more to swing the pendulum of the American tourist traffic to the Canadian route than any effort of the Dominion authorities or the British steamship companies.

The shipping news from the port of Montreal bears out this statement. Scarcely a week passes without some announcement that a steamship company is to add a sailing to the Montreal route, or to put this avenue of sea traffic on its regular patronage list. Altogether the present prospects are that Montreal is on the eve of enjoying the most prosperous season in the whole history of ocean shipping, she has ever experienced.

Canada must continue to invite extensions in the shipping trade by the liberality of her treatment. That is the strongest reason to believe that the Dominion Government desires to avoid any measure that will militate against the commercial progress of the country by the issuance of harassing regulations. Besides the negative policy of non-interference, however, something positive towards the development of the country's shipping facilities should be undertaken. Every endeavor should proceed to hasten the new Great Waterways inquiry.

(T.M.C.A. Bulletin)

"The vast majority of all the youthful offenders have committed crime because they had bad associates and were not under the proper influences when their behavior was fixed into manhood—between the ages of 12 and 16. That is the most important period in a boy's life."

"In those years every boy needs to be under the influence of the right kind of a man."

BOWL-ITIS

Belleville, April 8—Some epidemic is scourging the city, and first aid assistance will be necessary to cope with the plague it is believed. The new epidemic is known as bowl-itis, and is wide-spread owing to the heavy and incessant drop of rain. First symptom is abnormal hunger of the patient to bowl. Women are not immune and the disease is also very violent in their case.

Right after the patient has bowled about a dozen games, he or she immediately wishes to bowl some more games. Young girls and stugdy youths have failed to leave off the bowling. Trouble doctors here state that they have never seen such a case before and are at a loss to know what caused it.

Should you care to state whether or not you think in your opinion that prohibition has anything to do with the case?" one trouble doctor was asked.

"You are looking for trouble," he answered with a sarcastic laugh. "Just between you and I and the Post Office Inspector, prohibition has caused the only busy places on corners today are bus stores."

BROADCASTING EGG-LAYING CONTEST RESULTS BY RADIO

Arrangements have been made by the Canadian National Poultry Record Association with the Radio Department of the Canadian National Railways for the broadcasting of the Canadian and Ontario Egg-Laying Contest results from station C.N.C.H. at Ottawa, commencing at 7.30 p.m. This interesting throughout Canada especially those of Ontario and Quebec, will now be able to learn the standing of the various pens almost as soon as the scores are available. This new service should prove of interest to farmers and poultry keepers and it is hoped that those of them who are fortunate enough possibly to have a radio set will avail themselves of this opportunity to keep posted on Contest matters. The Egg-Laying Contest, one of the biggest things yet undertaken towards poultry improvement in Canada, has for its ultimate object the registration of standard bred poultry of high producing ability. It also serves as a guide to the buying public, as the information published as to the fowls' egg production records sent out each week by the Contest Office has been shortly made by the different breeders. Two Contests are now conducted at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, the Canadian, open to breeders through out the world, and the Ontario, open to breeders from that province only.

This is the only poultry contest of small number of poultry breeders of Canada have been entered in these Contests, each year sees this number increase.

VETERAN CANINE ACTOR IN "LITTLE JOHNNY JONES"

Brownie, the little bull terrier, has made a name for himself in numerous pictures. But it remained for this intelligent animal to be the pivot of action in "Little Johnny Jones", the screen adaption of the George M. Cohan stage success.

Without him the pivot would go to smithereens, for it is through him that the rescue of Edith Smythe from the gang of kidnappers in Limehouse is effected, and without his running the plot of the crooked gamblers to throw shooting past the winning post would have succeeded. Brownie snatches the loaded whip just after Nolan, the rival jockey, uncorks a "phoney" whip and throws acid into Johnny's eyes, dropping it to the ground to be picked up by an accomplice.

"Little Johnny Jones" will play at the Regent theatre, Monday to Wednesday, as the feature attraction. Arthur Hohe, called the Georges M. Cohan of the screen has the starring role of Johnny Jones, the jockey.

His supporting cast consists of Windham Standing, Margaret Seddon, Herbert Prior, Mollie Malone, George Webb, Mervyn LeRoy and others. The direction is by Arthur Rosson and the scenario by Raymond Schrock.

DUAL RESEMBLANCE LAYS PLOT FOR "MASQUERADER"

Recent news ecstasy reveal the weird story of a soldier who, after being returned soldier on the belief that he was dead because of the unreliable resemblance; but fiction has antiquated history by at least a decade. The question of whether any two men can be so similar in appearance as mangerisms as to deceive people familiar with their characteristics in daily habits has been argued to endless limits without ever coming to a decision.

About ten years ago, Katherine Cecil Thurston, publisher of "The Masquerader," a novel that used this idea as the basis of the plot. It was seized upon by an unconvincing reading public and ran through ten editions in record time. Even today it can be found in the book shelves of lovers of good literature and the discussion it raised is being renewed again by the fact that this play, famous through the book and later through the stage play based upon it has been made into a film.

"The Masquerader," the cinema version of the book and play, will come to the Griffin Theatre Monday to please patrons, of Belleville their own opportunity to decide whether or not such a close resemblance can be created as a human possibility. John Chilcote and John Loder are the names of the two characters whose resemblance to each other predicates the complications into which the plot develops. One is a scion of an aristocratic family, a member of the legislature, a leader in social activity. The other is possessed of latent talents that have been consistently suppressed by lack of opportunity.

Richard Walton Tully, who pioneered the stage version through many successful years, is responsible for the picture. To aid him in the work he has brought to the starring role Guy Bates Post, who created the leading dual role, and plays both parts in the picture.

CITY OF BELLEVILLE

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

CHAS. D. CAMPBELL,

Two improvements in Dominion Cord Tires

DOMINION TIRES—always standard of tire excellence for many years—now feature two exclusive improvements which are as great an advance on the old methods of building cord tires as cord tires were over fabric tires. They add nothing to your tire cost. They give you perfect uniformity of wear—extra mileage at no extra cost.

Web Cords

The Web Cord process unites the cords by saturating them in latex, the natural sap of the rubber tree, thus forming a web of pure rubber, insulating each cord from the other, eliminating cross threads which cause internal friction and destructive heat. The Web Cords in fact are cores and take all strains with perfect resiliency.

The Web Cord process is used exclusively in Canada for building Dominion Royal Cord and U-cord Tires.

Sprayed Rubber

Sprayed Rubber is the natural, pure rubber extracted by evaporation, direct from the latex or sap of the rubber tree and contains no acids, resins, caustic soda or other processes used in producing rubber goods.

By the Sprayed Rubber process, the fine and purest rubber and therefore the strongest and most elastic, is obtained. Sprayed Rubber is used exclusively in Canada for the walls and treads of Dominion Royal Cord and U-cord Tires.

PROMISED TO BOARD FIRST TRAIN 'AWAY'

When Harry Slovan, a vagrant promised to board the first train for "Toronto the Good", he was allowed to do this morning, by Magistrate Masson, in police court.

"I have worked on the farm and in the woods," explained the youth who was everything but neat and tidy. "And if you let me go I will give the price of the railway ticket to the officers and have them buy my ticket for Toronto, to make sure that I go." "Well you had better get," advised the Beach and the youth left the court, and building "quick march."

Slovan was arrested last night in a Front St. store on a vagrancy charge.

Paymaster Who Stole Huge Sum Found Deranged

Lieut. Brown Lying on California Roadway — Doctors Certain He is Feigning Insanity

San Francisco,—Lieut. Ervin Brown, U. S. navy paymaster who disappeared at Mobile, Ala., March 10, with $120,000 government funds, was found lying in a roadway here in a deranged condition.

Officers found $1,500 in $100 bills in Brown's clothes. He also carried picture of Mrs. Daisy Brown, his wife, who returned $25,000 of the money stolen by her husband, to San Diego naval officials.

Feigned Insanity

Physicians who examined the man after he fought with attendants at the detention hospital until they were forced to strap him to a cot, asserted they were convinced that he feigned insanity.

City detectives found Brown lying on one of the drives in Golden Gate park. They held him for observation believing he was a victim of amnesia.

Marks found upon his body which tallied with the description broadcast of the missing naval paymaster, caused them to summon officers of the twelfth naval district.

They announced that they were convinced that the man is Brown.

Brown, after disappearing from his ship at Mobile, Ala., traveled up the Atlantic coast visiting New York Newport, R. I., Cleveland and other eastern cities, spending large sums of money. He went to San Francisco, where he summoned his wife to a hotel where he was staying.

Wife Pleaded

Mrs. Brown pleaded all one night with her husband to surrender. When he refused she obtained possession of a satchel in which he carried $75,000 and, accompanied by Brown's mother, drove an automobile to San Diego, where she turned the money over to naval officers.

Brown fled before officers could reach the hotel. The fugitive had been warned by newspaper stories the search by federal and state officers for him had centered in Los Angeles.

"Hard Money" Gives Russians Renewed Hope

Moscow, April 12.—Sokolnikoff, Russia's commissary of finance, is continuing his work to the end of giving Russia a stable currency. He has just started to ship to various parts of the republic a supply of small silver coins of 10, 15 and 20 kopecks. There will be small coins, of 1, 2 and 3 kopecks, probably made of bronze, but until they are coined, their places will be taken by paper notes of the same amount. The 50 kopek and silver rubs will be issued in May or June, as soon as a sufficient amount has been coined. The gold coins, as well as the silver coins handed down from the czarist days, will be excluded from circulation.

A fixed price in gold rubles will be announced for the soviet rubles still in circulation at which exchange can be made at state banks and government institutions.

The Russian government is already issuing new treasury notes of 1, 2 and 5 gold rubles. The printing of the famous soviet ruble has been discontinued.

Only One In Thirty Settlers In Area Is Likely To Fail

Fine Showing of War Veterans on Former Indian Reserve in Alberta

Out of thirty settlers on the Bobtail Indian Reserve near Ponoka, Alta., but one is classified by the soldier settlement district supervisor as likely to fail.

This reserve was taken over by the Soldier Settlement Board in 1919 and divided into farm units of an average size of 244 acres. In the season of 1923 all the settlers had from one-third to one-half of their average under cultivation—in one case 140 acres—although none of the land was broken when the district was opened. Buildings have been erected, farms fenced and other improvements completed. The district has a school house and roadwork has been done. There is a Department of Government Stock Association in the district and the supervisor reports the marked tendency towards mixed farming. The settlers are well employed with producing stock machinery.

In the present collection period 28 of the 30 settlers had payments due; nineteen have made full payments and seven very substantial payments, with prospects that before the end of the period not more than ten to fifteen per cent of the amount will be outstanding.

A number of the settlers have large families and were under the necessity of having to build large houses at first. This was rather a handicap to them as they needed all their resources for the development of their land. While they were not particularly favored by the weathermen, the whole district having suffered from damage by hail last year, they have made a splendid showing, due in large measure to their fine spirit and industry.

An optimist is a man who thinks he won't have to order another ton of coal this season.

A rest, like everything else, should be earned.

MOTHER OF TWIN BOYS

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Her of Inflammation and Great Weakness

West St. John, N. B. — "I was in a great run-down condition before taking the birth of my twin boys. I had a great deal of inflammation, with pains and weakness. Finally my doctor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. He said that this medicine would be the only thing to help me up. I am sure he is right. For I am feeling much better and am gaining in weight, having gone down to nine hundred pounds. I was in bed for over a month, but am up again and can do my housework. I tell every table Compound to my friends and give you permission to use my letter." —Mrs. Elmer A. Ritchie, 82 Rodney St., West St. John, N. B.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them.

THINKS COAST HOLDS MAN TO LICK DEMPSEY

Man Who Once Managed Jack Will Hunt For Topplet

PREDICTS HIS FALL

California Raises Them Big, Promoter Fred Windsor Points Out

San Francisco—The man who will whip Jack Dempsey lives on the slopes of the Pacific.

That's the opinion of Fred (Windy) Windsor, San Francisco boxing manager and promoter.

Windsor ought to know.

He was the first man who saw champion Dempsey perform in Dempsey and the San Francisan who was instrumental in bringing the heavyweight king to the front.

Windsor proposes to stage here "white hope" elimination contests, among the kind of stuff he's got in New York, recently. He believes, with a little education, a few heavyweight champions could be produced on the Pacific Coast. And, further, he is confident Dempsey's successor would be found in the assortment. Windsor already is developing several lightlings and is anxious to obtain other candidates for Jack's task.

All applicants must be heavyweights more than 175 pounds and be under 25 years of age.

What about the miners, the lumbermen, the sailors and the husky stevedores up and down the Pacific Coast? asked Windsor the other day. "Sure, there's among them the man who can slap Dempsey to sleep. The West making bone and strong boys, too. Take this boxer who can hit and has the heart and gall the work of turning out a new champion is done."

Champions are not made in a day Windsor says. He plans, in the event he uncovers some real prospects, to spend two or three years in developing an opponent for the Utah master.

Dempsey will be about ripe to topple anywhere two or three years, maybe sooner? Says Windsor. "Give me one of these big Pacific Coast lumberjacks, or, say, a husky sailor from down San Pedro way, and believe me, if he's anywhere he has a good chance to wear Dempsey's shoes."

CLAIRTON, where big men abound, has a better chance than most States of the Union to turn up the next heavyweight title-holder, according to Windsor. He points out that California produced Corbett and Jeffries and had a

Sisler Has Browns Solid Behind Him

Appointment of Infield Star Makes Big Hit With Players—Peace in Camp

St. Louis, April 12.—The most distinguished newcomer in the camp of the St. Louis Browns this spring is Dan H. Harmony, come-ran king of the Pull Together league.

Mr. Harmony rejoins the squad after a two years' absence, during which time a large and varied assortment of disturbances and grievances, mounting, in one memorable instance, to a near fist fight between one of the star players and the recently deposed manager, were privately recorded.

It will come as news to the baseball world at large that all has not been sunshine behind the scenes of the Browns. A smoldering dissatisfaction bore out the prediction of the experts that the Browns in 1922 and held at the doorsteps of managerial blueprints reached a climax of utter indifference last season. The boys played for their Base hits and pay checks.

The appointment of George Sisler as manager changed all. A terrific row with all the players. In many cases an outstanding star falls to make any sincere esteem of the losser lights. Sisler appeared doesn't. None of the lowness, not even the old birds who inevitably develops a hard philosophy be they few and extra years ahead of the young collegian his new honors.

He is a wanton worker. He writes that a team pulling together will make more progress than one which is trying to travel miscellaneously. Last year the Browns were disorganized. This year harmony is restored. Therefore, they should be an organized ball club, and if Sisler is able to play, as of old, the Browns will be a formidable contender.

Sisler thinks the Browns' greatest material improvement is in their reserves, a department in which glaring deficiences existed in the past. Tony Rego, a right shooter from the coast will strengthen the catching department. Fritz Schlichter, the veteran, will go to first again if Sisler can't. A whole mess of extra infielders are available.

Two extra outfielders will be carried to understudy the veteran combination of Williams, Jacobsen and Tobin. Young Bennett, a left-handed hitter, with a .336 average, is back from Tulsa and will stick. Joe Evans late of Cleveland and Washington, is on the pay roll, and will make frequent appearances as pinch hitter and base runner.

Bailey thinks well of three young pitchers—Wingard, a product of Alabama University; Lyons, a right hander from the coast, and Voight another northpaw who achieved distinction as an iron man with Denver last season, pitching 51 games. But in the main the staff will be made up of the veterans, Shocker, Danforth, Van Gilder et al.

Third base is still the Browns' big problem. Five men are after the job, including Gerber, Hazell and Robertson, who played the position at odd intervals last summer and Simon of San Antonia and Rice of Tulsa. Sisler wants to start Rice at third and has turned him over to Jimmy Austin, veteran coach, for development.

The Question

Not what the world is doing to you, but what have you done to it? That is the question that the player must be told—now for a test of your will!

let to do with the making of Dempsey.

Windsor managed Dempsey when Willie Meehan, Coast heavyweight, pretty prizefighter, selfishness and careless champion not so long before he annexed the heavyweight laurels. Windsor says Jack was not out of condition, but that he'd gotten simply bad rein in their eyes.

"The man who will beat Dempsey hasn't had a glove on yet!" is a favorite phrase of the Coast manager who once handled t he champion. And then he adds:

"Sure! He's right around in these Pacific Coast States some place. Good! I wish I run onto him!"

KINGSTON WINS 1924 PENNANT

May Wish to Know Where Fanatical C.O.B.L. Baseball Writers "Take it".

It is hardly time the "windy" baseball dopesters in the C.O.B.L. cities were rounded up by the "fool-catching" flu recently scared certain that they could not always get away with the "gaff" they were filling up their sport pages with.

Fred Craig of Peterboro has had enough of it and he comes to the front with a criticism of the local methods. Here it is, and as Belleville is not immune, better read it.

"There used to be an idea that the funniest stuff about baseball was written by Ring Lardner, but the author of "Letters of a Busher" will have to give way to the individual with the never-silent typewriter who in press-agenting the Kingston Ball Club into the Central League championship six days a week via the medium of the sporting columns of the Whig has been the limit.

This busy bee lines the other clubs in the Central circuit each day and then pictures the Daisy-Batsian-Evans combination riding triumphantly over them. He conceden Oshawa a slight chance, but Belleville Peterboro and Trenton even be detected on the horizon according to the Kingston dopester, who should, however, remember that both clubs have a habit of being somewhere round the finals each year.

"As far as Peterboro is concerned, the Petes don't believe in winning the honors before the season opens through the sporting pages. They prefer to let the team speak for itself when it goes into action, but for the benefit of our friends in the Limestone City it might be mentioned that preparations are being quietly made for a Peterboro team to represent Peterboro. This city has won a flock of O.B.A.A. championships in the past two seasons, and good material has been developed. It is more than likely that a number of youngsters, who have come to the front will make the grade into Senior this year. At least they'll get who desires to try will be given every opportunity to make good, and there promises to be a keen fight for positions."

Why help Heckman carry the pitching burden a left-handed hewer, now to this circuit is available, and in the twirling department the Petes will not have to doff their hats to any club in the League. Mike Synon will do the receiving, and "Hap" Harrison, back in his territory, will be able to take part in practices and games, promises to be a lower of strength at first base.

The squad will start practice as soon as weather conditions warrant and a number of exhibition games will be arranged.

SOFT BALL BECOMES A POPULAR PASTIME

Soft ball is fast becoming popular with ball fans of the city. The league schedule consists of a series of twelve games, six of which have already been played. The games are played at the armouries every Wednesday night at 7.45 and 8.45. Four teams comprise the league, namely: "Bears", C.N.R. Royals, Shoe Clerks and Expressmen. The remainder of the league games are as follows:

April 16—Expressmen vs. Shoe Clerks; Bears vs. C.N.R. Royals.

April 23—Expressmen vs. Royals; Bears vs. Shoe Clerks.

April 30—Shoe Clerks vs. Royals; Expressmen vs. Bears.

Pirates to Start With Same Outfit As In Past Year

Glen Wright, Minor League Sensation, Will Supplant Maranville

Pittsburgh April 12.—The team that will carry the hopes of Pittsburgh in the National League, for the 1924 year will be the Pirates of 1923. With one exception, shortstop.

Glen Wright of Kansas City, pronounced by all big league scouts as the best looking ball player in the minors, will supplant Rabbit Maranville at short.

Despite the fact that Maranville has been on the market all winter it looks very much as if he would play with the Pirates' lineup, simply shifting from short to second.

The Pirates finished third last season, four games back in Cincinnati, the runner-up, and eight and one-half games away from the pennant winning Giants.

Pirates an Improved Club

Manager Bill McKechnie is confident that his club will be far more formidable than it was in the pennant race, a star. Wright, in the opinion of the Pirates' manager, should improve then the club's infield at least 25 per cent.

The experience of last season is figured to greatly improve the play of Fred Bassman at first, making him the outstanding man at that position in the National League.

Strong in Substitutes

The belief that the Pirates will not be the victim of as much hard luck this year and will be able to be in the fight regularly.

The hope that the shifting of Maranville to second will help that position. For some years second base has been more than a headache with the Pirates.

The fact that the Pittsburgh club is better equipped with capable substitutes than any other team in the National League.

It has long been an accepted truth that baseball club is the strongest than its substitutes. Pittsburg has several new players in reserve for every position.

"My team finished third last year," says McKechnie, "but I have improved with age and benefited by experience. We should be ready to make the running for the Giants this summer."

Nationals Can Boast of Star Pitching Staff

Griffith's Veteran Boxmen Enthusiastic over Rookies

Tampa, Fla.—Here in the Washington camp the talk of pitchers, as it is in practically every camp in the south. It is the talk of the great young pitchers, and you hear it from the lips of great old pitchers.

Jack Chesbro, Clark Griffith, Nick Altrock and Walter Johnson, three ago the veteran Washington who sit with you on the practice field and warm with prophetic praise.

Chesbro, one of the greatest spitball pitchers of all time, now Washington coach, nods his silver head in approval. "That boy will be a right hander warming up with Ruel.

"And Fred Marberry, who came up from Little Rock last year," he tells you. "That boy will be one of our big winners this year; he has plenty of stuff, a fine curve and is as nervy as a Ford driver."

You watch Marberry and recall that he pitched a notable game against the Yanks last year, shutting them out with three or four hits and fanning the Babe twice.

Griffith, the old fox of a bygone day, distributes as his place treks Dangreau. Dan Marberry a towering bean pole, who is up for his third trial with the Senators. McGrew has a sinuous windup and when he unfolds, the batter seems to come somewhere and is on the batter before he realizes it.

KEN COLLING TO MICH-ONT LEAGUE

According to a story which appeared on Friday's Kingston Standard, Kenneth Colling, local baseball umpire has made a leap this year as it is stated that he will be an arbitrator in the Michigan-Ontario League.

Communities of note report the Standard says:

It is very likely that there will be a re-arrangements of the moment of the umpires, owing to the fact that K. O. Colling of Belleville has been engaged by the Michigan-Ontario League, and if he stands the gaff at the start of the season, he will work throughout the season. The London Free Press, discussing the appointment of five new umpires to the M.O. League, who include "Babe" Sheppard of Toronto and Colling, says:

"Four of the new members of the staff come to us from circuits highly recommended. The fifth, K. J. Colling is of unknown quality. He has had only amateur experience. He will be given a neutral and physical test before the season starts. If he fails he will be replaced at once."

Giants' Leader Forced to Keep Bentley In Box

Lack of Pitching Material is Given as the Reason

New York—Only the fact that he needs pitchers and has a competent first baseman in George Kelly keeps Manager McGraw, of the New York Giants, from using Pitcher Jack Bentley at the initial corner.

Bentley likes to play first base. Bentley does not like to pitch. Manager McGraw know just how Bentley feels about it, would like to shift him to first base, but weakness in pitching department keeps him from doing so.

Bentley is a dangerous batsman. He proved that conclusively in his National League debut last season. While Bentley is not a great pitcher his style is peculiarly effective against certain clubs and McGraw picked the spots for him last summer to great advantage.

Regarding his days of starring for the Baltimore club, in the International league, Manager Dunn handed Bentley much as McGraw is doing, except that he always used Bentley as a first baseman when not pitching him. One year while pitching against clubs that were weak at the bat, Bentley lost only one game in the International league.

Were not George Kelly such a good fielder and dangerous batter, McGraw would probably use Bentley exclusively at first base.

It is a rather interesting fact that Babe Ruth and George Sisler two of the outstanding stars of the American league, entered that organization as pitchers, only to be played elsewhere regularly because of their hitting.

You can serve one hot dish if you wish and you will find the youngsters are on the waiting. After the coffee the tables are cleared and the fun will of course a couple of prizes for the winners.

You might have canapes instead of soup and as you are having a party that is roast chicken or turkey. Or you can serve oyster or chicken patties with a dainty salad. A simpler course and equally delicious, if somewhat dearer, is prettily garnished, is jellied chicken in individual moulds with well seasoned scalloped potatoes. Pass dinner rolls and relishes instead of cocktail straws. For the dessert leave some sort of ice with cake or fruit and coffee. With the coffee last may be served dainties, chocolates, bon bons, etc. Be sure to entertain your own sex and if you start at six o'clock it provides for an early leave taking, about 10 o'clock.

Mrs. T. "Liver Trouble so Severe I Had to Quit Work"

Mr. Thos. Hussey, Brantford, Ont., writes:
"I was a great sufferer from torpidity of the liver for ten months, and finally I had to quit work. I would wake up in the morning with a bitter taste in my mouth, had frequent headaches, yellow complexion, and pain in my right side, and between the shoulder blades. It was almost unbearable, and terribly weakening. I could not sleep at night and my heart also bothered me. But the whole trouble has now left me, thanks to that wonderful medicine, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

MUSIC HATH CHARMS!

Belleville ought to be proud of its musical talent. A town of this size that can put on the Messiah so acceptably is to be earnest if it wrests a little, "a Hen Roost," so to speak, covertly stared by the Presto Music Club is by another proof, if proof were needed, that there is real musical talent in our midst.

"THE DIVINE SARAH"

Sarah Bernhardt, has a wonderful marble bath installed in her dressing room at her own theatre in Paris. She sometimes used to take baths at a moments notice occasionally between the acts; and had a habit of keeping the audience waiting as long as half an hour while she revelled in the luxury of her marble bath.

On such occasions she merely announced that she was feeling ill; and so when she reappeared she was received with a sympathetic cheer.

MATRIMONIAL VENTURES OF CANADIAN GIRL

Mrs. Jean Nash, whose engagement to Baron Rudolf von Thomas Verbelong has just been announced, is described as the world's most extravagant woman. Mrs. Nash is an old Toronto girl who at the age of 18 eloped with 18 year old John Kerwin. The marriage was annulled. Later she married a son of Sir Clifford Sifton's but they were divorced in 1916 and she became the bride of Capt Nash in 1919. Baron Verbelong is a Geneva artist.

THERE ARE NONE IN BELLEVILLE!

German engineers have been experimenting for sometime, trying to put out a car using much less fuel than at present. They use the principle of steam lining, in order that the motor may be the least possible resistance to the wind. The one we saw illustrated is like a cucumber, cruising and looks like a streak that might be used in an advertising stunt. The tenuous resemblance the cabin of a Zeppelin airship. There is no protuberance anywhere and the headlamps and radiator are sunk within the body of the car. The rims of wheels are faired into inclosing discs, and the doors are so low that no steps are needed. It is "levelled and wonderfully made "and had I met one before I should certainly have "taken to cover."

A Little Sense And Nonsense

SPRING SONG

This fantastic word weaver
Can never quite believe
Working like the silly beaver,
For a degree and fever,
In such wonderful weather,
Makes it seem a sin
Toiling over the leather,
When the sun is in
We've got spring fever.

Now comes the season so fatal to gin-manufacturers, Jackie, our versatile reporter, says, but it is less than ten days in his last summer. He attended every funeral at Belle Ewart.

OUR OWN HEALTH HINTS

Take a shower now and then and avoid bathing like a tourist.

"Setting Up" exercises keep you on your feet.

What is the correct etiquette in a barber shop, if you're next and there's only room for one chair.

Dear Perplexed: Hand the lady your card paper, politely, carefully and say: Here, madam, read this while you're having your ferdinings.

If this krewe up we'll soon have to have stag barber shops labelled, "For Men Only."

The blue-bird's chirp
Doesn't make me glad;
The robins' twitter
Makes me mad.
Their music makes me squint,
For I'm the poor worm.

THE POOR CUCKOO

"Isn't the cuckoo a lovely bird?" chirped the sweet young thing.
"Yes, the cuckoo!" roared the married man.
"Why?"
"Well, when I got home last night my wife asked me what time it was and I said, 'Twelve o'clock,' and the darn cuckoo clock cuckoo-ed three times and he had to cuckoo the other nine times or it'd made me out a liar."

NEXT

Which is it correct to say: TO EAT soup, or to DRINK soup?
Dear Worried: Neither. Say, soupetite. Some people YODEL soup.

The potato bug season will soon be here. If you have not sufficient green, sprinkle bootleg whiskey on the crop.

AND THE TALK

Dear Sir: I am afraid my little boy is going to become a stammerer. Lately I have noticed that he has developed a habit of repeating words and phrases. Listen to what he said last night:
"An nole giant round tight up on the porch and I felled him down with my two hands and deaded him."
What do you think about it?
E. B.
Dear E. B.—Well, he certainly has the imagination.

The returned fresh- air kid was telling his mother of the wonders of the country.
"And say, ma, ma, he said, "out at Farmers, they get milk from cows, and it's just as good talk as any."

THE SAME THING

"And he said he was willing to die for me."
"Not exactly in those words, but that was the impression he was evidently trying to convey."
"What did he say?"
"He said he was ready to eat your cooking any time you said the word."

Too many people guess about their eyes

In fact I believe most folks do that. It seems they try to make themselves believe they have normal sight, rather than submit to an examination to learn the true condition of their eyes. LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

"Are you—are you ill, sir?" she asked.

Jack forced a smile.

"Not a bit," he said. "Only tired. I'm afraid you are, too, Miss Vane."

She was standing, but she jumped again, and very timidly drew nearer.

"I'm—I'm sure you are ill," she said tremulously. "Let me—can't I get something? You—you look very ill when I was ill." She colour rose in her face, and her eyes implored him mutely.

He put out his hand and caught her arm to stay her.

"No, no," he said. "You are very kind—kinder than I deserve. I'm all right. Good-night."

She stood looking up at him while one could count twenty, then she sighed, and turned away slowly.

Jack closed the gate and tramped back through the new downy fields to the cottage; and Bob followed softly with dropping head, for he knew that his beloved master was unhappy about something.

Jack sank into a chair and looked round wistfully; then he laughed grimly and patted the dog, whose head lay on his knee.

"Yes; we've got to clear out, Bob," he said. "It's my own fault, old chap. We must get on the tramp again, old chap! It's rough on you—for you were happier here, I myself, with Ethel there's no help for it. We'd better pack up to-morrow. I can't take you into the comfort."

The dog and began to get his few things together in a mechanical fashion; for Jack had taught him to do that if he were sifting.

"Ethel, Bob, isn't it? Well take a turn in the woods—for the last time, the last time!"

Bob gave a short bark of approval; no doubt thinking that the last time might not mean deerfield in the open air, and Jack, instead of taking up his gun, went out. His brain was too busy racing to clear from the confusion which had fallen upon it, to think of his rifle, and along with best head, he was asking himself whether there was any escape from the misery which lay before him. He knew that there was no one to blame but himself, and that it would fast him all his life, and he should live.

"Once or twice I've fancied that I've been hit," he mused "but it was quite fancy and passed off like Nettie's mistake but this time it is no fancy, and I've got it badly; and it's hopeless! If I had—done what I did to-night, and behaved like a brute, I might have hoped to win her. But no, would never have stooped to marry a man so far beneath her as I think I am, and I couldn't have told her what I am. That would have been worse still, for her pride, my—what—self-respect as a female Lucifer, bless her! I love her with all my heart—as good as have been up arms, and she would die rather than marry me. Well think I'll only asked her so that she shouldn't lose the chance of a husband, what a mean it is! But it doesn't matter; I've settled my hash with myself once and for all, and that's over. I think that's all—I've done what—what I can!"

He stopped and wiped the drops of sweat from his forehead, and his hand and drawn, as if he were suffering physical pain—and looked round him, and at the glimpse of the Tower, which could see through the trees.

"And yet perhaps there is no such thing as luck!" he muttered, bitterly. "Here I am, with just a little money, and so I'm doomed to a tramp's life, and there's Vane and Ethel, who have only no chance of winning her, but I've got to stand by and see them—Well, I've done—What's that?"

For a dog had caught sight of something moving lightly behind a tree, and Bob had uttered a low and warning growl.

"One of those poaching thieves, I suppose. Dirty—"

He only knew, he could blame away at something, and Bob's growling trouble stop him. I'd better go and see—though I'm not sure that I've added, grimly.

But as he went towards the spot, Bob's growl changed to a bark of welcome, and he ran forward. In another moment Jack saw that it was Nettie. She was standing erect as an arrow, the moonlight falling on her face, which as if carved in stone; a statue of wounded pride and resentment, in Jack's eyes.

He stopped dead short, and was about to turn and walk away, but the longing to hear her speak, even though it were in anger and scorn, mastered him, and he went slowly to her. It was very probable she would not speak to him, and she would fend off him. Afraid of him! It was a bitter reflection, and made his heart ache to cry out; but, to his surprise and relief, she waited for him, her grey eyes, violet now, fixed upon him steadily.

He took off his hat and held it in his hand. She could not see his face distinctly, for his back was to the moonlight, but the action was not lost upon her. He had bared his head for shame; here was that much of grace in his nature, at any rate. Within a couple of paces of her he stopped and looked at her in silence for a moment, and

Maple Pie Pudding

"Maple Pie Pudding—½ lb. dried figs ¾ cup maple syrup, ½ cup boiling water, ¾ cup flour, 1¼ tspn. B. powder, ½ tspn. salt, 1½ tspns. sugar, 1 tbsns. butter, 8 tbspns. milk.

Soak figs in cold water till soft, then cut in halves. Place in buttered baking dish; mix maple syrup and half the water and pour over figs. Cover dish and steam ½ hour. In the meantime make a dough mixture as follows, mix together and sift the flour, B. powder, salt and sugar. Cut in the butter and when well blended add the milk sufficient to make a soft dough. Remove dish from steamer, cover figs with the dough, cover the dish, return to steamer and steam for another one hour. This pudding should be eaten hot and may be served with whipped cream, although the fig syrup in the steamer makes a rich sauce in itself. (Delicious).

On Tuesday morning next the Judges will meet and it is hoped will be able to announce, the winners in the next Saturday's paper.

POEMS Old And NEW

ANN HATHAWAY

"But were it to my fancy given
To rate her charms, I'd call them best
For though a mortal made of clay,
Angels must love Ann Hathaway;
She hath a way so to controul,
To capture the imprisoned soul,
And loosen and entwine the earth display,
That to be heaven Ann hath a stay;"
And, I think, I must notshirt,
Cept you.

I ain't seen nobody
I ain't seen nobody
I ain't loved nobody,
I ain't loved nobody.

But if you'll love me,
I'll love you.
I'll love you more'n tho'
I won't do.

'Cause I ain't got nothin,'
I ain't got nothin' to give,
And I don't want nothin'
'Cept you.

X-RAY INDICATED CANCER; RELIEVED BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Splendid Fruit Medicine Performs Another Miracle.

The inestimable value of "Fruit-a-tives" can best be appreciated when ill-completely relieves some dangerous, deadly ailment that is sapping the life and strength of the sufferer. After reading this letter, it is easy to understand why Mrs. Glover was glad to write about "Fruit-a-tives" in the hope that her experience would guide others to try this wonderful fruit medicine.

"For years, I was a sufferer with constipation, Indigestion and Dyspepsia; the stomach pains were dreadful and finally my health broke down completely. After five X-rays had been taken, I was told that my condition strongly resembled Cancer of the Stomach and an immediate operation was necessary. Dreading an operation, I consulted other physicians but grew steadily worse. I had almost given up hope when I decided to try "Fruit-a-tives" recommended by many friends.

Immediately my condition began to improve. Pains disappeared, sour Dyspepsia and constipation were things of the past. After a few months I was perfectly well again and have been in the best of health for over a year now." Mrs. ANNIE GLOVER, 16 Henry Street, Ottawa.

Just try "Fruit-a-tives"—let them prove their real worth. 25c and 50c a box, at all dealers or post paid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

We are living in days when implements of power hitherto unthought of are in force, what with tractor-plows and cultivators, dynamite to dislodge rigs impervious and hard stratas, artificial irrigation, we are able to bring the most stubborn and unfertile soil into a condition that will enable it to bring forth fruit in abundant measure, and so rewards those who skillfully and actively cultivate the friendship of the soil.—Edwin Markham, (In The Florists' Exchange).

BIRDS IN GARDEN

By W. E. Saunders, Director, Ontario Horticultural Ass'n.

The many economic reasons why we should encourage the wells and residence of birds in our gardens, pale before the great aesthetic reason. We want birds for the same reason that we want flowers, namely for our own enjoyment. And of course they really are so. Perhaps none others are so useful in keeping down insects as those that come in the winter; Chickadee, Downy and Hairy Woodpeckers and the White Breasted Nuthatch. These bundles of concent activity if attracted to our gardens by suet, or seed, and tied on a slab, will live with us day after day and week after week during the cold weather when other species in absent in much of their time will be spent hunting over our trees and shrubs for insect eggs, and ill'one has a fair population of winter birds, he is almost certain to have a sparse lot of insects to begin the year with.

When the Spring comes, we greet with joy the return of the songsters from the southlands, and we are lucky if our bird house, erected and hold a pair of House Wrens, whose incessant bubbling songs ought to cheer even the vegetables to do their best. Wrens are rather strange in their selection of a nesting site, and it is well for the bird lover to be prepared to offer them a choice of nest boxes, as the house that suited the female that was with us last year may not be the thing in the estimation of the latest arrival. So, in my own place, they always find at least two types of house ready May, but it is not necessary to give them another if the preferred style for their second brood, as when they are once wedded to a location they are less likely to move in the middle of the season. But all birds' nests are loose while the young are growing and it naturally follows that all birds prefer to use a new nest for their second brood, A bird may use the same nest in successive years, after the lice have been killed by the cold but in summer they want a new house, and if we want them to raise their second and third broods in our gardens it is vital that we offer them that cleanliness they desire. When unmolested, their tameness becomes almost startling. They are apparently unconcerned when a person stands only four feet from them and I fancy that a spider offered from the fingers would be soon accepted by a Wren as a saw the gardener daily.

One may have much pleasure, and learn a good deal about the nearby bird population by hanging in the shrubs at the garden such things as pieces of cotton, cotton cloth, cotton batting, etc. The neighboring birds will find everything that is suitable for their nests, and come again and again till the nests are complete. One friend got so many Orioles around his place in the country that he could not tell accurately how many there were, just by such means, and that result awaits the dweller in small villages and in the country.

CHEVROLET
is Easily Within Reach of All

NEVER before in the history of the automobile industry has such car value been possible. And it is possible now, only because the Chevrolet Car and Chevrolet business principles have been so universally and so favorably received. Chevrolet production has, as a result, rapidly grown in volume until now Chevrolet is the world's largest manufacturer of quality automobiles.

Chevrolet quality is more than apparent. For, the more closely Chevrolet is examined and the more severe the tests demanded, the more convincingly is Chevrolet quality demonstrated and proved.

Moreover, day by day continuous service brings out another economy equal, if not greater in importance, than Chevrolet's remarkably low first cost. Chevrolet is more economical to operate than any other car built and its maintenance cost is the lowest in the world.

Investigate Chevrolet yourself. Have us demonstrate the model that suits your needs. We can arrange terms that will surely fit your circumstances.

Have you any Symptoms of Kidney Trouble?

YOU may be one of the many thousands of people who have kidney trouble, yet are unaware of the fact. Read this list of symptoms carefully. If you have any of them, you are suffering from kidney trouble.

- Pain in the back, in the region of the kidneys.
- Swollen hands and joints.
- Dark rings around the eyes.
- Brick dust deposits in the urine.
- Black specks floating before the eyes.
- Too frequent or scanty urine.
- Puffiness beneath the eyes.
- Burning sensation when voiding urine.

It is useless to treat these symptoms. You need Gin Pills. They get at the cause of the trouble—the kidneys. Gin Pills aid these organs to rid the blood of all impurities and so rid you of all aches and pains. Don't wait until more serious troubles arise—get Gin Pills now. They are the one specific remedy for kidney disorders.

The Letter Box

To The Editor:—

Re the messenger to the President—Please let me suggest that it be carried out with the greatest and finest display possible because this event is not local but national and should be done in a manner and style that would do credit and honor to the nation.

I would suggest that a fine specimen of Canadian girlhood or young womanhood who is a thorough horsewoman be sent mounted on as fine a mount as the great Toronto horsemen can supply, which I have no doubt they would be delighted to offer. Let her be escorted by two gendarmes. Just give your imagination free range and examine what a sensation this would produce in Yankeeland. Yours,

D. H. ACKERILL, V. S.

SPRING IMPURITIES DUE TO POOR BLOOD

A Tonic Medicine a Necessity at This Season

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an all-year-round tonic for the blood and nerves. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is loaded with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months. There is no other season when the blood is so much in need of purifying and enriching, and every dose of these pills helps to enrich the blood. In the spring one feels weak and tired—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give strength. In the spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills develop the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions and boils—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In the spring, anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia and many other troubles are most prevalent because of poor, weak blood and it is at this time when all nature takes on new life that the blood most seriously needs attention. Some people doctor themselves with purgatives, but these only further weaken themselves. A purgative merely rallies through the tem, emptying the bowels, but does not help the blood. On the other hand Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood which reaches every organ of the body, bringing new strength and vigor to weak, easily tired men, women and children. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this spring—they will not disappoint you.

MASTER SIX MODEL, 24-45 SPECIAL

Comfort in Any Weather

Safety for Emergencies

SOLID COMFORT is the inevitable result of McLaughlin-Buick mechanical perfection — the comfort of a car properly balanced — the comfort of deep upholstering — genuine leather, of course. Protection against wind, rain and cold provided by the snug-fitting side curtains made with overlapping flaps to keep out the strongest breeze, giving closed car comfort in a touring model. Complete protection against the unforeseen emergency—the protection of McLaughlin-Buick tested Four-Wheel Brakes, which reduce the stopping distance by half and eliminate skidding. Such is the protection afforded by this new Master Six Touring.

In addition there is the knowledge that no detail of comfort or convenience has been overlooked in the designing of "Canada's Standard Car". C-30

PLANNING YOUR EASTER ATTIRE?

What does one think of first—a Coat—a Suit or Dress—a Hat? It depends on the state of the wardrobe, and with that in mind we suggest, for those with a clothes problem—

SpringCoats

Sport effects, wrappy types and slim, boyish models in Camel's hair and soft surfaced wools. Sand and tan shades in plain and over checked patterns. Poiret twills in navy, new greys and sand shades. An interesting collection. The prices $15, $18 and slowly to $75.00.

NEW Tailored Suits

Box effects and the new longer line coats with some severely tailored models — developed in Poiret Twill, Gabardine and Novelty Checks, lined with crepes and satins.

Probably the best values shown in Belleville this season. $25.00 and slowly up to $55.00.

HANDSOME Imported DRESSES

Straight to Ritchie's from New York come these lovely frocks, softly pleated frocks for tea dance—graceful satins and flat crepes for reception or bridge—They show such clever styling as tiered collars, patterned pleatings, smart rows of buttons, fancy embroideries. Studies in Cocoa, Biege, Armande, Green, Navy and Black.

BLUNDERS

WHY IS THIS WRONG?

Thousands of letters are delayed in delivery from two to ten hours in big cities because business men do not place their return street address on letterheads and envelopes. Even though a company may be an important one, all postal employees do not have its address committed to memory. Consequently its mail will surely be delayed if persons who must reply to its letters are given no street address.

SMITH HANDED TO ATTORNEY-GENERAL

PEACE HOPE IN GERMANY IS BOOSTED

Settlement Is Closer Than Ever Before, London Thinks

ALLIED PARLEY SOON

Macdonald and Poincare in Busy Interchange, for Common Ground

London, April 14—Foreign Office officials were optimistic this afternoon that the reparations situation is nearer a settlement than at any time since the armistice.

Great Britain has been informally advised that Germany is willing to accept the Dawes plan as the basis for negotiations.

Conference Soon

An Inter-Allied conference is expected shortly, possibly before the end of this month.

Meantime, Premier Ramsay Macdonald is engaged in a lively interchange of view with Paris.

It is intimated the French viewpoint is more that of Britain than at any time since the war.

Berlin Favor Grows

Berlin, April 14—While the German representatives who will appear before the Allied Reparations Commission in Paris next Thursday are expected to make strong protests against certain phases of the Dawes plan, opinion grew today that Germany will eventually accept it.

The Cabinet is making all possible speed in digesting all details of the plan.

On Monday there will be a plenary meeting of all the German Premiers when the plan will be discussed in detail.

It is certain that Germany would readily accept an invitation to an international conference based upon the Dawes plan.

Narrow Escape In Motor Blaze

While driving his Ford sedan in Prince Edward County on Friday afternoon last, J. D. Nelson, fuel dealer at 323 Front street, this city, narrowly escaped serious injuries from fire which totally consumed the car.

Nelson was driving along the road, when without warning a flame shot up from the engine, and before he could stop the car make a getaway, his clothing had been badly burned and he had sustained severe burns about the face. He quickly rushed away from the flaming machine, but was powerless to stop the fire. The car was completely burned.

THE WEATHER

POLICE ACTIVE IN WARFARE ON BANK RAIDERS

Officials of Province Aroused by Recent Attacks by Masked Bands

BAR ON ARMS

Agitation Renewed to Cut off Transmission of Weapons Through Mail

Toronto, Ont., April 14.—The police of the entire province have been aroused to new efforts to prevent raids on banks and other places by armed bandits since the robbery of the messengers of the Bangor, Hochelaga in Montreal, when the bandits got away with more than $142,000 in cash and liberty bonds of the messengers.

One of the robbers was shot and killed, and a wallet was found in his pockets enabled the police to land several other members of the gang some of whom were caught red-handed with the stolen money in their pockets.

It has developed that a number of the crooks were under arrest in Toronto last year, but they managed by securing clever lawyers, and telling a plausible story to gain their liberty, though they were released out on bond. They were found in the possession of half a dozen automatic revolvers and other weapons that convinced the police they were no good.

Chicago Old Guns

Their apprehension now has prevented an agitation to have the transmission of weapons through the mails or by railways and express companies prohibited. Many pamphlets that are circulated in Canada carry advertisements for small pocket pieces in Chicago and New York offering to sell what is known as the out-dated gun at a cheap price, and to deliver it by mail or express. Effort of this sort are now being made to Ottawa, and it is probable that in the future no weapons will be carried by the post office department or the express services.

Hope was also held out by the police a system whereby the moment a robbery has taken place all roads leading out of the city will be automatically cut off. It is proposed in Toronto to erect guardhouses everywhere at the city limits, and at bridges. Each guardhouse would be a sort of miniature police station, where patrolmen could report, and where there would always be at least two armed constables.

Two left, Hon. Peter Smith's home in Stratford, which has been picketed this week by four detectives on orders, they say, of the Ferguson government. Top right: The Stratford plant of Glass and Mines, Ltd., Mr. Smith's present business man. Bottom: Mr. Smith in his auto chaff-one of the detectives on duty out side his house.

Yelp of Wolf, Growl of Bear Was Welcome of the Loyalist

Mayor Mikel Tells Kingston Kiwanis Some Facts About Canada — Every Child Lost Through Leaving Country Means Loss of $2,000

(Special To The Intelligencer)

Kingston, April 14.—Mayor W. C. Mikel, K.C., was the speaker at the Kiwanis Club today. Mayor Mikel is the man behind the celebration that Belleville is to put on in June in connection with the 160th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists.

A brief history of the founding of Upper Canada prefaced the remarks of Mayor Mikel, stating that 200 years ago the first white man set foot on the soil near which Kingston now stands, still it was fifty-nine years later that Champlain, with 120 canoes and 400 men conquered the wild tribes and settled Fort Frontenac.

Kingston Favored

It was from that beginning that Kingston was formed, and like flung boys it has taken place all roads leading out of the city will be automatically cut off. It is proposed in Toronto to erect guardhouses everywhere at the city limits, and at bridges. Each guardhouse would be a sort of miniature police station, where patrolmen could report, and where there would always be at least two armed constables.

Welcome of Loyalists

Usually the European veteran, returning home, are warmly received, much given them and their lessons propagated. The only welcome of the Loyalist was the yelp of the wolf and the growl of the bear, the only decoration the dense gloom of the virgin forests, the only felicitation of loyalty is on history's pages, as it was these men that made it possible to have a British North American. In honoring men and women like these we are honoring ourselves, stated Mayor Mikel.

The 160th anniversary of the coming of the United Empire Loyalists is to be held in Belleville this year. The time is the week commencing June 16 and the U.E.L. hope that every citizen and around Kingston will be able to attend this celebration.

WOLVES AND BEARS BECOMING BOLDER

Lindsay, April 14—Wolves and bears are plentiful in the north part of the city of Victoria County and in Haliburton that they actually penetrate the villages and hamlets—Last Wednesday, Mrs. Allen, who lives on Kinmount discovered a big black bear in his chicken feed. A number of sheep had disappeared mysteriously, and the bear was tried solved the mystery. Allen despatched Bruin with his rifle.

On Monday afternoon had a timber wolf trailed a deer across the south end of Hall's Lake in Haliburton and the same night a pack of wolves crossed the lake at the settlement of Big Gull river and made a raid on the ash of Robb Oliver's house a week ago.

ANNIVERSARY OF CHURCH IS HELD

The congregation of Bridge Street Methodist Church yesterday commemorated the 106th anniversary of the establishment of that historic church. Large congregations were present at both services and all entered heartily into the services. Rev. H. S. Osborne, B.A., D.D., Pastor of the Central Methodist Church, Toronto was the preacher at the day and his able discourses were much appreciated. The Reverend gentleman was a former Pastor of Bridge Street Church from 1912 to 1916 and during his pastorate accomplished much for the church which in every Rev. Mr. Osborne's text was Isaiah Xxxvi, 4th chapter and 12th verse.

"Therefore to him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

The divine impressed upon all the necessity for doing good and the results of which follows by not doing good. We sin against God and ourselves when we do not do that which is right. That was the theme of a masterly discourse.

Special music was furnished by the choir. Solos were rendered by Mrs. McKinnon, soprano, and Mr. Anderson, by the choir, Prof. V. P. Hunt, organist also gave two organ preludes.

SAFETY LEAGUE MEMBER TELLS OF WORK DONE

Dr. Doolittle gives Constructive Address to Local Rotarians

VALUE OF SETTLERS

Every Canadian Life Saved Worth Far More than $5,000

Dr. Doolittle of the Ontario Safety League told how the League is working to reduce accidents and of the wonderful success it is having, at the Rotary luncheon today.

"The Government figures that each new settler in Canada is worth $2,000 to the country," he said "so that every good Canadian life saved should be worth a great deal more than that." Dr. Doolittle offered as proof of the League's success the fact that in Toronto in 1913 there were six deaths from automobile accidents for every one thousand cars owned; while in 1923, after ten years of safety education, the ratio was reduced to about one and a half per thousand cars in spite of the fact that the traffic congestion was enormously increased.

Safety propaganda was more effective with children than with adults because the children were more receptive and their habits were in the formative process. The value of teaching them safety habits could not be overestimated.

Other interesting facts about the decrease in industrial accidents were given, but the address was necessarily cut short to allow the showing of several reels on motion pictures bearing on the same subject. Tonight Dr. Doolittle addresses the Men of Empire.

First Prize at Halifax

A beautiful bell, won at first prize for attendance at the recent Halifax convention was formally presented to the local Rotary Club. Dan McMillan making the presentation. It is of splendid craftsmanship, suitably engraved and is a most prominent property of the club.

Dr. Charlie Reid, the genial new president briefly expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred on him and promised a lively year in Rotary work.

TO SPEND EASTER HOLIDAYS IN JAIL

Sauntering into a Front Street cafe on an early hour this morning, one a local young man has freedom of the city for a short time. He was arrested in the cafe on a drunk charge by P. C. Willard Fraser, who seemed to be inside, and to-day when he appeared before Magistrate Masson, he was remanded to the county jail until April 22, at the request of Chief Constable Ponton.

The story which aroused both of the men concerned in the disturbance was not believed by the Crown officers, and it is believed they were intent on a portion of it at least is false. They were attempting the cafe duty when show whether or not the young man is telling the truth.

"We have had too much of this sort of thing," explained Crown Attorney Dunnan. "We do not mind having it in the city, but when it comes to a point where it is necessary to bring witnesses from the country, it is time to call a halt."

The men arrested recently had been in the country, and making a back door entrance, finished the bottle. He then left the house and was arrested about 9, he returned to the house unnoticed by the police

LAUSANNE AND CANADA

Canada apparently has resolved to not attach her name to the treaty of Lausanne, but despite repeated references to the matter in the House of Commons and Senate here, there is still some doubt in the mind of the ordinary man as to just where this country stands in the case.

Premier MacDonald, of Great Britain, has stated that Canada was willing to sign if the imperial government were willing to validate the document, but Premier King declares that he had informed the British authorities that as Canada had no part in the negotiations, she did not feel she should be asked to sign the treaty, and that the MacDonald government had agreed with this.

There is a feeling that everything is not being told, and that though this dominion's name may not appear in public in the matter, there must be some ground for the assertion of the British premier that Canada is willing to sign. And yet, is seems impossible for this country to commit itself to the terms of the Lausanne treaty, as two years ago when Lloyd George and Winston Churchill were keen to go to war with the Turks, and they sent an invitation to Canada to join in the enterprise, Premier King, either through the pressure of his supporters, or because he himself felt that Canada had had enough of war for the next hundred years, informed the then British government that before this country could commit itself it would have to know what all the trouble was about.

The idea of war with Turkey was then dropped and the negotiations for the framing of the Lausanne treaty were gone on with. What the treaty amounts to, no one here seems to know. Premier King probably knows, but as a member of the imperial conference, his lips are sealed. Perhaps the MacDonald government may give him permission to speak, now that secret treaties are to be abolished, and then the people of Canada may learn to just what extent they have been committed to take part in the internal troubles of the continental Europeans.

On the surface, it seems that this country has come to the conclusion that in becoming a member of the league of nations Canada has gone as far as she should be expected to go in the matter of imperial entanglements, and that the Lausanne treaty is to be allowed to carry on with the signatures of the motherland and such of the dominions as feel they are morally bound to sign it. But it is taken for granted here that if Canada should sign the treaty she would be automatically committed to rush to war any time trouble breaks out in the Balkans, and judging by what is going on in Greece, Turkey and Bulgaria at present, it will not be long until "Mittel Europe" is making the fur fly.

PASSPORTS GRIEVANCE

The government of Canada is about to take up with the government of Great Britain, it is reported here, the matter of passports between this country and the motherland. Ever since the war Canadians who desire to go to England have been compelled to have passports, which means the paying of an irritating fee and the producing of two photos of the applicant, which are used for identification purposes. This was all well and good during the war, but the people of Canada have been under the impression that the war is over, and they want to go back to peace times and practices.

It has been drawn to the attention of members of the Canadian government that this year many thousand Canadians will be desirous of going to England to see the British Empire exhibition, and many are going to be put to much needless trouble if the passports are insisted upon. In fact, the railway and steamship companies believe that if the restrictions are not removed there will be a serious effect upon the attendance from Canada the big fair.

At the present time a resident of Canada who wants to visit England or for the matter almost any other part of the British empire, it is better and no worse than the residents of the United States, Russia or Siam. It is pointed out here that the reason for keeping the British out of the Canadian people is the desire of many passport officials to fleece them of their jobs.

A point that particularly irritates the people is the fact that until recently the fee was only $2, but now it has been jerked up to $5. But worse than the fee is the insistent demands of the passport officials to know all about a man's business if he wants to cross the pond.

PRESS OPINIONS

HENRY TOLL ON HIGHWAYS

(Victoria Times)

With the broad open highways allotting their annual toll to the wanderlust fetish, Stewart, it is advisable to recall that every time the clock recorded thirty-five minutes last year a person was killed on the highways of this country. Each minute approximately three persons were injured.

STEADY PROGRESSION

(London Telegraph)

Bad philosophers may get to be very bad. The teaching sins of dramatic critics intensified, it is said, when becoming more vulgar; over-emphasis of gesture becomes ridiculous and repellent; Nietzsche's views led to the Great Dance becomes a glare; a sigh, a convulsion. The philosophy has been greedily exploited to pander to what was supposed to be the public lore of bad melodrama.

ANNEXING UNDESIRABLES

(Minneapolis Journal)

It would be rash to prophesy the annexation of parts of Mexico or its whole to the United States. Yet it is not thinkable so rich a country, over its essential to the world's economy, can be left to wither in revolt, revolution, banditry, semi-anarchy. Even our easy going and long-suffering United States cannot indefinitely permit a province China to torment across our border.

VAUDEVILLE METHODS

(Toronto Mail and Empire)

No doubt any clergyman who wish to draw people to his church' Billy Sunday lures vast mobs by methods that have been known to the whole world-ville, but there are hardly to be called imitators. Most preachers are at their best way when they are obliged to adapt the methods of the old-fashioned vendor of patent medicines to fill their pews.

THE VALUE OF EDUCATION

(New York Evening Post)

Fortunat Rosseli, whose name is visiting New York for the first time since 1914 when Rosseli was in some matters, but to one respect he is an ultra-conservative—he believes in the power of education. This is decidedly cheering at a moment when we are being assured that any idea or institution more than five years old belongs with the quill pen and the spinning wheel. If there is anything in this world that is negatively ancient, it is education. Like other human activities, it has always fallen short of what was expected of it. Yet our visitors who confessed to small respect for the present organization of society, retains his faith in education. What he may say upon this subject will be watched with interest in view of the struggle between politics and merit going on in the public.

COURTESY OF THE STAR

By Roger M. Bryant, Radio Engineer Westinghouse and Lamp and Manufacturing Company

You are all familiar with the expression "the rules of the game." It refers to that great accumulation of unwritten laws governing the conduct of everything in any branch of sport. A man who lives up to these laws is known as a "good sport" and enjoys the respect of all who know him. Such a man would never take an unfair advantage over his opponent even when to do so might make the difference between winning and losing the game. In other words, it is the practical application of the "golden rule." We see it everywhere. At the theater, the injunes remove their hats so that the people in that group can see more easily. At the concert, only the thoughtless care talk or whisper during the playing of a number.

Now let us see how the rules of the game apply to radio reception. Every right several hundred broadcasting stations send out their concert available. The expense involved in providing these broadcasting stations is great or than the average man suspects. But for the most part this entertainment is free to all who possess a radio receiving set. That it is free does not alter our obligations to the other members of the audience who have paid for it that we may have undisturbed enjoyment of say program they may select as we have. Unfortunately such is not the case at the present time. There are many people who are just as much annoyance to their radio neighbors as the man who keeps talking in the theater to those around him at the movies. And most of them do not realize that they are the source a disturbance. At the concerts in Carnegie Music Hall, the ushers are very careful to see that no audiences do not create a disturbance, but it is seldom that one of them has to act. It would be impossible to keep anyone watch over the vast radio audience but there should be no more need for it than there is in Carnegie Hall. Any of you who have had experience with me that the radio listeners have is many times worse than we do create in a music hall. The question is what can we do about it?

It seems to me that there are three ways in which the interference can be eliminated, or at least greatly diminished. One way will occur to many people immediately and that is to legislate against the use of any receiving set that is capable of interfering. This could be explained that where two or three Broadcasting Stations are operating on the same wave length, you are able with a licensed set to listen to the station interfering. Mr. Lill pointed out the causes of Static, the difference between static and interference and the exceptional and success the reason for not bearing Static. Unfortunately this would prove clearly in Belleville is caused by the electrical storms one in the surround the country. Mr. Lill is a valuable member of club and his address was received favourably by all members present.

"THE MASQUERADER" UNUSUAL SCREEN ACCOMPLISHMENT

One of the remarkable characterizations in "The Masquerader," the Richard Walton Tully production starring Guy Bates Post, now at the Grand, is that given by the unusual child personation photography. Even to audiences that have witnessed a great deal of this trick work in decent films and that have been initiated into the device, the double exposure scenes in "The Masquerader" are a revelation. Of necessity, since the two leading roles of Claiborne and Lodge are both played by the star, much of the action requires between these two characters. Ordinarily they are several sequences of scenes in which one of the characters plays to the back of the other, hands him a cigarette and a light, gives him his drink—and even pushes him out of the room. It will be recalled that Tully is a practical theatrical inventor, having secured patents for several stage devices which he has employed in his various theatrical productions. With this experience and the assistance of such experts as Director James Young and Cinematographer Geo. Benoit, it was to be expected that the unusual double exposure photography would be seen in this film.

GIVES UP EASE, AFFLUENCE TO BE A POLICEMAN

Romance Lies Behind Uniform of Peterboro Chief

Peterbor, Ont., April 14.—Quite obviously Chief of Police Newhall of Peterboro realized the ambition of his boyhood—to become a policeman. Here is a story behind the uniform worn by the chief constable of this city. He relinquished a life of ease and affluence to gain his heart's ambition. His father, a rich retired business man, owns a fine estate in England, an estate that has acres of private greenhouses.

Chief Newhall first visited Canada in 1910 when his father sent him to Peterboro to settle a family squabble of relations. He returned immediately to England joining the metropolitan police force of London serving a few years and earning the medals for conspicuousness. For services rendered at a garden party to Queen Victoria he received a special medal.

From London to Liverpool he was transferred, where he had a hobby-horse beat on the docks. Next he appeared in Peterboro, but as there was no call there for the police force he went to Cuba and managed a plantation for three years. Hearing of an opening in Fort rhoro when a policeman was appointed police inspector. Newhall came back to Canada. Soon he was made chief detective under Chief Rogers, and finally landed the position himself of chief of police. That is the story of a persistent fight to attain the objective of a boyhood ambition.

CONTRAST IN PRICES

In 1539 a printed copy of the Bible was sold for a sum, the twentieth century equivalent of which would be fifty-four dollars. Gutenberg's copies respectively, for bound, or unbound copies. According to an estimate in 1845 a price had fallen to twenty-three dollars.

These old manuscripts, of which there are perhaps more than one hundred fifty extant, are now worth their weight in gold and more. Recently a valuation was made of 35,000. Old manuscripts of pre-printing days and the early printed copies are ranked among the most precious literary treasures of the world.

From the bookbinding standpoint the Bib Plus Red Letter Bible is the finest of them all. In times to come it may prove to be a unique thing as three others came to be but just now it is within the reach of all and should never be in the home. Look in another column for the offer this paper is making. Because of the limited number at the disposal of this paper only three coupons are required to be clipped.

Music & Drama

A human dynamo is the name applied to Johnny Hyde, the popular comedian. The reason is seen in his work, especially in his latest, "Johnny Jones," his latest starring vehicle, which opened a return engagement at Colson's play. He has managed to give more gag and more laughs than ever in this exhilerating play than one could imagine possible.

It is a Warner Brothers classic of the screen and is playing at the Regent theatre now.

Drugs Excite The Kidneys, Drink Water

TAKE SALTS AT FIRST SIGN OF BLADDER IRRITATION OR BACKACHE

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with poisonous uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish and the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead and your back hurts or you have dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then set fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus ending all distressing bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

BEAUTY SPOTS OF CANADIAN ROCKIES

Man and nature combine to provide a real out-of-doors holiday resort at Jasper National Park, Alberta, on the main line of the Canadian National Railways. Photograph shows a few of the beauty spots close to Jasper Park Lodge, the magnificent log cabin hostelry of the National System, which has been erected for the comfort and convenience of tourists who wish to make the most of the magnificent mountain scenery to be found within the borders of Canada's largest National Park.

Centre photograph shows Mount Edith Cavell, an imposing pile named in honor of Britain's heroic nurse. The darker colored mountain to the right of Cavell has appropriately been named Mount Sorrow. Mount Cavell, in addition to being the highest mountain in Jasper National Park, 11,033 feet high, is also one of the most beautiful from a scenic point of view.

From the motor road which leads from Jasper Park Lodge almost to the foot of the Cavell glacier, which, because of its peculiar shape, is known as the Glacier of the Ghost," a magnificent panorama of the Athabasca Valley is secured. Motor cars are available at the Lodge for the use of tourists at all times, and there are also numerous rock and saddle horses, which may be secured, together with the services of guides, by those who wish to wander from the beaten track and thus approach some of the mountains which are not within the reach of the motoring tourist.

HOTEL DEMAND GROWING FAST AS VOTE NEARS

Assumption of Part of 'Wet' Element to Unprecedented Demand

RESTRICTIONS

Past Convictions In O.T.A. Cases May Have Important Bearing

Toronto, Ont., April 14.—There is an unprecedented demand for standard hotel licenses in Ontario now, and for some weeks, desirable hotel properties all over the province have been at a premium. The reason is the assumption on the part of the "wet" element that the plebiscite on the question of selling liquors under government supervision is going to carry and that the end of the Ontario temperance act is in sight.

The provincial secretary's department has been busy answering inquiries as to what will be the attitude of the government on many important matters in case the plebiscite carries, and the attorney general's department has come out with a ruling that is of the greatest importance to those who desire to secure license, if liquor is again allowed to be sold. It is to the effect that no one who has had a conviction registered against him for any infraction of the Ontario temperance act need expect to be granted a license to run a hotel or other place where wine, beer or whiskey may be permitted to be sold.

Would Remove Restriction

This drastic declaration of policy seems to be in for much opposition, because some of the most prominent supporters of the government of Premier Ferguson have been hailed into court, not once but many times, for offences against the Ontario temperance act, and in the majority of instances, these offences consisted of taking a drink in a public place, or carrying a bottle in an automobile. Such persons do not consider themselves criminals in any sense of the word, and they are about to bring a mighty influence to bear on the whole Conservative party to have the restriction removed.

NIAGARA LINE IMPREGNABLE, DEALERS FIND

Dope Runners On Frontier Forced to "Hole-up" By Officials

PRISON DOES IT

Putting Offenders Behind Bars Instead of Issuing Heavy Fines

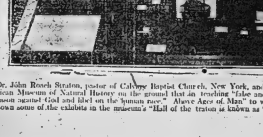

Bridesburg (Int.), April 14—If the statements of the officials on both sides of the Niagara river can be accepted at full value, the dope-running business over the Canadian Niagara frontier has been definitely eliminated. Investigation made by narcotic officials leads to the belief that conditions at a year ago have definitely changed.

At the present time it is not believed that any narcotics are moving into the States over the Niagara border. The prime cog weapon employed in putting an end to this international business is doing away with fines and making prison sentences the punishment for all offences of this nature.

Not a time, men and women were in the habit of making semi-weekly and weekly trips from Montreal and other eastern Canadian points to Buffalo, Rochester and other American cities, and as soon as their faces became familiar with U. S. immigration officials, they would disappear another route then running was made. That was generally the method used, small packages worth hundreds of dollars being illegally imported to the States in the course of a year.

Increased activity on the part of both American and Canadian officials has chased the runners away entirely from this district.

It is not believed that dope smuggling between the two countries has been definitely stopped, but it is the belief of officials that the application of the hardlining international boundary is being used.

Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, New York, and well known in Toronto, is attacking the American Museum of Natural History on the ground that an exhibit "false and brutal theories of evolution" is guilty of treason against God and libel on the human race." WILL TRY MAN IN FAR ROUMANIA

Evidence to be Sent From Canadian Court

Thorold, Ont., April 14.—The evidence in the case of Nick Rutka, wanted in connection with the murder of Adam Selton in Thorold township in 1922, has been taken before Police Magistrate John Goodwin in Crowland township and is to be forwarded to Rumania.

Rutka is the third man wanted in connection with the crime. Two others, his brother Harry and Nick Thomas, are now serving life terms.

Immediately after the crime Rutka fled to Rumania. Since that time the criminal investigation department of the Ontario police has never given up efforts to get him, but the Rumanian government has steadily refused to allow his extradition on the ground that he is innocent until/is proven guilty and that he is entitled to the sanctuary of his native land until that time.

Inspector Albert Stringer, of the department, therefore, has procured all details relating to the case, statements of the other men involved and will personally take the evidence to Rumania.

The Rumanian authorities will try him on the murder charge there, but if found guilty it is unlikely he will be turned over to the Ontario authorities for sentencing.

Germany Angry France Is Hurt, Britain Agrees

International Conference to Be Resumed—Much Depends Upon Elections in Germany

London, April 12.—Great Britain will accept unquestionably the recommendation for settlement of the European problems suggested by the report of the reparations experts, presented to the world today.

The first reaction from Germany is openly hostile. That of France is almost equally unfriendly. But there is not a note in the semi-official and journalistic comment this morning to indicate the least possibility of Britain refusing to co-operate to the fullest extent in accepting and carrying out the terms of the recommendations.

Was No Surprise

Germany's opposition was to be expected in view of the recent wave of nationalistic sentiment. They naturally want to get the troops out of the Ruhr and while admitting their liability for reparation want the amount definitely fixed at a minimum figure.

But the attitude of Germany will not affect the issue very much in the long run if the allies are united. British apprehension is centered on French attitude. To accept the commission's recommendations means the abandonment, or, at least the modification of Poincare's repeated pledges that France would retain economic control of the Ruhr till the last penny was paid. Britain recognizes that Poincare's in this attitude, reflects the nationalistic sentiment of the majority of the French people, and there is very little doubt that he will fail to win the next election on that issue.

MAGISTRATE TAKES STAND ON DRY LAWS

Fort Erie, Ont., April 14.—The frank stand taken by Police Magistrate W. T. Malkin of the Bridgeburg-Fort Erie district on the Ontario temperance act following his attendance on the recent big temperance convention in Toronto has caused wide astonishment.

He went to Toronto as a delegate of the Central Avenue Methodist church, and upon his return with other delegates, he was called upon to give a report of the convention. He disagreed with the report given by other delegates that the convention was an enthusiastic one. "I was not particularly impressed by the size of the convention," he said, "and I also relate the statement that the convention unanimously indorsed the Ontario temperance act. I for one am not in favor of it.

"Many of you people are probably not familiar with all of the details of it, but every magistrate knows that the penalties provided fall very heavily on the poor man and are out of proportion with those meted out for more serious offences. For this reason, I do not wholly indorse the O.T.A., although I consider myself a temperance man. I believe that the law would be in a stronger position in this province were some of the harsh features eliminated."

Yes they are all here, the new models in Durant and Star cars. Durant Motor Show all this week.

of the series dealing with the establishment of the BANK OF MONTREAL at representative points in CANADA and elsewhere

IN TORONTO

A YEAR after being founded, the Bank of Montreal spread its Branches westward, in July of 1818, establishing Agencies at Kingston and York.

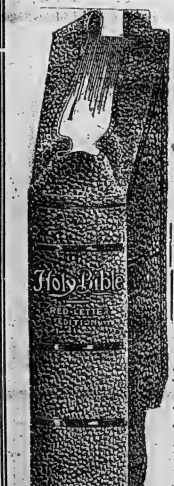

York, which afterwards became the city of Toronto, had then just had its first stage-coach communication established with Kingston and Montreal. It was merely a settlement in a clearing amid unbroken forests from which the Indians came to trade with farmers and other members of the little community. Today Toronto ranks among the largest cities on the continent.

Of the Bank's 567 Branches, 26 are in Toronto and 207 in the Province of Ontario, including Toronto.

The Greatest Prayer in the World

Prayer is the highest act of man. In it he is nearest to his Creator and the farthest from his sometime brother—the brute. All women and most men pray—whether they admit it or not. Prayer is the soul's answer to the question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" It came direct from Heaven, and did not unfold itself along with the convolutions of the brain.

Prayer is Hope with wings. It antedates all History. It will out-last Humanity itself. But prayer without faith is not prayer.

This is why the Lord's Prayer is the greatest prayer in the world. It is divine faith breathed into human words. All creeds, formulas, systems, philosophies, theologies—are within its miraculous compass. It is Religion itself. Like he dewdrop, it orbs the universe. Wise men have studied it reverently. Great men have lived and died with it on their lips. One-half the world has known no other prayer for 2,000 years.

This is why we call it the greatest prayer in the world.

This newspaper wants every one of its readers to have this Bible

Canadian National Railways at Wembley Exhibition

At the British Empire Exhibition opening in April at Wembley, England, the Canadian National Railways will, in their own buildings on the grounds, maintain one of the finest transportation exhibits ever shown. Practically every phase of steam transportation in Canada will be shown, including the history of steam transportation by means of a series of mural decorations in bas-relief. Mechanically operated apparatus will give a vivid illustration of some of the Dominion's great scenic attractions and a huge trophy in the centre of the building will indicate to the visitors some idea of the wealth of Canada's natural resources.

One of the most interesting sections of the exhibit will be full-size models of sections of equipment used by the Canadian National Railways for passenger traffic. There will be a section of a colonist car, a tourist car, a dining car, sleeping car with wash room and smoker, a section showing a compartment and another a drawing room. In charge of this exhibit will be a conductor and porter chosen from the service, and they will explain to visitors the method of passenger travel in the Dominion.

The photographs show three portions of this exhibit. In the upper left-hand corner is seen a section of a tourist car and opposite it a section of a standard diner. On the chair in the right-hand corner is a special seat for a child. Below is seen the gentlemen's smoking and wash room on a standard sleeping car.

Girl Appointed League Umpire

Toronto, April 14.—The Toronto Ladies' Senior Softball League held a special meeting Friday evening in the Beaches Veterans' Club House on Lee Ave. Four teams were represented, Eastmans, Ureleas, Adanacs and Hampton Park. The appointment of an official umpire for the coming season was one of the many important items of business decided. Three applications were received but the final choice went to Miss Maud McCann, 118 Alton ave. This appointment of an official lady umpire for a senior team is perhaps the first of its kind.

Miss McCann was well recommended through her connections with the City Playgrounds for the last five years. Besides she managed a girls' softball team last year and carried champion ship honors. All the League's games will be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays at New Gardens.

President Hector DeMers, who occupied the chair at this meeting, expects great enthusiasm during the coming summer, judging by the large attendance. The other appointment for the evening was that of official scorer; it went to A. H. "Hap" Collins.

BIG BOWLING GAME TO-NIGHT FOR SUPPER

A game of unusual interest takes place at the Recreation Alleys to-night between the Wanderers and the Olympics, losers to buy for the supper and no limit to the eats. It will be remembered that last week the Wanderers won from the Olympics by 89 pins after having a lead of over 300 pins in the first two games and to-night the Olympics are confident that they can reverse the tables on them.

HAVE NOW FORMED JUNIOR LEAGUE

Robert Colling Heads New League — Other Officers Elected

At the organization meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties newly formed Junior baseball league, which was held at the new Queen's hotel on Friday evening last, officers of the league were elected, and other business transacted. Telegraph was present from Marmora, Picton, Tweed and Belleville.

The following officers were elected:—Honorary President—W. J. Carter, Picton; W. E. Tommon, Tweed; and A. A. Cosens, Marmora.

President—Robert Colling, Belleville.
1st Vice-Pres.—A. Neal, Marmora.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Stan Croft, Picton.
Sec.-Treas.—F. E. Moffat, Tweed.
Secty-Treas.—Harry Sonnes, Belleville.

The constitution and by-laws were passed after discussion and it was decided to enter the O.B.A.A. Junior series.

An application for entrance in the league was received from the Lakeviews, members of the O.B.A.A. Junior championship, but on account of heavy travelling expenses and the long trip it was felt, that it could not be considered. At some future date no doubt this league will broaden out but for the present it was considered wise to stay in close proximity to Belleville.

It was decided to call another meeting at an early date to draw up a schedule for the coming season. Everything points to a revival of interest in junior baseball in this district.

TORONTO BOWLERS BREAK WORLD RECORD

Toronto, April 14.—The most successful five-pin tournament in the history of the Athenaeum Club came to a close on Saturday evening, when the William A. Hall team of the Major League broke the world's record for five-pin bowling when they rolled 3439 flat, their games being, 1,180, 1,080, and 1,261. This with 4 handicap of 24 pins gave them a total of 3,673.

BASEBALL ACCIDENT

Perth Ont., April 14.—Hit on the left temple by a baseball while playing with his school chums here Saturday, Harry Gould, a youth, was knocked unconscious. When revived he was found to have lost all power of speech, although he was able to make himself understood by writing. He is expected to regain his voice.

WILSHUR GETS DRAW

Halifax, N.S., April 14.—Roy Chisholm of Halifax, and Curly Wilshur, of Toronto, lightweights, boxed ten rounds to a draw, according to referee Neil Campbell here Saturday night. The Toronto boy lacked the reach, weight and weight of the local youth but proved the cleverer of the two, and in the opinion of many spectators should have been awarded the decision.

ANOTHER BOXER DIES

Wilmington, N.C., April 14.— Pal Moore, 21 years old, featherweight boxer, of Wrightsboro, died Saturday as the result of a knockout in a fight on Friday night with Ralph Varn of Wilmington.

The injured fighter collapsed in his dressing-room after leaving the ring and was rushed to a hospital, where he lapsed into unconsciousness. Attending physicians stated that his death was due to a cerebal hemorrhage caused by over-exertion.

A coroner's jury exonerated his opponent.

Moore was beaten in the contest but kept on his feet to the finish, although groggy in the final rounds.

Trunks Work-Out Here Tuesday

The Grand Trunk senior C.O.A. B.L. squad will hold their initial workout of the season in the Armouries to-morrow evening at 8 p.m. The intelligencer was informed on this morning. This will be the first week-but in preparation for the league opener here on May 21st, when Peterboro play the locals at Exhibition Park here.

All the old-timers will be out to-morrow night, and a strong invitation is given to anyone who wishes to try out with the boys.

It is expected that there will be a large gallery to see the boys in action for the first time this season.

C.N.R. BOWLERS ENJOY MATCH

Three local Canadian National Bowling teams journeyed to Toronto Saturday, where they met teams composed from players who take part in the Bright League games there. Sheppard St. Alleys was the scene of battle, and we might add here that the Belleville players were very much impressed with the fine place they have for the trundlers. By combination as the Toronto players do Belleville won 2, Toronto 3, single games. However counting as is the practice here, the locals were down on the total score for all three games. Belleville had three lost by fair margins but team No. 1 did not do so well as the score will show.

Wilson of Toronto rolled 329 and 713 for three string, which was high. Lent rolled 296 single, while Weir toppled them for 624, the Belleville high scores. Team No. 2 knocked them for 2,915, giving Belleville the 3 point game.

Possibly these teams will have another series. It is said the Queen City lady bowlers wish to visit here to defend their title. They will most likely be obliged with opposition.

ON THE ALLEYS

Dominion's Recreation Alleys

Five league games were played at the Recreation Alleys Friday night, the Willowbanks winning the first game from the Olympics, and the Debutantes winning from the Hikers.

In the Junior league the Lucky Strikes won from Marsh's by 41 pins. Dennis and Knott being the highest bowling strikers. The second Junior game between the National Cash-ins and the Spark Plugs, the latter team won out. Quatrochi and Norm Turner leading for their teams.

The senior game between the Greyhounds and the K. of C., the former team by rolling 3041 won out by 101 pins. Dr. O'Callaghan and Vera Weir hitting the highest three strings for their respective teams.

LEAFS UNLUCKY WITH INJURIES

Three Casualties and Maisel's Father Passes Also

Waterbury, Conn., April 14.—With the exception of the International League opening just three days off, the leafs are riddled with injuries until their strength is depleted fully fifty per cent.

Infielder Frank O'Rourke, is at his home in Elizabeth, N.J., with a badly sprained ankle, sustained in a game at Richmond, Va., last Friday.

Catcher Oscar Stanage, manager of the battery department is in a hotel at Springfield, Mass., with a shattered bone in his right foot.

Outfielder George Maisel, ill ever since coming north, was too ill to accompany the Leafs to this city and was left in Springfield on Saturday. In the ninth inning of Saturday's game here, after two were out, First Baseman Eddie Onslow was hit on the right hand while endeavoring to field a vicious line drive, and had two fingers dislocated. Onslow went to first base and Jess Spring to left field.

There are other less serious injuries, which will partially incapacitate some of the players for a few days, but they not keep them out of the game.

Maisel's Father Dies.

Upon the arrival of the Leafs here yesterday morning a message was received from Catonsville, Md., the home of George Maisel, to the effect that the player's father had passed away very suddenly. He and Maisel was forwarded to Springfield by telephone and Maisel and his wife would make the trip to Cantonville today if possible.

The Leafs beat Springfield on Saturday by 4 to 3, and defeated Waterbury here Sunday by the same score.

Pitcher Jesse Doyle went the entire nine innings at Springfield, allowing only four hits. Braxton McWilliams and Donahue worked against the leafs in relays and held the tourists to three singles and a double. Doyle's fine work in the box was helped out by his own batting. He had a double and a single and was very largely responsible for winning his own game. His control was perfect and his curves baffling, which Joe Dee had difficulty in mastering this Spring, worked like forked lightning.

How Stanage Was Injured

It was the second inning of the game that Tuesday lost the services of Catcher Stanage. He raced back to Bela beaten teams are in the Eastern League.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. James Stewart of Woodstock Ontario, was visiting friends in the city yesterday.

ALL FOODS SHOULD BE SEALED

The sealed profession very proudly advocate that all food products should be sold in sealed packages. All cities rigorously inspect butcher shops to prevent meat from being infected, many prohibit milk from being sold in bulk and gradually drive "Scoop with everything." BALADA was the first to introduce the package idea as regards tea over thirty-five years ago and "BALADA" is still a little purer and a little better than other tea. It has by far the largest sale.

BOBBED HAIR BAR ORDERED BY HOSPITALS

Toronto, Ont., April 14.—Nurses, don't bob your hair.

Toronto hospitals have a strict rule which prohibits girls cutting their hair. Flappers mustn't flap their bobs while on duty. Several heads of the Toronto General Hospital are said to have been relieved of their services until their bobbed hair grew out again. Miss Graves, superintendent of the hospital, declares bobbed hair will not be tolerated. "Bobbed hair is unprofessional, as we see it, and dignified for a nurse," she points out.

In fact, all Toronto hospitals have agreed they do not want nurses with bobbed hair, whether it is "shingled," Eaton cut or any other fashion. They believe it is not proper for nurses to handle food with sticky, dusty hair flying around.

WAITED TOO LONG

Saskatoon, Sask., April 14.—Brother of Rudolph Valentino, that Dr. John G. Galati of Regina, had left a bride of but a few hours in the old bachelor dining room on said even years elapsed, and "BALADA" is still a little purer and a little better than other tea. It has by far the largest sale.

CAMP REUNION GIVEN BOOST

Friday night the Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium was the centre of attraction for about one hundred and fifty boys and girls with a sprinkling of adults. The reason being the first annual camp reunion for Camp Community campers, their friends and intending campers of this summer.

The program of the evening consisted largely of moving picture films, of which gave an interesting portrayal of the North Country, the land of lake and River. Another film of five reels, the "Little Dutchess" was the feature picture of the evening. Throughout the picture an orchestra consisting of Messrs. Grose, Moore, and Bonthill, dispersed eatable music which was greatly enjoyed by all, judging from the hearty applause they received.

Mid-way between the evening's program, Mr. Geo. Griffin, President of the Boys' Work Board, addressed the meeting and briefly outlined the objects of such a gathering. Mr. Russel Woodley, a member of the executive of the Board, when called upon gave a brief sketch of the history of Camp Community. He told those present about some of the difficulties there will be to look after the camp, were faced with and how these being finances necessary to pursue such a camp. He stated that every person who was there would be given an opportunity of helping the Boys' Work Board to run Camp Community, namely by selling some of the Boys' Work Bonds, which would be put on sale right away. To encourage them he told that the first two books of tens bonds that were sold within the building hours the program commenced. If everyone did their part, the continuation of Camp Community would be assured, but if too many fell down on the job, it would mean NO CAMP for Belleville boys this year.

The Secretary of the Boys' Work Board, Ralph Meeker, told about the plan for selling the bonds, every boy to be given a book of tens. The ones selling the greatest number of bonds would be honoured and the individuals making first, second and third place in the contest would receive prizes.

The Boys' Work Board is indebted to Mr. Harold Davison and Ken Chadwick for operating so efficiently the picture machine.

Too many people guess about their eyes

In fact I believe most folks do that. It seems they try to make themselves believe they have normal sight, rather than sub mit to an examination to learn the true condition of their eyes. Such an attitude is decidedly unwise. Why not give your eyes the consideration they deserve? Glad to be of service to you. Phone 128 for appointment.

ARREST BRIDEGROOM ON PERJURY CHARGE

Toronto, April 11.—Wilfrid L. McDonald, 328 Rolland St., was arrested here by Mounty Officer Colletts on a charge of perjury. McDonald was ordered to appear before the court at Cobalt this fall. It is charged that he went to Dundas, where he secured a license. When getting the "marriage license" police claimed, McDonald swore the lady was sixteen years of age. Police also charge that he is single, and further allege that McDonald knew his correct age to be sixteen.

Here and There

It is estimated that over 50,000 acres were sown with corn in Alberta in 1923, the production with only 1,000 acres in 1919. This is a good indication of how rapidly corn culture is increasing in Western Canada in connection with mixed farming operations.

All previous records of Canadian freight transportation were broken when a total of 4,993,000 tons of cobalts were handled by the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1923, the Lake Superior traffic lines recently. The distance of 2,262 miles was covered in 429 days, or exactly 169 hours and 20 minutes. The total train mileage was 40 cars, each containing 6 Ford cars, and the train was more than a third of a mile long and was handled on practically passenger schedule.

The splendidly sound position of the Canadian Pacific Railway is well shown in the annual report for the fiscal year ended December 31st, 1923, which has just been issued. The gross earnings of the Company for the year were $195,357,669.61, the working expenses $158,258,-979.54, and the net earnings, $37,-479,010.07.

A large party of Scottish farmers, ploughmen, farm workers and their families, is expected to arrive at Montreal in June. The party, which will sail on the Canadian Pacific steamer "Marburn," will be conducted by the Scottish representative of the Canadian Pacific Department of Colonization and Development.

Alberta has maintained an average yield of spring wheat of 19½ bushels per acre over a period of twenty-six years, according to a chart prepared by the Department of Agriculture. In addition, winter wheat has averaged over the same period 29.19 bushels; oats, 35.79 bushels; barley, 26.10 bushels; rye, 18.84 bushels and flax, 8.71 bushels.

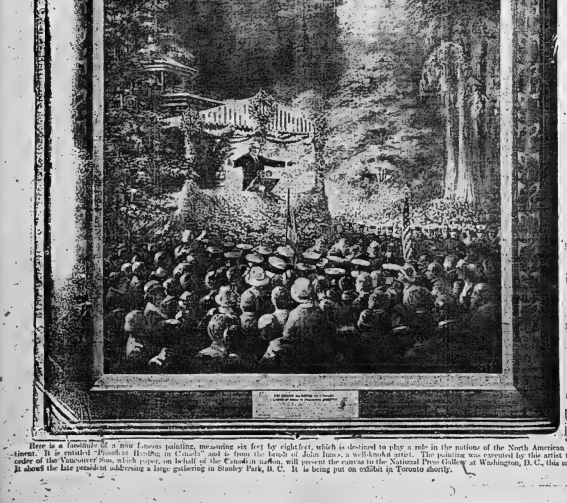

A feature of the annual banquet and convention of the official of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which were held at Quebec on March 22nd, was the representation, in the banquetting hall, of a full-sized locomotive of the latest type emerging from a tunnel. Built of wood by Angus Shops, Montreal, it was in all respects perfect. At a given arranged moment, it emitted steam and smoke, the bell rang and the whistle blew, while the headlight became a moving picture projector.

Indications of a great season in immigration are seen by Canadian Pacific officials in the arrival at St. John, N.B., during the week-end of March 29-30, of 1,441 third-class passengers, aboard the Company's steamers Montcalm and Metagama. The Montcalm had on board 1,58[illegible] these passengers, which constitutes a record for the season.

Out of a total production of 16,759,150 pounds of creamery butter in 1922, Manitoba exported 3,360,264 pounds, valued at $1,015,-109. Shipments were made to Great Britain, New York, Chicago and Montreal. In addition, about 200,-000 pounds of butter fat were shipped to the United States.

In a speech to the higher officers of the Canadian Pacific Railway on the occasion of the recent convention at Quebec, Mr. E. W. Beatty, President, pointed out that 90 per cent. of the company's stock is held in Great Britain, 21 per cent. in Canada and 29 per cent. in the United States. It is, therefore, a corporation absolutely controlled within the British Empire and, he added, that control is being appreciably strengthened as the years go on.

Quebec's new goldfield in Rouyn township, north of the Cobalt camp branch of the Canadian Pacific from Mattawa, is to be made accessible by an aeroplane service to be inaugurated by the Laurentide Air Service Limited, on May 15th. Prospectors, tourists' and supplies will be able to cross the fifty mile gap between the end of steel and the goldfields, which formerly required two days to cover, in less than an hour in the flying boats to be used in the service.

Here is a facsimile of a new famous painting, measuring six feet by eight feet, which is destined to play a role in the nations of the North American continent. It is entitled "Possible Heights in Canada" and is from the brush of John Innes, a well-known artist. The painting was executed by this artist to the order of the Vancouver Sun, which paper, on behalf of the Canadian nation, will present the canvas to the National Press Gallery at Washington, D. C., this month. It shows the late president addressing a large gathering in Stanley Park, B. C. It is being put on exhibit in Toronto shortly.

LOVE, THE TYRANT, OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"I am going to the house, and I can only remain a moment. Say what you want to say quickly, if you please."

Jack drew his breath.

"It's only that—I'm sorry," he said in his low, grave voice. "Of course, I know that that doesn't better matters. Most men are sorry when they've acted like brutes and fools, and I acted like a cad just now—on the field."

The red of shame flooded his face, and he looked down, too that that he did not see the responding emotion in hers. When he looked her face was white and stonyeyed again.

"I can't tell what made me do it." He paused, and a deeper flush of how well he could have told her if he had been true to sis self. "I must have been mad—have lost my senses. I never did such a thing before."

He volunteered this piece of information, not in a tone of excuse, but as if he had been suddenly struck by the fact, and as he said it, a look pleasure, a cruel sense of satisfaction, stirred in Esther's beating heart.

"That's not excuse, of course. In fact, I haven't any excuse—except—" He paused and stumbled, and half unconsciously his eyes rested on the white, lovely face with a passionate love and not see. "Ah, well, it does not matter! There's no excuse, and nothing I could say would lessen the offence. I behaved like a ruffian, a brute, and there's nothing to ask, hope, that you'll forgive me. I'm not such a fool! You would not forgive such an—an insult! I don't ask for it. Heaven, I didn't mean it as such!"

His voice had trembled and deepened, and his eyes flushed as they rested on her face. He turned quickly away from it before the fire in his.

"What else was it? What else did you mean?" she asked, quietly enough, but with a strange quiver in her voice, like ice.

He swept his hand across his knitted brows.

"I don't know—I can't tell you! I only know that I'd rather die than insult you, or let another man offer you one," he said, almost sternly. "I'd only say that in excuse that if there was anything I could do to wipe out the remembrance of my act I would do it, whatever it might be. When a gentleman—"

He checked himself as if the word had slipped from him inadvertently, and Esther nodded.

"I hope always understood a gentleman is known by his conduct, Mr. Gordon," she said, incisively.

Jack looked.

"That's true. I've no right to the name. I take it back. What a man has behaved as I have, the only thing he can do is to say that he's sorry and remove himself from the face of the earth as he can; at any rate, out of the sight of the woman he has offended. I feel strongly tempted to shoot myself!" He laughed bitterly—"but I suppose I wouldn't have wiped out my black deed, would it?"

He did not see that her lips had quivered and her eyes had closed for an instant, and he went on, gravely:

"But I needn't say that I am going away at once. I suppose I ought to have had the grace to wait until you had dismissed me, Miss Vancourt? Yes; I didn't think of that! You see what a thick-headed idiot I am!"

She leant back slowly until the tree supported her; but said nothing. He was grand! Well, that was right, was quite right and inevitable.

"I will go to-morrow morning," he went on, clenching a rail, and after a pause during which he had waited for her to speak with, the he knew, will hope that she might— Ah, but it was too wild a hope, Martin is nearly all right, and the lady is in; and there really isn't any need for me to stay on, under any circumstances. The whom!—

Esther made an imploring gesture with her hand.

"I don't know that I care to discuss the condition of the wheat with you, Mr. Gordon," she said, haughtily, all the more haughtily for the dull pain that was aching in her heart.

Poor Jack coloured under the little sarcasm.

"Of course not. I beg your pardon!" he said for the first time, quickly. "I might see here just that for Martin; but you've always taken an interest in the farm— However, I beg your pardon!"

"You go to-morrow?" she said, after a silence, during which he had tried to force himself to go, to tear himself away from the woman for whom his heart clamoured.

He nodded.

"Yes; I'll go to-night, but I want, to see Martin—and it's late."

"Just so," she said, as if she were speaking to a servant. "There is no need of you to—to leave your work unfinished. You may remain until—until the day after, if it is necessary."

She tried to speak coldly; she felt as if she could dash the words from her lips; but they would come. To keep him for even one day was —oh, the shame of it!—so much to her.

"Thank you," he said, gravely. "Of course I'll take care—" he stammered and broke down— "I'll be careful that I—that you— I'll keep out of your sight, Miss Vancourt. I'll go to-morrow if I can—I'd intended to," but Martin may want me—there are one or two things to do—but the day after I can get a way for certain."

She inclined her head.

"Where—" She tried to stop herself, but failed, "Where are you going?"

He shrugged his shoulders.

"I don't know quite. It doesn't matter. To London, I suppose. There's always work in the Stock—perhaps abroad, to the old game—" He stood and Abroad! He would leave England! An awful sensation of despair chest about her heart like ice. He would go away—poor and friendless—Oh! of course he deserved it all, but— but—

She turned her head away from him, and found down the lamp that was in her throat.

"If—if you want money," she began, then she stopped, as the blood mounted to her face, and she saw him turning and looking at her sternly, then he smiled.

"No, there is something I do want," he said, gravely. "But I don't know how to ask it. Thank you. No; I don't want money. There are Good Gold women have no mercy!"

Time for Veedol Crankcase Service!

This explains why—pour a quart of spring water into a mud puddle and you still have a mud puddle. Pour a quart of fresh oil into a crankcase containing low quality broken down oil and you still have a mixture unfit to protect your motor.

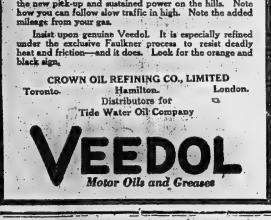

Have your crankcase drained, flushed and refilled with Veedol to-day—and every 600 to 800 miles, or whenever your motor-instruction book tells you. Note the new pick-up and sustained power on the hills. Note how you can follow slow traffic in high. Note the added mileage from your gas.

Insist upon genuine Veedol. It is especially refined under the exclusive Faulkner process to resist deadly heat and friction—and it does. Look for the orange and black sign.

New Canadian Service Plan Of Ship Line

Belfast, Moville, Queenstown to be Connected With Montreal and Quebec

Montreal, April 14.—Steamship connection between the Irish Free State and Canada will be greatly improved this year by the decision of the Cunard line to establish a direct steamship service between Queenstown and Montreal with the opening of St. Lawrence navigation.

The Queenstown service will be maintained on the westbound route by the three new steamers, Andania, Antonia and Ausonia, each specially designed and constructed for the Canadian passenger trade, and each of 14,000 tons gross. They will call at the southern Irish port after leaving Southampton, commencing with the sailing of the Andania from Queenstown on April 19.

The same day will also witness the opening of a north of Ireland service to Canada the Carmania being scheduled to make her first sailing from Belfast for Quebec on that date. She will be followed by the Caronia. The Carmania and Caronia will sail westbound from Belfast to Quebec and eastbound from Quebec to Queenstown, and thence to Liverpool. The Audania, Antonia and Ausonia on their eastbound trips will proceed direct to Plymouth, Cherbourg and London. Westbound sailings from north Ireland to Canada will also be provided by the Saturnia, which will call regularly at Moville, the port for Londonderry, on her voyages from Glasgow to Montreal.

The Robert Redford Company which made the announcement, said that the new Queenstown-Canada service is being established with a view to meeting the requirements of the many Irish emigrants expected to come to Canada this year, and also of the thousands of Canadians and Americans who will go to Ireland to take part in or witness the great Agohas Tailliteana, the national Irish games, which are to be held in Dublin next August, and also for the British Empire exhibition to be held at Wembley.

All the ships in the Cunard Irish-Canadian service will carry cabin and third class passengers only. The Caronia and Carmania, which sail westbound from Belfast, are each of 20,000 tons gross and will be the largest and fastest steamers engaged on this route.

Jake was worthless and improvident. One day he said to the local hardware merchant: "I gotta have an oil stove; I'm broke, and my family is shivering."

"All right, Jake," said the dealer. "If you need an oil stove and have no money to buy it with, we'll give you one. But see here, Jake, there's a show coming to town in a few days, and if I give you an oil stove, are you sure you'll use it and take your family to the show?"

"Oh, sure," said Jake, "I got the show money saved up already!"

HOLDS CLEMENCY PROMOTES CRIME

Toronto, April 14.—If bank bandits were left in prison to serve their time, instead of being allowed out on parole until practically the end of their sentence, stated Chief of Police Pickson in an interview discussing the proposed suggestion from the Senate in Ottawa that bandits who use firearms in holdups be executed.

"I do not think capital punishment is necessary for bandits who hold up people and use firearms, but is, if no person was killed," stated the chief. "If they would have these things in prison when they are put there then it would not be necessary to have an additional punishment. There is too much clemency exercised by outsiders to get these men out of prison."

Richards Still Alive and Klan Active, Busey Says; Never Slain at Mer Rouge

Atlanta, Ga.—Thomas F. Richards still alive and a captive of Ku Klux Klansmen.

This is the keynote to an amazing story, which Dr. A. C. Busey, the same chiropractor, who has escaped from the federal secret service, heralded world over the infamous hooded mob, murders of Mer Rouge, La., which shocked the nation during the winter of 1922-23.

In his startling tale, retelling the tale of Section, Busey flatly repudiated the charges of the Reds of Louisiana that Richards and Walt Daniel, his closest friend, were "led into a picture machine" by a black-robed mob on Richardson in August, 1922.

Unharmed, but Captive.

Busey admitted Daniel had been murdered, but he insisted that Richards was the scene of the crime an unharmed victim—but a captive of those whose minds were red with Daniel's blood. His two bruised, mangled bodies which authorities later found in Lake Lee Perche, and which were identified by friends of Richards and Daniel, Busey claimed as "fakes", secured from the result of medical subpoena.

For the last 20 months, Busey claimed, Richards has been held a captive by friends of the men who killed Daniel. The captive has been hurried from state to state, surreptitiously, and usually in the dead of night—a fugitive from the Klan, as well as from those who raped sent the law.

For Mother's Sake.

From his prison cell, Busey wrote to a friend:

"I hold the secret. Richards is alive and I can lead you to him any time. His mother lives at West Monroe, La., and for her sake things must move. Sequoyah is pleading for her and the prayer of a mother will be answered shortly. If I have to serve all my time I will do it like a man, but Richards will be returned to his mother at no distant day."

Here is Busey's story:

Richards was induced to betray his bosom friend to the masked head of murderers on that warm August afternoon when the klan met rolling along the highways of Morehouse Parish. He lured Daniel into the klan's saddle and when, hours later, violence ended in murder they carried Richards away to captivity lest his life send half a dozen of their number to dangle at the end of lawman's nooses.

Bared and Broken.

Up into Arkansas the murderers carried their captive and then, on a wide sweeping arc, across the state, and southward into Texas. Weeks of captivity lengthened into months and finally into a year, and more. And to-day Richards still lives, a flaccid, broken man—save death—but still under the vigilant eyes of those who fear his lips may spell for them a murderers doom.

This is the story of the "man of mystery," for whom the Department of Justice is conducting a nationwide search.

Professor Alexander Seure McAdie, director of the Harvard Lookout, is pictured here breathing into his device by means of which he determines the weight of a person's breath. Science says that the real weight in any person's breath is determined upon the amount of vapor given off with each pulmonary relaxation. The McAdie device is known as the psychometer or chill measurer, somewhat resembling a thermometer, humometer and scale, encased in a small cabinet. By means of the device, Prof. McAdie weighs the water vapor in the breath, which comes from men and which may be seen on a cold day, like a cloud of smoke. Prof. McAdie measured the collective breaths of 200 students attending his lecture and determined the weight at 200 pounds.

VOL. LVI. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, APRIL 15, 1924

HON. PETER SMITH ASSAULTING A BOY

INTEREST IN U.E.L. GAINS MANY CITIES

Mayors of Capitals of New York State and Delaware Promise Support to Make Courier Trip a Success—Many Inquiries Coming in —Celebration Plans Have Bright Outlook

The following letters to Mayor W. C. Mikel, K.C., shows to a great extent the great amount of interest aroused by the proposed pilgrimage of Loyalists to Washington to invite President Coolidge to attend the celebration.

All inquiries regarding the coming celebration are being referred to Mayor Mikel, and he has been active in the past week in answering the large number sent in.

From George W. K. Morrest, Mayor of the City of Wilmington, Delaware, the First City of the First State.

My dear Mayor Mikel:—

I have your favor of April 9th and am very glad indeed to note that another country so near-by to Washington with a special interest in the President will join through our City.

I hasten to reply as follows:—

(1) You can rest assured that nothing will be left undone to extend hospitality to the courier while in Wilmington.

(2) I will arrange with one of the following organizations to have courtesies due the courier at their service, and one and have him give a short talk, depending on the day of the week when he arrives here. I trust it will be possible for you to let me know in advance the date he expects to pass through Wilmington so that I can meet on different days:—

(3) His Honor, Rotary Club, Lions Club, Exchange Club, Chamber of Commerce.

(4) The leading newspapers are the Evening Journal, Every Evening, Morning News and Sunday Star.

(4) Hotel du Pont. Complete arrangements will be made to take care of the courier and his horse while here without any expense, as I consider this to be the guest of this office.

(5) His host will be a keen good cater.

The following are the towns of 1000 population and over between Wilmington and Baltimore:—Newark, Del.; Elkton, Md.; Havre de Grace and Perryville, Md.

Thanking you for the courtesy extended, and assuring you that we will consider it an honor to entertain your representative, I am,

Very truly yours,
GEORGE W. K. FORREST,
Mayor.

From Frank B. Lovelace, Mayor of Poughkeepsie.

Dear Mr. Mayor:—

Yours of the 8th received and in regard to your celebration of the 160th anniversary of the settlement of this city, would say that I will be glad to do everything in my power to aid in that of getting a place for your courier to stay and a place for his horse when he arrives here.

I will personally find out where he will be entertained during his stay here and also where his horse will be stabled, as I believe this will help you in a small way to arrange for his stay while in Poughkeepsie.

Sincerely Yours,
FRANK B. LOVELACE,
Mayor.

PREMIERS IN PARLEY

German Reich and States Chiefs Plans Formal Word on Tuesday

Berlin, April 15.—Official decision was taken by the German Cabinet and the premiers of the Confederated Board of German States today to accept in principle the Dawes reparations report.

The chief condition is that an international loan be granted enabling Germany to meet her financial obligations.

It is expected that the German officials will make formal announcement tomorrow that they have received the report in principle, setting forth the conditions.

Pleads for Empire Unity, Tolerance

All one race, all one nation, all one in spirit and peace of the world, was one of the high ideals in an unusually fine address delivered before the Kiwanis Club yesterday by Mr. J. H. Hunt, O.B.E., speaking on better understanding between English-speaking peoples of the world and selective immigration.

Stating that the very life and future of the Dominion depends on immigration, Mr. Hunt made an eloquent plea for the placing of those of British birth before other peoples. "We have room in Canada for unlimited resources of Canada are but tapped, and there is room for ten times more than the overpopulated areas of Britain, with their over six hundred to the square mile.

"The British settler coming over here finds conditions utterly different from what he has been used to, and must be trained for generations and an entirely new viewpoint must be married before they can become Canadians in the fullest sense.

"To do this the native-born Canadian must practice tolerance and effort on the settler. Canada needs rural settlers but by the use of bridling attending the building of a preaching farm are so great that not is needed to put it before the old of the Dominion," said Mr. Hunt, but the old of their children and the extension of the of good-fellowship.

The local club is going to Kingston Monday to pay the first of a series of visits to other Rotary Clubs in the district, the Kingston Club returning the visit on Tuesday. Transportation by motor has been arranged and a large delegation is to represent Belleville.

TWO CAVE-MANNISH

Three Husbands Run Wild, Two Locked Up, and Third Missing

Syracuse, N.Y., April 15.—Two husbands were locked up today and another was missing from his home as a result of alleged "cave man" tactics, which resulted in the tying up of his wife, a pail, four chairs and furniture and dishes smashed.

Illicit liquor which the men had drunk was flamed in each case by their wives for the conquests of their husbands.

Michael Curtis was locked up after, it is charged, he bound his wife hand and foot to a chair of their farm house at Split Rock. One of her children freed her and the husband was arrested.

The second husband is Joseph Sarbinski of Henderson's landing, who is accused of lashing a dog through the window of his home and beating it to death, and then chasing his wife from the house with a knife.

RUM RUNNERS ARE SURPRISED—ESCAPE

Unloading Operations Stopped at Oswego—Steamer Escapes, but Truck Captured

Kingston, Ont., April 15.—Yesterday morning a telephone message was received here to the effect that a steamer had been seen off the coast captured at Oswego, N.Y., and it was thought the rum runners had escaped in a boat from either Kingston or Belleville. On Sunday morning the Kingston crew at Oswego notified the Oswego police that they had landed two cases of rum and a loading cases of whiskey at the Ontario and Western Line Company's wharf. When the police arrived with their motor car and the crew of the steamer evidently saw them a short distance away, as the vessel quickly pulled away from the wharf and has not been heard of since. The police have two dozen of the cases of whiskey and a number of cases, but it is not thought than any of the members of the crew came in contact with the bullets.

The police are in possession of a motor truck loaded with cases of liquor which had been unloaded from the steamer. When counted, it was found that there were one hundred and eight cases. It is thought that a couple of other trucks loads had been able to get away before the police arrived.

GIRL BEATS OFF-THREE

Syracuse, N.Y., April 15.—As the result of a fight in a Marcellus street home, where Susan M. Sylvester, 31, Negro heiress, beat off three men who she declared tried to attack her after they had been lured to the Sylvester mansion giving his name as Peter Simkins is booked at police headquarters today and detectives are seeking two others.

'SLIM' WILLIAMS IS NOW 'LIFER' AT PORTSMOUTH

Arrives at Penitentiary to Spend Balance of Days Behind Bars

LUNGS ALLING

Old Ailment Tightening Hold on Reprieved Man —Scanty Eater

Kingston, April 15.—"Slim" Williams is back in Portsmouth Penitentiary to spend the remainder of his days in a prison cell.

Arriving in the city on Saturday night from the Don Jail, the 'Assembly Line' of Middlesex County fame was taken immediately to the Penitentiary arriving at about 2.30 a.m. a very few minutes the necessary formalities were carried out for his reception, he was found himself back in a cell where, in probability he will be released only by death.

During the trip from London Williams was kept in irons, but gave 'absolutely no trouble to the officers in charge he was, and took a very lively interest in his surroundings that he passed by. Apparently his chief thought was one of thankfulness that he escaped the death penalty for his misdeeds, and he appeared glad to be back at the Portsmouth institution where he will end his days in carrying out the routine of the prison life and there is no vile violent death at the hands of the hangman.

Williams has already commenced the regular work of a "lifer" at the Penitentiary, and appears to have settled down mentally to carry out his sentence imposed upon him.

According to reports from London where Williams has been since his trial he is giving evidence that he did long before his sentencing he held upon him life rate, sanitity and coughs from time to time.

Big Time Planned At "Y" Building

One of the events of this year at the Y. M. C. A. will be the holding of the annual membership and get-together banquet and supper which will be held on Friday evening the 25th inst. A pennant, which was won by the team last year by Albert College, the runner up being the Commercials, bowlers and basketball players.

The chief speaker at the supper will be Mr. R. S. Mukerji who will be the guest of honor. Mr. Mukerji was a student at the Albert College a few years, but at present is attached to the Montreal Y.M.C.A. He has been sent by Mr. T. C. Sidenius, local secretary, signified his intention of being present at the function, and give an address. His presence will lend interest to the occasion.

TWO KILLED BY GAS

Several Others May Die of Fumes From Stove in Steubenville

Steubenville, O., April 15.—Two persons are known to be dead and several others may die from asphyxiation in a wine cellar at Mingo Junction, a few miles south of here.

The bodies of Massino Salloni, 40, and Antonio Secelli, 50, dead some hours from poisonous fumes were removed by firemen, who were forced to enter the room with the aid of gas helmets.

Several others were in the room. At latest reports, they were living, but in a critical condition.

Failure of the men to return home from their work led to the investigation which led to a wine cellar with a narrow opening. Gas from charcoal burners had filled the cellar and Steubenville firemen with oxygen helmets responded.

POLICE ACTIVE ON LOCAL END; NINE ARE HELD

Inspector Reg. Bumpstead Reports Great Activity In His District

LIST OF CASES

Moonshining and Breaches of O.T.A. Play Important Part

Inspector Reg. Bumpstead, of the Provincial Police in district number five with headquarters in Belleville in his district during the past two weeks particularly in extending activity, has following as a list of cases which were handled or are being handled by the Provincial officers of his district.

Three days ago at Haliburton, Simon Doyle was fined $200 and costs under the Inland Revenue Act for having a still, and was also fined $200 and costs for keeping liquor under the O.T.A. The alternative was a six months' jail term. Doyle, respectively, the sentences to run consecutively. Doyle served a nine months' in Lindsay Jail. Constable Boyd handled the case.

Clarence and Arthur Cook, wanted since the beginning of the year by Constable H. Storey at Lindsay, were arrested by him recently. Clarence was given two years less time on the 'ticket' and Arthur was sentenced to 6 months in the Reformatory of Ontario, with an indeterminate sentence of six months thereafter. Arthur was arrested in Bunney camp at Haliburton. Both will be convicted of thefts from summer homes along the Pigeon river.

William Fowler, inmate of the House of Industry at Lindsay was the only sentenced to thirty days in the county jail there for assault.

Thompson Huggins, who lives near Cobourg, awaits trial on a charge of having an illicit still, and a large quantity of "moonshine". Constable quantity of "moonshine". Constable Courtens and Inspector Goodrich of Cobourg located the "distillery."

Constable Thompson at Lindsay arrested E. Callaghan, who was later convicted on a charge of having counterfeit money by false pretences. He is out on bail for one month, to make certain inquiries.

John Smith, similarly charged on two counts was sentenced to six months on each charge.

Constable Stewart at Peterboro, arrested two Round Lake farmers recently each being charged with having an illicit stills and large quantities of liquor. They will receive trial at Haliburton tomorrow. They are William McGuire and Arthur Cook.

Provincial Constable Davis at Peterboro arrested a "twenty-one-year-old" boy charged with unlawfully carnal knowledge, the complainant being an eleven-year-old girl. The boy is now not less than one year, nor more than two years less one day at the Reformatory for Ontario.

POMP TO FORE AT STINNES SERVICES

Show That German Magnate Hated Most, Features Berlin Ceremony

Berlin, April 15.—Pomp—the thing which the late Hugo Stinnes most loathed—was all in his life completely dominated the funeral services when the body was cremated yesterday.

Not a specific element of the millionaire financier, who was famous for his shabby clothes and the refusal he had worn for so many years derby he had worn for so many years were surrounded by a resplendent circle of mourners wearing glistening top hats and frock coats with silk hats, handkerchiefs held with medals. The hall was banked with flowers.

Stinnes had expressly stated that the color of black be avoided at the funeral services, in consequence the hall at the crematory was completely converted. The number displayed were replaced with lighter colors. Not a single sheet of black appeared except the black garments of the mourners.

A striking feature was a group of uniformed guards from the Stinnes coal mines. Each held a lantern in his hand.

The altar was surrounded with lilacs and orchids. The coffin was draped with the flag of the Stinnes shipping line in token of the world-wide reach of his name and power.

FINDS WAY OF TRANSGRESSOR IS A HARD ONE

Local Girl Sent to Mercer Reformatory—Lecture In Itself

'PITIFUL STORY

Father Turned Her Out and Caused Downfall, She States

Sobbing hysterically, and fainting away when sentenced to Mercer Reformatory for women, Emily McKenna local girl, arrested last night, was carried from the police court room to the police cell, this morning by Chief Constable Kidd and P. C. Franks. The sentence is not to be less than six months, nor more than two years less one day. The charge was vagrancy.

This clause the last scene in this little drama, the first two acts of which were presented in police court here recently. Two weeks ago, Emily recently left a back yard at night by a constable going back door duty, started in police court the following morning. They told of their plans to leave the back yard staircase which led to the apartment of the young lady. They were the "Romeo" Emily is the "Juliette" in the case.

Courts and Transgressor

Weeping pitifully this morning, the girl told Magistrate Masson that a promise given her by her father to stay in Belleville, but she intended to take a train for Kingston, last night, where she had secured a position on a bake steamer for the summer. Though she I would be better on the water than where she worked.

Then she handed a five page letter to the Magistrate, from a sweetheart in Kingston, who neglected to sign his name to the letter. He told of his love for her, and revealed that Harlock tomorrow. They are William McGuire and Arthur Cook.

"It's a hard life to lead," she explained. "but I would never have started down the road if father had let me. I am through, and will go straight if I can get a position in Kingston."

"Mother still loves me for she loaned me money to go to Kingston to see Harlock, and I promised I came home from Kingston so as to be near mother when she is sick."

The vain pleadings of the girl were useless. She will be examined at the hospital, and it is believed requires medical attention.

"You will be properly cared for up there, and I hope you are good you will get out soon," explained the Bench.

P. C. Franks arrested the girl last night at 9.30 As she left a Front St. cafe.

BRITAIN TO AGREE

Will Place No Snag in Way If Other Allies Adopt Reparations Plan

London, April 15.—If the reparation experts report is acceptable to the other Allied Governments it will also be taken for granted that no obstacles will be placed in the way concerning the question of its adoption.

This is the nearest to an official expression obtainable regarding the progress the British Treasury officials have made in their examination of the reparations experts recommendations.

British interest in the reparations situation today is centred upon the meeting of the Premiers of the German federated states with the Chancellor of the Reich in Berlin. Their decision on the acceptability of the report is expected Wednesday.

ACCUSED IS OUT ON BAIL OF $50,000

Sensations are Declared About Due in Probe—Ferguson States That All Who are Implicated in The Case Will Be Tried Without Fear or Favor to Fullest Extent—No Favors to be Shown

(Staff Correspondence)

Toronto, April 15.—Following the international action of yesterday in which the Hon. Peter Smith was arrested, and then released on bail approximating $50,000 put up by friends in Stratford, after being formally charged with being implicated in illegal bond deals while Provincial Treasurer, to-day was a direct antithesis as regards action.

Hon. Peter Smith remains steadfast in his determination to say nothing regarding the deal, and is avoiding the public as much as possible. The representative of The Intelligencer to-day, in an interview with sev'eral of the prominent members of the Legislature and the office of the Attorney-General, was told that while there is no public statement to make to-day, the Crown is working quietly on the case and other sensational developments are promised.

Ferguson Takes Strong View

Premier Ferguson, in discussion yesterday with Manning Doherty took a strong stand in regard to the probe and its consequences.

"There has been an aspersion cast toward a member of the late Government. I was very glad to see that the moment his name was mentioned Mr. McGarry came voluntarily before the committee and made it clear that he completely mention this for the reason. There has been certain suggestion in the newspapers that this Government has been responsible for inclined to compromise for the purpose of protecting or avoiding the exposure of the previous time.

"I want to make it clear to this House and the public that this Government does not propose to shield any man, anybody and we propose that, against every man who is found guilty of malfeasance in office or wrongdoing that comes within the law, the law shall be dealt in medium and it will be left to the courts to see what the consequences shall be."

Mr. Doherty intimated that the Prime Minister's statement of the Government's position in the assembly yesterday, and he refused to make any suggestion for prolonging the Public Accounts enquiry at present sitting.

REMOVING THE BILLBOARDS

One reform which has been hanging fire for years, notwithstanding the fact that everyone recognizes its necessity, is the abolition of unsightly billboards. Inside and outside towns and cities these offensive placards are to be met with, advertising in big letters and flaming colors everything from pills to motor cars. The enjoyment of the trip out into the surrounding country, which is now within the reach of the great majority of families, is too often marred by the continual succession of signs which hide the highways and often blot out from sight the most beautiful landscapes. Repeated protests against this condition have been raised from one end of the continent to the other; but so powerful are the claims of business that they have been largely in vain.

There is no denying that of recent years there has been considerable improvement in the quality of art displayed, but much is still left to be desired in this respect, and this satisfaction is more than overshadowed by the fact that notices have increased prodigiously both in size and number. One does not want to have materialism thrust into the foreground on every occasion. Soon there will be no escape from these strident commercial "puffs", wherever one may go, if a halt is not called to the process. As things are, it is difficult enough to get away from them.

Pending action on the part of the government, reliance must be had on the co-operation of the advertisers themselves. That some of the largest of these are not indifferent to the claims of the aesthete and the public interest is to be seen in the fact that fifteen of the biggest advertising firms of the United States have pledged themselves to discontinue the use of highway billboards. Mr. Herbert L. Pratt, president of the Standard Oil Company, of New York, announces that his organization will in future confine its billboard advertising to the garages and service stations. He anticipates the removal of the last billboard of his company within eighteen months when the final contract expires. In making this announcement, however, he refers to "other constructions which may be substituted for the highways as much as signs, such as refreshment booths and so-called 'hot dogs' stands." These, he complains, are generally unsightly, "often thrown together out of old boxes and odds and ends of lumber, and do much to disfigure the highway." He is undoubtedly right; but one thing at a time. If a beginning is made on the removal from the scene of the towering billboards, it will be followed by other improvements. The billboards are the greatest offenders against good taste, and it is very gratifying to hear the advertisers themselves are making the first move to set the matter right.

TRUE RICHES

(An Editorial for Young People)

There died on Thursday last Hugo Stinnes, Germany's mighty industrial dictator. He was immensely rich before the war and has since increased his wealth beyond computation, exercising supreme power in the world of German finance, and a tremendous influence in domestic and foreign politics. What the outcome of the death of this powerful man may be cannot be clearly foreseen, but the effect is bound to be great. Yet this is the cable message which comes from Berlin, relative to the burial arrangements: "The simplicity which marked the life of Germany's industrial captain will attend his funeral ceremonies." This, then, is all that the fabulous wealth of Stinnes has been able to bring him—a simple life and a simple funeral! Was it worth while, that industrious piling up of money, that insatiable thirst for power? The lesson of riches, the cares of responsibility, the envy, the cares of responsibility, the envy, the criticism and hostility provoked by conspicuous prosperity of this kind—should these be regarded as rewards or penalties? One thing can be said with confidence, the mere accumulation of wealth for its own sake is a most unsatisfying delusion. Ambition is a very good thing, and a necessary thing, but it should be something more than the mere desire to become rich and powerful, if the object is personal happiness and peace of mind.

A book has just been published the autobiography of another very rich man, known wherever the English tongue is spoken—Andrew Carnegie. Though he has departed from the scene, his beneficence continues in the great endowments he provided in his life for the advancement of knowledge, vast sums being distributed annually in aid of education and research work, and there are the magnificent free libraries to be found in the cities and towns of this continent and of the mother land. Here is an inspiring example. Yet what do we find? In the early days of struggle, when Carnegie was a humble messenger boy in Pittsburg, he records in the autobiography a rise in his salary from eleven and a quarter to thirteen-and a half dollars a month. Those extra two and a quarter dollars a month, he says, were "worth more to me then than all the millions I have made since." Is there any reason to doubt the sincerity of this statement? The millions which came subsequently, with all their power for doing good, did not efface the memory of the thrill derived from that early recognition of worth, the appreciation of humble service faithfully performed.

The moral of it all is to strive for and enjoy the really worth-while things of life—self-improvement, development of the character as well as the faculties, the cultivation of contentment and the building up of a generous disposition. There is no other recipe for happiness. Material prosperity is not essential, and it is not in the external but the internal equipment that true riches consist.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Notwithstanding repeated defeats the opponents of capital punishment never grow weary of introducing bills for its abolition.

—o—

The tumult caused by the budget has temporarily crowded the Church Union bill before the Dominion parliament into the background.

—o—

The farmers in the Ontario legislature could hardly be expected to vote for a bill which might have a tendency to decrease the number of village smithies clanging on the anvil.

For vehemence in declaring his innocence of any wrongdoing in the provincial treasurer's department, Hon. Peter McGarry makes Hon. Peter Smith resemble the proverbial oyster.

While no sympathy should be extended to the British shipyard employes who have refused to return to work, even on the advice of their leaders, it is difficult to see, from this distance, what is to be gained by the lockout declared by the employers.

NATURE AT HER BEST

Those who appreciate nature at her best and revel in a wealth of variegated scenery, will find themselves travelled by the Canadian National Railways between Toronto and Vancouver, one of never-to-be-forgotten beauty.

First through the inimitable lake region of Northern Ontario, skirting many mixed, mirror-like lakes pocketed between wooded hills, catching a fleeting glimpse of many waterfalls, rock strewn little waterways dashing madly towards the more levels of the lake below. From Winnipeg, the fertile Prairie Provinces treat the traveller to a type of gently undulating scenery not to be seen in any other part of Canada.

The ever-changing scenery of the Canadian Rockies never grows wearisome, no matter how often it is viewed. Jasper Park, with its protected wild game and luxurious Mt. Edith Cavell; colossal Mt. Robson gigantic snow-mantled glaciers stretching from mountain peaks, are only a few of nature's wonders the traveller by the Canadian National Route sees before descending to the balmy climate of Vancouver and the Pacific Coast.

There are two Canadian National trains leave Toronto daily for the West. The National carries standard sleeping car and compartment observation car drawn at 10.45 p.m. Steel equipped, the National is luxurious in every detail. A standard sleeping car connecting with the Continental Limited, the train de luxe of the Canadian National leaves Toronto every evening at 8.45.

Travellers to California or other points on the Pacific Coast usually take the famous scenic route through Canada because of its beauty. Excellent connections are made at Vancouver with both steamship and train.

Make reservations or get further particulars from any Canadian National Ticket Agent.

To All Radio Fans: desiring information pertaining to Radio or trouble with sets will write all questions to Radio Club Question Box Intelligencer and your letters will be answered by the Club through the paper.

RADIO FACTS INTERESTING TO THOSE CONCERNED

Long distance stations ordinarily can be heard on a crystal detector set.

A vacuum tube regenerative set, in but only one tube self-bring in signals from nearby the same distance as a set having an audion frequency amplifier. The amplifier only serves to increase the strength of signals brought in by the detector tube for the purpose of operating a loud speaker or making the signals louder in the phones.

The night ranges of sending and receiving stations is much greater than the daylight range. Do not expect to hear stations a great distance away in the daytime.

There are nights, rare in winter, and common in the summer, when it is impossible to bring in distant stations. This is due to atmospheric conditions beyond our control. This condition should be met philosophically as something that can not be avoided, and not used as the basis of a complaint to the radio dealer who sold you your set.

A radio set will not work satisfactorily when the batteries are nearly run down. Keep your storage battery well charged, or if you use dry cells always have some that are in good condition. Test your B. batteries with a voltmeter occasionally and throw them away when the voltage is 40 per cent. below normal.

Never get impatient with your set. Nine chances out of ten a man fusses with radio can find your trouble in a half-minute. If you will take the trouble to familiarize yourself with the instrument and its parts you will do the same. There is a reason for every little trouble.

Don't talk about the wonders and mysteries of radio and the scientific and delicate nets that have made it possible, and then condemn the dealer or manufacturer when your set won't work with the aerial disconnected, the vacuum tubes burned out, or the batteries connected with polarity wrong. A delicate instrument must be treated in an intelligent manner.

If you have not learned in time previously, but manage to tune in on long distance station, don't condemn your set because you do not hear them all. The fact that you heard one station shows that the set is all right; all you need is patience, and you will be able to get the same ones as your neighbors.

Don't expect to get louder or clearer music when your vacuum tubes are turned up brighter than normal. If anything, the clearness and quality will be unpleasant noises introduced. A slight overload on the tubes will make the in turn out in a fraction of their normal life.

City and District

About 25 members of the W. W. gathered to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vandervoort, Front of Thurlow, to spend a social evening. Mr. W. Ashley master of ceremonies attended to the business of the club in the usual manner after which games and music were indulged in. Miss Ida Grace, Mr. F. Ashley, Mrs. Geo. Connor carried away the prizes of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Vandervoort were called to the floor while Mrs. M. A. Phillip read an address and Mrs. F. Miller presented them with a case of silver on behalf of the members. Also taken by surprise suitable replies were made, after which dainty lunch was served, the guests departed leaving best wishes and happy return for their coming anniversary.

The Hon Ton orchestra supplied the dance music for the social uncalled dance at Johnstone's academy last night, until the dance proved to be a highly interesting event. Dancing which commenced at 8.30 concluded at 1 a.m. and dainty refreshments were served during the evening.

SEASON'S MODELS REVIVE PERIODS OF LONG AGO IN DRESS

Some Ideas Have Been Borrowed from Eras Characterized as the Vainest, Most Dandified in Social History

When the subject of dress becomes one of costume, of periods, of tradition, it may be as entertaining to people in general as to any woman in particular. This season has developed interesting features in the revival and adaptation of some of the fashions of earlier times. Some ideas are borrowed from eras that were characterized in their day as the vainest, most dandified in social history and the manner of introducing them as elements of the most up-to-date costume is altogether fascinating.

A few seasons past, modistes, after despairing of novelty, eliminated entirely part of a gown—the sleeve. Thereafter, and even now, every gown for whatever time and occasion has been minus the sleeves. The vogue of the sleeveless frock has rested with those who have beautiful arms, and the others have been acquiescent, so they were in style.

But the mood has been slowly changing, and apathy on the part of patrons has stimulated the Parisian artists to a revival of old successes. Hence some of the new sleeves of the models received from the leading houses. Their history is also always interesting, but they are entertaining, nevertheless.

Slashed to Knee

Without attempting to be accurate, there are in the latest styles suggestions of the little puffed sleeves of 1910 that went with the little gathered bodice and high Rocamier waistline. There was also the long skintight sleeve worn [illegible] with the [illegible] of 1911. Then came the mood of a shoe horn. And there is the sleeveless model of today, which repeats that of 1795, when the skirt was brazenly slashed to the knee.

One horror that experience has withheld is the fashion of leg-of-mutton sleeve that flourished about 1896. A very late sleeve model traces its origin to the time of 1850-56; that is the sleeve which fits the upper arm and is set into the bodice at the shoulder, and to which is gathered a full undersleeve, held in at the wrist after the fashion of the bishop sleeve.

Quebec, April 16.—The ice movement in the St. Lawrence River has been general for the past three days, and the movement in Lake St. Peter has progressed to such an extent that it is estimated that more than one-third of the ice on the lake has passed through the outlet into the St. Lawrence.

The lake is expected to be entirely clear this evening.

"Sally doesn't believe in make up. She doesn't! Why her face is always thick with paint!"

"Well, she quarrels with me one night and she won't make up today."

The fairer the hostess the heavier the reckoning.

Let us have florins and we shall find cousins.

Chicago, April 15.—William J. Cusick was in jail today instead of going on his honeymoon as he had planned, with Miss Clara Merkle, telephone girl.

Then days ago Cusick borrowed a suit of clothes in which to do his courting and marrying, from his friend John Waugh, with the understanding that he was to be married in three or four days and would pay 50 cents a day for the use of the clothes. Waugh claimed Cusick disappeared and paid no clothes rent.

Waugh learned Cusick and Miss Merkle were to be married Sunday. He was there half an hour early with a policeman.

Itching Eczema Dried Right Up With Sulphur

Any breaking out of the skin, even fever, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin troubles should get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

EVERY SPORT AT A GLANCE

HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE

CURRENT SPORT IN BRIEF FORM

When you are looking for bizarre events you can always turn to sport and find what you want. Normal height of most great athletes is between the 168 and 178 pounds. Here at least you are beside the mark. If a man's weight is between the figures he is in a class by himself. The key to the break of football is the lightness of the backfield men. Mr. Michael McTague's statistics, the Michael McTague who is still wearing the crown that he won as possible be rated great because, also all this in spite of the fact that he is the best offensive of all champions, whatever the class.

McTague isn't a dub. He has brains and courage, a cool head and a good bit of natural amount of cleverness. But he isn't of championship mold and not on the front of former referred to ever get his name on top. Young Stribling at the age of nineteen has total seven his time. He would be a joke with Tom Gibbons and almost as badly outclassed by Gene Tunney. It, as a matter of extreme to be that he could hold his own for long in my Slattery, of Buffalo. There are 10 or a dozen between the 168 and 178 who can take Mike's measure, yet the old chapter of wild boasts seems to still surmounting his clammy brow. And there are those who say that fate and destiny are unimportant details in the football existence!

Which is the reason why we say that the science of trap, hard hitting he will have to learn, and the boxer who can't hit the way that hasty hitters are sure said only once, having proved the limit he is capable. No boxer minus the crushing punch is ever lauded with the laurel wreaths.

HARD HITTING

We have been told often that hard hitters are born, not made. That is true to certain ingredients of hitting power, but developments and improvements count above all other details. Has," hitters must be taught and both the natural hitter and he who can do this teaching.

Floyd Johnson hit Dempsey harder enough to knock down Dempsey. This he proved to prove he had the punch to knock out anywhere in his system, but he had never been taught the way to use it consistently. There are clever boxers who could never be taught to hit with killing power. But there are also hard hitters who could be made into hard hitters and among those in this class are Floyd Johnson and Young Stribling.

BRAINS AND THE WALLOP

What chance has the punch, however, against one-arm game, remorse, unusual physical power, cool composure, and brains? Not a chance. Brains will always win over those who lead in physical ways.

The greatest defensive card in baseball has been "Rabbit" Maranville for the smart ball player—but the doesn't exhibit for his legendary in the turnstiles. The feather that has lured the great crowds out is the melody of said batting ball, the big crack of the bat that starts on its way to another reservation beyond the fence.

Ty Cobb follows Ruth as the next card. Cobb's greatness was not in the to his brain and in no small part to his speed and skill on the bases.

Cobb as a .370 hitter would never have been acclaimed as he has been, no matter if his brain power had been stupid.

The winning combination, of course, is power directed by brains. Yet if "Babe" Ruth had the completest kind of ultimate boneh ad, with only his ability to hoist the baseball out of the ward, he would far above the greatest of all cards. A ball player with a bean capacity of concrete and iron and he would hit dirty on seventy home runs a season would endanger Ruth.

Dempsey, in addition to being a smashing hitter, is also a smart boxer. But it is Dempsey's power to punch that yields him a half-million for each start.

—THE CASE FOR BRAINS

Perhaps You Need a Tonic

A tonic is necessary in all run-down conditions, after colds, fevers and illnesses of all kinds. When you are tired, anaemic, undernourished, nervous, tired, blood, you have symptoms. If you can't sleep, have no appetite, feel miserable and depressed, a tonic will fix you. The tonic best suited for general use is Carnol. It can be given with perfect safety to a delicate child, a convalescent, or to an aged person. It is made from the prescription of an eminent physician. Hundreds of doctors prescribe Carnol in their practice. Here's what Mr. Davis says about Carnol:

"We have sold Carnol for two years. During those two years we have seen many new so-called tonics tried out, but they did not repeat, and people did not advise their friends to buy them. Carnol has been bought by the people who used it before. It has been recommended by people to their friends and has enjoyed a good sale. We believe that it has the ingredients that go to make up one of the very best nerve and food builders ever put before the public."—Davis the Druggist, Colborne and 6th Sts., New Westminster, B.C. 11-9

Carnol is sold by all good druggists everywhere.

OLYMPICS

ON THE ALLEYS

In a gaffe for the nats between the Wanderers and the Olympics, the former team alipped it past the Olympics the second time in a row. After the game all adjourned to the Quinte Cafe, where the losers paid for the eats and he lit and spilled the beans. the looks of what some of the winners "stored" away that they must have been on a fast for the past week. Affer an bountiful meal on the part of the Wanderers, another game of bowling was played with Frost and Alexander as pin boys and it was called a night after that. Players and scores.

Last night at the Y alleys two games were rolled in the mixed league which were very closely contested, the results of which were decided by a few pins. It was over, in the first game the Greyhounds and Co-Getters broke all the way with the latter winning out by 53 pins. Skyrm was high for the night both in the single and the three string with 201 and 493, while M. Hall contested the two for the men with 319 and 530. In the second game the Onwards and the Y. Reds hooked up which the latter won by 58 pins. The Reds took both the first two games but were not able to hold the Onwards in their stride in the third as the game Mrs. Rutherford carried off both honors with a single of 297 and 577 for the set. W. Walske led the men with 222 and 537.

BASEBALL SEASON AWAY WITH BANG!

New York, April 12.—Major league baseball today thrilled to the arrival of opening day.

Today many of the big league outfits are on their home grounds for the final tuning up. Today the American league inaugurated its twenty-fifth season, and the National league, close to the half-century mark opened its 49th.

Wherever fans gather the "dope-sters" are discussing the question that looms biggest on the diamond horizon—will the New York Giants and Yankees repeat? Peasants of the last three seasons flutter from metropolitan Rasputin, and among those "dopesters," there is a majority opinion that McGraw and Huggins will make it four straights, a few of which would find no parallel in American baseball league history.

But even those most optimistic of the champs of New York's veteran outfits to set diamond history concede that they face a difficult path. Observers who have watched the season form most closely believe the world's champion Yankees will be the terest of their brilliant triumph of last fall, will be the most formidable of the two Gotham entries, but, even so, they will encounter stronger foes.

Ty Cobb's Detroit Tigers, some what of a disappointment in 1923, appear stronger in the box and around the outfield than a year ago, and with Speaker's Cleveland Indians, a hard-hitting, experienced machine, loom as the biggest most dangerous rivals.

Dark Horses

The Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox belong in the "dark horse" category. The Mackmen, greatly strengthened by several expensive baseball buys and another pitcher, promise to set a lively pace, while the Red Sox, after several seasons of floundering, appear rejuvenated under Lee Fohl's leadership.

The showing of the St. Louis Browns depends largely upon whether George Sisler, after a full season of illness, because of eye trouble, is able to resume his brilliant form in the field and at bat, plus his managerial duties. Washington, under the guidance of a youthful new pilot, Stanley Harris, does not look any stronger than last year, when the Senators finished fifth, but the Chicago White Sox, now under Frank Chance, have to improve their seventh-place finish of 1923.

Giants Rebuilt

The Giants, after a rebuilt by McGraw after their stunning defeat in the last world's series, base their hopes on better pitching and the ability of several youngsters to come through. The Nationals' Reds suffered a bitter blow in the death of their manager, Pat Moran, but, with the best pitching staff in the league and a veteran cast, they share with Brooklyn, another experienced, hard-hitting outfit with good twirling, the position of leading contenders. This outstanding trio will be most closely pressed, experts believe, by the Chicago Cubs, who look upon a constitutional mound corps; the St. Louis Cardinals, with a veteran infield staff, and the Boston Braves, who also boast a good pitching corps.

Brooklyn and the Phillies both have been strengthened, but their chances of capturing the second division depths are slim.

Ball Practices Commence Tonight

Grand Trunk baseball players will practice this evening in the armouries at 8 o'clock and a regular one tonight, will be the first of its season. Incidentally, among the old players expected are Millie brothers, Oulette, Meagher, Williams, Casey, Hogan, Hagerman, Weir and others. Jack White, formerly of Toronto, recently signed will be out if is expected, and Kelly, who is another heavy year will also turn out.

Others who believe they can catch a place are heartily invited by Manager Walter Geroe to put in an appearance tonight.

The junior league of Hastings and Prince Edward counties also plan an opening practice at the high school grounds this evening at 8.30. They also extend a hearty invitation to all youths in the city who can play ball, and who are under twenty years of age.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Saved From Years of Headaches.

MRS. HONORE VALIQUETTE

The wonders of the famous Fruit Treatment are only revealed when you read a letter like this, which comes from Madame Valiquette, 1133 Notre Dame St. W., Montreal:

"For three years, I was troubled with bad Headaches, Nervous Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. Then, I began taking "Fruit-a-tives". Very soon my condition improved, and thanks to these wonderful fruit tablets I am once more entirely well".

"Fruit-a-tives" is the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, blended and combined with tonics —and forms a complete fruit treatment for Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Skin Troubles.

Women Are Most Interesting at Forty

Says Gertrude Atherton, Famous American Novelist, Interviewed by B. F. Wilson

"Forty is the most interesting age in life for women," declares Gertrude Atherton, one of the foremost American novelists.

We were sitting in the living room of her suite at the Hotel Madison Square: a quaint, old-fashioned family sort of hotel, small and unpretentious. Probably two-thirds of Manhattan are unaware of its existence. The great novelist had been in the city for two weeks, during which time she had spent almost every waking hour within the fashionable environment of one of the large down emporiums. She told me with great pride that now had always bought her gowns at this shop, having followed it from the early stages of its success when it used to have a small establishment in Thirty-fourth street until it moved to its present opulent quarters in Fifth avenue.

She was far more interested in telling me of her new wardrobe than she was in answering my questions about the modern woman. This is characteristic of the vital, energetic and brilliant author. Although a grand mother, she is as much interested in the ever-changing topic of style as she is in her next novel. She is a small, attractive woman who looks about forty. Her hair is as blond as a girl's and her eyes as clear and keen. Her complexion is pink and white, and she moves with the swinging, quick grace of a young woman.

Gertrude Atherton has been writing novels for over thirty years. She is one of America's most brilliant craftswomen, and her books are considered literary events where they appear.

I finally managed to pin her down, after she had sent me the hint that my chances of getting her to talk on the subject were very slim, and quite forcibly mind the fact that she was in no position to discuss the troubles of women today, inasmuch as no two of the sex were alike, she declared:

"I think every woman is entitled to a distinct profession and career apart from her husband and home.

"I may sound crazy, but there are thousands of women in this country who if they had the courage of their convictions could become excellent financial and industrial leaders. These are women who have made excellent wives and mothers, and who are dissatisfied and vaguely unhappy because they daren't upset conventions. They sit at home and decay whereas they would be far happier, and of greater benefit to the world at large, if they would develop their latent ambitions and desires for active creative work.

"I am not a domestic woman. I have lived most of my life in hotels, and I really enjoy doing so. I love to travel. I would hate being a slave to my possessions.

"But I raised three children, and at the same time have worked at my books with as much joy and pleasure in doing one as the other.

"The girls, the younger women of this day aren't very much different from the girls of the past generation or quite all the noise about the flapper. I think her day is past, however. She was a silly little thing of no such consequence. One phase of her existence, which to my mind is the most advantageous occurrence of the present day, is the fact that few of her species marry when extremely young. It's a very good thing.

"No girl ought to marry until she is twenty-two at least. She doesn't know her own mind before that time—is filled with illusions which are the most detrimental factor for domestic peace, and although even at twenty-two she is still inexperienced, I consider the disadvantage of young girls marrying so important that I wish a social law could be established which would keep them from doing so before they have reached maturity.

Too many people guess about their eyes

In fact I believe most folks do that. It seems they try to make themselves believe they have normal sight, rather than submit to an examination to learn the true condition of their eyes. Such an attitude is decidely unwise. Why not give your eyes the consideration they deserve? Glad to be of service to you. Phone 128 for appointment.

Mrs. Holmberg Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Viking, Alta.—"From the time I was 16 years old I would get such bad feelings in the lower part of my abdomen, followed by cramps and vomiting. This kept up for many years. (I help my parents on the farm) as I usually had to go to bed for the rest of the day. Or at times I would have to wait for the doctor. I suffered in this way until a friend induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very satisfactory results so far and am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends. I surely am glad I tried it for I feel like a different person now that I don't have these troubles."—Mrs. Ozmia Holmberg, Box 95, Viking, Alberta.

Letters like this establish the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking it.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills in this country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials prove this fact.

If you doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for Mrs. Pinkham's private text-book and learn more about it. G

Economical for Cooking

THERE is no waste with Carnation Milk. It stays fresh in the can indefinitely and for several days when opened. It serves in place of cream at breakfast and later in the day will add richness to your cooking.

Carnation is just pure fresh milk, evaporated to double richness, kept safe by sterilization. By adding a little more than an equal part of water you have milk of natural consistency for every milk use.

Order several tall (16 oz.) cans or a case of 48 cans from your grocer.

Try this recipe and write for your copy of the Carnation Cook Book containing 100 tested recipes.

The Label is Red and White

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE: 4 egg yolks, 2 cups sugar, ½ cup butter, ½ cup Carnation Milk, ½ cup water or substitute, ¼ teaspoon salt, 4 egg whites, 2¼ cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 4 squares unsweetened chocolate, ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Cream the butter or substitute, add the sugar gradually, then the well-beaten egg yolks. Add alternately the milk diluted with water and flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Add melted chocolate and vanilla, then the stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Bake in a loaf from 40 to 50 minutes. This recipe serves from twelve to fifteen people.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

The last words were almost inaudible, but she caught the sense of his reluctation, and she trembled. If he had thrown himself at her feet—if he had flung his arms round her head she would have fallen on his breast and all would have been well; but he stood motionless in the corn; and she, feeling the wound as keenly as he, yet hardened her heart, and setting her teeth firmly would not yield and let the temptation that assailed her; the terrible longing to cry: "No, no; I did not mean it so!"

"I am all right," he said, presently. "I don't deserve that you should give a thought to my welfare, and I am very grateful to you. You've treated me better than I deserve; and I'll take care that you shan't be annoyed by the sight of me while I'm here."

There was a slight tremor in his voice which Bob heard, and he went to his master and thrust his muzzle against him; then he walked slowly to Jack's and licked the white hand that hung at her side.

Jack looked at the dog absently; then he said, as if the thought had just struck him:

"Miss Vancourt, if you've any desire to have a good cook on my hand, you can do so by granting me a favour—it's the only favour I'll ask you, I swear. I'm fond of him, and it goes hard with him when I'm on the track; or as now, and it's likely we not I shall have him stolen—he had one or two narrow escapes already. Will you—I won't say accept him—but be good enough to give me a happy home?"

She understood, of course. It was the most precious thing he had got—the only thing, indeed, he valued; and he was offering it to her as a peace-offering, as a token of his penitence and remorse. The lump rose in her throat; but the hardened breast again.

"No, I do not want him," she said in a strangely dull voice.

"All right," he said. "I thought perhaps you might have been kind enough. Poor old Bob! he'll have a rough time of it."

She looked at the dog's upturned eyes, large and sad—as if he knew what was being said—and her breath came painfully.

"If you think he may be ill-treated—that you may lose him, you may leave him, if you like. He shall be taken care of."

As she said it with seeming relief, she wondered he did not see that her anger had melted, that he coldness was more than half assumed. But Jack was a modest man, and no lady-killer, and had not the least suspicion of the truth. It only appeared to him that she was treating him very ironically, that she regarded him as too common, too unimportant for a continued resentment.

"Thanks!" he said, with forced cheerfulness, and averting his eyes from Bob, "I'll go now. If I dared, I'd ask you to try and forgive me— But that's impossible. I know," he broke off, almost hoarsely. "Good-night, and good-bye, Miss Vancourt." He put his hat on; he had held it in his hand till now. "I'll send Bob with you now. Here, Bob! take care of you to the house—it's late, and some one may be in the wood." He looked at the dog, then looked away again quickly as he uttered the command: "Go with her, Bob!"

Esther could scarcely breathe for the painful throbbing of her heart as she turned to go. But Bob, for the first time in his life, refused to obey, and dragged back with an imploring whine.

"Never mind," she said, "I will send for him."

"One moment," he said, still with suspicious indifference. "I'll tie something to his collar. He'll follow you readily enough after you've led him a few yards."

He bunted for his handkerchief, then remembered it was in the breast-pocket of his shirt, and thrust his hand in for it. In taking it out, he took out another, and the second fell to the ground. He stopped quickly to recover it, but Esther had seen it; she recognised it; it was stained with blood. A cry rose to her lips, but she stifled it, her eyes rested on his head with the look which a woman bestows on the thing she loves, and loves passionately—and, knowing that love welled up in her heart at that moment!—but she fought it down with the strength which is woman's birthright, and her voice sounded coldly enough to Jack as she said:

"I think that is my handkerchief!"

He hand stood over it, and he looked at her for a moment steadily. Should he give it her? No! she might have the Towers, she might have even Bob, but that little square of dainty cambric he would keep at all costs.

"No, it isn't he said. "It is one of mine."

He uttered the lie calmly, unblushingly. And Esther was too staggered by his denial, and by the joy it gave her, to pronounce a word.

"There he is!" he said, as he tied his handkerchief to Bob's collar. "Go now, old man! Good-bye! There, there! there! —Good-bye, Miss Vancourt!"

He looked at her for a moment, then before she could raise her eyes—in which surely he would have read the confession of her love!—he turned and strode away. But he stopped when she was out of sight and listened to her retreating footsteps, and Bob's white, both sobbing him to the heart. There were the two creatures he loved. He waited until he saw the two went the grass to the house, then he walked away with bent head and nerves on edge.

The silence to the house was short, but the voltage of Esther life took place in it.

Go back to him! Call to him! One word only! Let it be him, she felt, as her heart beat in her bosom; then under that handkerchief. Cruel, down that piece of linen and call to him! The man loves you—and he is a man, though your inferior. Call him, and tell him you love him, or, like a fool, be wretched for the rest of your life!

But she walked on, slowly and still more slowly; the unhappy face looking up at her with great imploring eyes; the sighs, echoing the cry of her heart.

She might have turned, even at the door, but Palmer was waiting for her, and insolently shame restrained her.

Dominion Merchants Complain Goods Are Smuggled in; Quota's Application

St. Thomas, Ont., April 14.—The people of western Ontario were preparing to be sore on the United States if that country decided to place Canadians who desired to enter the republic as immigrants or the same plane as the nationals of other countries, and now that it has been practically agreed that the quota law shall not apply to Canadians there is still a disposition to be dissatisfied with Washington.

Now there is a shrewd suspicion that the United States has a card up its sleeve, and that in penalizing the people of Canada to come and go as they will the gates are being left down for the depopulation of the dominion.

St. Thomas merchants say they would be glad if the United States made the laws so strict it would be difficult for the residents of western Ontario run over to Detroit or Buffalo and do their shopping. If stories in circulation here are to be believed, watchful as they are the customs officials do not get a fraction of the people who smuggle goods across at Windsor, Sarnia and Niagara Falls.

Railway officials here say that though Canadians are to be allowed to enter the United States as freelyas has been the case, the new immigration legislation is going to be a good thing for Canada because it will prevent persons now living in Canada, but who may be of English, Irish or Scotch birth from emigrating except in such numbers as the British and Irish Free State quotas will permit. On the basis of the U.S. census of 1910 only 24,000 persons of British birth and 24,000 of Irish birth will be allowed to go into the republic in any one year, and with the new immigration that is now going on from Great Britain there will be very much room for any sort of an exodus from Canada.

Irish Boundary Dispute Yet Far From Settlement

Dublin, April 15—The Free State is pressing the British government to expedite settlement of the boundary dispute between northern and southern Ireland. Resumption of the conference in London is being held up by the illness of Premier Sir James Craig, of Ulster, and William T. Cosgrave, president of the Free State legislative council, is represented as favoring termination of another representative to take Craig's place.

Failing an agreement at the conference, the Free State is understood to have planned to set up the boundary commission provided for in the Anglo-Irish treaty, but without a delegate from Ulster, the northern government having thus far refused to appoint one. Members of the Ulster cabinet in the National residents of the six-county area, have urged the Free State cabinet to persist no further delay, but a hitch is seen in the report from well-informed sources that an English law officer has given the opinion that the boundary commission representation. The commission cannot, it is stated, proceed with only the Free State and Great Britain represented, and an act of parliament will be necessary to solve the difficulty.

"Eczema All Over Arms Suffered for 12 Years"

Mrs. Murray Hough, Wiarton, Ont., writes:

"I had eczema for twelve years. Every once in a while it would break out and spread all over my arms. I tried all kinds of treatments to relieve it, but without success. One Spring it broke out and nothing gave me relief even the salve I got from the doctor did no good. At last I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment and it healed the eczema in a short time. That is over a year ago, and I have had no return of the trouble."

Don't Let Housework Ruin Your Hands

To heal chafing, soreness or that harsh chapped feeling of the skin caused by housework, Zam-Buk is invaluable. This herbal balm soaks through the pores, soothing and purifying the whole tissue, killing and removing poisonous disease germs, and renewing the skin.

There are soothing, healing and germicidal virtues in Zam-Buk, never found in ordinary fatty ointments and salves. That is because Zam-Buk is a highly-concentrated medicinal preparation of unique herbal origin.

Zam-Buk is proved equally good for ending attacks of eczema, ulcers, ringworm, blood-poison or piles. It quickly soothes and heals all cuts, burns, chilblains, etc., and clears the skin of pimples and blotches.

Failing an agreement at the conference, the Free State is understood to have planned to set up the boundary commission provided for in the Anglo-Irish treaty, but without a delegate from Ulster, the northern government having thus far refused to appoint one. Members of the Ulster cabinet in the National residents of the six-county area, have urged the Free State cabinet to persist no further delay, but a hitch is seen in the report from well-informed sources that an English law officer has given the opinion that the boundary commission representation. The commission cannot, it is stated, proceed with only the Free State and Great Britain represented, and an act of parliament will be necessary to solve the difficulty.

London Morning Post Into New Hands With Duke of Northumberland as Chief

London, April 15.—With reference to the sale of the London Morning Post by the Countess of Bathurst to a body of influential Conservatives, with whom the Duke of Northumberland will known Conservative, is practically associated, friendly critics admit that the Countess of Balhurst has conducted the paper ably in its stand for Conservatism.

Admission is made just as readily that the Duke of Northumberland, who now assumes proprietorial ownership of the Post, has made many political enemies.

Critics who are less friendly acknowledge that, while the Morning Post's opinion may be reckless and intolerant, the paper invariably carries the stamp of good craftsmanship.

The official announcement of the sale of the Morning Post states that the traditions and policy of the paper will be maintained under the new ownership.

SITE UNCERTAIN FOR HARTY ARENA

Kingston, April 15.—In view of the fact that there is some uncertainty as to whether the new skating rink to be erected to replace the Jock Harty Arena, which was destroyed by fire, is to be built on the site near the Richardson Stadium, the tenders will not close until April 28. It had been arranged that the tenders for the new rink were to be in the hands of the Athletic Board of Control at Queen's University not later than April 15. Although nothing official is being given out, it is understood that the Queen's authorities have not decided upon erecting the new building on the Union Street site. It is stated that the new rink will be absolutely fireproof, and there is still a chance that it may be put upon the old site of the Harty Arena.

JACKIE COOGAN COMING IN GREAT CIRCUS FILM

Jackie Coogan and a great circus are coming to town. Jackie will realize the dream of nearly every boy—young as six or old as sixty—and will be the star of a glittering, gorgeous, mammoth aggregation of the world's most marvelous wonders. Though he will be seen first as a very humble and a very forlorn young lad selling lemonade, lemonade and peanuts to occupants of the "Backyard of Dad's garden" down on earth.

Sol Lesser presents Jackie in this successor to the same producer's presentation of "Oliver Twist," and the name of the lavish picture which will be shown at the Griffin Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday is "Circus Days." It is a very free and liberal transcription for the screen taken from James Otis' every popular story for boys (and girls, too) "Toby Tyler," which story has been current and popular for two generations and bids fair to endure unto the theatre era. Harry Weir and Lawrence Billie Cliffe are responsible for the adaptation of "Toby Tyler" and a cast of extraordinary excellence will be seen in the leading roles.

Barbara Tennis will be seen as Toby's harassed mother; Claire McDowell will appear as Martha, the somewhat sacred sum of the hero; Russell Simpson takes the part of Uncle Rhes Holt; Cesare Gravina, who made a big hit with his performance of the role of the aged veteran with Jackie in "Daddy," the pottery another endearing role of that ol' Adam; Pearlen Jackson will be adorable as the tiny equestrienne star of the big show; Sam De Grasse assumes the role of the hard-Mr. Lord, owner of the circus concessions; DeWitt Jennings is Mr. Daly, the shrewd and none too kindly owner of the show and Nellie Lone and Wilbur Barlow, will appear respectively as Toby's real mother and father, whose role is the leanest man in the world.

An entire circus equipment was assembled for the making of this the most pretentious and realistic production in which the genius of little Jackie has yet shown.

WALLY VAN COMING

How many of you remember Wally Van? Back in the days when movies were just beginning to register, Wally was among the shining lights that peered out at the public, which was still dazed by seeing pictures actually moving, and along with John Bunny, "Broncho Billy" Anderson and Flora Finch, he built up such popularity, as a comedian that, if it could be seen to-day, would be one to-day. Of course Wally was just a boy then and for that matter he still is, but a few years ago he felt the movies first, never to return.

It's like everything else, this movie sense, and "they" say, if you once get bitten in your shoes, you are bound to go back and so here is another case where "they" are right.

Van's first picture since his return is "The Driving Fool"—a Hodkinson picture which will be shown at the Regent Theatre, Tuesday to Saturday. Thrills suspense and romance are crammed into this swift-moving comedy and he gives Wally a great chance to display his happy-go-lucky ways. A strong supporting cast includes, Patsy Ruth Miller, Alec B. Francis, Wilton Taylor, Ramsey Wallace and others.

WILL DELORME GAIN FREEDOM

Montreal, April 15—In Bordeaux jail there is a man, a priest, awaiting trial for the third time for his life. He is charged with the murder, on the night of January 6-7, 1922, of his half-brother, a young college student. Three times already has Father J. Adelard Delorme stood, before the bar of justice. The first time he was adjudged insane; and two juries in the Court of King's Bench have returned without being able to reach a verdict.

Now the whole of Montreal, and much of Canada for that matter, is wondering whether the man will be brought to trial again at the next term opening on the seventh of next month, or whether the case will be held over until the following session in August, 1925.

Delorme, according to advices from the jail, spends his days in much the same manner as before. He eats, exercises, sometimes reads and dreams. Nobody knows his thoughts except his Maker; nobody can know what passes through his mind during the long hours of silent contemplation.

Should another trial take place, and there is every reason to believe that it will, Montreal's grim old court house dusty with years, filled with ghosts of murderers and others long since turned into dust, will again be the centre of attraction. Talk of a change of venue has been heard, but it is extremely unlikely that the scene of the battle will be changed.

Nobody can forecast the result of a third trial. In this country a jury may return but one of two verdicts, "Guilty" or "not guilty". In Scotland there is another way out. There a jury may bring in a verdict of "not proven," which is considered a stigma on a man's character. If such a decision is reached, in Scotland the accused may be re-arrested at any time should new evidence be discovered.

If "guilty", then an accused must pay the penalty of the law; if "not guilty" then he walks out of the court room a free man.

NEW TRAIN SERVICE TO CHICAGO

An announcement of unusual interest to all who have occasion to visit Chicago and cities farther west, has been made by the management of Canadian National Railways.

In addition to the already complete Canadian National Railways service operating from Toronto to Chicago, there will be inaugurated on April 27th a new observation sleeping car service leaving Toronto daily at 11.45 p.m. arriving Chicago next day at 2.50 p.m. Central time.

Besides providing a most convenient leaving time, this new service is highly attractive in its time of arrival. By using it passengers bound for points west of the Illinois metropolis will have ample time for business or pleasure in Chicago, and still make all connections for Western points that same evening.

New Law Re Driving Auto While Under Influence of Liquor Is Propounded—Elusive "Hubby" Provides New Angle—Not Guilty of Indecent Assault Charge

Bertram Richardson, aged 19, was found not guilty on a charge of indecent assault entered against him by the mother of the twelve year old girl complainant, when he appeared before Magistrate Masson this morning. The complainant withdrew her statement this morning. Richardson was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives John Theakston, C. A. Payne defended accused.

The Hand of Fate

James F. Collins is the unluckiest man in Belleville. While driving west on Station street last night in his new car, he collided with the police car, driven by Detective Dan Boyle, as the police car came out on Station street from Bailey Ave. The light Ford which was travelling slowly to pass a buggy, was shunted in the rear and sent the length of itself along the pavement.

Collins states that he did not see the car as he was hidden from view by the buggy. The police car suffered a dented rear fender and a damaged spring. The former which was owned by Sergeant Boyd was blamed by Collins for not sounding his horn and Collins' car "was warned to go home he persist in argument once he was arrested on a charge of being drunk in charge of a car.

At the station accused demanded a physician for examination and Dr. G. E. Trousdale recommended he be examined accused as to sobriety.

Today the case was enlarged until Saturday when Dr. Crunk will give evidence. Accused was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

Own Law Now

Previously anyone arrested on a charge of being drunk in charge of a car, could not evade seven days in jail if convicted. The newly framed Highway Traffic Act has done away with that. A man found drunk in charge of a car now may be charged under the Highway Traffic Act, and not the Criminal Code. Hence, even for a first offence is the cancellation of his driving license, and, if he can't fill the owns the machine) for a period not to exceed three months. A license may yet be laid under the criminal code however, if the crown wishes, the penalty for which is still the same as in fall if convicted.

At the time of the accident last night Sergeant Boyd was answering a complaint by the owner of the Great St. James streets where child, were playing in the road were making themselves objectionable.

Elusive Hubby

County Attorney Bryson Dumon and Inspector T. D. Ruston of the A. S. left for Bancroft this morning where they have several cases for hearing before Magistrate J. M. Jacmyn.

Elusive "Hubby"

Married four years ago to a man who lived with her one month, a maiden accompanied by her "sister" appeared this morning and swore to a charge of desertion and non-support. Then she changed her mind.

They were married in Toronto, but after the husband left, wife moved to Trenton where she still resides with father.

Hubby lives in God's country—Belleville.

Condemned Man's Brother Seen With Pat Norton Says Ohio Rumor

London, Ont.,—The London police are still in the dark in regard to the story published in Toronto that William Murrell, George Floyd Norton's known alias, as "Pat" had been seen in Columbus, Ohio, where they were working in an automobile factory.

The Chief of Police of Columbus all mile have been received by detectives from Toronto Provincial police officers in regard to the matter, but as yet then had no description of the man he was wanted to act. Murrell's younger brother, Sidney, was hanged here on Tuesday last for the murder of a garage man at Melbourne, Ont., who arrested at the time the crime was committed in April of 1921, but he and Sidney escaped from the London jail in September of the same year.

Sidney was recaptured when he was arrested in California on a charge of robbery, and identified as a murderer wanted in Canada. Detectives from the day of the murder and has been at large ever since. Large rewards have been offered for the arrest of both men.

Hon. Peter Smith as he appeared in police court Tuesday, and the mail which was served to him while in custody Monday night awaiting $50,000 bail.

A Belleville Citizen For Seventy-Five Years

Mr. Frank M. Clarke to-day Celebrates Two-fold Anniversary—Has Copy of Intelligencer Printed in 1837—Grand Secretary of Orange Lodge, Ontario East, for Thirty Years

To-day marks an anniversary in life of a local citizen that will long remain in his memory. Mr. Frank M. Clarke, son of the late Robert M. Clarke, has the distinction of being a resident of Belleville for seventy-five years, being born and bred here. While the original house in which Mr. Clarke was born is not standing to-day, his present home is on the site of his birthplace.

Many of the happenings of other days, especially those following the 1837 Rebellion in the United States, are especially keen in the memory of Mr. Clarke, having served on frontier duty in the early days of '37 and '38. In addition to many places of trust held in public and private life, Mr. Clarke has been Division Court Clerk for nineteen years, and in the insurance business for over half a century.

For fifty years a member of the I. O. O. F., Mr. Clarke joined the organization at their first meeting in Belleville of Lodge No. 37, now incorporated in Hungah Lodge. Mr. Clarke has also been a member of and District Grand Lodge for Ontario East for the past thirty years.

Mr. Clarke stated that he can remember clearly when Front street was paved with stone flags, and the Bay of Quinte, in the heyday of its fame as a yachting ground, flashing in the sun white canvas of each skilled craft.

A reader of The Intelligencer since he was old enough to read, and the father a subscriber before him, Mr. Clarke is the proud possessor of a copy of The Intelligencer printed in 1837.

Possible Secession of Prairie Provinces Hinted, on Tariff Issue

SPEAKES FOR WEST

Warning Voiced While Intervening In Budget Debate In House

Ottawa, April 16.—Possible secession of the three prairie provinces, if their economic interests were not favorably considered, was the warning voiced in the House of Commons to-day by Mr. Johnston, chief Progressive whip, when he intervened in the budget debate.

Sir Henry Drayton, opposition finance critic, was the first speaker in a discussion which will probably last for weeks. He subjected the fiscal program outlined by the Government to a comprehensive analysis, declared that the financial claims of the administration "were accomplished by book keeping rather than substantial nature and that the tariff cuts proposed would sacrifice Eastern Canada's future to American industrial interests.

Defence of the Government's policy came from Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, the first speaker put forward by the Liberal administration.

He contended that the reduction in the tariff would produce a general stimulus to business and might be expected to end the tide of emigration to the United States. While not wishing to see the tariff entirely abolished, the Minister hoped that the reductions made would prove the eventual deadwell of protection.

Speaks For West

Chief interest centered upon the attitude taken by Mr. Johnston. It was considered indicative of western sentiment regarding the budget. He is one of the leading Progressives and is the member for Battleford, Sask., Fort Qu'Appelle, he says may be taken as fairly representative of the agrarian group.

From the beginning of his speech it was apparent that he was disposed to be unusually friendly to the Government. He expressed it for the financial showing disclosed in the budget, explained its tax transition, urged further reductions in tariff and demanded greater consideration for the west.

Ottawa, April 16—Possible acceptance of the postal commission's report on economic interests were not favorably considered, was the warning voiced in the House of Commons to-day by Mr. Johnston, chief Progressive whip, when he intervened in the budget debate.

Toronto, April 16.—"The day will come, I am convinced of it, when in Canada we'll have only one school system—no separate schools. That is the biggest fault, the only one which we can follow to build up truly national ideals and institutions."

So said Rev. W. L. Lawrence, of Broadway Tabernacle, Deputy Grand Master for Ontario West of the Orange Lodge, in an address on "Religious Education in Our Public Schools" delivered before the Orange Luncheon Club in the Masonic Hotel yesterday evening.

There was at present a great agitation for the abolishment, continued Mr. Lawrence. It had been brought to a head, to a certain degree by the wave of juvenile crime which was sweeping the country. Many attributed this wave to the aftermath of the Great War, some to the Ontario Temperance Act, others to the moving picture theatres. But, perhaps, the greatest reason was the lack of religious instruction.

Vague on Religion

Characteristic of the present, too, was a lack of clarity or understanding on the part of the majority of the people of the great fundamentals of religion, the significance of God and of the brotherhood of humanity.

"How many times," asked Mr. Lawrence, "would give a sporting and definite outline of their religious beliefs?"

And so, partly due to the lack of knowledge on the part of the adults, schools or getting other religious educ- ... ...

SCIENCE AND FAITH

Bishop Fallon makes a strong point for the necessity of Faith, when he asks Science to explain a good many of the things with which it deals. What is electricity, for instance? Science, which can handle the mysterious element with exact nicety and make it serve men, cannot tell.

Right here enters the necessity for Faith. Men cannot explain themselves, and they went an explanation. What Science tells us is not very satisfying when we want to know why we are born, why we must die, and what is to become of that which we call soul.

Science cannot prove that man has a soul. Neither can the idea, which is a very fundamental part of all of us, be disproven by the scientific method. What all these things we must turn to Faith and to the religious concept where mystery is a most necessary part. If Science cannot answer these mysteries, why does it object to them?

A DEBT OF HONOR

Dost Canada owe a debt of gratitude to her soldiers who fought her battles in Europe and who died in her cause? So it is said in countless speeches and writings, and the numerous memorial monuments which have been and are still being erected in all parts of the country are evidence of the public recognition of the fact that such a debt is due.

But if Canada owes gratitude to her dead soldiers, why not also to those of her soldiers who suffer what is, probably, to most of them a fate worse than death—loss of limbs and of health, rendering them totally disabled from active work? The debt is acknowledged in the fact that the Canadian Government grants pensions to these unfortunate survivors of the war. They receive annual pensions up to $600, and to those whose $600 has been added on account of the increased cost of living. Now the Government proposes to drop the bonus.

Of the 3226 amputation cases almost all are obliged to depend solely upon the pension and bonus for their support. It is fair to depict them of the bonus at the time? Canada is grudged what she required to pay in the need for retrenchment in expenditure at Ottawa, we do not believe that of the Canadian people would endorse a program of economy which deems the country's maimed veterans to semi-destitution. We believe that public sentiment would favor the view that the country is under obligation to make such provision for its helpless veterans that they will not wait for the common necessities of life, and that this obligation is nothing short of a national debt of honor.

MUST FACE TRIAL

For the first time in the history of this province a former cabinet minister has been placed under arrest, charged with a serious offence against the public which trusted him. Given yet, however, Hon. Peter Smith is innocent in the eyes of the law and all we remain until his guilt is established by evidence produced in a criminal court.

So far, the evidence against him is not conclusive, but is sufficient to justify the arrest of the former Provincial Treasurer. Mr. Smith made his arrest inevitable when he declined to make any statement to the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature. The committee had been investigating some dark and mysterious transactions in the affairs of Provincial commission paid by banking firm of New York in connection with provincial business, and it looked as if the commission had gravitated in the direction of Mr. Smith himself. He was only one who could give the committee certain information which might have dispelled the mystery; he was summoned to give evidence; but, after he had heard the testimony of bank men from his home town, testimony which made it seem clear that he had received large sums in cash on or about the time when the commissions were paid, and had then entered to his credit in his personal account, Mr. Smith refused to testify. It was "on the advice of his counsel" that he refused.

Such refusals are usually interpreted to mean that the person refusing does so because of the danger that, giving his testimony, he might incriminate himself. And as Mr. Smith cannot reasonably complain if, by forcing his own arrest, he has deepened the suspicions which the character of the information given to the committee has directed towards himself.

For the sake of the general reputation of responsible public servants in this province, it is to be hoped that Mr. Smith will be able to clear himself when his case comes to trial. Meanwhile, fair-minded people will be inclined to suspend judgment.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Round 2 of the Balkan?

Is old Gen Paul Kruger to be victorious after all?

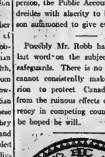

As the Small trial progresses, the fact becomes clear that the closet where the family skeleton is kept in family was concealed was a regular boneyard.

The reception accorded the Church Union Bill by the Ontario Legislature was evidently not regarded as a precedent by the Legislature of Prince Edward Island.

The resolution for the abolition of capital punishment having been voted down at Ottawa, it is now up to the murderers to do what they can to abolish capital punishment by ceasing to murder people.

Just see what it means to be under sentence. As soon as it is discovered that Peter Smith ever called on any person, the Public Accounts Committee decides with alacrity to have that person summoned to give evidence.

Possibly Mr. Robb has not said the last word on the subject of economic safeguards. There is no reason why he cannot consistently make some provision to protect Canadian industries from the ruinous effects of inflated currency in competing countries. It is to be hoped he will.

RADIO THREATENS BAND CONCERTS

Now that half-a-million people can listen to the programs broadcast from a single station, what will happen to the village bands? Of what use are the uniformed and tasseled drum-major's decorative sticks amidst town band-stands when the townspeople can just as well sit at home with the phones clamped on their ears? Will the trend be to keep the family at home instead of on the country green or city park?

No longer may we see the old German bands that traveled from place to place and enlivened the countryside with their cheerful "boots." The oldtimers (there have always been the past and the wailing of their instruments is recalled only in the memory of our grandfathers. Are the deep throttes drowning park bands in the same way? Can it be that the trombone and the cornet will no more inspire ball-room citizens to deep gyrations and orange peels on the green.

What a relief such a change would be to the townspeople of Parkville, Ohio, who for years, have undergone the mental suffering of having compelled to listen Friday nights while Tom Green's band got in a couple of bears' practice in the vacant room over the local hardware store. Yet again, what a tragedy to drift aimlessly about the empty streets on a Saturday night without the cheering and festal strain of music.

Surely someone will be quick to declare that something vital and human has come out of the radio undertakes to encroach upon the famous institution known as the American band. What excuse, if any, will the farmer have for taking his family to town if he cannot sit back comfortably in his automobile, and when the band has finished playing, reach out and toot his horn for dear life.

The opportunity to meet his neighbors and shake their hands at the circuit of a band concert will have been gone and heard. Even a loud speaker is no excuse to break a bolt of homesick. The 21-gun salute of the band will be a disappointment to the youngsters, for at no other time, except when the band is playing, would the old scow be good-humored enough to buy a fifty balloon.

But, then, we are not sure but radio is just as good.

Be Pretty! Turn Gray Hair Dark

TRY GRANDMOTHER'S OLD FAVORITE RECIPE OF SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is musssy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" you get at once a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

LEAPS FROM PLANE

Paris, April 15.—To prove the possibility of a passenger being safely sent down by a low flying airplane, Madame Germaine Gravenard, aged 22, with a special parachute, jumped without taking a precautionary precaution from a speeding plane as it was crossing the Invalides Esplanade yesterday.

Instead of dropping into the Esplanade the aviators landed on the railroad property outside the Invalides terminal.

A policeman gave her a summons to court for breaking the city's flying regulations, but Madame Gravenard appeared perfectly content at having proved her point.

League Reaches Into China With Plans to Aid 60,000 Russians In Hard Straits

Geneva.—The long arm of the League of Nations has extended forth to far-away China and has there discovered that some 60,000 destitute Russian refugees are desperately in need of relief.

Two per cent. of the refugees are wounded and children. They are spread throughout China and live in unhygienic conditions, have insufficient clothing and no money.

Two immediate remedies are suggested, the first repatriation and the second emigration.

It is proposed to obtain a guarantee from the Soviet Government similar to that accorded returning refugees from the Balkan states and Czechoslovakia that if they go back to their homeland they will receive fair treatment.

The League of Nations believes that those who refuse to return to Russia even under a guarantee should be permitted to emigrate from China to countries requiring white labor. It is planned to open negotiations with various Governments to facilitate this movement.

A precedent has already been established by France which proposed to take many thousands of Poles to work in the coal mines of Northern France and which has already helped the Russian refugee cause by taking some 5,000 refugees from the Constantinople district.

Tire Repairmen who see tires at their worst give overwhelming endorsement of Goodyear Cords

NO man knows tires better than the tire repairman. He sees them at their worst. He tears them down—rips off the tread—examines the carcass. He talks about tires to tire users continually. He finds out what service each tire has given. To 125 tire repairmen—from Halifax to Vancouver — we submitted this question:

"By what percentage do you think the mileage of Goodyear All-Weather Cords exceeds the mileage of the next best tire?"

80% Say Goodyear Cord Best Tire on Market

The average percentage by which Goodyear Cord Tires excel any other cord tires sold on the Canadian market is 25.81%, as given by exactly 100 of the 125 tire experts. Nineteen of the 125 say Goodyear Cords are equal to any other tire and only 7 place any other tire ahead of the Goodyear Cord.

An overwhelming endorsement of Goodyear Tires by those who know.

Crazed Owner Seized After Gunplay at Eating House

Courtenay, B. C., April 16—One man murdered and two women in the hospital severely wounded was the outcome of a frenzied piece of gunplay enacted in a restaurant here on Sunday afternoon. Alfred Corbett, the owner of the eating house and alleged slayer is in jail, having calmly submitted to arrest.

Corbett and his wife were quarrelling at the time when Spencer Tredding, an employe of the city public works, was dining. Thinking Corbett was about to strike the woman, Tredd went to intervene when Corbett, it is alleged, drew a gun and shot Tredd in the lung and then above the heart.

Turns Gun On Wife

He then fired, it is said, two more shots into his wife, one striking her in the right side and the other in the right breast.

The crazed man is then said to have turned the gun on a Mrs. R. Simpson, another employee of the eating house and fired his fifth shot into her shoulder.

Tredd died a few minutes after admission to the hospital and little hope is held out for Mrs. Corbett. Mrs. Simpson will recover.

Johnnie Hotpoint Says

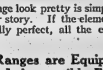

The most important parts of any Electric Range are the Elements and the Switches

To make an electric range look pretty is simple—but to make it really practicable is quite another story. If the elements and switches are not mechanically and electrically perfect, all the elaborate accessories that may be added are useless.

Hotpoint Ranges are Equipped with Patented Indestructible Elements

They are cast in solid iron and are as flat and smooth as the lids of an old-time coal range. The boiling over of pans and kettles has absolutely no effect upon this remarkable element.

Hotpoint Patented Indestructible Element, the flattest and smoothest element made.

The necessity of constructing electric range elements from fragile porcelain has been forever eliminated by Hotpoint Patented Indestructible Elements, which are the latest scientific development to make electric cookery really practical.

And Over-Capacity Reversible Switches

With the exception of the elements no part, of an electric range, is used so much or put to such severe tests as the switches. Hotpoint switches are built expressly for Heavy Range Service, and will carry twice the load necessary to heat the elements.

Hotpoint Over-Capacity Reversible Switch, used exclusively on Hotpoint Range Service.

The highest consumption per switch on a Hotpoint Range is 15 amperes, while the rating of the switches is 30 amperes. Switch trouble on a Hotpoint Range is eliminated. All in all, the new Hotpoint Range is a perfect electric cooking appliance.

Hotpoint Ranges are sold under guarantee. Our local service dealer is always at your disposal

CURRENT SPORT IN BRIEF FORM

In two weeks Bobby Eber will be ready to meet any boy of his weight in the world.

That is the pleasing news which Charlie Conkle sends in from the "farm" where he is conditioning Bobby.

"Conkie yet Eber through the hardest training that Bobby ever experienced. There are three boys on the farm who have boxed with Bobby and Conkie had had the gloves on several times. It is a well known fact that Charlie never pulls his punches in training, so that if Eber was able to stand up against him, he must be in good condition. Bobby is anxious to have Johnny Lear work with him, and it is likely that Lear will go out Friday and stay six or eight rounds. Eberle feels that he can develop speed by working with Lear, for Johnny showed in his bout with Buff that he was a shifty lad when it came to foot work.

Down at Niagara Falls they are counting on having Carmen Cooper for their lacrosse team and for next season's hockey campaign. Bisbee, who played with Kitchener seniors last winter, is now residing in the Falls and will play baseball during the summer and figure on the Falls hockey team next winter. It looks as though the Falls club is preparing to enter another campaign.

It did not take the judges long to decide on a name for the Hamilton M. C. team. "Billy" Carroll was strong in his favor of the name Clippers, and the judges after a short deliberation agreed with him. It was the old Clippers which first brought organized baseball honors to Hamilton, the club being owned at that time by the late William Strond and the late "Chub" Collins. But three men admitted that name, while hundreds suggested Buzzers, Scrubs and other names.

Ty Cobb was not altogether pleased with the form this Detroit team showed in some of the training games and he undertook to show the players how to run bases. A few years ago, Cobb used those daring work on the paths that any man in the history of the game, and in the last two games of the training trip he showed that he was still capable of getting bases.

The feature of the Saturday game in Memphis was his base-running, and he again furnished the feature on Sunday. He scratched two infield singles on Saturday, and followed with some remarkable sprinting and dexterious sliding and on Sunday he duplicated his work of the previous day with even better success.

Cobb's exhibition of the previous day had keyed up the Memphis team to an extra spurt and when Cobb, in the first inning on Sunday, sent a grounder to short, Lamotte, the Memphis shortstop, over-hurried himself to make the play at first. He missed the ball by over-running it. Morrison, the center fold, coming in to back Lamotte, also over-hurried himself and in his eagerness he kicked the ball. This combination enabled Cobb to reach third.

With Cobb on third, Meusah drove a grounder to Anderson, the first base man. Anderson scooped up the ball and turned to third. As he did Cobb made a brief start back toward the bag.

The bluff start caused Anderson to turn to first for an unassisted putout on Meusah, but when Anderson gave his attention to first, Cobb suddenly started a sprint for the plate. The infielders gazed at Anderson and the first sacker, pausing an instant, noticed Cobb streaking for the plate. He threw hurriedly and wildly and the throw was slow, a few feet wide. Cobb easily beat the play at the plate, and since Anderson had not touched the ball before throwing home, Meusah was also safe.

TWENTY JUNIOR TOSSERS OUT

No less than twenty junior ball tossers appeared at the High School grounds last evening at 5.30 for the initial practice of the season for the newly formed Junior league of Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

The boys had a very profitable session, despite the chilly weather, the workout consisting of batting flies knocking out flies and throwing the ball around. Frederic Albert Tilley, of the club was highly pleased with the turnout and stated after the practice that there is some good material in this city for a junior squad.

Thursday evening at the same hour and place, the league will hold their first number two. The invitation to all juvenile baseballers in Hastings and vicinity will confine themselves to aspect further up to keep down expenses. That year similar offers may be entertained however.

Trunks Make Appearance.

The Grand Trunks held their initial practice in the armories last night commencing at 6 and had a fair turnout. The players consisted of throwing the pill around, and picking off the knocks. The right hand relief artist from Tweed was out, throwing them across to Manager Walt Grow. "Peenie" Mills and Jack Oulette also worked out. Chuck Jeffrey was also present.

Those on the floor were Meagher, "Jay" Smith, Young and Young, Jack White, the former Toronto boy, "discovered" here by Manager Grow.

Cream Clears a Stuffed-up Head

INSTANTLY OPENS EVERY AIR PASSAGE—CLEARS THROAT

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed because of nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure antiseptic cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage soothing and healing swollen, inflamed membranes and you get instant relief.

Try this. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Your clogged nostrils open right up; your head is clear; no more hawking or sniffing. Count fifty. All the stuffiness, dryness, struggling for breath is gone. You feel fine.

ON THE ALLEYS

Last night at the Y Alleys a postponed game in the serie league was played between the Printers and Excelsiors which the former won by 96 pins. This game was to decide the team who was to have second place in the league. The Printers took the lead in the first two games which the Excelsiors were unable to overcome in the last game although they won this. In the first game both teams rolled in about the same style, but this was done away with in the last two games as the other two players got in an appearance. J. Jerry of the Excelsiors was the high man of the evening for the single and the three string with 257 and 664 respectively.

JACK WILLIAMS FEELING "FINE"

Allows Only 1 Hit While in Box for Rochester

Mr. Ray Carr received a letter from Jack Williams yesterday morning, which was written from Hotel Leonard, Norfolk, Virginia, on Thursday last. Jack is feeling fine and is getting along splendidly, he states.

The latter reads: "I am getting on quite good. I pitched three innings against Spartanburg yesterday. We were beaten 6-5 in a ten inning battle, but they lost only one run off me while I was in the box."

The following day, Jack explains that Spartanburg defeated Reading 10-3 in a nine battle.

"We won on April 10th from Winston-Salem North Carolina" the letter continues, by 5-3. Jack is in training and we do not play. We go to Petersburgh next.

Jack asked for the Grand Trunk ball team, the team with which he made his mark in amateur ball, and stated that he was not yet sure whether or not George Stallings would keep him for the season. He has twenty pitchers yet and will cut two or three last week. A man from Waterbury, Ct. is said, has approached Stallings. The Waterbury man has told Williams that he would like to get him, but as yet, Stallings has not said anything to Williams.

"My arm is fine" Jack concludes and

That Body of Yours

By Isaac W. Bacon, M.D.

A REASONABLE QUESTION

A very straight question is often asked of the physician regarding these matters.

If my tonsils, my teeth, my gall bladder, the sinuses or caverns adjoining my nose are causing my scalp attack of rheumatism, how is it that I get over my attack without having any of these causes removed?

Now that would appear to be a very sensible question, but what really happens?

You have been working hard have been indoors a great deal, have been eating heavy meals, getting no outdoor exercise, and are just ready for trouble, due to neglect of your body. Along comes the cold or chill, perhaps some family or financial trouble. You are below par.

Your resistive forces are at a low point.

The bad tonsils, teeth or intestine are making the poisons and your blood at first is in poor lighting condition. This allows the poisons to accumulate in the joints and you have a well established case of rheumatism.

However, you have little fighting in your body that though defeated at first, gradually get the upper hand and your rheumatism passes away.

You see you do various things to help these fighters.

First, you get rids of your feet, and give your heart a chance to strengthen itself up a bit.

Then your intestine is always the first thing cleared out, and with it goes some of the poison that is in the blood.

With this rest, and with the intestinal and blood purer, these little fighters credibly master the germs attack of rheumatism and you get better.

Perhaps a little later you have an other attack due the same cause as before, and down you go again.

What is my method?

That some days these poisons may be too strong; you actually get to the valve of the heart and cause permanent trouble.

And the suggestion?

That you have your doctor or dentist try to locate the exact part where the trouble starts. They will be successful nineteen times in

ON THE LEVEL

The immortal Socrates, it is said, was noted for his quiet humor. He has his nightly custom to fodgather with a circle of philosophers and geometricians and certain of the intelligentsia, and one memorial bowl, drawing inspiration from the vintage cooking time. Following the end of the tenth round he remarked, quite of it is written that he always could rise—and address the symposium.

"I move," he would say, "that this circle go home and resume itself."

And so seriously did the multitude take him that the organizing of the circle grew to be considered impossible even to this day.

NOBODY HOME

One absentminded professor was ideal from the student view.

"James, when was the treaty of—" he began.

"Why, I'm absent today, professor Jones interrupted.

"I see, James. Miss Smith, will you answer the question?"

O'BRIEN POTATOES

Fry 3 cups raw potatoes, cut in one inch cubes, in deep hot fat until evenly browned. Drain on soft paper and sprinkle with pepper and salt. Cook a small minced onion in 2 tbspns butter until delicately colored, remove onion and add to butter 2 green peppers, finely chopped (discarding seeds and veins). Cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Add potatoes, mix well till heated through. Remove to serving dish and sprinkle with finely chopped parsley.

MOTHERHOOD CALLS

Mrs. Hilton Philipson's Children Beckon Her From Politics

London—The call of motherhood is stronger than that of Parliament, Captain Hilton Philipson said in announcing the rumor that Mrs. Philipson, who was Mabel Burnet, and one of eight women now holding seats in the House of Commons, would retire from public life shortly.

The Philipsons have three young children, and the reason was that because of the hard work involved in caring for them and attending to her duties in the House of Commons she would probably give up the call of the nursery first.

Mrs. Philipson refused to give any information on the subject, but it is understood that an announcement concerning her plans will be made when the Conservative Association of Berwick meets on April 26.

Women of Three Generations

The daughter, mother, and grand mother have all proved from personal experience the remarkable strengthening and tonic properties of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in overcoming the ills of women. It was first made from roots and herbs in 1873 by Lydia E. Pinkham of Lebeourg, Ont., for her neighbors and friends. Its fame has spread until from shore to shore until it is now looked upon by women everywhere as the standard remedy for woman's ills. It has been proved that it benefits 93 out of every 100 women who try it, which is a marvelous record for any remedy to hold.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo
Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much drastic dries you. Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Walkins on the package.
Nice alkali, for this is very injurious as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.
The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.
Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses the hair thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Besides it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your

THE PIONEER IN CANADA
Thirty-two years ago the now famous "SALA" Tea was placed on the market in metal packages. "SALADA" was the pioneer package tea in Canada. Immediately its superior flavour and purity won for it a great popularity that has been growing ever since. It is still a little different and a little better than ordinary tea.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"Are—are Miss Worcester and Mr. Layton here?" she asked.

"Not yet, miss," he replied.

"I am tired. Will you ask them, please, to excuse me? I am going to bed."

"Yes, miss," he said.

He was attached to her; indeed, all the servants were devoted to her and he ventured to fetch her a glass of wine.

"I thought perhaps, miss," he said respectfully, almost tearfully, for the young girl had been transformed to a woman that night, and there was something of woman's divinity in the tall slim figure, the white, lovely face.

"Thank you, Palmer," she said, wearily.

She took the wine and drank it gratefully.

"Shall I take the dog, miss?"

She was about to yield it, then she checked her head.

"No; I will take it to my own room. "It—it might bark or howl. It will be quite good—it sleeps in Mr. Gordon's room; he has given it to me. Come, Bob!"

She led him upstairs, and when she had closed the door flung herself down beside him and threw her arms around his neck.

"Oh, Bob, I love him—I love him! she wailed. "I love him, and he is going away, going away from both of us!"

Bob uttered a plaintive little howl and licked her face. The door opened and Mabel entered.

"Beg pardon, miss; I thought you'd be ready for me," she said.

"Yes, said Lucia, rising and averting her face. "Wait; get some milk, because, for Bob, Mr. Gordon has given him to me—he is going."

"Going, miss?" said Marie.

"Well, that is a surprise. Whatever will Lucie Tranmere do?"

Esther had gone to the glass and was loosening her dress. She turned sharply, her lips apart, her eyes fixed on the girl.

"What will Kate— What do you mean?" she demanded, with a catch in her voice.

Marie smiled and simpered after the manner of her kind.

"Lor', miss! don't you know? They're engaged!"

Esther's hand stole behind her and gripped the edge of the dressing-table.

"Engaged! It's—not—true!" she said, with a forced calmness.

"Oh, yes, it is, miss. They've been keeping company for a long while. Why Giles and me saw them in the woods the other night. They was walking arm-in-arm, proper-like, and he was kissing her—"

Before she had time to complete this bit of fiction, a quarter of an hour later stopped her.

"That will do," she said. "Take—take the dog down and tell Palmer to have him shut up in the stable—or anywhere. And I shall not want you again tonight. I shall read—and be late, perhaps."

She stood until the girl had gone, then, as the maid disposed before her eyes, she slipped to her knees, and her face fell upon her arms outstretched on the table.

And wounded Love and outraged Pride had their cruel will of her.

* * * * * * *

As Jack was passing the farm lodge, the door opened and Mrs. Martin came out.

"Is that you, Mr. Gordon?" she asked, in a nervous fashion.

"Yes," said Jack, as he stopped, keeping out of the moonlight, so that she might not see his face; for he knew how white and haggard it was. "Is anything the matter? Martins—Nettie?"

"No," she replied; "they're both asleep; but—it's foolish of me to be so nervous and timid—a man came up to the door a little while ago and asked the way to the Towers."

"A man?" said Jack, absently.

"Yes. A stranger, of course. A tall, dark man."

"A tramp?"

"No; he was too well dressed for that. Looked something like a gentleman, and yet there was something in the look of him I didn't like, and I was a bit afraid of him. But there! it's all over now, I daresay."

Jack nodded.

Only a commercial traveller or photographer, or something of that sort, I expect, Mrs. Martin," he said. "Don't be nervous. I'll take a look round before I turn in. Good-night!"

CHAPTER XX.

Esther lay awake the whole night. Only a woman can understand the complex emotions which made that night a torture. She, a girl, even her heart to a man not only a social inferior, but a man who was either engaged to another woman or had been carrying on an intrigue with her.

Wounded love, outraged pride, and bitter shame of her own weakness, as she recalled how she had kissed her as the slow hours crawled along, each one bringing a fresh and more aching heart which she felt no time could eradicate.

Had she fought hard, as the youngest and least experienced of women will do, to living and should ever guess her secret; she would take it, as the Spartan boy hid the fox cub for his bosom, and, though it tore and lacerated her, she would make no sign.

There were dark shadows under her eyes when she came down to breakfast, but she was cheerful, extraordinarily so, and she came into the room singing blithely.

Who does not know that song, that smile and laugh with which we strive to hide, even from oneself, the aching tormented heart?

Miss Worcester and Selby Layton were already at the table, and she nodded to him and kissed her aunt with an air almost of gaiety.

"Sorry I'm late," she said, "I've had such a splendid night, and I overslept myself. Did you have a good time last night?"

Selby Layton looked at her reproachfully as he placed a chair for her at the table.

"It was a very pleasant evening, I suppose," he said; "but it was spoiled for me by your absence, Miss Vancourt."

"How kind of you to say that!" said Esther. "It is so nice to be missed."

"I am sure every one missed you," said Miss Worcester in her prim way. "Lord Ilsure was quite cut up when he found that you were not well enough to come. It was an extremely pleasant little party. The Fawcettes were there, and Major Long, and the vicar and his wife. The dinner was admirably cooked, was it not, Mr. Layton?"

He looked up from the dish from which he was helping Esther.

"I—was scarcely noticed," he said. "I hadn't much of an appetite."

"How unrated of you!" said Esther, blithely, as she pretended to make make an onslaught on her omelette.

"Did you go straight to bed, Esther, after we had gone?" said Miss Worcester.

To be Continued.

Prince Roland Bonaparte Dead in Paris of Bright's Disease; Was Family Head

Paris, April 16.—Prince Roland Bonaparte died this morning after a long illness from Bright's disease.

The only son of Pierre Bonaparte whose father was Napoleon's second brother, Prince Roland was in order of precedence the head of the Bonaparte family. Because of a marriage displeasing to Napoleon, Roland's grandfather and his issue were cut off from possible succession to the throne.

Prince Roland, however, was never seriously concerned with royal aspirations, as he was an earnest republican.

Born in Paris, May 16, 1858, he was educated for a military career and was graduated from St. Cyr, but was repelled from the French army at the time when all the Princes of the House except himself were banished from France.

Prince Roland was widely known as a geographer, explorer and ethnologist. He was formerly president of the Geographical Society and the International Aeronautic Federation and was also a member of the Institute of France and the author of more than a score of scientific treatises.

London's Rum Runners Center Trade In Slums

Limehouse, Famous Underworld District, Infested With Bootleggers

London.—Limehouse, the famous underworld centre of England, is now infested with gangs of bootleggers whose business is to keep supplies of liquor passing through the city on their way to the United States and other nations given over to prohibition.

This waterfront section seems to have become the centre of bootlegging over night, and the headquarters of the gangs once established in the Bahamas, as well as others which work-ed out of Scotland and from vantage points along the coast of Norway and Finland.

Every week, it is said, thousands of gallons of liquor are handled by these men, and their ships are busy passing up and down the Thames. They work with a certain amount of stealth and cunning which keeps them within the law. Their methods do not appear to arouse unusual interest, and they are left more or less to themselves.

One of the newcomers to "Rumrunners' Row," says a leading London newspaper, who has shifted from the Bahamas, is a mysterious "Captain Caudel," formerly a shipbroker. He is said to have an extensive organization, to own several ships, and to have established his headquarters in one of the public-houses of Limehouse.

It is stated that American prohibition agents have attempted to invade the headquarters but have never been able to get beyond the outer bar.

It is almost impossible to keep an accurate record of the liquor shipped in and out of London every week. An estimate places the amount at about 600,000 gallons. However, most of the liquor which is said to find its way into the bootleggers' hands is handled officially by Confederate firms.

The reason for the selection of London as headquarters by these bootleggers is said to be that the new liquor treaty between the United States and England makes the Bahamas rather dangerous. Soon after their appearance here the bootleggers were hounded by a small army of prohibition sleuths, but so far their work seems to be ineffective. Their difficulties are great, for there are about 7,000 firms in England interested in liquor shipments and wholesale selling.

JACKIE COOGAN RUNS INTO A LION'S CAGE

Jackie Coogan has the thrilling experience of being chased into a lion's cage in "Circus Days," the First National picture to be shown at the Griffin Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The incident occurs when Jackie, in the role of Toby Tyler, gets blamed for the wrecking of a lemonade and peanut stand over which he had been proprietor.

The wrathful owner takes after Toby and in his eagerness to escape, the lad dashes into the lion's cage, closing the door which automatically locks.

In the corner of the cage he spies with horror-stricken eyes, the "lion" but his fright subsides as from the skin of the beast emerges a negro who takes the animal's place very much since it had died.

Then, just in time to save him from the clutches of the wrathful countersing man, the owner of the circus steps in and settles the difficulty.

The record cross country dash from San Francisco to New York made by Wally Van in an automobile for the filming of his latest starring vehicle, "Le Diviis' Fool," coming to the Grant Theatre on Thursday was one with no little excitement for Wally himself as well as for those who will see the picture. While making the run Van is compelled to match his wits against a cunning band of crooks who, in an effort to keep him from accomplishing the feat, place obstacles in his path which nstonly played their parts in the picture but also caused Wally some severe bruises which were not in the story. At one section of the road Van was unable to continue his trip until attended by a physician. Barring the bruises, the picture promises the fans as many thrills as wally experienced.

BANK "RIDDLE" BARELY INVESTIGATED

TELLS HOW WORLD NEWS IS GLEANED

Newspaper Man Travelling On Foot Around the World From Czecho-Slovakia Tells Intelligencer Representative Some of Interesting Sights Viewed in Journey of Many Thousand Miles

Alfred Blaha, 26, newspaperman of Czecho-Slovakia, who is travelling around the world on foot, is in Belleville and addressed the H. Y. club luncheon at the Y today. He arrived here Tuesday, and will remain in this district for two or three months. He is searching for work and will work at anything he state. By June 20th he hopes to join his brother, John, 33, at Edmonton, where he is working as a sketcher.

While trekking in Alberta during the severe weather of February last, Alfred had both feet frozen, and though he has made a very good recovery, his feet are still tender.

A straight, lithe clean-cut fellow, Alfred speaks very good English and also speaks German, Russian, Polish and French. At home he was a newspaper reporter with "PRAZSKY TLUMOCNAY SPRAVODAJ" and found time to time takes photographs and sends back home to the publication in "In France I was a farmer, and in Zealand I was a head waiter," explained the youth with a smile.

In Fredericton, N.B., Alfred was a woodchopper. "That was hard work," he explained with a shrug of the shoulders. Before coming to Canada he had three dons a hand day's work. His father and mother operate an hotel in Czecho-Slovakia.

When offered a cigarette, Alfred refused with thanks, "I no smoke, no drink am spotsman."

"I am content now," he continued. "I received a telegram from Montreal today from father. He said 'Hello' as and then stay where you are until we answer. Probably another day or so till," he volunteered.

At present the young man is living at 325 1-2 Front Street.

Rev. Dr. Kelly was the speaker at the luncheon today, where five delegates were selected to attend the convention at Toronto the first three days at next week.

NOT IN CONTEMPT BECAUSE SUBPOENA NOT YET SERVED

Committee Still Hoping that Chas. Matthews Will Turn Up

Toronto, April 17.—The failure of Deputy Provincial Treasurer Charles Matthews to appear before the public accounts committee has caused considerable speculation as to what action will be taken by the government authorities. It is pointed out at the parliament buildings that inasmuch as no subpoena has been served on Mr. Matthews, he is not guilty of contempt as not having up and no bench warrant can be served against him on that ground. Had the subpoena been served and had he failed to respond to it, then in that case there would have been ground for action.

"If the public accounts committee was willing to take a chance on Matthews turning up without serving an official order, then the responsibility for his non-appearance rests on them, and them alone," is the way one authority expressed the situation.

When asked, Chairman Bishop, of the public accounts committee, what action he contemplated taking in respect to Mr. Matthews, he said that it had not yet been definitely decided.

"We will wait until later in the day before coming to a decision," he declared, intimating that the committee had not yet entirely given up hope of Matthews turning up.

If the former deputy provincial treasurer is in the United States, the only way that he can be brought back now, is by laying an extraditable charge against him. According to the attorneys-general's department, it is not possible to extradite a witness. Not even a bench warrant would be extraditable, it is said.

As the charge which now stands against former Provincial Treasurer Peter Smith has been declared non-extraditable, the only way in which Matthews could be brought back would be by laying some other charge. Legal authorities pointed out in this connection that unless there was some ground for laying a charge of perjury or fraud, it would be difficult to find any charge against him that is extraditable offenses, as far as the evidence so far divulged is concerned.

The same situation as to extradition applies to A. H. Pyall, of Los Angeles, California, whose name is linked with Hon. Peter Smith's in the "conspiracy to defraud" charge on which the latter was arrested. Pyall cannot be extradited on this charge, but there is a possibility of his being brought back to face some other extraditable charge.

Over-ripe Eggs and Tar Used To Enliven Time at Farm Sale

Shotgun, Barbed Wire Fence and an Angry Mob Few of Live Arguments Used Against Moving in of New Tenant on Cobourg Road

(Special to the Intelligencer)

Rotten eggs a-plenty, barbed wire fence, and an angry mob were only a few of the real live arguments used against the moving in of a new tenant to the farm of Joseph McLean on the Cobourg Road between Cobourg and Port Hope.

The threats of the crowd were caused through the owner of the farm, (which has become vacant) having rented the premises from a friend to whom the neighbors strongly objected having in their community.

The start of the fracas was during the sale of the farm stock and chattels of Mr. McLaren. The new tenants, arrived with their furniture to take possession, but the people of the vicinity warned the landlord that if he moved them into the house that they would tar and feather both himself and the tenants that intended to take possession. But when the woman with her Dressing Table appeared at the main entrance to the house we are told that rotten eggs came into play, and a result the front of the house was covered with the rotten eggs.

Worse Than That

Then, some one ran for the landlord and his new tenants was displayed very conspicuously, and they were told in no uncertain terms that they would be tarred and feathered. The call was then for a pail with two buckets of tar and a large quantity of feathers.

This was unnecessary, as the owner of the farm himself better of his reason and refused to allow the new tenants to take possession. This result of the ire of the would-be new arrivals and they threatened what they would do to the landlord, but in fact the owner that he called on his neighbors for protection, and he immediately had a barbed wire fence erected around the house and a shed out to keep out intruders. This was unnecessary as no one disturbed him but the new tenant has not yet got possession, and their goods and chattels are on the roadside awaiting to be taken somewhere.

The neighbors made it quite plain that they would not have the new arrivals, but that they would move in the township of Hamilton, and the evidence of their disapproval—the pelting of the house with rotten eggs—has been sufficient to prove to the owner of the farm that they mean business.

The sale, which was conducted by Mr. Noble, auctioneer, realized $1,500.

JUBILEE DANCE IS SUCCESSFUL EVENT

There was a splendid crowd at the jubilee dance last night in the Moose Auditorium by the Foresters, and a most enjoyable time is reported on every side today. For those who did not wish to dance interesting card games which were arranged in the rest rooms were also provided.

Dancing commenced at 8.30, music being supplied by Cook's orchestra, a most versatile and interesting dance programme being rendered. A dainty lunch was served at midnight.

The Solicitor-General, Hon. E. J. McMurray to-day remitted penalty of the lashes.

WIDE RANGE OF TOPICS IN HOUSE DEBATE

Oriental Question Again Brought Out—Japanese Exclusion

TRADE TREATIES

Strong Criticism of Policy Toward France Voiced By Chaplin

Ottawa, April 17.—Further House debate on the budget yesterday covered a range of topics that was nothing if not varied. It opened with an analysis of Canada's farm production, passed to the Oriental question and later turned to the trade treaty concluded with France rather more than a year ago. Hon. J. E. Sinclair, Minister without portfolio, taking up agricultural production, held that more protection was not necessary for the prosperity and success of the Canadian farmer. He calculated that the tax reductions proposed in the budget would mean a saving of $2.70 for every man, woman, and child in the country and, finally, he pointed out the need of Prince Edward Island for branch lines.

A. W. Neill, of Comox-Alberni, B.C. thought the Government should follow the example of the United States and adopt a policy of exclusion to the Chinese. Japanese from Conservatives came strong criticism of the French trade treaty. Last year when the treaty was before the House J. B. Chaplin of Lincoln, Ont., attacked it. Last night he sharply renewed all the charge. He estimated that as a result of the treaty there would be a loss in revenue on imports from France, Switzerland, Japan and Norway of $1,584,000 in the twelve months. Though there had been this loss of revenue, Canada had not found for her products a compensating increase in France. And—said Mr. Chaplin—the loss of revenue was on articles that could well agord to pay a fair rate of duty.

British World Fliers Have Reached Athens

Guns Salute Them on Arrival From Corfu—Next Stop Egypt

Athens, April 17.—The British round the world amphibian plane arrived at the Old Phaleron aerodrome shortly before 4 p.m. yesterday.

The big plane, piloted by Major Stuart Maxwell Graham, alighted gracefully into the harbor after departing from Lake Koriasa, island of Corfu at 11.30 a.m. yesterday morning.

The British air men were greeted with cheers by crowds who had been waiting for them along the water front.

Guns boomed a salute as they came ashore.

Maclaren was smiling and happy.

"We're under way again," he said.

The aviators said the flight from Corfu was made in good time and that they expected to get under way as soon as possible for Egypt.

With their arrival here the British aviators have covered approximately 1,050 miles since their departure from Southampton March 25, in a total flying time of 15 hours 45 minutes.

FORBES IS INDICATED

Baltimore, Md., April 17.—Col. Charles R. Forbes, former director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, was indicted by a federal grand jury for alleged conspiracy to defraud the United States Government.

Indicted with Forbes were Charles F. Cramer, Washington, Thompson, connected with the Thompson-Kelly Company of New York and Boston, and John Thompson, Washington, $7,500,000 worth of surplus property from the veterans' Bureau at cents-fifth its actual worth.

NEW HOODED MOB INQUIRY

New Orleans, La., April 17.—Reports that the state of Louisiana has launched another inquiry into the Mer Rouge "hooded mob" murders were denied at the Attorney-General's office here this afternoon.

U.F.O. FUTURE LOOKS BLEAK IN VICTORIA

Former strong organizations In Country Are Disappearing Rapidly

MANY DORMANT

Some of Clubs Almost Dormant Declared Wrecked By Politics

Lisday, April 17 (Special to the Intelligencer).—There is considerable speculation regarding the future of the U.F.O. as an active organization in Victoria County, Ontario.

It is a well-known fact that this country was one of the strongest U. F. O. sections in the Province, but since the defeat of the Drury Government, some of the clubs have become dormant and are almost defunct.

Downeyville has a strong active club, but it has failed to function lately. An effort was made a few nights ago to revive interest in the organization, but only a few attended.

Some of the other clubs in the county continue to hold meetings but there has been a decided falling off in the membership.

A well-known member of the U. F. O. stated the other day that he despaired of the future of the organization in this county unless the members rallied to the depleted ranks. He expressed the opinion that never again in this country will the U. F. O. be a political force. On the contrary, it would lend its energies towards improving the lot of the farmer along educational lines. It had accomplished a great deal in this respect in the past, but in an evil hour it entered the political realm, and this proved its undoing.

The county is represented in the House of Commons by a Progressive in the person of J. J. Thurston, of Peterboro Examiner, who on the election largely to the support given him by the Liberals at the riding.

With the passing of the U.F.O. as a political force, and with his downfall as a leader at the next election are decidedly slim.

The U. F. O. may secure a new lease of life in this country but it will certainly fight shy of politics.

THREE MEN HELD ON O.T.A. CHARGES

Bail Arranged in Each Case —To Stand Trial on Saturday

While on their way home from Campbellford last night at 8.45 slaber a motorboat of the O.T.A. Provincial Constables N. P. Maker, this city, and Constable Kilgour, of Campbellford arrested Albert Seamon and David Brain on a charge of the O.T.A. Trent Road farm house hooch.

It was suspected that they had liquor in their possession, and when searched they had a flask of rye and a bottle of brandy. They were taken into custody, and a search of the purchase of liquor was laid against them.

Later in the night, the farm owned by Robert Ketcheson, Trent Road, was searched, and today a charge was laid against him under the O.T.A. He is charged with keeping liquor for sale.

All the men were brought before one of the three men today arranged bail in each case and Saturday, when they must face trial.

LADY PELATT DIES SUDDENLY

Toronto, April 17.—The death occurred suddenly at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening of Mary, Lady Pellatt, wife of Major-General Sir Henry M. Pellatt, C.V.O., C.B., Honorary Colonel of the Girl Guides for Canada at the Sunnyside home, 650 Lakeshore Road. Lady Pellat had been ill but a few hours, death being due to heart failure.

Born in Toronto, Lady Pellatt was the youngest daughter of the late Dodd, son of Cumberland England. She received her education at the Bishop Strachan School, and was married to Sir Henry in 1891. During her long residence in Toronto she had taken a prominent part in the activities of many women's organizations. From 1912 to 1921 she was Chief Commissioner for Canada of the Girl Guides and during that period she devoted a great deal of her time to the promotion of that movement. On her resignation last year she was made Honorary Commissioner. In 1919 she presented to the Girl Guides the property, the Canadian Girl Guides to the Prince of Wales, at the Parliament Buildings Toronto.

Stolen Goods From Lake Homes Recovered By Provincial Men

Man and Wife Arrested In Bracebridge and Taken to Belleville — Stolen Goods Found in Their Possession — Robbing of Summer Homes is Common Occurrence, says Officer

Provincial constable Maker of this city and Constable Hardwick of Bracebridge had a successful haul in Belleville for stolen goods yesterday afternoon, when Hardwick found the goods to the amount of $400 which had been stolen from summer homes at Muskoka Lake, during the winter, and which were being pedaled about Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wood of Bracebridge were arrested, the goods having been found in their possession. They were taken to Belleville and locked up. This evening Hardwick leaves for Bracebridge with the pair where they will stand trial it is expected.

Constable Hardwick in conversation with the Intelligencer stated that each winter, the fine summer homes in the Muskoka district are robbed. Many of them are beautifully furnished, and when the owners arrive in the following year allow year, it discourages the thieves. Often, the instruments who seem to delight in destroying property, smash furniture and cause damage to a place which they had entered. They were caught later in Mr. and Mrs. Wood live between Gambellford and Bracebridge and it is alleged that they have pedaled the goods about Campbellford having made many excellent sales. The goods seized yesterday consisted of women's apparel of all kinds, bedding, lamp, crockery, clothes, curtain and other valuable goods.

Africans May Revive Demand for Republic

Labor Party Alleges Smuts Is Champion of Money Interests

London.—More than ordinary interest in the coming general election in South Africa is being shown here, as the result may have a far reaching effect on the present friendly relations between the nation of South Africa and Great Britain. If the government of general Jan Christian Smuts is defeated and a nationalist government, or a nationalist-labor coalition government comes into power, it is believed by many people that the work of General Hertzog and his predecessor, the late South African premiership, the late General Botha, in bringing about the reconciliation of Boer and Briton may be undone, at least to a large extent. It is the first general election in South Africa, the motto of the nationalists party, whose leader then was, and still is, General Hertzog, being "South Africa first." The belief of some people, paved the way for the present party by what was then termed joined forces with the nationalists to fight the Smuts government. Whether the present party will revive the cry of "South Africa a republic" is uncertain but on this point is a question that must await developments.

DRAMATIC MOMENT

Foreman Emphatic in Declaring Belief that Thaw Now Sane

Philadelphia, April 17.—Six special jurors who in 1917 declared Harry K. Thaw a lunatic, yesterday testified before a sane commission that a second jury trial in common pleas court to determine Thaw's mental status.

The second day of the trial proved replete with surprises, in addition to the revised opinion of Thaw by the former jurors, Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw appeared in the same court-room in the courtroom in a tense duel of glances, the name of Stanford White, whom Thaw shot and killed in 1906 was subsequently mentioned, causing Thaw to manifest emotion and Dr. Charles K. Mills, noted alienist, under grilling cross-examination by counsel for the trustees of the Thaw estate, admitted Thaw was suffering from asphyxia, although maintaining his opinion that he is sane and competent to manage his own affairs.

There was a dramatic moment when a careless remark led to what Thaw might do if released, whispered by a spectator caused Evelyn Nesbit to shudder convulsively.

Harry K. Macs, a politician, who was foreman of the 1917 jury that adjudged Thaw insane, was emphatic in declaring he now believes the Pittsburgh millionaire a normal man.

"I would not have recognized him as the same man," Mace said referring to a recent interview with Thaw. "A great improvement and change has come over him. He is different in every way, mentally and physically."

Hearing in Case To Be Transferred to Toronto Next Week—Great Strides Predicted In Solving Now Tangled Question—Faulty Memory of Harris

Special to The Intelligencer

Ottawa, April 17.—The ballistic experts in the cases of the Home Bank case, the attendant charges and counter charges on behalf of public officials, today were given another ring of color when Sir Henry Drayton appeared before the Royal Commission investigating the Home bank.

Little Aid Given

Correspondence in his possession not in the files of the Department of Finance was of little aid to the general counsel of the commission. The Commissioner, little aid toward solving the bank muddle. Official letters, largely a mass of figures, were also read before the Commission, and in view of the fact that unless ready access to the books of the defunct bank can be secured the Commission is to be greatly handicapped through utterly confusing figures only, with little meaning.

Hearings in the case will be heard in Toronto next week, and working in conjunction with the Royal Commission out in the Queen City, great strides are predicted in solving a tangle that at present seems to have no beginning or end.

A Faulty Memory

Toronto, April 17.—The faulty memory of George B. Harris and certain missing ledger sheets were features of persistent obstruction yesterday for the Public Accounts Committee. Questioning as they did, they successfully blocked an avenue of dual inquiry—the disposition which the Browning Harris interests in Hamilton had made of the $125,000 profit in bond deals with the Province, and the commission which Hon. Mr. Bowes had had with that firm. Even the placing of one witness on the stand, Mr. Charles Chaddock, during the supper hour could not break the deadlock which the investigation was facing.

The sitting was perhaps the most hectic which the committee has yet known. Mr. Harris, the first witness, is now, M. J. Honey, former president of the Home Bank, was one of its most difficulties in comparison with those which it faced when it sought to operate beyond the veil of secrecy hanging over it by the bank's charter. DALY A CHANGED MAN APPEARS IN GOOD HEALTH

Toronto, April 17.—"Thank you kindly H. J. LIBERAL CAUCUS MAY ADOPT PLAN TO OPPOSE LABOR

London, April 17.—On the proposal of Lloyd George, Liberal members of parliament decided yesterday to hold a special caucus meeting after Easter for the express purpose of reconsidering their policy of co-operating with the labor government.

Lloyd George made a vehement indignant speech against the government which, he said, many Liberal members with contempt and propriety characterized as "Tory." He certainly submitted to this treatment which would lose not only their dignity but their position as a political force in the country.

Asquith supported Lloyd Georges views.

There is not the least likelihood of Laborites slackening their anti-Liberal tactics, so the Liberal caucus decision may be taken as notice that the Liberals will not support the government in the first favorable opportunity.

THE DEATH PENALTY

In rejecting the resolution introduced by Rev. Mr. Irvine, M.P. for East Calgary, declaring in favor of the abolition of capital punishment, the House of Commons probably acted in accord with the public opinion in this country.

In support of his resolution Mr. Irvine delivered an able speech, in which all the familiar arguments against capital punishment were skilfully and impressively presented; and yet the speech was not convincing. In some important particulars the arguments did not harmonize with the facts of common knowledge.

Mr. Irvine grounded his case mainly upon the assumption that crime is the symptom of disease, and that criminals including murderers, are victims of vicious conditions either inherited or existing them through environment, and are really irresponsible. When a man commits a murder, the fact is evidence that he is infected with a dangerous disease and organization is under obligation to him to take him in charge, care for him and, if his disease be curable to subject him to such treatment as will cure him and make him fit to mingle freely with his fellow-beings. To hang such a man is simply a brutal form of revenge which society wreaks upon on who has offended it and whom it is able to get power. He ought not even to be punished, for he is not really responsible for his deed: it was the fault of the man's ancestors from whom he inherits it is vicious instincts, or of society itself which failed to surround him in youth with a wholesome environment. Such is Mr. Irvine's theory.

Not only capital punishment, but all punishment for crime, should be abolished, he thinks. "I do not think the punishment has anything to do with crime," he says. "There is no necessity for the idea of punishment entering into the situation at all."

That is the whole question. If criminals are not responsible for their crimes, but are irresponsible victims of disease, they should not be punished, but should be treated as patients. The weakness of this position is that it clashes with common sense and the facts of common knowledge.

Every person is a potential criminal. That is to say, there are evil as well as good tendencies in each one of us. In persons in whom the predatory or pugnacious instincts are strong, the influence of their own conscience or a prudent sense of self-interest, or both together, are sufficient to restrain them from committing crimes. In others in the same class these restraining influences need to be reinforced by other provided by society, because society has the right to protect itself from those who prey upon it, as every criminal does. The deterring influences used by society to protect itself from its criminal enemies is the punishment for those convicted of crime.

If punishment does not deter person of vicious instincts from committing crimes, then there should be no punishment for any criminal offence—even a small fine or imprisonment for a day. But it is rather foolish to deny that punishment does not prevent people from committing crimes and misdemeanors. Everybody knows that it does. Until a child is old enough to be reasoned with, it is necessary to punish it when it does wrong—at least parents who fail to do so usually find out their mistake later, often to their keen regret.

"A LESSON FOR ADVERTISERS

The other day ... an article in an exchange ... thing like this.

Once upon a time, a man had a furniture ... which was not leaning his home with satisfaction. One day he became angry and going down to the basement stood before the furnace and exclaimed: "You another lump of coal and I'll put you give me some heat." The poor fellow from to death.

Herein is a lesson for advertisers. Some men put a little ad in the paper and if it doesn't bring the results that he expected, he says: "I won't advertise again until the other ad brings results." So the poor fellow to death.

For further proof of this look at statistics and compare the figures of failures among advertisers with the figures of failures of non-advertisers—those who from to death.

PRESS OPINIONS

(London Advertiser)

There is a great lag and very appreciable need today for better business ethics, for more real honesty in the conduct of public business.

Bank smashes, oil scandals, commercial failures and the like are not high spots. They all point to one thing, viz., the necessity for a great spiritual awakening and a deeper appreciation of what real religion means. It is primarily a sacred duty of the home, but because the home neglects it, is not sufficient reason why it should be allowed to lapse.

RECONSTRUCTING RUSSIA

(London Eng. Herald)

A few good harvests will make Russia the most prosperous country in Europe. She will want in exchange for her agricultural surplus enormous quantities of manufactured articles. Her railways, even after a period of short time contracts can be placed, which will practically pay for a year's work for our unemployed. In order to place these Russia needs a loan of £100,000,000 to be arranged with the Soviet Government was recognized. Now that there is in the way of the recovery of British industry has been cleared away.

SUNDAY GOLF

(Carleton Place Central Canadian)

For forty years the city of Brandon has prohibited golf on sport, and a lively discussion is now in progress as to that place because of the failure of those organizing a 10-law under which certain lands were to be leased by the city to the Golf Club to insure the observance of Sunday golf. The mayor ruled the by-law out of order. Members of the Municipal Association contended that the granting of the license to one class of sport would open the door to the others. The attorney-General at Winnipeg is being requested to give a ruling on the matter's action. It is difficult to understand the principle involved in a right to play golf on Sunday but wrong to play cricket or hockey. Sometimes the character of the act is determined by the standing of those who perform it. The issue should be one law for all.

THE INEVITABILITY OF PUNISHMENT

(Chicago Tribune)

Every one respects the law of gravity. It is inevitable. Rich or poor, fool or bad, we know that if we fall off a high building we will be injured. We take precautions not to fall. Exactly the extent medieval error will be diminished that capital punishment is capable of being evaded, or is likely to be evaded, and made free and pleasant crime will be discouraged. Only a sentimentalists think that error while they await for crime to strike into their lives.

CURIOUS RADIO INTERFERENCE—THE FAMILY DOCTOR.

Did you ever think of the family doctor when strange noises interrupt reception? Probably not, yet the doctor has been causing innocently quite a bit of interference at various times.

He's that sound doubting? Well, it isn't any radio fan of about a year's standing would tell you that X-ray machines cause "most outstanding" interference when in operation. Generally these machines make a fairly steady rattling or buzzing.

If anyone suspicions like a bad sending set, the key of which is being held down for a long time. But the buzz sometimes differs and may have a high pitched hissing quality, and sometimes even a musical tone. Sometimes the noise is irregular, and for a few seconds at any give experiences assistance the idea that he is hearing a transmitting station in serious—until he rises to read the stuff and discovers that it does not make sense. The doctor keeps up just as long as the X-ray machine runs.

The surprising thing is how far such noises may travel and cause disturbance in one city of 15,000 people in which a single X-ray machine, shows up every evening at 8 o'clock, and at one time there was a big X-ray set that would be heard five miles away. So it is always necessary to live next door to the doctor to have his noise tolerated.

What's to be done about it? That's still an open question because there are so many different X-ray devices, Generally it is a good idea to take the matter up with the makers of the set. They will be able to advise as to the best way of screening the machine, or else they can find out. The doctor may help by using the address of the maker of the set.

If you want to make some sort of [illegible] try coupling the entire machine up in a "Faraday cage" by covering or galvanized iron sheet, leaving no holes whatever. Ventilate with zinc cone out, and providing all doors in the cage with well fitting metal rear [illegible] cracks. Wire can be run in and out through metal tubes four or six inches long and three tubes about the same diameter. The wires should be soldered to the sheet metal where they go through it. The same has to be done to good job—even a small crack will run into the cage. Any wires that are covered by lone choke coils in each end—five pounds of No. 12 D.C.C. [illegible] covering covered in each coil [illegible] will do. If one wants to be a really good job the metal lining may be enlarged so as to include the floor room in which the machine is contained—including the windows of course. And celebrate the cage has been together.

To be sure that it really is the doctor at long on the phone and have him run the X-ray machine on and off while you listen.

WOMEN ARE ASKING

How They Can Regain Lost Strength and Energy

"Is there anything that will give me back my natural color and the strength I once had?" That is the question many over-worked, thin-blooded girls and women are anxiously seeking. Worry, and in many cases work beyond their strength have sapped their vitality. Tired and run down all the time, getting through their days with pain, weak stomach and the wonder of them is the praise given them by happy, healthy girls and women in every part of Canada.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ABOLISH FRANKING

(Halifax Acadian Recorder)

The Liberal Government should place itself on record as the one that was instrumental in abolishing the franking privilege enjoyed by members of parliament. Why a man who is elected a member is allowed to send, free of postage, all sorts of documents to his sisters, and his cousins and his aunts in various parts of the Dominion is something "no seller can understand." Business men have to pay postage on whatever they may send through the mails, why not Pa's, who receive $4,000 a year as sessional allowance? It is time there was a change in this respect, and we hope there will be no delay in doing so.

Nurse Chapelle Says Tanlac Brings Most Gratifying Results

Nurse With 15 Years' Experience Urges Use of Tanlac — Tells of Her Mother's Experience With World's Famous Tonic

"I have direct and personal knowledge of so many cases where TANLAC has restored health and strength and helped weak, run-down people to get on their feet, that I know it to be an unusual medicine," is the emphatic manner in which Miss M. E. Chappelle, Blue Mount and Thomas Ave., Wauwatosa, Wis., a practical nurse of fifteen years' experience, pays tribute to the famous treatment.

"Time and again I have urged TANLAC'S use and it always brings the most gratifying results. My own mother, now eighty years old, took TANLAC five years ago, and it has been her standby ever since. Nothing helps her as TANLAC does and she is so strong an advocate of the medicine as a result recently, mother became generally run-down. Her stomach was disordered, her appetite utterly failed her, and she came near having a nervous breakdown. TANLAC put her a vigorous appetite, corrected all complaints and left her not only well and happy but so strong and active that she looks after the home and visits around, as well. And mother thinks the TANLAC Vegetable Pills are the greatest ever.

"In all my long years of experience as a nurse, I have never known the equal of TANLAC!"

TANLAC is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take TANLAC Vegetable Pills.

Political Scandals In Annals of Canada

1835—Nova Scotia—Joseph Howe exposes Halifax judges, who through agency of family compact had appropriately taken from the people over £20,000.

1873—Dominion—Pacific scandal—Sir Hugh Allan sent for influence in connection with obtaining railway charter $300,000. Exposed by means of letters and telegrams exchanged.

1891—Dominion — Thomas Mcmissed by lieutenant-governor for spending moneys of the province for election purposes—$172,000.

1891-9 — Dominion — Thomas McGreevy acquitted from house of commons and jailed. Sir Hector Langevin, minister of public works, resigned. McGreevy received $200,000 in eight years for "influence" with Langevin.

1903—Ontario—E. H. Graney, Conservative member of the legislature, detailed scheme by which he charged he was paid $5,000 to support the Liberal government. Royal commission composed of Chancellor Boyd and Chief Justice Falconbridge, found Graney to be "unreliable" in his charges against Provincial Treasurer Stratton.

LEAFS WIN FIRST FROM NEWARK NINE

Jynx Team of Last Season Falter Before Leafs by Score of 8-2.

Newark, N.J. April 17.—There have been baseball openings when there were more pomp and color than that which prevailed on the Bears' new field here yesterday, but no opening day result was ever relished so much by President Solman and his associates as the 8-to-2 victory by Toronto over Newark. The win served as a tonic to the players, who superstitious as ball players are, have all Winter been nursing a grievance against the Bears, their jinx team of last season, a club that they were only able to win eight out of twenty-two starts from in 1922. And to Jess Dubray goes the honor of winning the opening game, and on his showing he will score many a victory for the Leafs this season. He looked better than any time in 1922, possessing blinding speed and a curve ball that made the enemy at times look foolish, and, what is better he was strong in the pinches, both his arm and done working on six cylinders throughout. True, the Bears garnered ten safeties off his delivery, but with the exception of the opening round, when two hits and a pass filled the bases with only one out, and in the fourth, when three hits, a sacrifice and an error gave the Bears two runs Doyle was master of the situation. He grew better as the game progressed, allowing only three hits in the last few innings.

Umpire Pulls Doyle

The Umps was probably responsible for "Speeds" going so wild in the latter session, as he gave liberal decisions on balls in the fifth when that player appeared afraid to walk. This decision rolled Doyle and put him on his mettle for the rest of the game.

The opening was probably the most unique in the history of the International League. The carpenters were still working on the "forty-by-eighty" bleachers when His Worship the Mayor of Newark and President Toole of the International League strode to the pitcher's box, the former delivering the first ball, while President Toole shook hands with the players and Tom Daly. The ship slamed was in worse shape than Hampden Park ever was, and, while the raid attendance did not reach the six thousand mark, yet two-base ground rules were in vogue, made necessary to a certain extent by the "million" fly-balls that got as paid members, but because the infield fence was easy to climb.

PRESENTATION MADE TO CAPTAIN BOWIE

In the Valley-ball league game last evening at the Y.M.C.A. the Bankers Men No. 2 team won from Bankers Men No. 1 in two straight games, 15-10. In both games No. 1 were leading" in the early stages but weakened, allowing the 2nd team to come through for a win.

At the conclusion of the game a dainty lunch was served by the ladies after which a presentation took place. Capt. W. Bowie, physical instructor at the Y.M.C.A., who is leaving, was presented with silverware by the members of the team. Mr. Stillwell made a few remarks and Mr. R. Wooster, on behalf of the ligsiness men made the presentation. Capt. Bowie in a suitable manner acknowledged the gift.

SPORT WRITER IN "PEN BATTLE"

Fred Craig of Peterboro Ruffles Ire of Kingston Writer Who Answers

If you want to "get exited", cross up a certain unknown sport writer on the Kingston Standard, who talks just like a safety razor razes. "Josh" Fred Craig, sport editor of the Peterboro Examiner crossed him up over sportive assertions he made, and the answer to Craig is good. He certainly "jollies" Josh. He says:

Apparently that clean up of the dope fields in Peterboro, which is nearly completed as officials would have liked to be for three in at least one person in that subterranean village who must be still hitting the pipe. The sport (?) writer on the Peterboro Examiner either has been having a few dreams, or has been finding lumps in his porridge (if Peterboro writers put up before breakfast, which seems decidedly doubtful).

The said sport writer has been stung under the collar, and the sting is even more severe because he has to realize that the Peterboro C.O.B.L. is badly "shot" and he goes bigger than a kite when anyone from Kingston says the latter that Kingston has a chance this year.

But when such a howl comes from Peterboro little sympathy can be had it. Up there, wherever they want a little excitement they watch the Little Locks go up, and think they're acrobatics, but the real excitement is to come pretty soon when "Al" Heckman gets battered about. When a team that couldn't win a game from Intermediate O.H.A. champions general turns out a fair team, but if the Peterboro pen-pushers can show us how Ansaldo and Comoll will not be missed, he's in line for the hand-endbroidered safety razor.

The Peterboro scribe claims a new outpaw will help out Heckman, but if he's no better than the other twirlers the Petes showed last year he'll be better off at home when the team's travelling. True, "Hap" Harris should be a good man at first, and he will make up for the loss of Comoll, but Ansaldo is going to be missed more than any sport writer in the Examiner thinks. The Petes will likely lineup Harris at first, Johnston at second, Collins at third, and a new man at short, while Wolfe and Legon will be two fixtures in the field.

Yes, indeed, as Peterboro says, "Orders of a Banker" are binding, but the team will be missed the treat of a lifetime when he didn't read the "teams of a Daly". Apparently they were dedicated to him.

COSTLY BLOW-OUT

"No" cried a speed boy named Cook "By no cop shall I be overtook!" At this critical juncture— BANG went a puncture!

'Ten Days' wrote the Judge in the book.

A new coffee substitute has been discovered in Venezuela. If it's what we've been drinking for years.

Conacher Becomes American Citizen

Pittsburg, Pa., April 17.—Lorne Frederic Conacher, Canada's so-called great all-around athlete and one of the most versatile sport stars in the world is now a full-fledged Pittsburger. And, what's more, this athlete is to become an American citizen too. As soon as is possible "Connie" will take out his first papers. Conacher is a native of Canada, Toronto being his home town. His recently married a Toronto girl and will bring her to Pittsburg, and if tentative plans are carried out, they will take up their abode in Wilkinsburg.

Conacher was introduced to Pittsburg's sporting element at the far end of the hockey season last year, when he came here in the capacity of a referee. During his brief stay the local management prevailed upon him to join the Yellow Jackets. At the start of the 1922-24 season he was unanimously chosen captain of the Black and Gold team and his ability as leader and pilot has not been approached in local hockey annals.

"Connie's" plans for the Summer have not been definitely shaped, but it is most likely that he will be found playing at one of the better semi-professional baseball teams. The Masonic Temple Nine of Wilkinsburg, "appears to have first call on Connie's services and should he eventually decide to don a uniform the Holy City team will welcome his selection. Conacher here led the Pittsburg hockey team to its final National championship, while this season one finishes in 7th place next year.

TRIO OF STAR ATHLETES WHO DEFY FATHER TIME'S KNOCK-OUT

"Youth will be served." So at least runs the old adage. But up and down the sportive list there are three players who offer ample proof that the ancient saw doesn't always hold the inside rail.

Jack Britton, Babe Adams and Stanislaus Zbyszko are the three illustrious figures that immediately have long since passed the mid-stone at which Old Father Time usually bestows celebrities of the world of sport to a permanent seat on the bench.

Britton, at 40, held the welterweight title. And though once relieved, he's still far from through. He has fought ten all along a rather active career.

He has won the championship, lost it, and then won it back again.

Adams, at 40, turned in a winning season for the Pirates in 1922. He is one of the mainstays of the McKechnie staff.

He big asset—control—was still with him. It again carried him through triumphantly, just as it has done for the past several seasons or since the old finger began to feel the effect of constant usage.

Zbyszko, at 50, is still able to give a splendid exhibition on the mats. Recently he defended the championship "Strangler" Lewis, the limit to win. It was one of the toughest bouts the "Strangler" has had to win in his long career.

To this can can well be added the names of Cy Young and Bob Fitzsimmons, who grew fat. Cy and Fitz both leaped beyond the patriarchal milestone ere they quit their sportive endeavors. But fellows of this type are by far the exception rather than the rule. They're unique, to say the least.

In the first game of the double head er played last night the Radios turned in the six amateurs the H.B.W.'s by 82 pins. Radios won the first string by eighteen points, B.B.W.'s decreased this in the second to the extent of six points, only to have the Radios increase it by the final frame to win by the round by 83 points. The feature of the game was the good bowling of the ladies as compared with the men who were somewhat off in this game. Radios—

BARNEY GOOGLE AND SPARK PLUG — Sparky's All "Scotched" Up Now — By Billy De Beck

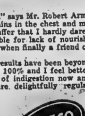

"Try Dreco," said Friend to Mr. Armstrong, Advice Which He Followed with Splendid Result.

"For years, I was a martyr to stomach troubles," says Mr. Robert Armstrong, of Ida, Ontario. "Eating gave me terrible pains in the chest and my stomach would feel sore all over. So much did I suffer that I hardly dared eat at all and as a result became weak and miserable for lack of nourishment. I tried all kinds of medicines without result when finally a friend of mine suggested that I try Dreco.

"I have just finished my fourth bottle and the results have been beyond my fondest expectation. My appetite has improved 100% and I feel better in every way. I hardly have the slightest twinges of indigestion now and my bowels, which were chronically constipated, are delightfully regular now."

For health and vitality, your body needs two things, nourishment and sleep. Dreco assures both by cleansing the organs of digestion and making them do their work. Thus you are enabled to withstand the ravages of severe winter weather, which quickly undermines the sick and weakly. Dreco is made from the pure extracts of herbs, roots, bark and leaves and contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs."

Dreco is being specially introduced in Belleville by The Belleville Pharmacy. It is also sold in Stirling by J. S. Morton, and by a good druggist everywhere.

Mother Seeks Liberation of Harry K. Thaw

Determined Fight Being Waged by Wife.—She Seeks to Thwart Efforts to Free Him

Philadelphia—Evelyn Nesbit's intervention in the Thaw sanity trial on behalf of her boy, Russell will be in vain, Mrs. Mary Thaw declared.

Hatred of the woman who married her favorite son, and who claims to have turned mothered an heir to the Thaw millions, has not died.

Attorneys for the patriotic old lady who seek Harry K. Thaw's freedom from Kirkbride's asylum, feel that they comfort her remaining years, say she's adamant. Harry must be declared sane and liberated, and the boy Russell remain unreported by her as he's son, Mrs. Thaw maintains.

With this dic cast, as the trial reached its second day, Evelyn came to Philadelphia to fight today.

Demure, with downcast blue-shelled eyes saddened by a sombre little clothes, but in faster fashion, the figure that was the toast of artists twenty years ago swathed in a great coat of mink, Evelyn was a study in repression as she came to face the Thaws, whose name she once bore.

The trial moved on its hum-drum way—the testimony of an array of alienist on the subject of Thaw's insanity or sanity, six syllabled words and many references to text books and a jury told that this is a trial of who they the man before them is fit to mingle unrestricted with his fellowmen.

"Flaming Youth"

It was hard to realize the serious thoughtful grey-haired man of 56, cold who sat following with knitting thoughtfulness the rob and flow of the trial was flaming youth of the nineties, who flung away his inheritance with eager hands and set tongues of New York and Paris wagging with his excesses.

And the dainty little Evelyn Nesbit hailed as the most beautiful artist's model of the land two decades ago was she this woman, still attractive, but showing traces of the years between, who came to oppose him?

Evelyn, or rather Russell Thaw for the fight is being waged in the boy's name, was represented by "Bill" Gray, renowned Philadelphia trial lawyer, whose cross-examination of Harry Thaw, when the latter takes the stand, is expected to produce the climax of the trial.

Last A Week

The trial is expected to last a week If court is held on Good Friday, the case may be in the jury's hands by Saturday. If cross-examination of Thaw's alienists drags as it did on the opening day, the trial is certain to go into next week.

Music & Drama

JACKIE COOGAN HAS FIRST "LEADING LADY"

Jackie Coogan has his first real "love affair" and "leading lady" on the screen in his newest First National picture, "Circus Days" which is now at the Griffin Theatre.

Jackie plays the role of Toby Tyler a country boy who runs away from an unhappy home and gets a job selling peanuts and lemonade in the circus.

All sorts of adventures are encountered by Toby in the circus during thrilling portions—and romantic, for there is a little girl, Jeanette, who is an equestrienne of darling personality and fearless nature.

It is Toby's unselfish efforts to aid this tiny horseback rider which results in his elevation to the position of star clown of the circus.

Peaches Jackson, a charming lass has the honor of being Jackie's first "leading lady."

Verily, our Jackie is growing up to be quite a man!

Alec. B. Francis, the much-in-demand "daddy" of the films, is to be seen in the Regents Pictures Corporation's screen version of W. P. Sturris's Blue Book story, "The Drive Fool," which will be the feature picture at the Regent theatre starting today, Friday and Saturday. Mr. Francis has a great following which can be traced back to the early days of pictures and has a record of screen appearances which is rivaled by none. Immediately after the completion of "The Drive Fool," Alec B. started work on the screen adaption of the stage success, "Three Wise Fools."

Pepall American Citizen Would Fight Extradition

Los Angeles, April 17.—Andrew Pepall, the former Toronto man, who purchased succession on duty free bonds in England for Ex-Provincial Treasurer Peter Smith is now an American citizen with residence established in California and upon that ground to will vigorously fight any attempt to extradite him to Canada.

That was the statement made here by Pepall's attorney, Ben S. Hunter, to whom Pepall has delegated responsibility for making all statements to the press.

Hunter declared that Pepall has received no official notice touching on the Smith case and does not expect any.

On learning however, from press despatches that he was named in the conspiracy warrant upon which Peter Smith was arrested, Pepall did say that the Toronto charges came out of a clear sky as far as he was concerned and he proceeded to enter a blanket denial of any complicity in the matter.

"In the absence of more specific details, I prefer to say nothing more," he declared, adding merely that he once lived in Ontario and knew former Provincial Treasurer Smith.

"Three charges," his attorney maintained, "are merely the result of a petty political fight up in Canada. The whole thing is manifestly a political effort to discredit the Labor government in England by attempting to cast doubt upon a former Farmer-Labor government in Canada.

"Consider the fact that they are going back four years to dig up a bond deal which at the time meant millions in favor of Ontario and that the man who put it over received great praise for it. Now they seek to make Smith the goat."

"Now Feeling Fine and Able to do my own work"

Mrs. Walter Grieves, Coe Hill, Ont., writes:

"I was in such a generated, run-down condition that I could not take care of my household duties. I was unable to sleep at night, and the doctor told me I was anaemic. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and to-day I am feeling fine and able to do all my own work.

"My little girl had eczema, and different remedies took no effect whatever. We got a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and that one box relieved her."

WHY DOCTORS ADVISE TONIC IN SPRING

This is the season when your system is trying to adjust itself to warmer weather. Your liver becomes sluggish and your bowels clogged up with poisonous, sickening wastes. As a result, many suffer from such symptoms as sour stomach, coated tongue, bad taste, biliousness, irregular movements of the bowels, sick headaches, pains in the back and sides.

Make this test! Cleanse and tone your liver and bowels with Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup. Tone your stomach in condition—soothe your tired and over-taxed nerves, brace up your system and send pure and healthier blood coursing through your veins.

Notice the quick difference in way you look, eat, sleep and feel—improvement in less than 14 hours. You, too, will be satisfied as others have, or no cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Dolan the Druggist and W. H. Lattimer in Belleville and T. L. McCullough in Deseronto, and by leading druggists in each city and town.

OSHAWA ENTERS LACROSSE TEAM

Oshawa, April 17—At the annual meeting of the Oshawa Lacrosse Club held Tuesday night in the Y. M. C. A. it was decided to enter a junior team in the O. A. L. A. and F. Ellis and C. Irwin were named as delegates to attend the annual meeting of the Ontario Association to be held in Toronto on Good Friday.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Dr. D. A. Cameron and the sentiment of the meeting was that a fast junior team will wear the Oshawa uniform this year. The report of the treasurer, W. Johnston, was a favorable one.

It was decided to ask the A.A.A. of Oshawa for a loan in order to finance the club until such time as they are in a position to look after themselves. Another meeting will be held on Wednesday, April 30.

Drink water to Help Wash Out Kidney Poison

IF YOUR BACK HURTS OR BLADDER BOTHERS YOU, BEGIN TAKING SALTS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this. also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

THINKS REPEAL OF O. T. A. LIKELY

(Dunnville Gazette)

Advocates of prohibition are exerting their utmost endeavors to prevent the submission of the question again to the electors of Ontario. It is doubtful if their course is best calculated to achieve the object they have at heart. Such opposition as exists now to the O.T.A. is likely to grow rather than decrease, and it may wish to see that act continued in the statute book, the sooner the vote is brought on the better their chances are. Opponents of the legislation are very optimistic over the probability of it undergoing material alteration but when the votes of the rural electors are all counted the "wet" element may be nice for a rude awakening.

Miss Helen C—, 22nd Connecticut avenue, Washington, D. C., builds radio set at the cost of 18 cents. The set is built on a piece of cardboard smaller than an ordinary blotter, with safety pins forming the binding posts. The coil is made of silk wire wound eighty times around a roll of paper. She brought the crystal and base for it for ten cents and the condenser cost 5 cents, with the extravagant three cents allowed for the paper pins, wire and dealing was with which the set is held together.

Montreal Knight Fighting Second Divorce Tangle

Montreal, April 15.—Sir Charles Rose, the Canadian Rifle Bayard, appears to have been in matrimonial difficulties ever since his marriage on the 31st day of April, 1893 to Florence Winifred Boyne, or "Fish" as she was lovingly called by some of her admirers. In 1893, the Baronet was only 21, but the trifled data he had sowed would make the most rabid Progressive green with envy. According to Winnie, he already had reaping in 1898, she got mixed up in the agricultural machinery, and was injured internally. Born in Ballingarry, Sir Charles' natural habitat was Salt Lake City and Winnie completed to the English Courts that being a one-man woman herself, she expected hubby to be a one-woman man. His Lordship Mr. Justice Kyllachy, found that Sir Charles was guilty of adultery and it will be interesting to note whether this decision will affect the divorce proceedings now before the courts.

Winnie Boyne was a spoiled child, but mother was firm on one point, and that was her daughter's morals. Winnie always had a dozen admirers around her, and until the age of twenty-two she had been kept unspotted from the world.

Once into your young life a handsome youth, redolent of London Club life, seductive of manner and bearer of an ancient title, Sir Charles Rose Henry Augustine Frederick Lockhart Ross, the Caesar of old, came, saw and conquered. Leading the blushing maiden up to the high altar in St. Mary's Marylebone, London the solemn oath was admired by such Sir Charles promised before his Maker "to hold fast to thee, Winnie, and to none else, till death do us part." And on the same afternoon, his wife declares, he was off to Ascot, after a fleeting light O'love whom he did not wish to lose sight of.

Winnie's innocent ideals were shattered on the evening of the wedding day, but she says she really thought Charles intended to settle down to domestic joys and save his money. She was young, enticing, twin beds had not come into vogue in 1893, but the cellar was well stocked, an elderly housekeeper was in charge and Ross manage, and really there was nothing that Charlie intended to spend his money on. They had a child in 1894, but how both grew up in the same house spared the humiliation of the revelations that were made by Lady Rose in the English Courts in March 1897

It appears that in April 1895, Sir Charles had a prosaic business in Australia, but on his way to Liverpool to get his marriage lines, he encountered actress named Lotte Calcott with whom he had some pressing interviews in the North-Western Hotel in Liverpool.

Yes, Lottie did not mind telling the Court that she knew Sir Charles, she had received a wire from him saying that she was going abroad, so she rushed to Liverpool and spent part of the night in his bedroom on April 10th 1896. She said that the first time she met Sir Charles, he was watching a business. He was at a very passionate disposition and Lady Rose was in a delicate condition. Sir Charles was feeling peeved that many afternoon in 1894, and he suggested they go to an hotel in Devonshire-on-Tyne for several to be a regular fellow, so she took pity on his enforced bachelorhood and stayed with him for some time in the Grand Hotel.

In 1896, when she went to Liverpool she had taken a bedroom in the same floor as Sir Charles, as she hated running up and down stairs in a night shirt, and bedroom slippers and the earliest elevator did not operate after midnight. Mary Rooney, a chambermaid, was on duty in the corridor that night, and she saw the pretty actress pawning around in her dressing-gown. She had just come from a little visit to Sir Charles and was making for her own apartment. This must have been after 2 a.m., because at that hour, Jimmy Pike, the porter, had been collecting boots on that floor. He saw a great big pair of number nines outside of Sir Charles' door and, nestling alongside of them, was a tiny little pair of number twos. Pike told the Court he had drawn his own conclusions. He peered into Lottie Calcott's room, it was empty and the sheets hadn't been turned down. He had discussed the matter as only

Sage Tea Dandy To Darken Hair

IT'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO BRING BACK COLOR AND LUSTRE TO HAIR

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, say well-known druggists here, because it darkens so naturally and so evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

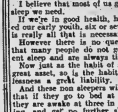

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise coming to them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriously dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray, faded, unattractive looks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

With your eyes as nearly as possible normal

—you will enjoy life more. If you have been suffering with an error of vision it is sure to have been a detriment to you, whether you realize it or not, just as soon as you wear your correction you will notice a decided benefit—a bene fit in direct proportion to the effect the eye strain has had on you, I can help you in this way; if any one can.

DRESS THAT IS MADE TO RESEMBLE A SUIT

The material in this dress, a fine cloth, is of the color of cocoa brown, while the front of the blouse simulates the appearance of a suit, in back it reverts to white and the line from neck to hem with the flat effect that is a feature of the present silhouette.

The sleeveless blouse is of cream crepe de chine and has the little tie color which appears with such frequency as a finishing finish on both blouses and frocks.

LIFE INSURANCE BEFORE MARRIAGE

(Life Insurance Service)

Judge John C. Karel of the State of Wisconsin, recently attacked one of the State laws regarding human development and improvement which requires every person who marries to present a certificate of good health.

Instead, he advocated a law requiring every person who gets married to present a life insurance policy. This, the Judge stated, would be adequate proof that he is of of sound health and also that he is in a position to accept some of the responsibilities of married life.

HE WASN'T THINKING OF THAT

"Good-bye, I'll give you a ring to-morrow."

"Oh, but dear! Do you mean it? This is so sudden!"

That Body of Yours

By James J. Burns, M.A.

THE HABIT OF SLEEPLESSNESS

In a former article I stated that the man who goes home with his hands was usually a better sleeper than the man that worked with his brain.

The idea was not only that he tired himself physically, but that he established a "habit of sleep," which the other man could not do, owing to his business and mental excitement, and the carrying of his business home with him.

I believe that most of us get all the sleep we need.

If we're in good health, have passed our early youth, sit or serve hours is really all that is necessary.

However there is no question but that many people do not get sufficient sleep and are always tired.

For just as the habit of eating is a great asset, so is the habit of sleeplessness a real liability.

And these non sleepers will tell you that if they go to bed at midnight, they are awake at three in the morning, and get up then, because they can't sleep any more. Or if they go to bed at ten o'clock they are awake at one or two.

These folks are usually "busy" people and accustomed to the idea of wasting so much time lying awake hour after hour.

What is the result?

Three cases. In the cases where they actually worked on a correspondence course of study after they went home thinking that the time might better be used than wasted.

Now this is a mistake because this makes the very habit of sleeplessness all the more fixed.

Physicians treating these cases say that as it is a bad habit it must be broken.

Accordingly if the patient has a habit of going to bed at eleven and awakening at two o'clock, they send him to bed at eight o'clock and the next night at twelve. There is thus no repetition of habit. Further they advise that if you have established the habit of reading in bed, reading, or special study in these early morning hours, that this habit must be immediately discontinued.

That it is better to lie awake in a relaxed state of mind and body than to use up your energy by reading or study.

However, there can be no question but that sleeplessness is largely a habit arising from the head inducers sound sleep more readily than any other method.

And so the idea of warm milk or soup is a frequent method with sick people. For well people a cup of coffee takes the place of light exercise before retiring. Raising on the toes, rolling on the heels, and also bending or twisting movements taken to the point of "slight" fatigue will serve as good substitutes.

Don't Hide Them With a Veil: Remove Them With Othine—Double Strength

This preparation for the removal of freckles is so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

NEW TRAIN SERVICE TO CHICAGO

An announcement of unusual interest to all who have occasion to visit Chicago and cities farther west, has been made by the management of Canadian National Railways.

In addition to the present complete Canadian National Railways service operating from Toronto to Chicago, there will be inaugurated on April 27th a new observation sleeping car service leaving Toronto daily at 11.45 p.m. arriving Chicago next day at 2.50 p.m. Central Standard time.

Besides providing a most convenient early morning service this new service is tightly attractive in its time of arrival. By using it passengers bound for points west of the Illinois metropolis will have ample time for business or pleasure in Chicago, and still make all connections for Western points that same evening.

Use Sulphur To Heal Your Skin

BROKEN OUT SKIN AND ITCHING ECZEMA HELPED OVER NIGHT

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from tortuous ointment treatments or doctor's visits with specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement is seen right away.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

LOVE, THE TYRANT
OR WHERE HER HEART LED
BY
CHARLES GARVICE

Esther endeavored; the colour had been she did not know that Selby Layton coming and going in a hectic flush since she was watching her closely, dreamy eyes she had entered the room. Oh, if she had gone to bed, if she had not yielded to temptation and gone to that hateful party above.

"N-o; I got up and strolled about for a time," she said. "It was so hot in my room. Didn't you think the Bruce's grand dance not fatiguing?"

"Oh, yes," he said, indifferently. "But it will not compare with the Towers."

Then he ran on about the music so large and important as the Towers," remarked Miss Worcester, disgustedly.

"That's of course!" said Esther. "Well, I'm glad you didn't find the party slow."

"It was not at all slow," said Miss Worcester. "Mr. Layton—" but she was enough to sing, and he sang beautifully, I mean. Lady Mary secured us the best room. Didn't you think the Bruce's grand dance not fatiguing?"

"Thanks to Miss Worcester's accompaniment, murmured Selby Layton, in a low, tender voice, and he gratefully bow towards her.

Esther, who had covered yourselves with laurels," said Esther, absently. "I am sure I was not there to witness your triumph."

Selby Layton glanced at her covertly. He had noticed the dark shadows under her eyes, the beetle flush, the preoccupied, absent manner, and he was asking himself what had happened. Every change of mood in Esther was of importance to him. Hitherto she had always been self-composed and matress of herself; but this morning she seemed distraught and uncertain. Apparently she ached in her breakfast, he watched her narrowly.

"And are we going to do to-day?" she asked, presently, as she put her plate aside. "What would you like to do, Mr. Layton?—ride?—Selby Layton winced inwardly. Esther, you know I do not wave—or drive or walk? Anything will suit me, so that I get out into the air. I have a craving for the air to-day. The convulsive power of my heart ache lost night."

"I am going to spend the morning in the library," said Miss Worcester; she had risen and was moving herself the door. "I have a catalogue, and was full of the importance of the undertaking.

"Shall we ride or walk?" repeated Selby Layton. "Only last night I learned that there was a ruined abbey or chapel or something of the sort on the Hill Farm. Shall we drive to it, kind as to act as escorts, Miss Vancourt?"

Esther looked up as if awakened from a dream.

"I there? Oh, yes! You mean the Chapel of St. Lucia. A very pretty private suite for your devotions, Mr. Layton. It is Silverby Grey, about three miles from here. Let us go, by all means. We'll take Fido—and you, you prefer to drive a dog-cart?"

"To let us have Fido," said Selby Layton, with an instant dread of a fiery animal which would not walk to heel. "I will order the dog-cart, you

Most Powerful Radio Broadcasting Station in Dominion

The Canadian National Railways have been writing radio history in Canada for the past year. First the System experimented with the broadcasting of news and concerts to moving trains, and when this proved a decided success radio receiving sets became a regular part of the service on transcontinental passenger trains over the System, the only railway in the world to be so equipped. For a time independent radio broadcasting stations in Eastern Canada were used entirely by the System, but late last year it was decided to build an operating station in Ottawa that would be owned and operated by the Company. This was done, and on February 27th the new station (CKCH) was opened by Sir Henry W. Thornton, K.B.E., President of the Canadian National Railways, who delivered an address of such unusual interest as to draw thousands of appreciative cards from many parts of Canada and the United States.

The National Railways have now developed their programme in Western Canada and have made arrangements for the operation of similar stations between Winnipeg and Vancouver for the broadcast of entertainment, news and speeches each afternoon and each evening in the week. These stations, combined with the Ottawa station and three that are being used in Montreal, give the Canadian National Railways the greatest chain of non-commercial radio broadcasting stations in the world.

The photographs show some of the activities of the Canadian National Railways in the realm of radio. No. 1—Passengers on board a compartment observation car listening to a radio programme. No. 2—Mr. Tom Moore, representative of the Trades and Labor Congress on the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railways, talking into a microphone in the operating room of the Canadian National Railways radio broadcasting station in Ottawa. No. 3—One of the two great aerial towers on top of the Jackson Building in Ottawa. Inset—Mr. W. H. Swift, Jr., Radio Engineer of the Canadian National Railways, who has charge of radio operations for the entire System.

CO-OPERATION IN CHURCH

Boston Globe:

The weakness of the Protestant churches in trying appeal to those outside of any religion has been the number of apparently antagonistic divisions which Protestantism has fallen. Amid the clash of tongues it has been difficult for the multitude to distinguish a clear call. Church people themselves have been troubled by the situation in which each little group seemed to be working chiefly for its own peculiar interests. If it is coming to pass that a new unity among Protestants is working itself out, an enormous gain should result to the great cause of spiritual brotherhood and human service to which all the churches are dedicated. The message will become more distinct and compelling as differences give way to co-operation.

Brantford Slab Slates indelibly marked

Brantford

THIS is not a change of policy. It does not increase our responsibility. We have always backed Brantford products to the limit.

But, it does add to your protection.

For, it enables you to tell beyond all doubt that you are getting Brantford Asphalt Slates, made exclusively by the Brantford Roofing Company.

In this new departure, Brantford again leads the way.

Brantford Asphalt Slates lead in sales because they have always led in quality, colors and style.

Brantford led in many communities in Canada by introducing the use of Asphalt Slate roofs: Brantford led year after year in improving the processes of making Asphalt Slates; Brantford led in adding new colors; in bringing out new forms of slates. The success of Asphalt Slates in Canada is largely due to Brantford's pioneering work.

NOW Brantford leads in branding Asphalt Slates with a mark which time cannot erase—the name "Brantford". Wherever Brantford Asphalt Slates may be used, the name "Brantford" places on this firm full responsibility for their quality.

PRESS LAUDS MACDONALDS WORD TO REDS

London Papers Praise Premier's Candid Declarations

OPEN UP ON TROTZKY

Editors Assail Commissar; Labor Leaders Hit Back At British Bankers

London, April 16.—Influential newspapers today praised Premier Ramsay MacDonald's speech at the opening of the Anglo-Russian treaty conference for its frankness, and sincerity warning that there must be plain dealing during the negotiations.

At the same time, while prominence was given to the Tillis speech of Leon Trotzky, Soviet Commissar for War, in which he accused the British Laborite Cabinet of lacking principle.

Reply To Bankers

Five Laborite leaders—A. A. Purcell, Ben Turner, R. C. Wallhead, Gen. Lansbury and Robert Williams—issued a manifesto replying to the British bankers' statement upon Russian credit.

They charge that the British blockade and Russian invasion, in which Russian troops took part, caused half the land devastation within Russia.

They declared the bankers "are trying to bring about economic intervention as military intervention was impossible, to dictate the future form of Russian government."

The second session of the treaty conference began this afternoon with discussion of political questions and the official agenda.

London, April 16.— Probably no foreign delegation visiting England for a conference has ever had the opportunity of reading in the British press such outspoken comments on its Government and itself as the present group, representing the Russian Soviet Government.

To a great extent it is admitted in the press that a trade settlement with Russia is desirable, but the circumstances of the Soviet revolution, the policy of the Moscow Government and the reported utterances of leading Russians of the present day count as the condemnation in the majority of the comments, and the Bolshevist visitors can read in the newspapers such intimations as the following from the Daily Telegraph:

"To most Britons it will appear meaningless to talk of normal, friendly relations on any conditions whatever with a Government of such character and having such a record as that seated at Moscow."

In view of such feeling on the part of the newspaper proprietors it is not surprising that Premier MacDonald's frank admission to the Russian envoys against any attempts at propaganda while here meets with the strong approval of the press.

The Daily News alone makes a plea on behalf of the visitors and roundly condemns the criticism of the Russians in yesterday's papers as anti-Bolshevism gone mad, insulting, crossly malevolent, unfair and unpatriotic. But even this paper commends Premier MacDonald's candor as well as his cordiality toward the Soviet delegates.

To War Over Bessarabia If Necessary

Zinoviev Sounds New Warning to Soviet and Rumania

Moscow.—M. Zinoviev, head of the Leningrad Soviet, declared in a speech at Leningrad today that France and Japan encouraged Rumania to seize the Russian province of Bessarabia. He denounced both countries.

"We do not want to go to war over Bessarabia, although we possess the power to do so," said Zinoviev. "We do not want war at all. We will draw the sword only when there is no other alternative.

Beware of Mischief

"We want to work for and develop our national resources and we cannot do that in war time. When hostile countries accuse us of having the will to war, we must be on our guard against mischief."

Referring to the Anglo-Russian treaty conference at London, Zinoviev said:

"They want us to pay 11 billion rubles we debts. We have only contempt for obligations that were incurred by the Czar and the Kerensky regimes. Therefore, we will not pay 11 billion, nor even one billion, their counter war obligations being greater than ours.

Willing to Consider

"But we are willing to take the Soviet's financial obligations very seriously. We know (the British) will not give us credit for our beautiful eyes, therefore, we are willing to make definite business concessions—making terms that have mutual advantages for both sides."

MAY SETTLE TITLE OF WRANGEL ISLAND

Ownership of Far Arctic Point Made Famous by Crawford at Issue

London.—It is considered quite within the realm of possibility that the question of the ownership of Wrangel Island in the Arctic ocean north of the eastern extremity of Siberia, may be brought up at the present Anglo-Russian conference in London.

Under Advisement

Interviewed by the representative of the Press, officials of the British foreign office refused to make any statement regarding British intentions in the matter of Wrangel Island, but it is understood that the matter has been under advisement for some time.

It was on Wrangel Island where the Canadian expedition of Allan Crawford (formerly of Hamilton), was lost early in 1923. On April 7 last, in answer to questions in the House of Commons, Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, said that Canada had made no claim for the island.

Claimed by Mefanson

From other sources it was intimated that Great Britain might desire sovereignty in that quarter of the Arctic. Some time ago Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, went to England to interest the British Government in the possible strategic value of the island as an air base.

"OLD TIMERS" SECONDS AT MY DINNER

MUST WORK TOGETHER FOR CANADA

Cities and Rural Communities Form Basic Life of Dominion and Harmony is Essential on Understanding Between Two Factions, Chamber of Commerce Told

That Canada must have both cities and rural communities and that the urban centre is essential to the country district, and vice versa, were facts amply demonstrated in two notable addresses at the Open Forum meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce at the City Hall on Tuesday night.

The discussion was in the form of a debate on the subject,—"Resolved that Cities contribute more to the upbuilding and development of Canada than do the rural parts." Mr. J. L. Moore, principal of the Ontario Business College, was the speaker for the affirmative interest and Mr. Wm. H. Nugent, Clerk of the County of Hastings, presented the case for the negative. The hearty rain that came on in the afternoon interfered seriously with the attendance. Many had intended driving in from the surrounding country districts, but the continuous downpour rendered this impracticable except for a few who came in over the Provincial highway.

Mr. Moore made a masterly presentation of the case for the cities and almost succeeded in convincing his audience that Canada could get along very nicely if the rural communities were pushed off the map.

Life is a complex thing, nowadays, began Mr. Moore. Class depends upon class, yet one hears and sees little about the subject that the theme of the debate presented a close-cut proposition.

Easter Linked With Ypres Day This Year In Canadian Thought

Patriots Have a Rendezvous With Life, Asserts For Lewis Chaplain, Urging a More Active Faith in God and the Nation

Easter and Ypres Day are linked in a message written by Major Rev. H. E. Clark, M.C., for the overseas chaplain with the Canadians to his comrades. Harry Clarke, who was killed in take over command whenever company officers fell, had taken training as a combatant officer of infantry. He is now pastor of Bloor Street Methodist Church, Halifax, N. S.

EASTER FAITH

By Rev. Harry B. Clarke, M.C.

Easter is the most joyous of all our festivals. It bears this distinction for two reasons, first because it heralds the return of Spring, and secondly because it symbolizes the triumphant resurrection of our Lord, "The Winter is past.....The flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come." It is the festival of returning life, of nature's resurrection from the dead and dreary winter. It is the festival when faith springs eternal in the human breast, faith in Him who robbed death of its sting and the grave of its victory.

Memories Stirred

Perhaps these words are too exultant for many hearts this Eastertide, sad memories will be stirred which only time can heal and poignant for Joy. Yet many, the day which should be so radiant with fresh and abundant gladness, will be overshadowed by the anniversary of Ypres, which for those so closely in its wake.

They will experience an emotion akin to that which Miles Carman confesses he feels on Easter Eve. It is to him the saddest of all days because it then he remembers his vanished friend. "I only wait," he says, "before my friend again, to run my arms about his shoulder, to see his shy, wonderful smile, to hear that rare and precious melodious voice." In very many hearts in our Dominion these words will find a responsive chord.

Natural Sentiments

These are natural sentiments. It is good, at stated seasons, to commemorate those who have preceded us, to recall how long and well they served their day and generation; this is particularly true in relation with our dead in the Great War. Any who were in any way associated with them can pay tribute to the splendor of their deeds. We shall never be able to do adequate justice to the gay chivalry with which they went forth to keep their troth with death. We shall never be able to weave of words a laurel wreath of such sublimity and exalted quality as the natural theme that for many this Easter season will be chant sed by sorrowful hearts.

Easter Message of Joy

But must we linger there without the light of hope? Does not the empty sepulchre fill our souls with a message of holy joy? Does not the Easter message awaken within us the confident assurance of the glorious victory over death? Does not the fact of the risen Christ thrill us with the moral significance of life? This is the message of the resurrection for us today. It means the possibility of a risen life for every man.

Perhaps some of my readers are associated with these lines of Countee Cullen, the coloured boy, written in confessed imitation of Alan Seeger's immortal poem.

"I have a rendezvous with Life
In days when hope will come
Ere youth has sped and strength of mind,
Ere Voices secret grow dumb;
I have a rendezvous with Life
When Spring's first heralds hum.

Sure some would cry, it's better far
To crown their days with sleep, than face the road, the wind and rain
To heed the calling deep.
Though wet nor blow nor space I fear,
Yet fear I deeply too.
I have an appointment and claim no error
I keep Life's rendezvous."

Inspiration

What a camp-fire inspiration there is in these simple lines. What a challenge they make to us to face the tasks of peace with that same unconquerable resolve displayed by our soldiers on the battlefield. There is, after all, no high virtue associated with those glorious scenes of war which may not be emulated in the commercial tasks of life. Never was there greater need for such consecration, step by step, with all our powers and discovery there are social sores which are in bitter need of healing, racial animosities, sectarian prejudices, class hatred and strife.

Build Up Canada

Why cannot we overcome our differences, and go forward anew with a united purpose to build up a strong and united Canada? Are we less resourceful in peace than in war? If we could only recapture for the tasks that lie before us some of that exalted patriotism which welded us into so compact a force during the war, what a nation we might become!

Perhaps as one puts it: "We are so absorbed in what lies about our feet that we ignore what can be seen only when we look up into the pure light of heaven. Easter Day answers us that there is no true concern of man, nothing that affects him in soul or body that may not be transfigured with lasting glory."

"According to your faith so be it unto you."

BOY PLAYS AUTO DRIVER — SMASH

Autos in Peculiar Collision On Victoria Avenue—Accident Narrowly Averted

Thursday afternoon about four o'clock, a rather peculiar accident occurred on Victoria Avenue, but fortunately no person was injured.

A truck facing eastward was stopped in front of Dr. Proctor's residence whilst a delivery was being made. Near the truck Mr. Proctor's grandson, a Metzschlin sedan was standing just behind, facing the truck and probably to go 50 feet away.

Whilst the driver of the truck was making delivery of the goods a boy jumped into the sedan and released the emergency brake causing the car to go ahead with considerable momentum.

The result was it crashed into the truck caused by Mr. J. C. Evans with sufficient force to start it down Victoria Avenue, and it ran up upon the lawn in front of the Baptist Church, doing also considerable damage to the church. Both motor vehicles were damaged to some extent. The boy had fortunately escaped injury.

SERIOUS CHARGE IS LAID AGAINST DRIVER OF TRUCK

Auto Belonging to Crown Attorney Donnan Damaged In Collision—Accused Out on $3,000 Bail.

Albert Shenner of this city was on Friday morning before Magistrate Masson, charged with driving a motor truck whilst under the influence of liquor. The charge was laid under the criminal code.

The case was enlarged until Tuesday next and the accused was allowed out on bail, himself in $2,000 and one security for $1,000.

On Thursday evening, shortly after 6 o'clock, Mr. B. C. Donnan, County Attorney drove his car to the C.N.R. depot, Trenton, for the purpose of meeting some friends who were arriving on the evening train. He left his car on the driveway near the station and shortly after a truck driven by Albert Shenner into Mr. Donnan's car from the rear, with considerable force, driving the gasoline tank out of place, bending the fenders and doing other damage. Shenner backed away from the car and in going passed Constable Ross, hit the car again. When Shenner alighted from the truck it was alleged that he was under the influence of liquor. Sergt. Harman, who was at the railway station at the same time on a mission similar to Mr. Donnan, took Shenner to the police station, where later he was held until court time Friday morning. The truck was slightly damaged and is the property of Mr. J. C. Evans.

The Resurrection

(By Richard G. V. Cooper, Belleville, Ont.)

The Roman guards, save one or two are wrapped in silent sleep,
As before Christ Joseph's tomb an all-night watch they keep;
The moon is waning in the west; the night will soon be past,
While the flickering fire a fitful gleam on the helms of the soldiers cast.

Many a vile blasphemous jest these soldiers they had spot,
Against the Man who said He would arise up from the dead.
With joke and laugh around their fire till most had sunk to sleep,
While two consented till the morn a useless watch to keep.

Leaning on spears stuck in he ground these two their vigil kept,
While westward still the Lona orb on her silvery orbit crept;
Her light grows feeble in the sky, black clouds across her roam;
All darkness is, but lyeglish's glow shows up the sealed stone!

Could one with eyes immortalized have stood within that cave,
And pierced the darkness to behold the blessed Christ there laid
He would have seen an Angel throng around that silent bed,
Waiting till morn to hail the Lord as Victor from the dead!

But lo! a glimmering light glints in the eastern sky,
The earliest vanguard of the day shows that the morn is nigh;
The dim light now displays the sepulchre's new hewn rock,
And through the silence there is heard the crowing of a cock!

A rush of wind rounds up the clouds a black mass overhead;
A hard gleam portends a storm ere sun has risen from bed;
From out the eben clouds dart forth with swift and dazzling light,
A zig-zag gleam which shot to earth, a flash of lightning bright!

Sonorously, cresendo-like, re-echoing and ascending,
Booms forth the mighty thunder with the lightening descending;
Synonymously in unison with the furor up go high,
Earth follows suit and rocks are rent with fissures long and wide!

Hark how the thunder exultetn in shaking!
See how the lightning its joy-dance is making!
Listen how earth rejoiceth in quaking!
Lo suddenly a shaft of light from the dark clouds extends.

Like lightning in human form an Angel bright descends,
The sealed stone is shattered!
The Roman guards are scattered!
What else on earth now mattered?

CHRIST HATH RISEN!

The Sun of Life shines forth to-day,
The eclipse of sin is swept away;
The flaming sword is hurled aside,
The gate of Paradise opened wide;
To man by death no more benighted,
Lo, open stands the Tree of Life;
And he who would from sin e'er sever,
May come and eat and live for ever!

ALL RANKS MEET AGAIN AT REUNION

Old Friendships Cemented During Four Years of Warfare Renewed at Dinner—General Regret Expressed at Inability of Maj.-Gen. Sir Arthur Currie to Attend

Old Comrades-in-danger happily reunited in peace gathered last night in the Quinte Hotel at the first re-union of all ranks of "The Old Iron Brigade" and joy reigned supreme. They came from Toronto, Montreal, Sarnia, Peterboro, Stratford and many other with-ely scattered points to spend one day together and renew old friendships cemented during four years of peril in France. They were of all ranks. Three generals, many colonels, majors and captains greeted their former men in a spirit of good fellowship. During the evening any mention of former officers caused storms of applause from the men, and the officers spoke of the privates in terms of affection and admiration.

Currie Unable to Attend

General regret was expressed that Sir Arthur W. Currie was unable to be present at the death of his mother last week, which altered his plans. His letter of regret at his unavoidable absence called forth enthusiastic applause and a message of sympathy will be sent to him by the Battalion Association.

About one hundred and twenty of all ranks attended the dinner, including some visitors from other battalions. Major-General Sir A. C. Macdonell, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., Major General, the Hon. Sir S. C. Mewburn, K.C.M.G., D.S.O., had Brig.-Gen. A. E. Swift, D.S.O., were the principal speakers with Colonel L. T. McLaurin, C.M.G., D.S.O., in the chair. Cigars and

Toasts Proposed

In the absence of Sir Arthur Currie, the first two toasts, "Canada and the Canadian Corps" and "The Old Canadian Division" were grouped and proposed by Major R. B. Ponton. "Dick" Ponton did not "Cuss" the "Old Iron Seconds" were the best Canadian Battalion, but he insisted that they were some better. He referred to the work of the forces in this country, which were tending towards division in the British Empire and urged it as the solemn duty of all citizens to protect in peace the country they had fought for in the Great War.

This thought was echoed again and again by succeeding speakers. Forming a patriotic background to the light of the evening's entertainment.

Responds to Toast

Gen. Sir A. Macdonnell responded to the toast, tracing the glorious record of the Canadian Corps. Brig.-Gen. Griesbach responded in most happy vein. He drew the parallel between the boy and daughter as he told of humorous happenings and called back to their memories difficulties and troubles of the days of great strain.

Col. E. D. O'Flynn was not so modest as Major Ponton—he claimed that the Second Battalion that ever carried arms, although he admitted that when he first saw "Smoke" attached at Valcartier his thought it was a Zeppelin base. Col. "Eddie" was speaking to the toast of "The Second Battalion" to which group he had responded.

The formal speaking was closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Welcomes Veterans

Before breaking up Major Mikel welcomed the veterans to the city and hoped they would meet again. Several others spoke briefly, including Gen. Webb, Brig.-Gen. Gibson, Lt. Col. Waterbottom, Col. D. Vandervaart and Major Dr. Joyner. Thanks were extended to Major D. E. McIlmoyle for his work in arranging the invitations out and tracing the addresses of all men and he answered briefly.

At 12.30 "Auld Lang Syne" brought the function to a close. Those who could wandered off to bed—the rest gathered in the remnants of many over old times until their trains arrived.

Through the courtesy of Major Ponton many old relatives issued to the Battalion were announcing Canadian victories were being around the walls.

TANNAHILL HOST TO MANY FRIENDS

To mark the close of his long years of active service with the Bank of Montreal, Mr. R. Tannahill was host to the great majority of Belleville's influential men at a reception in his chambers last Thursday evening. Mr. Tannahill took occasion to introduce his successor, Mr. Telford, formerly of Kingston, to his new fellow townsmen.

Mr. Tannahill is an ideal host and had a word of greeting for every man in the crowded rooms. Formerly in Belleville is not to lose one of her most honored citizens, although Mr. Tannahill intends remaining here. He has taken a house on George Street.

While Mr. Telford assumes his new duties as manager of the Bank next week, the former manager will be present to lend his help and experience in an advisory way, perhaps for some time.

A SLIGHT BLAZE

Shortly before noon on Friday the fire brigade was called to Mr. Charles Fry's home, located on Church street adjacent to the gas house. A blaze in the kitchen was the cause of an alarm being sounded. By the use of an extinguisher the blaze was subdued. Damage done to the house and contents was slight.

"I have very little to wear. I would clothe in these days that is suitable for almost every occasion."

GROW WITH BELLEVILLE

The "boom" town is ever alluring to large numbers, in that it seemingly offers the opportunity to grow up with the place. To get in on the ground floor, so to speak, at first blush, prompt great numbers to rush to the new place, where they will find many others who had been attracted in the same manner.

They seek their new home with the avowed purpose of growing up with the town and that determination, serves as an impetus for extra effort. If pushed the ambitions of its founders are realized, those with that determination to grow with the place will succeed, provided the determination is strong enough and a proportionate amount of energy is displayed in their efforts.

Have you grown with Belleville; have you kept pace with its advancement and development? There has been a big boom here, as that term is usually applied to the growth of the so-called mushroom cities what spring to life over night, only to fade away almost as quickly. There has been, however, a healthy, steady, wonderful growth and advancement here for the past ten years. True there has been no stream of prosperity added to the normal growth to cause the population to increase as rapidly as has been the case in many other cities of this size.

The growth in wealth and health has been phenomenal. The advancement in civic improvements, its streets, churches, schools, residences, factories is such that there is just cause for exceeding pride.

There have been and will never any more opportunities for success here as there are in these new or proposed boom towns. The opportunity to grow up with the place, to get in on the ground floor holds as good in Belleville as the other places. If your desire to grow up with the city is real, there will be the accomplishment. If your desire to grow up with Belleville has been sincere who the effort expended sufficient, you have grown up with it.

The drifters who have been content to let the city forge ahead of them, who have not had sufficient faith in their home to keep abreast and grow up with it, have that opportunity to-day. It may be late, but not too late to awaken to the possibilities which so patent to those who have grown up with the city. Readjustment of thought and the creating of faith, may be difficult, but true ambition to catch up and keep up will assure the attainment.

One of the first qualifications necessary for growth with the city is the knowledge of its growth. It may grow all around you in many ways, invisible because you are not strictly a part of it. Becoming identified with the men and agencies that are promoting and largely responsible for the growth will give you the vision to see and appreciate developments made and likely to be.

Belleville is going to continue to grow and develop. You may if you choose grow with it. When you do so, yours and the city's growth will be mutual. In just the proportion in which your aid is given in the advancement and development, will the return be by the city.

If dormant, the ambition is you should be awakened, if lacking, it should be created. Self interest alone asks and community interest demands that you grow with the city and that the city grow with you.

BEECHAM'S PILLS
The Safest and Best Family Medicine

LOWERED VITALITY

A Condition Following Indoor Confinement, Of Which

"There are very few people who do not need a tonic at this season of the year. The reason for this is that whether in the home, the office or the factory, people have been living throughout the long winter months in an atmosphere more or less vitiated, and as a result find themselves run up to the summertime weak. Through the long months of winter they have been breathing this hard and poor. Closey confinement and lack of exercise has used it up and exhausted it. You are not as energetic as you could wish. Your work tires you and perhaps your digestion is none too good. Your nerves may be jaky and your appetite poor. All these things point to poverty of the blood. It is a sickly life, fact that if the blood of the strongest is tested in the spring there is less of it and it is poorer than it should be. The spring medicines of our grandmothers—sulphur and molasses, and the like—recognized the necessity for aid at this season, but were an unscientific attempt to cleanse the blood. Modern medical science has found a better way. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new, rich blood at the first dose and at every dose afterwards. Thus they strengthen every organ of the body and give new vitality to the whole system. Here is proof. Miss Clara Cheslock, High Falls, Que., says:—"I was in much need of a medicine and my blood was thin and poor. I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and must thank you for the good they did me. I never enjoyed better health than I have since I took them."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Must Work

come important builders either for the country or themselves was their lot in fortune, rather than their fault.

The country lacked facilities for the quick communication which is so necessary of efficiency in the city. The country people, however, the trolley system, the ilergraph, telephone and power lines and well paved highways, which produced so much greater ease of transportation both for people and goods and there multiplied the effectiveness of individual effort.

Then there was the personal interference with work. For about half the year the farmer could not carry on his regular work because of weather conditions while the city man could work every day in the year.

Farmers Having a Hard Time

The farmers have been having a hard time of it the past three years, continues Mr. Moore. They are still paying wartime prices for practically everything they buy, and either everything they produce at the prices that prevailed before the war.

Where Is the Machinery Produced?

The rural parts of Canada are engaged in carrying on several basic industries—agriculture, dairying, lumbering, mining, and fur-trapping.

For all these industries, machinery and tools are required. Without investments no land would be tilled. Without tools and equipment no lumber would be cut. Without them no mines would be cut. All these lines of machinery and implements are manufactured only in the city by city skilled labor.

The money produced only 21 per cent. of the value of their real property values, while the manufacturers produced 117 per cent of their investment in real property annually.

Distribution as Essential as Production

It was not enough to produce. We must have distribution as well as production if we were to have continued prosperity. Production without distribution would have either cities or industrial development without the food that must inevitably be supplied by the country.

Agriculture the Great Canadian Industry

Agriculture, continued Mr. Nogent, was the great basic industry of Canada. It had done more than all others to bring population and capital into the country. It was the national economic heart which supplied life to all the parts. It was agriculture that had peopled our prairie provinces and established our economic life.

Agriculture represented an investment in Canada of the inconceivable total of $11,000,000 and a product in 1922 that was valued at $1,558,000,000.

Our Forest Products

The forest fires, Mr. Nugent intimated, were caused by the carelessness of tourists and sportsmen trailing from the cities.

Forestry stood second only to agriculture in importance in Canada. It represented an investment of $313,000,000 and an annual production of $600,000,000.

Without the products of our forests there would be no building in the cities. Without the pulp obtained from the forests there would be no daily papers or magazines.

There were also the multitudinous by-products of the forests, essential to the manufacture of furniture, pianos, phonographs, railway ties, telephone poles and many hundreds of other things that it was impossible to enumerate.

Mineral Products

The mines were also a rural asset, and the minerals supplied the raw material for a host of manufactures.

In 1923 Canada's mines gave a total production of $265,000,000 and in 12 years the British Empire's requirements supplied our railways with 35 per cent of their requirements.

Such important structural materials as cement and brick were also rural products.

Electrical Development

Cities derived their light and power from rural hydro electric development. Ninety-seven per cent. of the power which is used for stationary industry was developed from hydro power.

Old Historic Unit

As the numerical list indicates, the 2nd Battalion was one of the old historic units of the original Expeditionary Force; it was identified throughout the first half and overseas experience with the 1st Canadian Division, and its exploits contribute a glorious chapter to that splendid record of achievement enjoyed by the 1st Canadian Brigade. Of its five commanding officers, one, the late Major-General Sir David Watson of Quebec, rose to the command of a division, two, Brigadier-General A. E. Swift, D.S.O., of Quebec, and Brigadier-General R. P. Clark, C.M.G., of Winnipeg, Que., were advanced to the leadership of brigades, while a fourth Colonel Lorne T. Mcdougall, of Bowmanville, Ont., had the distinction of being awarded, in addition to the senior decoration of C.M.G., two D.S.O.'s and the Distinguished Service Order. Of no less interest is the fact that wit of Canada's Victoria Cross heroes, Sergeant Leo Clarke (Somme, 1916) and Major Colin Kerr Campbell (Hill 70, 1917) earned these honors while serving with the 2nd Battalion.

The register of those attending includes the following:

BASIS OF ALL LAW

Nowhere in all the centuries of recorded speech will one find so brief and comprehensive a summary of the moral obligations, one from one man to another, as is written in the Ten Commandments. They form the basis of all law, written and unwritten, that has ruled and guided mankind from the tin of Hammurabi until the present. A disregard of these is responsible for the holocaust resultant from all wars.

Leading thinkers of the world are advocating assiduous Bible reading, not strictly from the religious standpoint, but from the law of balances—to form the flux of thought, from thoughts of strife and horrors to thoughts of peace.

Leading schools and newspapers throughout the country are advocating active campaigns to this end, and this paper is glad to be one of the first to help swing the world around to its proper moorings. Deaths and Funerals

MRS. WARWICK BOWELL

The death of Mrs. Warwick Bowell, a former resident of Tweed, occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Houston, Toronto, on the afternoon of Tuesday, April 15th, at the age of eighty-two. Mrs. Bowell had been ill for some months. Left to mourn her loss are two daughters, Mrs. Houston and Miss Margaret, of Toronto; and two sons, Fred, of Toronto and R. W., Montreal.

Service was held at the home in Toronto at eight o'clock Wednesday evening and the remains were brought to Tweed on the afternoon train on Thursday. After a short service at her old home, now owned by Mr. H. W. Bowell, at 2.30 p.m., interment was made in the family plot in Victoria Cemetery.

Mrs. Bowell was one of Tweed's earliest residents. She has many friends in Tweed who regret her loss. Mr. Bowell who was postmaster here for many years, predeceased her about sixteen years ago.

Beauty-Personality-Magnetism
Gifts of the Healthy Woman
THE types of feminine beauty are so diverse that it is sometimes difficult to follow the judges' ideas in the many beauty contests.
But the charm is really in the personal attractiveness of the individual rather than in regularity of feature and on closer investigation it will be found that perfect health is an important factor.
Poise, grace of carriage and elasticity of movement are essential and these as well as beauty of the skin depend largely on the condition of the general health.
Weak blood and irritable nerves are not conducive to charm and beauty.
By overcoming these conditions you lay the only sure foundation for the improvement of your personality.
By making the blood rich and nourishing Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will do much for the woman who finds her health is a run-down condition.
Such accompanying symptoms as sleeplessness, headache, irritability will soon disappear under this treatment.
As the blood becomes richer and purer you will find the healthful glow returning to the complexion and new vigor and buoyancy to the whole body.
You will find that you are taking a more cheerful view of life and the improvement in your physical condition will be manifested in your every movement.
Health and beauty go hand in hand. Improve your health by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 60 cents a box of 50 pills, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Why Gum-Dipped Cords Carry You Farther at Less Cost
How far a tire goes depends upon how much friction is generated inside the carcass, for friction causes wear in a tire just as it does in your motor.
In Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords a special Firestone process thoroughly insulates each cord in a solution of new, live rubber. Cords cannot rub together, so friction is guarded against and wear minimized.
You can reduce your tire expenditure this season by equipping with Gum-Dipped Cords. They will carry you farther at less cost and help make every mile safe and pleasant.
There is a dealer near you who likes to give value. He sells Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords and Steel-Welded Tubes—the tube that increases mileage because it is leak proof.

"DULCY" WAS FILMED IN YOSEMITE VALLEY

Part of "Dulcy" which comes to the Griffin Theatre on Monday to Wednesday and is Constance Talmadge's latest comedy of married life, was filmed in the Yosemite.

The early sequences of "Dulcy" were made in the Mohave desert near Needles, Cal., and among the Mohave and Walapai Indians were used.

Vernal Falls, near Yosemite, was used for the sensational scenes where a young bride, played by Constance Talmadge, attempts suicide over the falls after a trifling quarrel with her hubby.

Joseph M. Schenck, the producer, gathered together a notable cast to support Constance, among them Jack Mulhall, who plays the leading role "opposite" the star, as well as Claude Gillingwater, May Wilson, Johnny Hines, Ann Cornwall, Andre de Beranger, Gilbert Douglas and Millie Davenport.

"Dulcy" was written by Marc Connelly and George S. Kaufman, for the New York stage where for many months it was one of the most popular successes. It was purchased by Mr. Schenck for Constance. Anita Loos and John Emerson were entrusted with the task of writing the continuity for it.

"Dulcy" was filmed with even greater lavishness than "East is West," shows showing mountain cabins of Adirondack massiveness, a Fifth Avenue home, and extensive Big Bear Lake are included in the photoplay.

"Dulcy" was directed by Sidney Franklin, and is a First National picture.

"THE DEUCE OF SPADES"

Long before Anne Nichols saw the run rise, Horace Greeley formulated a line of advice for young men that has been used as an authority ever since. It was a general maxim to follow in the course of the settling of what it has a special stronghold around Greenwich Village, England.

When Anon, struggling with the technicalities of a new profession, arrived in the Massachusetts seat of culture, had a chance to sell out he decided to visualize the life of his young life. With a carpet bag in one hand and his courage in another he sought the Back Bay station and boarded a train for the land of his desire, which in his own vision of geography meant Little Butte, Mont.

The prospects of the town had been painted before him so vividly that he had visions of a little metropolis where dollars grew like rocks and the inhabitants were all millionaires. The first reaction was disappointing. On alighting at the depot he faced a row of shabby wooden houses, made an introduction with leading citizens whose forte was gambling, whose vocabulary was peculiarly different from the select diction of Harvard. Under these circumstances, surrounded by lunco games and card sharp tricks for which he was easy prey, Anon had to make his way.

How he fell a victim to each trick of the gambler's art until he broke under the last straw is vividly portrayed in "The Deuce of Spades," the play starring Charles Ray which is coming as the First National release at the Regent Theatre on Monday. The plot, adapted from Charles E. Van Loan's "The Weight of the Last Straw" singles buoyant comedy with a story of compelling interest and a native love thread that mends broken feelings and torn pride.

"BARNEY GOOGLE AND SPARK PLUG"

Among the jingly, swinging numbers of "Barney Google and Spark Plug", the newest song, dance, music and girl show produced from the famous comic cartoon of which Billy Debeck is the creator and originator, which will be presented at the Griffin Theatre for one night, Thursday, April 24, are "I Wanna Dance", "Love Light", "On the Outside Looking In" and "Barney Google".

William K. Wells, author of the book, is also author of George Wylie's Scandals, Ted Lewis' Revue and the new Greenwich Village Follies. The music is by Con Conrad, author of the biggest song hit the year—"Barney Google." The piece was staged by Dan Dody and the efforts of this clever trio is said to be swift moving, hilarious fun show with tuneful numbers, fantastic dances and beautiful stage pictures will delight both eye and ear. The delightful variety, dancing, dashing, dimpled, Dresden doll divinities who form the chorus of the newest song, dance, fun and girl show "Barney Google and Spark Plug" made from the famous Billy Debeck comic cartoons which the Cartoon Amusement Co., Inc., will present at the Griffin Theatre for an engagement of one night, Thursday, April 24, is a real Broadway chorus. Broadway, the beauty mart of the world, was ransacked of its fairest flowers when the fashion plate chorus of "Barney Google and Spark Plug" was selected, and as a fitting background for the beauties of the chorus the producers have provided massive and gorgeous stage settings. The costuming of the Barney Google chorus is one of the features of the show. The girls are all gowned in up-to-the-minute and inc style creations that are a riot of beauty and tantalizing coloring. William K. Wells, author of the book, is also author of George White's Scandals, Ted Lewis' Revue and the new Greenwich Village Follies, while the music is by Con Conrad, author of the biggest song hit of the year—"Barney Google."

CURRENT SPORT IN BRIEF FORM

"He's a wonder at coming from behind and winning."

Such is an oft-hand expression in sport with reference to the athlete who doesn't know defeat—keep plugging at all times.

Golf offers one of the greatest examples of the come-from- behind theory of Walter Hagen. Rival golfers are always worried about Hagen regardless of how far he may be behind. "He's a front runner," is another much-used sport expression. It refers to the player who is hard to beat provided he sets out in front early.

The 1923 world series between the Yankees and the Giants furnished an exhibition of what may happen if one keeps plugging away.

The come-from-behind stunt was staged in the sixth and final game of the series. The refusal of Pitcher Bentnook, of the Yankees, to admit defeat made possible the situation, and with it the championship.

Throughout the game the Giants bit Pennock consistently, scored four runs in five innings. Only the breaks and Pennock's courage kept the score tied low.

Nehf, of the Giants had simply been invincible. A home run by Ruth early in the game was the only score by the Yankees.

The break came in the eighth, when the invincible Nehf, developed a streak of wildness that was fatal. The Yanks scored five runs and captured the game.

If Pennock had early conceded defeat, pitched carelessly, the Giants probably would have made as many runs that the Yankee rally would have availed nothing.

Pennock's performance was a consecutive one. Any time a team or individual comes from behind to win, the feat is regarded as tribute to gameness.

The athlete capable of coming from behind, is regarded as game.

The athlete known as a front runner one who shines when he has a margin to work on, is usually considered as lacking in courage—often referred to as "yellow."

All of which gives rise to the question as to whether it isn't just as difficult to hold a slight lead, with the opposition striving to cut it down, as to come from behind.

It is baseball tradition that certain pitchers given a margin of a few runs are almost unbeatable. These same pitchers are not nearly so effective when their team is trailing.

Some convincing arguments might be offered to prove the strain of holding the opposition at bat, when enjoying only a slight lead, is as difficult a task as playing away when behind.

It might all be traced back to the temperaments of the individual pitcher's a matter of nerves, rather than courage.

In sport, front runners are regarded as lacking in courage. Possibly they are being done quite an injustice.

VOLLEY BALL

A WOUND IS AN OPEN DOOR

Absorbine Jr. enables you to shut the door quickly.

The skin is Nature's own protection against germs. When it is bruised, broken or cut, that protection is withdrawn. The door is open. As quickly as possible Nature closes it by forming what we call a scab and renders you comparatively safe against infection But this scab sometimes takes days to form and until it has fully sealed the wound, even until the wound has thoroughly healed again you must furnish the required protection yourself.

A few drops of Absorbine Jr. in the water will give you an antiseptic wash that will kill all possibility of infection and help nature to heal the wound. As well as being a very powerful germicide, Absorbine Jr. will draw out the inflammation and bring instant relief.

Absorbine Jr. is antiseptic, germicide and liniment in one container—handy to keep always in the house; easy to carry around if you travel.

Sinical Sadie Sees

Where is the man who has the power and skill
To stay the torrent of a woman's will?
If he has will, and will, you may depend on't,
He hasn't the brains she won't; so there's an end on't.
Love and sausage are the best disorder of the.

Sinical Sadie says the Provincial and Dominion Parliaments could stage a lovely tea-party. The Provincial House, on account of the scandal and Premier King, the electric tea-ball, and the love interest would not be needed.

He faith is something and enthusiasm for something that make life worth living at.

That a man called Thomas Fuller wrote his own epitaph thus:—"Fuller's earth."

Wakeful woman's never weary,
When she waits to thump her dreary.

Sinical Sadie says that Hon. Peter is no doubt "reducing," that it was best left to pet his memory in the Mirrett Lick. Perhaps he broke a thermometer? She did appreciate that beard had luck for seven years. Men dying make their wills—but wives.

Excuse's work so and;
How can they make what all their lives

The gentle dames have had:
That, a young lady on a visit—car in Toronto was subjected to the humiliation of having her satchel searched and no reason given.

Sadie says, there is a selling hint in car salesmen—that!

Benjamin Franklin said: "Three may keep a secret if two are dead." That's alright, but what if only one is dead.

Coos all ye jolly shepherds,

Intelligencer Announces Winners In Essay Contest

Well the contest is over, boys and girls, and you each and all deserve a prize. I am gratified with the essays. The prize winners have done good work, as our readers will agree, and I offer congratulations to you. I might say here that being a stranger in the City I did not know one of the contestants, but having finally chosen the best several I turned them over to the Proprietor and his choice coincided with mine, with one exception, which was discarded anyway, two having a claim to it. So now I have much pleasure in awarding the two prize to:

Helen B. Finkle, U.E. L.
267 Foster Ave., Belleville.
2nd prize to J. Helen Rollins.

Prizes will be mailed.

In this age, when we have all the modern conditions that surrounds the United Empire Loyalists Celebration this year, it is hard to read what war broke out these Thirty Thousand Loyalists who would not take up arms against their Sovereign, were very cruelly treated by their former friends, who were now exulting in their new found liberty. Most of them forfeited their property confiscated, while many were executed and treated as criminals for slight offences.

When the terms of the declaration of Independence were agreed, New York became no longer a home for Loyalists, but a prison. Many of them went to Annapolis Royal, and some to Upper Canada, particularly to the Bay of Quinte District.

On the transportation to Upper Canada, the first season they got no farther than Sorrel in Lower Canada where they were obliged to spend the winter. In the spring they continued on their way in flat bottomed boats, and after encountering many difficulties in ascension of the rapids finally reached Frontenac where Kingston now stands.

With the first glimmer of the morning, all hands were at work; a small spot was cleared, trees felled, and log houses built. They were not accustomed to the rooms few and small, furniture was practically absent, a pot or two and a few pewter spoons dished up the kitchen utensils.

The Government sent them turnip seed, and with this a fine crop was harvested. Many of them had never seen wood Dyer' even if you have never dyed before. Druggists have all colors. Direction in each package.

JUST IN PASSING

BABY FIRST MEALS

I was asked the other day if I knew anything about "first meals" for a baby. I am sorry that willing to pass on my experiences (with my own children), which is the personal distinction of a famous baby specialist.

The first food addition to the diet of a normal baby should be a fresh tomato. Juice daily. All well-brought up babies eventually get a green one or the other very early in life, particularly if they are bottle babies.

For the baby's first egg, place a fresh egg in a pan of boiling water, remove pan immediately from fire, let it coddle egg seven minutes. Start with the usual spoonful. Watch the effect each new attics of food has on the baby. It requires intelligent care and thought and many hours of work and watchfulness, but it is such a source of unusually wants to take into her own hands the task. There is no longer forcibly prepared food for the tiny digestive organ.

POEMS Old and NEW

The little cares that fretted me,
I lost them yesterday
Among the fields above the sea,
Among the winds at play;
Among the lowing of the herds,
The rustling of the trees,
Among the lapping of the waves,
The humming of the bees.
The foolish fears of what may happen
I cast them all away,
Among the clover-scented grass,
Among the new-mown hay;
Among the hushing of the corn
Where drowsy poppies nod;
Where ill-thoughts die and good are born—
Out in the fields with God!

Little Indian, Sioux or Crow,
Little frosty Eskimo,
Little Turk or Japanese,
O! don't you wish that you were me?

You have seen the scarlet tree
And the cocoa-nut grow;
You have eaten ostrich eggs,
And turned the turtle on its back.

Such a life is very fine,
But it's not so nice as mine:
You must often, as you trod,
Have wearied, not to be shroud.

You have curious things to eat,
I am fed on proper meat;
You must dive deep beyond the foam,
But I am safe and live at home.

WEDDING BELLS

GREEN—MILES

A very pretty though quiet wedding was solemnized St. Andrew's Church Belleville on Thursday morning by Rev. A. S. Kerr when Miss Gladys Miles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miles and Mrs. Arthur Miles became the bride of Mr. Charles Ransom Green, son of Mrs. S. Green.

The bride looked charming in a fallcloth rookie brown suit, with hat, shoes and stocking to match, wearing the gift of the groom, a real opal. The bridesmaid was Miss Janet Miles who looked very pretty in a navy serge blue, cameo crepe heavily beaded with French crepe and gold trimmings and grey turban. The groom was attended by Mr. Arthur Miles, brother of Bob Miles. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold brooch, and with a tonas and to the groomsman, a white gold, cuff links.

The flower worn by the bride and bridesmaid were American Beauty roses and Sweet peas.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. A very dainty luncheon was served, the guests being a few intimate friends of the bride.

There were the recipients of many beautiful and valuable gifts.

The happy couple left on an early train for Montreal and New American cities, where many friends and relatives await their arrival.

After the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Green will reside on Yeomans St. of this city.

SATISFIED MOTHERS

No other medicine gives as great satisfaction to mothers as Baby Ease Tablets. These Tablets are equally good for the newborn babe and the growing child. They are absolutely safe. They cannot possibly do harm. Mothers who use Baby Ease Tablets are mild but thorough laxative and tonic. They regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus relieve baby of colic, constipation, indigestion, colds, colic, etc. Concerning them Mrs. Irving Fillion, St. Genevieve, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets have been of wonderful benefit to my baby who was suffering from constipation and indigestion. I always keep the Tablets on hand and would advise all mothers to do likewise." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

"eYa," he said. He looked at her with covert attention. She still seemed sad and preoccupied. Selby Leyton had been a slight acquaintance, and though he did not know so much about them as he thought, he knew a great deal. He knew, for instance, that women are slaves to moods, and that in some moods they will do and say things at which they would shy under an ordinary frame of mind. Was Esther in such a mood that he might venture to make this grand coup? He would feel his way carefully.

"What more can you desire?" he said in his soft voice and with a musical little laugh. "You have youth and beauty—forgive me!—but the fact is no patent that one may overlook to speak if it is one speaks of the loveliness of the sky or the flowers—you even of an historic race, you are the mistress of a beautiful home and possess wealth."

Esther made a slight and impatient movement of her hand.

"All of which will not bring happiness," she said, with a faint sigh, her eyes fixed dreamily on the vine beneath her—the view in which nearly everything, land, houses, river, sail in the distance. "Every Sunday the clergyman tells us that wealth does not bring happiness and I believe and mistrust

Washington, D.C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation. I suffered from a displacement which a physician said could be relieved only by an operation. I decided to have for a very short time at home. My symptoms were all there. I was run down for two years and my physician said I was born. Then I read of some wonderful medicines that had done so much for others. I could hardly drag one foot after the other and set to taking six bottles of the Vegetable Compound and six bottles of Sanative Wash. I now do all my housework, also wash and iron for seven and do not know what real trouble is. My health is fine, and I am thankful that I took your advice and taking it I weighed 97 pounds. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any one who is suffering from female troubles or is run down. You may use this testimonial if I can only be glad to aid suffering women know what the Vegetable Compound did for me."—Mrs. Ida Hewitt, 1628 Penna. Ave. S. E., Washington, D.C.

Such letters from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENCE

"Plain Jane" asks for a home-made remedy for red hands. We do not for the reason we believe you are Plain Jane, and we gladly pass on the following: Lemon-juice—2 ounces of water, 1 ounce of glycerine and 20 drops of tincture of cudbear.

Wash hands before retiring, dry thoroughly and apply mixture. Hands should be worn at night.

"Depressed" If you will send a self-addressed, stamped envelope I shall be pleased to write you fully giving you the name of a specialist who has no equal in Canada along that line. I can tell you too of a game that is ideal for a boy convalescing from scarlet fever. I myself cannot name here and without getting in the bad graces of the Advertising Department.

"Country Teacher" I like your letter and regret you will not allow us to print it. You are right about plants in the schoolhouse and I happen to have no less an authority on the subject than Dr. Harvey Wiley. He says:

The larger the number of potted plants you can get in a schoolroom, the better for the boys and girls. By daylight the plants give off oxygen, and we gladly pass on the following: Ammonia—2 ounces of water, 1 ounce of glycerine and 20 drops of tincture of cudbear.

Wash hands before retiring, dry thoroughly and apply mixture. Hands should be worn at night.

WILLYS-KNIGHT

Now within reach of all

The Knight-engined car was for years a car available only to the privileged few.

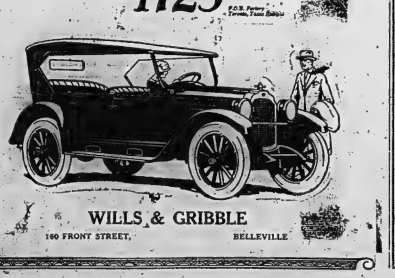

But for years Willys-Knights have been multiplying rapidly on the streets and roads of Canada until today Willys-Overland, by combining tremendous production with the marvellous Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine, have brought this superb car within reach of all buyers of medium-priced automobiles.

YOU can afford to drive the Willys-Knight, and when you own this smooth-running car with its beautiful coach-work, luxurious comfort and tremendous power—timed to a whisper—you can go as you want to keep. As the weeks and months and miles slip by, you are amazed and delighted to find yourself in possession of a car powered with an engine that actually improves with use. The same type of engine found in England's Daimler.

There are seven models, ranging from the roadster with its long, graceful, sweeping lines to the sedans, distinctive and luxurious, each priced within reach of all.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

Pure and Sweet
as a Spring Morning

THAT'S the thought that comes to you when you see an array of clothes washed with Sunlight. White things are snowy white—not gray and dull. Colored things are bright—everything seems to shine with the purity that comes only from absolute cleanliness.

And there's no wonder in that because the very ingredients in Sunlight Soap are themselves the products of tropical sun, breeze, flower and fruit. Its blend of natural oils makes Sunlight the most efficient laundry soap in the world.

There's new leisure on wash day if you use Sunlight. Buy a cake today, read the directions and see for yourself.

The Sunlight factory guarantees it 32,000 bars more than is equalled. Because it is the purest soap, Sunlight is really the most economical you can buy.

SOME TIME SINCE

What with the fashion pages reeking with strapless, strapless, wraparounds, fall-overs and the like, the old w'oman about hopking her up the back is nearly ready for the mouse hum.

SPECIAL DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CARS IN FOUR TYPES

Four special types have recently been added to Dodge Brothers standard line of motor cars—

A Touring Car, a Roadster, a Type-A Sedan, and a 4-Passenger Coupe.

These types have been created for that substantial group of motorists who favor individuality in motor car appointment and design.

In fundamental construction they are identical with Dodge Brothers standard product. Their accentuated smartness, however, is strikingly obvious in many elaborations of equipment and refinements of detail.

Special 6-ply, balloon-type tires, nickel-trimmed radiator shell on touring car and roadster (optional on closed types) front and rear bumpers, motometer with lock, special blue leather upholstery (for touring car and roadster) special body striping, rear view mirror, automatic windshield wiper, scuff plates, cowl lights and steel disc wheels constitute the more important items of special equipment.

"GRITS" GOING TO COUNTRY BY FALL?

ECONOMY IS STRESSED BY FERGUSON

Estimates Trimmed by Ferguson Government; Provision for Liquor Vote Main Public Interest Item In Legislature — Hydro Vindicated and More Work Voted

W. R. FLEMING, former manager of the food department of the Home Bank, Toronto.

Although the biggest portion of the news emanating from Queen's Park has been tinctured with the investigations made by the Public Accounts Committee into various alleged financial irregularities in the Provincial Treasurer's office during the Drury regime, the session of the Ontario Legislature, just concluded, has been a notable one in many respects.

Administrative economy was the keynote of the policy presented to the Legislature when the Ferguson Government called the assembly together on February 6. But the Government was frank enough in its reports of the financial condition of the province to promise, simultaneously, the members were told that the progress of recovery would not be rapid.

In spite of this, numerous reductions in expenditures have been effected. The grossest deficit of any session by Provincial Treasurer Price, and which he will be moved by the succeeding Government, was $15,000,000. Accordingly, estimates were trimmed to fit.

The action of the Legislature that was most in the public eye, however, was the provision made for submission of the liquor question to a vote of the people. This was in strict accordance with the announced policies of the Government, and it is to be noted that all attempts to make easier the provisions of the Ontario Temperance Act were voted down.

Attempts were made by the U.F.O. group, under the leadership of former Attorney General Raney to defeat the legislation concerning the liquor vote, but the bill was passed, and it will be for the Canadian to decide when, and in what form the vote will be taken.

Sir Adam Vindicated

The final report of the Gregory Commission, empowered by the Drury Government to investigate Hydro was tabled and proved a complete vindication for Sir Adam Beck and his methods. It also provided that such commissions are very costly, as the expense in connection with the investigation was more than $250,000.

In connection with Hydro legislation, it is worthy of note that the Legislature passed estimates totalling $1,000,000 for the bonusing of rural line construction, half of which is to go toward the building of secondary transmission lines. Heretofore the Government grants had been available for the building of the primary lines only. This legislation should undoubtedly be of aid in putting electricity in the farm homes of the province.

The Gregory report, as tabled, call for no specific action, on the part of the Legislature. Although it did assert that the cost of the Chippawa-Queenston development was in excess by $11,000,000 of what it ought to have been, under normal and economical conditions, the Legislature did not hesitate to vote funds for the preliminary engineering work on another similar development at Niagara Falls, also for the development of the St. Lawrence as soon as permission can be obtained from the Dominion Government, that of the United States and the State of New York, the other parties at interest in the huge power scheme, which will add more than 1,000,000 horsepower to Hydro's energy resources.

Against Diversion

The Legislature also took a strong stand against the continued diversion of Great Lakes waters by the city of Chicago, thus adding the voice of the province to the multitude of interests opposed to the lowering of lake levels for allured sanitary purposes in the Windy City.

The plan of the Ferguson Government for the purpose of advancing the development of Northern Ontario was approved by the Legislature, and a secretary for that region has been appointed. The highways program, one of the strong features of the Drury Government, was curtailed as a measure of economy. Re-organization of the administrative departments concerned with highway construction was effected, and promises considerable in the way of economy.

Steps were also taken for the promotion of the social welfare of the province, chief among them being the re-

FRANCE WILL STAY OUT FOR 26 BILLIONS

Won't Quit Pressure Till Allies Agree New Measures

Paris, April 21.—"France will give up none of the means of pressure on Germany which she now possesses until the Allies agree to other terms by pre-arranged concerted action between them, fixed in advance and to apply automatically in case of a new default by Germany," says Le Matin, which of late has been particularly well informed regarding Premier Poincare's intentions.

The French Government moreover, according to the newspapers, will not consider the reparation question settled until France is assured of 26,000,000,000 gold marks, plus such amounts as she may be called upon to pay on her inter-Allied war debts.

Only After Default

The British, according to the newspaper, insist that the question of the eventual pledges to be taken in case of a new default by Germany, should come up only after such default has been duly brought to the Allies' notice by the reparation commission.

The Matin says that "the Anglo-Saxon Poincare, who does not intend to give up his hold on the Ruhr and Germany until sure that it will be replaced by one equally effective.

Atlantic Port Spends White Easter—Five Inches of Snow

Halifax, N.S., April 20.—Halifax spent the white Easter of its history covered with four or five inches of snow today following a blizzard that raged Saturday afternoon and night, which, while not causing any serious damage, completely disrupted Easter shopping and made street traffic very difficult. The vigor of the storm was especially felt on the water front, several seven liners being delayed 24 hours on account of the blizzard, some not docking until this morning. The Cunard liner Scythia was held off the harbor for over twenty-four hours.

COMMUNISTS PLAN TO SET UP OWN PARTY

Will Sail in Future Under True Colors, Workers Decide

SOVIET AT WORK

Message Sent Toronto From Secretary of Reds In Moscow

Toronto, April 21.—Communists in Canada will in future sail under their true colors. The decision to set up a Communist party, in affiliation with the Third International, was made by the annual convention of the Workers' Party of Canada, which opened in the Labor Temple.

It was reached after a discussion of two hours behind barred doors, beyond which no one passed unless he presented the red card of the party. Reaching of this was the important item of business transacted during the day.

Sufficiently Identified

The explanation of the change in the title of the Workers' party was made by John MacDonald, who said the Aims had come to change the name "which had sufficiently identified itself with the Comunist party to become a number."

MacDonald added that this was the thought of all the delegates at the convention, any one of whom was given the opportunity to express his opinion. Many of them availed themselves of the chance extended to them by the chairman.

Soviet At Work

There was further evidence of the efforts of Soviet Russia to extend its influence, by the receipt of a sensational communication at Kollarow, secretary of the Communist International, Moscow.

The message, which shows a keen knowledge of political affairs on this continent, was coupled with the report of the officers of the party to local members for their perusal. Critical of the tactics of Communists in Canada, Kollarow requests the officials of the party to communicate with us more regularly so that we can follow the activities of the party more closely," and states that the Communist internationale would "be glad to exchange views with you on all problems confronting you, and render you assistance as far as we possibly can."

THREE RECOMMENDATIONS PASSED ON THURSDAY

At a meeting of the various Civic Committees held on Thursday evening the following recommendations were passed and forwarded on to the Council meeting for approval. They are as follows:

Recommended that the contract for collecting garbage be given to Thos. Harris at the same price as last year.

Water Works

Recommended that the chairman and manager of water works call for tenders for painting the water works stand pipe and the residence occupied by Mr. Collard.

Recommended that 6 copies of the new city directory be procured for use of the city officials.

NINE DEAD IN FIRE; POLICE START PROBE

Benzine Blast Put Flames Beyond Control in Old Landmark

Chicago, April 21.—While relatives, friends and volunteers feverishly searched the ruins, state and city officials today joined hands in a penetrating inquiry in suspicions surrounding the fire which, destroying Curran Hall, a landmark of the west side, resulted in the death of eight city firemen and one civilian and the injury of a score of other persons.

From tenants and neighbors the officials were trying to elicit information which would dovetail into a coherent whole stories which have told of a fiery blast turning into a conflagration accompanied by explosion, of quantities of benzine carried into the building only a few days ago. Of instance increased for no plausible reason a month past, of anger because two floors had been leased to a Negro church.

Two Held Without Bond

Len Ulett and Samuel Bloom, partners in the leather sporting goods company located on the second floor of the four-story building, were taken into custody and held without bond for questioning, while police sought others whose actions they wish to investigate.

Their arrest followed charges by firemen that the explosions which put the flames beyond control came from floor occupied by their company. Firemen asserted it was a benzine explosion.

Once "Valley" Centre

The building 50 years ago was the social centre of a district known as "The Valley." It was there that the big "shindigs" of 50 years ago were held.

A watchman who turned in the first alarm said there was a small blaze coming from the roof. The first firemen to arrive found the first floor blazing fiercely. Almost at once it spread to the second floor.

Forty-five minutes later came the explosion which is being made the centre of the investigation. Collapse of a wall followed, which carried with it into the basement the firemen who were fighting the flames from the upper floors, and burying under the debris other firemen who were standing in the street below.

Nine Dead, One Lost

Fire truck No. 12, in the heart of the fight, in the basement of the building every man but one of its personnel.

The known dead are: Captain Jack Brennan, Lieutenant Frank Flosch, Firemen Vincent Kelly, Samuel T. Carson, Michael Devine, Patrick Leary, Edward Keating and Jeremiah Callahan.

Worst Since 1910

The casualties were greatest since the stockyards fire of December, 1910, when 21 men were killed.

The damage, estimated at $250,000 made a total of $750,000 for the day, when three 4-story buildings were destroyed.

O.T.A. CASES ARE INVESTIGATED

Saturday afternoon a charge of selling liquor referred to the Ontario Temperance Act was investigated by Magistrate Masson. The result was the case was dismissed a the charge could not be proven. Mr. B. C. Donnan for prosecution and Mr. C. A. Payne for the accused.

C. Seams and B. Brant were on Saturday before Magistrate Masson convicted of having liquor in a place other than their residences, namely in a shed. In each case $50 and costs was imposed which was paid.

This morning it cost James Cryder $10 and costs for intoxication.

Macdonald Urges New Reparations Plan As Solution

BRING EUROPE PEACE

Russian Conference Also Promises Success, Says Premier at York

MR. H. F. DAVIS speaking over the ultra-audible microphone in the C.N.R. Pinkney's studio, direct to England. His voice was the first to accomplish the great feat over the ether.

SENATOR JAMES COUZENS of Detroit, who is seriously ill.

York, England, April 21.—Prime Minister Macdonald addressing a crowd of labor notables in the Theatre Royal, declared the Anglo-Russian conference in London had started well and he believed it would succeed.

The greatest gain the Premier a tremendous ovation when he appeared with his daughter, Ishbel, before the meeting a portion of the crowd sang the "Red Flag."

Turning to the experts' report on reparations, the Premier declared he would be glad to find the entire country backed him in his view that the report ought to be taken as a whole.

Others would do well, he thought, to adopt the same, and they would be ready to meet him.

"Even if they had an agreement, in those circumstances, they would never get good will behind the agreement.

"Here is your chance," continued Mr. Macdonald, "put it into operation all at once, all together. Then, when that is done, go and finish the job and bring peace and security to the continent."

Sterling to New High

New York, April 19.—Growing confidence in Europe as to the success of the reparation experts' plan, combined with an accumulation of buying orders for foreign exchange, engendered, primarily, to-day carried sterling and francs up to new high levels for the year.

Demand sterling made a brisk advance of almost three cents to $4.38 1-8, while the francs moved up several points to a new 1924 to price above 6.30 cents.

Gruesome Find Made By Boys In Local Woods

Skeleton of An Apparent New Born Babe Revealed —Had Lain Under Bush for Month—Unable to Determine Sex

Harry Horne, George Pope and Michael O'Grady, three young men who reside at Canifton and Gilmour, on Sunday afternoon with the aid of a dog found the remains of a baby. The trio were in a clump of woods just east of Danien Mills on the Canifton road, when the continual barking of the dog attracted their attention to a bush near a pile of lumber. The Toronto Sunday World bearing the date of April 6th, 1924, and the body of an apparent new born child had been wrapped. It was a mere skeleton and had no doubt been exposed to the elements for months. The finding of the remains was reported to Provincial Constable Leslie Phillips, coroner of the city was notified of the occurrence, also the city police. Constable Phillips has investigated all the ability but there is no clue whatever to work upon. The females were in such a condition that the sex could not be determined. The general impression is that the body was deposited there after the baby's birth. No inquest will be held.

DEFEAT SEEN FOR CHICAGO ON DIVERSION

Dominion Working Behind Scenes While States Fires Heavy Guns

Washington, D.C., April 21.—Chicago faces defeat in her effort to get Congressional sanction for her illegal diversion of 10,000 cubic feet per second of water from Lake Michigan for her sewage canal. The public hearings before the House, Rivers and Harbors Committee, which have been going on for several days, were adjourned late Friday afternoon until Monday April 28.

The Canadian representatives have returned to their homes after several days of hard work, confident that Chicago's raid on the Great Lakes is certain to meet with defeat.

Good Generalship

They have shown good generalship by staying more or less in the back ground while the States of Wisconsin Michigan, Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania were discharging their artillery at Chicago, but they have been busy furnishing ammunition to their American allies, and have frequently assisted the committee in clearing the mist of misrepresentation in which the Chicago advocates have been enveloping the electric power development at Niagara Falls.

Put Up Desperate Fight

That the Chicago Sanitary District is putting up a desperate fight was made plain to the committee today by the Attorney-General of Wisconsin. He told before the committee page after page of proof, standing in many newspapers, in which it is set forth that the City of Chicago would be destroyed and its people killed off by thousands unless Congress legalized the continued diversion of water from Lake Michigan for sewage disposal purposes.

He also showed that the district during the past year had expended $250,000 in retaining cement, and about the same amount in retaining cinders. The walls are fairly cemented with propaganda designed to charm the Congress people of the United States over the impending fate of Chicago.

PARIS ACTRESS SUES FOR $5,000 FOR SMILE

Paris, April 21.—A Paris actress' smile is worth 25,000 according to a tribunal which has had over a year's hearing inflicted on lips, ear and face in an automobile crash. She is suing her companion—a Marseilles ship owner—who was driving the car when the accident occurred, claiming this amount as the value of her lost charm. Her attorney hopes to convince the judge that her smile was worth $5,000 to her.

TEACHERS MUST PAY TAXES

Peterboro, April 21.—Judgment was announced by Judge Hoyrke in the case of Secretary Township vs. Miss Vera Squire, in which the township sought to collect taxation from the defendant, who was a teacher in the new Secretary Public School. The defendant objected on the ground that she was not resident in the township, but resided at that time with her parents at the City of Peterboro. Judgment was for the township.

ELECTION NEXT FALL FORECAST

T. J. Stewart Declares Present Trend of Liberal Party is Leading to Election—Farmers May Ask Another Reduction in Tariff

Hamilton, April 21.—There is a report current in political circles to the effect that there will be a general election next fall, Questioned as to the possibility of this development in Dominion politics T. J. Stewart, M.P. said some members held that view.

The reasons they advance for this opinion, Mr. Stewart said, were these:

Closing Session

"The Government is shaping the session as quickly as possible. The business has never been advanced so far at this time of the year as it is now. There is a former parliamentarian in the House who says with the Government on the recent tariff changes."

If the Government wins the Farmers will want another reduction in the tariff, but they have already got all the tariff reduction that any party dare give them, for the country is not ready for free trade.

The Issue

The issue today four short of a majority and with the farmers solidly behind them they will have no trouble in getting what they want for them to go to the people.

Herald of Sir Lomer

"They are afraid also of Sir Lomer Gouin. He has always been a high protectionist and he wants to lead a party to fight against the tariff revision policy of the present Liberal denomination. Sir Lomer's appointment will be a red rag of him by giving him a place in the Senate.

Looking over these facts, these members figure there is little doubt that there will be an early Dominion election."

HOME SWEET HOME IS BEST AFTER ALL

R. J. Graham told the story of his trip to Florida and the Bahamas at the luncheon to-day which took the opportunity of pointing out that conditions in Canada are just as good and perhaps a little better than they are in United States. He also stated that Canadian fruit growers and agricultural products in place of importing should be grown here. Even green vegetables and fruits from the South.

With the next four weeks' Mr. Graham pointed out "strawberries will be in season and at the rate of fifteen cents per box would be a day to be sold at to twenty car loads a day to be sold at the City of Chicago would be destroyed and its people killed off by thousands unless Congress legalized the continued diversion of water from Lake Michigan for sewage disposal purposes.

He also showed that the district during the past year had expended $250,000 in retaining cement, and about the same amount in retaining cinders. The walls are fairly cemented with propaganda designed to charm the Congress people of the United States over the impending fate of Chicago.

Club Business

Kaidley Wilmot was welcomed into the club as an honorary member, the occasion of an unknown initiation to following which everybody had lots of pleasure. Charlie Dolan put in a word for the Kiwanis Minstrel show and many members are working hard. He promised that a much better show than that no one in Belleville should make any other engagements for May 5th or 6th.

NO TIME FOR THE PESSIMIST

The pessimist we have always with us. On every hand, in every age, are men who delight to drag a soap box out into the streets of the world and cry out to all who will listen that mankind is on the highway to perdition. Sooner or later they are run down by traffic, in which grievous fate they find complete vindication for their theories.

The world to-day has many vexatious problems, but what, is important to note is that it has been troubled grave problems before. And it has emerged scarred, but sound. Ever since shortly after the dawn of things there have been anarchists and reactionaries and profiteers and greedy fellows of every type, in every walk of life. They are forgotten now, as the trouble-makers of today will be forgotten in another century. Many remembers long those who serve him well. Nations have been overthrown before, and empires have expired, but mankind kept on developing through the centuries his knowledge and faith and power.

But there is no progress through wishing. Many grows only by working. It is not enough to have faith that we shall come out of the valley of discontent. We must have the faith that inspires work and the zeal of precept that outlives example. If we would live again in the piping times of peace and plenty we must labor for them.

Among the Chaff

By Omar Cayenne

(The Welch Dog)

The office cat was supposed to have written a poem for this "eolymn" but failed. She intimated that she was up to her ears in "lead" myself. "Mush" with "moonshine". Otherwise she would have written an up-to-date modern poem.

MODERN GEOMETRY

Sap runs on Sunday, therefore I may play golf on Sunday—Carried.

THREE MONTHS

The office cat has been "quarantined" for the past three months. It is a remark that she knew a pair of mice with which she could play, but the slow underneath the office envy trough.

HARMFUL HOLIDAYS

Two men nearly came to blows th other day. One wanted the half holi day on Wednesdays. He likes baseball. The other has "out of the city" interests. He favours Saturday afternoon. Verily, they all kinds of prey get to make a world.

AT IT AGAIN

The office cat reports mouse skins to be of very fine texture this spring. It will be a sure sign of a hard winter ahead.

HOW COME

Pair of lizzines which fell out of a car in Toronto street were found Pea- bashy they all wear them now so they will not make the mistake of selling "it" to themselves.

BUY A BIBLE

There is very little reason for crime in Belleville now when Bibles are sold at such a low price as those at the Intelligencer. Buy one and take it to church on your next Sunday.

EPIDEMICALLY SPEAKING

The Bowl-itis epidemic is still raging here.

LIMESTONE LEVITIES

Three drunks were "roped in" by the police over the week end—King Standard.

Where do they get that "roped in" stuff. The only men who ever "roped anyone in Belleville was the "weight guesser" at the Ex.

A LA MODE

We notice that the girls are wearing coloured flannel in the manner of flesh tones, mummy browns, marline and amber. We also hear that one-piece bathing suits will be popular at Brighton this summer.

FOR DIAGNOSIS

It used to be chauffeur's foot, aviator's heart, throwing girls knee, lovers' arm and now it is "radio ear". What will be next?

FROM HAMILTON—ENOUGH

Hamilton has been called the "Pittsburg of Ontario". We haven't been there since the year of the big wind. Occasionally, however, they get a few cans off there. One of the Hamilton newspapers originated this one and it bears repeating:

"Half the people of this world are trying to get their names in the paper", mused the society editor. "All the other half are trying to keep them out", sighed the police court reporter. Is it not true?

MODERN DEDUCTION

They say that marriage is the greatest institution in the world. The census unfortunates appeal for the record of a police court entrance to a bedermasters but adds truth and emphasis to the answer: "Yes; but what's wants to live in an institution."

HEADLINE

Speaking of ice, it must be almost as difficult to sell it in Belleville these days as it would be to sell it to an Eskimo.

MAIDEN VOYAGE DISASTROUS

The good ship "Uncle" on her first trip over, collid-d with the Oswego belle steamer last night. Considerable truck load, of "ballast" was able to push off under her own power. Three "sprinz maiden" voyages sould be accommodated by the time honored distressing custom. Crack one over for the boys, Dr. Hawe—good luck. Give the fish a "thrill" too.

HAVEN'T SCRATCHED YET

There is a flock of chickens we understand, who will be "out for Easter."

A MATTER OF CHOICE

Which would you rather be: Yourself with meals "on a call at Alexander Peter Smith with a meal brought in by the Provincial Police Inspector.

SPRING REMEDY

If Hunt boy continues to sulk after the baseball season has commenced buy him a radio set.

HOME AGAIN

Medley love has called a number of local daughters home from the west and for Easter eggs or "real eatables" in the raw may be looked for pelting it will "popping" love call them away again about Monday.

SEASON OPENS

First call of the season was killed on the highway last Sunday afternoon. Then the golf hunters pie- ked up their clubs and did not play No. 8 rained too heavily.

DO YOU TELL?

Ernest T. Laird is was sentenced to three months in jail for blasting. Girls who applied to him for positions. He lives in Chicago.

Ernest should have advertised for girls who like pleasant work.

THERE'S A REASON

Jill—"Ar you and Nell on the outs" now?

Jack—Yes' she blew up so I left her flat.

HALLELUJAH

It is understood that the Bureau of Industrial Research at Toronto intend, to investigate the business of renting automobiles with board, it being alleged but landladies are looking on "rare days." and that the city should take a hand in enforcing a reduction more early approaching normal conditions.

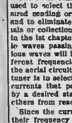

WHEN DO WE SLEEP

Night Owl or Night Hawk Clubs are springing all over the country for the reception of late programs from distant broadcasting stations.

Another splendid excuse for sleeping in in the morning.

APPARATUS AND TUNING METHODS

The radio tuner is simply a device used to select the signals from a desired sending or broadcasting station and to eliminate all others. The signals or collection equipment described in the last chapter will pick up all radio waves passing them and the various waves will induce currents of different frequencies and intensities in the aerial circuit. The function of the tuner is to select from this mixture of currents that particular one induced by a desired station, and prevent all others from reaching the detector.

Since the currents differ chiefly in their frequency or the number of times per second they flow back and forth in the aerial circuit, our method of selection is confined to devices that will alter or control the character of the circuits so that one particular current can flow freely in that circuit and others of a different frequency or will encounter difficulty. This may be a little clearer if an example is given. Let us say that the current from one broadcasting station has a frequency of 600,000 cycles per second or flows back and forth in the circuit that many times in the course of one second, which corresponds to a wavelength of 500 meters. Now if we adjust the aerial circuit so the first wave striking the aerial sets a current flowing down it, and the character of the circuit is such that will allow the current to flow back to the top of the aerial at the instant when the next wave, arriving 1/600,000 of a second later, strikes it and induces another current exactly like the first so the first the current in the aerial will be strengthened and each wave will be in step with the preceding, thus building up the aerial current. The aerial is then said to be "in tune" with the transmitter. All waves of a different frequency after striking the aerial will be left behind, and will result in one wave partially neutralizing the preceding one, and there will be so weakened as not to affect the detector.

GOING TO GOTHAM! TRY THIS!

On and after April 27th, Torontonians will have an opportunity of travelling to New York City on a train which, besides affording typical "Canadian National" equipment and service, will cover the route in fast time, via Canadian National-Lehigh Valley Route. The new train will leave Toronto daily at 5.30 p.m. and land its passengers at the magnificent, and centrally located, Pennsylvania Station at 8.36 a.m. next morning.

Besides the usual sleeping car equipment, there will be a Drawing Room-Compartment Car and exceptional Dining Car service.

The return trip should of course, be made on the corresponding down-York-Toronto train, which will leave the metropolis daily at 6.15 p.m., serving Toronto 8.53 a.m.

Deaths and Funerals

EDWARD DOLEN

Edward Dolen, whose death in his 81st year occurred yesterday at his home, 114 Harcourt Avenue, Toronto, was in the plastering contracting business in Toronto for about 38 years, but, on account of his advanced age, had retired some years ago. He was formerly well known as a cricket player, having been a member of a club which had its quarters in the old Queen Hotel on Bay Street. The late Mr. Dolen was born in Sackett's Harbor, N.Y., on May 9, 1843, removed to Belleville, Ont., in 1847, come to Toronto in 1858. He was an Anglican, surviving him are two sons, Harry and Fred, both of Toronto; and three daughters, Mrs. W. N. Bailie, Chicago; Mrs. John Rogerson, Toronto; and Miss Ella, at home.

EASTER SERVICES LARGELY ATTENDED

Inspiring Sermons and Appropriate Music in Local Churches

All the Belleville churches commemorated Easter Sunday by holding services appropriate to the day, a day with a joyful message of the resurrection of the Redeemer. Rarely have the Easter Sunday services been so largely attended. Not only were the sermons given in keeping with the day, but the choirs rendered special music, all the services were joined in heartily by the congregations.

St. Thomas Church

The "Queen of Festivals—Easter Day" was fittingly celebrated in the Parish Church of St. Thomas, The Rector Ven. Archdeacon Beamish conducted all the services and preached at 11a.m. His Easter discourse was founded on Acts 13th chapter and verse 30: "But God raised him from the Dead". Easter, which celebrates the Resurrection of Jesus Christ, is the mainspring of all our glory, today. It is a celebrating of the most victory won for man by the God-Man. Good Friday saw "Sin" overcome on the cross, Easter Day sees "Death" conquered. Easter is the source of comfort to the whole world, it alone comforts us in our sorrows and helps us to bear the burdens of life. Easter is the fountain of hope in the world today. Picture the world without God and the Resurrection. Our No hope for this life and no hope for the life that is to come.

The musical part of the services were as follows:

CHORAL EUCHARIST 11. a.m.

Bridge Street

"The Changeless Christ" was the subject spoken on by Rev. F. E. Malott. Pastor of Bridge Street Church, at the evening service. The text was from Hebrews 13th chapter 8th verse "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and today and forever."

The musical portion of the service was exceptionally fine. The anthem rendered was the 150th Psalm. "O, Praise Ye the Lord" Mr. Stanley Rollins rendered a solo entitled "The Resurrection". A quartette composed of Mrs. McKinnon, Mrs. Dr. Stobie, Messrs A. Schryver and F. Sprague, sang a selection entitled "Victory". A solo and chorus entitled "Inflammatus," was well rendered, the solo part being taken by Mrs. Dr. Stobie, Prof. W. F. Hand organist gave some appropriate selections upon the organ.

St. Michael's Church

Easter at St. Michael's Church was observed yesterday with usual pomp and solemnity. At the high mass at ten thirty "Mazzo's 4th Mass" was sung by a full choir. During the Offertory "Veni Creator was delivered with a double quartette. The soloists for the mass being: sopranos Misses Dorothy Grant and Gladys Bryce, alto Mrs. Trunicch and Miss baldwin, tenors Mr. Jack Fahey and Mr. T. Barrett, basses Mr. Oster and Mr. Harold Barrett.

At the conclusion of the mass "Regina Coeliz" was rendered.

The altar was beautifully decorated for the occasion with Easter lillies, palms, and colored lights.

Special to The Intelligencer

By Dr. Thos. Wickett

It is said, Homer reveals to the world, as then known—that Medicine had already a history, a System of Treatment as well as the Duties and Duties of Physicians were then made known.

Then—Galen—circa, B.C. 129. He was born at Pergamus, Asia Minor, he derived deeply into anatomy and physiology, Possessed of enormous industry and with practical eye Galen made a place for itself in the Science of the Healing Art. It is well to observe this School was the outgrowth of one Hippocratic School which not only trained Greece but Asia Minor, and Egypt. It can be stated with a pride worthy of the Noble Profession of Medicine that Greece, the Mother of Philosophy and Science, is the home of Medicine.

Bankrupt SALE of MEN'S FURNISHINGS

The H. O. STEWART STOCK

Although we had a splendid staff of sales men Saturday, hundreds of people could not be properly served. The store was crowded all day long and a great many people could not get in.

This is just an example of what truthful advertising, high-class staple goods and the right prices will do.

We are at your service as long as the sale lasts, and if last Saturday was any indication, every dollar's worth will be sold by next Saturday night.

Come just as often as you can. Buy all you can afford for present or future use. It may be years before you have another chance to buy high-class men's furnishings at such slaughter prices.

We would especially draw your attention to the high quality of our woolen goods, Underwear, Sweaters, Scarfs and Wool Gloves.

In nearly every case the price asked would not cover the cost of the wool

Day by Day, Every Way Better and Better

Dr. Coue's Methods to be Demonstrated in Belleville by Prof. ... Andre, at Nancy School.

Day by day, in every way, get better and better.

This is the message from Dr. Emile Coue and his associates in the world-famed school at Nancy. People in Belleville have read and heard of the wonderful results of the methods of this great man. They are now to have an opportunity to do the next best thing to seeing him, Prof. Marcel Andre, from Dr. Coue's original school in Nancy, has been persuaded to come to Belleville, and will be here tonight, for a lecture and demonstration of auto-suggestion. He is coming to show what can be accomplished and to educate others to carry on the work.

Montreal gave a wonderful tribute to Prof. Andre and his methods. The Montreal Gazette said in part: "There was a large audience, and both lectures and demonstrations gave universal satisfaction. He was listened to with intense interest. In every case sufferers from pain who came on the platform pronounced themselves completely relieved within a few minutes. More conclusive experiments could hardly have been given."

"There was a large and enthusiastic audience, and performed surprising feats," said the Montreal Herald. "Demonstrations of the most convincing type," was the comment of the Standard.

The demonstration will be given at the City Hall tonight at 8.15, and in addition to the lecture, in which auto-suggestion will be thoroughly explained, there will be an invitation to any in the audience for free treatments.

Prof. Andre, when a young man, went as a patient to the clinic at Nancy. He was so convinced of the great value of the methods taught there that he made it a point to master them. He had been lecturing and demonstrating them for the last twenty-two years in Great Britain, and the Empire and for a number of years was lecturer of the Crystal Palace, London England.

SHORT MAN IN LONG OVERCOAT IS CLUE

Buffalo Woman Gives New Angle to Mystery of Attack on Smith

Buffalo, April 21.—Police today announced a clue which they regarded as important in the investigation of Thursday night's bombing of the home of the Rev. Lindsey E. H. Smith, pastor of the Ontario Street United Presbyterian Church, and unofficial dry investigator.

A woman resident of a house across the street from the Smith home at Colonial avenue, Black Rock, told the police that an automobile stopped a few doors from the minister's residence a few minutes before the explosion.

A slim, short man wearing a long overcoat stepped from the machine, she said, and walked up to the door of the pastor's house. He had a lighted cigar in his mouth. He removed the cigar as he approached the door, and stopped as if looking for the doorbell. After a slight pause, he walked back to the automobile and drove away.

The police were tracing the number of the car, obtained from the woman witness, and indicated that it was owned outside of Buffalo.

Last night and today Mr. Smith was accompanied by a guard of police detectives in automobiles as he went about the city. Police guards were also detailed for the protection of several other ministers, who have been prominent in the activities of the church federation in liquor and vice crusades.

Gasoline In Sewer Cause of Explosion

Sewage of Welland Found To Contain Quantities of Petrol

Welland, April 21.—Quantities of gasoline in sewage is now believed to have been responsible for the terrific explosion which on Friday wrecked one house and damaged three others. The explosion was at first attributed to sewer gas but as the Ross Street sewer is very small one it is not thought possible that enough gas could accumulate to cause so much damage.

As many citizens claimed they had smelled gasoline fumes, the theory was investigated. Samples were taken of water from various sewers and considerable quantities of gasoline discovered. It is stated that much gasoline has been lost in the city.

The City Council commenced a probe into the disaster on Saturday, and will hold another special meeting to continue the investigation on Monday night.

Damage done by the explosion is now estimated at $20,000. Several persons were injured, but physicians state that the injuries are not serious.

TAKING MEDICINE
(Philadelphia Ledger)

Good advice is not merely the advice we like to take, which gives us the assurance that we are doing exactly right. We should be as grateful when we are told that we are sensitive. But, because of vanity, we are sensitive, and bridle when we are reproved, letting the hurt we feel be larger than the help that was given us, if we do not receive it. A foolish hyper-sensitiveness, even beyond personal instincts, is the chief obstacle to self-improvement. "Faithful are the wounds of a friend," and it is a grievous error to assume that those who love us are those who find in us no fault.

Manitoba Wheat Is In Demand

Royal Grain Inquiry Hears Evidence Regarding Mixing of Grain

Winnipeg, April 20.—The high quality of Manitoba wheat that induces Ontario millers to buy it, makes millers from all over the world bid for it, declared James Richardson, President of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, in concluding his evidence before the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission here Saturday afternoon. But the trade understands that millers abroad in making a barrel of flour with Manitoba wheat use 16 different kinds of wheat in the mixture, whereas the Ontario millers blend Manitoba grain with Ontario winter wheat," he said.

Replying to C. B. Watts, representing the Ontario Millers' Association, Mr. Richardson said that there was no difference between the way the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company handled grain in respect to premiums and his firm—the James Richardson & Son Grain Company.

The Commission will meet at the Head of the Lakes Tuesday. A session will be held here on April 28, to hear Aaron Sapiro, the co-operative expert.

Man Cuts Throat, Jumps Into River

Detroit, April 21.—A man believed to be Mike Kowalski, 2463 Comstock Avenue, cut his throat with a razor, then leaped into the Detroit River and drowned. After pushing aside life-preservers thrown to him from the wharf, at the foot of West Grand Boulevard yesterday afternoon.

Identification was made from letters found in the man's clothes after his body had been recovered and taken to the county Morgue.

There was no address. About a dozen persons idling near the foot of the boulevard saw the man standing on the wharf, gazing out over the water for perhaps fifteen minutes. Before they realized his purpose he drew the razor, slashed his neck, and leaped. The life-preservers were thrown at once. One of them struck the man and the other fell within reach of his outstretched arms. A moment later he sank and did not reappear. A Hardwarmaster crew found the body shortly afterward. The man was about 40 years old. He was dressed in a brown suit and overcoat, and wore tan shoes. He was of medium build.

WHERE DID THEY LEARN.

The heathen Chinee is peculiar, but those traps of Sun Yat Sen who turned over an arsenal to make shining pseudo coins for the troops, instead of steel bullets to fight their enemies had never heard of the Home Bank and the easy money system of some provincial treasurers.

ON THE ALLEYS

The final and deciding game of the men's bowling league took place at the Y alleys Friday night between the Bowlers and the All Stars. On this game hinged the championship and when the smoke had cleared a way it was found that the Bowlers had a straight hold on the latters. The whole contest was a hard fought affair and the final outcome in doubt up until the last ball was delivered when the alleys and crashed for a strike, a spare or a loser count. All Stars took the lead in the first string in the second they were not quite so successful but nevertheless managed to maintain a light lead in the two strings. The third string which decided the issue, was almost in the nature of a tug of war at all times in doubt until the very last when the Bowlers came through with a surprising burst of speed to win the game and the championship.

The work of Cook and Faulkner for their respective teams was noteworthy The former bowling 60 in the three strings while Faulkner rolled the high single of 203 and also had a nice total.

Session Events Not Repeated

Opposition to Tariff Changes Not Likely to Bring Results

Ottawa, April 20.—Those who are expecting a repitition of the tariff petition of the 1911 session, when through the determined opposition of the Conservatives the Taft-Fielding pact was held up, the Laurier Government forced to the country and badly defeated, will be disappointed. To repeat the events of that session is now quite impossible. The introduction of closure has prevented that.

Under the present rules of the House a Government, if it can command a majority on its budget proposals, can make any tariff changes it likes, and there is no possibility of heading them off. If a majority of the members could be induced to support it, a Government now might wipe out the whole tariff without going through the formality of asking the opinion of the people. So while the Opposition may continue to protest against the tariff being changed, it can do nothing to prevent it. In so far as these changes are concerned what is written is written.

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

TAKE SALTS TO WASH KIDNEYS IF BACK PAINS YOU OR BLADDER BOTHERS

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or side headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts, from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

MONEY NOT EVERYTHING

(London Herald)

To have only a little money is regarded as evidence of failure (in the United States of America). That is why people lose their sense of strict financial probity. Wherever money is respected and riches looked on as proof of success there is bound to be a low standard of public honor. Healthy opinion values most highly those who are "rounded with a little" and whom nothing can tempt to change a simple mode of life.

A Health Food for Frail Children
SCOTT'S EMULSION

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU WASH YOUR CHILD'S HAIR WITH

If you want to keep children's hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is all much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as it does not possibly injure the hair.

Simply wet the hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The latter rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure your druggist gives you mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

THE TOWN PESTER

(Acton Free Press)

There is, after all, no newspaper in the world that means so much to one as he own town paper. The daily papers flaring headlines and sensational news, coming two-last of the week, that tells us what is happening in the great outside world, is a very necessary factor to our breakfast tables. But there is another world—the world of our own home town—where all the actors on the stage of life are known to us, where by way each acts his part in the drama of life is a matter of personal interest to us all, where sickness and death, hours and accidents assume something deeper than the passing curious interest with which we read of such happenings in the daily newspapers, and where the open standing success or the winning of distinction by members of this little world become matters for pride and gratification to the whole community. And the recorder and chronicler of these happenings is the town newspaper. It is a community organization, in which everyone should have a personal interest, and in which everyone should co-operate in an effort to have it present each week a correct history of the town and district that week, to voice correctly by the public opinion of the community and to take the right stand on all public questions that arise.

Some people have only occasional eye strain

Others are never free from it. Both classes should get my attention. Nothing in the world can hinder a person in the performance of his daily duties more than eye strain. No matter how strong and healthy he may be the strain is sure to have an effect upon him. Every victim of eye strain would be better in every way for receiving my services About 30 years' experience behind them.

Wets Drive On Volstead Law

Washington, April 21—The House Judiciary Committee begins hearings today on fifty-nine bills to amend the Prohibition Act.

The committee will, of course, hear both sides of the question. Numerous objections favoring modification—particularly the association against the prohibition amendment, have announced that a campaign of testimony covering every angle.

Samuel Gompers, President of the A.F. of L. will be the first witness. Mr. Gompers has always attacked on 2.75 per cent. beer and light wines. And Mr. Gompers stated last night he does not intend to change his attitude in what he will tell the workingman wants even when he appears "to the center, Supporting Mr. Gompers will be Matthew Woll, vice-president of the A.F. of L.; John Walker, President of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, and numerous other workers and leaders.

When they have finished, the opposition will present Mr. Volstead's beliefs as to what is interesting will present what they term "the citizenry." Then will come the drys—personalities, churchists and such—who are ready to tell the committee that prohibition has produced evils rather than cured them, and even the economic experts to go into that angle. Finally will be the legislative drafting of actually known lawyers, who will present briefs.

The Life Of A Home

A healthy, happy, contented wife is the life and joy of her home and the greatest inspiration a man can have for success and ambition. Her cares are blighted by ill health and suffering. Let the wife and mother, it may be backache, headaches, the torture of a displacement or some other ailment peculiar to her sex, which makes whole life a burden. Every woman in this condition should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from roots and herbs to restore her health and happiness for it relieves more than it benefits 80 out of every 100 women who try it.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"I am not offended," she said, "but I did not know—guess. Oh, do not say any more, please—"

"I will not. I obey you. It is the least I can do to atone for my presumption. Yes, I am not so foolish as not to know that such presumption is almost unpardonable, I, poor, of no account, to speak of love to you!"

His humility struck the chord he wanted.

"Poverty has nothing to do with it," she said. "If I were a man, and—and cared for a woman, I would not be ashamed to tell her, however poor I might be."

The colour rose to his face, and he leant forward eagerly.

"Then—Miss Vancourt—Esther—may I, dare I hope—"

He was unwise enough to try and take her hand; but she saw his intention as she drew it away, not sharply, but softly beyond his reach.

"No, no, I did not say, did not mean—" she said, with a catch of her breath.

"But if I may presume to speak, to tell you of my great love, will you not give me an answer?" he said, in his sweetest, most caressing voice. "I love you with all my heart and soul; I have loved you since the first hour I saw you—shall I ever forget it!—but all the time I have told myself that my love, great as it is, was hopeless. Ah, if I might, cherish the faintest hope—that you—"

"I—I—do not—I cannot say what you wish me to say," she said.

She spoke very gently, and with a note of pity in her voice that sounded sweet when a woman is saying "No" to an avowal of love. But Esther was inexperienced. This was the first man who told her so many words that he loved her; and her own heart was so sore, so full of aching pain that she could not help but pity him, for was she not suffering as she was suffering?

"I did not ask, did not expect so great a thing as that you should love me," he murmured. "I know how unworthy I am—unworthy in every way; but let my love plead for me. If you do not dislike me, if you do not think it presumptuous of me, give me a little hope that in time I may win your love—at least let me try and deserve it."

He was terribly in earnest—Vancourt Towers, Vancourt money, and Esther herself, were the prize for which he was striving. Was he going to win? His breath came fast, and his eyes gleamed as he looked at her. Even the more experienced girl than Esther would have detected, and felt convinced that it was love, pure, disinterested love for which he was pleading.

She was greatly troubled. By look rather than judgment he had caught her in the mood most favourable to his purpose. While he had been speaking Esther had been thinking of Jack Gordon. Had she by any chance let him see last night that she cared for him? Her face flushed with shame at the thought. If she had betrayed herself, then by marrying Selby Layton she would soothe her own pride. Many a girl has committed the grievous folly of marrying from pride, and it was pique that made Esther hesitate in giving Selby Layton a decisive "No."

Then, again, she was not unenviable of the undoubted charm of the man's manner. His voice was like a strain of music. Esther had been awakened more impressive than now as it spoke of his love for her.

She would have to marry some one and become the mistress of Vancourt Towers could not remain a bride—well not Selby Layton as another. It did not matter much to her whether she loved never love any one but— The red shame rose to her face again. If she married Selby Layton she would be doing him a great wrong, she knew; it would be her duty to do so, and she would be a true wife to her husband, whomsoever he might be. If she were still a poor music-teacher she might remain a spinster for the rest of her life —how dreary it was it seemed to her at that moment!—but she was the owner of Vancourt Towers, and Selby Layton felt the need of a help-mate, a gentlewoman to preside over it. Because of this need that she replied so much more kindly to Gordon—that Layton would fill the position very well. And he loved her; she would make one man happy, at any rate.

He watched the troubled face, never more beautiful than at present, and she sat leaning her chin on her hand, her dark eyes downcast, her features set, and tired dreamily before her as if she had forgotten him. Of what was she thinking? he asked himself anxiously.

"I am going to say 'Yes,' or 'No'!"

"Will you not speak to me?" he murmured, impatiently. "Will you not let me hope? I ask for nothing more. I will not press you to bind yourself in any way. I will leave you free, quite free. I only plead that you should grant me the privilege of devoting myself devotedly as ever man loved woman; and that I am certain to win your love you can return something of that love."

She shook her head gently. She was very pale, and her lips and brows were drawn as with pain.

"I—I cannot. I am sorry. I shall never—never—"

She faltered and turned her head away for a moment.

He took advantage of the pause.

"Forgive me! but that cannot be true! You, you, who are so tenderhearted, so full of sweet womanliness, not love! It is because I know that you are capable of a love far transcending that of the commonplace woman that I am in such deadly earnest, so eager."

"Let us go," she said, rising. "I cannot—I did not know; guess—I am bewildered."

He was far too clever not to seize the moment, and rising on one knee, he caught her hand.

"Only a hope—I ask no more," he said. "You will not refuse me that? Oh, have some pity on me!"

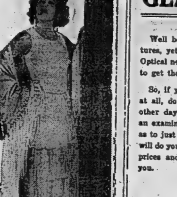

She looked down at him, still half dreamily, confusedly; but she did not withdraw her hand. She was indeed scarcely conscious that he held it; but in with a low cry of gratitude and joy, he was about to press his lips to it, she drew it away from him.

History of

After a century or more comes the Byzantine School of Medicine founded 326 A.D. This School followed mainly the footsteps of Galen. These centuries spent their time in compiling medical knowledge, but did little in investigating and observing the symptoms of disease. Oribeatus, 326 to 403 A.D., compiled part of an encyclopedia of Medicine, which it is stated was treasonable.

The Pre-Arabian School of Medicine

or

The Salerno Period

After the fall of the Roman Empire Salerno in Europe became the seat of a Bishopric and the home of a Benedictine Monastery. It was in this period that the influence of Arabian Medicine made itself felt. The monasteries had become the home of Medicine—475 to 1150 A.D. It is also observed the Science of Medicine was not advanced by the monks, but was saved from fatal oblivion by the Zealous preservation of their works, either in the Latin, or in vernacular verses.

The Anglo-Saxon Leechdom—manslup—laws of physicians—of the 11th century published in the Rolls Series of the Medical Chronicles—illustrate most clearly how Magic, Superstition and Relics of Science constituted Monastic Medicine.

To the Benedictines, however, the world owes the higher plane of Medicine. Their translations of Hippocrates, Galen's and other classical writers in Medicine, together with their example and insistence of the study of the works of these foremost; and, Medicine was saved from destruction and even extinction from the 5th to the 11th centuries.

It is consistent to emphasize the fact that these monks had nothing in common, as has been supposed, with the famous School of Salerno. History is supposed to say William the Conqueror of England visited Salerno for the restoration of his health. In this Salerno School the Jewish element seems to have held an important place in students and professors. The works of this School were markedly compilations founded on the writings of Hippocrates and Galen, and later Greek writers, with a mixture of the doctrines of the Methodist School of Medicine pervading it.

The Arabian School of Medicine

Made itself a name with the rise of the Mahommedan Empire, which influenced Europe so deeply, both politically and intellectually 800 A.D. After Mahommedan conquests were consolidated and learning reasserted its rightful place, Schools of Medicine, after the manner of Hospitals and Schools of Pharmacy, arose in the Chief Seats of Moslem power. History makes plain at Damascus and Bagdad Medical Schools of importance were founded. The name of Mesua, 857 and Joannitius, the Translator and Commentator on Hippocrates and Galen, belong to this period.

Razis, the Father of Arabian Medicine made its appearance in Bagdad. The Ophalmic, rules of Hyoda, accompanied Medical Science from the East. The Jews did much in establishing Schools in those places, but the real genesis of Moslem Cranium.

It is stated from the 11th to the 13th century was the brilliant epoch of Arabian Medicine in Spain.

Avicenna—is looked upon as the Father of Arabian Medicine, 980 to 1037 A.D.

The Scholastic Period

About the middle of the 11th century 1050, the above period opens up by the introduction of Arabian Medicine into the Western World through the Latin translation by Constantine the African, a convert of that time. His works dealt with the less bulky Arabian authors, the real classics were not introduced until later. For some time the—Salernitan Medicine held its ground, but after the conquest of Toledo by Alphonso of Castile and Western scholars came in contact with Spanish Moors, then began the translation of philosophical and medical works. In Sicily also, the Oriental tendencies of Frederick Barbarossa, and others, worked in the same direction.

Gerard of Cremona, a physician of Toledo 1114 to 1187 made translations into Latin of Arabian and Greek writers as well as from Avicenna and others.

The influence of Arabian medicine soon began to be felt, even in the Hippocratic City of Salerno in the 12th century. It is said to have been held on an even balance with other medicine.

Then the Aristotelian Dialectic—is the introduction of which the Arabs had so large a share, prevailed in the Schools of Europe, the Arabian wisdom of Greek Medicine reigned supreme in the medical world. At this time the establishment of Universities throughout Europe took place, and now medicine becomes closely allied with the history of scholastic philosophy. The first definite step was seen in the school of Mont-Pellier, where a medical Faculty existed early in the 12th century. Afterwards it was united with the Faculties of Law and Philosophy.

The Mont-Pellier school owed its foundation largely to Jewish teachers who were educated in the Moorish schools of Spain, and came with the independence of the—Averroists—in Italy, Bologna and Padua were earliest distinguished for medical studies. The Northern Universities did little toward; the reputation of Paris being of later growth.

The supremacy of Arabian medicine lasted till the revival of learning when Medical Classics in their original languages worked another movement. The medical writers of this period who chiefly drew from Arabian sources have been called Arabists, and those who afterwards styled Scientific Medical literature of this time is extremely voluminous, consisting chiefly of commentaries on Hippocrates, Galen, Avicenna and others, and those of lesser fame. Among those will be found the Conciliter of Peter of Athanon—1250 to 1350, also the Aggregator of Jacob de Dondi—1286 to 1359, both of the school of Padua.

Of more than ordinary interest Emil Isbunen for the first time had gained a European reputation, being student of Medical Works. They were valued and most practical. The first of these was the —Compendium of Medicinae by—Gilbertus Anglicus, about 1250 which had worthy observations on leprosy. Another by Bernard Gordon, a Scottish Professor at Montpellier 1307.' The Practica seu lilium Medicinae, which was translated into French and Hebrew. Besides these the John Platearius wrote and in 1361, another—Anglica seu Practica Medicinae. He was a graduate of Merton College, Oxford and an English physician.

In surgery this period was far more productive than in Medicine, especially that of physiology, and then led up to Harvey's great discovery—Circulation of the Blood. The latter gave rise on the one hand to modern Science of Surgery, while on the other, to a more rational knowledge of the nature and uses.

Paracelsus who was the father of Chemical Medicine—1493 to 1541 lived in Germany. He was a contemporary with the—School of Medical Humanists, but was little influenced by them. He was independent in thought and revolutionary in his tendencies. Paracelsus was well educated and especially as to Science and Medicine. He developed the all traditional and authoritative teachings.

Galen and Avicenna, he despised; but spoke with respect of Hippocrates, and even wrote a commentary on his Aphorisms. He was also introduced metallic preparations into medicine which were of much service. Among the notable preparations at the time, were of opium is one of his contributions. Harvey, the great author of the discovery of Harvey—The Circulation of the Blood—was the outstanding and revolutionizing discovery in Science.

Medicine was established in Physiology, Histology, Anatomy, Botany and Therapeutics. It at once became a Science and a Philosophy.

Hence, through the centuries it is obvious, Medicine has been an ever growing and deepening study in knowledge and Science for the uplift of humanity.

Banking Matters To Be Chief Topic

Tariff Changes Will Take Second Place in Parliament

Ottawa, April 20.—The evidence so far brought out before the McKeown Commission that is inquiring into the affairs of the Home Bank warrants the prediction that the Home Bank and the Bank Act will be the most discussed subjects in the House during the remainder of the session. They will get much more consideration than even the much discussed tariff. The investigation is producing a lot of material of a character in which a large percentage of the members revel.

Two days' evidence before the McKeown Commission has demonstrated that something will have to be done with the Bank Act again this session. This is not the opinion of radicals, but of those most closely in touch with the situation. Ottawa would have followed closely the revelations in the Home Bank case had they known they were bad; but the fact had not been brought home to it, as they were through the testimony of Sir Henry Drayton, and the reading of the files of the Finance Department. Sir Henry was a good witness. His not only was very fair, but he gave the commission a great deal of general information which it probably would not have got had he preferred merely to say, "Yes" or "no" to questions. Possibly his most important contribution was that relating to the advances totalling $2,250,000, made by the Government to the Banque Nationale.

Economy

tablishment at Bowmanville of a boys' farm and training school. Measures to commit the province to the principle of the eight-hour day, introduced by a private member, were so amended that action must be postponed until the idea of the eight-hour day is found acceptable in the whole Dominion.

Union Bill Hatted

The church union bill, involving the organic union of Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches, did not pass. The action of the private bills committee in adopting an amendment permitting any congregation to remain out of the union, was considered so damaging to its principles that the sponsors of the bill withdrew it.

The session was productive of some fireworks. This was to be expected, following Premier Ferguson's stand in refusing to recognize the remnant of the U.F.O. as the official opposition.

Peter Smith Charged

Mr. Manning Doherty's temporary acceptance of the Farmer leadership made him the defender of the policies of the late Government. Before the Public Accounts Committee, while showing complete loyalty to his former colleagues, he took a wise course. He advocated the fullest possible inquiry.

In spite of the gravity of the disclosures before the committee, Premier Ferguson, doubtless guided by the pressing need for economy in this province, refused to ask for a royal commission. He took the stand that the committee was competent to make all the investigation that was needed.

The disclosures that followed have already led to the arrest of Peter Smith, Provincial Treasurer under the Drury regime, on charges of conspiracy with intent to defraud the Government of the province, and thus his guilt becomes a matter for the courts to decide.

While these disclosures will go down in history as the most sensational thing connected with the legislative session, if they lead to better and stricter methods of accounting in Government business in the future they are not to be the subject of regret they may now seem.

WILL NOT LET BODY OF KING BE DISTURBED

New York, April 21.—He has slept for three thousand years in the midst of his royal glory and he will sleep for forever, if Howard Carter, discoverer of Tutankhamen's tomb has his say as to the disposition of the Pharaoh's mummy. Mr. Carter made this announcement yesterday when he arrived on the Cunarder Berengaria, to deliver a series of lectures in this country.

"While it is within my power," declared Mr. Carter, "that King will never be removed from his tomb."

Dishwashing—with dainty hands

NOT possible, you say? Perhaps it wasn't, before Lux was discovered for dishwashing. But now, Lux, with its instant soapy suds, not only cleans your dishes thoroughly, but is as easy on the hands as the finest toilet soap.

Ordinary soaps or washing powders are too hard on the skin, making it rough and red. The ingredients in Lux are helpful—to the hands and skin—the Lux suds if constantly used will keep the skin smooth as Nature intended. You can do your own dishes, and not be ashamed of your hands, because they will never show that they have been in the dishpan.

Just a single teaspoonful is sufficient for your breakfast or lunch dishes—you may possibly have to use two teaspoonfuls for your dinner dishes. Try it just once. You will be so delighted that you will want to use it always.

Your hands will show improvement at once.

Keep a package of Lux handy on your kitchen shelf. Use it for all your dishes.

Lux is economical for all dish-washing. One packet contains sufficient for 54 dish-washings—nearly all the dishes for three weeks.

LUX

Lux is sold only in sealed packets—dustproof!

EVERY TRY A "DEUCE OF SPADES" SANDWICH

Charles Ray, chef extraordinaire, and creator of unusual concoctions is at the Regent Theatre with an entirely new menu entitled "The Deuce of Spades." The clever character impersonator has evolved a new dish for motion picture audiences which he serves up under the name of a deuce of spades sandwich and the way in which he makes his patrons fall for this line is one of the most humorous incidents that has ever been transposed upon the screen.

The story for "The Deuce of Spades" was supplied by "The Weight of the Last Straw," written by the late Charles E. Van Loan, who also provided "Scrap Iron," one of Ray's biggest successes. Associated in the cast with the star are Marjorie Haworth, Lincoln Plumer, Andrew Arbuckle, Dick Southerland, Jack Richardson, J. P. Lockney, Gus Leonard, Bert Gilford and William Courtright.

NO PROBLEM PLAYS FOR CONSTANCE

"No problem plays for me," says Constance Talmadge.

Connie's latest film, "Dulcy", now showing at the Griffin Theatre, is a comedy based on modern life and is filled with modern young people. None of the "problem trimmings" so common in plays of today, cast their shadows across the action or the characters. Yet "Dulcy" has its joys and sorrows, and Constance Talmadge runs the whole gamut of emotions from laughter to tears.

It is one of the cleverest comedies ever made by the popular Constance. It gives her ample opportunity to display her versatility and furnishes her with a vehicle admirably adapted to her type of comedy.

"Dulcy" was produced by Jos. M. Schenck from an adaption by John Emerson and Anita Loos of the famous stage play of the same title by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connolly. Sidney A. Franklin directed. Jack Mulhall, Claude Gillingwater, May Wilson, Johnny Harron, Annie Cornwall, Frederick Esmelton, Andree Granger, Gilbert Douglas Mills, Davenport and others having important roles.

The Cartoon Amusement Co. Incwho are presenting "Barney Google and Spark Plug", the ingenious creation of Billy DeBeck, the famed cartoonist, has been transformed into a musical farce comedy and "Barney Google and Spark Plug" will be revealed in all their comical hilarityes-ples, at the Griffin theatre on Thursday evening, April 24.

In the stage version of "Barney Google and Spark Plug" William K. Wells, the author, is said to have retained the spirit of Mr. Billy DeBeck's creation admirably, permitting a cast of excellent features to vitalize these humorous caustic and continuously interesting personalities in a telling manner.

There is romance and enchantment in the abundance surrounding "Barney Google and Spark Plug," and the settings have a grace and wistfulness that will linger long in your memory; yet so pleasing as are the principals, lovely as are the dances, lovely as are the settings and costumes, and lilting as are the songs, the lasting impression of "Barney Google and Spark Plug" are the girls. It's a girl show—so much a girl show it seems as if every kind of a girl is there. You cannot possibly quarrel about taste, and who is there would quarrel about the girls—especially such girls as the Cartoon Amusement Co., Inc. have somehow contrived to get together.

Explorers in Syria have dug out a harp which, they say, has been buried and dumb for 37000 years.

This harp has absolutely nothing to about nine-tenths of the human race.

If science would expend half the time and energy exploring "buried and dumb" human brains as they spend hunting for ancient harps, furniture and corpses, humanity would be really benefitted.

ONE LUCKY EDITOR

(Atoona Tribune)

There is said to be one editor in heaven. How he got there is not positively known, but it is conjectured that he passed off as a minister and stepped in unexpectedly. When the dodge was discovered, they searched the realms of felicity at their length, and bowed for a lawyer to draw up the necessary papers for ejectment, but they couldn't find one, and of course, the editor held the fort.

REVISION OF BANK ACT BEFORE WA

WEMBLEY IS SOCIAL AXIS OF BRITAIN

King and Queen Express Royal Desire That Gigantic Exposition be Scene of Such Fetes and Pageants as Never Before Conceived — Inauguration This Month to Open Unceasing Festivities

With the bright light of the prestige of the King and Queen of England shining graciously on the British Empire Exhibition, Wembley Park, only a few miles from the centre of London will become the meeting place of fashion. It is the royal desire that this gigantic Exposition shall be, during the season, the scenes of such fetes and pageants and balls as the British have never before conceived.

Ever since the splendid days of the Tudors, entertainment in the form of pageantry, has been dear to the British heart and now that plans are coming to fruition for the most important of Exhibitions, the lighter side appears in all its attractive and traditional phases.

Royal Enthusiasm

It is the enthusiasm of the King, his consort and the Princess and Princesses, which now inspires society to outdo itself and concoct pictorial splendours, that will surpass the Shakespeare Bal of Coronation year and the Harmer Pageant of 1922. Experience is a useful aid in these matters, and organizers, committee members, costumers, artists and musicians are vying in the cause to give of their best and evolve a series of really magnificent revels.

From the inauguration of the Exhibition this month, when the Duke of Connaught will drive from Buckingham Palace to declare the great show open, there will be no cessation in especially arranged festivities, fit to entertain strangers from over the seas.

Merry-Making

The vast grounds designed by the finest architects, will lend themselves to the occasion of merry-making and dancing. The dancing pavilion, which will be decorated and illuminated by reverts will be the largest ever built and arranged with boxes and reception rooms in a way that comfort is assured in size. It will be twice that of the famous Albert Hall, where five thousand have been known to assemble. Every practical idea in the way of entertainment has been applied. There will be dressing rooms and restaurants, so that visitors may be able to change to evening dress and dine in luxury before the night revels begin.

Common Touch

Given so much in the way of material preparation, there remains the human touch to turn the reception halls to scenes of gaiety and spontaneous amusement. It is all hoped that one feel the friendliness and loyalty which emanate from the Throne and the King and Queen, as the head of the Empire, are virtually the hosts and hostess to all the visitors. That wishes will be expressed at every fete and the quiet British hospitality will be there for all who take part in the arrangements.

Welcome committees are being formed everywhere, and the chief social event is "Pour Majestes" chauffeur's ball, the Duchess has shown her mettle in the intricate pastime of royal personalities. Similar dignified and kind interest, Her Royal Highness has a real art in a rare degree. Moreover she knows well ideas and loves surprises, she is bound to infuse into the British Empire Exhibition entertainments all that modernity and charm which she exemplifies. From her central committee, and the advice of others, all intent on extending the welfare bond of friendliness to the visitors.

Welcome Guests

To every war, the King and Queen delight in making welcome their wives from overseas and great importance

CHURCH UNION FIGHT DRAWS LEGAL LIGHTS

Heavy Batteries Will Open Fire in House Committee

BATTLE OVER AGAIN

Whole Issue To Be Sifted Afresh; Stand of Eight Provinces Shown

Ottawa, April 22.—Heavy batteries of church union and anti-church union argument will be assembled here within the next week or two when the big issues raised by the bill for the union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches of Canada are brought before the Private Bills Committee of the House of Commons, after the unwinding of the numbers of Parliament here on Thursday next, following the Easter recess.

It is expected that the battle will be fought all over again on the church union question.

Three Provinces Stand

The situation in regard to the church union bill in the various provinces of Canada may be described at present as follows:

Prince Edward Island—Passed by Legislature, but not asserted to by Lieutenant-Governor pending information being sought from Ottawa.

Nova Scotia—Not yet reported by the committee of the Legislature.

New Brunswick—Passed without amendment.

Quebec—No bill presented.

Ontario—Bill withdrawn following amendment by private committee.

Manitoba—Passed by Legislature without important amendment.

Saskatchewan—Passed without substantial amendment.

Alberta—Passed with minor amendments.

British Columbia—Bill to be presented at next session of the Legislature.

QUEBEC LIQUOR SALES $65,000,000 IN THREE YEARS

Profits Totalling $12,000,000 Estimated Under Gov't Control

Quebec, April 22.—In the course of the three years of operation of the Province of Quebec Liquor Commission under control and profits reaching over $12,000,000 will have been realized by the Provincial Treasurer. This is the million dollar surplus expected to be announced by the commission later for its past years' operations.

There has been a very big decrease in the sale of high percentage liquors such as Scotch whiskies, gins and rums and only for the compensation increase in the sale of light wines the revenues would have been affected to a great extent. However, the increase of between 400 and 500 per seven hundred per cent is expected to be recorded in the sale of wines although the profit in such brands has been based on a low margin the vast increased sale is expected to compensate fully for the reduction in heavy liquors.

The number of liquor stores has increased from 67 to 80 in the course of the year 1923-24 but this includes several where wines alone are sold. There is no increase reported in the list of beer which dispensed in the bars of the brewers, is under control of the commission through the taverns.

HOLD MASQUERADE AT THE ARMORIES

By kind permission of Lt. Col. T. Bog-Lieutenant-Colonel commanding officer of the Argyll Light Infantry, a masquerade ball will be held evening in the armouries under the auspices of the O.W.V.A. on May 2nd. Owing to the large attractions the attendance was not large, but all present had a thoroughly enjoyable time. The decorations, well all this could have been desired, the interior of the Armouries presenting a most inviting appearance. A fitting feature was the display of the side leader-ship of handmaster R. Hinchey, furnished a suitable programme of music. Prizes were awarded for the best masquerade costumes, the successful competitors being as follows:

First prize representing the 3rd of June; Mrs. Frances Salmon.

Second Prize Black and White; J. Gorman.

A juvenile prize was also awarded. R. H. Campbell was chairman of the committee, and was ably assisted by many gentlemen and ladies of the city including President W. H. Dawes.

Walking To Toronto

CADET W. ALLAN DEMPSEY

A Prince Edward boy, 17 years old, in his fourth year at Belleville High School, whose ancestors for four generations have been farmers in the Township of Ameliasburgh, Prince Edward County, has undertaken to go as a courier on foot after the manner of the old messenger, from Belleville to Toronto and return for His Worship Mayor Mikel of Belleville an invitation to His Worship Mayor Hiltz and members of the Toronto City Council, the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier, and members of his Cabinet, and to the Acting Lieutenant-Governor Chief Justice Sir William Mulock, to be present at the celebration, the week commencing June 16th next.

April 22, the Anniversary Of Second Battle of Ypres

Today, April 22, is the ninth anniversary of the now famous Second Battle of Ypres, where so many Canadians went into the great breach in the defence of civilization and the rights of countries. It is one of the most significant anniversaries in Canadian military history, and will always be remembered among the veterans and returned men of the country as one of the outstanding battles in which Canadians fought their way to greatness.

The Battle of Balaclava, the Charge of the Light Brigade, and many of the old battles of British history were wonderful, but to the Canadian the stern and stubborn resistance offered by the Germans by the Canadian First Division will pass down to posterity as the outstanding military achievement of our country.

This remarkable stand, in the face of obstacles almost as serious to the Canadians as St. Julien, will be fittingly celebrated.

KINGSTON KIWANIANS HEAR ABLE SPEAKER AT LUNCHEON

The Kingston Kiwanis Club, twenty strong, visited Belleville today, returning at the visit of the local club to Kingston yesterday. Owing to the inclement weather, many of the Kingston members were unable to make the trip, which was by motor, but those who were present made up in many ways for the lack of numbers.

Yesterday the local club, under the leadership of their able vice-president, Brennan Bill Latimer, motored to Kingston and the hearty reception given the visitors made the journey well worth while. The greeting of the Kingston Club, expressed by Kiwanian Fraser Nicholl, at the luncheon yesterday, was appreciated by the best members and was aptly replied to by acting-president Latimer.

The local club was host today, and a general get-together meeting was held. Kiwanian Eddie O'Flynn, eldest and also inimitable resident of "It Ain't Been Run On Me," assisted by the Kiwanis club orchestra. Dr. Hafner, in song "That Old Irish Mother of Mine," excelled himself and was rewarded by sing "Our Flying Boat", and so aptly expressed by Kiwanian "O'Flynn, he lost minutes of the club was that he became a regular Kiwanian.

Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C., was the speaker of the day, and he ably justified the statement of Ex-Mayor Nicholl, of Kingston, that he was one of the best after-dinner speakers in the Dominion.

Today has a peculiar significance for Canadians, stated Col. Ponton, in that it is the anniversary of Ypres and Langemarck, and the battle in which the name of Canada was graven in the annals of the world for heroism of the highest order. The handful of heroes that withstood the onslaught of the picked armies of Germany, and held their position through gas, shot and shell, will never be forgotten, not only by Canada and the Empire, but wherever bravery is honored.

Speaking of the great good Kiwania is doing for the world, Col Ponton stated that the motto of the organization, "We Build," is a reflection in itself. It is working and building together that lays the foundation for the highest meaning of the word, "happiness" is "doing good work together."

Acting President Latimer thanked the speaker, on the behalf of the club, for his splendid address, and those who journeyed from Kingston declared themselves well repaid for the long jaunt.

TEACHERS PLAN TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Montreal, April 22.—The itinerary of the personally conducted "Scenic Canada" tour of the Canadian Teachers' Federation en route to the annual convention at Victoria, B.C., August 12th to 19th, 1924, has just been issued and promises to be a very interesting and instructive trip for the teachers and their friends, about 150 of whom it is expected will take advantage of it. Arranged by Dr. E. A. Hardy, Vice President of the federation, and R. E. Howe, President of the Provincial Association of Protestant teachers, Quebec in conjunction with the Canadian Pacific Railway. The tour lasts from August 4th to 12th and covers a wide field as is thoroughly possible in the time. It will be made on a special train starting from Toronto and following the main line of the Canadian Pacific through

NAPANEE MAN KILLED AS CAR STRIKES FENCE

George Allan of Napanee Meets Tragic End Near Pickering

EIGHT IN MOTOR CAR

Auto, Swerving to Avoid Another, Hit a Post Supporting Rail

Toronto, April 22.—George Allan, aged 23 years, accountant at the Whitby-Oreland Works, who roomed at 153 Harvey Street, was killed almost instantly about eight o'clock last evening on the east of Pickering, when struck by a wooden fence rail which pierced the wind shield of the motor car in which he was riding, and caught him directly on the face. Allan died while being taken from the car.

The motor car, containing eight persons, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Augustus, of Whitby; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Brown, of Albany, N.Y.; two children, and their lady, and George Allan, was proceeding towards Toronto from Whitby, and when about one mile east of Pickering Village, Avery L. Brown, who was driving the car, noticed another automobile approaching with glaring headlights. Brown lowered the car to one side, and the auto struck the iron post guarding the embankment. The wooden rail on top of the post smashed the wind shield and struck Mr. Allan, who was on the back seat of the automobile. The other members of the party are reported safe.

The driver blames the glare from the headlights of the other car for the accident. Mr. Brown being unable to see the post with the fence rail on the road. He says that the snow-covered ground was also a factor in dazzling him.

The victim of the accident was a native of Napanee, where his mother resides. His parents died some time ago. Allan had been visiting in Napanee over the week-end, and has intended to return to Toronto with the Brown's party. He had been roomming at the house of Mrs. McDougall, 152 Mavety Street, for the past eight months.

Allan's body was removed to Dunlop's undertaking rooms, Pickering. Dr. Cartwright, county coroner, said that an inquest would not be necessary.

SUSPENDS SENTENCE ON TRUCK DRIVER

Albert Rhoney, truck driver, whose machine careered into Crown Attorney R. C. Donnan's touring car at the C.N.R. Church street subway, on the 9 o'clock Thursday night last causing many thousands of dollars worth of material his freedom this morning on suspended sentence by Magistrate Masson in police court.

Rhoney was charged with operating a car while under the influence of liquor and had been out on bail since the night of the accident. Asst. J. C. Ewan owner of the truck was in court today.

U.E.L. Courier Is Marching Along

Special to the Intelligencer

Tuesday, April 22nd.—Cobourg, Ont., Dominion Day Celebrations from His Worship Mayor Mikel to His Worship Mayor Hiltz, of Toronto, left Trenton yesterday afternoon at 2.45 for Brighton. Cadet Dempsey was entertained in Trenton by the Rotary Club where after luncheon he was called upon to give a few remarks.

After leaving Trenton he arrived in Brighton at five o'clock where he presented an invitation to the Mayor and Reeve Rose and obtained his autograph with that of the Chief Constable.

The Courier spent the night with relatives in Brighton and left for Cobourg today.

CRASH HURTS FOUR

Hornell, N.Y., April 22.—Four persons were injured, three probably fatally, wrecked and J. B. Dixon of Syracuse is in jail here following a collision on the Arkport road near here yesterday.

Dixon and Roy Franklin of Birdsall, were driving in a truck toward the latter town when their machine crashed into an automobile driven by Melford Hall.

The latter, his brother and sister were injured and the truck and automobile smashed. Dixon was locked up on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

TORY CAUCUS SOON TO PLAN BUDGET MOVE

Conservatives Out to Offer Amendment in Commons

EMBARASS LIBERALS

Straight Protection Issue Likely, Aimed at Split Government Ranks

Ottawa, April 22.—With Parliament adjourned for the Easter recess the capital wears a deserted appearance and will not be relieved until Wednesday, when the members will begin to straggle back.

It is expected that the Progressives, who went on a tour of the Maritime Provinces will return Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

It is reported that they have had an interesting time in Nova Scotia with its picturesque islets, its fishing smacks and fertile orchards.

Amendment to Budget

Within the next few days Conservatives intend holding a caucus at which it is expected an amendment to the budget will be drafted. What form this will take it unknown, but it will probably be of a straight protectionist nature, calculated to embarrass Liberals from industrial ridings.

Considerable interest attaches to Tuesday's meeting of the Cabinet at which Hon. E. J. McMurray's action in serving as Montreal's police censor for the past year will be discussed. Considerable eminence has been levelled at the solicitor-General by the Quebec judiciary. It is not likely that the Cabinet will repudiate the decision of Mr. McMurray.

Land Settlement Scheme

There seems to be a strong feeling in semi-official circles here that 20 ladies in addition to 25-year penitentiary sentence of incarceration in Kingston Penitentiary.

The Imperial Shipping Committee is decided to meet several Cabinet Ministers Tuesday to discuss Atlantic rates on Canadian flour. For the past year has been a discriminatory carrying charge against flour from the Dominion, as against flour shipped from American ports. This was agreed on temporarily and of Government will now attempt to have the change made permanent.

This is considered of several importance at a time when the Anglo-European tariff restricts the Canadian flour market.

Goulin for Senate?

Rumors persist that Sir Lomer Gouin will go to the Senate. The belief that the former Minister of Justice would prefer a seat in the upper chamber grows in favor, but it is questionable whether the Government can open up a seat on Montreal Island at a time when proposal has been to raised a storm of disapproval in the Quebec metropolis.

THAW NOT NORMAL

Would Show If He Were Released, Dr. Burr Tells Court In Trial

Philadelphia, April 22.—"Harry K. Thaw, in my opinion, has not been restored to a normal state of mind. If released, he would be a menace to himself some abnormal act."

Dr. Charles Burr, of Philadelphia, specialist in mental and nervous diseases at the University of Pennsylvania, made this statement on the witness stand today in the Thaw sanity trial. Dr. Burr was the first witness.

Dr. Theodore Diller, also of Philadelphia, a neurologist, was the second witness. He testified in favor of Thaw on several occasions at the request of counsel for Thaw. Dr. Diller said found Thaw to be of an unsound mind.

"I still hold the opinion he is insane," Dr. Wesschner said.

Under cross-examination, he admitted he knew of no insane act that Thaw had committed. The last act of which he said, however, he formed his opinion was in connection with the actions of Thaw throughout his life.

MAKES SURE TO DIE

Pole Slashes Throat, Then Jumps to Street From Toronto Hotel

Toronto, April 22.—After slashing his throat with a razor blade Wednesday 29, jumped from a window on the fifth floor of the Broadview Hotel, yesterday morning, and died in the General Hospital two hours later from internal injuries. Mancilkowiz left his home, where his wife and son live, yesterday morning and did not return.

Among the effects is a note written in Polish, in a small book, on the bottom of which is a line in English: "To my wife."

Inquiries at the home failed to establish the reason for the rash deed. He had worked as a laborer for a number of years and had lived in Toronto for about ten years.

CHANGES IN ACT SLATED FOR HOUSE

Hearing at Capital Bring Facts Home to Members

—Evidence Gives Details Showing Need of Amendments—Firmly Convinced That Something Must be done

Ottawa, April 22.—The evidence so far brought out before the McKeown Commission that is inquiring into the affairs of the Home Bank warrants the prediction that the Home Bank and the bank act will be the most discussed subjects in the House during the remainder of the session.

They will get much more confirmation than even the much-discussed tariff. The investigation is producing a lot of material of a character in which a large percentage of the members revel.

Brings Facts Home

Two days' evidence before the McKeown Commission has demonstrated that something will have to be done with the Bank Act again this session.

This is not the opinion of radicals, but of three most recently in touch with the situation. Ottawa would have followed closely the revelations in the Home Bank case had they known they were back but the facts had not been brought home to it, as they were through the testimony of Harry Drayton, and the removal of the files of the Finance Department.

Mr. Hearst was a good witness. He not only was very fair, but he gave the commission a great deal of expert information which it probably would not have got had he preferred merely to say, "Yes" or "No" to questions. Possibly the most important contribution was that relating to the advances totalling $3,500,000, made by the Government to the Banquet Nationale.

Mr. Hearst did not say that the present Government should have saved the Home Bank, but he did think it could have been saved. This was the information which the House and the whole should have been done for the Home Bank Nationale, and there is no doubt that in so far as one account is concerned it was in as bad state as the Home. His remark to Mr. Fielding, "You will have to do the same for the Home Bank," indicated clearly what should have been done had he been in office when the crash came.

Problem of Checking Up

Banking experts have been following the hearings of the commission pretty well aware that with the strengthening of the Bank Act as regards the security both of depositors and shareholders there is still room for the possibility of returns made by the banks to the Government. Checks could be inspected by competent persons there is no belief that returns could be guaranteed. The question now before the House is, how can the checking up best be done?

"SCANDALMONGERING"

In an editorial for young people, the Hamilton Spectator recently gives splendid advice to the public relative to the hurtful and prevalent practices of talebearing, tale-magnifying and "scandalmongering".

In introducing the subject, the Spectator states that:

"Just now a great number of scandals are being aired. There are the big graft investigations in the United States and the similar accusations, though on a smaller scale, affecting members of a former Ontario government. Scandal is in the air. It is very right and necessary, of course, that wrongdoing should be exposed," it continues, "and that corruption, if definitely established, should be punished; but there is a tendency to jump at conclusions, to judge without knowledge, to condemn without justification. That, certainly, is wholly wrong. This evil of gossip and slandering to be found in grown-up people, by any means. The tittle-tattle which goes on between young people at school and at play is just as prevalent and just as hurtful and mischievous. Moreover, the habit of scandalmongering is one which is acquired, and it is necessary to suppress it at the very beginning. Boys and girls are equally guilty. Though it is usually pretended that the latter sex has a monopoly of this fault, such is not the case. Young and old, male and female, repeat tales and whisper slanders which should never be retailed at all.

"We appeal to young people, boys and girls, to set themselves resolutely against this degrading habit. Remember that an idle rumor, an ugly story, a malicious attack upon another's character is carried along on wagging tongues, and make up your mind that it shall go no farther than you if you can possibly prevent it. The mind which finds pleasure in criticizing and ridiculing others is not a mind which it is desirable to cultivate. An enormous amount of injustice and misery is caused through this miserable practice of back-biting and fault-finding, and not only does it do untold harm to others, but it does very serious harm also to the slanderer himself. There are two good old-fashioned proverbs which cover the point, and these, homely and familiar as they are, should be taken to heart and made one's own: 'One cannot touch pitch and remain undefiled,' and 'People who live in glass houses should not throw stones.' We, all of us, to some extent, are living in glass houses, and, however secure our personal character may seem to be, it is never so perfect that it is incapable of being besmirched by unfriendly tongues. Speak good of others, and they will speak good of you Speak evil, and you are inviting and deserve similar treatment."

BOOKS THROUGH PEOPLE

Oliver Wendall Holmes says somewhere that "Society is a strong solution of books. It draws the virtue out of what is best worth reading, as hot water draws the strength of tea-leaves." This is a statement destined to open the eyes of those peddlers who believe that all learning lies in the musty pages and shelves where books abound.

It is surprising how many persons quite the reverse of scholars have ideas on current literature and even that of a bygone day. The record hand book shops do not flourish for the professional student alone. Therefore, instead of steeping himself in his own books with only his own set of faculties to guide him, is was Holmes' idea to get close to people, common people, and read books through their eyes. Choose then, when they are "good-natured and expansive, as they are apt to be at table," said Holmes.

In this suggestion lies hope not only for the scholar, in furnishing him a new and pleasant means of learning, but for the man who only brief intervals to give to books. Even though he has little time for learning, his opinions are not worthless. He will learn, too, by this concentrated method already indicated, when he makes a point of getting close to many people and sharing their point of view.

CAN YOU IMAGINE IT?

A bridge across the Hudson river is to be built, and it will cost at a hundred million dollars. As an engineering feat, this will surpass the Panama Canal.

Besides the stupendous sum for the bridge itself, an outlay of 115 million dollars is estimated for the suspension towers. These towers will rise 685 feet in the air, and the cables they hold up will support a steelwork structure of 400,000 tons.

Figures such as these stun the imagination. Man cannot think about big figures. True, he may have them for his slaver, he may mass the sums which they represent, but actually the abstract figures are a mystery to him.

Yet the figures of this new project which probably will be completed in 1949, fascinates. When it is learned that more steel—400,000 tons—will go into it than the steel in all the bridges over the Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio rivers, there is something, a pictured comparison, that the average person can imagine.

EDITORIAL NOTES

May will attend to the leaves' coming out party.

The dominant issue seems to be colored silk handkerchiefs.

An item tells us that our new attorney general is "an authority on law." How very fortunate.

Which does Washington prefer, to point with pride or to point with suspicion? It can't do both.

No woman will hide her Easter hat under a bushel, nor will she find it necessary, one trusts, to screen it beneath an umbrella.

New York has a blond, bobbed-haired bandit. She is right in style as a bland, and in having bobbed hair and in being a bandit.

One more the world's largest circus is announcing that it is "Bigger and Better Than Ever." And, if you are not too old, it will be.

Wonder what Albert B. Fall thought of Mr. Coolidge's announcement that he was looking for a $100,000 man to fill a $12,000 job.

An oil company removing a couple of thousand billboards along western highways doubtless feels the business is now getting its publicity for nothing.

A Senate committee and a New York court subpoenaed Gaston Means to appear before them on the same day. Nobody doesn't Gaston syndicate his stuff?

PRESS OPINIONS

TO BEAUTIFY AMERICA WITH NOBLE TREES

(Literary Digest)

If the long dead Indian of pioneer days could speak to us and tell what he regretted most in his lost kingdom of the wilderness, perhaps his heart ache would be for the stately green aisles of the great forests. There, where the deer roamed, and the awkward bear hunted the wild honey, and the birds sent their woodland song, have grown up great cities, But the cities, in their turn, are awakening to the fact that they can beautify and increase their parks, and their residences by planting trees again, until the residential sections of some of our cities, viewed from a distant hill, look like forests dotted with dwellings that peep out here and there among the greenery.

Now is the time of year for tree-planting and Arbor Day is the official date. The pleasant suggestion is made by the American Tree Association, of Washington, that we prepare now for the ceremonial of Arbor Day, in 1924, to plant the trees that will be in full growth and beauty then. "Every man or woman who plants a tree performs a really constructive act for the welfare of our nation," they declare, and "it is not and see how much better you feel!"

RADIO CLUB QUESTION BOX

To all Radio Fans desiring information pertaining to Radio or trouble with sets or where Cupid's arrows fall, it used to be that Gwendolyn would sit up late at night to listen on the radio with earmuffs clamped on tight but now instead of listenin' in to orchestras an' song she's turnin' her attention to that Chinese game Mah Jong. Of all the stations on the air when she was listin' in it seemed like there was only one suited Gwendolyn. No matter what they'd broadcast stock reports or baseball games it didn't make much difference she'd be listin' just the same. For quite a while I tried to find the reason for her choice till finally she told me it was the announcer's voice. The melodic" me to secrecy our dainty village queen described the men whose voice she'd heard, the man she'd never seen. "His must be young an' handsome an' I know his eyes are blue; a big broad shouldered fellow, may be sit foot one or two." "Now don't you tell a single soul. I've written him a letter an' asked him for his picture some time later I'll know better just exactly what he looks like, but I wish that he's a dear. I've been waitin' now for several days. I wish it was here." Then later as requested there appeared upon the scene the same shot of the gentleman who charmed our village queen. There was a time when Gwendolyn the sweetest girl in town was quite a fan for Radio but now she's turned it down. Thus is indeed a cruel fate that robs life of its joys. Besides him in the picture stood his wife an' two small boys.

Perhaps You Need a Tonic

A tonic is necessary in all run-down conditions, after sickness, fevers and illnesses of all kinds. When a person is nervous, undernourished, overworked, listless, he needs a tonic. If you can't sleep, have no appetite, feel miserable and depressed, a tonic will fix you. The tonic best suited for general use is Carnol. It can be given with perfect safety to children, and by a convalescent, or to an aged person. It is made from the prescription of an eminent physician. Hundreds of people prescribe Carnol in their practice. Here's what Mr. Davis says about Carnol:

"We have sold Carnol for two years. During those two years we have seen many other so-called tonics tried out, but they did not repeat, and people have tried and have enjoyed a good rest. We believe that it has the ingredients that go to make up one of the very best nerve and body builders on the market before the public." Davis the Druggist, Columbia and 6th Sts., New Westminster, B.C.

Carnol is sold by all good druggists everywhere.

STEAMER SERVICE

It is almost a certainty now that a steamer "Glen Allan" will operate between Montreal and the head of Bay of Quinte this season in the freight service, according to information supplied the Intelligencer today. The first trip will be made on May 5th, (east bound.)

This appears to be the first real move for a continuance of the excellent service which Belleville and district enjoyed prior to the Great War, when some eight boats served the city as they plied between Montreal and Toronto in freight and passenger service.

MRS. BECK COMING

Chief Constable Kidd will arrive back in the city this evening from Toronto with Mrs. Ellen Beck, who was recently sentenced to Mercer Reformatory for two years less one day on a charge of obtaining goods from a Yonge street French shopper, by fraud. Mrs. Beck must face trial here on a similar charge, where goods to the value of some $600 is involved.

BRIGHT IDEA

"What a boy you are for asking questions," said the exasperated father. "I'd like to know what would have happened if I'd asked as many questions when I was a boy."

RECORD CROWD AT HOLIDAY DANCE

Three Hundred Couples Attend Enjoyable Function Given by Challenge Lodge No. 66 at Johnstone's Academy

Some three hundred couples crowded Johnstone's dancing stations last night at the 45th annual assembly of Challenge Lodge Number 66, B. of L. F. and E., the dance being one of the most successful, if not the most successful assemblies ever held by this lodge. Seldom has the spacious Johnstone academy been crowded as it was last night, and seldom indeed have patrons enjoyed such a delightful evening.

Commencing at 8.45 with the Grand March which was led by Mr. W. H. Towner, assistant superintendent of the motive power department of the C.N.R. at Montreal, the dance did not terminate until 3 a.m. The academy was decorated by the lodge banner and a huge headlight which showered light upon the gay scene. The grand opening represented a train approaching from a distance, the gradual increase in the power of the headlight, and the train whistle together with the rolling drums which imitated the working locomotive, created a most stirring scene.

During the evening, two prize dances were held, one being a lucky number dance, and the other a prize waltz. The dance judges were Mrs. J. D. McLillan, superintendent of this district of the C.N.R., W. H. Towner of Montreal, and N. M. Kerr, road foreman, in the lucky number dance, Miss Mae Andrews and her partner, Mr. W. Dougherty won the prize. In the prize waltz, Miss Mary Cavanaugh and Mr. Murdock Cummings won the prize, which was a silk umbrella.

At midnight dainty refreshments were served to the large number of guests, many of whom were present from other lodges in Kingston, Brockville and Trenton. Guests were present from other neighboring towns also.

Deaths and Funerals

ROBT. STEVENSON

The funeral of the late Mr. Robert Stevenson which took place yesterday afternoon was of a private nature. At the family residence West Bridge street, Rev. D. C. Ramsay, of John Street Presbyterian Church conducted services and officiated at the interment at Belleville cemetery.

YOU ARE OR YOU AREN'T

(Chicago Herald)

You cannot very well argue about being honest. If you are, you are; if you are not, you are not. And that is about all there is to it. Honesty is an instinct. A man is honest for the same reason a woman blushes. We say honesty pays, but if a man is honest only because it pays he has a poor brand of honesty.

THRILLING

"It must be thrilling to be in Washington nowadays."

"Why?"

"With so much scandal to talk about."

The dance music was dispersed by the McLaughlin Sextet of Kingston, and it proved to be very satisfactory.

Names of members of the committee which was responsible for the success of the dance is as follows:—H. A. Hogan, chairman; J. R. Cochrane, secty.-treas.; A. H. Moon, A. G. Dann; J. R. Delterfield; P. E. Kerr; Geo. Milligan; George Gulliver and W. Graham.

attaches to their reception.

Such institutions as the Royal Colonial Institute, the English-Speaking Union, the Overseas League and others have elaborate plans prepared, and the official British Committees, co-operating with them, are emphasising their purpose in tightening the bands of guest and host.

As the British pride themselves on their quickness to take into their homes, strangers on trust, so will this fine impulse be followed during the months of the Exhibition. And as the study of one's guest's interest and comfort will be thoroughly pursued, and appeals will be made to both the serious-minded and light-hearted invellers.

Tempt Grown-Ups

All the fun and nonsense of the historic English fair, magnified into vast proportions will tempt the grown-up into forgetting his years, while delighting the "kiddies". As the very word Empire suggests the scope of diversion will be limitless.

And so, society will transfer its remains from the reposeful Ranelagh and Hurlingham clubs, the stately west end hotels and even the drawing rooms of the great houses, to this enlivening Exhibition. Costume and ye chiefly suits will be given, to a great extent, in the halls of Wembley and the games and competitions will be played and fought in the giant Stadium.

"Never a dull moment., may well be the motto of this mighty enterprise and perhaps more than any other World's Fair will the tastes of women be catered for. With this view the cleverest and most imaginative women are sitting on the various committees and their voices are hearkened to, as never before.

CHARLES RAY AS CHEF AND GUIMMAI IN THIS

Of the many picturesque restaurants of the mining days that have been handed down to posterity in fiction, one has been visualized on the screen under the unsophisticated name of "The Greasy Spoon." The shakeshift food emporium of Little Butte, Mont., features in "The Dixie Handy," Charles Ray's current photoplay at the Regent Theatre. The selection of the story centers, in humorous fashion, around the acquisition of this restaurant by Ray, obviously an unsophisticated Bostonian who has come west to make his fortune.

"The Greasy Spoon" was reproduced at the studio upon exact description of one of the Nevada restaurants furnished by an old time mining man who is a permanent resident of the Hollywood screen colony. It supplies the location for a lot of humorous episodes in the picture, including the incidents in which the sister tries his hardest to make a match for the pretty girl who is his assistant at the restaurant.

"DULCY" IS GOING OVER BIG WITH GRIFFIN PATRONS

After college, what?

Marriage is not a bad climate to an ambitious lassie for a young business man, but for a photoplay it is rather an unusual beginning.

In "Dulcy" Constance Talmadge's latest comedy, the star is "married" in the very second scene of the picture.

AS "Dulcy", she marries ninth after leaving college. She plays the role of a young society girl full of the joy of living and—a sparkling personality and just the type the fans love to see Constance's portray. "Dulcy" is anxious to assist her husband in his struggles for success, but her college education is of little help in this task, and she fails, temporarily, in the end however, all ends well.

The picture is based on the big Broadway stage success of the same name and was purchased by Joseph M. Schenck especially for Constance Talmadge because it offers unusual opportunities for clean, wholesome humor and action. No efforts were spared to give Miss Talmadge the chance to create something of lasting value to this photoplay, and she has responded. It is endorsed by all viewing the picture at Griffin's Theatre.

John Emerson and Anita Loos adapted Dulcy for the screen, and Sidney A. Franklin directed the production. It is a First National picture. Miss Talmadge is surrounded by a brilliant supporting cast which includes Jack Mulhall, Claude Gillingwater, May Wilson, Johnny Harron, Annie Cornwall, Frederick Esmelton, Andre Milla Davenport.

SEE BARNEY AND SPARKY AT GRIFFIN'S THURSDAY

You mothers and fathers who feel yourselves growing old and becoming reconciled to your fate will have a chance to renew your youth, for "Barney Google and Spark Plug" are coming to town. It's a brand new musical comedy made from the funny cartoons in the newspapers and in it, transition to the stage is easy, added humor and furnishes one of the most pleasing evenings in the theatre imaginable. The piece is produced by the Cartoon Amusement Co., Inc., and they have spared no expense to make their offering a notable one. The two acts are pictorial gems, while the electrical effects are novel and original. The chorus is a feature which the management prides itself on. The girls are pretty, clever and sweet peached seen in a musical comedy in many moons. The entire production is enhanced by their beauty and vivacity, and I tell ya all "Barney Google and Spark Plug" is said to be the best entertainment of the season. Its engagement at the Griffin Theatre for one night, Thursday April 24, promises to be one of the features of the present theatrical season in this city.

MAY DO AWAY WITH SLEEP, SCIENCE SAYS

Sees Electricity As Solution Of Usual Eight Hours

TO RECHARGE CELLS

Savants Would Use Gentle Current "to Knit Up Ravelled Sleeve"

London, April 22.There may be no sleeping apartments in 2000 A.D. Science may obviate their necessity by eliminating sleep. It is already seeking a substitute for the eight hours or more of slumber that unfortunate it. Man" only expected to knit up the ravelled sleeves of care," and perform other kindly offices for the tired human organism.

Electricity, it is believed, will be that substitute. Research has demonstrated that the need of sleep is produced by an actual chemical reaction on the brain cells which drains them of their vitality. It has shown that sleep recharges these cells with new vitality.

Recharge Worn-out Cells

Dr. David Fraser Harris, the English surgeon and Dr. A. W. Crile, an eminent American scientist that these brain cell changes are electro-chemical. An English inventor is said to be working on an apparatus which he believes will recharge the worn-out by a direct electric current.

It may not be necessary, then, to wait until 2000 A.D. for the day when the tired man can restore his body as he would recharge the battery of his automobile. One simply has to stepping into an insulated room, attaches an electrical apparatus to head and wrist, recharging his brain cells, and stepping out again in ten or fifteen minutes a giant intellectually and his living 24 hours a day, adding seventeen waking years to his lifetime.

Send Them to Sleep

A famous London brain specialist comments on what has been already achieved.

"We cannot only keep people awake by electricity, we can also send them to sleep if they are wakeful. A very mild and constant current has to be used. It is also true that after the effects of electrical treatment to induce wakefulness have worn off the patient will sleep more deeply than usual, though not necessarily longer. He will awake perfectly refreshed. The use of electrical treatment draws on the reserve of energy in the brain."

EUROPE WILL BUY

(Ukhaas Dorrest Journal)

In the midst of pessimistic predictions regarding the future of Europe's buying power it is good to hear something of an encouraging nature. We quote from an address made last week by Julius H. Barnes:

"If in America," he said, "we have demonstrated that areas remote from market are made productive of commerce and lasting power by the improved communication which modern inventions themselves afford, then what is the future of those hundreds of millions of potential world buyers who are capable of human effort in the same ill given the same stimulant and the same marketing opportunity? No one who studies the development of the last sixty ten years, particularly in America, can fail to see that, with lesser degree and at a slower pace, the great populations of the world will be stimulated in production, which means buying power, and on that base will demand, inexorably, the products that America, as no other country in the world, is equipped to provide, in vast and increasing stream."

Mr. Barnes, head of the government grain corporation during the war, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, is generally regarded as one of the country's most competent students of business conditions and developments thus expresses his faith in the power of recovery that lies in the ability of the human race to take advantage of the productive capacity of improved machinery. Evidently he believes it will not be long before production records, the world over, re eclipsed, and to him production means buying.

The great industrial achievements of the human race have been built on such confident vision.

POLITICS AND PROMISES

(London Morning Post)

The vagueness in the average political catchword is, as Mr. Baldwin hinted the other night, its main characteristic and its main merit. It promises everything and yet neither binds nor exacts bones his pall, the victim pays his money, but his trouble, and the full results. The Russian worker was entranced by the music of "the dictatorship of the proletariat," and he is now starving and in chains. In fact, the political system of almost every country in the world is today based on promises—promises which are evidently drawn up and which mean nothing.

SAMMY TERRY QUITS MANAGERIAL JOB

Guelph, Ont., April 22.—The appointment of "Sammy" Terry as manager of the Guelph Maple Leafs was announced yesterday. A few weeks ago Sammy Terry, former shortstop of the Toronto Royals, was named to pilot the local senior nine, but a short time after his appointment Terry decided to give up the job and handed in his resignation. The officials of the club were strongly in favor of assuming a professional coach earlier in the season, but owing to the fact that they were unable to secure the services of the man they had lined up for the position it is understood that they have abandoned the coach idea altogether for this year. Elliott, who has had considerable baseball experience, managed the Leafs for a couple of months in 1923.

BASEBALL PRACTICE NIGHTS SELECTED

The junior baseball club officials have chosen Tuesdays and Thursdays as their practice nights during the season, and there will practice this evening at the High School grounds, providing the weather turns favorable by evening. Until such time as the diamond at the Agricultural park is in shape the juniors will hold forth at the High School grounds, and the invitation to all comers under twenty still holds good.

Champions Win From the Senators

Washington D. C. April 22.—Bush proved effective in the pinches in his first game of the season yesterday as New York defeated Washington 4 to 2 Three runs off Scripide in the first inning settled the game.

At Boston—Bammett, of Philadelphia held Boston to five hits, the visitors winning, 4 to 0. A pair of home-singles by Strand and Simmons and a wild pitch by Quinn in the first inning gave Philadelphia two runs. In the ninth, off Piercy, Hauser and Simmons doubled and the addition of a bunt and a wild pitch gave the visitors two more runs.

New York-April 23.—The New York Giants continued their winning form yesterday defeating the Boston Braves 5 to 1 in the fifth straight victory for the New York team. Jack Bentley and Jess Barnes hooked up in a great pitchers' battle, the former allowing seven hits and the latter four. The Braves' lone run was scored in the third inning, when Bancroft singled with O'Neil on second. Giants broke the game in the eighth tied the score and Frisch's triple with Groh on base in the ninth turned the fate of victory.

At Cincinnati—Alexander, after pitching great ball for eight innings, weakened and the Reds tied the score in the ninth on Roush's triple and Burns' sacrifice fly, and won in the tenth on Hill's home run. Harrawe and Pinelli, Boston wys in grand form, the only Chicago run coming in the second on a three-base mult of Grimes' by Thomas and a scratchy Fly Berg. Roush who strained his side in yesterday's game, has been ordered by his physician to remain idle for at least a week.

At St. Louis—Pounding Wilbur Cooper, star southpaw, the Cardinals defeated Pittsburgh 7 to 5. The Pirates got six runs in the fifth on four singles and a triple. The Cardinals duplicated the feat in the seventh on five singles and Blade's homer.

At Philadelphia—Brooklyn defeated Philadelphia 7 to 4, in ten innings. The third extra inning came in four player in the city this season. Beloved by the Brooklyn catcher, bit a home run in the tenth inning with two on bases, winning the game.

COBOURG STABLE IS SOLD, REPORT SAYS

Dr. Bruce De Grace, April 22—Tired Mrs. L. A. Livingston will dispose of her entire thoroughbred stallions, mares and colts, including stallions, mares and young horses, is the word brought here by H. W. Carter, of Johnstown, N. Y. Dr. Carter is acting in an advisory capacity to Mrs. Livingston. Strong in the selection of mares for his breeding farm at Johnstown, N. Y., Dr. Vinder, which Mr. Armstrong bought from H. P. Whitney, is pointed out by Dr. Carter says he is a handsome individual, he looks about 1,200 pounds. There are 20 mares and 15 yearlings on the Armstrong scrub.

Seven of the mares were bought from H. P. Whitney, and another is a full sister to Mad Hatter and Mad Play, sire by Mad Hatter from Sweetheart.

Dr. Carter was associated with the Rancocas stud of Mrs. Livingston and has established a land and good horses as Fitzherbert, Dalmation and Love Tie.

LEAFS WIN FROM SKEETERS AGAIN

Southpaw Duel Over in Eighth When Skeeters Hurler Weakens Badly

Jersey City, April 22.—There appears to be no let up in the series of defeats that are being recorded for Jimmie Wilkes and his Jersey City Skeeters. Yesterday afternoon Dan Howley's Toronto Maple Leafs racked up another to the unbroken string of Jersey City reverses by emerging from this second battle with an 8-to-1 victory. For seven innings the locat lads fought valiantly to decide the final result, but in the eighth chapter Rube Zellers, the Jersey City southpaw, weakened badly, and Toronto profited to the extent of six runs from a flock of four singles, a triple, no errors and a base on balls, removing all doubt as to the final result.

It was too cold for baseball. A strong east wind swept over the field making it decidedly uncomfortable for fans and players. The wind made it difficult for the pitchers to control the ball, thus accounting for the unusual number of passes. Zellers being charged with eight free trips, and Stewart, the visiting twirler, with four. There was a lot of hard hitting, Toronto getting to Zellars' delivery for ten safe taps, one a triple, and a double, while the Skeeters' five safeties embraced a pair of doubles by Red Holt. Toronto's perfect support to their pitcher, while a brace of three errors behind Stewart figured in as many Toronto credits.

GIRLS! BEAT THIS

Toronto, April 22.—Rolling at the Dovercourt alleys last night in the single tourney, Violet Teasdale bowled what is believed to be a ladies' city five-six record when she bowled 342. She had seven strikes and a spare.

In the afternoon rolling at the Lucky Strike alleys in the ingles tourney, Miss Teasdale bowled 272.

"Ben" Ezzo, last year manager of Jersey City team, will act as referee to Manager Stanley Harris, of the Washington team. Ben will coach the pitchers.

STALLINGS "BRAGGING"

Toronto, April 23.—Manager George Stallings says that his Rochester ball team this year is a wonderful club, and he can see nothing to it, but the pennant. He claims that his pitching staff is the best that he has had in his thirty years of baseball, with Witner, Moore, Karpp and Beall being his aces. Outfielder Griffin can hit .353 in any league, and that Cowboy and Drew are just as good, according to Stallings, who declares that his outfield is much better than last season, when he only had Archdeacon.

Baltimore, Md., April 22.—Syracuse crossed the aeries with Baltimore yesterday, winning the second game 6 to 4. Parks held the Orioles to five hits, three of which were gathered in the first two innings. The Stars, after being held safe in the first two innings by Jackson, bit at opportune times during the remainder of the game touching Jackson, Greene and Frank in the pinches. It was the Birds' first loss.

"LOP-SIDED" RECORD

Newark, N.J., April 22.—By defeating the Newark Bears here yesterday afternoon the Rochester Hustlers approached the world's record for making runs by winning, 29 to 2. The hustlers have got to suffer defeat this year. Merkle's homer with two on and Heckteroth's homer with the bases

Reading, Pa., April 22.—Buffalo defeated Reading here, 3 to 1, in the first game of a double-header but lost the second, 2 to 1. Martin banned nine men in the opener and gave but three hits, all in the third inning, when Buffalo scored both its runs. Reading won the second game in the seventh, when Fred Thomas committed two errors.

ENCOURAGE MINING

The people of Ontario should note that the Province leads in mineral production for 1923 with a total of $79,916,836; British Columbia coming next with $44,143,200; the other provinces also ran. This prove why the people should encourage mining and share in its profits.

AN ARGUMENT FOR SAVING

Brockville Recorder and Times: Twenty or more 20 years ago because the cost of living crept back to its old-time level supposing that it ever will. That's just about when old age will be creeping up to the door of the gardless of how far the cost of living will finally drop, the dollar saved now will be worth much more later on buying power.

ENLIGHTENING

Absolute knowledge I have none.
But my aunt's washerwoman's sister

Heard a laborer in the street
Say to a policeman on his beat,
That he had a letter just last week,
Written in the finest Greek,
From a Chinese coolie in Timbuctoo,
Who said that the negroes in Cuba

Of a colored man in a Texas town,
Who got it straight from a circus clown,
That a man in the Klondike heard the

From a sang of South American Jews,
About somebody in Borneo,
Who heard a man that claimed to know,
Of a swell society female fake,
Who's mediocrities all undertake,
To prove that her seventh husband's niece,
Has stated in a printed piece,
That she has a son who has a friend,
Who knows when the Irish war will end.

MISTRESS APRIL

Is tripping down the lane,
And singing to the gardens
I am going to bring you rain
And she is calling to the tulips
And the pansies in a row
Get busy, pretty children,
It is time for you to grow.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT STAND

Says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

Glens Falls, N. Y.—" For over two months I was so sick I was not able to be dressed or get out on my feet, and my husband did my housework. The doctor said an operation might be necessary, I read testimonial letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take it. Before I had finished taking the first bottle I saw that good it was doing me. I am now well and strong, doing all my work for a family of six, and my sewing, and my sewing, which I think is remarkable, as I had not done a bit on my sewing machine, but had done all my sewing by hand. I truly feel that I owe it not for my own medicine I would not be here today as many can testify to the same."—Mrs. THOMAS W. BURCHELL, Glens Falls, N. Y.

EGGS LOUISIANA

Combine 1 cup condensed tomato soup with 3-4 cup cold water, 1 cup stale bread crumbs, 1-2 cup canned peas, and one small onion grated. Pour this mixture into a greased baking dish, break four eggs carefully on top, sprinkle with salt and pepper, cover lightly with grated cheese, and bake till eggs are set. Any left-over vegetable may be used instead of the peas and the whole may be baked in individual ramekins.

Sulphur Clears Rough, Red Skin

FACE, NECK AND ARMS EASILY MADE SMOOTH, SAYS SPECIALIST

Any breaking out of the skin, even ferry, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its great healing properties, this summer preparation begins at once to relieve irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

PRACTICAL COMMONSENSE
(Cape Argus)

The world is not to be saved or nations governed by such sounding phrases, elaborate formulas, and big words. Catchwords have their day and cease to be. They fool some people for a time, but they cannot fool all the people all the time. There is no magical verbal formula which has only to be repeated often enough, eloquently enough, or noisily enough to exercise all the devils that trouble mankind. Virtue does not lie in a repetition of sentences, even though they happen to be as full of good sense as an egg is of meat but in practical expression of good sense on the ordinary plane of living.

ROSLIN

The Rev. A. O. MacDonald, M. A., B. D., having resigned his pastoral connections with the Presbyterian churches of Roslin, Fuller and Thurlow preached his farewell sermons on Sunday at each appointment

On Monday evening, Rev. and Mrs. MacDonald were pleasantly surprised when they were invited over to the C.O.O.F. Hall where a large gathering of friends from Fuller, Thurlow and Roslin had assembled to bid them farewell before leaving for their new home at Tecumseh. M. and Mrs. MacDonald were asked to come forward and an address was read by Dr. W. C. Morgan and two handsome leather chairs were presented by D. F. Leslie and C. Chapman. Mr. MacDonald on behalf of Mrs. MacDonald and himself gave a very able address of appreciation. Mr. Wm. Moore, on behalf of the session also gave an address and several others gave short addresses.

Refreshments were served and after singing "God be with You till we meet again", the company broke up.

On Tuesday evening, the young people of the community gathered at the Hall for a social evening spent in games and music. Misses Carolyn and Jean and Master Roddy MacDonald were asked to come to the platform and an address was read and a purse presented. Refreshments were served and fancywits were spoken.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

Esther nodded. "Yes; what—an unpleasant-looking man! That did he want?"

"Only some tobacco," he replied. "He was asking the way to Stanaker, and I was trying to tell him; that is what kept me. Those forgive me!"

"Was he a tramp? He scarcely looked like one."

"Oh, no; I think not; a tourist or something of the kind, I should say," said Selby Layton, carelessly, as he laid the flowers on the seat beside her and glanced at her with tender devotion.

CHAPTER XXI.

Jack did not attach much importance to Mrs. Martin's mysterious stranger, for he knew how slight a thing upset her nerves; but he took a look round, before turning in, as he had promised to do. There was, however, no one about, and he went home to the cottage and wearily completed his packing.

It was nearly enough, and only one thing lingered him: the pocket-book containing the notes and the marriage certificate which he had picked up during his pursuit of Denzil, the ranger. The possession of this property had often caused him a troubled quarter of an hour, and he had had an easy conscience over it. The pocket-book and its contents belonged to the ranger, and he ought to have placed it in the hands of the police or advertised it; but he was convinced that Denzil had dropped it, and he was reluctant to let such a clue go out of his hands, for he felt that some day or other he should meet the scoundrel again and square accounts with him.

POINCARE ACCEPTS REPARATIONS PLAN

Will Speed Up Parleys To Start Scheme Working, He Tells Barthou

Paris, April 22.—Accepted by the French Government of the reparations experts' report as a basis for a new reparation settlement has been formally registered with the reparations commission in the form of a letter from Premier Poincare to Louis Barthou, president of the commission.

Guarantees First.

The Premier makes no reservations in his acceptance, but points out that the French Government supposes it is understood that all the details incurring realization of the guarantees the experts propose will be effected by the Allies before the Premier is called upon to give up the pledges they now hold.

Mr. Poincare in his letter tells M. Barthou he hopes the commission will with all diligence proceed with the necessary preliminary negotiations for putting the experts' plan into operation, intimating that this is necessary before the Allied Governments can get together and settle such questions affecting the plan as may depend upon them.

This is supposed to refer to eventual penalties in case of default by Germany in carrying out her engagements under the experts' plan.

MENTAL SCIENCE IS DEMONSTRATED

Professor Marcel Andre Gives Address on Power of Mind Over Body

Inclement weather was the cause of the small audience which greeted Professor Marcel Andre, of Paris, France, lecturer, exponent and teacher of mental science, and the philosophy of Dr. Emile Coue, the man who coined the wonderful sentence, "Day by Day, in every way, I am feeling better and better."

For twenty-five years Professor Andre has taught this mental science and has been around the world on this mission almost three times. He was at the City Hall last evening where he gave an address on the power of mind over the body, or the power of autosuggestion. In a clear cut lecture, Professor Andre showed how the mind controls each nerve, organ, muscle and function of the human body. When a person gets nerves a parlor filled with strangers, the blushes, the blood rushes to her cheeks, because her mind has influenced her body. Similarly a doctor, such as breaking the news of death to a person, causes their face to become pale, their heart to beat more rapidly, and their hands and body to tremble.

Become What You Think

Similarly a sick person, if told he has small chances for recovery, will invariably die, because he believes that what his physician has told him is true, and he believes that he is dying. On the other hand, if anyone becomes determined that they are not going to die, or convince themselves that they are recovering, they will recover. Professor Andre demonstrated how a headache might be cured, and stated that such ailments as St. Vitus Dance, stammering, self-consciousness, some forms of paralysis, nervousness, asthma sleeplessness and dyspepsia, may also be permanently cured.

Other Uses Also

Auto-suggestion has also been successfully used in industrial schools of France where apparently chronic conditions found among sons of criminals, have been permanently cured by the idea, auto-suggestion will correct defective children, and habits, he said, will cure intemperance, also smoking and the drug habits.

Practical Demonstration

Giving a practical demonstration at the conclusion of the lecture, Professor Andre had members of the audience suffering from weak eyes, remove their glasses and close their eyes, after they had read a letter chart and noted the number of the line which gave them difficulty to read.

After their eyes were closed, the Professor began: "Day by day in every way your eye sight is becoming better and better; every day I know that your eyesight will be brighter, clearer and better, and that there will be improvement step along. The brain centre at the back of your head is strengthening the cerebral nerve back to your eyes, and this will cause your eyesight to improve, improve, improve. Open your eyes."

Then the chart was again produced and about half of the members of the audience who were trying the experiment reported that they could see much better than when the first test was made before. One man who is hard of hearing refused to undergo the experiment, which would work equally well for the correction of any nerve which was not normal, the Professor explained.

Miracle Examples

Mr. MacKenzie, secretary to Professor Andre then gave a demonstration. When discovered in Vancouver two years ago by the Professor, MacKenzie walked with the aid of two crutches as a result of hip disease. Now he walks without even the assistance of a cane. He dances and plays with ease and his left leg which was three inches shorter according to a measurement made by a physician reads, "It will finally become of equal length", asserted MacKenzie.

"I visited Professor Andre on crutches, and asked for a cure. He said, 'You can cure yourself when I show you how'. After several weeks of auto-suggestion, MacKenzie sat on the dock watching swimmers and noticed that he could again swim as he did when a boy. He said to himself, 'I can swim without those crutches,' so he threw them into the sea, and walked home. I have improved ever since that time," he exclaimed.

To-day and to-night Professor Andre is holding a class of instruction at Queen's hotel, where the first three lessons will be taught to those who enroll to-day. Anyone desiring to interview the Professor to-day may do so by making an appointment with Mr. MacKenzie.

FARMERS PROTEST AGAINST PAY BILL

Keep Profit Up With Cost, Union Council Urges British Commons

London, April 22.—The Council of the National Farmers' Union at a meeting in London today endorsed a resolution by the labor committee of the council calling on the House of Commons to refuse to give second reading to any bill for the compulsory regulation of agricultural wages unless such bill provided that the farmer should be able to secure sufficient return for his produce to meet the cost of production.

It was agreed by the council that in the event of second reading being given to a bill for the fixing of agricultural workers amendments thereto should be drafted immediately with a view to securing the retention of the principle of voluntary collective bargaining between the organizations of the farmers and farm workers.

The Government's agricultural wages bill, embodying the principle of a compulsory minimum wage to be fixed by district boards, was read for the first time in the House of Commons last Monday.

Station-to-Station Long Distance orders receive the immediate attention of our Special Telephone Order Service.

If you can add:—

Deduct the cost of the telephone message from your next invoice

—so much the better.

The customer is made to realize that you are always ready to serve him promptly; that you have a genuine convenience service that will give him quick and satisfactory service. He recognizes that he will not have to ask for a particular person, to get good service.

If the cost of the message is to be deducted from your invoice, that reduces the cost to you.

Investigation convinces us that many customers who would gladly telephone their orders do not do so largely because they do not know that satisfactory arrangements exist for filling such orders promptly.

Jackie Starts Big Milk Drive

Traffic cops of San Francisco had one of the hardest days on record recently when Jackie Coogan, boy film star, started his nation wide drive for a million dollar ship load of food stuffs for the Near East Relief by a personal appeal to San Francisco's people from the steps of the Civic centre.

Busy business men halted to get a glimpse of the youthful star. Armies of children appeared as if out of the air and frenzied mothers and nurse maids struggled to get their small charges close to the platform where Jackie stood. In almost no time the entire square was filled with humanity, all the side streets were blocked and traffic completely tied up.

Assisted by the San Francisco Boy Scouts Jackie spent two hours receiving donations of condensed milk and money to buy food for the hungry orphans of the Near East. A group of police guard was in attendance.

Following the San Francisco campaign Jackie will make a tour of the country holding similar drives in all the principal cities ending with New York in the latter part of the summer. Then Jackie, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Coogan, will sail with his family to deliver the gifts in the name of American children to the Near East Relief orphanages in Syria, Palestine and Armenia. In all ten weeks will be required for the trip.

FLAY LEADER WITH MOTION OF SOCIALISM

Independents at York Table Censure For British Premier

DOING BEST HE CAN

But Will Not Always Obey, Macdonald Tells Them; Work is Difficult

York, Eng., April 22.—The Independent Labor Party convention today tabled a resolution condemning Premier Ramsay Macdonald for his failure to carry out socialistic principles in the Government.

"We are doing the best we can," Macdonald told the convention. "But I cannot assure you we will always do what you want us to do. The great thing we have not to do is to improve public opinion of the whole world that a Labor Government is a good, practical thing.

The work is hard—difficult. It is not easy to take Europe by the ear. I do not know how long we are going to be in office. I do not care, as long as we do good work."

Living Cost Main Issue

Minister of Health John Wheatley, addressing the convention, said that the cost of living is the dominant factor in British industry. Yet capitalists of industry do not trouble themselves to determine what influences the cost of living." He continued:

"We might at any moment be in danger of being made an American dependency should we threaten to become a serious menace to the industrial captains of that country. The only solution is national organization of our food supplies."

Extremists Stirred

York, Eng., April 22—Premier Macdonald's speech Saturday has stirred the extremist elements of the Independent Labor Party, which opened its annual conference here yesterday, and it is said likely that the Premier, who was formerly the party's chairman, would meet some severe heckling when he faces to-day's session.

In his address Saturday he advocated taking the reparation experts' report as a whole and putting it into operation at once.

Mr. Macdonald did not attend yesterday's meeting, at which his attitude regarding reparations was subjected to much adverse criticism, and the need of "carrying out" the Labor Government was generally emphasized.

Bolder Acts at Power

An anti-reparationist vote was only defeated by a narrow majority.

"Enormously bold use of power for socialistic measures and administration" was urged by the chairman, Clifford Allen, who demanded "application of socialistic principles to the reorganization of the nation's industries and economic life."

The party executive adopted a motion in favor of one unified socialist international, to include Moscow.

HORN CHARMS LIONS

Triple Tongue Feats Leave Them Spellbound; German Doctor Wins

Berlin, April 22.—If Dr. Max Sodarie is successful in charming the music critics with his cornet playing as he was in taming Hagenbeck's lions he should have a great career on the concert stage.

The doctor, who is a natural scientist as well as a cornet virtuoso, recently decided he would overcome stage fright for all time by giving a concert in a lion's cage at Hamburg.

Hagenbeck's lion tamers declined to assume responsibility for his safety, but finally consented to let him enter the circus den of feats of his own risk. As he began to play, the lions at first exhibited surprise and enlived at him suspiciously, but when he began his trapeze-tossing feats on the horn they stood on their hind legs, and finally retreated in defeat to the corners of the cage.

PASSING THE BUCK TO THE CHILDREN

It is pleasing to note that the Dominion Government is at last taking some notice of the perilous condition of the Canadian forests, even if its first efforts are puerile, childish and ineffective. In offering prizes to school children for the best essays on Forest Protection, the Government is running true to form and, as usual, starting at the wrong end of the proposition. By the time the Government gets the children educated on the necessity of forest protection there will, if it continues its present policy, be no forests left to protect.

It is not the children who are responsible for the forest fires and for the lack of proper measures of conservation, but the grown-ups and the government is itself the greatest offender. It is not the children who require educating but rather the members of the government themselves.

Asking the school children to invent ways of saving the forests is in line with the appointment of a Royal Commission on Pulpwood to give the Government an excuse for not performing its obvious duty. Both are purely camouflage, adopted in the hope that the people will be fooled into believing that the government is sincerely interested in doing something for the perpetuation of our forests, while at the same time it is permitting their wanton exploitation by foreign interests and allowing them to take from Canada thirty-five million nature trees every year. To replace this annual drain on Canada's forests would require the planting every year of four trees by more than eight million people who would then have to fight fire, insects and fungi, and pay more interest for a period of fifty years as well.

The government is willing to do anything except to adopt the simplest, most practicable and most efficacious means for conserving our pulpwood, that of stopping this foreign exploitation.

Instead of trying to educate the children by offering cheap prizes let the government educate its own members into a knowledge of what the situation requires and what the Canadian people are demanding of them.

WHAT IS YOUR BIG IDEA?

A slang phrase is often an epigram. Peering beneath its apparently meaningless grouping of words one discovers an expression of clearness, conciseness and apt-ed truth. There is the question asked so frequently and so casually as to seem almost trivial, "What is the big idea?"

But suppose each of us asked himself this question seriously and searchingly. Every life depends for success and usefulness on the nature of the thought which rules it. The artist, the writer, the musician, the philanthropist, the merchant, the college president—each has found or shall find his true place in life in the nature of the idea that dominates it.

Man is cowardly or heroic, worthless or useful, wretched or happy, by strike one test—what is the big idea?

KEEPING ON IS WHAT COUNTS

Almost anyone can work hard when he can see results. Results are encouraging, stimulating, inspiring.

The last comes when no results are visible, no effect is apparent, when the effort seems futile.

Can you keep on working when work seems barren?

Columbus could. His crew was discouraged, skeptical, wanted to turn back, tried to mutiny. Columbus drove them on, and what is more important, drove himself.

For many long weeks Columbus, but there on the lonely, stormy sea, could see no results.

If Columbus had been the type of man who can work only when he sees results, Columbus would not have found the western hemisphere.

While only results spur on the multitudes, faith drives on the Columbus and Washington, whatever the field, whatever the labor.

The man who believes in his work, finds the encouragement, the stimulation, the inspiration in his own sane mind, his own flaming heart, and he drives on, and ever on, careless of to-day's results, but assured of the final goal.

After all, the results that come quickly and easily are the little results. The results that come late are the great results. And the more difficult the goal, the more is it worth the effort.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man who encourages the person who wants to give him something for nothing is usually riding for a Fall.

There seems to be no way of dodging the ballot in the municipalities who pleaded to the fad of plucking the eyebrows.

Sometimes a man does not realize that he is on the down grade until he discovers that the brakes do not work.

UP AGAINST IT

(Hamilton Herald)

Science which has been trying for some years to discover the origin of everyday things, is up against it when asked to explain Professor McLennan of the University of Toronto. The Professor has invented a "thing" and "thingtone". The two parts making off the atomic motion, acknowledges that science cannot create such things. And has been forced to take the position that they were created by some power beyond.

In other words, science's lone trail has led to the discovery of God.

NEILAN FILMS SCENES IN ST. QUENTIN PENITENTIARY

"Fools First" produced by Marshall Neilan for Associated First National release, will open a three day engagement at the Regent Theatre tomorrow. It is based on the Saturday Evening Post story by Hugh McNair Kahler and the scenario is written by Richard Dix. Claude Gillingwater and Claire Windsor.

The production is noted for its fidelity to life and is remarkable also for it was actually taken within the walls of San Quentin penitentiary in California, the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco, the show place of the Golden Gate city, and the First National Bank of Hollywood, Cal.

The picture has been made with a master hand and contains many incidents of unusually high dramatic power. It is a startling insight into unrelated and underworld realism with Neilan's touch of dramatic intensity.

The marvelous beauty of the silent vast spaces of the frozen Canadian northland is the background for the emotive Metro spectacle "The Eternal Struggle" which is coming to the Griffin Theatre on Friday and Saturday. It was produced by Reginald Barker, credited with being the greatest director for this kind of pictures in the entire film world.

There are many thrilling episodes in "The Eternal Struggle" that will remain unrivaled for a long time. With great interest he himself and his group of players he took with him as well as at great expense, Mr. Barker spent many months in the bitter cold of the Arctic Circle filming the scenes, scenes showing glorious days and bustling rapids.

"The Eternal Struggle" is a Metro-Louis B. Mayer presentation adapted by L. G. Hawks and Jules Furthman from G. B. Lancaster's novel, "The Law-Bringers." It was photographed by Percy Hilburn.

GREATEST CARTOON COMEDY IS "BARNEY GOOGLE"

Distinctively different in every department of its production and staging from the usual cartoon musical comedy, is the Cartoon Comedy Co., Inc. offering of "Barney Google and Spark Plug" to be presented at the Griffin Theatre on Wednesday, April 23. Billy K. Wells, the author, Clarence Billy Palsey, the composer, soon to life by writing a book in two acts around the characters in the original wit, humor and perplexing situations, for Barney Google and his "spark plug."

William K. Wells, who has a number of Broadway successes to his credit, namely George White's Scandals, Ted Lewis' Revue and Harry Delmar's Revels, Vilray Zollo, is responsible for the book, and Con Conrad, author of the biggest song hit of the year, "Barney Google," is the author of the lyrics.

The cartoon musical comedy out of the run of mediocrity and putting it on a plane that commands the respect and attention of the discriminating theatre-goer has been the work of Cartoon Amusement Co., when they produced "Barney Google and Spark Plug."

An exceptionally elaborate and artistic stage equipment was the Cartoon Amusement Co's. first thought. Personality talent, and originality in the selection of the members of the company were the essentials necessary to an engagement. Ability was the requisite in selecting the cast, and in "Barney Google and Spark Plug they are justly proud to announce to a patient public that this light cartoon musical farce success is a revelation and marks an epoch in musical comedy history. The theatre patron today wants novelty and fast, clean comedy in musical entertainment. They also want beauty in the chorus, all thinly costumed, in the chorus, all this and more will be found in this most elaborate production.

Our hired girl has left us, an' it's been put up to me to help out with the house work so as far as I can see since I'm a lovin' husband, I'll respect my fair one's wishes an' scrub the porch, an' scrub th' floor, an' help her with the dishes. I might go on to mention since its spring house-cleanin' time she's given me that 'wholesome lay' of chasin' dust an' grime, an' then on top of all of this, a plenty goodness knows she had me in the cellar Monday washin 'out the clothes. The skin's all off my knuckles, that's a sad fact to record I've learned by experience how to rub clothes on a board. Let's see, at first you sprtal 'em out, an' rub 'em good with soap an' then you rub the dirt out on th' board, ain't that th' dope? I spose there's tricks to every trade at least that's what they say an' here's new one for you that I used the other day. To really do a washin' right accordin' to my notion that rubbin' action should supress the pestry of modern An' while one is engaged in this essential occupation why not have an' entertainment from some broadcastin' station? The choice of music for this work must be exactly right an' then those rubber ear-muffs should be dumped on pretty tight. The contest time was much too fast an' waits time pretty slow but with the music I'm to fond to let the suds began to flow. I kept time to the music till the clothes were free from dirt, an' I'm telling folks as a washer I kin sling a wicked shirt.

Council Favors Move For Hydro

At the Council meeting last night the following motion re water powers of the St. Lawrence was unanimously adopted.

BE IT RESOLVED that the Municipal Council of the city of Belleville, loyalist to the Government of the Dominion of Canada an expression of their united desire that the Government of any of the interests of the people of the Province of Ontario in the water powers of the Niagara, Ottawa and the St. Lawrence Rivers be developed by or, in any way, to pass under the control of private or corporate interests or public interests other than the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario or the Municipalities, would be in course of events greatly prejudicial to the interest of the people of the Province of Ontario and a condition, furthermore, which would be intolerable to the Municipalities of Ontario that have made such extensive investments in their hydro-electrical undertaking, and, moreover, that any such action would be a grievance to the huge the municipalities have confidently laid that the development navigation and water-power potentialities of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers and the remaining water-power of the Niagara River would be developed for general service of the people.

Father of Slain Taxi Man Shoots Down Man Charged With Son's Death

Chicago, April 23.—Justice was robbed of its cloak of blindness, the fate of Jack Rose, scheduled to be tried today, was sealed when a thirty man stepped up to the accused as he was being led from the courtroom today and fired two shots at close range. Rose died a few minutes later.

The slayer was the father of Frank Sesson, one of the defendants in the trial, June 6 for whose killing Rose and Jerry Wylie must answer.

The trial had been continued by Judge Wylie just before the shooting of Rose.

To Darken Hair Apply Sage Tea

LOOK YOUNG! BRING BACK ITS NATURAL COLOR, GLOSS AND ATTRACTIVENESS

Common gardens sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked hair dark and beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will restore a prepossession if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the sage tea and sulphur at home is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready to use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell you've done it, since it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hair has disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

rant was then issued for her arrest, and upon arrival of the local police department the woman was arrested in a fashionable Toronto hotel by Toronto detectives, who had been searching for her for two months. She was using an alias, the hotel roster showed.

Later it developed that during her short stay in the Queen city, Mrs. Beck had victimized a Yonge street shop in a similar manner, and it was on this charge that she was sentenced to Mercer reformatory by Magistrate Hutterson.

It is believed that the man whom she claims to be her husband, openly claims that she is not his wife, and he has nothing whatever to do with her.

Henry Winnett, President

Busy Day At Police Court

Henry Gibson, aged 57, of Bloomfield, always believed to be an excellent type of citizen by the citizens of Bloomfield town, where he was Justice of the Peace for a time, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Provincial constable Norman Maker of the city, on an unsavoury public charge. He was remanded to Picton jail for eight days when he appeared this morning.

Gibson, who is an expert painter and paper hanger, does not work steadily, and the officer with whom he is charged is one which but shows the shocking and deplorable frailties of human nature. The evidence of four Bloomfield youths all under sixteen, who have made statements which are in the hands of the Provincial constable, will convict accused, it is believed.

Car Owner Fined

James Collins pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving in police court this morning and was fined $10, and costs of $23.25 which he paid. Collins must also pay for repairs to the police car which he damaged when he collided with it at the corner of Ashley and Station streets.

When Collins appeared the morning following the crash, he was charged with driving a car while under the influence of liquor. Yesday the charge was reduced and accused pleaded guilty. Sergeant Dan Boyd, who was driving the police car, was enroute back to the station after having answered a call, and turned on Station street from Ashley street. A buggy which was travelling on Station street obscured the police car from Collins' view, according to his statement. The police car was struck in the rear, and both machines were damaged, Collin's car being badly damaged in the front, the police car being dented in the back and a spoke in the rear wheel broken. Collins and the officer had a heated arguemnt, and Collins was arrested on a charge of being drunk in charge of a car. Admitting having had a drink of rhubarb wine, Collins insisted that he was sober, and ordered that a physician sent to the station to examine him as to sobriety. Dr. G. S. Cronk came down and examined him that night.

Fight at Shannonville

Except on Fair day, Shannonville always presents a most peaceful and quiet appearance to the motorists who whiz through in large numbers. Last Saturday night for was it Sunday morning? at the midnight hour anyway, the natives were treated to a fight exhibition, which lead to the arrest of Bertram Fuller of that village yesterday afternoon by Inspector Francis Napban and Sergeant of Provincial Police D. Aikins of this city, on an assault charge. A Shannonville man named Pringle, is the complainant, and was the target of Fuller's assault.

Tuesday, Fuller appeared in Deseronto police court before Magistrate Henry Bedford, having been taken to that village from Belleville this morning by Inspector Napban and Sergeant Aikins. County Attorney B. C. Donnan conducted the prosecution.

It is believed that an over dose of that spring tonic, Red Iron and wine caused the fighing spirit to arise in Fuller.

The two officers experienced difficulty in arresting Fuller. Going to Shannonville yesterday they searched his home, but were informed that he was at work at Point Ann. The officers took up a position on the Kingston highway, and stopped every car which came from the Point, until they finally located Bertram returning from work in an automobile.

Head Stuffed By Catarrh? Use A Healing Cream

If your nostrils are clogged, your throat distressed, or your head is stuffed by nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing inflamed, swollen membranes and you get instant relief.

How good it feels. Your nostrils are open. Your head is clear. No more hawking, snuffling, dryness or struggling for breath. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from any druggist. Colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up. Relief is sure.

Deaths and Funerals

RICHARD WHITE

Although in ill health for some time death came rather suddenly last evening to Richard Richard White, a well-known resident of Corbyville. Deceased who was a carpenter by trade, had been for many years engaged with the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company at their plant at Corbyville. Deceased was 81 years of age and was born in Sidney Township and had resided in this locality all his life, where he had many friends. Mr. White was a member of the Methodist Church and was a member of Moira Lodge A.F. and A.M. of this city. A widow, one son William and four daughters survive. The daughters are Mrs. George Moman and Mrs. Edith Bebry of Belleville, Mrs. Florence McFeate of Toronto and Miss Lillian at home. A brother, Charles resides in Thurlow. Deceased was an uncle of Ald. R. F. White of this city.

Dr. Merritt Of Imperial Bank Is Dead

Vice-President Passes After Illness Due to War Rigors

St. Catharines, April 23.—Lieut.-Colonel the Hon. William Hamilton Merritt, M.D., vice-president of the Imperial Bank of Canada, died at his home, Rodman Hall, here at 10.30 yesterday morning after an illness of several weeks, due largely to his experiences overseas. He spent six months in France in charge of the 14th Battery during the strenuous life in the Ypres-Lens sector.

Through the latter part of the war he was in charge of a section of the Military Hospital at Orpington, England.

He was a qualified physician, having finished his training in Edinburgh, but he practiced for several years in St. Catharines, but retired to look after the interests of his uncle, the late Thomas E. Merritt, upon his death 17 years ago. He was in his 69th year.

Was Former Mayor

Colonel Merritt was a former alderman and mayor of St. Catharines, and was also a director of the Niagara Falls Suspension Bridge Company, Security Loan and Savings Company, Mercantile Trust Company and National Life Assurance Company.

He is survived by his widow, one son, Thomas; one daughter, Mrs. Merton Seymour two sisters, Mrs. Catharine Welland Merritt and Mrs. Douglas Gordon, and two brothers, Captain John C. and J. Prescott Merritt, all of this city.

Home Bank

behind the scenes of Home Bank affairs was produced by Liquidator G. T. Clarkson before the McKeown Royal Commission.

Statement after significant statement was given by Mr. Clarkson and his evidence coupled by sidelights thrown on the case by K. C. Thomas White's correspondence pertaining to the bank affairs from 1916 until 1922 made the inquiry thickly studded with high lights.

"Padded" the Profits

Mr. Clarkson produced figures that alleged that the bank officials had "padded" the profits in their reports to the Dominion Government. Mr. Clarkson claimed that unearned dividends were paid. He brought out that C. A. Barnard of Montreal, a director, had drawn $75,000 excess commission on the sale of the Banque International Stock to the Home Bank.

Sir Thomas White's files showed that Hon. Mr. Crerar, representing the Western Grain Growers Association, on the bank's Board of Directors had talked the Government Finance Department by a letter of assurance as to the quality of the bank and had highly colored its outlook for the future.

Throws Brighter Light

The former Finance Minister in his official statement placed himself at the disposal of the commission. The sum total of testimony and data submitted threw a brighter light on the position of the White Finance Department in the Home Bank affairs and emphasized the difficulties placed in the way of any chances to uncover the true state of affairs of being exerted.

The Standard among Cars of Quality

THE marked preference for McLaughlin-Buick Master-Sixes among Canadians who drive cars of the better class is noticeable to even the casual observer and is confirmed by official motor car registrations.

This supremacy of McLaughlin-Buick is due to the fact that year after year McLaughlin-Buick engineers are pioneers in the developing and adopting of new features of design, construction and equipment so that McLaughlin-Buick cars are at least two years in advance of the accepted standard.

Four-wheel Brakes, new body design, more powerful and automatically lubricated motor and many other improvements establish a still higher standard for "Canada's Standard Car".

WORRIED MOTHERS

Many times you worry and wonder why your dear little ones do not enjoy perfect Health.

Has it ever occurred to you that the cause of their imperfect Health is Nerve Impingement at the Spinal Column.

This Nerve Impingement may be caused by a slight spinal curvature that without doubt must be corrected at once, or the condition will become more serious in later years or the Impingement may be caused by a single displaced segment of the spine interfering with the normal nerve function to some vital organ.

The future perfect Health of your child depends upon your decision to have their spine examined while they are young and all abnormal conditions that are found adjusted.

Spinal examination cheerfully given at any time by calling at my office, or Telephone 1164J for appointment.

THAW

His mother, an old lady in black, with her black veil raised from her face, was about 15 feet away, apparently nonplussed at her son's actions.

And Suddenly Flees

As suddenly as he approached the reporters, Thaw turned his back on them and fled, leaving his mother sitting with a woman companion in one of the spectators' seats.

By this time, the courtroom was in an uproar. Attorneys were talking animatedly among themselves and the spectators who remained were gaping at the scene.

Court attendants dashed to the press table and commanded everybody reporters included, to get out of the courtroom "and get out quickly." Under protest, the reporters were ordered from the courtroom.

Efforts to find Thaw were unavailing. He had disappeared as quickly as he had appeared at the press table.

DISH-WASHER OFF TO COLLECT 20 MILLIONS

Albany, N.Y., April 23.—Robert P. Springer, known to patrons of an Albany lunch room as "Smiling Bob," dish-washer, quit his job yesterday and last night was aboard a train bound for Wilmington, Del., to collect $10,907,760 as his share of litigation against the city of Wilmington for land upon which that municipality is built.

The land lease, according to Springer, dates back to the eighteenth century and was executed by his great, grandfather, Christopher Springer.

Two sisters and a brother, a Supreme Court justice in the west, Springer said, will divide the rest money, $30,000,000 in all, with him.

LET GERMANY PAY FRANCE'S DEBT TO U.S.

Paris Temps Proposes Possible Solution Semi-Officially

ALTER BRITISH PACT

London Not Being Justly Treated in Payments, Says Newspaper

Paris, April 23.—Suggestion that Germany be compelled to pay France's war debt to the United States was among three "possibilities" suggested by the semi-official newspaper Temps to-day.

For several days this influential newspaper has been agitating the war debt question in connection with a reparation settlement. It indicates that the French Government is anxious to have the debt issue brought up if an international conference is held to discuss reparations upon the basis of the Dawes plan.

Two Other Solutions

Two other "possibilities" mentioned by Temps were:

1—Postponement of payment of the French debt until Germany completes her indemnity payments.

2—Revision of the Anglo-American debt funding agreement.

Commenting on the question, the Temps said:

"Having confidence in President Coolidge's benevolent and generous intentions toward France, the French should put off discussion of Inter-Allied debts to America until after the election in the United States.

Unjust to Britain

"It is regrettable that debts among the European nations were not regulated. It is unjust that England should pay her debt to the United States without assurance she will receive the amounts due to herself from the Allies.

"Premier Ramsay MacDonald is ignoring the Russian debt in the European-Russian negotiations. If this conference succeeds, it will establish the principle of repudiation of international debts because an honest debtor cannot be treated worse than a blackmailer."

METHOD CLAIMED TO HARNESS SUN'S HEAT

San Francisco, April 23.—Marcel Moreau of San Francisco today announced he had found a way of harnessing the sun's heat.

He declared that he had succeeded in devising a combination of little mirrors set in a bowl about four feet in diameter, which when focussed through a number of small lenses would produce tremendous heat from the sun's light. He said he could regulate the heat produced to the exact degree desired.

Moreau claims to have produced with his machine heat sufficient to melt a diamond and cause it to disappear as gas.

RETURN OF STOLEN ARTICLES ARRANGED

Will Release Seizures in Neighboring Country; Cars Involved

Washington, April 23—Arrangements have been concluded between the United States and Canada according to an announcement at State Department today for return of stolen property or all kinds belonging to residents of one country and seized by the custom authorities of the other.

The effect of the arrangement will be to release a number of automobiles belonging to citizens of the United States which have been stolen and smuggled across the border.

Grandstand at Birmingham, Ala., is equipped with electric fans to protect spectators from dust. Alabama diamonds are so dusty that you have to step at dry cleaner's on your way home.

Electric fans is grand idea for everybody except guys in bleachers, who collect more dust than brother and sister shooting craps on the parlor rug. Somebody should visit bleachertes between innings and brush them off with a broom.

Players do not need fans to dust them off. That accident is constituted with pleasing regularity by fast-ball pitchers.

Electric fans would be elegant innovation for grandstands at big league parks. If you sat next to either stoker you would have your eyes full of ashes in no time.

Installation of fans would also deaf death-blow to soft drink concessions. And with cooling artificial zephyrs wafted from all directions, nobody would buy ice cream cones.

One fan might be installed in batter's box for convenience of umpires. It is tough assignment to stand up to bend down and dust off home plate with dilapidated whisk-broom three or four times an inning.

But, after all, electric fans at ball park is nothing new. When umpire makes decision conflicting with foreign policy of home team many a fan acts like he was charged with electricity.

When Boston team wins game, it's a surprise. When both of 'em win on same day, it's a shock. When both of 'em are in first place, it's a miracle.

At a party Oscar Wilde became engaged in an argument with an aggressive New Yorker concerning the discoverer of America. "I tell you," said the latter, "it was the great Columbus who first discovered our great country; it is useless to deny it."

Wilde softly inquired whether a certain adventurous Don Amerigo had not given his name to the continent just before Columbus found it. The Yankee scorned the idea.

"I see," said Wilde quietly. "Of course you must be right, though I fancy I also explain the anomaly. Don Amerigo discovered America first, but it was hushed up."

Pete Lady Bowlers Are Coming Friday

Some weeks ago two ladies' bowling teams from this city, represented the Y.M.C.A. at a bowling tournament at Peterboro where they acquitted themselves very creditably, winning the honors without much effort. On Friday afternoon next, Peterboro ladies are playing the return match here at the Y.M.C.A. and they promise to be a real contest. Manager Jim Alexander of the local ladies' team is rounding up two teams of real teeled "pin spillers" and we vows that the record at Peterboro will again be repeated here Friday.

After the game, the Peterboro girls will be guests of the Y.M.C.A. at their annual get-together banquet which will be held in the gymnasium it is believed to accommodate the large crowd expected.

LEAFS MAKE DEBUT IN WEEK'S TIME

Toronto, April 23.—One week from today the Leafs will be at home to their friends. It will be a nice "coming out" party for Howley and his clan. Eddie Gosiar, Frank O'Rourke and the rest of the old guard are sure of a big reception, but the fans will be all eyes for the newcomers Cotton Blair Stanage, Herman Layne, Flash Gilhooley, Satterfield, Faulkner and the others. And Jess Spring, the popular Toronto boy, will not be overlooked. It promises to be one of the old time opening, the kind that Toronto had in the days when Joe Kelly held the reins, and if any kind of a decent break in weather conditions is secured a near record crowd should cross the Bay for the game.

Eddie Gosiar, Herman Layne and Mike Vincent are the Toronto homerun hitters to date. Vincent, thanks to the Spring training and the opposition from Stanage for the position of first string catcher, is going big. He appears to be in for a big season.

"I got brains," said Lem Allen, "If your brains was dynamite." says Manley, "and you was to touch a match to 'em the resultin' explosion wouldn't blow your nose hardly" — Geo. Bark.

Hilton Belyea, of St. John, New Brunswick, will make a second attempt to win the diamond sculls at the Henley Regatta this year. He is already in England and will go to Paris later for two months' training on the Seine river.

ALL TARS TO SWIM

London, April 23.—An admiralty fleet order states that the laxity in swimming proficiency, which obtained during the war, "will no longer be tolerated."

The order adds that "a person in the navy who neglects to learn to swim is potentially selfish because, should he be involved in an accident, he usually causes some courageous person to risk his life in trying to save him."

SENSATIONS DUE IN BANDIT CASE

Montreal, April 23—That either Clarence Nixon, alias Norris, or Giuseppe Sennini, has approached the Crown authorities with the offer to tell all he knows in connection with the hold-up of the Bonsecours Rockshop eye on Ontario Street, East, on April 8th, last, with the understanding that he should receive immunity, is a report circulated this afternoon.

Crown Prosecutor, H. L. Calder, K.C., refused to make any statement when interviewed at 2.30 o'clock, beyond saying that a conference of such a nature was known, however, that he had a different view with Premier and Attorney-General Taschereau on noon today, in the city, when it is understood that the question of granting immunity to one of the prisoners, was fully discussed. Both are now already been set up for trial in connection with the murder of Henri Clement, late manager of the Banque de Hochelaga, and will also answer for separate indictments charging in regard to the death of Ward, alias "The Red" Bone. Mrs. Bendinn, or Margaret White, will also come up for trial tomorrow morning.

He isn't old until he begins to brag about the stunts he could do at sixty.

CONFERENCE SUMMER SCHOOL

The annual summer school of the Bay of Quinte Conference will be held this year at Bobcaygeon, July 31st to 25th. The place selected is an ideal summer resort, and the school will be conducted on the camp plan, although provision will be made in private homes for any who wish to be billeted. Among the leaders of the school will be the Rev. R. J. D. Simpson, D.D., Secretary-Treasurer of the Superannuation Fund; well-known missionaries, and prominent Bay of Quinte ministers.

The school is carried on for the study of the Bible, missions, young people's work and training young men and women for Christian leadership. Any information concerning the school may be secured from the President, Rev. F. H. Rickard, of Northport, the Secretary, Rev. J. E. Glover, of Campbellford or the business manager, Rev. A. C. Hie, of Bobcaygeon.

PLAN ENDOWMENT IN LOYAL ORANGE ORDER

St. John, N.B., April 22.—The raising of $1,000,000 as an endowment fund for the Loyal Orange Order, was proposed before an audience numbering about 2 members of the local I.O.L.A. and L.O.B.A.'s in the number of about 150 by Dr. J. W. Edwards, Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America and formerly Minister of Immigration and Colonization in the Meighen Cabinet, here yesterday.

He said that it was hoped to raise one quarter of this amount in the Order and the other three quarters from other Protestants. It was planned to use only the interest, which would amount to between $50,000 and $55,000 annually.

Good Health Secret Of Beauty

Beauty lies in the care a woman bestows upon herself and in keeping after those dread ailments peculiar to her sex, which drag her down and leave telltale traces upon her countenance. Sparkling eyes, the elastic step, and the complexion never accompany organic troubles. Distressed expressions, a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude, headaches, and mental depression are the telltale symptoms of women's ailments. Women on treatment should be at a day in taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, the most successful remedy known to overcome woman's ills and restore health and beauty.

DOROTHY DALTON MARRIES

Chicago, April 23.—Miss Dorothy Dalton, of the silent drama, and Arthur Hammerstein's and himself a theatrical impresario, were married this afternoon. The ceremony at noon yesterday. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Hirshfeld and attended by only a few relatives and friends.

It was Miss Dalton's second and Mr. Hammerstein's fourth embarkation on the matrimonial ocean. They went to th emarriage license bureau and obtained the license which gave her age as 28 and his as 51.

Can you tell if your eyes are strained?

Maybe. If the eyes are inflamed or blood-shot. If the lids tremble or twitch. If headaches are common. If you have an unaccountable, nervous feeling at times, you might with reason blame your eyes. But to be SURE about it, interview me. You are certain to not be disappointed.

THIRD LINE THURLOW

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swain spent one day this week at Mr. Wm. Latta's Belleville.

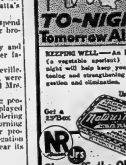

Miss Laura Phelps, Belleville, is spending the Easter holidays with her brother Mr. Wm. Phelps.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McAvoy and children visited this week at her father's Mr. Wm. O'Brien.

Mr. and Mrs. Eaton of Belleville, also Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wilson, were the guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dyan.

Much credit is due our young people of Bethany Church who displayed most excellent talent in the rendering of their program at Easter morning services. So pleasing was their program that many of our congregation went again in the evening to hear its repitition at Canifton Church.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

To-night he stood with the pocket-book in his hand pondering over it. To-morrow or to-day a man with him would be madness, for he might be stricken down and illness during his tramping in search of work; on the other hand, he did not like to entrust it to any one to keep. Suddenly an idea occurred to him. It was natural idea to a man who had been in the habit of hiding his valuables from the eyes of the tramps and thieves of an Australian camp.

He cut an empty tin, placed the pocket-book in it, and, carefully lifting the heartbeone, deposited the tin beneath, replacing the stone and carefully over the treasure, so that no one would be likely to see that it had been moved.

Then he went to bed. But not to sleep. Every time he closed his eyes he saw the lovely face of the girl he loved, heard her voice in a strong and powerful bold him in thrall,and tortured him with its infinite longing and infinite despair. There is no tyrant so merciless as Love, and Jack was under its iron heel. Every now and then the fact that he was not only leaving Better Not Count—his own Vancouver—flashed upon him, but it was the parting from Esther, the thought that he might never look on her again, that outweighed every other consideration.

He rose in the morning with the haggard and wretched condition from such a night, and went round the farm in a mechanical manner. It was wonderful how fond he had become of the farm, and not only of the place but of the people. He had intended telling the Martins at breakfast-time that he was going that night; but he could not bring himself to do so in the face of their loving greeting. The parting with the child would cut him to the heart.

"How pale 'oo look, Jack!" she said, as he dropped into the chair beside her, and she put her face for his morning kiss. "Mother says 'oo works too hard. Will break 'oo back, like father, and have a long rest. Won't it splendid in the hay yesterday! I wish it was to come to-day, and that Miss Vancouver was going to play at us. She is a find and pretty lady, isn't she, Jack?"

"She is," said Jack, succinctly.

"And I think she like 'oo very much Jack; for I saw her looking at 'oo yesterday, as if she did, as' she said to me how strong you was—"

"Now sit still, and eat your breakfast, and let Mr. Gordon eat 'is," said her mother.

"It isn't me," said Nettie, shrewdly, "Jack ain't eating anything, is 'oo, Jack? Doesn't 'oo want any beefsteak?"

"I'm a little off colour this morning, I'm afraid, Nettie," said Jack. "Too much of the hay might, I expect, be to blame. How is Martin this morning?"

He asked the question Martin himself down the stairs.

"How do you do, mother?" he said, as Mrs. Martin began to remonstrate. "I've lies of being nursed up since I was an old hen in a coop, and I'm sound enough to hop about and scratch for my dinner. I'm going round the farm a bit to-day, let the old doctor say what he may. it was the best thing always, 'ways, I'm a-going to rick it.

This was a new opportunity for Jack to inform them of his intended and sudden departure; but he could not bring himself to do it before the child, who lay in his arm and laid her head against him. Later in the day would do, he told himself, with the same decision he avoid a "scene."

"I suppose you didn't see anything of that strange man last night, Mr. Gordon?" said Martin, as he got up to go.

"Eh? No, no,—no!" He had quite forgotten him. "There was no one about, and I expect he's many miles away by this time, Mrs. Martin, if you've made up your mind to trouble found, Martin, you had better come with me so that I can give you a hand.

Though the morning was an small it place, it was not strange that Jack had to be off with Denzil, for the gardener had not put up at the village inn, but in a smaller and less frequented one about two miles out. He was not fond of putting himself in evidence at any time, and he had good reasons for not showing himself too much about the Towers. He did not want to drive Esther Layton into too tight a corner, and the request to be interviewed in Esther was merely a piece of bluff.

After Selby Layton had left him, Denzil lounged slowly back in the Black Crow, as the tumble-down little inn was called, and having eaten a midday meal of the usual country fare—eggs and bacon took his glass of ale and a pipe into the porch, and smoked and drank with the comfortable anticipation of a prosperous future. That Selby Layton would meet him and come to his terms he was convinced; how could he do otherwise? As he thought of his victim and his helplessness, a cruel smile crossed his sinister face, and more or twice he laughed, the harsh laugh of malignant triumph.

He sat and smoked and drank and slept until nearly evening, then he rose and stretched himself and sauntered down the road towards the village. There were very few persons about, and he was tempted to reckoning his acquaintance by talking carelessly on his lands—and he had almost reached the first house when Esther Layton and Trasson came out from his rind walked towards him.

Denzil was on the point of turning back, but he had said and done nothing to arouse suspicion, and he kept on his way, and his hands in his pockets. The two men advanced towards each other, Trasson with his head bent down as usual; then, suddenly, he looked up, saw Denzil, and as suddenly stopped dead and uttered a low cry of surprise and fear.

Denzil also started, and regarded Trasson in silence for a moment, then, with an oath, he cried in a low voice:

"What, Mirk!"

Trasson was as white as if he were about to faint or drop dead; though his lips moved, no word was audible. Denzil eyed him with a sardonic amusement, which yet had something of uneasiness in it.

"Who the devil would have expected to see you here?" he exclaimed.

"I—I live here," said Trasson, glancing round him nervously. "What are you doing here? Hush! There's some one coming! You mustn't be seen. My God! it means death!"

Denzil eyed him coldly.

Balkan Armaments Listed, Answer to Greek Charge Against Bulgarian Plans

Sofia,—The charge that Bulgaria is an armed menace to her neighbors, made recently by a series of articles in an Athenian newspaper, has been taken up by La Bulgarie, the official organ of the Bulgarian Foreign Office, in an article which gives some interesting figures regarding Balkan armaments.

The newspaper says that after her defeat Bulgaria turned over to the allied authorities 5,400 guns, 3,000 quick-firers, 750,000 rifles, and 300,000 machine guns. It then gives the armed strength of the various Balkan countries as follows:

Bulgaria, 24 infantry companies, 24 batteries, 12 squadrons of cavalry, 24 quickfiring companies, 8 engineering companies.

Greece, 126 infantry companies, 102 batteries, 12 squadrons of cavalry, 10 engineering companies, 120 quickfiring companies.

Serbia, 150 infantry companies, 134 batteries, 95 squadrons of cavalry, 150 quickfiring companies, 16 engineering companies.

La Bulgarie fails to point out the fact that not only a toy pistol can be brought into Bulgaria without the consent of a vigilant interallied sanitary commission of control.

MERCIER IS JUDGE FOR DELORME TRIAL

Defence Urges Statement Clearing Abbe's Mental Standing First

Montreal, April 22—Hon. Mr. Justice Mercier of the Superior Court presside at the third King's Bench trial of Abbe Philippe Delorme, on the charge of having killed his half-brother, Raoul Delorme, according to reports received here this morning here. The trial is scheduled for the term of the King's bench, opening May 10.

As soon as the Delorme case is called once more in the criminal side of the court it is understood that a great effort will be made by the defence to secure a ruling from the bench on the merits of the murder charge is impossible until a jury either removes or establishes the verdict of July, 1922, to the effect that Delorme is not in a mental condition to stand trial.

Importance is attached to this proceeding, as some eminent counsel hold that, in the event of Delorme being found guilty of murder without the present 1922 verdict of "mentally insensible to stand trial" being removed from the crown books, successful appeal against the condemnation would be assured.

WHERE A MISSTEP MIGHT MEAN DEATH

The Hoodoos on the Cavell Motor Highway, Jasper National Park, curious stone figures brought into being by the erosion of the earth under the constant wearing effects of air and water, draw exclamations of wonder from thousands of tourists who visit the largest of Canada's National Parks every year.

Huge flat stones, balanced as here, atop the pinnacles of earth which have stood up firmly when the mountain side all around them crumbled or was washed away by the rushing waters, seem so though the slightest breath of wind would be sufficient to send them hurtling to the bottom of the valley hundreds of feet below. A favorite sport with the tourist is to drop these stones on the hoodoos and see them sway back and forth drunkenly, yet finally regain their poise and remain balanced as firmly as before.

The tourist in the photograph who has climbed high on the mountain side all around them and one one of the flat stones for a table on which to rest his arms, had a strenuous climb before he again regained the level surface of the Cavell Highway, which winds through the Athabasca Valley almost to the foot of the glacier of the Cavell, the peculiar age-old formation of ice and snow which hangs on the wide stretches of Mount Edith Cavell."

Visitors to Jasper Park Lodge may travel by motor or saddle horse from the Lodge to the foot of Mount Cavell or any of the other mountains surrounding the log-cabin bungalow of the Canadian National Railways-owned resort.

BETTER PAINTS ARE SCANTLEBURY PREPARED PAINTS

They are mixed before your very eyes with pure white lead and oils, pure paints will cover with two coats equal to three coats of ready mixed—and will cover more surface. Why sell these pure paints properly mixed at the cost of ready mixed dope called paints. We use pure lead and oil, we leave out the fish oil, gasoline, coal oil and white ochres so often used in ready mixed paints.

NATURE AT HER BEST

Those who appreciate nature at her best and reveal in a wealth of variegated scenery, will find the route travelled by the Canadian National Railways between Toronto and Vancouver, one of never-to-be-forgotten beauty.

First through the inimitable lake region of Northern Ontario, skirting many placid, mirror-like lakes nestled between tree-clad hills, catching a fleeting glimpse of many picturesque rivers and strewn little waterways dashing madly towards the quiet levels of the lakes below. From Winnipeg, the fertile Prairie Provinces treat the traveller to a type of gently undulating scenery not to be seen in any other part of Canada.

The ever-changing scenery of the Canadian Rockies never grows wearisome, no matter how often it is viewed. Jasper Park, with its protected wild game and beauteous Mt. Edith Cavell, colossal Mt. Robson gigantic slow-moving glaciers stretching from snow-clad peaks, are only a few of nature's wonders the traveller by the Canadian National Route sees before descending to the balmy climate of Vancouver, and the Pacific Coast.

There are two Canadian National trains leave Toronto daily for the West. The National carrying standard sleeping car and compartment observation car departs at 10.45 p.m. Steel equipped, the National is luxurious in every detail. A standard sleeping car connecting with the Continental Limited, the train de luxe of the Canadian National System leaves Toronto every evening at 8.45.

Travellers to California or other points on the Pacific Coast usually take the famous scenic route through Canada because of its beauty. Excellent connections are made at Vancouver with both steamship and train.

Make reservations or get further particulars from any Canadian National Ticket Agent.

The trouble with setting a thief to catch a thief is that you may have to hunt for both of them.

The Letter Box

To the Editor of The Intelligencer,

Belleville, Ont.

Dear Sir:—As our Empire is made up of many nations, tribes and septs, there undoubtedly will always be more or less rivalry—a wholesome vying—about the contributions of each to the world's commonwealth. Even as the British Empire which has been designated "the greatest Secular Agency for good the world has ever known."

Granting the aforesaid, it might be instructive as well as helpful to review briefly some things Englishmen have done in Empire building. It is believed your readers will be tolerant as Dr. George—for Merry England is now at hand.

At once turning to Chaucer about 1385 in the fourteenth century English poet of his day, whose writings—Canterbury Tales and other works, modelled our language into form, after the long Norman Conquest and like Dante, it is said Chaucer wrote in his own tongue and made it at once the language of literature.

After this, came the art of printing which was introduced on the Continent. Now as Edward Caxton of Kent had learned the new Art of printing abroad, on his return to England he set up a printing-press at Westminster 1477, the first in the country, and among other works, he translated and published "Mort d'Arthur"—by Sir Thomas Malleye which marks the greatest masterpiece of literature, before the revival of learning throughout Europe. The language was thus enriched at an early period, classical and Norman English had become obsolete.

Following hard on these came Wiliam Tyndale to whom (as the great Doctor Wescott says)—it has been allowed more than any other man to give its characteristic shape to the English Bible. He being a master scholar, translated the New Testament from the Greek and Hebrew Manuscripts, and undisputed authority it is said—"The Authorized Version (King James' Bible 1611) although the work of many hands and several generations— the foundation of it was laid by William Tyndale."

A monument in nation-making and Western civilization.

However, the Authorized Version was the work of the scholars of Winchester, Cambridge and Oxford, at the command of King James I and after being reviewed by the Bishops and the chief learned men of the Church, it was ratified by Royal Authority. A world-wide work, given to humanity. "A distinguished scholar said years ago—"If you care to know the best that our literature can give in simple, noble prose, mark, learn and inwardly digest the Holy Scriptures in the English tongue." A benefaction to millions of people.

Now turning to Great Acts—the Magna, 1215 made plain "No man shall be taken, or imprisoned unless by lawful judgment of his peers or the law of the land." A long step towards freedom of the common people.

The Petition of Right, 1628. Where "illegal practices subsitary taxes and imprisonment, and excuse of martial law were condemned." A building of the Common Law of England. The Habeas Corpus Act, 1679, that "No man should be long detained in prison on a criminal charge without the legality of his imprisonment being proved in open Court, or being brought to trial." A quicker justice was meted out in public to any and all.

The Bill of Rights, 1689. This declared that "the Ecclesiastical Commission Court was illegal and the King cannot suspend or dispense with the law, nor raise money, nor keep a standing army without the consent of Parliament that subjects may petition the King, that all election of members must be free and there must be freedom of speech in Parliament, which should be held frequently to redress grievances and strengthen the laws, that jurymen must be honestly chosen and that trials for High Treason must be Free-Holders; while excessive fine and cruel and unusual punishments must not be inflicted. Moreover, the Crown of England should be Anti-Papistical."

Those, they said, were the undoubted rights and liberties of the English People, and under these conditions the Stuart Reign ended while William and Mary were declared King and Queen of England February 13, 1689.

How far-reaching were these in Empire Construction? Very far indeed, work, it must be said. Proceeding, the growth of Empire has been simply amazing. Voyages if discovery were undertaken from time to time. Gilbert, (Sir Humphrey) turned to Newfoundland, 1582, while Davis, Raleigh, Hawkins and Drake, are all associated more or less for discovery on the Seas. "All these men (be it noted) led the way to new countries, and opened out new roads of commerce," which added materially to Britain's wealth as centuries came and went.

These adventurers with trade and wealth coming to England's doors caused a hunger for wider fields of Commerce, and Clive, Wolfe and Cook did master strokes for Britain's glory. Their works are known.

However, it is to others of lesser magnitude your attention is directed. The founder of Singapore (that for East Naval Base causing so much anxiety in Britain, India and Australia these days) was Sir Thomas Raffles, 1781-1826, a man of foresight and a worthy Admiralstrator in the outlying parts of Empire.

Sir James Brooke, 1803 to 1868, who is termed an "English Soldier and Traveller" leaving England, found his way to the Eastern Archipelago and took time to need in some ways prevalent in Borneo at that time and helped in administering the affairs of the Island so adroitly that he was created Ra Ja Brooke 1841.

Another Statesman and Ruler of distinction was Sir George Gray, 1812 to 1898, whose wise control, and firm counsel, together with courageous resourcefulness, did much for South Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, to make "British Ideals" possible in these "far flung" portions of the Empire.

Of later time, Cromer and his outstanding work in Egypt and India need only be mentioned; while Kitchener and his campaigns in Soudan, Egypt and South Africa are so recent that all are quite informed of his tremendous tasks in these countries.

Now without being tedious, here are some of the understandings in which England has played the foremost part, and perhaps Lord Asquith's allusion—"Empire of Liberty" may in no slowly take some satisfaction out of the part that England has played for centuries, the wide world round.

Yours truly
THOMAS WICKETT

AID ASKED TO PROVIDE DAY OF REST

Mass Meeting In Bridge St. Church—Able Speakers Present

LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE

Members of Local Churches Present—Carry Case to Privy Council

Preservation of the Sabbath and a strong appeal for funds to assist the Lord's Day Alliance in taking a case before the Privy Council in England were strongly urged by speakers at a mass meeting held in Bridge St. Methodist Church last night. The usual mid-week services were withdrawn from the various evangelical churches in the city in order that the members might attend the meeting.

It was a representative gathering in every respect.

Ministers Present

Several ministers occupied seats up on the platform and Rev. Dr. Pringle, Rev. A. S. Kerr and Rev. D. C. Saunders assisted in the service. Music was furnished by the Holloway Street Church choir.

Mayor Mikel occupied the chair and in a few remark stated he was present to show his interest in the matter of Sabbath observance. The principles of Sabbath observance were right but there was a difference of opinion as to how the Sabbath should be preserved.

Former Pastor Speaks

Rev. Dr. C. T. Scott of Toronto, a former pastor of Bridge Street Church was the first speaker and in a few opening remarks referred to his many years connection with the Lord's Day Alliance. The Society and the churches were doing their best for Canada and the nation when we advocate the Sabbath, as a day of rest. It should be a day of rest for man to recuperate his powers for his arduous duties of the week. Man needs and must have rest and the Sabbath is for this purpose. Man also needs a day of rest for moral courage. The Sabbath day brings man face to face with the thought of God.

Keeping Sabbath

Many however, make it a day of pleasure and a day for commercialization. Our christian civilization rests upon the keeping of the Sabbath day, a civilization that is not so built will crumble and fall as many nations in the past have fallen, because of their failure to observe the will of God.

Secretary Speaks

Rev. Dr. Rochester, General Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance was the next speaker and stated that the Sabbath is fundamental in the interest of our life. There are two mighty menaces threatening upon the Sabbath namely pleasure and commercialism. We need a higher standard of the observance of the Sabbath and the pride of the Sabbath should be maintained in every respect. Our Sunday law stand, for the defence of the day it is to keep out the disputes of the day. It is our day and we should pride it as such. We should be proud of the Lord's Day Alliance and what it represents.

Good of Humanity

The aim of the Alliance is not to deprive any person from any pleasure. There is only one organization that has lifted its face for the freedom of employees on the Sabbath and that is the Lord's Day Alliance. It is a great leverage for the good of humanity in general. We have come to Canada in regard to the keeping of the Sabbath. This is the time when every friend of the Sabbath should stand by the Lord's Day Alliance on the question for the observance of the Sabbath. In concluding the Rev. speaker made an appeal to assist financially in defraying the expenses of a case to be carried to the Privy Council in London relative to the Lord Day Act. During the service appropriate hymns were sung and Mrs. S. Louis rendered a solo. The closing of the National anthem closed the meeting.

Belleville Made Headquarters of Big Manufacturing Concern

Carthage Machine Company Decides to Establish sole Canadian Branch Here—Entire Plant of J. C. Wilson Manufacturing Company Taken Over by New York Firm

ARTHUR POSSONBY, under-secretary for foreign affairs, who is now presiding over the conference in London between British and soviet representatives.

Belleville has secured another most important addition to the industrial wealth by the decision of the Carthage Machine Company of Carthage, New York, to establish its sole Canadian branch in our city.

Mr. F. Wardwell, of Watertown, N.Y., vice-president of the First National bank of Watertown and vice-president of the Carthage Machine Company was in Belleville yesterday concluding final arrangements. He was accompanied by Mr. K. Hinds, general manager of the Carthage Machine Company. The latter had visited Belleville several times before in making preliminary surveys.

Favorably Impressed

So favorably were Mr. Hinds' impressions of the manufacturing facilities offered by Belleville as the prospective Canadian headquarters for their company, that he recommended to the directorate principals at Carthage that their Canadian branch should be established here.

A Canadian charter was secured and the Dominion branch will be known as the "Carthage Machine Company of Canada Limited."

Takes Over Wilson Plant

The new company has taken over the entire plant, property and assets of the J. C. Wilson Mfg. Company, Ltd., here.

By this deal possession has been obtained of one of the most modern plants in the city or in any industry in eastern Ontario. The principal structures on the property were erected only in 1916 and are therefore practically new. The main machine shop is of brick and steel construction, with fine glass windows, concrete floors, heavy cranes and all the latest in layout and equipment. The property is admirably located as the entrance to Belleville harbor and the lines of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific lays alongside and has switching connection with the plant.

Established in 1890.

The Carthage Machine Company was established in 1890. The principal lines manufactured are the machines used in pulp and paper mills and include pulp and paper calenders wood washers, chippers, chip screws, woodsplitters, wet machines, grinders, pulpsitters, fan pumps, barkers, chip conveyors, grinder valves, plug and shinse, core cutting and punching machinery, pulpboard machinery, paper moulds, save alls, shickerwer, ballbearing blow valves, cast iron pipe fittings and other specialties.

Just recently the company has added to its already long list of specialties machines for the manufacture of paper bag and envelopes. It is the company's intention to manufacture practically all of these lines at the Belleville plant.

Mr F. G. Wilson, president and principal shareholder of the J. C. Wilson Co. for many years prominently identified with the manufacture of water-wheels and transmission machinery, has taken a large financial interest in the new company and has been appointed its vice-president and will represent the firm in Belleville. The president and Mr. A. F. Wardwell, secretary and treasurer.

The new organization takes possession of the property immediately and will at once set to work making the necessary changes and alterations and the installation of new equipment necessary for the manufacture of the Carthage Machine Company's products. For a few weeks the Wilson plant will assume become a type of industry.

Captain of Industry

Mr. A. F. Wardwell principal shareholder in the American Company, is one of the leading captains of industry and financial lights in northern New York. The Carthage Machine Company is only one of a number of exceedingly important industrial enterprises with which Mr. Wardwell is prominently identified.

Mr. A. K. Hinds general manager, of the company is a Canadian by birth, a pioneer by profession and was for several years connected with one of the largest paper making companies of the Province of Quebec. His services were sought by the Carthage Machine interested it is understood, on various occasions during these later years of severe industrial depression the Carthage company has been enlarging continued prosperity.

Directors Entertain

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce entertained Mr. Wardwell and Mr. Hinds at luncheon yesterday noon. Addresses were given by each of the president. Mr. H. W. Ackerman, Mr.

Liquidators of Home Bank Plan Legal Action Against Minors

WILL NAB TRANSFERS

Few Can Escape Liability Under Bank Clause, in Collection Drive

Toronto, April 24.—For will escape the net of the law in connection with the collection of double liability on the part of shareholders of the Home Bank.

Application has been made to the to cut number for an order to proceed against all under the age of 21 years. The purpose of this is to collect from parties who transferred their stock to infants.

Liable For $1,950,000

Approximately 1150 shareholders are liable for $1,950,000.

About 150 have paid their liability to the aggregate of about $45,000.

About 3600 shareholders, including all large ones have fired defence against the collection of double liability from them, and until these cases are disposed of no action will be taken.

The liquidators stated today that judgment had been secured against some 80 shareholders and that after May 1, time limit within which the court has given to pay, efforts will be put forth to collect.

In cases where there has been a transfer of the property to other parties to escape payment on account of impecunity, the process of law will be relentless.

Lenient If Willing

In the list of shareholders in their own right and in representative capacities in respect of shares transferred within 60 days of the suspension of the bank on August 17 last, there are a number of Toronto, Winnipeg and Montreal firms, among them some brokers, who hold stock.

Courier To Toronto Nears Destination

Cadet W. Allen Dempsey, courier from this city, enroute to Toronto to deliver invitations to Toronto dignitaries from Mayor Mikel, asking them to attend the monster U. E. L. celebration here in June, arrived in the city last evening on his wheel, speeding in a decent, perfected today from him.

In Bowmanville he will likely be the guest of Mayor Smith and will likely leave for Oshawa on Friday morning, a ride of forty-three miles from Toronto and has walked seventy-one miles, following many offers of rides along the highway.

Cadet Dempsey arrived in Port Hope at 5 p.m. yesterday and was the guest of Mayor Smith at Queen's hotel there last night. He walked from Cobourg to Port Hope, a distance of twenty, yesterday afternoon after having dined there upon arrival at Cobourg. The only ride of the mile hike from Colbourne which town he left at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN BAY

Coroner Dr. W. W. Berne, Sergeant of Police C. Atkins and Provincial Constable N. Maker of this city, also Mayor Armstrong of the Belleville Burial Company, left the wharf here at 2 p.m. to claim a body which has been found in the bay, just off Shay's Island, beyond Massassaga Park.

The body is believed to be that of a Mrs. John Wiggleworth, who was believed drowned in the Bay, when there has been silence, and it is reported that the body is badly decomposed. The officials left in a motor boat for the scene.

EARLY LIFE OF THE LOYALIST WAS HARD ONE

Added Attraction at Griffin's Theatre Given by U. E. Loyalists

HEAR ABLE SPEAKERS

Courier to Washington Rides on Stage Led by Donor of Horse

Griffin's Theatre was crowded last evening when in conjunction with the usual picture bill, a dedicated United Empire Loyalist touch was added to the programme.

W. S. Herrington, K.C. of Napanee descendant of the Loyalists gave a most interesting address on the early experiences, struggles and privations of the Loyalists, which later proved so very favorably for Canada. The early life of the Loyalists from the days when the first crude roads connecting Kingston with York were explained in a most interesting manner by Mr. Herrington who is a very descriptive speaker.

During the evening, Ex-Mayor Chas. Ponton in a brief address announced the receipt of the telegram which stated that the Provincial Government had granted $3,000 for celebration.

Mayor W. C. Mikel, K.C., also spoke briefly re-ference to plans for the monster celebration which will be held here in June.

Mrs. Morley Dull favored the large audience with a well rendered solo, and Dr. A. B. Hafner also contributed one of his best tenor solos.

Mr. Herrington, of Smithfield, the man who has volunteered his horse for the Loyalists ride, led the steed on the stage with Miss Gwen Lasier, the courier, mounted, and Mr. Meyer a brief history of the life of the horse which is accustomed to travel and the hard life of a military mount.

RAILWAYS HAUL WHEAT CHEAPLY

Grain is the Greatest Commodity Transported and Rate is Cheaper Than Coal

Ottawa—The total volume of revenue freight moved by the railways of Canada last year was 103,237,659 tons according to a report just issued by the Bureau of Statistics. Of the 68,963,491 tons originated in Canada, while 20,188,279 tons were received from American roads destined for points in Canada and 14,606,372 tons were American freight carried through.

Agricultural products with 21,509,000 tons supplied the most of the products handled. Forest products are credited to wheat. Mine products approximate 17,000,000 tons. Coal freight for its 13,313,000 tons. Of coal 12,- 949,000 tons originated in Canada, while 363,000 tons were received from the United States and delivered in Canada. Coke moved 2,279,000 tons and carried through.

That wheat is carried on a much lower rate than any other product is evident from the following extract from the Bureau's traffic report: "In Canada the grain tonnage is the greatest of any single commodity carried. The average haul is also the longest, averaging over 600 miles, but the rate per ton mile is low, being slightly over half a cent in 1923. The average haul for bituminous coal was 200 miles at 1.2 cents per ton mile. Iron and steel moved 400 miles at 1.1 cents per ton mile."

Courier To Coolidge Leaves On First Lap of 600-Mile Ride

Miss Gwendolen Lazier Selected as Courier to Carry Message From Mayor Mikel to President of United States—Comes from Family of U. E. Loyalists who Settled Country in 1784—Route of Trip Selected

MASANAO HANIHARA, Japanese ambassador to the United States, whose formal protest against the abrogation of the "gentlemen's agreement" was made responsible for the almost unanimous decision of congress to pass an announced purpose and formally exclude all Japanese immigrants from the republic.

Miss Gwendolen (Gwen) Lazier of the City of Belleville, Ontario, has been selected as the courier to carry on horseback an invitation from His Worship Mayor W. C. Mikel, K.C., of the City of Belleville, to the President of the United States at Washington to attend the celebration of the 140th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada, which commences June 16th next at the City of Belleville.

Course of Ride.

The courier started from Belleville, Ontario, on the 24th of April for a ride of over 600 miles and the course to be taken by the courier after leaving Belleville will be through Consecanc and Kingston, Ontario, crossing the Cape Vincent Bridge, passing through Watertown, Utica, Schrectady, Albany, Rensselaer, Hudson, Poughkeepsie, Peekskill, Yonkers, New York City, Newark, Newbrunswick, Trenton, Bordentown, Burlington, Camden and Elktown, Baltimore, Laurel, Washington and intervening towns. The payees of these places have offered to extend the courtesies of their cities to the courier as costumn in old pioneer days.

Are U. E. Loyalists.

The courier is 19 years of age, was educated in Bishop Strachan School, Toronto, is a good rider and an all round athlete.

The ride on horse-back from Belleville to Washington, after the manner of travel by the old pioneers of Canada, is a great advancement that has been made in the last 140 years. The distance covered each day, 100 is the time fixed for the Belleville courier because it was on the 24th of May, the principal body of the Loyalists landed in the native forests of the City of Quinte.

Mounts Stood for Washington

Promptly at three o'clock this afternoon, Miss Gwen Lazier, mounted on the steed which she will ride during the entire her to Washington, D. C., together with her escort, left the Parliament Square of the United States, to attend the monster U. E. L. celebration and 140th anniversary of the settlement of the province of Upper Canada, which will be on the long six hundred mile pilgrimage.

Shannonville will be the haven of rest bound on the second day of the journey, ten-year-old girl courier may make the 100 miles, but the journey of many miles at a time will be broken with a visit to tow, although some must borrow every hour or two miles make their. A fresh horse is required about every two years however or the "rocket".

BOND SALESMEN HELD ON CHARGE OF FRAUD

Toronto, April 24.—Charged with fraud, involving the sum of $10,000, Charles Wallace, Jarvis street and Percy Jones, of the same address, were taken into custody last night by detectives from Bay street police court. The two were locked up in Court Street Station.

Wallace and Jarvis are wanted in Picton, Ont. It is alleged that they represented themselves as bond salesmen for the Financial Corporation, 302 Bay Street, and sold stock and bonds to the above amount to people in and around Picton.

Nearly 50,000,000 tons of the freight originated is credited to Ontario. Of the 14,272,000 tons were received from foreign connections, while 12,870,000 tons were carried through.

TRIAL WITHOUT JURY SOUGHT BY DIRECTORS

Galaxy of Legal Lights Gather at Assizes in Toronto

UNUSUAL ELOQUENCE

Rowell Starts Off By Presenting Argument of Home Bank

Special to The Intelligencer

Toronto, April 24.—A galaxy of legal lights gathered in the assize here when counsel for the Home Bank directors and officials applied for further particulars in the conspiracy charge against them. The event was unusual so far as the number of counsel engaged and several incrchanges between the Crown and Counsel livened proceedings.

The line-up of the legal sans was, for the Bank: W. N. Tilley, K. C., N. W. Rowell, K. C.; J. F. Hellmuth, K. C.; A. C. McMaster, K. C.; H. J. Cody, K. C.; Daly Symons, K. C.; R. S. Roberts, K. C.

Mr. Tilley McCarthy for the crown was MacGregor Young, K. C.; and H. J. Cody, K. C., for the Attorney-General.

Mr. Justice Middleton presiding at the assize opened the proceedings. Mr. Rowell was the lead off man in presenting the banks argument and argued that the code allowed the defense sufficient particulars upon which to base a defence. Crown Prosecutor McCarthy said the charges are contained in the case of the door of the Defence Counsel and had not since words in driving home his point. The defense desires to have a trial without jury. Mr. Justice Wright stated that he would render a decision at the earliest possible moment.

POLICIES NEW BUT BRITAIN OF OLD STAYS

Ottawa, April 24.—"You witness an empire not more united than when the war broke out—an empire integrity stands to-day -menaced by perhaps a greater danger than ever. It is true, the cost was greater, the wrecking more terrible and the penalty we had to pay more severe than we had imagined".

In these words, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen summed up the after-war situation in addressing a banquet at the Red Patches commemorating the second battle of Ypres here.

Tribute To Her Breadth

"Even in Great Britain, to whose pluck and tenacity was due success in the war, you see changes at the helm a man who set himself against the participation of Canada in the war," Mr. Meighen pointed out. "But the fact that he and his party

SCIENCE AND WAR

Is science bringing forth forces which, in the end, will cause mankind's destruction? The last war turned loose several suffocating gases—tear gas, mustard gas, arsine gas and a gas that stopped the beating of the heart. Since the armistice, according to Charles Munroe, our Government expert in explosives, "Chemists have developed a half-dozen more gases, each 100 times more deadly than the chlorine gases first used in war by the Germans. Says the editor of the English Nature Magazine: "As with other gifts, those of science may be used for good or evil. If they are misused man may entirely disappear from this planet."

WILL IT REALLY END WAR?

The old wars of grape and canister were bad enough—bad enough to reduce the average stature of Frenchmen nearly four inches during Napoleon's campaigns. And now an Italian announces a discovery which, if his claims be justified, will either wipe out war or destroy the human race. By means of a wireless apparatus he claims to be able to touch off any kind of an explosive regardless of the insulation. Arsenals, ammunition depots, the magazines in warships, the powder in mines and torpedoes, the shells in your shotguns and revolvers can all be blown up in a twinkling—if the announcement be true.

NOBEL AND PEACE

It would mean the broadcasting of destruction. These gruesome discoveries, however, may render war abhorrent, even to kings, as it is now abhorrent to the Gold Star mothers of half the world. That is what Alfred Nobel tried to do through his own invention of dynamite. When dynamite failed to make us hate the name of war Nobel set aside his entire fortune, instructing his executors to spend the proceeds as prizes to those who render the most distinguished service in the cause of peace.

NEW SETTLERS

During the coming summer, 5,000 Russian Mennonites will be brought to Canada, according to the plans of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Non-Resident Relief Committee. The newcomers will settle in parts of Ontario and western Canada. Last year about 2600 came to Canada. This year's contingent will commence to arrrive in June. The Canadian Pacific Railway is conveying them from the Baltic ports to Montreal, and advancing them their fares, which need not be paid back for two years. This privilege has been granted them on their past record of integrity, thrift and industry. Large numbers have already been brought here under similar terms, and not one of them has defaulted.

GOOD MENNONITES

Each of those who come to Canada have been interested, first their children must attend Canadian schools and they have expressed a willingness to become good Canadian citizens. The Russian Government is favorable to their leaving the country. These new settlers, are not the old colony type which caused so much trouble in Manitoba during the war.

FEEDING THEM

Ten acres of restaurants certainly seem a formidable phalanx, and it is no wonder that the claim is made that the catering side of the British Empire Exhibition, which covers this acres, represents the most advanced features of the entire exhibition. The various buildings devoted to refreshments range from some which cater to the epicure to many which make their appeal to the more humble pocketbook, and plans have been made for the serving of 175,000 meals each day. This will necessitate about 76 tons of meat, 22 tons of bread, 240 cakes, 1500 cases of colonial dried fruits, 2,000 colonial pineapples, 3,000 tins of sardines 2,000 gallons of soup, 40 tons of potatoes. A special railway siding has been installed to handle the milk traffic alone!

CHINA'S RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA

The agreement between Russia and China for the control of the East Asiatic Railway having closed, owing to the refusal of the Peking Government to honor the signature of its plenipotentiary, Mr. Wang, the Soviet Government has now refused to consider a fresh agreement, until China concedes recognition to Russia.

The failure of the Peking Government to sign the agreement is said to be due to pressure on the part of France and Japan, neither of which countries has recognized Russia. It will be interesting to see what their attitude is to the latest demand on China.

There is said to be a strong movement in China itself for the recognition of Russia, but when speaking of China it is necessary to remember that the vast mass of the people know nothing of Russia, don't know where it is, and care less.

CAME WITH RADIO

The new word—radiocast—requires no explanation or interpretation and will, without doubt, in time, supercede the phrase "broadcast by radio", leaving the less distinctive word "broadcast" to return to the uses found for it long before the radio came. In this connection it is interesting to note that a common grammatical fault is made in the general use of the word "broadcasted" No such word exists, the past tense of the verb being simply "broadcast". "Radiocast," also is a verb whose present, past, and future tenses are identical.

TARIFF CHANGES HAVE EFFECT ON STEEL INDUSTRY

Officials of Steel of Canada Point Out Unfairness

IMPLEMENTS TOO

Many Changes Which Have Been Made at Expense of These Industries and Have Failed to Satisfy

The tariff changes embodied in the federal budget in their bearing on the iron and steel industry directly affect such companies as the Steel Company of Canada, as well as the implement industry which it supplies with raw material. President Robert Hobson, makes the following statement regarding the situation:—

"The present tariff contains over forty items according free entry to iron and steel for particular purposes, and in addition to these are fifteen items providing practically free entry in many cases, and substantial drawbacks when required for use in the manufacture of a wide variety of lines. These have constituted a direct attack upon this basic industry and have resulted in the importation into Canada of a large tonnage of steel and iron which should be produced in this country.

"Canada's industrial growth is measured by the attempt to squeeze out-of-date demands through these constant tariff changes affecting the whole development branches of industry. He cannot expect progress if the investment of capital in manufacturing enterprises is to be constantly discouraged by the absolute lack of an intelligent tariff policy, which has characterized the budgets of recent years.

"The attack on the agricultural implement industry serves a notice upon all other industries that political exigencies are formulating tariff changes instead of economic conditions.

"The condition of our railroads and the burden of taxes we are carrying in Canada both emphasize the need of keeping business in Canada. We are, however, sacrificing these industries and those employed by lowering tariff duties to encourage importations."

Mr. Leonard Tilley, M.P., writes:

"Again the agricultural implement industry and the steel and iron industry have been made to suffer as a result of the vain endeavor to satisfy the reverses attacks upon the tariff. These duties were changed in 1897, 1900, 1904, 1910, 1922 and 1924. Each time the process has failed to satisfy. Each time the demands have been repeated and extended until it is seen that the process has been carried too far.

"The duties which remain on important agricultural implements will be mowers and harvesters, now six per cent. general tariff, and free under the British preferential, are entirely inadequate. The compensation claimed for and pig iron have been placed on the free list when used in the manufacture of various lines of implements, and duties on many other materials have been reduced almost to a vanishing point.

"The leader of the Progressive party, in a speech in Montreal recently claimed the western farmer wanted a revenue tariff. Yet this budget denies any protection whatever to the basic and economic industries for many necessities. In contrast with the manufacturer of pig iron and steel is required to pay a duty and also tax on supplies of all kinds and important purchases like fire brick, including coal, which is subject to a duty on coal of 53c. per ton for all purposes, except coking.

"The iron and steel tariff schedule is a thing of shreds and patches. It is punctured with over 40 free items and 15 drawback items affecting these materials for a variety of uses. We are the only business out of Canada to the United States with such handicaps. Nothing everything possible to keep out what we have to sell.

"These frequent changes in the budget are indefensible conditions in our tariff policy and discouraging progress in any line when industry is in need of support. It is an incongruous situation which symbolizes the impotence of a bill in the Ontario Legislature to encourage the mining of ore and the development of legislation in the federal House, which allows raw and finished steel on the free list.

"Trade statistics show a marked increase in recent years of importations of agricultural implements into Canada, and the federal duties will further encourage this movement. This means reduced employment not only in this particular industry, but in subsidiary lines affected. Canada has unlimited resources available jobs. We are struggling to put our railways on their feet and at the same time reduce the tariff, thereby encouraging importations from other countries which lessen the traffic available for our railroads.

"Such opposite policies are distinctly at variance with the needs of the hour. We should be producing everything we can to retain business in Canada, encourage employment and increase our revenue from duties instead of cutting tariff duties to the detriment of our industries and railroads."

Thaw Still Same Peril to Society Declares Evelyn Nesbit; "Sane," Says Jury

Atlantic City, N. J.—Harry K. Thaw is still the same menace to society and it will not be long before he breaks loose again. Then look out.

This was the comment today of Evelyn Nesbit, divorced wife of Thaw, when she learned of the jury verdict in Philadelphia, which for the third time in 20 years freed Thaw from correctional institutions.

Evelyn was bitter and sarcastic in her comment on the case.

"There was easy work at the cross roads," she said. "It was the Thaw money again. Now watch the fur fly. It won't be long before the public is served with another sensation in the Thaw case, similar to that involving young Cornig.

"Harry likes his champagne better than the breath he draws.

"This jury verdict doesn't convince me Harry Thaw is sane. I know him. His condition, in fact, is worse now than it has ever been. Judge John Monaghan and the jury that freed him should be held accountable for his future acts."

Awaits Final Decision

Thaw's freedom, despite the verdict of the jury, is not yet a reality. The Pittsburg millionaire, by direction of Judge Monaghan, was released in the custody of the Pennsylvania Hospital for Mental and Nervous Diseases under the original order of committment. This means, it was said today, that Thaw must await at the institution final judgment of the court in the case.

William A. Gray, counsel for Evelyn Nesbit, divorced wife of Thaw, has requested the usual four days' time in which to file a motion and exceptions for a new trial. No time has been set, however, for the hearing of the motion.

"I'm happy—for Harry's sake," was all Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw would say. Neither she nor Thaw was in court when the verdict was announced at 10.20 o'clock last night, seven hours after the case went to the jury.

Members of Lodge No. 181 Sons of England did not allow St. George's day to pass here yesterday without a fitting celebration. Last night, the members enjoyed a supper together, which was followed by euchre and music. A most enjoyable evening was spent.

SEEN AND HEARD IN POLICE COURT

Bad whiskey was responsible for getting a hard working, local man in trouble last night, and today in police court Magistrate Masson imposed a fine of $20 and costs of $2 on a charge of drunkenness in a public place, to which charge accused pleaded guilty. The fine was paid.

The difficult angle to all such cases is confronted by the Crown in endeavouring to find out from whom accused men procure liquor which cause their intoxication. Today's case was a difficult one. The accused was evidently telling a straight forward story, but was unable to name the bootlegger.

Meets "Street Vendor"

"He is a stranger to me," explained accused. "I met him on Victoria Avenue while I was on my home to tea. He asked me if I would like to get a "crock," and upon enquiring I was informed that the liquor was good stuff, procured at a vendor's by prescription. I said I would take one bottle and he left me. I waited for about fifteen minutes and he returned with a bottle which was sealed and labelled 'Foster Dawson" whisky.

Three drinks placed the man in a condition of, intoxication from which he had not fully recovered when he appeared for trial today. The liquor was evidently not as good as advertised.

Had Dark Hair

Describing the "illicit vendor", accused stated that he was a man about thirty, medium height and fairly stout. He was clean shaven, of dark complexion and sharp features. He wore dark clothes.

"This is my first appearance in court, and if I know anything it will be my last appearance," asserted the accused.

"See that it is," advised the Bench.

On Vagrancy Charge

A young man, 18, was taken into custody at the C.N.R. depot early this morning by C.N.R. officer, A. B. Harris on a vagrancy charge. He pleaded guilty and was described as being a frequenter of pool rooms by day and a loiterer at the depots by night. When he was in court the last time Chief Kidd secured a position for the youth, and he worked for more than a month. When the "spell" found him smoking, one day, he was discharged.

"I think I could go back to work for this man," explained accused. "I have worked for him on eighteen occasions."

"Probably he would take you back, and make it nineteen," smiled the Bench.

"What do you want to prowl around the streetcar night for?" enquired the Magistrate. "You are eighteen and growing and should have your rest. Do you know that night time is the time to rest? You should be in bed before ten every night, unless you have a reasonable excuse. You have a reputation to live down now."

Accused invited the Magistrate to set the hour.

"Do you ever read your Bible?" asked the Bench.

"Yes sir, I do," he answered.

"Well you should read where St. Paul states that 'when he was a child he spoke as a child, but when he became a man he put away childish ways'. You are a young man now and should correct your past foolish actions."

Officer Harris informed the court that taxi and bus drivers had complained of accosting girls who left them to and from the depot.

"I have never paid anything to me," put in accused.

"A hard working and honest father and a brother are running their feet off to try and do what they can for this boy," explained Mr. Chief, when he asked that the youth be left in his care until the following week when the advice of the brother will be sought.

"The case of this young man before me on a charge of this nature I will send you to Bin wash for the term which is provided by law," warned the Bench as the youth left the room.

Jail For Fugitist

Bertram Fuller of Shannonville was sentenced to seven months in the county jail here by Magistrate Harry Bedford of Deseronto, when he appeared for sentence on a charge of common assault charge preferred against him by a fellowprisoner man named Pringle. He was also sentenced to one month in jail on the drunk charge, but the sentences will run concurrently.

Fuller was arrested on the Kingston Highway between Point Anne and Shannonville by Inspector Francis Nanhan and Sergeant of Provincial Police G. Atkins on Tuesday afternoon.

County Attorney Donnan conducted the prosecution.

Moral Instruction In Public Schools

Pastors Begin to Co-operate With Teachers and Boards

NOTABLE EXPERIMENTS

Movement Arouses Interest in Many Parts of Canada

Special to The Intelligencer.

Possibilities of increasing and improving the religious and moral instruction given in the public schools are being considered by some of the Provincial Governments. Some of the churches in city and country are conducting practical experiments and at least two cities have taken the initiative in providing courses which complement the Sunday School teaching.

Reviewing some of these activities in the following article, Rev. Manson Doyle, B. A., of Manitoba, a secretary of the Methodist Board of Religious Education, quotes a description of a Western Canadian community where children fourteen years of age had not yet heard of the Bible.

By Mason Doyle

"The horrors of the Russian Revolution were due to the spiritual illiteracy of the people. The menace of every nation today is not illiteracy, but spiritual illiteracy, lack of moral government in every individual citizen."

Perhaps it is the recognition of some such need as this in Canada which is responsible for the fact that in every part of the Dominion there is a large percentage of people asking for more and general offices of the church Boards of Religious Education and of the Religious Education Council of Canada indicate that a variety of people are interested in this matter.

In many cities in Canada classes in religious instruction have been connected in connection with the public school work. This is being done in almost every grade and in many types of schools, from the immense school plants in the large city like London, Ontario, to the little red school house of the prairies. The plans vary a great deal in different places, but in each the work is being done by the minister in cooperation with the public school teachers. One hour or one half hour a week is devoted to religious education.

In London the school staff itself used a selected number of Scripture passages and standard hymns for memory work, and every week the children of that city learn by heart a number of choice selections from the Bible. In Sunday in the Sunday School these passages, when memorized, are used as material for worship, and on the Sunday and week day school combine forces excellently.

Out on the prairie last year, Rev. J. W. Melvin of the Church of the Nazarene, Pinkus, Manitoba, found seven public schools in his field. He obtained the cooperation of all the teachers and set up, with the unanimous backing of the school boards, definite religious teaching in all seven schools. He said:

"I have given the definite instruction myself, although last winter after Christmas, when roads were bad, attendance small and my visits necessarily likely to be somewhat irregular, I asked the teachers in the country schools to read short chapters or parts of chapters from such books as Burbun's 'Stories from the Bible'; Bird's 'One Hundred Bible Stories', or Bird's 'Doors of Nazareth.' They told this as the children were gathered about the fire in the morning, getting warmed up for school.

"All the country teachers honored my request and reported that they as well as the pupils enjoyed the reading. Personally, I think this was the best contribution I make to the life of the community."

During a depressing season in sunny Alberta, one young pastor of a Union Church kept himself optimistic and useful by opening classes in three of the public schools of his district, where no religious teaching of any kind had ever been given. He found children fourteen years of age utterly ignorant of what a Bible or Christ might be.

In communities where there are two or more Protestant pastors co-operation among themselves and with the teachers and Boards is being worked out at present. The cities of London and Guelph are exceptions to the general rule that the church and the minister take the initiative and provide the teaching.

Recently a very influential committee, representing four of the largest Protestant bodies in Canada, held a conference regarding and moral training for boards with the Minister of Education for Ontario, Premier Howard Ferguson, seeking to interest the Department in securing more Bible teaching and moral instruction in the public schools of that Province.

A committee appointed by the Religious Education Council of Canada is giving leadership to this movement in five week-day religious schools. A plan of procedure has been carefully outlined, lessons and text selected, and the results of the work of this national body are for all.

CONFER WITH MAYOR ON SUBURBAN AREA

Mr. R. Muir and Mr. J. Smith who are connected with the Provincial Highway Department were in the city hall yesterday conferring with members of the City Council relative to matters appertaining to the suburban area commission. The meeting was held in Mayor Miker's office and was attended by the majority of the aldermen. Much information in regard to what is proposed to be done by the suburban area commission was imparted to all present. At the next meeting of the Council the matter of appointing a member of the Council on the commission will no doubt be considered.

TO PLANT "RED" FLAG AT POLE

Moscow.—Soviet Russia's decision to send an aerial expedition to the North Pole has fired popular imagination in Russia. The Bolshevik aspect their airmen to plant the red flag of revolution at the pole before the end of the summer.

Commander Boudinsky, who will lead the expedition, says a number of scientists, explorers and airmen are anxious to follow Dr. Fridtjof Nansen's example and participate in the adventure. Boudinsky asserted today that a specially designed airplane with four motors and powerful wireless equipment which is now nearing completion in Philadelphia will be brought to Nova Zembla, on the Kara sea where Nansen and the other participants will assemble.

The expedition expects to start in September and to remain at the Pole seven days. As soon as the Pole is reached a radio message will be sent out to all observatories and radio stations in Europe and the United States in order to verify the accuracy of the presence at the pole of the expedition. The following message will then be transmitted throughout the world: "Workers of the entire world; Arise; the red flag of revolution floats at the top of the world."

NITTI HURT IN DUEL

Son of Former Premier in Clash With Francesconi Over Article

Naples, April 24.—A duel with swords was fought here yesterday between Vincenzo Nitti, son of former Premier Nitti, and Giulio Francesconi, in which Nitti was painfully wounded in the right arm.

The duel was the outgrowth of an article published by Francesconi in the Fascist newspaper Mezzo Giorno, which Nitti considered an insult to his father. The duel lasted for ten seconds, when Francesconi, ran Nitti through the arm. Thereupon the surgeons in attendance stopped the fight.

When real interest is injected into our daily tasks, that which we call work really becomes a pleasure. When we make a joy of it we eliminate the element of drudgery. The natural result is that our best that is in us asserts itself, stimulates our ambitions and leads on to success.

Some foreign actresses when they reach the United States take out naturalization papers, but the wise ones just buy a marriage license.

SEEDING SPEEDS UP

Will Be General By Early Next Week if Weather Holds in West

Winnipeg, April 24.—If fine weather continues for the remainder of the week seeding operations should be fairly general throughout many sections of the prairie provinces early next week, according to reports received here. The land is reported to be in excellent condition, with sufficient moisture to remove any fear of drouth for some weeks.

Seeding is well under way in some districts of Alberta. A heavy snowfall last night in Northern Alberta will delay work for a few day s, but in the southern part of the province it will be in full swing at the beginning of the week.

In Saskatchewan and Manitoba a few farmers have commenced seeding. Seeding on Indian lands in the Qu'Appelle Valley, Saskatchewan, started last Friday.

RURAL RETALIATION

"Hush!" sneered the city comedian to the rural audience. "I suppose you'll laugh at that one next summer, too," replied a voice in the audience. "It was last summer."

TURN BACK FIVE LEAF HURLERS

Reading Get Fat Batting Average and Thirteen Tallies

Reading, Pa., April 24.—Blasting the offerings of five visiting pitchers for 19 hits, including successive home runs by Eastner and Kirkham, the Reading Keystones fattened their batting averages at the expense of the Toronto Leafs in the first game of a series here yesterday, the House of Abbott winning by the score of 13 to 8. Walter Smallwood went the whole pitching route for the Kets, but there was nothing mysterious about his stanza. The Blowfly men hammered him for 11 solid hits, including a home run drive over the right field wall by Captain Eddie Grillow. Dick Hoblitzell, Reading's returned first sacker, equalled Frank O'Rourke's International League record when he collected six hits in six trips to the plate. Myles Thomas, the speed boy whom Reading sold to Toronto last Spring, was the first of Howley's pitchers to be mistreated by the Keystoners. He went along swimmingly until the third inning, and then he was bumped for six hits and six runs. Glaser, Lynch, Faulkner and Butterfield also tried to stem the tide but failed.

Leafs Score Early

In the third inning the Leafs gave Thomas a lead of one run. Vincent singled to right, but was forced at second on Thomas' attempted sacrifice. Smallwood to Elliott. On Cuthbody's tap to the box Smallwood threw wide to second, and both runners were safe. O'Rourke lined a single to centre, and Thomas scored. Layne hit into a double play, Miller to Brown to Hoblitzell.

Thomas yielded six straight hits in the diminutive third, and had not retired a man when relieved by Norman Glaser. Brown opened the attack with a single to centre. Elliott got a freak hit when his roller bounded over Thomas' shoulder. Hoblitzell beat out a bunt down third, and the bases were filled. Horan singled sharply to left centre, scoring Brown and Elliott. Lightner lifted one over the right field fence for a home run, Hoblitzell and Horan also scoring on the drive. Kirkham followed with a Ruth assault in the same direction, and Howley pulled Thomas. Glaser retired the next three batters.

Government Under Suspicion for Not Preventing Expulsion From States

Tokio—Premier Kiyoura and Foreign Minister Matsui are to appear before the Privy Council to explain the situation wherein the United States Congress has passed legislation excluding Japanese. From indications it appears that the Privy Council is disposed to censure the present Government.

It is understood authoritatively that new instructions will not be sent Ambassador Hanihara at Washington until after the Privy Council meeting.

United States Ambassador Woods and Foreign Minister Matsui conferred for an hour recently. While the details of the their conversation were not divulged, there is reason to believe that Baron Matsui sought counsel concerning methods of approaching the situation growing out of United States legislation to exclude Japanese and of making it clear to Congress that Japan did not intend anything in the nature of threat of interference in United States domestic affairs.

MARITZ SENTENCED

Former Boer General Gets Three Years; Was Leader in 1914 Rebellion

Capetown, S.A.—Manie Maritz, former Boer general, one of the most prominent figures in the rebellion of 1914, was sentenced to imprisonment for three years.

The case against Maritz, who was living in exile since 1914 until a few months ago, had several serious features. Maritz not only was a member of the defence force, but he persuaded his subordinate officers to join the rebellion along with him and he headed over the loyal regiments of the force to Germany in Southwest Africa.

In sentencing Maritz the judge took into account the former Boer general's sufferings while in exile.

ROCHESTER WINS AND BUFFALO TOO

Baltimore, April 24—Rochester took the opener from Baltimore here yesterday, 15 to 6. Groves, who started for Baltimore, was ineffective and was yanked in the first frame after Rochester had gathered a four-run lead. Frank and Ogden, who followed him, were unable to check the Hustlers in the pinches. The Orioles found Wisner a pearl for four innings, but after this solved his shoots and forced his retirement in the seventh. Karpo succeeded him and held the locals safe.

Buffalo Swatters Feature

Jersey City, April 24.—Terrific batting inaugurated the initial series of the Buffalo team in the home of the Jersey City Skeeters yesterday afternoon, an easy victory over the Jersey men is a score of 16 to 5. The Bisons hammered the curves of Pitchers Barnhardt and Lepliant for 20 safe hits, including a dozen, a pair of triples and a homer by Anderson in the ninth with two men on bases.

Myrl Brown is Hero

Newark, N.J., April 24.—Myrl Brown, former Reading and Pittsburg pitcher, was the hero in the Bears' 8 to 5 victory over Syracuse, in the first game of a series here yesterday. It was his first appearance in Newark Berry, and, after a shaky first inning, he was invincible. His triple in the eighth inning was one of the longest hits ever made at Meadowbrook Field.

SHOCKER IS SICK MAN

RECOGNIZING THE FACTS

(Louisville Courier-Journal)

America's policy of isolation, practiced for the last five years, must be reversed. In this day of close international communications anything savoring of national aloofness is an anachronism. It is belied by all telecevise in the life of the modern word. What needs to be done is frankly to admit the error that was made when this policy was adopted, and to act in the light of that admission.

Stays on Duty in Hospital Till All Are Rescued from Flames

New York, April 24.—Seventy-five patients, many of them helpless, owe their lives to-day to the heroism of Sister Dorothea, nun, who sounded a fire alarm and remained on duty until all were moved from the fourth floor of St. Mary's Hospital in Brooklyn, when it was swept by fire.

After all of the patients had been moved by attendants, Sister Dorothea nearly collapsed and was treated by physicians.

Ninety-four nurses, 16 doctors and 25 internes were in the burning ward and moved the patients to another ward.

Police found Sister Dorothea, looking into each room to see that all the occupants were safely out, and she refused to leave until she had finished her tour.

THE MISSING LINK

A twelve-year-old child was attempting to work a new sewing machine according to the printed instructions. All seemed to be going well till the mother's attention was attracted by a dress sash and a whispered, "Oh, dear, I can't find it!"

"What is it that you cannot find?" the husband asked.

"Why, mother," was the reply, "the directions say, 'Place the cover to the right of the operator,' and I can't find the operator."

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For The Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo which is pure and greaseless and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure you get Mulsified and you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Ask for the name Watkins on the package.

POTATO FLORADORA

Select six medium-size potatoes, round rather than long. Cut a slice from the top and scoop out as much potato as you can without harming the skin. Place potato shells in cold water while preparing filling. To do this, brown one small onion chopped fine in one tbsp butter. Add six medium-sized mushrooms cut fine, 1 cup flour, 1 tsp chopped parsley and the potato mixture which has been scooped out and chopped fine. Saute until the whole takes on a golden-brown tint. Then add 3 tbsps milk and cook till the mixture thickens. Stir in carefully the yolk of one egg, salt and pepper and ¼ tsp paprika. Drain potato shells and fill them with this sauce mixture piling it slightly in the centre. Rub the surface of the potatoes with oil and bake. Garnish with a sprig of parsley.

This seems rather complicated but they are delicious and well worth the trouble.

What Girls Must Do

When girls are tired and breathless when cheeks are pale, and eyes dull and the head beats restlessly when you run upstairs, or climb a hill, mother nature is warning you that your blood is thin and watery. You have been using your strength too fast. You do not eat enough because your appetite is not capricious to enjoy plain wholesome food. All this means nerves, and girls are anaemic—bloodless. You can be better, more active, prettier, in a very short time if you can only get more and better blood. But how to ask. It is easy. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich blood purity, bring back health and sparkling eye, and they improve your appetite so that you naturally crave for and be able you to use your food and like it. You will feel the benefit almost as soon as you begin taking them, and if you will persist you will soon be surprised to find that does not fail—do not delay. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, coupled with wholesome food and out-of-door exercise, will do wonders for you.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BANDITS THREATEN

Montreal, April 23.—Two local bandits have threatened to kidnap and to divulge, have received letters threatening them with vengeance if any more severe sentences are imposed on bank bandits.

FRECKLES

NOW IS THE TIME TO GET RID OF THESE UGLY SPOTS

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have disappeared entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear freckles and gain a beautiful complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

CHANGE OF LIFE LOSES TERRORS

For Women who Rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Greenville, Pa.—"I took your medicine through the Change of Life and it did wonders for me. I was down in bed when I started to take it and weighed 98 pounds. I had hot flashes and was so nervous and weak that everything would get black and I could not see. I would sit and cry and did not know what I was crying for. Since I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel younger than I did ten years ago, and my friends all tell me I look younger, and I owe it all to the Vegetable Compound. I do all my housework for a family of seven now. I will be glad to answer any woman who writes me in regard to my case."—Mrs. JOHN MYERS, 56 Union St., Greenville, Pa.

Many letters similar to this have been published testifying to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They are sincere expressions from women who describe as best they can their feelings before and after taking this well-known medicine.

Doctor's Prescription Gives Quick Relief From Indigestion Or No Cost

In the Spring your liver becomes sluggish and your bowels clogged. The result is intestinal poisoning! When warmer weather strikes, many suffer frequently with attacks of indigestion, heartburn, heavy palpitation, gas and sour stomach, headaches, coated tongue, bad taste, biliousness and such symptoms.

Cleanse and tone your liver and bowels with Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup. Helps nature put stomach in condition; tones your tired nerves; brace up your entire system and put purer and healthier blood coursing through your veins. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You, too, will be satisfied, as others have, or no cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Nolan the Druggist and W. H. Laidlaw in Belleville and T. J. McCullough in Desoronto, and by leading druggists in each city and town.

Belleville Made

Mentioned from coast one-
O. H. Brett, vice-president performed the duties of chairman at the afternoon meeting and extended cordial words of welcome to the distinguished guests.

Mayor Mikel, on behalf of the city, made a brief but felicitous address and gave official welcome to those who had honored Belleville by choosing it as their Canadian home. His Worship adverted to the fact that the finest majority of the original settler in the Bay of Quinte district had come this way from the State of New York and we were therefore associated with intimately, of kinship. He assured the Belleville both municipally and regularly and stated that everything possible would be done to make them abundantly satisfied because they had chosen Belleville as their Canadian home.

Mr. Warshed in a brief acknowledgment, frankly admitted that he was already favorably impressed with Belleville and hoped to return to continue the pleasant relationships already established. He also made reference to the city manager plan of government now in operation at Watertown.

Mr. Hinde, in the course of his remarks, paid graceful tribute to the fine civic spirit and wisdom of the operation he saw upon every side at Belleville. This was a spirit that the cities of Watertown and Carthage might well imitate in greater degree. He was convinced but his visit had made a fortunate choice in the city of Belleville and felt assured that the success already attained at Carthage would be repeated here. The company was conservative in its policies. They had plenty of money to add other lines to their output but they took a course only after mature deliberation and a reasonable assurance of success. Their new machines for the manufacture of paper bags and envelopes were remarkable efficient and should find a ready market in Canada as they already had done in the United States. After some further references to the company's activities and policies, Mr. Hinde concluded an address that created a most favorable impression on all who heard it.

Rev. Fr. C. T. Scott, of Toronto, who was also present at the luncheon had been one of the original promoters of the Belleville Manufacturing Co. and was glad to know that the spirit of civic citizenship was still being exemplified fostered and continued.

After further brief addresses from Messrs F. G. Wilson, C. M. Reid, Ald. R. J. E. Graham, chairman of industries in the city council and others, a very pleasant and cordial function was brought to a close.

Messrs. Warshwil and Hinde arrived in the city on Tuesday night and left for home yesterday afternoon, they came by motor car, crossing the ferry from Cape Vincent to Kingston, but intended to return via Prescott and Brockville.

Ancient Jerusalem Trench Lengthens History of Old City Five Hundred Years

London, April 23.—A further discovery carrying the history of Jerusalem 500 years further than hitherto known is reported in the Daily Telegraph by Professor Stuart McAllister, who recently traced the ancient city of David.

This latest find in the excavation of the city shows a great trench sunk in rock other than the Jebusite well previously found, and apparently formed a part of the city's defenses in the early period.

On the surface of the trench which is eight feet deep and eleven feet wide, there is a series of broken steps now covered for the most part by the rubbish which cumbered them since before the time of Abraham.

Professor McAllister also reports finding at the top of the trench what he believes to be a Jebusite or pre-Jebusite sanctuary, and he describes it as by far the oldest known "holy place" in Jerusalem.

Bride Victim of Chinese Bandits

Returned Missionary Tells of Husband's Murder and Kidnaping of Friend

Victoria B. C.—A bride of four months, herself just recovered from hospital treatment Mrs. B. Hoff, of Grand Forks, N. D. who arrived on the liner Empress of Russia, yesterday from the Orient told of the murder of her husband and the kidnapping of a friend. It is a story of lawless banditry in China. Behmard Alfred Hoff, of Abercrombie N. D., went to China in 1922 to teach and married his girlhood sweetheart, engaged in missionary work there. Their station for the Lutheran brethren mission was at Tao Ning.

On Christmas Day it became known that the marauding bands of Lao Yeng Ren were in the vicinity. The next day the residents of the compound removed the native convert girls from the mission compound to an adjoining one. In the early morning the bandits rushed the town and attacked the compound. In the darkness cries of "run" in Chinese led the inmates to expose themselves as they sought shelter in the adjoining compound. Mr. Hoff was struck by a rifle bullet which passed through the lungs. Mrs. Hoff was slightly wounded.

If Back Hurts Begin On Salts

FLUSH YOUR KIDNEYS OCCASIONALLY BY DRINKING QUARTS OF GOOD WATER

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick, Rheumatism, headaches, biliousness, nervousness, kidney disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

PLUNGES TO DEATH

Confessed Slayer Dies in Chicago Hurls Himself Through Window

Chicago, April 24.—James Peterucci, alias James de Joy, confessed slayer of Anna de Joy, the girl he married after deserting his wife and two children, plunged from the thirteenth-story window in the detective bureau today and died on the pavement below.

He was lifted from the sidewalk, his face crushed and his several bones broken, and died en route to a hospital.

Detectives were making ready to take his picture, when he shoved two of them out of his way, rushed to a window and plunged headlong through the glass to the street.

Peterucci's wife would not get up and cook breakfast for him, so he killed her. The was Peterucci's confession, solving a crime that had puzzled the police for some weeks.

BIG REDUCTION FOR PERMANENT FORCES

Will Keep Department in Limit Made by Cut of $490,000

Ottawa.—A drastic reduction in the permanent forces throughout the Dominion is to be made shortly to enable the Department of National Defence to remain within the amount to be voted by Parliament this session, which represents a cut of $490,000 from last year.

"A plan has been drawn up and is now being considered," said G. J. Desbarats, Deputy Minister of National Defence, to-night, "but nothing definite has been reached yet. The heads of the various military districts are being consulted, and when their final reports are received as to the extent to which their respective districts can be reduced in strength, we will have some solid ground on which to base a decision."

Ontario to Feel It.

Military District Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in Ontario will feel the cut as severely as any on the Dominion, and if they are reduced as heavily as the force at Quebec City was to-day unofficially reported to be cut, a large number of permanent troops will be demobilized in Ontario.

"I saw that report, but it is quite unofficial and premature," said Mr. Desbarats, when asked about the despatch that the Royal 22nd of Quebec was to be reduced 50 per cent.

A similar reduction will have to be made in the provisions, for the annual training of the non-permanent forces, as this year's vote for that purpose also involves a considerable cut from last year's appropriation.

New Machine Can Compute Own Algebra

Another Invention Announced Prints Without Type

WILL REPLACE STEEL

Alloy Metal On Way Will Change Industry, Says Research Leader

New York—Discovery of a new alloy metal to take the place of steel in the near future is predicted by Dr. Arthur A. Hamerschlag, president of the Research Corporation. Dr. Hamerschlag said that inventors working with the Research Corporation recently had produced a marvelous calculating machine that computes by algebra and a printing machine that prints without type.

Dr. Hamerschlag in a statement on the work of the Research Corporation said in part:

Twelve Years Ago

"Twelve years ago Dr. Frederick G. Cottrell, director of the Fixed Nitrogen Research Laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture, who at the that time was professor of chemistry in the University of California conceived the idea of a quasi-public corporation organized for the purpose of encouraging inventors and introducing their patents, with the hope that in time the organization would become self-sustaining by receiving a share of the royalties on patents and would use surplus earnings to make discovery the number of new patents.

"From number of years this corporation, which took over Dr. Cottrell patents for electrical precipitation, has been functioning under the watchful eye of the Smithsonian Institution, because the Cottrell patents in his life were first presented to Smithsonian. This institution, however, under its charter from the Government could not carry out entirely the work suggested by Dr. Cottrell and as a result the research corporation was formed.

"At the end of a successful year the Research Corporation has demonstrated that Dr. Cottrell's view finds mentally sound, since it is actually taking revenue from those inventions that have been successfully commercialized in his other invention to get a benefit from the industries that can utilize their inventions. This work of discovering, helping and conserving American inventive genius is without parallel, it is an experiment in social economics and business which promises results of far-reaching importance.

Patents From Patents

"Men come to the Research Corporation with numerously scrolled patents. Hundreds must be discouraged, because they only rediscover old devices. Others contemplate new uses for old inventions. But every now and then some startling, unexpected invention is discovered. In a single year we have uncovered a marvelous calculating machine that can compute algebraically; a printing machine that dispenses with type, electrotypes and halftones, and instead of printing from a design which carries the ink, prints more rapidly and better from a pattern which never comes in contact with the ink.

"We are on the threshold of an era of changes in the great field of metallurgy. Steel has ruled king of industry. Its position is being threatened by industry. Its position is being threatened by industry. We have been pioneering in the fields of the alloys. One inventor who can produce a new metal with the strength of steel, non-corrosive as platinum, and already is on the horizon.

"That this inventive steering house has begun to function in the public interest and offers a marvelous opportunity for the inventor who is a pioneer and needs a business organization to safeguard his interests and to bring his patents into successful use.

"The corporation at its recent annual meeting placed a fund at the disposal of the Smithsonian Institution for several research purposes. Thus the child of the great governmental scientific mind is a position not alone to act as a 'steering house' for inventors, but to aid in parent inventing, voted a grant of $5000 to it as well."

GUARD ON SUSPECT

Police Take Precautions As Fasting Grows Over Mrs. Bauer's Death

New York, April 23.—Intense feeling over the mysterious death of Hazel Bauer, slain on Staten Island March 11, by a man who lured her into an automobile and shot her after attempting to attack her, caused police to take extra precautions to-day to guard Harry Hoffman ,suspect in the case.

Hoffman is under indictment for alleged assault on Mrs. Katherine Campbell, and is also held without bail on a short affidavit charging him with homicide in the Bauer case. Prosecutor District Attorney Fach is seeking to have the grand jury indict Hoffman for the murder of Mrs. Bauer.

Above—Reeling silk in the Flowery Kingdom. Below—An Empress liner loading silk at Yokohama and a Canadian Pacific silk special passing through the Rockies.

Production of silk dates far into antiquity, and for more the manner of its production was kept secret. Up to the sixth century A.D. all raw silk was imported into Europe from China, but the Byzantine Emperor Justinian induced two monks to travel into China to procure silk worm eggs and though the export of them was punishable by death, these monks succeeded in bringing back a quantity concealed in the hollows of their pilgrims staves.

From Byzantium, silk cultivation spread into Greece and Syria, thence into Spain, and thence successively into Sicily, Naples, Northern Italy and France, being established in Italy in the sixteenth century.

Various determined attempts have been made, principally between the years 1622 and 1820 to establish the silk industry in America, resulting at one time in a not inconsiderable production, but the excessive cost of the labor involved in the rearing of the worms and in the reeling of the raw silk from the cocoons as compared with the trifling cost of such labor in Europe paved with the trifling cost of such labor in Europe and Asia, has rendered it impossible to produce raw silk at commercial prices on this continent.

Most of the silk imported to America comes from Japan, Italy and China which, also, the humidity of the atmosphere contributes no little to the success of the industry in those countries. The greatest importation is from the Flowery Kingdom, and this mostly in the raw silk form as it is reeled from the cocoons.

Silk is valuable. In one consignment of a few hundred bales, hundreds of thousands of dollars are tied up, and for this reason, that no time may be lost in making up the raw material and placing the finished goods upon the market, the product of the little silk worm is given transportation facilities which few other commodities enjoy. The bales of skeins are stowed carefully in the vessels which transport them across the Pacific, and in such a manner that they can be speedily and safely discharged upon arrival at the Canadian or American port. For this purpose, Special trains made up of passenger baggage equipment await the arrival of the vessel at the docks at Vancouver for the Empress liners of the Canadian Pacific, and once the Empress liners of the Canadian Pacific, and once the train proceeds forward to its destination, often making train proceeds forward to its destination, often making better time than the regular passenger trains.

For the reason that the route is more direct than the silk dealers in New York, where much of the silk destined, consignments of raw silk arrive and during the past few months many interesting time records have been made over Canadian Pacific lines.

On March 22nd, the "Empress of Asia" sailed from Yokohama carrying the largest consignment of silk ever to be forwarded from the Orient for some time. The silk was specially stowed for prompt discharge on arrival at Vancouver, and from the time the steamer docked, until the special train to New York left, there was an elapsed time of only thirteen and one-half minutes per car.

The silk was delivered in New York about midnight April 4th, the through time from Yokohama to New York being 13 days, 2 hours, and 15 minutes, calendar time. This constituted a record run as far as fresh traffic is concerned, but passenger traffic is handled as readily by this company, a 60 hour passenger service between Vancouver and St. John, N.B., or the St. Lawrence route being regularly maintained.

Music & Drama

"Fools First" produced by that master director, Mahlon Neiser, is a First National attraction, is to be the feature Thursday to Saturday at the Regent Theatre.

"Fools First" is a story of contrast between the wealthy and the poor, with the conflict devolving about the efforts of the latter to extricate the former from part of its riches. The "Fools" are the members of a band of robbers, which endeavors to enrich itself unlawfully at the expense of the rich.

A bank is the objective—and Walter Reed, a young bank clerk who is about to break into the bank they find an acquaintance, one Ronnie Fraser, loaning. He had looted the safe but, regaining his selfite, had replaced the package he had taken from the vault. Ronnie is bored and the escapade but upon reaching their rendezvous, disgusted that they contain only scraps of paper and legal tenders.

Hugh McNair Kahler wrote the story of "Fools First," which is conceded to be one of the most dramatic and powerful pictures ever filmed.

When the new Metro picture, "The Eternal Struggle," appears on the screen at the Griffin Theatre Friday and Saturday a new screen luminary—Renee Adoree—will flash before movie fans. Miss Adoree is a member of a distinguished cast but it is certain her work in this picture will win stellar honors for her.

Miss Adoree is the 5-year-old wife of Tom Moore, the screen star. She is famed abroad for her interpretive dancing and is a brilliant musician, and a clever song writer besides.

While Miss Adoree was a dancer on the New York stage she frequently wrote her own accompaniments. Her song "Don't Leave Me" had wide popularity.

The gripping thrilling scenes of "The Eternal Struggle" were filmed in northern Canada. Miss Adoree was in northwest Canada. Miss Adoree naturally in the path of the miserable near Banff, Alberta; and again when her camp overturned in the treachery ous Seymour Rapids. Although Reginald Barker is the producer, it is said she he "doubled" in the plucky little star refused and went through her scenes without flinching.

Miss Adoree plays the part of Andree, a French Canadian. She herself is French born and spent her childhood in France and England. She was a member of the first troupe of burlesque which fled from northern France when the Germans entered in 1914.

"The Eternal Struggle" is based upon G. B. Lancaster's novel. Lew Cody and Miss Campbell in the scenes by J. G. Hawks and Monte Katterjohn

It is presented by Louis B. Mayer. Percy Hilburn was the cameraman.

The cast includes Barbara La Marr, Eddie Williams, Pat O'Malley and Wallace Beery.

"BARNEY GOOGLE AND SPARK PLUG" MUSICAL COMEDY DREW BIG CROWDS TO GRAND OPERA HOUSE KINGSTON

(From Kingston paper of April 19)

"Barney Google and Spark Plug" held forth at the Grand Opera House on Friday afternoon and evening and the large audiences present certainly had a hearty laugh at this funny pair to say nothing of "Mrs. Barney Google" Belle Belmont) who is certainly a wonderful entertainer. "Barney Google" (Jerry Sullivan) who is small in stature, is crammed full of jokes and kept the audience in roars of laughter during the entire performance. "Mrs Barney Google" certainly made a decided hit. She may not succeed in getting along nicely with her husband, but she certainly was on good terms with her audience. Her song number in the second act was a crackerjack, and she responded with numerous encores. John Mack as "Sparkplug," Spark Plug's colored trainer, was right there with the goods, Jeannette Maser, as "Julie" Barney Google's daughter, and Franklin Hopkins as "Jimmie Jordan," Julie's sweetheart, both have good voices and their song hits are full of pep. The other members of the company were exceptionally fine.

One of the features of the show is the first-class chorus, composed of girls who know how to do both sing and dance. They made a decided impression with their dancing numbers. The costumes worn in this production are very beautiful.

The Blossom Sisters who are members of the chorus, did a specially act which was heartily encored. They are a very clever pair and exceedingly graceful dancers. Eddie Hayes showed her step dancing should be done, and he was loudly applauded.

Altogether "Barney Google" is a splendid production a sure cure for the blues, and well worth seeing."

See "Barney Google and Spark Plug" here at Griffin's Theatre tonight.

FRANCE OPPOSES DISARMAMENT PLANS

NEW MOTOR LIGHT TEST EFFECTIVE

Local Market Square Scene of Much Activity as Last Night Until 12 p.m. Motorists Were Assembled There for the Official light test which was placed in operation there by the police department.

Under the provisions of the new Highway Traffic Act, the law is very strict on the lights which adorn motor vehicles. The law insists that the lights be sufficiently bright without being classified as a glaring light, and also that the rays of the light beproperly focused on the roadway.

This then was the purpose of the test, and car owners were invited to the market square by police officers to have their car lights tested. Tonight between the hours of 7.30 and 11 similar tests will be made, and car owners are invited to drive their cars down to the market square wher they will be gladly tested by police officers and will again be in charge of the matter.

The wall of a building near the market is marked at a distance of 42 inches from the ground. The car which is being tested is stationed at a distance of seventy five feet from the wall and when the lights are turned on, the parallel rays must not strike above the mark on the wall. Every car owner is cordially invited, but it is not compulsory. It would be well for car owners to take advantage of this opportunity as the law in this connection will be enforced in the city. Light and parking laws pertaining to motor vehicles will be enforced in the future. Many of the cars were found to be out of focus. Chapter 46 section 10, sub-section 1 of the Highway Traffic Act, reads:—

It shall be unlawful to carry on a motor vehicle any lighting device or over four candle power, equipped with a reflector, unless the same shall be so destroyed, deflected or screened that no portion of the parallel beam of reflected light when measured seventy-five feet or more ahead of the lamp, shall rise above 42 inches from the level of the surface on which the vehicle stands.

Sub section 2 read—A motor vehicle, at such times as lights are required by the provisions of this section for such vehicle may, in lieu of the lighting equipment required in the last preceding sub section have carried on the left side of the car in such a manner as to be clearly visible to the front and rear for a distance of at least two hundred feet and to show white to the front and to the rear of the vehicle, provided, however, that such light shall not be displayed while the motor vehicle is in motion.

Sub-section 10 read—It shall be unlawful to carry on a motor vehicle any lighting device of over four candle power, equipped with a reflector unless the same shall be so designed, deflected or arranged that no portion of the parallel beam of reflected light when measured seventy-five feet or more ahead of the lamp shall rise above 42 inches from the level surface on which the vehicle stands.

Sub-section five—Whenever on a highway after dark and before dawn every bicycle or tricycle shall carry on the back thereof a red lighted lamp or red reflector so placed as to be clearly visible to drivers of vehicles approaching from the rear.

Toronto, Willie Lelro, a six-year-old boy, had his life crushed out under the wheels of a motor truck. The lad was running across the street when he was struck. He died in a few minutes.

ALDERMAN IS FACING CHARGE OF CORRUPTION

Montreal Man Is Arrested For Alleged Election Offences

AT RECENT ELECTION

Three Charges Prefered Against Mongeon—Out On Bail

Montreal, April 25.—Alderman Alex. Mongeon representative for St. John ward on the city council was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant issued by Mr. G. Gagner, grocer and butcher who lives at 19 Atlantic avenue, charging the alderman with electoral corruption during the last municipal elections.

Three charges are preferred against Alderman Mongeon, one alleging that he distributed liquor and refreshments certain parties, the second that he, or somebody working with him, used intimidation toward voters, and the third that he promised money or gifts in kind in return for votes.

The complaints are lengthy ones and the above is a brief summary of them. Alderman Mongeon appeared before Mr. Recorder Semple this morning and pleaded not guilty. He was allowed out on personal bail of $100 on each of the three charges and he will appear for trial on May 1st next.

Sons of England Pay Tribute to Patron Saint

To commemorate St. George's Day the members of Oxford Lodge Sons of England, held a concert and dance in Johnstone's Academy last night which was largely attended. The committee in charge of the affair were Bros. H. A. Lemon, Chairman; W. E. Armitage, Secretary-treasurer; E. J. Fidwell H. J. Pulker, W. J. Bevans and J. Dark.

Previous to dancing a delightful programme was carried out under supervision of chairman H. A. Lemon. All taking part acquitted themselves in a most creditable manner. The program was as follows:

National Anthem

Piano Solo—The Dreamer—Master Raymond Lemon.

Song—"The Bells of the Lighthouse" Mr. Stanley Robbins.

Song—"Until" and "Those Eyes of Grey"—Miss Ivon Daly.

Song—"The West, A West and You" and "Beautiful City Night"—Mrs. Jack Stiles.

Violin Solo—Berthouens Minuet—Master Leslie Lemon.

Song—"Sweet Devon" and "The Skipper"—Mr. Alan Kerr.

Classic Dance—"Golden Butterfly"—Miss Ida Daly.

Song—"Eddie and I"—Mr. Harry Mackay.

Song—"The Trumpeter"—Mr. Harold Howard.

Song—"Drifting back to Dreamland" Mr. Mc.Hugh.

The accompaniments were played by Miss E. Fern.

At the conclusion of the programme dancing was indulged in, appropriate music for same being provided by the Miss Tom orchestra. A dainty lunch was provided at midnight after which dancing was indulged in for some time longer.

BODY FOUND IN BAY FINALLY IS IDENTIFIED

Remains of Late Mrs. Marian Wiggleworth Laid To Rest

WAS WASHED ASHORE

Woman Had Been Missing From Home For Two Months

The remains of the late Mrs. Marian Wiggleworth, whose body was found in Zakeron Bay, Wagg Island, beyond Massassaga Park, in the waters of Quinte Bay, yesterday afternoon, were laid to rest this afternoon in Belleville cemetery.

A short service was held at the funeral parlors of the Belleville Burial Company, Campbell street, Rev. George Marshall, Pastor of Emmanuel church conducted the service.

Fishermen Finds Body

Yesterday afternoon about 2.30 Chief Kidd received a telephone message from a Point Anne fisherman named L. MacDonald, informing him that he had found the body of a woman on the shores of Ship Island, the body having been washed ashore. Chief Kidd immediately notified the Provincial police and Sergeant G. Atkins with constable N. Maker left the government dock at 3.15 in a motor boat for the scene. With the officers were Coroner Dr. W. W. Boyce and Matthew Armstrong, of the Belleville Burial Company.

It was nearly five o'clock when the boat returned with the body which was taken to the Belleville Burial Company mortuary.

Sergeant Dan Boyd of the city police department noticed John Wiggleworth at his work at Tiger Tire Rubber Company and drove him to the Belleville Burial mortuary where he identified the woman as his wife, Marian Wiggleworth.

The body is badly decomposed, but apart from abrasions on the face, and not suffered from injuries which might have been done by the action of ice during the past two months. A suit of underwear, a night gown, stockings, shoes and rubbers were on the body when found.

Had Been In Ill Health

The late Mrs. Marian Wiggleworth, who has been missing for the past two months, had been in ill health prior to her disappearance. She had planned a trip to her home in England shortly before she left home, early one morning. Dragging operations in the Moira river after the lost body was found by city employes, firemen and volunteers, headed by Deputy Chief Blaske, failed to bring the body to the surface, as it decided has been carried into the bay almost immediately by the current in the river which was open for the greater part of the winter.

Born in England 28 years ago, where her mother still resides, deceased came to Canada thirteen years ago, and except for the period of time which she spent in England while her husband was in France with the Canadian army, she was a resident of Canada since. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Firth.

A sorrowing husband and two young children survive. The family resides at 10 Harriet street.

Friend of Father Is Couriers Host

LOCAL PASTOR REAL EXPONENT OF CANADIANISM

Dr. F. E. Malott Paid High Tribute at Convocation In Toronto

"MADE IN CANADA"

Conferring of Degree of D. D. is Especially Significant

In presenting Dr. F. E. Malott, pastor of Bridge Street Methodist Church, Belleville, chancellor of Victoria University in Toronto, for the degree of D. D., following the latter's thesis, Prof. F. H. Wallace, M.A., D.D., paid high tribute to the distinguished Belleville pastor and to the honor being bestowed on Dr. Malott.

Dr. Malott was one of four from the Dominion to receive the honor, the others being Bishop Frank Warne, of India, active for many years in the Indian field; Rev. C. W. Brown, B.A., B.D., of Saskatoon, and Rev. Arthur F. Addison, B.A., B.D., of Toronto.

Prof. Wallace's address follows:

Introduces Pastor

Mr. Chancellor:—

In behalf of the governors, the faculty and the graduates of this college, the Rev. you, on behalf of the Victoria Board of Theology and received not only the B.D. degree but also the Gold Medal for proficiency in the B.D. course. It is evident that Mr. Malott has a decided penchant for honors and medals. His course in Theology, as indeed in Arts, was as satisfactory to the faculty that they gladly looked upon him as a coming man, and they were not mistaken.

Always a Student

He did not consider his studies ended on leaving college, as is the case at times except—he did no consider his studies ended when he graduated. He only began. He says himself that he was born a student. He entered Wesley College than while there, for at College he was generally found among the top men. As confession of his eager appetite for knowledge is given in the statement that months leave of absence from his church in London in 1910 and spending that time in attending theological lectures in the Westminster course of the University of Berlin and the Oxford-Cambridge Extension lectures at Oxford, thus deepening his scholarship and broadening his outlook.

In later years his studies have been not so much in his old field of Philosophy as in that of History. As a student, thinker, scholar, he has always remained the friend of those who know him.

Success in Work

In the pastoral work of the ministry he has been no less successful. His pastorates have been in Chatham, London, St. Mary's, Peterborough and

BUDGET FALSE, STATEMENT OF E.B. RYCKMAN

Toronto Member Offers to Resign If Real Surplus Shown

A FLAT CHALLENGE

Would Abide by Decision of Any Chartered Accountant

Ottawa, Ont., April 25.—E. B. Ryckman, Toronto East, in the budget debate yesterday described Hon. J. A. Robb's statement on Federal finances as "false" and "misleading," and declared he could prove his statement a Peter Smith" budget, including every possible expenditure. After showing that our advances to the National Railways, whether by cash or guarantee, were nation's liabilities, Mr. Ryckman in his challenge to the Government's reliability, said:—

"If any responsible chartered accountant will certify that having regard to the present worth of our guarantees given by Canada to the Government Railways for the year 1923-1924 there is any real surplus or revenue over total expenditure for the same year, I will resign my seat."

The member for Toronto East said that he would abide by the decision of any accountant named by the Speaker "... the only condition he imposed was that the auditor should have reported the contention there was a surplus would accept the responsibility for their statements in the same manner as he had pledged himself. Going still further, in his attack on the surplus he issued this challenge without any conditions:

I have this further statement to make. If the actual Minister of Finance a of sound mind and memory or so becomes and will now or then certify that he will resign his seat forthwith down by the Acting Minister of Finance, I will resign my seat."

While discussing Federal finances, Mr. Ryckman referred to the $200,000,000 Federal liabilities last year, and claimed that the Government had wasted a huge sum. It had cost $1,500,000 to secure this bond issue, and it was a most wasteful transaction, compared with the flotation by the Ferguson Government last year.

Mr. Ryckman described this years budget as "A breach of faith" with the public who had relied on the Government's pledge of stability in tariff matters by the Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King a few years ago. "They pledged themselves and their party, and in pledging themselves the Prime Minister had placed himself in a deplorable position. ... In quoting Mr. Fielding's advice of stability, Mr. Ryckman declared some remarkable statements by Premier King had come to the same effect. In endorsing Mr. Fielding's policy of no more tariff tinkering, the Prime Minister said:—

"The best tariff policy is to restore a feeling of confidence in the minds of the business community and in the minds of the people generally throughout the country."

To justify the pledges there would be no more tariff tinkering, Premier King further said: "We feel that the settlement of conditions in Europe and the favorable chance in the American tariff are not likely to be effected for some little time yet, and for that reason we say pending a change in this external situation we wish to give to the Canadian people the assurance that we do not purpose bartier an unstable tariff, because that is the sentiment of it. The one word has to be used in relation only to the wine duties, but also its autonym. We do not propose to have an unstable tariff while the unstable condition exists in different parts of the world."

The longer man remains a bachelor the more some sensible woman doesn't want to marry him.

INCREASE IN "PERS" ISSUED IN PROVINCE

77,800 More Issued On Liquor Dispensaries During 1923 than in 1922

ANNUAL STATEMENT

Total Sales by the Board During Year $4,840,875, an Increase of $626,614.

Toronto, April 25—Purchases by the public of Ontario from the Government liquor dispensaries during 1923 totalled $4,840,875, an increase over the previous year's sales of $626,614. The number of prescriptions and requisitions handled was 704,444, an increase of 77,800 over the number in 1922. Revenue from the O.T.A., including fines, collected totalled $485,183 for the province and an additional total of $414,776 was returned to municipalities as fines received on account of prosecutions within their borders. The above figures appear in the annual report of the provincial treasury out of their profits, which was issued today.

Those data, together with the statement that the liquor dispensaries are under the supervision of the present Government, doing business on a reduced rate of profit, constitute the high lights in the annual report of the board of license commissioners, which was made available today at the Parliament buildings. As a document, it is as comprehensive and interesting as usual, being, in fact, an abstract of the liquor traffic trade carried on in the province during the past year.

Medicated Wines

Partially drafted before the close of the past session of the Legislature, the report comments upon several phases of O.T.A. administration with which the Government dealt by legislation prior to the rising of the House. The problem of the "mushroom" drug store and of medicated wines is specified, and the statement is made that attempts should be made to curb them. The sale of essences and extracts is also mentioned although it is stated that in this matter conditions have somewhat improved.

Regarding the co-operation of the medical profession during the year, it is stated that this was excellent.

"The board gladly acknowledges it thanks for the hearty co-operation of the great majority of physicians in the province in the matter to limit the prescriptions issued by them to cases of actual medical need."

Paris, April 25.—That France is going to take a determined stand against the proposed arms conference was shown here to-day when the official organ of the Government issued a flat rebuff to the proposal of Premier MacDonald that an exchange of notes on the subject be started.

The League of Nations, with its subsequent clauses is the strongest bulwark of France against further action on disarmament, and while Britain is willing to meet President Coolidge's proposals more than half way, the stand taken by France, now the most militaristic nation in the world and with the largest standing army, offers an almost insurmountable obstacle to the furtherance of disarmament plans.

London, April 25.—The British Government's acclamation of those parts of President Coolidge's New York speech that deal with possible American aid abroad will be voiced next week by Premier Ramsay MacDonald.

The Premier continues his motoring tour through the north, keeping away from political cares and not announcing his itinerary.

Mr. MacDonald stated through his private secretary that he is not willing to make any pronouncement now because he intends to deal with the Coolidge address in a speech which the Premier will make in his constituency at Aberavon, Scotland, next Monday or Tuesday. This will be the first official reply that the address will receive, and there is no doubt it will be extremely, if not emphatically, favorable in tone.

The British will take the attitude (and Mr. MacDonald may be expected to intimate as much that, although this country is an ardent supporter of the League of Nations, it placed results first and the League second. If the United States can be induced to give a lead towards disarmament, as any other move towards general economic peace and reconstruction on condition that the League shall not be invoked, then Britain will discard the League machinery in favor of that desired by Washington.

Toronto.—The annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association, composed of the college professors, high and secondary school teachers, inspectors and trustees, interested in secondary education, opened MacDonald to take steps for the appointment of a royal commission to enquire into the practicability of making entrance matriculation and a simplified seniour course" as proposed by James Dearness of London, Ont.

ABOLISHING SLEEP

It is with mixed feelings that one learns of the discovery by an English scientist of a process which will do away with the need of sleep. During sleep the weary brain-cells are recharged with vital force, which is electro-chemical in character. Dr. David Fraser Harris has devised an apparatus for recharging the brain-cells with the vital force of the requisite quantity and quality. It may be that, in the near future, we shall be able to dispense with sleep, and obtain in a few minutes all the recuperative benefit which mankind has heretofore gained by "drinking deep of all the blessedness of sleep."

Time can thus be saved—but how much would be lost! For sleep is not dreamless and desired only because it recharges the brain-cells. It brings merciful oblivion to the woes and troubles of life. It stays hasty and ill-considered action, and prepares the way for the wise second thought. Not alone on a physical sense is it "tired Nature's sweet restorer." For many other reasons do most of us feel like echoing the sentiment of Sancho Panza, "Blessed be the man who first invented sleep!"

Somehow we are compelled to doubt if the scientific substitute for sleep will ever displace the real thing, even if it were to prove as effective as its discoverer hopes. It may be used in emergencies, to enable people to keep going when they are fagged out and have no time to sleep. But Nature's ways are best.

PLANTING TIME

Now is the time to plant something. It is sprucing fortnight, when the city watches Nature and follows her example. A few seeds, a tiny root in the soil claims the hearts of all people. This is one interest that never palls, watching things grow. Every spring recalls it as fresh as ever. Whether in a flower pot or in an acre, it is the same sentiment. The romance of creation will of necessity always be new; and yet it is ages old.

SHOULD NET FISHING BE PROHIBITED HERE?

For some time past rod and line fishermen have been complaining of a shortage of black bass and pickerel in the Bay of Quinte. To tell the truth, angling has dropped off woefully during the past two years. Last year's sport was with little result. A few bass were caught but there wasn't one fit worthy mention. And as for the pickerel—there simply wasn't any.

The same conditions which obtain here have also been felt in the lakes of Prince Edward County which are fed principally by the bay. The result is that the County Board of Trade at a recent meeting passed the following resolution—

"Whereas the inland lakes of Prince Edward County are being fast depleted of game fish by the illegal and illegal use of nets of every description and whereas we desire to increase the tourist traffic of this county by offering inducements to tourists in the line of fishing, therefore, we, the Prince Edward County Board of Trade, request the Minister of Game and Fisheries to take such steps as are necessary to prohibit the use of nets of every description in the inland waters of the County of Prince Edward."

It has been told that local fishermen do not capture bass in nets because bass is one fish that will not "gill." We cannot very well dispute these men many of whom are depending on fishing for a living. At any rate the bass do not seem to be here any more. Where have they gone? As regards the pickerel they are a ruinous quantity for everybody but the net fishermen.

Two years ago local anglers reported some good catches of pickerel.

The fishermen pay well for that privilege. But on the other hand some little consideration should be shown the other part of the popula tion—those who like to fish just for the sport and the recreation it affords.

The netting season should be shortened for a time to give the anglers a chance and to bring the fish back into the bay in the numbers they appeared a couple of years ago.

The Letter Box

To the Editor of "The Intelligencer."

The last of a series of four sermons on "Modern Substitutes for the Church" given by Rev. H. E. Clark, had as its subject "Christian Science". Mr. Britton Busby Toronto Christian Science Committee on Publication for Ontario, has written a letter correcting some inferences given in the sermon so that, in his opinion, no injustice or unfairness will result. Mr. Forster's letter follows:

"Your issue of the 7th inst. contained a summary of a sermon delivered in Christ Church by Rev. H. E. Clark on the subject of Christian Science. I am sure a reverend gentleman speaking from a Christian pulpit would only be fair and charitable and any inaccuracies may be entirely due to being misinformed. May I say, make some corrections of Mr. Clark's references so that no unfairness be unintentionally done.

"Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, was not a pupil nor a helper to a noted physician. Being an invalid for years, she sought healing from a study of the Bible, and especially from the words and works of Christ Jesus as recorded in the New Testament. Hearing of Mr. P. B. Quimby of Portland, Maine, mental healer, he visited him. No permanent help resulted, as he was a mesmerist. It was only at the point of death several years later, that Mrs. Eddy was instantaneously healed by the spiritual illumination from a passage in her Bible. She writes of the Bible has been my only authority. I have had no other guide in my search and narrow way of truth."

"It is difficult to reconcile Rev. Mr. Clark's contention, that spiritual healing is not original, with Christ Jesus' command "Go ye forth, preach the gospel, Heal The Sick." The gospel are principally the records of healing of all manner of diseases among the people, which Jesus declared was doing the will of His Father, the same Father of whom David wrote "who healeth all thy diseases." Jesus taught spiritual healing to his disciples, and other students, and they in turn to others, so that the early Christians, for the first three centuries considered healing the sick to be indispensable to Christianity. We are exhorted to have the mind of the Christ, or by that faithful study of the works that I shall do ye also". The Christian Science church was organized after half a century ago to "commemorate the words and works of our Master, and to promote the reality of Christianity and its lost element of healing". Its amazing world-wide growth is based on Jesus' declaration "by their fruits ye shall know them."

"Rev. Mr. Clark seems to be experiencing very the teaching of Christian Science as regards sin, suffering and death. Such teaching is scriptural, for the Bible declares that to know God is eternal LIFE. Sin, whose wages or results is DEATH, is ignorance of God, sin, problem before death fear, suffering, sickness and disease. To know the truth that sets us free" is to know the Truth about God, eternal Life, infinite divine Mind, indestructible, eternal, divine Love, filling all space, having all power, and omnipresent, spiritual "image in man and likeness". In such a knowledge there is no place for error, or unconsciousness, and its seeming effects.

"Jesus suffered, and took His own sins, but for the sins (ignorance) of the whole world. Through His unequalled understanding of God he overcame suffering, death and the grave for our eternal example. It is fitting to acknowledge this triumphant example of a full salvation at the Easter season.

"A study of the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will prevent any misapprehensions of what is so vital a matter to humanity—namely the destruction not only of sin, but its physical bad effects, by the correct understanding and application of Christ Jesus' teaching."

Keep Aerial Taut is Expert's Advice

In constructing an aerial where one end of it is fastened to a pole or tree that will move in the wind certain precautions must be taken otherwise poor reception or a broken wire will result. Poor signals from an aerial strung from a loose pole are traced to absorption by the branches and leaves. Keep the aerial at least three feet from the nearest branches, wall or other structures.

A broken aerial is caused by the swinging of a pole or tree. There is trouble. Fasten the aerial to an insulator and fasten the insulator to a tree that is fairly long. Then on the movable support string a pulley with a bit of heavy wire. Through the wheel portion of the pulley run the wire running from the aerial insulator. To the end of this insulator fasten a window weight.

If this weight is not sufficient to keep the aerial taut, then add a stone or another window weight. When the proper weight is found the aerial will be safe in any storm.

In the case of the aerial that is strung between two buildings and supports there is a method that will eliminate fussing with the aerial continually to keep it taut.

At the end of the aerial insert a large turnbuckle. Get the kind that has a five-inch shaft. Installing the turnbuckles in an aerial is an easy job and is well worth the money and time spent on it. Insert the buckles between the insulator, and the aerial wire. Be sure they are fastened full length before fastening. Then fasten the aerial as tight as possible to the turnbuckle. By turning the center of the the turnbuckle the aerial can be made extremely tight. Then after

Dual System of Enforcing O.T.A. Mistake

Opinion of Kitchener Police Commissioners Who Would Place Responsibility on Provincial Police

Kitchener.—Not one of the seven liquor charges recently leveled at the police force and individual members of it by Rev. W. E. Prevett and private citizens were proven, according to the report of the Kitchener Police Commission. The commission points out that the evidence in connection with every case was unsupported and flatly and in several instances contradicted by parties having police court records.

The commission refers to the records for the last three years, showing that the police have been active in prosecuting liquor cases, in 1921 there were 129 convictions, in 1922 there were 115 and in 1923, 179, with $12,500 being collected in fines, apart from the convictions registered by the provincial police. The latter totaled 1,337 and 34, respectively, for the past three years, but the fines were much higher, averaging about $34,000.

Difficult to Enforce

"These figures do not show the number of cases prosecuted which were dismissed as 'inadequate'—save by finding, 'close' we understand sensation quite a number. However, we are of the opinion that the temperance law is not enforced as thoroughly as it might be and there are breaches of the act frequently occurring that the police has no cognizance of, unavailable more, but it the O.T.A.) is a general prosecuted as a law that is very difficult to enforce, and hence it is not an easy matter to determine whether or not our local police have been doing all in their power to enforce it, and the execution arises can now scheme be adopted looking towards its better enforcement.

"We think that the double system of provincial and local police for enforcing the act is a mistake in cities and towns. In our opinion the provincial police who have the better facilities of enforcing the law should have the duty and responsibility of so doing with the assistance of the local police when asked for and that the fines should be divided equally between the province and municipality and we have recommended to the attorney general that an amendment be made accordingly."

The commission intends having a continuous hearing for a month and then the commission intends having a private interview with the constables who were mentioned in connection with alleged irregularities by those having the charges. This is to be held with a view to having stricter discipline on the force.

The charges in general were that the local police were lax in enforcing the O.T.A. and that a couple of constables had been seen drinking or were in an intoxicated condition.

Mr. Charles Merrifield passed away yesterday afternoon at his residence on Bleecker Avenue. Deceased who was 73 years of age, was for a number of years a merchant tailor at Port Hope, where his body has been taken for interment. A widow and family survive.

MRS. JANE McGRODAN

In the passing last evening of Mrs. Jane McCredan, widow of the late J. H. G. McCrodan, a well-known Belleville lady has entered into rest. For the year 1873 deceased was born in the Township of Thurlow, being the youngest daughter of the late Mr. Allan and Mary McDonald. Her whole life had been spent in this locality. Mrs. McCrodan was for profession a trained nurse, having graduated from Belleville hospital with honors. Her husband was killed in a railway accident the late great war. Deceased was a member of St. Michael's Church. Three children, John, Isabel and Frederic survive, also three sisters, Mrs. Flaus Orrill of this city, Mrs. Vernon Green of Toronto and Mrs. Patrick Culley of Trenton. To those bereft will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of many friends.

J. K. McCARGAR

Mr. J. K. McCargar a former well-known resident of this city and Thurlow Township passed away yesterday in Toronto after being ill for several days. Deceased was 81 years of age. Mr. McCargar was extensively known throughout the section of the country having been for a number of years a travelling salesman. He was also for some time Deputy Reeve of Thurlow Township and for a year warden of Hastings County. Of late years, deceased has been residing in Toronto. In religion he was an Anglican and in politics a Liberal. His wife predeceased him some time ago. A family survives. The body will be brought here for interment.

Local Pastor

now in the famous old Bridge St. Church, Belleville. Everywhere he has brought credit to his Alma Mater and has impressed the community by the strength of his character, the solidity of his scholarship and the variety of his social interests and has built up the Church in Christian faith and life. His preaching is thoughtful, Biblical, instructive, never sensational, never superficial, vulgar. He does not take down the dignity of the pulpit although he is always full of popular life. He seems to bring men in earnest, sober tones as an Ambassador of Jesus Christ. He is a shepherd who really feeds the flocks of God with the truth.

Saved From Extremes

His sanity of judgment saves him from all foolish extremes, from the shibboleth of a "Fundamentalism" which is blind to the facts of history and of Scripture, and on the other hand, from all wild aberrations of extreme "Modernism", which forgets the glorious Person of essential Christian truth. In close sympathy with the thought of our time and using modern modes of expression, he nevertheless preaches that glorious Gospel of the Grace of God which is for the healing of the Nations.

To recognize such solid scholarship, such strong character, such wholesome preaching is the privilege and pleasure of his Alma Mater. Therefore, the Senate of Victoria College bids me present him to you, Mr. Chancellor, for the degree of Doctor of Divinity, honoris causa.

Firpo possibly as well as any one else knows about what would happen if he was tossed in against Dempsey again.

It was only by a shade that he escaped annihilation in fifty or sixty seconds before, with Dempsey forgetting all the ring lore he ever knew.

At their next meeting it would appear, with Dempsey using his dope, of thought as well as his well-known fists, Firpo might last out a round. He would hardly last two. He would still be dangerous as long as he remained upon both feet. But he is too easy to hit and hurt for a last puncher such as Dempsey is.

Firpo might have drawn an outside chance if he had put in his time at home training and developing skill and speed. But Firpo has always had routine and discipline too much to build himself up.

THE MERIT BADGE

That grand-old scout Daniel Beard makes the statement tlhlt not two grown men in twenty pass the tests demanded by the Boy Scouts in their award of merit badges.

After perusing the various tests with considerable care we doubt that one man in ten can earn a merit badge.

The tests not only call for knowledge on some one of sixty subjects matters, but also accomplishment.

It is not what you know, but what you can do. And you must both know and do.

The present generation between thirty and seventy is not going to be of any great help to world advancement. If there is any forward movement coming soon, year later on the 100,000 Boy Scouts will be no small part of the uplift. Here is an organization that deserves all the support you can give it, in any way at any time.

It is a chance for the average grown up to help pay for all the things he shouldn't have.

It is remarkable, with all the proof at hand, how few there are who realize that you pay for what you get—in one way or another, sooner or later Champions were never just lifted to the eminence by some magic wand.

All professional sport should know by now that honesty is the best policy because it pays the biggest dividends. You can frisk the well-known public for just so long—and then something often happens of a somewhat sour trend.

GREYHONDS SEEK SENIOR GROUPING

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 25.—The Sault Greyhounds are going to make a mighty big bid for grouping in the senior O.H.A. series, if as expected now, the Allan Cup holders are the senior team in the north next Winter.

The objection has been raised in discussing the suggestion of an O.H.A. grouping for the Sault that to journey from here to Toronto is too long,but the trip is not nearly so troublesome or as expensive as that from here to Iroquois Falls.

The Greyhounds could leave here at 3.30 p.m. and be in Toronto at 8 a.m. the following day. On the trip to Iroquois Falls, on the other hand, the Sault team had to leave at noon one day and spend one night at a hotel in North Bay, and did not reach Iroquois Falls until 8 p.m. the next day, a long tiresome journey.

Ontario Lacrosse President Should Broaden His Idea

Plans to Establish Lacrosse In St. Catharines Schools

The new president of the O.A.L.A., Ald. J.D. Wright, of St. Catharines, has come out with a good idea regarding the development of lacrosse in the province. He plans to introduce the game into all the public schools in St. Catharines, and with the Lions and Rotary clubs behind the movement. Every boy in that city will be furnished with a stick. The sport a boy plays from nine years of age to fourteen, is the sport he will grow proficient in, and his game will naturally develop as he grows older.

This idea should not be confined to St. Kitts, nor should Mr. Wright stop with his own town. The idea is worth the utmost consideration; yes, is worth the wholehearted cooperation of every city and town in the province. Every boy in the country would make a stick, and when there are no schoolboy leagues in this section as yet, there is no reason why there shouldn't be, and why Canada's national game should not be made to flourish as meaning as far as the youngsters are concerned.

JUNIORS HOLD SNAPPY PRACTICE

There was a good turnout of recruits for the new junior baseball team of this city, when they met for practice at the high school grounds yesterday afternoon. A real snappy workout resulted and the officials feel satisfied now that they have an abundance of real junior material which can be whipped into shape so that Belleville will have a team in the new league which will bear all kinds of watching. Last evening was one of the few desirable outdoor baseball evenings of the spring, and the rookies took advantage of the occasion for a real workout.

OSHAWA TO PLAY OSLERS SATURDAY

Oshawa, April 25.—"Play Ball!" will be the order Saturday afternoon at Alexandra Park when Oshawa seniors and the Osler, of Toronto will meet in the first game of the season, an exhibition performance, that should attract the local fans like flies to honey. Batteries for the Oshawa team will be announced during the game so as to give the fans a look at all the boys who are ready to take the mound.

Three o'clock is the hour scheduled.

Officials Draw Up Junior Schedule

The first half of the schedule which will be played by the newly formed Hastings and Prince Edward counties junior baseball league, comprising Marmora, Picton, Tweed and Belleville teams, was drawn up by the officials at the Y.M.C.A. last evening.

The season opens on May 21st, the same day as the C.O.B.L., when the locals play Tweed in Tweed. The first game which will be seen here will be between Tweed and Belleville at the Victoria Day celebration which is being observed here this year on Monday May 26th. Here is the first half schedule. Clip it out for future reference.

May 21—Belleville at Tweed.
May 21—Picton at Marmora.
May 24—Tweed at Belleville.
May 31—Marmora at Tweed.

The Sunlights Too Bright for the Trappers

To lose out to the Sunlight Quartette by just one point was the fate of the Trappers, in their game with the former at the Y Alleys last night. The game was a seesaw affair all the way through and both sides expected it would be the narrower win learned from the scores.

After leading in the two first strings the Grunter workhorses by their play off came with the Ramblers and allowed the latter to overtake them and go on to the winning column. At the end of the second string the Grunters had what appeared to be a commanding lead but the Ramblers strong bid for victory in the last string left the game shattered all their hopes, however, I'was a good fight.

OPEN BASEBALL SEASON

Port Hope, April 25—Baseball was officially opened here Wednesday when the High School defeated the Bankers, by a score of 23 to 11. The school team have had several workouts and this is chiefly responsible for their victory. Heavy hitting by the school team featured the game, the school team making several home runs.

GIANTS BOAST OLDEST STAFF OF CATCHERS

New York.—Do you ever hear of a 37-year-old catching staff? Well, step up boys and meet Mr. McGraw's trio.

Hank Gowdy, who started to play ball before he was first baseman pointed peg nut was invigoted, is 34 years old by his own admission. Hewitt Wilcox knows how old he is in the family Bible back in Columbus.

Eddie Ainsmith, who has caught in every league except possibly the Anti-Saloon, professes to 32 and Frank Snyder, who used to run around with one of the original Pleasdom Beaux, says he's 31.

We submit this trio as the oldest catching staff in the world.

Do What Mr. Buckingham Did

"The attacks the apparently strong as well as the weak. When your self-confidence is shaken, however, that if a person contracts it, it is largely because he is run down. The person who enjoys good health is fairly well safeguarded against most diseases. Nearly everyone can enjoy good health by taking Carnol and keeping their system in a healthy condition. When your system is run down you leave yourself open to any disease. If you have had flu or your system is in a weakened condition, do what Mr. Buckingham did to regain his health. His letter tells how he was afflicted him and how he was restored to health.

"Before the flu I was in a very weak and run down condition. I was tired, listless, had no strength and no desire to do anything. I had no appetite. I was nervous and depressed. I was losing weight. I read in the Calgary Herald that Carnol was good for all sick and run down conditions so I decided to try it. I used two bottles of Carnol and after taking them, felt strong and well. I consider Carnol the best tonic I have ever taken and have great pleasure in recommending it to others."—J. Buckingham, 621 16th Avenue, Calgary.

OF INTEREST to WOMEN

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mrs. Satterthwaite, who has spent the past six months with her sister, Mrs. Bongabeer, left for Orillia where she will reside.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Baldree, 169 Lingham street, celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedded life last evening when a large number of friends gathered at their home to do them honor. All present enjoyed a bountiful supper and a happy, reminiscent time was spent. After supper the presents were heaped upon the tables and a son, Edward Baldree read an address and presented his parents with the gifts. The remainder of the evening was spent in cards and dancing and the guests departed, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Baldree many more years of wedded life.

So many aids to education are being put into schools nowadays that we will not be the least bit surprised to hear that the children have been furnished with adding machines to help them in their mathematical problems.

PRESENTATION

Mr. and Mrs. W. Williams, Donald Street were greatly surprised when their neighbors gathered at their house and presented them with an electric toaster. The following address was read by Mrs. Varley:

To Mr. and Mrs. W. Williams.
Dear Neighbors:

We regret very much to know you are leaving our neighborhood so soon. We did not know that Mr. Williams had accepted a position in Montreal and we do hope that he may do well also that the change of climate will restore to Mrs. Williams the very best of health.

We have gathered in your home this evening to show you how much we have appreciated your friendship, the many years you have been with us, and hope this little token will be accepted as a remembrance of our love and esteem.

Our hearts will go with you to your new home, and at any time you feel like returning the ever welcome hand will be ready to greet you. May God give you health and strength to enjoy what is in store for you with best wishes from your neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Varley, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Flander, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend, Miss C. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Wannamaker, Mr. and Mrs. Haight, Mr. and Mrs. Sweenie, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart.

Mr. Williams on behalf of himself and Mrs. Williams gave a very able address of appreciation, Refreshments were then served and farewells were spoken.

Peel six large, ripe bananas and cut them in halves lengthwise. Arrange these halves side by side in a shallow buttered baking dish. Mix together, the juice of one large orange, 1-4 cup brown sugar and pour over the bananas. Combine 1-4 cup of fine, dried bread crumbs and 1-4 cup shredded cocoanut and sprinkle over the top of the bananas. Bake till bananas are tender and cocoanut brown. Serve at once.

IT'S AN ILL WIND

Peterboro, April 24.—For hauling 26 stalled motor cars out of a washout on the Kingston road at Weldon, a farmer received $18, or a rate of $2 per car, which, in addition to being fair profit for said farmer, shows that the day of old Dobbin is not yet over.

George Backham, of Toronto, old Peterboro boy, who came here for Easter, witnessed part of the operations and expressed the opinion that 'mixed' farming pays, especially when the payment is equivalent to about $1 a minute.

When a child complains of headaches

The parents should at once suspect eye strain. Any child who seems healthy but who complains of headaches is almost sure to be a sufferer from eye strain. If allowed to continue this strain will be reflected in the child's lack of interest in studies, maybe in disobedience. Glasses are indicated. I can furnish them intelligently.

A LITTLE GARDEN PICTURE

A brilliant autumn garden picture which caught the eye from afar was Wooded Island, famous during the World's Fair in Chicago, a planting so simple and effective that it might readily grace any garden. It consisted of a bank of the golden rod variety, (Helenium autumnale superbum) a native which adapts the landscape with its beautiful golden heads in September and grows to a height of from three to four feet. Against this bank of gold were placed a few plants of the asters, the old type, tall growing and not coming into full beauty until late in the Fall. This form is much more decorative for a planting than the leading types of smaller and more compact growth Spikes and others.

The effect of this planting was gorgeous and it seemed to illuminate the entire garden at dusk when this famous garden usually has its greatest number of visitors.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"It's my luck!" he muttered. "Curse him—I'd like to meet him face to face! I'll settle accounts with him! But you're right, Mick!" he said, after a string of oaths. "It won't do to risk it. I'll clear out. I'll go to-night."

"Go now—this very hour," said Transom.

Denzil shook his head.

"Can't! I've got some business to do here; but I'll get off to-night. Keep up your pluck, Mick; you seem to have lost it since you met——"

Transom shuddered and silenced him with a curse.

"Go now," he said. "No! not that way, Jim, back, I mean, and into the woods and keep in hiding. Where are you staying?"

"At a hotel—a place called the Black Crow, just outside. You might drop in and have a meal."

Transom shook his head.

"Well, better not, perhaps. Open the door. Wait a moment."

He took out a revolver and examined the chambers, then he slipped it back with a significant look.

"I might meet our friend," he said. "Well, I reckon I can take care of myself if I do. Don't you be uneasy on my account, Mick!" he added, carelessly.

Transom waited and listened for a moment, then he opened the back door, and looked round cautiously. "Clear, by the look of it. Well, so long, Mick!" Denzil went out.

Kate had dragged herself away from the door before it was opened, and was now courtesying before the mistress of the cottage, her face hidden in her hands, her whole frame shaking as if with ague.

CHAPTER XXII.

Even at that moment, while young Jack had told no one, excepting Esther, that he was going to Australia, and secretly for informing the Martins because, the latter had left the cottage, he had not resolved to leave Vancourt that night, for the sooner he was away from here, the better. He had intended to leave by the evening train, but it occurred to him that it would be better to walk to Ashton and he decided to tramp to Harminster, and so had gone to bed early, by the London road; he had made himself a rough haversack which would contain a few of his clothes.

He had not been weighed down by his love for Esther, and his grief at parting from her, Jack would have viewed the tramp before him with anything but regret, for the fact was, perhaps, for adventure ran strongly in his veins, and his old life in the bush had accustomed him to long tramps and plain living.

By eight o'clock he had been all round the farm, and he told himself that at any rate, Vancourt had not lost anything by employing him, and he felt himself saw the improvements, and frankly remarked on them and expected their approval.

"I see, Mr. Gordon, you've got a way with you," he said, shrewdly, "and you've managed to get everything you want. Now, I should never have the face to bother the mistress for all the things you've bought and all the improvements you've made. Your a good farmer, too, I'm bound to say. Why, man, you ought to have a farm of your own."

Jack laughed rather grimly.

"Perhaps I may have some day," he said. "But no, I'm afraid it wouldn't suit me; don't like being shut down to the place; you see, I'm fond of roaming about. Don't be scared if I 'up-stick' and cut off some day without warning."

Martin laughed and shook his head.

"You're happy here, I'm thinking, to do that," he said.

"I don't know," said Jack. "I might even go to-night. You're well enough now to look after the place. Don't be surprised at anything I may do."

The conversation took place soon after tea, as Jack was leaving the farm lodge; but the Martins did not attach much importance to it, though his words seemed afterwards pregnant enough.

A little after eight he went into the cart-shed and looked at the machines which he had instructed the men to clean; they had done their work very perfectly, and he took a cloth and polished up the bright steel and glowing paints, trying to forget his misery in the occupation. The stable clock at the Towers chimed half-past nine as he left the sheds and went to the cottage. He had tidied up the rooms, and his knapsack stood ready packed up the table. There was no reason why he should not go and say good-bye to the Martins and take his departure; but he still lingered, reluctant to leave the spot where he had found the shrine of happiness—and his happiness—of his life.

"I'll just take one last look round," he murmured, shamefacedly. "After all, it doesn't matter whether I start at ten or half-past; I've got all the night to walk in. Wonder where I shall be this time next week! Perhaps on the way back to Australia and to the old life. Might do worse. I shall feel precious lonely without Bob. Poor old Bob! It was good of her to take him, and he'll have a happy home. But I shall miss you, old man!"

He took up his gun and fit his pipe and went out, but with a very different step to his usual light and brisk one. As he went down the narrow part-lane to the cottage he saw a girl standing beside a gate. It was Kate Transom. She was leaning against the gate in an attitude of dejection, her head resting on her hand, and she seemed to be waiting for some one. Jack quickened his pace and stood up to her and gave her good-evening.

She started, and her face flushed, then the colour died away, and he saw that she was very pale.

"Enjoying the cool of the evening?" he said, trying to speak lightly. "It's not a bad night, though the clouds get across the moon rather too much. Oh, by the way, I called at your cottage this afternoon to ask your father if he'd take some cattle into market for Martin to-morrow; but there was no one at home—at least I could hear no one in the house."

Kate's eyes were lifted to his for a moment, and he saw that they were clouded with an overwhelming expression.

If Skin Breaks Out and Itches Apply Sulphur

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. The sulphur preparation, clarin, is a pleasant cold cream, given made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar [of] JRJowles Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

Are Women Overworked

Yes, hundreds of thousands of them are. This applies to the housewife and mother who struggles on a small income to make ends meet by doing all the washing, ironing, cooking, making and mending for a large family. There is no one who not only support, themselves working in factories, shops, stores and offices, but often have an invalid father or mother to support, therefore do housework besides. These are the women who break down early and are afflicted with various forms of female weakness. Ninety-eight out of every 100 women who use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription tablet Compound have proved that it is a successful remedy for woman's ills. For nearly fifty years it has been recommending women to health and it will pay every ailing woman to try it.

Lover Beats Widow Of Sixty to Death On Eve of Wedding

"Collar Jim" Given Accommodation in Condemned Cell Instead of the Bridal Suite—Handwriting Clue Furnished Most Important Evidence

A widow of sixty battered to death by her "lover" appears to be the central fact in one of the most gruesome of recent murders, it occurred in Bradford, England, and presents another instance of the value of the hand-writing expert, witness in providing a clue and assisting justice. Cases which have come to light so far seem to show that the suspect, "Collar Jim," might have escaped the clutches of the law but for his carelessness in leaving behind two a small ounce of paper bearing three or four words of his own handwriting. The man, well known in criminal circles, who carried his sobriquet from the strange manner of his neckwear is now out up for trial.

The victim, Mrs. Elizabeth Beaney, 59, of Sunderland Road, Bradford was found beaten to death in he house, which she had just sold on the expected departure for Europe House Burner and the money realized upon the sale was found in the bedroom where her body lay. Through a fenaed "joke" William Hedley Wardell, Cookridge Hall, Cookridge Street, Headford, was arrested and charged with the crime, following information from friends that he resembled the wanted man He trip to the police station was supposed to "prove his innocence" but he was held; foul evidence furnished by Gerald F. Gurrin, the handwriting expert, from letters misleadingly signed "Goodson" and found in the dead woman's trunk and a scrap of paper found on the floor bearing similar handwriting, also the same kind of blank against him. It seemed to furnish a definite clue where blood smudges upon the staple of it from stockinged feet, failed to offer any.

Prepared For Flight

A number of witness testified that Wardell was about to leave for the town that he had given notice thereof and sold off most of his effects, many of which had been bought by the widow themselves. These also testified that the dead woman had two days previous to her murder been interviewed for the first time and seemed to be in unusual spirits. Neighbors, also, who had noticed a tablet set for two, that she was about to be married but saying nothing as to whom the bridegroom was to be. She had made no payment of the last illad after hard and left the house and go leaving the precincts of Bradford.

Flatly Denies Guilt

Although the case looked black against Wardell he stoutly maintained his innocence, saying:

"I am not guilty. I have never at any time struck deceased, and I was not at her house on February 22 or 25 last." The note which was altered to have been found on the letterbox of Sunderland-road was not written by me, and I never saw the paper or heard of it until it was produced at the inquest."

Confident he was going free he had for Wardell, who was committed for trial at Leeds Assizes.

"BARNEY GOOGLE" PLEASES AUDIENCE

"Spark Plug", Musical Show Is Bright Offering With Fickle Plot

A large crowd saw Barney Gogle and his horse at Griffin's last night, in the flesh and pasteboard in the form of laughter and rounds of applause. Barney and his musical company pleased with their show.

Of course the show is built boat Barney Gogle and his steed, Sparkplug, the colored horse man, and Google's fans. Barney Google's wife with a mind that dislikes him and his John Barleycorn associations, also a daughter who has a suitor, who saves Barney's life at a time of fire. Call it what you please, powers over the "queer" sex, and his ability as a good entertainer. When Barney returns home from the artists' models, ball with a ladies slipper "on the high" is looked like evidence dead for him, Jimmy, Misa Google's suitor overhears this, gets sorrowful and all work, together for good, until in the last scene of the show, there are showers of slippers for all the ladies, and a harmonious reconciliation is reached into the final number, "Barney Google."

Diminutive Jerry Sullivan as Barney is very good, and the antics of Wm. Fabley as "Sparkplug" are delectable clever, Sparky dances better than most horses, and is almost "human".

WESTERN CATTLE IN EUROPE

Demand From United Kingdom Constant Since Lifting of Embargo, Says Col. Mullins.

Montreal.—Sounding a note of the strongest possible optimism for the future of the agricultural in Western Canada, Colonel H. A. Mullins, prominent ranchman of Poplar Point, Manitoba, who arrived in Montreal on Sunday, submitted to an interview yesterday.

"The situation on the prairies is rapidly improving," the Colonel declared, "and the Westerner is taking courage. Moreover, many of those who left seven years ago to the farm are returning. I consider the lids of Western Canada is beginning to turn strongly from the city to the farm once more. Even three prairie provinces especially have a tremendous future, and, if due consideration is given to their particular needs, the realization of that future cannot be long deferred."

Asked to mention some of the influences which, in his opinion, would tend to hasten the Golden Age for Western Canada in Colonel Mullins hesitatingly pleaded first for a better understanding between East and West.

"The Western farmer can also do a great deal to help himself," the Colonel added. "I consistently advocate that all farmers on the prairies should go in for raising livestock as well as other stuff, especially for raising high-grade stock, and for those now in that game should stick to it. They should also stop specializing their shipments—and this applies not only to the livestock but to other products, such as grain—into three months or so of the year. Then they won't find themselves forced to take low prices because of the rush, and things will be better for the country generally as well."

Despite many recent setbacks, there is, the Colonel is convinced, a world market for good Western cattle. The demand comes from the United Kingdom, he says, has been constant and keen ever since the lifting of the embargo, though it has been affected adversely by the recent closing of the Liverpool, Glasgow and some other ports on account of the coal strike, foot, and mouth disease.

Colonel Mullins is in an excellent position to speak with authority on the cattle situation, for he has been shipping cattle overseas steadily and intends to continue. Recently he shipped 148 head from Winnipeg to Montreal. The train, supplemented by cars containing 100 additional head from Toronto, left the Western city at 10 p.m. on Wednesday via Canadian Pacific and arrived at the docks-yards here on Sunday morning. The Colonel following them up by a passenger train which left Winnipeg on Thursday night. The shipment is bound for Dundee via St. John, N.B. The Colonel said a warm tribute to the Company for the manner in which it has handled its consignment. "The shrinkage in weight was reasonably light," he stated, "and not only did they make up this loss of weight in a few hours in the Canadian Pacific yards here, but they are already heavier than as they were in Winnipeg. This experience, and my inspection of these yards, has convinced me that ranchers may ship their cattle via Canadian Pacific with confidence that they will be splendidly and rapidly handled."

Eddie Hayes is a clever dancer, who is repeatedly encored.

The show is new and snappy and though the conversation runs more on race track than "parlor", it is punctuated with real witticisms.

Dances of surpassing delightfulness and girls, crying quartette, the "hidden" number by diminutive sisters, Google's numbers, and the finale number of Act 1, "Bellville Lou" are high lights in a show which gives value for the money.

While Sunlight Works

YOU have more leisure hours on wash day if you use Sunlight Soap. Any downstairs in the wash tub this wonderful soap will do the labour. You rub the things with Sunlight—you put them to soak—and then the penetrating, cleansing ingredients search through and through the fibres loosening even the hardest dirt or the oldest grease stains completely. No wash board rubbing, no boiling, no hard work. Then, with rinsing, the dirt runs away and your clothes are ready for the line, purified and snowy clean.

Wash day should not take your labour—only Sunlight's gentle strength.

IRISH LEADERS TRY TO SETTLE BORDER

British Government Plans Action by Commission, If They Disagree

London.—President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State Council, and Kevin O'Higgins, Minister of Home Affairs, will meet Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, and the Ulster delegates at the conference table over which will be established for quieting a delicate line between northern and southern Ireland.

It is hoped the time is not yet too late for an agreement between the interested factions of the two sections of Ireland, for if an arbitrary boundary commission is forced to take action, there is likely to be dissatisfaction in both sides and further border trouble, according to opinions expressed here.

The open sesame to power in these days is not a program, but a phrase. A rattle wins the attention of an infant and some mystical combination of words, brief, resounding, and meaningless, attracts and subjugates the children of democracy. We have free education, but at the same time we have enslaved minds. Whatever else democracy has done, it has not destroyed the fascination which absurdity, whether it be expressed in words or symbols has for the average human being.

HATCHING AND REARING

The Best Way of Handling the Young Chick.

Great Variation in Mortality—Hopper Mash — Feeding Grains With Hens—Weight of Chick—Value of Manure—When to Prune.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto)

The use of the incubator and brooder has forced the poultry keeper to study the methods of growing chicks. A mother hen and her brood, when allowed to range, can do many feeds and the chicks do well simply because the hen and the chicks balance the ration by catching insects and selecting tender green feed, and, it may be several other things that we have never observed.

Great Variation In Mortality.

There is a great variation in different broods of chicks reared by the artificial method, and many broods have a high mortality and a very unthrifty appearance. The chicks can be reared easily with reasonable care and attention. The use of a little common sense is essential.

One should remember that, given a brooder, a colony house, and say three hundred baby chicks, it is the duty of the operator to keep the chicks comfortable, and that every need of the baby chick is supplied by those chicks. There is no clucking hen to pick up bits of gravel or to catch insects. The hen does all that taken to the chicks.

At present the department of Poultry Husbandry at the O.A.C., is conducting a series of experiments, the object being to find a simple, inexpensive method of growing a number of chicken. It may take years to get the answer, but each season we add a little to our knowledge.

Hopper Mash for Chicks.

The mash used at the Poultry Department, O.A.C., in the hoppers, or feed point, where the chicks are ranging consists of:

100 pounds of Corn Meal.
100 pounds of Crushed Oats.
100 pounds of Bran.
100 pounds of Middlings.
50 pounds of Beef Scrap.
50 pounds of Bone Meal.

The whole grain hopper feed usually consists of fifty per cent. each of wheat and cracked corn. If milk is given to drink, one-half, if not more, of the meat scrap may be taken from the mash.

The pullets stay on range until ready to lay, which period is when they are about six weeks of age. If they prefer roosting in trees to the house we allow them to do so; in fact we rather prefer that they would roost in trees.

Shade, tender green feed, plenty of clean drink, and enough to eat, are essential.

Feeding Chicks With Hens.

Where chicks are being reared with hens, and have access to tender grass or other green feed, a very good feed is to use cooked johnny-cake made with an egg in it. Give milk to drink, and a quart or so of gravel near the coop to supply grit. Move the coop every few days. When the chicks are a few weeks old gradually change to ordinary feeds.

Raise the chicks on new ground. Keep off the old ground that has had chicks running upon it year after year. Keep the hen free of lice. Dust with sodium fluoride or use a small amount of blue ointment. A piece size-half the size of a kernel of corn, placed on the skin below the vent, will usually kill mange or lice.

Weight of Chicks.

One hundred baby chicks when hatched will usually weigh between seven and eight pounds. When the chicks have reached the age of twelve weeks they should weigh between one hundred and seventy-five and two hundred pounds. For sake of comparison we will take a cock at birth with a weight of eighty pounds. Should the cockerel make the same rate of gain as the chick, it would at twelve weeks of age weigh a ton. This will help one to understand why broods of chicks vary so much, and will also assist the feeder to appreciate the opportunity at hand to display his skill.—W. R. Graham, O.A.C. College, Guelph.

When to Prune.

The dormant season is the logical time for pruning, although when the wood is frozen the work may not be very agreeable to the grower. Where young trees or stone fruits are concerned it is probably advisable to delay the pruning until late winter or early spring, but bearing apple trees can be pruned in zero weather without appreciable injury. Pruning is the one major orchard operation which can be performed to advantage during the winter months. At that time there are no leaves to interfere with the vision of the pruner, and consequently he is better able to judge which branches should be removed. Furthermore, the wood during the winter that the grower has the time to give to this work.

Value of Manures.

Manure is worth exactly what it will give in net return from the increased crops produced. The amount varies widely depending upon the quality of the soil, the season, and the crop. The value of the manure per ton is increased by uniform spreading, by using a light to medium application of ten to fifteen tons per acre rather than a heavy application, and by applying the manure to root crops, corn, potatoes, and hay rather than to grain crops. Where bad weeds are to be treated, unrotted manure will prove more economical than rotted.

Paths.

Paths and roads about the farmstead not only should be as few as possible but should be kept out of sight so far as feasible.

MANY NOVEL SITUATIONS IN "FOOL'S FIRST"

The day after Tommy Fraser robbed the vault is the bank in which he was employed, he was promoted to a more important position in the institution.

Tommy had a prison record, but by means of "pull" and the aid of a girl, he obtained a position in the bank, the president of which was Denton Drew. One day a large deposit was made and Tommy determined to steal the money. Before leaving in the evening he set the time clock on the vault for midnight, and at that hour he looted the bank, carrying off the package of money.

But Tommy discovered that he wasn't a thief at heart, and he returned with the loot. He discovered the next morning that Drew had filled the packages with paper, and that he had been tested by Drew's manner. Convinced of Tommy's honesty, the bank president promoted him.

The story of Tommy's fight against criminal tendencies will be seen convincingly in "Fools First," a First National attraction produced by Marshall Neilan, which is now playing at the Regent Theatre.

"ETERNAL STRUGGLE" AT GRIFFIN'S

Reginald Barker has done it again! The man who made "The Storm" and "Hearts Aflame" has added another superior dramatic achievement to his credit in "The Eternal Struggle," Metro picture now playing at the Griffin's Theatre. The story is superbly handled and keeps one enthralled throughout the entire unfoldment.

The cast is in keeping with the superior direction, for each one of the players is a top-notcher who could star in an ordinary production. Renee Adoree, who is a comparative newcomer to the films, as Andree Grange, the temperamental little French Canadian, gives a performance that ranks her among the great stars of the day. Pat O'Malley, as the devil-may-care Buck O'Hara, does some of the best work of his career, surpassing his superlative performance in "Broadway Under the Stars." Barbara Bedford, as Camille Leader, is cast as an adventuress, as she was in "Rolling Westward" and "The Prisoner of Zenda," and she gives a superb performance. Earle Williams, Wallace Beery, Josef Swickard and Andres Randall complete the excellent cast.

Fights and thrills peppered with romance and adventure keep the story moving at a great pace. There are splendid fights and a sensationally thrilling canoe chase down a rocky gorge through which a river foams and roars. There are real Canadian mountains and forests for back grounds. Again the winter scenes were taken, it was so cold that the camera caught the vapor of the actor's breath.

The story, which is an adaptation of G. B. Lancaster's famous novel, "The Law-Bringers," is an unusual one. And it carries punch every foot of the way, with the tension never lessened up to the thrilling climax. The big thrill is the rescue of the girl and her aunt when the pair are shown shooting the treacherous rapids. When their frail canoe finally is overturned, they are almost carried along by the swift current to almost certain death in the falls. This offers one of the most exciting bits of suspense shown on the screen in some time.

"The Eternal Struggle" is a Louis B. Mayer presentation through Metro. It was adapted to the screen by A. G. Hawks and Monte M. Katterjohn and photographed by Percy Hilburn.

JACKIE COOGAN

Jackie is a "regular fellow" even if he is masquerading here as a little Dutch girl. His excuse is that he is attending a costume ball in his new Metro picture, "A Boy of Flanders." His real part is that of a little Dutch boy—and it's a joy to see him in the baggy trousers, pantaloons and wooden shoes.

LET THE MILK FLOW

(Calgary Albertan)

The importance of good, clean milk in the supply of children and development of the child cannot be over-estimated.

There is generally a reason behind why children do not like milk, and mothers and fathers should leave no stone unturned to find out what it is and forever kill the prejudice.

It is of course, very important that the milk may be uncontaminated, for many epidemics, bringing sickness and death, have been traced to poor milk.

Expect 200,000 U.S. Motorists During Season

Montreal Will be Mecca For Tourists—Enquiries Pouring In

Several inquiries have been received from American citizens at the offices of the Automobile Club of Canada regarding the possibility of motoring to Montreal and sailing from this port for Europe taking automobiles with them, reading to a statement made by George McNamee, Secretary of the club.

Mr. McNamee went on to say that all signs pointed to a record season for tourist automobile traffic here this summer. Inquiries as to the conditions of roads, as to hotel accomodation, and as to routes, are pouring in to the club offices in daily increasing volume.

It is estimated that between 175,000 and 200,000 automobiles will visit the province and from the number of visitors already here and from the number of enquiries received, the figures are none too large.

EXECUTION OF MEXICAN REBEL LEADER CONFIRMED

Mexico City.—The capture, court-martial and execution of General Manuel Dieguez, second in command of the revolutionary movement in West-ern Mexico was confirmed yesterday by official advices to President Obregon . A similar fate was meted out to General Manuel Garcia Vigil, former governor of Oaxaca who joined with General Fortunato Maycotte in the de la Huerta revolt last December 13.

General Dieguez, was captured while about to cross from the State of Chiapas into Guatemala Saturday. General Vigil was defeated and captured at Zanatepec last week.

CITY SEEKS PROVINCIAL ROAD HELP

Number of Recommendations Passed at Meeting of Local Council Last Night — Move Vote of Thanks to W. H. Ireland For Efforts in Securing Grant for U.E.L. Celebration

A number of recommendations were last night adopted at the adjourned meeting of the City Council, being as follows:

Recommended that the mayor, chairman of finance, chairman of public works and chairman of labor be a special committee to negotiate with the Provincial Government and County of Hastings with a view to improvement of roadway from Belleville to Corbyville.

Recommended that subject to the approval of the local Board of Health the agreement with Alfred A. McDonald of the Township of Thurlow for a dumping ground for dead animals, etc., be continued for a further period of one year from April 1st, 1924, with the privilege of extending said agreement from year to year, he to be paid the sum of $125 per annum.

Recommended that the City Solicitor, be instructed to procure an agreement between the corporation of the City of Belleville and the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company Limited, binding the said company to pay to the city 10 per cent. of the city's share of the cost of a permanent sidewalk from Belleville to Corbyville and in such manner as will secure to city.

Motions

Moved by Ald. Trevorton, seconded by Ald. McCreary that this Council convey to Mr. W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., the appreciation of thanks of the citizens of Belleville for his assistance in securing a grant from the Provincial Government for the sum of $5,000 towards defraying expenses of the U. E. L. celebration to be held in Belleville on the 16th and 17th of June, 1924.

Tenders for the construction of sanitary sewers on Pinnacle, Brock and Strachan streets were considered by the finance committee last night and a recommendation made that the tender be accepted to Francisco Bambeco co.

In council the recommendation was adopted after some discussion.

Ald. Gardiner moved in amendment that the contract be awarded to T. Manley & Sons.

Ald. Patterson moved an amendment that the contract be awarded to Wm. Donahue.

Ald. McCreary spoke in favor of Ald. Gardiner's amendment contending that T. Manley & Sons were large contractors in the city, also heavy tax payers. They were now preparing to build a number of houses in the city this year.

Ald. Treverton could not see how any sidewalk could vote to throw away $1,466 the difference in amount of tenders. He personally would be ashamed to do so.

Ald. McCreary—The contract should be given to a resident of the city who has been a life long tax payer of the city. We should encourage home industry.

Ald. Graham—The difference being between $1,400 and $1,500 in the tenders the council could let his opinion do nothing else but accept that of T. Bambecco.

Mr. F. Bumbacco, who was present, said he was prepared to carry out the contract and would not ask a cent out till the work is completed. He would also employ Belleville labor and comply with the city's fair wage by-law.

STRIKE COST £750,000

London, April 26.—The chairman of the Lancashire Northwestern Railway line states that the recent strike of railway locomotive engineers and firemen cost the company £750,000.

THE WEATHER

Moderate to fresh east and northeast winds; fair today and Sunday; not much change in temperature.

ROAD AREA IS DEFINED FOR SUPERVISION

Alderman A. E. LaRoche Appointed Member of Commission

IMMEDIATE EFFECT

After Agreement With Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company

A by-law was passed at the Council meeting last night, authorizing Alderman A. E. LaRoche a member of the suburban area commission. The principal clause in the by-law in regards to roads to be dealt with reads as follows:

That this by-law is passed subject to an agreement with the County of Hastings and the Province of Ontario that the only roads to be dealt with by the Suburban Area Commission are the Corbyville Road along the easterly side of the Moira river from the corner of College street and Coniston road to the junction of the said Corbyville road with the roads leading to Tweed just north of the plant of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Co., Ltd., at Corbyville, together with College street as making the northerly boundary of the city of Belleville, and MacDonald avenue and Sidney street marking the easterly and westerly boundaries respectively of the City of Belleville when designated as County Roads. Any further roads proposed to be dealt with by the Commission shall first be approved by resolution of each and both councils and the province.

That this by-law shall come into force and take effect immediately on and after the execution of a satisfactory agreement between the Corporation of the City of Belleville and the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Co., Ltd.

BOARD TO ASK LEGAL OPINION

At an adjourned meeting of the City Council held last night an amended requisition from the Parks Board was presented and a recommendation was passed that the matter be referred to the City Solicitor for legal opinion.

As explained the requirements of the Board is not out in their requisition as follows:

Supplementing and explaining our request of the 24th of February last for a levy by your body of 1 mill on the dollar on all the taxable and personal property in your municipality for the current year 1924, which is necessary for our expenditures during year; on parks, boulevards, avenues, and streets under this Board's control. We beg to give you the following detailed particulars of such requirements and particulars.

For the purchase of a piece or portion of land eventually to form a part of a large park in West Belleville, which is under negotiation. The total acreage being 20 and 26-100 and the price to be paid $6500 to be paid in cash out of such levy on completion of the purchase for which the Parks Board has already obligated itself to purchase, in the opinion of Parks Board management the above property is necessary for expenditure on maintenance improving and managing the present park properties under control of the Board are as follows:

Victoria Park	$1700
Corby Park	100
Memorial Park	400
Parker Park	200
Total	$2500

Station street boulevard and square, dwelling, roadway and planting $100

Murney Hill boulevard, flowers and 50

Fair grounds, repairs to grand stand and ball grounds 150

Tools, boats, etc., ... 50

Total $2300

WOODSWORTH MOTION MAY HIT LIBERALS

Will Embarass Them if Read as Want of Confidence

REVISION FOR RULES

Three Parties in Commons Make Change Possible On Amendments

Ottawa, April 26.—Should Progressives as a group support the Woodsworth amendment and should the Conservatives regard it as a want of confidence motion certain the Government might be placed in a most embarrassing position.

This is only one of the possibilities arising out of the strange turn which the debate upon the budget assumed when J. S. Woodsworth, Labor member for Centre Winnipeg, sprang a new tariff amendment on the House.

May Revise Rules

When parliamentary rules calling for but one amendment to the budget were first framed there were only two political parties to be considered.

For this reason some question arises as to whether the Speaker may not rule that it is the privilege of the official opposition to submit a budget amendment.

If the Speaker not take this course there is no doubt that the Conservatives must vote to sustain the Government fiscal policy, as they have lost their opportunity to submit an amendment motion.

It is not thought that Mr. Woodsworth took any of the Progressives into his confidence before he sprang his surprise of yesterday. It is understood that he had some difficulty getting a seconder for his motion, and that J. T. Shaw, of Calgary, agreed to adopt the infant after it had been laid upon several doorsteps.

Alberta To Back It

It is now considered probable that a considerable number of Progressives will support the amendment especially those from Alberta.

"Increases in income tax especially on unearned income and on unimproved lands were Mr. Woodsworth's suggestions for making up any loss of revenue which might follow application of the principle enunciated in his amendment.

GHANDI NAMED AMONG WORLD'S GREAT LEADERS

Speaker at "Y" Banquet is One of Most Brilliant Heard Here

PRESENTATIONS MADE

Songs and Entertainment Enliven Well-Attended Meeting

Congratulating each member of his large audience for the excellent democratic attitude of Canadians in general towards the peoples of India, an attitude vastly different from the English attitude in India, and naming Mahatma Ghandi the Indian Nationalist leader as one of the world's greatest and clearest seers were the outstanding features of the most brilliant speech ever heard in that city and certainly by the best speech ever given by a Hindu in Belleville, H. K. Mukerji, Y.M.C.A. student secretary of Calcutta, India, in addressing a banquet was the speaker at the second annual Get-Together banquet of the Y.M.C.A. last night.

A Hindu of the highest caste, Mr. Mukerji is well educated and speaks perfect English. His talk was about the relationship between India and Great Britain.

"There seems to be an impression," asserted the speaker, "that in India now, the prevalent idea is to throw the Britisher out of the country. This is a misrepresentation which reaches our newspapers, but by my private letter from home, I know that such rumors are untrue, and that there are healthy conditions in this connection, existing there.

That there was an opposition party in India, the speaker admitted, but he explained that the opposition party is healthy political situations. Ghandi, Nationalist leader who recently released from prison, is one whom world regards as the Lincoln's opinion, and though non-cooperation with Britain, he still has Christian ideals. At his release from prison he declared that there would be a sin for him to think of severing connections with Great Britain.

"If we broke with Great Britain," declared the speaker, "we would have one of two choices. We would have to accept peace, or the Russian supremacy or else fight away among ourselves.

The principal cause in the by-law in regards to roads to be dealt with reads as follows:

That this by-law is passed subject to an agreement with the County of Hastings and the Province of Ontario that the only roads to be dealt with by the Suburban Area Commission are the Corbyville Road along the easterly side of the Moira river from the corner of College street and Coniston road to the junction of the said Corbyville road with the roads leading to Tweed just north of the plant of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Co., Ltd., at Corbyville, together with College street as making the northerly boundary of the city of Belleville, and MacDonald avenue and Sidney street marking the easterly and westerly boundaries respectively of the City of Belleville when designated as County Roads. Any further roads proposed to be dealt with by the Commission shall first be approved by resolution of each and both councils and the province.

That this by-law shall come into force and take effect immediately on and after the execution of a satisfactory agreement between the Corporation of the City of Belleville and the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Co., Ltd.

"Mukerji's address was one of the most brilliant I have ever heard," declared Rev. Canon Bigg, rector of St. Thomas' church, in moving a vote of thanks to the speaker. "I have never heard a more clear and concise statement of the Indian problem. I am sure we all appreciate the privilege of hearing him."

Mr. Mukerji censored an Indian professor who had heard delivered a speech at a Canadian Club luncheon in a Montreal hotel recently. The Professor had referred to the British rule existing in India and which fab government, but had in the same speech, contradicted the statement when he declared that the British government is paramount for the future welfare of India.

The causes of unrest there, are firstly famine, secondly misrule by Government, in the opinion of Mr. Mukerji. Referring to the Amritsar British government, the Indian sake was the cause of unrest, and which there will always kep him rise to a higher plane of citizenship.

Total Revenue 327,000,000

In discussing the conditions in India, it was explained that the population of the country, but one third the size of Canada, is 327,000,000. There are 147 languages in the country, and two thousand castes. There are two entirely different peoples, the Hindus and Mohamedans, with three Hindus alone worship 29,000,000 different Buddhists. The strife between these, the speaker explained, is clashes, firing of temples and death, almost every time they meet to celebrate. The Moslems were described as being very fanatical, forcing the acceptance either of the Koran (Bible) or of the sword. The Hindu lives in absolute fear of his religion, which consists of the worship of idols, and rules of grotesque feature. Their religion does not satisfy them, and they know it.

As a result of the caste system, 60,000,000 Hindus live miserable lives in dirty village hovels. They are illiterate, desolate and hungry, working from 12 to 16 hours a day, eating three-quarters of their crop for interest which is reckoned at from 25 to 50 per cent.

Places Y.M.C.A. Ahead of Church

In closing, the speaker stated that he did not like cheap patronage or doumination, and would much rather have the frank treatment of the Canadian people. Mr. Mukerji placed the Y.M.C.A. even ahead of the church (which by the way he respects very highly, being a Christian gentleman) in the matter of bringing to Christianity. Said the speaker emphatically: They will come into a Y.M.C.A. where they will not be reminded of

"BOOTLEG" TRAFFIC IN TORONTO BECOMING MENACE TO CITIZENS; "MUSHROOM" DRUG STORES ACTIVE

Eight Stores Raided in Toronto Last Night—Glare of Publicity Reveals How the "Mushroom" Drug Store is Falling in Line With the Bootlegger

By James G. Loftus
Staff Correspondent)

Toronto, April 26.—In "the ward", that squalid and mysterious slum quarter of Toronto—the foreign bootlegger is perturbed. The profession of selling "aqua vitae" and its substitutes behind the broad back of the law is in the process of evolution and revulsion for in its wonted way and as bartenders write their bewhiskered mates are at other work is greatly disturbed over the change.

The dirty, shady back parlor with its garlic adorned and dingy-curtained windows is passing and in its place has sprung up a veritable network of mushroom drug stores with glistening rows of medicine bottles and, pitiful to relate, cut-glass decanters.

Sold Openly

Here in pleasant surroundings one may have his alcohol "straight", or with a dash of ginger ale. One may buy a bottle to take home or to a "party" for two or three dollars. The pleasant part of the transaction for these bootleggers de luxe naively admit that they do some of the above but they sell the odd flavoring of hypophosphates of cream and 12 per cent. which make the cocktail a poison.

The honest druggists is hard hit by the ease of evolution in the profession when these "mushroom" stores are installed in the public mind. It is reacting on the legitimate druggists business and they are practically powerless to take steps to offset the evil.

No Investigation

The pharmacy charter does not allow the supervision of money for the enforcement of the O.T.A. and therefore the enquiries into the morning's investigation which would produce the necessary evidence to place before the magistrates. The latter have the power to suspend offenders but, without means to uncover them, their hands are tied.

It is estimated that there are over 70 bootleg drug stores in Toronto. The figure is appalling, when it is considered that the average store sells approximately $35 worth of alcohol a day. As one of the "boys" busy behind the "ward" supplanted the drug, polished bar, in 1924 we find the "mushroom" drug store taking the place of the hovel in the slums. Toronto, the "Queen" Province, has become a city of drug stores.

WEEK IN JAIL FOR DRUNKEN DRIVER

Stanley Lucas, this city, must spend one week in County Jail for driving his motor car on Front street while drunk. Magistrate Masson imposed the penalty and the latter entered upon the office court, and also before Police Magistrate Masson, in addition on two drinks of cider. A cousin rode in the car with him.

P.C. William Evans saw the car, zig-zagging on South Front Street at 9.30 last night, the driver lying over the wheel. He signalled him to stop, but he drove away. Evans watched for his return and at 11.10 he again tried to stop him at corner Front and Bridge. He speeded north on Front street and commandeering a motor car, the officer overtook him at the upper bridge.

Evidence state that the otter was unlike cider. Accused must also pay costs of court.

After sentence was passed, accused complained of dizziness and sat down.

Goes To Work

Chief Kidd has just secured employment for the youth who was in court recently on a vagrancy charge. He is employed at Bellville Hardware, and he must be in his office at 8 o'clock a.m.

"Courier" By Request

"Walk down that street one block turn to your left and keep going," directed a police officer this morning to a middle aged, talkative, tramp visitor, whose home one week ago was by C. B. officer at Ft. Benton.

After a week's meditation on the

COURIERS COST CITY NOTHING IN WAY OF EXPENSES—MIKEL

In answer to an enquiry by Ald. Greenleaf at last night's Council meeting, Mayor Mikel stated that it would not cost the city anything in the way of expenses for the couriers going to Washington and Toronto. As Mayor of the city in his official position he had sent them off, but that was all.

EIGHT DRUG STORES RAIDED BY OFFICIALS

Toronto, April 26.—Toronto police yesterday raided eight drug stores and locked up employees on charges of violating the O.T.A. The drive was opened in the evening and most of the officers were located on Queen street. The patrol wagon proceeded slowly along the curb stopping at the places marked and the offenders were herded swiftly out of the stores, across the sidewalk and into the darkness behind the steel grating on the heavy door of the "Black Maria."

The patrolwagon crawled until the work was completed and then whisked away to a downtown police station where the wagon load of alleged bootleggers, were lodged overnight.

Giving chase to what he thought was a speeder, motorcycle officer Clarence Hunter, yesterday landed a liquor car heading for Toronto, along the Hamilton Highway. Constable Hunter uncovered a case of 120 gallons of alcohol stored away in the tonneau.

It is believed that the consignment was destined to supply some of the many "mushroom" drug stores which infest Toronto at present. Constable Hunter placed the occupants of the car under arrest. They were Antonio Sem, also Pact and U. Vitelle Sem, and claim Hamilton as their homes.

Hamilton Member Repeats Prediction of Appeal, and Cites Reasons

Toronto, April 26—In local Conservative circles, as a result of a meeting of the Executive Council held last night, an intimation has gone out that the election is now expected election this fall.

Thomas Stewart, K.C., for Hamilton who is in the city today, states that indications point to an appeal to the country shortly.

He points to the fact that matters being rushed through the Commons with speed that indicates some haste, and the fact that there have a minority of four in the House, explains the fact that the Progressives having been given a reduction of duty to help them they in turn would make the Government fall. As far as the Conservatives are able to locate Government opposition in the House, only four of the Quebec members will vote against it.

Bright Glare of Newspaper Searchlight Reveals Activities of "Bootlegger" Druggists in Queen City—Legitimate Druggists add Voice to General Disapproval

(By James L. Loftus
Staff Correspondent)

Toronto, Ont., April 26.—Probing drafts of newspaper searchlights have during the past few days thrown a bright glare on the bootleg druggist and his latest method of defying the O. T.A. and the legitimate druggist have added their endorsement in no uncertain manner.

It was announced yesterday that the Ontario Temperance Act and the Pharmacy Act had been moulded in a manner which spells doom to the "mushroom" druggists. The particulars of the amendments will require to be made public but it is the forerunner of an intensive campaign by provincial authorities to stamp out the many 24-hr night alcohol mills masking their illicit trade behind the good name of Toronto Pharmacists.

Must Secure License

It is understood that one of the amendments will require the druggist to secure a license to sell liquor. At present druggists by virtue of their calling may handle liquor without a permit, but the proposed regulation will give the committee a much wider control. Distorted druggists will very likely have their permits revoked, under the new legislation, but it was suggested from a semi-official source here yesterday, "These revelations will apply to all over the province, where the number of unlicensed druggists are said to be increasing almost as fast as in Toronto.

"Whitewash" Not Regarded

The tightening of Pharmacy regulations will be a God-send to the legitimate druggist and the "clean-up" campaign come too soon for them. The handwriting is on the wall for "Ole Jawn Barleycorn" in his former haunts. The next move is up to the police officials.

In the words of one time ago a popular condition sprang up overnight. Druggists were employed in these stores as a manager, in some places former bartenders were employed as clerks under the supervision of the manager, and again there were drug stores in Alberta during the boozeless epidemic that sold liquor and "nothing else", but with liquor prescriptions being sent to another store to be filled.

Some arrests were made here yesterday and today but according to today the police will open a week's campaign of terror and Deputy Commissioner of Provincial Police Alfred Cuddy predicts that there will be many offenders left in business to tell the tale.

WHAT EDUCATION IS

Before she became a legislator, Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., was a school teacher. Being a lady of independent mind, it is a matter of course that Miss McPhail should have her own ideas on the subject of education; and that she has her own ideas on the subject was made clear in her address to the Ontario Educational Association the other day. She complained that the system of public education in this province has not been materially changed for more than a hundred years; also that it is built mainly upon a knowledge of the dead languages.

Both of these grounds of criticism are rather astonishing, seeing that the present public school system was devised and established by Egerton Ryerson about the middle of the last century, and that no instruction in the dead languages is given in the public schools. But what was more interesting in Miss McPhail's address was her general definition of real education—her idea of what education should be. It should be, she said, "something that builds up character; that teaches the truth that we get out of life only what we put into it; that liberty is liberty only so long as it does not interfere with other liberties; that teaches the child to strive after the splendid in life that teaches that our lives are only part of a great plan and that each individual must play his part in relation to the progress of humanity."

All this is very fine and commendable. But it is not a definition of education; rather it is a list—and a very incomplete list—of the qualities which should be produced by education. From a practical and experienced teacher like Miss McPhail one would expect something more definite.

It is doubtful if any definition of an ideal education more pithy, comprehensive and satisfactory than that of Thomas Henry Huxley will ever be formulated. Any educational system which is based on it must be sound and fruitful. "Education," said Huxley, "is the instruction of the intellect in the laws of Nature, under which name I include not mere by things and their forces but men and their ways; and the fashioning of the affections and of the will into an earnest and loving desire to move in harmony with those laws."

PLANT A TREE

Arbor Day is approaching, and the Dominion Government's "Save the Forest" week begins next Monday. Both should have a great deal of significance and interest. We can all do our share, when it comes to helping to preserve tree life. We can plant them in front of our own properties and we can use influence towards the formation of a national policy of reforestation and timber conservation.

Trees are important to the life of our nation. Prairie dwellers realize this, for one of the first things they try to do is to induce trees to grow. And results are beginning to show, not only in such states as Nebraska and Kansas, where they have been planting trees for a good many years, but in our own Canadian West.

In a naturally wooded country, unfortunately, we are apt to be careless about tree planting. The job was done for us ... [illegible] ... getting rid of enough of them so they could raise crops, and we haven't quite rid ourselves of that idea, even yet. But we must. The tree is man's friend. In the city, especially, trees should be cherished and carefully nurtured. As a means of beautification, they will transform a block of houses, notable for nothing except uniform ugliness of architecture, into a beauty spot. And there is nothing to take the curse off the heat of summer like the grateful shade of a beautiful tree.

There is no excuse for not planting trees because they take a long time to grow. It takes a long time to save money, but the massed savings of the people, invested in bank accounts, homes and life insurance, form the bulk of the wealth of this nation. As we are thrifty with our money, so let us be with our trees. Let us, if we have not already done so, start a bank account with Nature by planting one or more trees this Spring. It will pay us to do so.

KILLING AN INDUSTRY

Two or three years ago a fertilizer plant was established at Welland at a cost of some two hundred thousand dollars. The money was English capital. Some of the very low imported duty on fertilizers and also because of agricultural depression, the industry did not prosper; but the men behind it did not despair, and were preparing to carry on when the announcement was made at Ottawa that even the small duty on fertilizers would be wiped out and fertilizers placed on the free list. That settled it. The plant at Welland has been closed. It will be dismantled and sold for what it will fetch and the company will go out of business.

For more than one reason this result of tariff-tinkering is regrettable. There was a fair prospect of the Welland Company obtaining in Hamilton a plentiful supply of raw material. As the Montreal Journal of Commerce points out, nitrates are the principal constituent of fertilizers. The coke-oven plants of Ontario produce annually a considerable quantity of ammonium nitrate. The whole of this output is shipped across the border for use in American fertilizer plants. There it is mixed with other ingredients of a prepared fertilizer, and then is shipped back to the Canadian farmers at a greatly enhanced price.

Even with the small duty, it is not improbable that the Welland company could have weathered the storm and in the course of two or three years would have been able to compete successfully with the long-established American plants in the Canadian market. But the removal of the duty has made the experiment impossible. And, in the fertilizer industry, Canadian raw material will be shipped to the United States to be worked up into the finished product and sent back to Canada in that form instead of being worked into the finished product in this country. That seems to be now the settled policy of the government at Ottawa.

PRESS OPINIONS

EUROPE COMING BACK

(Wall Street Journal)

As regards Europe, there is not a shadow of doubt that it is on the threshold of a great revival. Signs are not wanting of the turning point. America, apparently the most favored, less involvent, has been placed on her mettle. The economic demoralization of Germany has been arrested. France has called a halt on her unwise land program. Italy is surprising the world by the masterly management of her finances. Even great Britain's Government in England can affect the stability of her time-honored institutions.

TRULY OBLIGING

(Montreal Star)

The farce goes on and last month 131,785 cords of pulpwood were obligingly shipped over the border to be manufactured into paper products. Had this come from our natural resources been manufactured on this side of the line, Canada would have given employment to many hundreds of workers and have effectively called a halt to that clamor which she is so rapidly travelling of becoming dependent on the United States for yet another key product.

WHY PLANT TREES?

RADIO ON THE PRAIRIE

"There is more hope for the radio business in Western Canada now that the fad for the cheap crystal set is over," a prominent radio merchant of western Cañada said recently to a correspondent of this paper.

"Our business this year was not much greater than at the same time last year, but it is encouraging in view of the change in demand. When the radio enthusiasm first hit the west, the market was flooded by a great variety of original, genuine and imitation, good and bad. In the course of a few years the reliable makes have asserted themselves, so that now it is a much safer business to handle. Thus the buying difficulty has been overcome.

"The selling difficulty as far as the hardware dealer was concerned, was that everyone, butcher, grocery, confectioner, etc., began to sell radio parts. The greatest competition however, in Winnipeg and the other large cities were the 5 and 10 cent stores, who featured the cheap crystal set parts. It was an easy job for a radio that everyone went in for one at the very low price. The 5 and 10 stores were simply built for it for the time being. However, in a season or two the interest in the crystal set got tired of hearing only one station, and began to build something that would get them in touch with outside points. This began to put business on a firmer basis for us, and it has been developing steadily since the first year, with prospects of a good sound business in the future."

FLOGGING NOT TO BE REMITTED

Ottawa April 25.—Hon. Ernest Lapointe Minister of Justice stated in the House that the lashing to which Hazel Beauchamp, Montreal burglar, was sentenced, have not been remitted. Mr. Lapointe pointed out that provision had been made for appeal in ref[illegible] ... [illegible] ... [illegible] which there was a sentence of the kind, and instructions had been given to all wardens that such sentences were not to be carried out during the period which an appeal might be lodged. The message sent in the case of Beauchamp was that a reconsideration with regard to the lash or in any other particular has been examined and if any application were made for remission it would be dealt with in the ordinary way.

PAINFUL SCIATICA AND NEURALGIA

Caused by Starved Nerves Due to Weak, Watery Blood

People think of neuralgia as a pain in the head or face, but neuralgia may affect any nerve of the body. Different names are given to it when it affects certain nerves. This neuralgia of the sciatic nerve is called sciatica, but the character of the pain and the nature of the disease is the same. The pain may be light or effective, must be the same. The pain, whether it takes the form of sciatica or whether it affects the face and head, is caused by starved nerves. The blood, which normally carries nourishment to the nerves, for some reason no longer does so and the excruciating pain you feel is the cry of the starved nerves for food. The reason why the blood fails to properly nourish the nerves is usually because the blood itself is weak and thin.

When you build up the impoverished blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, you are attacking sciatica, neuralgia and kindred diseases at the root of the trouble. Mr. Wales of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind we put a statement of Mrs. Marion Bell, Port Elgin, Ont., who says:—"Some years ago I was attacked with sciatica in my leg and hip. The pain was excruciating and I had to take to bed. Apparently all the doctor could do was to give me drugs to dull the pain, as otherwise I found no relief. I had been in bed with the trouble for eight weeks when a lady came to see me and told me that I should try this medicine, and before I had taken more than three boxes I found relief. I continued the use of the pills and under the treatment the pain left me, I was able to walk about and have not since had the least return of the trouble, I feel that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been of such great benefit to me that I strongly urge similar sufferers to give them a fair trial."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Ghandi

Christianity, when they would never go near a church. In that way they are won. Though he has been pressed to enter the service of the church, Mr. Mukerji has decided to continue for the present at least with the Y.M.C.A.

It was intimated during the speech that Ghandi, who will probably visit England on a lecture tour, will be brought to Canada also; Montreal men are behind this movement.

A vote of thanks was moved by Dr. F. E. Malott, D.D., which was seconded by P. C. MacLaurin and the large audience demonstrated their appreciation.

Presentation and Banquet Provided

Following a most excellent banquet provided by the ladies of the Y.M.C.A. community singing of each group, which was lead by Jack Deacon, was heard by the group lodges, Dr. Malott and Mr. J. G. Herity. The Hi-T Girls won the pennant this year by a narrow margin, their decorations, attire, and general behaviour making them obvious winners.

Presentation of Prizes

Russell Woodley presented the cup denoting another city hockey championship to Mr. Ed. Lally, representing the Rotarians. Dr. H. S. D. P. MacLaurin presented the Riggs' trophy, representing the junior league bowling championship to Walter Walsh, captain of the victorious "Bowlers" team, and R. P. Duff presented the individual players with medals of the finest quality, suitably engraved. The players are Messrs. W. Walsh, McLean, Alf. Simmons, L. J. Cook, W. Scott, Boyle and Fred Libbey.

The "Excelsiors", winners of the bi-annual basketball tournament, were their cup from Harry Bryant. Mr. George Lee accepted the trophy on behalf of the team, and received a bouquet from the members of the Excelsior team. Mrs. J. Walsh making the presentation. Individual prizes were also presented to the players. Miss Young gave the most humorous speech of the evening in lauding the Y.M.C.A. social director, Thomas Alexander, (the Great), who by the way was presented with a fine gold ring by the lady bowlers, suitably inscribed and engraved; Mrs. A. Goyer welcomed the Peterboro lady bowlers who played the return matches here yesterday. Miss Beale Sayers also welcomed the visitors. Fred Deacon presented the circus prizes to the lucky ticket winners, and Miss Stella Ford on behalf of her bowling team, the runners-up, "Ramblers", accepted prizes for her team members and herself. Miss Sayers of the Amateurs and Miss M. Goyer of the Granites and Mrs. J. A. McFee of the "Rinxers" accepted their prizes. Mr. L. Hill received the prizes for his team, the runners-up, "Printers". Russ. Woodley was high three string, and for high average: Harry Bryant, Jr., L. Cook and L. Hill won high average prizes.

Judge G. E. Dawson presided as chairman, and in a neat speech, proposing the toast to the ladies, Mayor Hilard expressed the hope that some day the various activities of our city would be centralized in the Y.M.C.A. with greater benefit.

Pep speeches by the leader of each group were well given, Richard Sidenius, Jr., introduced the pep by Kent Chadwick, the juniors, Reg. Blakeley, the Hi-Y Club, Arthur Hardy the Employed Boys' Brotherhood, Lorraine Sprague, the Hi-T Girl system, George Griffin, the Boys' Camp, Albert Armstrong, the Senior Leaders' Corps, Bert Fyfe, the Intermediate Six, A. L. Stillwell, the Business Men's Class, Russell Woodley, the Boys' Work Board, Mr. English, Albert College and George Oatman the 19 "Y" Directors.

Songs were contributed by Miss Ridley and Mr. Corham, and Miss Davidson gave a humorous reading.

WESTERN SETTLERS APPRECIATE SERVICE

Writing from Kitscoty, Alberta, a town on the C.N.R. main line, east from Edmonton, Rev. W. A. Lewis says that there is "not a church north of here and this side of the North Pole." Being responsible for Methodist work in that region, Mr. Lewis, this winter, sought out the neediest place to the North. It was named Elgin, possibly after the old county in Ontario, possibly after the first Governor who put responsible government into effect in Canada.

Elgin turned out en masse for the church service, a congregation of twenty-five. The preacher spent two weeks there, returning in his honor for the Sundays, but preaching every week night and finally holding a communion service attended by fourteen persons, none of them Methodists.

"Make no mistake about it, the western settlers appreciate the gospel," says the missioner in conclusion.

AMAZING RESULTS IN GOOD HEALTH FROM THE FRUIT TREATMENT

Intensified Fruit Juices in the Form of "Fruit-a-tives" Promptly Relieves Many Diseases

You have always known that Fruit is healthful. Doctors say "eat more fruit." Experts on food and diet urge the eating of fruit. But—fresh fruit is cleansing—and there is only a very small quantity of the medicinal or tonic principle in fruit.

Now, a 50c. box of "Fruit-a-tives" contains all the medicinal principle of dozens of oranges and apples and pounds of figs and prunes.

By the wonderful discovery of well known physician, it is possible to obtain the medicinal properties of the fresh juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes concentrated and intensified in a small tablet, without a seed.

This is "Fruit-a-tives" or Fruit Treatment—the quick, pleasant, tonic-laxative-kidney-skin make you well and keep you well.

Seems Almost a Miracle

Just read this letter from Mrs. Clara Stout, Perth Junction, N.B.

"For many years I was a pat sufferer from Indigestion, Constipation and Chronic Rheumatism. My stomach was weak and gave me constant dress, while the Rheumatism in my joints made me almost cripple. Physicians and their medicines did me no good. Then I was induced to take "Fruit-a-tives" and as a medicine wonderful fruit medicine seemed to help me. Soon the Constipation and Indigestion were relieved and the Rheumatism began to go away and, in a few months, entirely disappeared."

Thanks To "Fruit-a-tives," Am Once More Well

Mrs. Honore Valiquette 1133 Notre Dame St. West, Montreal, is deeply grateful this famous fruit medicine. Association and Chronic Rheumatism. Her letter tells the world "I was troubled with Constipation ever since I can remember and my head would ache and feel as though it would burst. I have suffered from shattering headaches at what "Fruit-a-tives" have no for me. For three years, I was much troubled by Backaches, Nervous Dyspepsia and pain in my left side. I tried many and various remedies for the Headaches and Constipation, without receiving any relief. About four months ago, I began the use of "Fruit-a-tives." Very soon my condition improved, and now, thanks to these wonderful tablets, in once more entirely well. "Fruit-a-tives." I feel justified in pronouncing them a remedy of true and exceptional merit."

Says Rumania And Russia Are On Verge of War

Mr. Louis Gurofsky, Returning From Europe, Gives His Views on Conditions

Toronto, April 25.—Russia and Rumania are on the verge of war over a minor trade dispute involving the wood forests and hardwood of Bessarabia, a former Russian province now under the rule of Rumania.

Until this economic dispute is settled it is useless to expect the removal of the enormous barrels at any moment. And if war once starts no one knows where and when it will stop. So declared Mr. Louis Gurofsky recently on his return from Europe, after investigating trade, export conditions there. It was significant, Mr. Gurofsky said, that France was the only power who has been recognized Rumanian sovereignty over Bessarabia.

The Soviet European plan to keep peace among the small nations of the continent, Mr. Gurofsky said, we be attempted by the formation of a trade agreement under which each country would retain its complete national autonomy, with the exception that they would all have to follow a common foreign policy. This, he thought, might lead to political federation.

Chance for Immigration

Interested in the immigration problem of Canada, Mr. Gurofsky said: "Canada has an excellent opportunity to secure first-class immigrants at the present time. Living costs and rent are lower and population of Russia, Poland, Galicia and Bohemia is great on the decrease of men and women who are willing to come to the country and till our soil. They would find an immediate solution of Canada's greatest problem of the day.

"I believe our country is being influenced by the policy of the United States to the detriment of every citizen of Canada," said Mr. Gurofsky.

Reverting to conditions in Bessarabia, Mr. Gurofsky spoke about the wood trade. Mr. Gurofsky said good red wines were selling as low as one cent a quart while the best white wines were bringing not more than about 2 cents per quart. Peasants in Russia relate "only to absolute quiet, as a result of which nature has been become a worker unused product.

Competition Strong

Returning to Canada via Australia, Mr. Gurofsky learned that the trade which Mr. Gurofsky learned that buyers of all nations were there in bond, and almost impossible, to compete with the German buyers of foreign products. Germans are receiving no credit abroad and are paying in hard currency for all their purchases including many luxuries. It is interesting to note that Germans and English buyers who are bogue the German competition, in many instances and insidential to the transition in Germany from the paper to the gold basis.

BOER HUNT, DIES

Boston, April 25.—Michael Molinara, 29-year-old boxer, died in the City Hospital today as a result of injuries received in a bout at the Tri-City Athletic Club in the Arena here yesterday.

Molinara was knocked out by Joe Pickard of Boston with a blow on the chin. The injured boxer fell heavily to the canvas, and the referee was said he sustained concussion of the brain. His home is at 112 George street, Roxbury.

NARROW ESCAPE WHEN RIG HIT

Port Hope, April 25.—Yesterday morning Mr. James McCormick was returning from delivering a load of beets and with his horse and rig was taking the short cut across the Grafton Flat Barrel crossing. He had not heard the approach of the 11 o'clock train going north when Mrs. Jas. Aitkens, who lives beside the track, screamed to him to jump quickly. Mr. McCormick was like a bird in the cage for he was inside his barrel rack. How ever he made the most of the few seconds remaining by running to the back of his rig and jumping for his life. The horse and rig were struck, the horse was so badly hurt that it is not expected to recover and the rig and rack demanded to splinters.

Mr. McCormick owes his life to the fact that the train was pulling up grade and going slow—in fact the train was brought to a stop within a very short distance after the smash.

Asylum Strike Ties Lunatics Nose In Plant

London, April 26.—Twelve officers, including the resident medical superintendent, and his assistants, were left hungry and disarmed at the Donegal asylum at Letterkenny by a striking party of attendants. Fifty strikers, 100 strong, male and fe, marched into the body in pro against a wage reduction of 10 per cent. Many of the patients of violent and suicidal disposition, and in order to successfully overcome the strikers, a large body of police were entered the institution. Advantage of the confusion was taken by many of the patients to make an attempt at escape. When the strikers were leaving the asylum the male patients the high wall surrounding the asylum and ran riot. Help was soon procured by a party of strikers, and after considerable difficulty was captured. He was brought back and handed over to the civic guards who

Sugar May Increase Athletes' Endurance

Tests Show Sugar Content of Blood Greatly Decreased During Marathon Race

Boston,—The introduction of sugar into the system before or during a marathon race or similar gruelling physical test may increase the endurance of the athlete, physicians who examined contestants in last week's marathon here before and after the race announced tonight. Blood tests disclosed that the sugar content of the blood decreased considerably during the contest.

The physicians professed astonishment that the sugar content in the blood could become so low and the system endure it. In practically cases, where a similar condition of hypoglycemia, or lack of sugar, is found, is exist, sugar is administered to save the life of the patient.

This phenomenon, the physicians said, is the result of insulin shock in the treatment of diabetes.

Another Big Strike In B.C.

Vancouver,—Unofficial news has come from a rich new strike about 50 very rich strike on Dogwell property on Bear Creek in the Portland Canal district in British Columbia. It is stated that showings 56 this mine are almost as spectacular as those on the famous Premier. About 60 per cent of the Dogwell Mine is owned by the Stewart interests of Vancouver. Drifting has carried on for 150 feet with crosscutting at every 50 feet. Very rich shipping ore has been encountered with a width of 10 feet and values are understood to run into hundreds of dollars per ton. The entire width of the ore body discovered thus far is 50 feet and the milling ore at $20 to $30 per ton. Development work has been going on during the past six months. The Dogwell mine is located about seven miles southeast of the Premier.

ON THE ALLEYS

BELLEVILLE TAKES ALL

The return games between Peterboro Ladies and the Belleville ladies who played in the latter city a few weeks ago took place at the Y Alleys yesterday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon fixture the Peterboro Five were leading in the early stages only to have the Belleville Five go out in the lead later in the game and hold it to the end. Miss Adams of the visitors and Mrs. Lee of the home team were the leading score getters of the game.

The game played following the get-together banquet at which the Peterboro Bowlers were guests, was a rather more one sided affair. The local ladies assumed quite a large lead in the first string, added to it in the second but lost out somewhat in the third when the L&L Lock Association finished up "sprinting". The Belleville team incidentally broke the alley record for a ladies' team when they collected the reasonably decent score of 913 in one string.

Tuesday and Thursday night of next week the Grand Trunks will practice at the Armouries. The condition of the playing diamond at Agricultural Park is not very sooty and not but is improving daily.

Lost Son Found A Murderer In Prison By Mother

Paris—Twenty-five years after abandoning her newly-born infant, a mother rediscovered him—in a felon's cell awaiting trial on a charge of murder. The incident, which only the pen of Balzac or Zola could adequately picture, was enacted in the office of the investigating magistrate of Corbeil, a suburb of Paris. Weeping and distraught, a woman applied to the official for permission to see Louis Deribourg, 25, a scrub-shifter, and rapist, who was detained in the Santé Prison on the capital charge. "If he is a criminal and a murderer," she exclaimed in pitiful accents, "it is my fault. He is my son, and I abandoned him when he was a baby, leaving him without a mother's love and guidance." Deribourg's arrest followed the discovery that Mme. Lucie Ledoux, a retired cabaret at the Folies Bergere Theatre, had been strangled in her bed. Her murderer had bound her victim with cords. Deribourg had been an actor at the Chatelet, and was known to be an intimate friend of the dead woman. He confessed to the crime, and told a detailed tale, being cut of work, and in love with a minor chanteuse, he had tried to obtain a loan from Lucie Ledoux. As she refused he strangled her. Soon after, misery from the premises and went with his mistress' sweetheart to Lyons. He spent the stolen sum and .....

Returned Penniless To Paris

Between jobs, his mother, Mme. Madeleine, wife of the foreman of a Paris factory, told her story. "I came to Paris 25 years ago," she explained, "and went into service. I was betrayed by a young man and my baby was born. All alone in the world I decided to entrust him to the public assistance authorities, where I had him registered as Louis Deribourg. Years later I married my present husband, and I never told him anything about my child. However, when I read the story of the crime in the newspapers, I was convinced that the young man arrested must be my son. Night after night I could not sleep, and I endured mental torture. I told my husband all about it, and he said that the right thing for me to do was to find out whether he was really my son, and then to see what I could do in his interests. I went to the office of the public assistance, and after some days' searching I found out that I was right, and now I have come to ask you what I can do. My husband and I have sold all our little savings, and we want to have the best lawyers to defend my poor boy. I have suffered for years of the damned; have pity on me, but tell me are my son!" Moved by the pathetic confession, the magistrate ordered the prisoner to be brought to his office. There was a pathetic scene when he appeared and his relation to the rail-faced woman was revealed to him. Young Deribourg sprang to his mother's arms, and sobbed, "If I had been brought up by you I would probably never have gone astray."

The sporting fraternity were somewhat surprised to witness the trium ph by four and a half lengths, of the Cambridge oarsmen over their Oxford rivals. Photograph shows the Light Blues leading by a length at Hammersmith bridge.

The Managers, Messrs. Eardley Wilmot and John Chapman, will be pleased to welcome their old customers and new ones to inspect their new location.

A new gasoline pump has been installed in front of the new garage in order to offer every convenience for their patrons.

CAR THIEVES TAKEN

Windsor, Ont., April 26.—Following a chase of almost a mile through city streets shortly before midnight last night, two joyriders who afterwards admitted that they were responsible for the theft of six automobiles in Windsor during the last three months, were captured by Patrolman John Miller in a stolen automobile.

The patrolman was forced to fire a revolver shot over their heads before they would obey his orders to halt, which he shouted from a motorcycle he had commandeered.

Two young persons men and a girl who were also in the stolen car were released by the police when they satisfied them that they had nothing to do with the theft of the car.

DISCOUNT to GARAGES

WITHIN a split second the wheels are locked in the implacable grip of the brake and your tires scrape and grind into the road, taking every ounce of strain required to check the impetus of your car.

This terrific strain is not taken merely on the treads—it pulls on every cord and layer of rubber in the inner construction of the tire.

The Web Cord process, by eliminating cross threads, enables the cords to lie flat and even in the layers, thus giving each cord maximum resistance to strain and imparting to the tire body greatly increased strength to resist the pull of the car when the brakes are applied.

Sprayed Rubber used in the Dominion Cord Tires adds strength and resilience to the walls and treads.

These improved processes are used exclusively in Canada in Dominion Royal Cord and U-cord Tires.

They are extra values in Dominion Cord Tires which cost you nothing extra.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mrs. A. O. Norton, the well-known Lady Minstrel of Boston, Mass., recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

She suffered from headaches from childhood and when she found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, she began recommending them to her friends and finally as an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in part:

"My family use them when ever needed with wonderful results. I have given many packages from time to friends who were suffering from headaches and they were delighted to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets with me on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

Zutoo Tablets are sold by druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price—50 cents a box—at all dealers.

POEMS Old and NEW

BABY MINE

Oh baby mine, can you tell me?
Just why I love you so.
That just to hold you in my arms
Is Heaven on earth I know.
I love to kiss your dimpled cheek
And smooth your tangled hair
For in my heart of hearts I think
There is none half as fair.

Perhaps some day, you'll go away,
And leave me all alone.
Your tiny feet will stray afar,
Perhaps, with some unknown.
May He who guards His wand'ring sheep
Keep you, dear one from harm.
And bring you safely home again,
To shelter in my arm.

WHATEVER IS—IS BEST
(By request)

I know as my life grows older
And mine eyes have clearer sight,
That under each rank wrong, some where
There lies the root of Right;
That each sharp pain or loss I bear
By the sorrowing oft unguessed
But as sure as the sun brings morning
Whatever is—is best.

I know that each sinful action
As sure as the night brings shade,
Is somewhere, sometime punished
Though the hour be long delayed.
I know that the soul is aided
Sometimes by the heart's unrest,
And I know when my soul speaks sweet
But whatever is—is best.

I'll be careful and keep my eyes open, Miss Transom," he said. "It's very kind of you to warn me about what happens to me.

Without thinking what he was doing, and meaning nothing but kindly gratitude by the action, he held out his hand.

She took it in both hers, seemed to cling to it for a moment, then her head dropped until her soft warm lips touched it. Jack reddened under his tan, and he stood in that awkward silence of the man who has caused her head and lookat at him, as she had looked at him the night he had first seen her when he had spared her father, but with something added to the expression of gratitude, something that moved Jack to the heart then, with a shock she, turned and was swallowed up in the darkness.

"Poor girl", he mused, as he walked on, "I'm glad I've been able to cheer her up a bit. I wonder what the deuce of us at this darned sanitary world?"

That Kate entertained any warmer feeling than that of friendship never occurred to him, for Jack, with all his manly virtues, was sadly lacking in a modest man to boot.

He kept a sharper lookout than usual when he went through the woods,but he made a few steps in the house and was nothing of the tall, dark-faced man who was waiting for him would reach him. Jack himself could have done, making his way to his Hawk's Nest.

Jack stood at the edge of the woods and looked across the park and lawn at Bellthorpe. The lights were streaming from the open windows of the drawing-room, and Jack could hear faintly, the sound of Mr. Selby Layton's voice.

Sweet, bloody it was, he filled Jack with bitterness. He did not hereafter Selby Layton but he did not forget or forgive Esther the possession of the man. "Well, I'll be damned," he thought came to him!

"I'll be damned some day; she may even marry that—fool! Well, it's no business of mine, but I'm sorry for her, I've tortered my house and land and have given me notice for quit soon and I'll abide by my word. But, if she had only been one of the laborers daughters, if she only—" soon I wonder whether I shall ever get the belief I have had for years out of my think of her without wishing that I had never met her.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

"What time was that?" she asked in a low voice.

"Eh? Oh, something after two." Her hand was to the gate, and she gripped it. It was he then, who had come to the cottage while the man and her father were talking.

"Could you see going into the woods?" she said.

Thee was a note of apprehension in her voice which slightly surprised him.

"Yes;" he said. "Why?"

She seemed to hesitate, as if reluctant to give a reason for her questions; then, as if she could not help herself, she uttered:

"Is it safe, Mr. Gordon? You always go alone, and— and there may be poachers; they are reckless and desperate—"

Jack looked at her sharply as she spoke down.

"Oh, I'm all right," he said, "There's nothing to fear, and I've got my gun, you see." He patted it with a smile. "I have you ask any reason to expect a visit from the poachers to-night?"

He knew that the question could be keen and piercing when he chose.

Her color rose and sank, leaving her face as pallid as before.

"No—no," she said. "I know nothing. But—but—shall you will be careful, Mr. Gordon?"

In her earnestness she unconsciously clasped his sleeve. Jack was a man, woman, and the girl was exceedingly pretty. He had interested her more than once, and one always feels kindly toward those who have been kind indeed. He was touched by her regard and safety.

"I'll be careful and keep my eyes open, Miss Transom," he said. "It's very kind of you to warn me about what happens to me.

among the trees.

He immediately he strayed to the left of the direct line to the cottage and so shirted the Hawk's Nest. He paused for a moment to look absently, at the water glimmering prettily in the light of the moon over which the clouds were sailing, and as he did so he heard the peculiarly rainful cry a hare emits when it is caught in a gin. He had no difficulty in tracking it, and he found the poor animal caught by its hind leg in a gin. It was struggling with fright as Jack approached, and he was about to kill it when he saw that it was not much injured.

"Here are scarce," he said, "I'll set your leg, my friend, and turn you loose again. I'm afraid if I'd found the man who laid the snare caught in it, I should've been tempted to leave him there for the brute!"

Wrapping his handkerchief round the wounded leg, he walked on, carrying the hare, and, in the pre-occupation of his mind forgetting his gun. If he had remembered he would have been conscious of the fact that, even in passing something, he did not miss the weapon until he had got clear of the woods. He remembered it then, and gave a half inclined to go back for it, but hesitated. He would tell Mattie where the man stood and Martin could send Georgie for it.

He carried the hare into the cottage and bound the leg with a couple of splints and carrying it into the cleaning, let it loose. He was standing watching the animal as it ran limpingly into the underbrush, when he heard a step behind him, and, turning swiftly, saw Kate Transom standing behind him in the cottage.

Says Jack had no desire to meet her again that night. He was terribly upset and down in the mouth,and the cruelness and duplicity of earlier in the evening had made him vaguely uncomfortable as he left behind one of the trees. But she heard the movement, and uttered a low cry of alarm, and Jack, with a sort of exclamation of impatience, came out and walked toward her.

"What is it? Anything the matter?" he enquired, rather brusquely.

"No, nothing is the matter," she faltered. "I—I wanted to see if you had come back, Mr. Gordon."

"Oh, I've come back right enough," said Jack, with a short laugh. "I'm afraid you've been anxious on my account. You think the fellows are in the woods to-night, don't you? Well, I didn't see any of them."

But the moment the moon emerged from behind a bank of clouds, and its light fell on her face Jack felt it uttered a low cry of terror and shrank back.

ON CANCER

I have been reading the views of an English physician on Cancer and found them so interesting, and to the point also on. The physician is Dr. Robert Bell, Superintendent of the Cancer and Tumor Research of the Cattereck Hospital, the pioneer and leader of advanced medical thought for the prevention and cure of cancer, a man of whom the late King Edward had the highest opinion. He says:

Cancer is a blood disease and should be treated as such. The blood system of rheumatism have a close resemblance to that of cancer, and, so far as my extensive experience teaches me, a rheumatic diathesis is in existence in those who become the victim of cancer. So impressed have I become by this coincidence, that when there is present a doubt as to the diagnosis, I have come to hold that if rheumatism is absent in the subject under examination the case is not malignant, and vice versa.

He says it is a disease of civilization, not hereditary, not contagious and cannot possibly come into existence if the blood is kept in a healthy condition, and that this is possible with a careful diet and hygienic conditions. He says he has never known in all his long experience, a cancer cured by an operation, but says if it has not gone too far, he will average 75% of cures on a natural diet.

He told Major Paget, who interviewed him, that all the cases he had had been diagnosed by three specialists who all gave her but a short time to live unless operated on within a week. At the end of that time, she came to consult Dr. Bell, who diagnosed her as the others had done, but refused to operate, because, He told her "If you do not have an operation you will live by the system of diet, the chances are I can cure you within six months." She put herself in his hands with the result she was cured within the time stated. The diet she was put on was a milk diet, one, consisting of vegetables in the form of salads as far as possible, fruit, wholemeal bread, milk, eggs and cheese.

Many cases in this country of leading doctors in England are now following in the footsteps of Dr. Bell, but that the greater proportion of them are against it. Suffering from a terrible disease may well explain "How long, O Lord, how long!"

FLAW PICKERS

I was much interested in the editorial in the September number, "The Function of the Critic." It is hard to find fault with those too fine for using his host; but let us remember that the most inveterate flaw pickers are usually those who have nothing better to do than find fault with their superiors. Those who are doing much worth while are too busy to criticize those who are themselves trying to do their best. There are probably very few successful men and women of to-day who have not been told how they ought to conduct their business. In other people who never had any to conduct, and who themselves did not do so well. Those who are "quick" are so foolish as to find fault with their superiors. JUST IN PASSING

A citizen is said to have consulted one of our town physicians the other day and complained of not being able to "sleep at night." The Dr., asked him what it was in the habit of eating, and when told, said that should be allright. The patient was then asked if he was a heavy imbiber of spirituous liquors and answered that he was a total abstainer. "The trouble can't be then smoke?" "No." "Well, your's a strange case and a serious one. Take this prescription and have it filled and come back in a week." "But" said the man "I am a nightwatchman". "I don't care, you must drink, eat and do all of this" said the irate doctor, and the joker moved on.

JOURNALISTS REAL DOCTORS!

"One paper with each meal, if you would live to be a hundred.

"Nobody's paper with each meal and responsible for the increased longevity of the American people.

"The journalists are the real doctors." So says Barrie Payne, author of "Golf and Other Troubles," in one of his current articles not written about golf.

Here's his argument:

"If you eat hurriedly you wreck your digestive system. Food eaten quickly is not chewed properly.

"Now—the reading of a newspaper during your meal will force you to eat slowly and deliberately. Watch the man who tries to consume eggs and editorials at the same time, and see for yourself! He takes a morsel of food into his mouth, becomes absorbed in a news story and reads three or four paragraphs before his attention returns to his plate. Meanwhile he has been chewing, slowly and subconsciously.

"The average man digs his spoon with his fork. He's buried, not—with a shovel, but with a spoon.

"Provide a paper with each meal and stop committing slow suicide!"

WOMEN WORST PAROLE BREAKERS SUCCESS CLAIMED FOR SYSTEM

That it is universally the case that effect in the protection of society than the old non-parole system."

That women are more careful than men in the matter of violating parole conditions, is the statement made in the annual report of the Ontario Parole Board. The report supports this contention in an elaborate discussion, which is a further attempt at psychological analysis which itself explain the phenomenon.

The board reports, however, that many women are released on parole, as follows, who really turn out all right, and in spite of failures, the parole system is proving a success. Taking over the cases after their release from jail, the board has succeeded in saving a large number of young persons from the environments of crime.

Summary of Work

During the last fiscal year the provincial board has dealt with 1,000 cases, the cases of 823 men and 164 women. Two hundred and fifteen men and 12 women were paroled, 20 men and 6 women disappeared while on parole and therefore failures; 195 men and 12 women (failures to report, etc.) On ticket of leave 20 men and 2 women were freed.

These figures, say the report "show a clear success of 80 per cent," and claims that "every year sees a decrease in with its failures, has a better permanent

"It is to be noted that the percentage of failures among the women is much greater than among the men. This is undoubtedly the case. The majority of women going to our institutions are subnormal mentally and physically. Paroles have been granted to women in many cases with a good deal of hesitation. Many have been accused to be some possibility of success and it was thought better to give them a chance to get upon their feet under supervision rather than to send them in an institution until the end of their sentence and have them step out friendless and with no supervision or control exercised.

Improving Houses.

The home surroundings of many convicted women are not helpful to success on parole and it is a very difficult task to transform them properly. In a number of cases it has been found necessary to place the women in another position than her own home. Sometimes this has been found possible to improve the home conditions though the power which we have over the paroled person. Many of the failures in the attempt have been due to excuses in many ways because of the fine spirit of helpfulness shown by the women."

Segregate Juveniles

Taking up another phase of its work the board makes most urgent recommends that juvenile offenders be segregated from the hardened criminal class and hardly criminal types to prevent degeneracy of the younger people. This is undoubtedly more feasible. The report says on this subject.

It seems unfortunate that there are in our reformatories and industrial schools persons of long criminal records (including penitentiary sentences for murder) whose presence demands, as soon as possible, to make some other provision for the type of criminal and in the meaning they should not be associating with offenders who are making their first experiences of incarceration.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENCE

"Uneasy" writes—Dear Anne Hastings, I have a problem that is making me very unhappy. I am engaged to a boy and everything to me. But one night recently something happened that made me uneasy about the future. We were out for a drive in the country and stopped at a road house for refreshments. Shall I break the engagement? He will say I am foolish, but indeed there is not that."

Your little uneasy! You are thinking if he can be so deceitful now, what can you expect after marriage. Don't worry! Your happy union then must be complete trust in each other and anything short is a poor substitute.

B. H.—Yes, I remember your essay, particularly on account of your name. I once had a chum of the same name. I wonder if you were like her. She was very fond of books, disliked tending flowers and cooking, and little jiggles about people, very apt. "Up and down" she would say. Now for criticism of your essay. It was too short my dear, as it is impossible to tell the theory of the parallels on one sheet of notepaper, even though written on both sides. You did not follow the rules too. And you sent it in so late that the Contest was announced you could not have put much time and thought on it. However, B. H. do not be discouraged. We may have another some day and you can profit by these few hints.

"Curious" wants to know if I can tell her how to make war flowers. I am sorry but must plead complete ignorance of the art. I had thought paper or cloth flowers were dipped in melted wax, but recently I saw in Toronto some sweet peas and drew near to see in a frame. They proved to my astonishment they were made of real flowers, natural coloring and form that it was only on close acquaintance one could detect their wax formation. Now I ask the lovers here if they know anything about it, for they may be more successful than the' fancy name of their business.

"Sis Miranda" writes—"We are going to build this spring and I am to have a breakfast room and dining room both, perhaps you can help me decide. We have a large living room and being in the country I cannot do with as small a kitchen as you might in the city, but do not want to eat in the kitchen, etc."

Sis, have you enclosed were delightful. Personally, I am all for having a separate dining room, though of course you are to have that immense living room. Then I would add a good-sized gate leg table and 6 drawings. Have a china and a "sideboard, you can turn one end of the living room into a dining room and use the ten wonder table for a desk. Why not take that old-fashioned dining room stuff and have it match your new breakfast room pieces. I feel sure that with a little planning and a good deal of work (removing the old finish) and paint, you will have a charming breakfast set. Add some gay chintz or gingham curtains and rag rugs, and presto, what more could you want? We serve at least 1095 meals in year, so why arrange your home to cater to a few formal meals? You will get no much pleasure out of that breakfast room that you will never miss a dining room. On holidays and Sunday's you can "eat" in the kitchen with the aid of the tea wagon. Good luck!

Fast Air Service Will Soon Rush Prospectors Into the New Quebec Gold Fields

If the newly discovered gold fields of the province of Quebec prove to be as good as present indications seem to point, modern science is hardly nothing undone to develop those new areas.

The latest innovation which will reorder their development more rapid is the establishment of an aeroplane service by the Canadian Pacific Railway from Angiers, a station on the railway whilst is at the present time the head of steel, to Lake Bryan the centre of the gold mining district. Describing this trip, a passenger says:

"Turning east the plane heads down Lake Quinze, following the water course to Lake Expreme,—one acre from the air how appropriate is its name,—farther north for some fifteen miles up the Ottawa River and further north over one of its tributaries to Lake Fortune and Rouyn, upon nearing which the plane leaves the glorious rolling clouds and gradually sinks until once more the water thumps the bottom of the hull, checking it with sudden jerks which tend to slow the boat until it stops within a few feet of its-un. We then sees bow the pilot would, at such a speed, have judged his distance so well. But then he does the same thing more than once each day bringing in the new Gold Fields of Quebec, as well as mail, passengers and supplies which before the air service started took two days at the least to arrive.

Commencing May 15th the air service to the Gold Fields will be regular on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, carrying four passengers, with a far at once. Use it for lumbago, neuritis, backache, stiff neck sore muscles, colds in chest. Almost instant relief awaits you. Be sure to get the genuine with the name Rowles on each package.

hour will include regular stops where they are required and accommodation is available.

$78,000 Offered To Spur Inventors

Chicago, April 26.—Offers totalling more than $78,000 for labor, time and money saving ideas and inventions are being sought by manufacturers were announced tonight by H. H. Windsor, of Chicago, editor of Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Aim of the many problems to be solved are a plan of trade regulation for the larger cities, a new musical instrument for orchestral use, a way to salvage lumber waste and an etching process. The awards range in amount from $100 to several thousand, the closing date being May 31, 1925.

It was pointed out in the Industrial Awards Plan in which these offers were listed that many of the greatest discoveries have been the work of men having little or no technical knowledge, of which Eli Meter, Goodyear and scores of others are examples.

By meeting these conditions through the obtaining of closer co-operation between manufacturers and inventors, Mr. Windsor explained that it was hoped new opportunities for service, new industries these to the fullest extent, better understanding between the industries and the public and closer co-operation between manufacturers and investors is needed.

The Meaning of Chevrolet's "Economical Transportation"

IT is more economical to travel by Chevrolet than by any other means. That is what it means to say that Chevrolet is the most economical form of transportation.

This implies, first of all, that Chevrolet costs the least per car-mile—that it is less expensive to operate than any other make of car.

But, more than that, it means that Chevrolet is more economical than any other kind of transportation.

An investigation among Chevrolet owners of all classes, shows that it is not only more convenient—but also more economical—to travel by Chevrolet than by railway-train or trolley car. The information received gives an average of 30 miles per gallon of gasoline and over 1300 miles per gallon of oil.

You, who have envied the comfort and convenience enjoyed by Chevrolet owners, figure out the cost of a Chevrolet on a mileage basis. You will find that it is cheaper to travel with a Chevrolet than without one.

Chevrolet is easy to own. The G.M.A.C. plan of deferred payments will enable you to finance the purchase. Investigate the new Superior Chevrolet today.

How good it feels. Your head is clear. Your nostrils are open. You breathe freely. No more hawking or snuffling. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up, choked up and miserable. Relief is sure.

BEFORE MY BABY CAME

I Was Greatly Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sydenham, Ont. —"I took your medicine before my baby was born and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly. I had started to take it . . . just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would have weak, faint spells. My baby did not bother me until I could get little rest, night or day. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got it and took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I would recommend it to any woman. I am doing what I can to recommend this good medicine. I will send the little book you sent me to any one I can help. You can use the greatest of pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if it can help others take it."—Mrs. HARVEY MILLMAN, Sydenham, Ontario.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many women are poorly at such times and get into a weakened, run-down condition, when it is essential to the mother, as well as the child, that her strength be kept up.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs. It may be taken in safety by the nursing mother.

A DOUBTFUL COMPLIMENT

A certain good lady, who is very proud of her aristocratic ancestry, happened in show her maid the silhouette of an aunt of hers. The girl had never seen anything of the kind before, and also gazed at the portrait long and earnestly.

"Lor' Mum," she said at length, "I always thought you had some relations like that, you're that dark in the face yourself."

CHURCH CONCERT IS SUCCESSFUL

"Aunt Susan Jones" Playlet and Musical Programme Delights Large Audience at Baptist Church

It was a delightful audience which left Victoria avenue Baptist church last evening following the concert given there. There was a large attendance and the programme was in two parts. Rev. N. S. McKechnie, the pastor presiding very capably as chairman.

The first part of the programme consisted of solos and readings and in second part, a very humorous playlet was presented. Miss Lillie Mason gave a piano solo, Miss Georgina Ruttan gave a reading, and John Lloyd played the guitar, Miss Mason playing the accompaniment. A quartette rendered six collect numbers also, the members of the quartette being Mrs. Lavoie, Mrs. Doolittle, Fred Cook and Rev. Mr. Kechnie.

The playlet "Aunt Susan Jones" was one of the best amateur efforts ever witnessed in the city, Miss Georgina Ruttan in the title role, being exception ally effective. Other members of the cast acquitted themselves admirably also. The cast was as follows.

Lillie Mason—Arabella.
Lizzie Kennedy—Mrs Markley.
Mrs. Slaughter—Mrs. Markley's niece.
Joe Blackburn—Augustus Sampyne.
Georgina Ruttan—Aunt Susan Jones.
Miss Ruttan is a pupil of Miss Jessie Tate, elocutionist, and shows her excellent training in work of this kind.
Mrs. Myrtle Campbell also gave an excellent reading.

ULSTER WILL MASS TROOPS ON BORDER

No Agreement Possible in Parley, Craig States; Won't Give Way

Belfast, April 26.—The Ulster Government prepared today to mass troops along the Free State frontier to meet any eventuality.

Warning was sent to the British Government that "the consequences will be upon its head if any attempt is made to alter the Ulster border."

Agreement Impossible

Premier Sir James Craig in a message received here says: "I think both sides of the boundary conference conducted the meeting with credit, but agreement was impossible. We shall continue to maintain the same attitude on the boundary question as we have always done. There is no suggestion of a further meeting.

Captain Charles Craig, speaking at Carrick-Fergus, last night, said his brother would not "give away an inch of an inch" of Ulster territory.

Collapse or Fight

Dublin, April 26.—It was semi-officially forecast today that the Free State will fall unless it makes a vigorous fight upon the Ulster frontier issue.

WORTH A LIBEL SUIT

Alfred Knopf, the well-known New York publisher, has a large collection of typographical errors, the best of which concerns an Englishwoman of title who recently visited American shores.

A reporter, writing out an interview with this lady, began with the statement that she was "noted for her beauty and chastity."

When the proof came to the proof-reader he not unnaturally thought there must be something wrong, and so he put a query after the word "chastity," expecting that the printer would consult his copy again.

But the printer had sneaked out to get a glass of near-beer, or perhaps he was sleeping, and could not be awakened. Anyhow, when the interview left the press, the lady appeared it began by informing the paper's startled readers that:

"Lady Dash is noted for her beauty and chastity (?)."

Why You Need a Tonic In the Springtime

NO SEASON of the year is welcomed like the Spring.

The Winter is always too long. The warm weather is always too slow in coming.

Gradually the heat of the sun increases, the buds swell and burst and all Nature is aroused to new life and vigor.

But we do not often feel our best in the Spring. It is in fact the season of greatest mortality.

The accumulation of poisons in the system as the result of sedentary, indoor life and artificial foods of winter; the undermining effects of winter colds; the strain of sudden changing temperature; all these effect a climax in the Spring.

Hence the tired feelings, the brain fag, the lack of energy and the nervous troubles which weigh us down at the very season of the year when all Nature out of doors is arousing to new life.

In the spring as at no other time does the human system require assistance. Then it is that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proves a friend indeed.

The blood has become thin and watery. The nerves are starved. The whole vital machinery of the body has become slowed down.

But a few weeks use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will work wonders. Not in any miraculous way. But simply and naturally by supplying to the human system the elements from which rich, red, life-giving blood is created.

Many thousands have found out how to avoid the fatigue and discomfort of Spring by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50 pills 60 cents at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

VIOLA DANA TEAMS WITH RITA WEIMAN

Rita Weiman is the author of "The Social Code," the latest Metro production starring Viola Dana, which is coming to the Regent Theatre on Monday. Miss Weiman also wrote "The Angel's Tail" and other plays which won her recognition as a dramatist for the stage as well as "Footlights," a book of short stories of stage life, which has been received with highest acclaim and is currently enjoying a deservedly successful vogue.

Miss Weiman has also conducted a syndicated newspaper column widely read throughout the country, dealing with problems that concern women. Viola Dana's last previous Metro starring vehicle, "Heaped Coals" was also written by her.

The story of "The Social Code" relates to a butterfly who hates her soul to accomplish her object's release from a web of compromising circumstances. This secret she takes without hope of reward, yet it is the means of winning for her the man she loves. The action is dramatic throughout, with most of it transpiring in a crowded courtroom.

In "The Social Code" a notable cast appear in support of the star, including Malcolm McGregor, Huntly Gordon, Edna Flugrath, Cyril Chadwick, John Sainpolis and William Humphrey. Rex Taylor adapted Miss Weiman's story for the screen, Oscar Apfel directed, and John Arnold photographed the production.

"THE DAY OF FAITH" AT GRIFFIN'S

"The Day of Faith," the new Goldwyn picture adapted from Arthur Somers Roche's novel and directed by Tod Browning who the attraction at Griffin's theatre for 3days, beginning Monday. The cast is an unusually notable one, including Eleanor Boardman, Tyrone Power and Raymond Griffith in the leading roles. Other famous players in the support are Walace Marlborough, Fred Sterling, Charles Conklin, Ruby Lafayette, Anne Schaefer, Edward Martindel, Winter Hall, Jack Curtis, Fredrick Vroom, Henry Hebert and others. The adaptation was made by June Mathis, editorial director for Goldwyn, and Katherine Kavanaugh.

The story is one of unusual significance in the motion picture world, perhaps being nearer akin to "The Miracle Man" than any other film. Its theme "My neighbor is perfect," is directly the reverse of "Do unto thine friend," ricke, the idealist, who proclaims that doctrine. Through his influence a lawyer who had broken into the home of Marley Maynard, lying deservedly ill, and caused his death from excitement, escapes the electric chair. Maynard's daughter, Jane, resenting this miscarriage of justice, as she believes, throws her social influence into the series against Hendricks. He is turned and feathered by a mob, later dying from his injuries. Overcome by horror and remorse Jane embraces his doctrine "My neighbor is perfect" and goes to New York to preach it. John Ansell, son of Michael Ansell, the rich old man in the world, falls in love with Mary Ellis father at first tries to break off the love affair, but then coming to believe that Jane is the sort of wife his son needs, and that through her he can come to wield greater power than any other man in the world, he backs her propoganda for his own purposes. Everybody in the world but Ansell is converted and the millionaire dies in a few weeks—until the fact that Ansell had boasted of tricking Jane Maynard into advancing his material power causes a revulsion of feeling on the part of the public on which his son is killed. The grief-stricken Ansell is at last converted to Jane's doctrine and agrees to back her again, but she realizes that the world is not ready to accept Hendrick's motto and leaves the Foundation which she has established in New York. She receives the reporter that Ansell had refused to destroy her work, but who had fallen in love with her and been her staunch supporter. The story is intensely dramatic and with a deep significance which very few films possess.

Geologists Consider Quebec Gold Areas as Favorable Ground for Prospecting

Ottawa.—A description of the geology of an area in north-western Quebec including a part of Rouyn township and Dufresnoy, Duparquet and Destor townships is given in a preliminary statement issued by Dr. Robert Harvie, of the Geological Survey. The area is considered very favourable prospecting ground.

Three townships are underlain mainly by volcanic tuffs and basic and acid lavas of Keewatin age. Timiskaming conglomerate, which in other places have been found to favour the deposition of gold from mineral-bearing solutions occurs in the extreme north-western part of the area described. A mass of granite of later age is exposed in the vicinity of Duparquet Lake, and an intrusive body of pyanite prophyry identical in composition and appearance with that lying close to the east side of the Chadburne discovery four miles to the southwest was observed a short distance south of the southern boundary of Dufresnoy.

Geological conditions are similar therefore to those found at a number of promising prospects a short distance to the west; a few mineral discoveries have been made in the area attracting attention, and in the writer's opinion is worthy of careful examination by the prospector.

SAYS EXCLUSION WILL FOSTER COLOR UNION

Tokio, April 23—The Hochi editorial declares that the action of the United States Congress in excluding Japanese from immigration inevitably fosters a union of the colored races. This union, it says, may take some time to develop but it is absolutely necessary. It declares that for the consequences of this union the United States Senate must take the responsibility.

CRIPPLED HEROES OF CANADA SEEK TO KEEP AWAY PRUNING KNIFE

Proposed Cut in Pensions Being Fought by Maimed Veterans — Present Pension For Total Disability at Very Small Scale—Would Prevent Cutting Off of Bonus

The following letter from the office of the Amputations Association of the Great War, the "Tragmenta Fragnor", gives a comprehensive outline of how little the heroes to whom everything is owed, are receiving:

The Government at Ottawa is even now contemplating a further cut in disability pensions, and The Intelligencer has been asked by the Association to publish the following.

Permanent Pensions

Editor, The Intelligencer,
Belleville, Ont.
Dear Sir,—

We are approaching you in an endeavour to obtain your support and the support of your valuable publication in our campaign to make the bonus on the pensions permanent.

By the "Pension Act" of 1919, a totally disabled case was granted a pension permanently of $600.00 a year, with lesser amounts for those who are proportionately disabled, that is a 60% disability would get 60% of that amount, and War Widows were granted a permanent pension of $40.00 per month. This was found to be insufficient and bonuses were added to the pensions, increasing the amount to $720 to $800.00 per annum for total disability cases, and $720.00 per annum for the war widows. This bonus was extended from year to year and is due to lapse on September 1st, 1924, unless the Government takes action during the present session of the House of Commons.

Organization of Maimed

We are in organization of men and one woman, who have given a limb or limbs, or even more in the service of our race to Canada during the Great War, and as we are the only Dominion Organization of permanently war disabled men, we regard ourselves as the Trustees for the Rights of the 45,000 war pensioners and the 19,000 war widows, all of whom will be affected should the bonus on the pension lapse next September. Further, I might say that the pay and allowances of all of whom will be affected should the bonus on the pension lapse next September. Further, I might say that the pay and allowances of all our active patients in hospitals would also be affected, because their pay and allowances are based on the amount paid to the total disability pensioners.

Therefore the task is a considerable the fact that we are asking this, not only in the name of Necessity as Sole Amputations, but also on behalf of all war pensioners, and the war widows, and unless the Government takes action, the total disability pension is to be reduced by $300.00 and the pensions of the war widows by $240.00 per annum.

Costs Nothing More

What we are asking will not cost the country one dollar more and we feel that the time has come when the Government of Canada should enact, as a permanent policy of pensions, such as has already been done in Australia and New Zealand. There are some 4,500 amputation cases in Canada, of whom 113 receive a total disability pension, and the rest pensions ranging from total disability to 40%, which latter is the pension paid for the amputation of a toe.

Actively Supported

We have conducted a campaign among the organizations throughout the country and have received the active support of a number of Municipalities, such organizations as the Kiwanis, Rotarians, Lions' and Gyro Clubs, the Trades and Labour Council,

FOREST RANGERS' COOK BOOK

Recipes after U S Forest Service. Fire Pudding

Take a liberal slice of our timber-covered mountains, sprinkle liberally with auto campers (be sure and get as many careless ones as possible), garnish well with tailor-made cigarettes and bake and brown with unextinguished camp fires.

Hot Cakes

Take a hunter out of season, an angler without a license, and a camper without a fire permit. Put in one game warden and one forest ranger and stir until mixed. Place in the Justice Court. Remove the officers and season, the balance with judicial advice and bake. Let the guilty fat for 30 days.

Angel Food Cake

Take a dozen careful campers, 1 dozen law-abiding hunters, and 1 dozen licensed anglers, place in nice shady camp, where all cans and refuse have been buried, mix with one rather, stirred with interesting songs, stories, and jokes, and serve during summer evenings.

PHONE 'VENOM' BEING SCORED IN PETERBORO'

Unknown Person Uses Telephone to Spread "Poison."

FORM OF BLACKMAIL

Several Families Report Work of Telephone Agitator

Peterboro, April 28.—Telephone users are full of venom, have been hurled from some unknown person in Peterborough into family circles with the decision, apparently, of disrupting them and at individuals with the same purpose in view, in the way of causing mental distress and worry. Founded for the most part on positively unfounded reports and passages have sometimes just enough truth in them to make them seem more effective in their malign purpose, putting the person posed in a position where the allegations are difficult to refute.

A well known young lady was called last Sunday by the Chief of Police, and charged the innocent girl with "Venom" that had been put on slate from the home in the Capitol theatre down to the city station and helped up, the charge said. Without waiting for the time named, the young lady rushed to the police station to demand an explanation. Those people do not like to be run down a slight embankment. She suddenly found herself confronted with the surprised remark about the body. The young lady was escorted to her home in the village where she is doing as well as could be expected.

The charge could not be heard at the Capitol on Saturday night—the sum and truthful explanation of which the lying charge was founded. She had no money on her. When the phonebook was given extra joke—the war-in poor work and deserving of the name—that could be could—the evil-minded home wrecker called the young wife to tell lying tales of her husband's escapades with other women. She told her husband, assurances were given of his faithfulness, and the calumny forgotten. A few days later another call of a similar kind was received, the girl again and again, until the telephone was removed.

A girl of twenty or thereabouts, engaged to a young man in business in the city, and likewise subjected to her wooing, was another victim.

"S——" was at the show last night with a strange girl," the venomous voice said. Hours of mental distress followed until an opportunity to talk with the young man offered when he vehemently said of taking a visiting member of his family to the theatre. Two or three days later the same voice conveyed a different message—that the matter was a joke, and this kept up until the very day of the wedding.

FIRST ATTEMPT TO CLEAR BEER FOR CUBA FAILS

Light Gasoline Craft Hardly Enough for "Ocean" Voyage

RULING EFFECTIVE

Rum-Runner Towed Into Cobourg When Storm Hits Lake

Port Hope, April 28.—The first attempt this year to ship beer out of Cobourg to Cuba proved unsuccessful, and the carload of beer that arrived here on Tuesday of last week from Montreal had to be shipped back to that city on Thursday. The owners of the beer first attempted to get a clearance via United States ports for Cuba, but as the Customs department has made a ruling against shipping to any United States port, clearance had to be refused by the Customs officials. The new attempt was made to get a clearance direct for Cuba, but the customs order that beer must be shipped only by vessels of such a trip made it imperative that local customs officials must also refuse on the ground, the boat that was intending to take the beer being only a small gasoline boat that would not stand a heavy sea. As a consequence of being balked in their endeavour the beer was shipped back to Montreal, and the rum customer went back to the United States. The attempt will likely not be tried by trying to ship beer through Cobourg harbour this year.

The rum runner that was refused clearance from Cobourg harbour last week for Cuba had to be towed into Cobourg harbour on Tuesday afternoon while on a trip from Belleville to Cuba with a load of wet goods after a very exciting trip. The rum runner left Belleville some time on Monday, and when it got out into the lake run into the heavy storm that prevailed that day. The wind blew accompanied by rain and snow. About seven o'clock Tuesday morning the boat was in the lee of the point off Pontiac Stock Farm where it had to lay by owing to the ignition service giving out through the rain and storm that blew into the cabin. After getting fixed up it again left, but when a little later the ignition again failed, and the boat was drifting around when observed by Mr. Chas. Elliott and Mr. Ed. Walker, who went down to tow the boat into Cobourg. After quite a struggle the boat was finally towed here, the inch and a quarter tow line breaking once, the tow being a dead weight one.

Falls From Train; Painfully Injured

Painful injuries were sustained by Mrs. Ira Simmons of Foxboro on Friday last when she fell off a moving train at the station in connection with the village. Mrs. Simmons was returning home from Belleville on the evening Peterboro train, and when Foxboro Station was reached two passengers assisted the train started as she was alighting, and the poor lady fell to the ground, sustaining a slight concussion of the brain, a dislocated shoulder and being severely bruised about the body. The unfortunate lady was carried to her home in the village where she is doing as well as could be expected.

Narrow Escape From Drowning

Two young men on Sunday afternoon were in a canoe in the harbor when by some means the craft was overturned. The occupants plunged into the water. One swam to the dock while the other clung to the overturned canoe. Mr. Ed. Mowbray on seeing the latter's predicament a row boat and went to the rescue. Had it not been for the timely efforts of Mr. Mowbray a drowning accident might have occurred.

BOY, THOUGHT DROWNED, HAD BEEN RESCUED

Winnipeg.—Arthur Callitin, a aged two, son of Robert Callitin, of St. Boniface, climbed aboard a discarded ice floe in the Seine River near his home and was taken off his hazardous island a little later a mile and a half away in the Red River, into which the Seine empties. In the meantime the child had been missed and the river was being dragged for his body.

C. Schieder, fishing for driftwood in the Red River, saw the boy drifting down the stream and took him off the ice.

He was quite uninjured and not particularly alarmed.

MISS GWENDOLYN LAZIER, of Belleville, chosen as courier to carry on horseback the invitation of Belleville's mayor to the president of the U.S.A. to attend the celebration of the 140 anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada.

U.E.L. COURIER ON U.S. SOIL WELL ON TRIP

Miss Gwen Lazier Crosses to Cape Vincent, New York

BIG RECEPTION

Cadet Allan Dempsey Delivers Invitation to Mayor Hilts

Special to The Intelligencer

Cape Vincent, N. Y., April 28.—Miss Gwen Lazier, courier to Washington on horseback, and carrying invitations to attend the U. E. L. Celebration in Belleville in June to President Coolidge and mayors of various cities and towns along the route passed over by the original Loyalists, crossed from Kingston ferry, entering the United States for the first time.

The Courier, who has been enthusiastically greeted at Napanee and Kingston, was given a reception by the officials of the town of Cape Vincent, and government officials were present.

Miss Lazier expects to make Watertown to-night, where she is scheduled to attend a big reception to be held by the city in her honor. The various civic organizations of the city will be in attendance and, the invitation to the Mayor Hilts Miss Lazier will bear to Belleville, will be formally presented.

Mayor Hilts' reply will be the intelligence to-day that Miss Lazier has written enthusiastically regarding the manner in which she has been received along the route, and both girl and horse are in fine trim.

While no official report has been received from Cadet Allan Dempsey country on foot to Toronto, dispatches state that he arrived in Toronto late Saturday night, and is calling on Mayor Hiltz and public officials to-day. A big reception has been arranged at the City Hall.

It's usually when a man speaks without thinking that he says what he thinks.

I.O.O.F MEMBERS COMMEMORATE ORDER FOUNDING

Parade to Bridge Street Methodist Church In Full Regalia

105 YEARS OLD

Dr. F. E. Malott Preaches Able Sermon On Neighborliness

Past Grand officers and members of the I. O. O. F. met at the Oddfellows Temple on Sunday morning, April 27, for the purpose of attending divine service at Bridges St. Church to commemorate the 105th anniversary of the founding of the Order. Instituted in Baltimore in April 26, 1819, with 6 members the order now has over 2,000,000 members on the North American continent. On Dec. 31, 1922, the Grand Lodge of Ontario consisted of 494 lodges with a membership of 62,210. During the year 1923 the sum of $525,000 was paid on an average every day for Sick and Funeral Benefits, and was paid to 6,417 members.

Lodges Represented

Lodges represented at the service were Belleville, Marpah, Frankford, Brighton, Picton, Tamworth, Lindsay, Thomasburg, Madoc, Stirling, Napanee, Kingston, Deseronto, Alnwick, Bethany, Thomas, Chatham and Saskatoon.

The band was led by Bro. Thompson, assisted P. G. Bro. C. Cochrane. Led by the band the Oddfellows marched to the parade was formed by Picton Canton No. 11 under command of Capt. Mulholland and Belleville Canton No. 8 under Command of Capt. G. Yoeker followed by the Rebekah lodges in the various lodges. At the church the procession was met by the full number of Quinteria Rebekah Lodge No. 133 and Marpleah Rebekah Lodge No. 141 of Picton. The service was conducted by P. G. M. F. E. Malott, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. P. Wilson. The hymns were sung in a splendid manner by a large congregation led by the choir were "Come Thou Almighty King", "Lord of our Fathers", and "God Send us Men". During the service the choir sang Graniers' anthem "Hosanna" and a quartet by Bros. (Dr.) Stokes, Bird, Kinnon and Moore, Sprague and Schryer sang "Victory".

Taking as his subject "Who is my Neighbour", Bro. Malott preached an appropriate sermon. He read from Luke an Order, whose motto include "Love", "Friendliness", "Neighborliness".

Text Luke 10: 36-37. A sermon on Neighborliness.

The sermon was an exposition of the story of the good samaritan, the most beautiful story in all literature.

One who belonged in the narrowest sect of the Jews. A small inner group of Jews called themselves "Neighbours" had asked Jesus two questions—one of which was "Who is my Neighbour?" The Master replied by telling the story of the man who played the part of Neighbourliness to a wounded stricken traveller. This man belonged to an unpopular race, a despised race, a Samaritan spirit, in striking contrast to the two ecclesiastical men, priest and Levite who passed their wounded fellow countryman without pity or even sympathy.

The exquisite story contains five lessons for men of all lands and of every age.

1. It rebukes the legal spirit. The legal spirit is that which is afraid to exercise everything that can be evaded. The opposite of the law that is required of him who would be a true neighbor. The gospel answers the question "Who is my neighbor?" by saying "Duty soon tires, but love goes all the way."

2. It rebukes the exclusive spirit. The spirit referred to is not exclusiveness, sectarian exclusiveness and social exclusiveness are essential and right, but are contrary to the spirit of neighbourliness. The Samaritan belonged to a different race. A different church or a different society from those of wounded Jew whom he befriended, but he was not a heathen, and in the great Master intends us to do likewise.

3. This parable teaches us how to be neighborly and what neighborliness means. It means self-sacrificing love in sympathy and action. It means more than a man must take time; he must take strength, and might have to sacrifice much money has to assist.

4. The parable teaches us the supreme nature of religion. The religious life is not Christ like life of love and mercy and good deeds. Micah's description of true religion was recognized by the Master "and what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly and love mercy and walk humbly with thy God".

5. But the greatest lesson of the parable is this, "It points us to Him who became a neighbor to all. The good Samaritan is a type of Him who came after the Priest and the Levite to do what they had neglected or refused to do, teach them by example and precept to love their neighbor.

Largely Attended

After the service the parade returned to the lodge room being watched by a large number of people, and was the largest seen in the city for a number of years.

"SAVE THE FORESTS" PLEA OF BARNJUM; RAPIDLY DYING OUT

"CANADA BETRAYED"

American propaganda to the detriment of Canadian forests, is now being actively carried on in Canada. An association of pulpwood dealers was recently organized in Montreal for this purpose, although no linking of it was allowed to become public—for very obvious reasons. The prime movers in this organization are seeking and obtaining considerable newspaper publicity in opposition to the proposal to embargo the export of pulpwood. The organization plans to raise $40,000 annually by assessing all pulpwood exported at the rate of five cents per cord, assuming that such exportation—now taking out of this country 35,000,000 cords a year—will be allowed to proceed unchecked. It is in order to check this propaganda and to put newspaper editors on their guard that I am giving you these details. Canada's natural resources are surely lie in getting the most out of her natural resources and in not permitting their depredation for the benefit of a foreign nation.

Yours very truly,
FRANK J. D. BARNJUM

Figures Show Great Natural Resources of Canada Being Plucked to the Bone By U.S. Interests—Forests of Ontario and Quebec Will be Bare in Few Years Unless Conserved

(By Frank J. D. Barnjum)

Owing to the fact that the Government at Ottawa has so far declined to take any serious action for the protection and conservation of the remnants of our once mighty forest heritage, I feel that the time has arrived when it is incumbent upon me as a Canadian, with a complete knowledge of the facts, to tell the people of Canada at least a portion of the story, of this deplorable situation: let the axe fall where it may. There is bound to be a forest panic in this country in any event, it has occurred in the life of every nation, and the sooner it now occurs in Canada the larger the remnants will be left standing.

Alarming Shrinkage in Pulpwood Estimates

Canadians are slowly living in a fool's paradise.

Our wood resources are dwindling with frightful rapidity.

Concealment of these facts from the Canadian people is impossible.

In the Government estimates where the cut has been given at 5 cords per acre, these same areas are now actually cutting out from seven to ten cords to one cord and one cord and a quarter of pulpwood per acre.

The ravages of fire, of pulp, insect and wind losses, our large forested area, are everything but those affected by fungi, from which disease there is no recovery.

Of The Larger Areas

I am not talking now of hundred acre lots or even thousand acre plots but rather the larger areas that are being cut by our pulp companies and including the waste land within their boundaries. The most recent example in this connection is the area watershed in Ontario where the stand last previously been estimated at seven and a half billion feet while a re-cut estimate of these limits by the Ontario Government has disclosed the fact that there is only one and a half billion and a half feet, and I can quote example after example where the stand of the same territory exists between the estimated stand and the amount that these limits have actually cut out.

Subtle and Deadly Enemy

The average of the actual amount destroyed running into hundreds-thirds of the original climate. This shrinkage is entirely due to disease caused by the increasing loss in recent years, loss through fire, fungi, insects and wind. Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia, Quebec and New Brunswick. 75 per cent of the merchantable timber trees are today diseased by fungi—a mere subject for a moment's study. It is more than the spruce budworm or any insect enemy of the forest, and is quite comparable to tuberculosis in the human race, as its ravages are largely hidden from view as the fungi of the tree may appear sound and the follage still green, but the heart of the trees may be practically all gone. One species of fungus starts at the extreme top of the tree and over quite large areas up to 75 per cent. is found just as capable as if 75 per cent of a population were affected by tuberculosis where 50 per cent. of the population are where all were huddled together, coughing and disseminating the germs one another, which is exactly what is occurring in the forests where the fungus spores of the forest all over the living trees and the dead timber alike.

The slightest defect in a tree, such as a broken limb or the entrance of spores of any nature, exposing the living wood allows fruition of these spores to take place; and when in the case of mature or early matured forests are destroyed, as has been the case around Provinces through attacks of the spruce budworm, and the ravages of forest, fire or wind—all of which could be combined must complete the work of destruction within a period of ten years with the added results that fire alone may complete this destruction in less than half of that time; for it must be borne in mind that merchantable standing all of our vaunted fire protection organizations, fire losses are increasing at an alarming proportion, and are probably the worst in the history of Eastern Canada.

SMITH STRONG BEHIND IN BANK VAULT

Six-Monthly Deposits of $1,800 Shown; Police Inspect Books

$120,000 FOUND

Case Is Now Before the Courts, States Col-Price

Toronto, April 28—Provincial police officers have searched the safety deposit box of Peter Smith in a safety vault in a Toronto bank, it was told the search revealed securities and cash to an amount exceeding the sum of $120,000. Inspection of the bank books for the last three years showed a regular six monthly deposit of $1,800, which is believed to be the dividend of some stock. The police officers were able to break into the box under a search warrant. A criminal charge having been preferred against the former Provincial treasurer, the case is now before the courts, states Col-Price.

The crown is now before the court-stated Col. Price, "therefore I cannot make any comment on what might transpire in the case or evidence against the former Treasurer."

Season's First Warm Day Is Appreciated

March 31st is supposed to be the first day of Spring, but the first day of Spring 1924, was Sunday, April 27th. Miss Springtime is therefore one month and one week late.

Welcomed with both arms, the first real warm day of the season was seized up by the townsman Sunday, when a smiling sun held forth through the clear blue sky, when warm breezes and bustles almost burst forth in bud. There has been plenty of rain, wind, and cold, but Sunday was the shine.

Throughout the day citizens took every advantage of the fine weather, and the cold haunts of summertime were visited.

The streets and parks were thronged with people, who were taking advantage of their first real opportunity of displaying their Spring finery.

Many made the trip to the woods and returned with their share of wild flowers. Motorists were out yesterday in large numbers and it was a glorious day for a round on the golf links.

Incidentally it was a very happy week-end. No accidents, no fires, no calamities, and one of the few "close shaves" was when Mr. Jack Bird's court slate is as clean as a whistle.

Weather conditions have been a distinct bearing on my mentals after all.

Concealment of these facts from the Canadian people is impossible.

In the Government estimates where the cut has been given at 5 cords per acre, these same areas are now actually cutting out from seven to ten cords to one cord and one cord and a quarter of pulpwood per acre.

The ravages of fire, of pulp, insect and wind losses, our large forested area, are everything but those affected by fungi, from which disease there is no recovery.

Of The Larger Areas

I am not talking now of hundred acre lots or even thousand acre plots but rather the larger areas that are being cut by our pulp companies and including the waste land within their boundaries. The most recent example in this connection is the area watershed in Ontario where the stand last previously been estimated at seven and a half billion feet while a re-cut estimate of these limits by the Ontario Government has disclosed the fact that there is only one and a half billion and a half feet, and I can quote example after example where the stand of the same territory exists between the estimated stand and the amount that these limits have actually cut out.

Subtle and Deadly Enemy

The average of the actual amount destroyed running into hundreds-thirds of the original climate. This shrinkage is entirely due to disease caused by the increasing loss in recent years, loss through fire, fungi, insects and wind. Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia, Quebec and New Brunswick. 75 per cent of the merchantable timber trees are today diseased by fungi—a mere subject for a moment's study. It is more than the spruce budworm or any insect enemy of the forest, and is quite comparable to tuberculosis in the human race, as its ravages are largely hidden from view as the fungi of the tree may appear sound and the follage still green, but the heart of the trees may be practically all gone. One species of fungus starts at the extreme top of the tree and over quite large areas up to 75 per cent. is found just as capable as if 75 per cent of a population were affected by tuberculosis where 50 per cent. of the population are where all were huddled together, coughing and disseminating the germs one another, which is exactly what is occurring in the forests where the fungus spores of the forest all over the living trees and the dead timber alike.

The slightest defect in a tree, such as a broken limb or the entrance of spores of any nature, exposing the living wood allows fruition of these spores to take place; and when in the case of mature or early matured forests are destroyed, as has been the case around Provinces through attacks of the spruce budworm, and the ravages of forest, fire or wind—all of which could be combined must complete the work of destruction within a period of ten years with the added results that fire alone may complete this destruction in less than half of that time; for it must be borne in mind that merchantable standing all of our vaunted fire protection organizations, fire losses are increasing at an alarming proportion, and are probably the worst in the history of Eastern Canada.

Let there be harmony, in things economical—liberty in things not economical—charity in all.

SAVE THE FORESTS

The Provincial authorities in the Province of Quebec give the 1923 losses by fire in that province at three million acres, while estimates of outsiders run even considerably higher than this, while in Ontario the Government figures for the same season are two million one hundred thousand acres—making a loss of over five million one hundred thousand acres—a loss of over five million acres in just two Provinces in one season by fire alone, or an area 400 miles long by 20 miles wide. New Brunswick also suffered the largest loss in this respect since Confederation.

The average layman may well ask what has brought about this appalling situation. The answer is very simple, namely, mad exploitation of our forests for the immediate dollar, without any regard to the future. We have been cutting the sound, perfect trees, leaving the poorer grades on that with each subsequent cutting our forests have deteriorated to such quality to such an extent that what we now have left, that has not already been destroyed, are composed largely of culls at least 75 per cent. of which are diseased. In addition to this we have allowed the vast accumulation of old tops and slash to remain on the forest floor a veritable breeding place for fungi and insect diseases and just as great a menace to forest life as it would be to the people if they threw their garbage into the streets, thereby forming a breeding place for pestilence. This has been going on in spite of the warning and advice of our foresters, entomologists and pathologists, who in the past have been looked upon largely as cranks and pessimists, while no more loyal, conscientious, under-paid body of men exists in our technical forces in Canada to-day. I have pleaded with the Government in vain to give these men the recognition and compensation they deserve. When I urged with the Government it was always the same cry namely, economy; but there is no such answer made when the Government spends hundreds of thousands of dollars in the building of wharves for American Paper Companies, so that they may be enabled to ship their raw wood out of the country cheaply by water, thereby even depriving the Canadian National Railway of large sources of income; no cry of economy when the Governments wants to win a single constituency and is willing to spend a million two hundred thousand dollars to build an elevator in a City where there is one already constructed that remains unused; no cry of economy when the Government proposes to spend millions of dollars in Scribe School purchases, and so on ad nauseum.

The nearer we approach to the end of our forest supply the greater the demand will be for the services of these technically trained men, and if the Government does not take cognizance of this perfectly patent fact and give these men the recognition and the remuneration that they deserve, their services will be lost by their emigration to the country across the line where the value and urgent necessity for these highly trained protectors of the forests are being appreciated more and more every day. My advice to these men is to unite in a body and strike for higher remuneration. It is a duty they owe to themselves, their families and even their country for no man can give the best there is in him with the continual nightmare hanging over his head that his family may be left in privation and want. There are times when gentleness and self-effacement cease to be a virtue.

THE ROAD PROGRAM

Answering a question in the Ontario Legislature, Premier Ferguson said that the estimated cost of surfacing the 700 miles of provincial highways requiring such treatment will be about $28,000,000, and that five years will be needed for the work. The cost would be from $35,000 to $45,000 a mile.

This is rather a staggering bill to face, when the most evident need of the day is governmental economy, not only for the Provincial Government, but for those of the provinces and municipalities. Yet it would probably be unwise to discontinue our program of road improvement. Good roads are attractive to the auto tourist, and his tribe is numerous and constantly increasing.

Not only will good roads bring tourists and tourist money, but they add to the rural population. They will help the farmer with his marketing problem, make his life more pleasant and his boys will not be so apt to leave the farm.

The money we are spending for roads is the nature of an investment, which will pay dividends. The only thing we can ask in highway economy is to get the most for our money, keep the department out of politics and down overhead. We can hardly turn back from our program of road improvement in this the age of the auto.

A working day of eight hours is none too short for nurses in training. At the same time it is nonsensical to declare that the longer work-day is responsible for the deaths of nurses. A young woman who died from exhaustion because she was on duty ten hours could not have stood a working day of eight hours or less. She ought not to have gone training.

PRESS OPINIONS

PETTICOAT GOVERNMENT

(Hamilton, Herald).

Columbus City, Iowa has a complete petticoat government. Eva Brets 18 years a school teacher, has been chosen mayor, while five married women compose the council. Two other schoolmarms occupy the posts of treasurer and assessor. The mayor says she is going to put an end to bootlegging, gambling and the misuse of the gas and gasoline. She has also declared against bobbed hair and cigarettes for women and warns lawbreakers to give her town a wide berth. Possibly the women will not find it as easy as they think, to do away with the evils they mention. Certainly the evil of bobbed hair is much less about bobbed hair.

British Income Affords Pride

London.—Once again the national exchequer furnishes a surprise which affords amongst other things welcome proof of the soundness of Britain's financial position. The revenue returns for the financial year just brought to a close reveal a surplus of £48,329,000, it must not be imagined that the Chancellor of the Exchequer has this sum at his disposal for the reduction of debt. The realized surplus goes automatically to the reduction of debt and has already been so employed. Of this debt has been further reduced by a sum of £40,000,000, a fixed sinking fund included in the expenditure, and that during the past year a sum of £83,329,000 was applied to the redemption of debt. This is the fourth year in succession in which there has been a large surplus, the total for 1920-21 was £45,493,000 on 1921-22, and £320,000,000 in 1922-23, making a grand total of £476,985,000, or an average of over £100,000,000 per annum. Receipts and expenditure for the past year were as follows:

Revenue £1,165,284
Expenditure 783,840,211

Surplus £48,329,072

The late Government budgeted for expenditure of £816,616,000 and a small surplus of £1,854,000. Supplementary estimates raised the total to £839,259,000, which threatened a deficit of over £11,000,000. Instead we have a large surplus due to under spending by about £24,000,000. The income shows an excess of £18,669,000 over the estimate. Practically every other branch of the revenue exceeded the estimates with the exception of "special" miscellaneous income and excess profits, which produced a complete blank. Income tax, however, produced £229,971,000—just about £11,000,000 ahead of the estimate. Estate duties furnished £57,390,000 or £5,800,000 more than the estimate. Customs and Excise came in well, motor vehicle duties produced £1,441,000 more than was anticipated, and a small falling off in postal revenue was made up by slightly heavier telegraph and telephone receipts. The question as to what relief, if any, the taxpayer can expect in the coming Budget depends, as has been explained, not upon receipts, but upon the Treasury estimate of receipts for the year that lies ahead. The Chancellor has put that figure at £85,960 according to the estimates already sanctioned. The past year's last remissions were expected to spell additional losses of over £12,000,000 to £13,000,000. His estimate of receipts must therefore, of necessity be more modest than those of the past year or two years. The difference between the estimated revenue and the estimated expenditure is the amount available for the reduction of taxation.

THE ETERNAL MYSTERY

He found her behind the counter in Sherry's.

And he fell madly, violently in love with her. Indeed he felt that he never decided to marry her.

But, of course, he must first send her away to a school in that she might be a mental companion to him. So he sent her away to Bryn Mawr.

And when she returned, blooming like a rose, they were married.

And now she was living in style at the home of Ezra Pound; of Elinor Glasgow; of the Freudian Discovery of the Italian expert of the cuisine, Gring; of Bokhara rugs of Flemish tapestries; of rare old wines.

Then a woman, though to pull a dirty trick like that.

OH, TO BE A MIRROR

Did you ever pause to consider what a pitiful existence a mirror has? What an eyeful it gets.

Its existence whether we mixed the annual fashions parade the mirrors in their way at Easter.

It's a lucky thing a mirror's not a camera, its unlucky depends on the view point.

VERY SIMPLE

"With all due deference, my boy, I think our English custom at the breakfast table is better than the Hebrew's as you Americans do."

"What do you say, Englund."

"We say: 'Are you there?' Then of course, if you are not there there is no use in going on with the conversation."

Our hired girl has left us, an' it's been put up to me to help out with the housework so far as I can see since I'm a lovin' husband, I'll respect my hair cut wishes an' every day I sweep an' scrub the floor, an' help her with the dishes. I might as well confess that washin' is gettin' house-cleanin' time she's given me that wholesome job of classin' dust an' grime. An'dies on top of all of this, a big spring cleanin' looms up just like the cellar Monday washin' out the clothes. The whole all of my knuckles, that's a real fact to record I've learned to my sorrow since I've been on dishboard. Let's see, at first you spread 'em out, an' rub 'em good with soap an' then you rub th' dirt off o' th' board, isn't that th' dope? I pose there's tricks to every trade but mine, that's what they say an' here's a new one for you that I've learned this day. To really do a washin' right accordin' to my notion that rubbin' action should remove the poetry of motion. An' while one is engaged in washin' one's handkerchief does not have an' accompaniment from some broadcasting station. Now a piece of music for this work must be exactly right, for then you've got a complete shoddi be clamped on pretty tight. The rhythm of the music must be just so, or waltz time pretty slow but when they played a fox trot then the suds began to fly. Kept time to the music till the clothes were free from dirt tell you that. Like as a result I'm doing a wicked shirt.—Copyright, 1924, Westing house Electric & Manufacturing Co.

His wife, Mary Ann Whelan, predeceased him eight years ago.

He leaves to mourn his loss, three daughters, Mrs. Annie Ahern, of Smith's Falls, Mrs. Archie McDonald, of Thurlow, and Miss Ruby at home; one son Albert, at home, and two brothers, James, of Frankford, and Francis, of Wimmera, Man.

At the funeral of the late Lieut.-Col. G. C. Morrimont of the Patriarchs Militant I.O.O.F. at Toronto on Saturday, Centre Belleville No. 3 was represented by Lieut.-Col. H. W. Lindstrom and Lieut. G. Cornish. The funeral was under the direction of the Department Council of Ontario.

MOTOR CAR STRIKES CHINESE CYCLIST

Turning north on Front Street from West Bridge street just before 9 o'clock today, a Front street Chinese laundryman who is alleged to have kept too close to the north west curb while riding his bicycle, was struck by a motor car, owned and driven by Dr. J. A. Faulkner, who was driving west on Bridge street.

The Chinese was not injured but badly frightened and suffered from shock. His bicycle was badly smashed however, the rear wheel and frame being damaged. The bicycle was taken to the police station.

Sergt. of Police, D. Boyd, though off duty, witnessed the accident, and with Dr. Faulkner's car stopped his car almost in its tracks, and others on their way to business, pulled the young Chinese from underneath the car. It is believed that one wheel passed over the youth. Dr. Faulkner drove him home.

Help Kidneys By Drinking More Water

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS AND HELP NEUTRALIZE IRRITATING ACIDS

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter the acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or backache or irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The latter is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and in very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination.

While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia water drink which will quickly relieve your bladder irritation. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

The salutation of Jesus to His disciples is a greeting from behind the gates of death after the silence of the centuries. It is an answer to man's eager question, 'If a man die, shall he live again." So-called scientists tell us of mysterious rappings and messages from aborted ghosts of friends that have passed the portals of the grave, but there we have the greetings of a free spirit of the Eternal Holy Spirit.

Under Fire 4 Times In 2 Days,- Canadians Find China Lively

Honor Among Thieves Gets Travellers Into Trouble and Out Again—Captured Three Times by Bandits and then a Target for Two Armies

Toronto, April 26—Associated Press despatches have recently stated that banditry is worse in Szechwan province than anywhere else in China. Szechwan is the field of the Canadian Methodist missionaries and it is considered remarkable that none of them have fallen victim to banditry. The reasons for their survival are indicated in a letter just received here by the Methodist Missionary Society from Rev. G. W. Sparling, B.A., of Chungking. His story is full of thrills and perils, but he insists that the bandits mean no harm to the foreigners.

By George W. Sparling

Travelling in 1924 in parts of this province, Szechwan, has been almost impossible owing to the movement of troops and to operations of to robbery. It became a question whether this year's session of the West China Mission Council of the Canadian Methodist Church could be held at all. At last Luchow was selected as being centrel and accessible by river—how accessible six of us Canadians were to see.

The British Consul advised us Chungking folk not to go at all. The Chinese Military Governor said the river was less dangerous than the overland route. A steame for Luchow arrived and the Governor told us not to fear fire from the shore. Are rifle bullets need only drive us to hide among the bales of cotton in the hold.

So three men and three W.M.S. wo'ks went on board. The journey actually takes two days but our enemies drove work. At the end of the third day we heard that robbers were strongly entrenched ten miles farther up the Yangtse. After a parley of 24 hours we paid $250 and were granted safe conduct to the local band for fifty miles up. One of their chiefs sat in my cabin for a chat and told me that he had been healed of a wound at our Luchow hospital and asked us to let him know any time we wanted through. These men have no desire whatever to molest missionaries, but in this case they wanted money from the steamship company.

Attacked Again

The next day when tractors were hauling our steamer up a rapid, we passengers, about 75 in number, went ashore. Bandits came and fired on the steamer which was making its escape

The newcomers fired a few shots right at our ears, wiwich was not very reassuring. Soon we had another band rushing on us from another direction. Our captors thrust the muzzles of their guns dangerously near our faces. Then they ordered us up the hill and fired a few more shots to hurry us up. The other band now rushed up and ordered us out of the way. We were already going.

While we ran for shelter behind the nearest bank the second lot opened fire on the first band. We watched a battle for a few minutes. Two robbers were killed and one of our Chinese passengers wounded. The second band turned out to be from the company to whom we had paid money the day before. They completely routed our attackers and some one remarked, There is honour even among thieves."

And A Third Time

We then hired a small boat, and boarded our steamer again at Hi Ching and essayed to start for Luchow also in the mid-afternoon our steam broke down and we had to anchor. Another band of robbers came along, our Chinese passengers took to the hills in panic and we sent a Chinese to parley while the engineer rushed repairs. Just as we were ready to get away without paying ransom, some bandits with rifles took seats on the shore and opened fire. So we paid $400, after than remain longer under the heavy fire which had opened from both banks.

Arriving back at Hi Chiang in the afternoon we found that an army had since passed the river and that its former defenders were bombarding the city. So we were under fire from troops on both banks until night fell. The captain and first mate conferred with us and it was agreed to slip away in the dark. The moon rose before morning and we reached Chunking just six days after leaving.

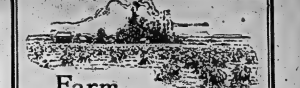

How we turned about and proceeded overland four days to Luchow without mishap and returned without misfortune is another story. We have learned that a certain amount of risk has to be taken in this province if work is to be done at all.

TORONTO PASTOR ROTARY SPEAKER

Showing the changes brought about by such of the newer laws as Mothers' Allowance Act, Unmarried Parents' Act, and the Children of Prisoners' Act, Rev. Peter Bryce of Toronto, held with cause, the undivided attention of Belleville Rotarians at their weekly luncheon today.

The speaker, in dealing with the Mothers' Allowance Act, gave a number of specific instances of how families have been benefitted by the change, and gave statistics to show the total number who had been relieved. The Unmarried Parents' Act, passed three years ago was described as a very beneficial Act assisting the 2,000 children who are annually born out of wedlock in Ontario.

Last year 440 prisoner fathers were given extremural employment under the Children of Prisoners' Act, and 420 of that number made good, earning $40,000 which was used to support their families. It was an intensely interesting talk on "Progressive Childhood Welfare".

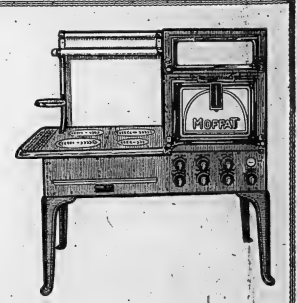

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Harry Ackerman, and the thanks vote was given by Rotarian William Deacon. Rotarian Oswald Scott urged that Rotex make reservations at Toronto for the International convention which is being held there June 16 and 17, and Rotarian Harold Saunders announced the Rotary minstrel show at Griffin's on May 5 and 6.

Guests today were Dr. Fred E. Malott, D.D., Fred Rassy of Toronto, Jack Thomson, Bellevill, and "Chris" McKinnot of Kenora.

ELECTRIC COOKING

Some Day you are going to have an electric range, so you are therefore invited to come and see an up-to-date electric range at work under the hands of an expert cook.

The Moffat Electric Range as used for this demonstration will be one of those we have for sale on the floor. No more coal, no more ashes, no more coal gas or dust, no hot, stuffy kitchen—a clean, efficient servant in the house, ready to work at any moment, and stop using power the instant your cooking is done. In fact, you can turn the switch off the even before the roast is done, because the Moffat oven is built on the thermos principle and holds the heat. Cooking goes on after the power is off.

All these things will be explained to you when you come. You will see how the elements of the Moffat oven are made in sections, so that if a break occurs, only the section affected has to be replaced. You will see the one-piece, electrically porcelain enameled ovens. You will see how safe the Moffat is with its careful insulation—the three-heat switches—"high", "medium" and "low"—its oven thermometer, closed warming closet, its commodious shelf, and its drip tray beneath the burners.

LEAFS BREAK EVEN WITH ORIOLES

Drop Baltimore Opener 5-2, Win Second 5-4 Before 14,769 Fans—Leave for Home

Baltimore, Md., April 28.—Dan Howley and his very badly crippled Leafs made their initial appearance of the season here yesterday afternoon, and before a crowd of 14,769 fans, split even with the five time champions Orioles. The boys from across the border dropped the opener by a count of 5 to 2, while they came out at the long end of a 5 to 4 score in the second session, which was abbreviated to seven innings. Both games were well contested throughout, and neither team had what was a cinch advantage at any time during either set-to.

Groves Injures Arm

The opening win might prove rather costly to the Orioles inasmuch as Lefty Groves was struck on hi pitching arm by a pitched ball by Thomas in the sixth round. A superficial examination does not indicate a break through the bone, photographs will be made in order to ascertain definite. Whether the Oriole star really suffered a fracture in his pitching arm or his ball, is not breaking curves, which struck him well down towards the wrist.

Leafs Make Triple Play

Feature of the day was a triple play executed by the Leafs in the sixth round of the opener. Three were aboard none down with Jacobson to bat. Jake lifted sharply to O'Rourke who ran over to touch second, shutting off Pitt, and threw to Dineen to tele tip Lawry. It was a sensational play, and despite the gloom over Groves injury in the same session, the hi-crowd gave the Leafs a real ovation as they went to their dugout.

Young, the hot pitch had ball in chopenry, but the Birds managed to make peeking away, and the Howley-Heroold trio to any consistent clubbi amongst Groves or Odgen, who owned him.

Malsel Hit Homer

Walker and Wesoloski were the opening fingers in the second. The Oole rookie went along well for three innge, but in the fourth a trio of maers was put over, George Maisel's hore with one on featuring. A pair was added in the fifth.

he birds, however, were not to be deed, and they touched up the Leaf sohpaw's shoots for a quartet o run in their half of the fifth. Pastne however, was in no danger dur lnishe closing seaing.

he crowd overflowed the stands and grand rules were necessary. The dole-header was made possible by throwing up of Tuesday's game. As a suit the Leafs left tonight for ho, which will give them a day of rele before the opening up over on the Island on Wednesday.

TERRIERS WIN FROM BRADLEY'S TIGERS

Galt, Ont., April 28.—The Terriers, senior O.B.A.A. champions for the past two years, opened up 1924 season Saturday with a 4-3 victory over Fred Bradley's Tigers of the Hamilton City League. The game was not as close as the score would indicate, for the first full workout for both teams. Coaches Bradley and McWilliams did considerable experimenting, trying all their men in uniform a chance.

Despite a cold air, a crowd of 1,500 fans turned out, while the game was slow and listless, the crowd was well pleased with the way the locals showed up the two new men from Woodstock—Smith at third, and Doherty, pitcher, both making a decided hit. Graham pitched four innings for the Terriers and showed good form for the early season. Doherty, in the three innings he did mound duty, did not allow a hit, and struck out eight men. Ed Broadbent, at shortstop, was the pick of the visitors, while Pearson on first turned in a tidy exhibition. "Scotty" Stewart was the pick of the three twirlers used by Bradley.

OSHAWA NINE TIE GOOD OSLER TEAM

"Duke" Dainty Pitches Ten Innings of Sterling Ball in Eleven Inning Game that Ended 5-5

Toronto, April 28.—Oslers, of the Hampden Park League, and Oshawa, of the C.O.B.L., battled for 11 innings to a 5 to 5 score at the eastern city Saturday. Joe Spring was the only one of Oslers' quartette of pitchers to make the trip, and after working five frames, he had to retire owing to developing a blister on the end of his second finger. Mingsaud, who had replaced on and off Commanville last year, relieved Spring and after a bad start in his initial frame, he settled down and pitched sparkling ball, allowing effectiveness in the pinches.

Spring was in fine form and the warm day let him cut loose with every thing he had. His dazzling speed and sharp breaking curves were a puzzle to the home team, with the result that he fanned seven and allowed two hits, one of which was a slow infield roller. Mingsaud surprised Hamilton with his performance, and after his disastrous sixth session, when they nicked him for three hits, which were coupled with two walks and an error, getting across five runs, he settled down and for the remaining five frames he allowed one hit, a double by Dainty in the seventh, and struck out nine, including the side in the eighth and two in the tenth and eleventh

Dainty, Oshawa's left-handed pitching ace, went ten innings before he retired. Oslers gathered twelve hits off the fork-hander's delivery, getting them all in the first seven sessions. The hits were fairly well bunched, but the visitors were kept from swelling the run column by the fast fielding behind Dainty. Morrison pitched the eleventh for the home team, Hugh Wilson batting with a double, and then he retired the side by fanning Carl and Breen and making Reid pop up to Wilson. Dainty struck out twelve, getting Jones (2), Hughes, Carl, Breen (3), Mingsaud (2), and Spring.

Every one of the Oslers registered in the hit column except Mingsaud, who went hitless in five trips. Exan led the parade with three, while Spring and Buchanan had two each. Dainty and Murray were responsible for four of the homesters' hits the latter's three pair each infield rollers and the former's doubles.

SHARPS AND FLATS

The poet was telling the business man of the spring bird's song and nature's plan;
"When you hear the trill from the bluebird's throat,
Then you may look for the robin's note.
When the earliest violets are peeping through,
He's always there when big note is due."
Said the business man with a chuckle of glee:
"The last named bird is the bird for me.
He is the bird I long to meet,
Whether his song is harsh or sweet,
I'll cheer him from the seats of thru,
The bird that is there when his note is due."

GREAT ACTIVITY AT COUNTRY CLUB

Mr. Sam French is New Professional Golfer—Course In Fine Shape and Good Scores Made.—Pleasant Season Anticipated

The Golf Course at the Country Club is in excellent playable condition. A great many of the members took advantage of the fine weather during the week end and had a great many excellent games. Excellent scores, for so early in the season, were made by Dr. G. Stokie, Dr. V. Blakelee, Fred B. Smith, Charles L. Campbell and Stewart Robertson.

It is a great treat to watch Mr. Sam French, the new Golf Professional at the Country Club, play the different holes. It is well worth the time watching this wizard play the popular game. He has very few equals in this Province. His driving and approaching is the finest that has ever been seen locally. He is kept very busy already giving lessons to a great many of the members and he has also wonders in rearranging and constructing his tees and will construct traps similar to those on the links at Aberdeen, Scotland. The Course is now in excellent condition having been rolled many times, and every hole is playable. The Country Club have reason to feel proud of their Course and the members need not feel ashamed to have visitor golfers from any other links in Canada to play on their Course.

Prepare For Season

The Directors have engaged Mr. and Mrs. C. Bromley of Toronto as host and housekeeper of the Country Club for the Season. They will report on Wednesday of this week, and the members can obtain meals, afternoon teas and suppers at any time by making arrangements with them. Mr. Charles A. Cameron is Chairman of the House Committee and promises to have everything running in good condition at once. Flower beds have been constructed about the Club House and the fencing where it is now under construction. A practice driving net is being erected this week and the circle golf has already been placed.

It appears by a notice in another column of this paper there is to be a general meeting of the members, ladies and gentlemen, of the Country Club and all those who desire to become members, on Wednesday evening of this week at the Chamber of Commerce at 8 p.m. for the purpose of competitions for the whole season prizes, the Club Constitution and By-laws submitted for approval, and the ladies to elect their own organization and elect their officers including Ladies Representatives on House Committee etc. Everyone interested in the Country Club will be welcome.

There is to be an open afternoon tea on Friday afternoon of this week, May 2nd, at the Country Club and all ladies and their friends, as well as the gentlemen members, will be welcome to the tea.

ON THE ALLEYS

After losing 13 straight games, the Bisley Bleers came back with a vengeance at the C.I.A. team and won out by 89 pins, the Bisley Shoes rolling 2615 with George Sloan leading the way with a single score of 225 and 590 for his three strings. In another close games in the junior league the Marsh Engineering Works team won from the National-Castings by 5 pins. The National Castings made a valiant effort to win out in the last game but only managed to cut the lead down to the 5 pins. J. Ethier was high man for string man. In the senior league the Recreation five gained a good lead in run when they caught them with four men but as they only rolled a fair score the K. of C. won out. Dr. O'Callaghan rolled the highest three strings with 676. Players and scores:

ASKS TWO MILLIONS FOR YORK RADIALS

Toronto April 28.—To transform the York Radial system into a paying proposition and to provide for complete rehabilitation of the system in such a way that it may profitably handle an increased volume of both freight and passenger traffic, Sir Adam Beck asks the City of Toronto to authorize a bond issue of $2,000,000.

This amount is to be spent accordingly: In carrying made plans of the Hydro engineers, will, he maintains, entirely do away with the deficits of past operation and place the Toronto and York adjuncts in the class of dividend paying ventures.

Active management of these radials by the Hydro Commission for the City of Toronto was assumed in November, 1920. As a result of experience gained during that period of operation, Hydro officials have become convinced that a rehabilitation of the system is necessary if it is to show profits.

Amount recommended for the proposed bond issue are to be divided among the three portions of the system as follows: Weston Division, $750,000; Scarboro Division, $150,000; Metropolitan Division, $1,100,000. Total interest charges on the proposed amount to $2,016,272. There remains however, from the previous appropriation of $600,000 some $92,241, leaving the total amount of investment for the new program $1,094,030.

Gum Chewing Aids the Teeth

You have the authority of doctors and dentists for this statement. Your own experience will prove it, if you will use WRIGLEY'S after every meal.

The following quotations from a recent work on teeth and health are worth remembering:

"Dentists have found that the exercise of gum chewing brings about a better nutrition of the teeth . . . .

"The cleaning action of the gum between the teeth helps to keep them free from the particles which lodge in the crevices and cause decay."

The busy man—or woman either—rarely has time to clean the teeth after eating. Yet they should be cleaned, and

Here and There

Commencing April 15th, the Canadian Pacific Railway, having in mind the expressed wishes of the majority of its patrons, has decided to revert to the custom of permitting smoking during certain parts of its transcontinental trains.

The production of steel ingots and castings in Canada during the month of February amounted to 70,953 tons, an increase of 72 per cent. over the 41,309 tons produced in January. The increase was almost entirely accounted for by the rise in the quantity of open-hearth basic steel ingots made for the use of producers.

Canadian farm products exported to the United States during February totalled $2,440,208, an increase of $981,210 over February last year, according to a report published by the Bureau of Statistics. The exports to the United States were valued at $101,714 in January, as against $25,197 in February of the previous year.

Under the agreement with the Imperial Government under the Empire Settlement Act, Canada, spent $98,281 on her part during last year, according to a report published by the Bureau of Statistics. The total for the past four years the Dominion Government has spent over $400,000 in promoting immigration from Great Britain to Canada.

By arrangements made by Hon. George Headley, Minister of Agriculture, a trial shipment of cows and steers will be made in the near future to Japan for the purpose of testing out the possibilities of a market for Alberta's surplus in that country. It is also the purpose of the department to send with the shipment a qualified investigator who will look into the possibilities of a market for all Albertan farm products.

For the first time in the past two or three years the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries Limited is shipping butter carload lots direct to the cities of the United States. A carload shipment was recently made from Saskatoon to Philadelphia. Other shipments were also shipped to Chicago, where they realized good prices. Each car contained between 23,000 and 30,000 pounds of Saskatchewan butter.

Speaking at Quebec recently, E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, characterized the magnitude of the operations of the Company. It has 15,000 miles of railway in Canada and controls 5,102 miles in the United States. It owns and operates telegraph and express systems, 13 hotels, 16 bungalow camps and rest houses, and the steamships on the Atlantic and Pacific, Canadian lakes and the British Columbia coast, 31 ships aggregating approximately 450,000 gross tons. Its personnel was 120,000 employees in better conditions than 65,000 to 100,000 employees in all branches of the service.

What must constitute a record in the rapid handling of an important consignment from the Orient was established recently by the Canadian Pacific Railway when shipping a quantity of silk from Yokohama to New York. The consignment, which was the largest forwarded from Asia since the recent slump in the silk market, left Yokohama on March 22nd on the Canadian Pacific steamer "Empress of Asia." Specially viewed for prompt discharge on arrival at Vancouver, the shipment was so rapidly transferred to the waiting train that only 13½ minutes per car elapsed between the docking of the ship and the departure of the last freight and delivery was made at New York at midnight April 4th, the through time from Yokohama to New York being but 13 days, 8 hours and 13 minutes, schedule time.

THE RADIO AND GOOD ENGLISH

Winnipeg Tribune

It has been said that the best English is now seldom heard any where except on the stage, where it is still regarded as one of the foremost assets of the dramatic arts. But the audiences whom the actor addresses are nothing compared to those to whom the radio speaks. How much more essential, therefore, it might reasonably be urged, is pure English on the part of a public speaker, or even an announcer to whom a whole nation, perhaps a number of nations, may be listening.

LOVE, THE TYRANT
OR WHERE HER HEART LED
BY
CHARLES GARVICE

"What's the matter now? asked Jack, rather testily. "You seem very nervous to-night."

"Look—look at your hands!" she faltered, breathlessly.

Jack laughed and took out his handkerchief; but the sight of it told my harassed her terror.

"That is all over blood, too!" she said, huskily. "Oh, what has happened? You are hurt! How—how did you do it?"

Jack wiped his hands leisurely.

"I'm not hurt in the least," he said. "The blood came from a hare I found in a snare set by one of those scoundrels."

She looked at him doubtfully.

"Are—are you sure you are not hurt?"

"My dear Miss Trasom, I assure you that nothing has happened and that I haven't a scratch upon me. If you had been here a minute or two earlier, you would have seen me act the hare's leg and turn the poor thing loose."

She drew a breath of relief.

"Oh, thank God—thank God!" she panted, "I thought—I was afraid—" She stopped and put her hand—it was trembling—to her lips as if to stop herself. I thought something had happened. I—I beg your pardon, Mr. Gordon. I'm nervous and out of sorts, and—and I fancy all sorts of dreadful things."

"So I see," said Jack, gently enough now. "Women are always scared by the sight of blood." He sighed as he thought of the day when Esther had shrank back from her blood-stained handkerchief, which he still carried in his bosom. "You'd better go home now; it's getting late. I'll come with you."

"No—no!" she responded quickly, almost fearfully. "I do not want you but I—I will you would go in now—I beg your pardon," for Jack had opened his eyes with surprise. "I mean can go home alone quite well. Good-night and— and forgive me for troubling you."

"Good-night—and good-bye," said Jack.

At the "good-bye" she started and paused, and her eyes sought his with a troubled questioning; but she said nothing and walked quickly away.

Jack went into the cottage, had a good wash, delivered his knapsack and looking round the little room sadly, went out and closed the door after him.

When he had reached the farm lodge he put down his knapsack and gave a sigh before going into the house.

Mr. Martin was sitting by the table writing, and his daughter was with a smile —she knew his step—but the smile vanished as she saw his face, and she rose nervously.

"Is anything the matter?" she asked in a low voice.

"No. Why?" responded Jack.

"You—you look so strange, so—so pale. Are you ill, Mr. Gordon?"

"Not in the least," said Jack, quietly. "But I'm rather sorry for myself, Miss Martin, for I've come to say good-bye."

"To say good-bye!" she faltered, with amazement. "Why, where are you going?"

"I'm going to London," said Jack, "to-night," he added. "I've come back to ask you to take this, Mrs. Martin, but—"

"But you have had news—bad news?" she said, as he paused. He snatched at the excuse.

"Yes, I have," he said.

"I'm sorry!" she murmured, with genuine regret in her pale face and low voice. "I won't ask you to tell me what it is. But I'm not surprised at your leaving. I always thought you would leave us any moment. Of course, Mr. Gordon, I've felt all along that you were different to us, that you weren't what you seemed, that you were a gentleman, and that there was something mysterious in your living with us as you have done, and in your love for farm. I can't tell you how we shall all miss you—Martin and me and Cecile. Nettie! Ah, I don't know what she'll do! She'll be very sad. Martin, call when she knows. Yes, I'm sorry," she turned up with a deep sigh.

"You've not half as sorry as I am, Mrs. Martin," he said, "and I'm sorry more than kind to me, all of you; and I'd stay with you until I got something settled, if I could. But I can't—something has happened. He paused and stammered, "I mean, I've heard news—that compels me to go."

She nodded sadly.

"I'll go and wake Martin," she said, with a sigh.

"No, no!" said Jack, quickly, "I half broke my promise to him this afternoon. Did him good-bye for me to-morrow. Everything is straight on the farm, and—"

She looked at him quickly yet shyly. "Do you want—have you enough money, Mr. Gordon? I have some put rather testily. "You seem very nervous by on one side, and Martin would say the same."

He shook his head in silence for a moment, then he said:

"No, I'm all right for money, Mrs. Martin, thank you. I drew my wages yesterday. You'll let me kiss Nettie good-bye? I won't wake her."

She led him into the next room, and Jack bent over the cot and kissed the child. He kissed her gently, but she stirred and woke, and looked up at him through half-open eyes, murmuring his name sleepily.

"Have no tone to say good-night to you forgot it, Jack?" she said, with a yawn; and she wound her arm round his neck and snuggled her face against him.

A lump rose in Jack's throat and something in his eyes blurred and he thickly gave from his sight.

"That's it, Nettie," he said, huskily. "I'm such an absent-minded chap, but don't you forget when you wake that I did come back to say, wish you good-night. Go to sleep again, and—"

His voice broke, and he unwound her arm and laid her—gently again and—on the pillow. He face was white and set—and a man's face in when it is fighting against emotion—as he rose.

"Tell her—tell her that I'll come back some day!" he said, hoarsely, "and—and don't let her forget me."

"There's no fear of that!" said he brother, with a sigh. "We shan't try of us forget you, from Miss Vanezet downwards. I'm sure she'll be very sorry you've gone."

"Will she?" Why should she?" he asked, with a gruesome attempt to laugh.

Fortune Comes To Invento

London.- Experimenting at nig with a 10-foot motor-boat on Pa Pond, Richmond Park, a young inve- or, a contemptible clerk in which a British Government paid him £350 one year, has developed the secret of the great secrets of the w, one for its object was to prove that a aerial destroyer, controlled from o ground, could be used to attack Z- ppelins in the air. Experiments start out by Mr. Grindell-Matthews wit a model hydroplane. The present Lord Balfour, the late 'Lord Fisl, and a staff of experts, Mr. Grindell-Dalbe tells the story in his book "In Moon Element"—published by T. Fisher Unwin at 10s. 6d.—in which he scribed the wonders of selenium, s metal sensitive to light. Mr. Grindell-Matthews was the inventor, and F. D'Albe was one of his assistants.

Matthews, who 45 an electrical engineer, came into prominence before the war as the inventor of the "Apollo-phone," one of the early methods of communication by wireless telephony.

At the outbreak of the war Mr. Matthews built a motor-boat called Swan, and on this he installed experiments for controlling the movement of aeroplanes. When the Zeppelin menace became formidable he offered to construct an aerial torpedo that was to be steered automatically from the ground and to attack the enemy raider air. His selenium cells he obtained from Holland by special arrangement with a Fenner's Dalbe took charge of the design and working of these selen apparatus.

The Best Way to Buy Oil

When you buy 5 gallons of oil you save yourself 20 cents "a quart of oil". You save your own time and your dealer's. You save money, because the price per gallon is lower. That's the best way to buy oil.

Now, the best oil to buy? Veedol, without a doubt. Its remarkable ability to resist heat protects your motor, saves you repairs, and gas, gives you smoother performance. And Veedol is a real economy oil—it costs less than a third of a cent per mile.

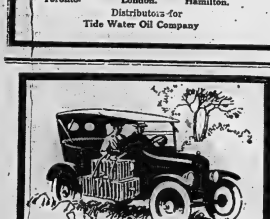

Stop when you see an orange and black Veedol sign. One trial convinces the average motorist.

Helpful Counsel From a Widely Known Poultry Expert.

Don't Overfeed at the Start—Feed Sprouted and Cracked Grains—Give Them Plenty of Grit—Feed Less Frequently Later—Millets Sown at Different Dates.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

No feed is given until the chicks are nearly three days old. Water may be given to drink if the chill is taken off. The chicks are given the feed upon clean boards about eight inches wide. There must be plenty of boards so that there is room on the board for every chick. A board three feet long and eight inches wide will give room enough for fifty chicks on the start. So says Prof. W. R. Graham.

The chicks for the first few weeks should be fed about six times daily at regular intervals. Give the first feed in the morning as early as the chicks can see to eat and the last at night as late as possible. If growing chicks in February are fed they may be given at night using artificial light.

Don't Overfeed at the Start.

Many chicks are overfed on the start. We have adopted the plan for the first five or six days in the brooder of weighing the feed. An experienced feeder may not need to weigh the feed, but the beginner generally does better by weighing it. We allow one ounce of the grit mixture for every fifty chicks at each feed; that is, for six chicks, for the first days in the brooder, get more than six ounces of dry feed for six chicks in one day. The plan followed is to moisten the first feed with canned tomatoes, the second with eggs, and the third with minced liver, and then begin the series over again. The above amount will satisfy the chicks' appetite. They will create a great noise at every feeding time, but it gives a chance for the chick to absorb considerable milk in the body.

After the first period one should feed two or three times each day all that the chicks will eat.

We begin giving a drinking vessel each of water and sour milk, when the chicks are about a week old. Many give milk from the start, but we have obtained slightly better results by not giving the milk for the first three or four days.

Feed Sprouted and Cracked Grains.

When the chicks pass the second week, sprouted grains may be fed, also a little cracked grains. The change should be made gradually from tomatoes, eggs and liver over to sprouted grains, tender green grass, if available, and plain grain. If leg weakness is noted, the tomatoes and sprouted grains should be increased or the chicks put out of doors on clean tender sward.

It is best to rear the chicks on new ground each year, and never to brood two lots of chicks on the same ground in any one year. Many chicks are sent in for examination each year that have troubles due to land infection.

It also will be found advantageous if feeding chicks from trough or broods out of doors to move the boards or troughs a little every day. Likewise it must be remembered, when the chicks are fed indoors, to keep the feed boards clean.

Give Them Plenty of Grit.

Grit is always in easy access of the chicks. It is advisable and necessary to add a little oyster shell dust or fine particles to the ration daily. A certain amount of lime is necessary.

Mouldy feeds, dirty feed boards, and musty litter are to be avoided. Moulds kill large numbers of chicks. Be sure your house is clean and the litter not musty. Do not use cut hay or cut straw as litter for baby chicks, because the beards may get into the chicks' eyes. Good clean oat chaff makes the best chick litter we have used. When it gets soiled or dirty remove and replace it with clean litter.

Feed Less Frequently Later.

As the chicks get older the number of feeds per day may be reduced, so that at an age of seven weeks three or four feeds per day are sufficient; in fact, after the seven weeks hoppers of crushed oats or dry mash may be placed in the pen. The feeds of moist mash are continued at whatever amount the chicks will clean up.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Millets Sown at Different Dates.

The question is frequently asked regarding the best dates for sowing millet for hay production. Several years in succession an experiment has been conducted by the Ontario Agricultural College by sowing millets on each of six different dates, starting on May 15th and finishing on August 1st, allowing about two weeks between each two dates of seeding. The average results have shown the highest returns from sowing on June 1st. Naturally, varieties like the Japanese Barnyard and the Japanese Panicle require to be sown earlier than the Hungarian Grass which requires a shorter season for development.

Keep the brood sow in good thrifty and healthy condition. Allow her plenty of exercise. Feed her green food in the winter. She is very fond of alfalfa hay and roots, which, with one feed per day of middlings and milk. Give her a dry comfortable straw bed, also plenty of fresh water, and she will winter in prime condition.

Someone has said that the best teacher is a community lad; always the one in charge of the school as superintendent or teacher, but how he seems progressive farmer who wakes up the community to new possibilities and who develops a new line of thought and starts a new enterprise.

Man Lays Head on Track as Train Rounds Curve; Too Late to Stop

North Bay, April 26.—When a Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway freight train was making a curve near Mileage 66, north of North Bay, yesterday the engineer noticed a man step out onto the track and place his head on the rail when the train was but a short distance away.

The engineer was unable to bring the train to a stop in time to avert a tragedy. The body was badly mangled but on it was found an handsome policy for $1000 on the life of George Schithers of Pembroke.

The man was later identified as George C. Schathers of Mildmay, Ont. An inquest will be held today.

NATURE AT HER BEST

Those who appreciate nature at her best and revel in a wealth of variegated scenery, will find the route travelled by the Canadian National Railways between Toronto and Vancouver, one of never-to-be-forgotten beauty.

First through the inimitable Lake region of Northern Ontario, dotted many placid, mirror-like lakes pocketed between tree-clad hills, catching a fleeting glimpse of many portentious, rock strewn little waterways dashing madly towards the quiet levels of the lakes before them. Winnipeg, the fertile Prairie Provinces treat the traveller to a type of sturdy undulating scenery not to be seen in any other part of Canada.

The awe-inspiring scenery of the Canadian Rockies never grows monotonous, no matter how often it is viewed. Jasper Park, with its protected wild game and luxurious Mt. Edith Cavell; Emerald Mt. Robson, stately and all-but shrouded in perpetual snow, and the towering glaciers stretching from snow-clad peaks, are only a few of nature's wonders the traveller by the Canadian National Route sees before descending to the balmy climate of Vancouver and the Pacific Coast.

There are two Canadian National trains leave Toronto daily for the West. The National carrying standard sleeping car and compartment, and Observation car departs at 10.45 p.m.. Steel equipped, the National is the last word in every detail. A standard sleeping car connecting with the Continental Limited, the train de luxe of the Canadian National System, leaves Toronto every evening at 8.45.

Travellers to California or other points on the Pacific Coast usually take the famous scenic route through Canada because of its beauty. Excellent connections are made at Vancouver with both steamship and train.

THREE ALLIES PUT FAITH IN DAWES' PLAN

Britain, Belgium and France Accept It As Main Basis

ITALY BY SATURDAY

Last of Big Four Coming; Reparation Commission Considers Replies

Paris, April 28.—Great Britain, Belgium and France today notified the inter-Allied reparations commission that they accepted the Dawes report as a basis for settlement of the reparation problem. Italy is expected to accept tomorrow.

The communications from the various allied countries today were replies to the commissioner's recommendation that the Dawes report be accepted.

President Coolidge, in his speech at New York, supported the Dawes plan, although the United States has not officially accepted it as a nation.

Commission Meets.

The Reparation Commission held an unofficial meeting this morning to discuss the replies of the French, Belgian and British Governments to the Commission's note regarding execution of the experts' reparation plan.

The Italian reply not having been received, the members exchanged views, unofficially regarding the other responses.

All the documents will be made public as soon as that from Italy is received.

Belgium Pays Tribute

Brussels, April 26.—The Belgian reply to the Reparation Commission, after paying tribute to the high moral authority attached to the unanimous conclusions of the reparations experts expresses readiness to accept the conclusions as a whole with a view to practical and equitable regulation of the reparations.

The Belgian Government looks to the Reparation Commission to examine the laws and decrees which it has asked the German Government to submit to it and which are necessary for complete execution of the experts' plan, the Government trusts that the commission will rapidly prepare the measures which the report left to its care, working out the details so that the plan recommended can be promptly put into execution in common accord with the allied governments.

LONDON FEARS GRAVE STRIFE AGAIN IN ERIN

Border Parley Crash Leaves Action to Britain Alone

CRAIG WON'T GIVE IN

Anglo-Irish Treaty Move Means Trouble With Ulster Counties

London, April 2?.—The failure of the Irish boundary conference here is widely regarded as likely to develop a new and serious crisis. It is certainly taken for granted that the British Government wishes to act in the matter by appointing committees to delimit the boundary between Northern and Southern Ireland, and it is believed the Free State Government will, if necessary, press this.

The question, however, arises whether, since Ulster has refused to appoint a representative to the commission, that body could equally operate with only two members instead of the three provided for by the Anglo-Irish treaty.

Special Bill Needed

It is stated in some quarters that the British Government's legal advisers have declared the commission cannot proceed without Ulster representation, and, consequently, that special legislation will be necessary to provide a substitute for the missing delegate.

According to the Westminster Gazette, the British Government has already given the Free State assurance that it will pass such legislation.

The Daily Express says such a bill would arouse a storm of controversy, and, even if passed might not end Ulster's resistance.

Dispatches from Dublin and Belfast report anxiety in both Irish capitals regarding the outcome. It is well known that the counties of Tyrone and Fermanagh and the city of Londonderry have elected to be Free State, and if the commission, acting by virtue of special legislation, allotted these areas to the Free State, grave trouble is forecast.

Concede Not One Yard

It is recalled that the Ulster Premier, Sir James Craig, declared in October:

"Not a yard of our territory will be handed over to a foreign flag and our enemies will be driven to accept our graves before they steel a yard of it."

Sir James made no detailed statement yesterday regarding the Irish Crown, but is quoted by the Daily Sketch as saying shortly: "I am disappointed."

SOME FOAL DISEASES

Two Stomach Troubles That Try the Youngsters and

Acute Indigestion And Its Treatment —Cause, Symptoms and Treatment of Gastric Impaction—Sunflower Stalks—It's a Great Feeding.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Acute Indigestion.

This trouble is frequently seen at seeding time, during the rush of spring work when the brood mares that are nursing young foals are required to labor in the field. The mare becomes overworked at times and may be away from the foal for five or six hours. When she comes in at noon or night and the colt has had no opportunity to nurse, conditions are not normal in that there is an oversupply of milk, or how much milk there is good for a hungry colt at one time, and the milk is also probably altered somewhat due to the overheating of the body during labor in the field. The colt is permitted to nurse and after a few days of such practice, develops dyspepsia. The disease usually takes the form of a diarrhoea. The colt becomes dull, may have abdominal pain, lie down a great deal of the time, loses appetite, may bd noticed grinding its teeth, or with pain-lest discharge from the eyes.

Prevention is the most desirable course, and this disorder can be kept down by normal working conditions for the mare and foal. If the mare must work, care should be taken not to overtax her by long periods, and to keep her away from the foal for more than three or four hours. If her udder is distended and painful, milk part of the contents away by hand before permitting the colt to nurse. The sanitary conditions about the stable or lot should be the best, and the food that is being given to the mare should be such as to promote a normal, healthy milk flow.

Treatment—If there is a competent, graduate veterinary practitioner available, he should be called in. If there is no veterinary assistance available, the following treatment can be given. Give a small dose of calomel, and the purgative action will antisepsis. If diarrhoea continues, it should be checked by giving tincture of opium or chlorodyne and castor oil. Raw linseed, eggs, or milk and eggs can be given frequently and in small amounts until conditions are normal. Water is very important; but see that it is clean.

Gastric Impaction.

What killed the colt? A number of cases of this trouble in a stock district through gastric impaction, a disorder occurring during the first week following weaning in foals that are weaned too young. The colt's stomach has been dealing with milk pretty much during the first three months. It has not developed to a condition that will permit of the successful handling of other foods. The colt that is weaned too early in life is at a disadvantage. It has depended upon its mother for the greater part of its food and also protection. If suddenly deprived of its mother, the colt goes out into the field, does not have learned to drink and feed by himself, and has not yet learned where about's of the feed and water supply. Colts that have been under stable stalls fed dams usually know the ways of the stable. But the colt that is turned out in the pasture field with its mother all its life has not had an opportunity to learn these things, and consequently is at a loss when suddenly placed in the field. Also, when ferred to the stable and separated from its mother, the colt after each separation is excited and may fret for a few days, refusing feed, or eating and not drinking.

Symptoms, which usually occur four or five days after weaning. The colt may be off his feed most of the time, grunts, becomes restless, showing pain, lies down and gets up a bowels irregular, some distension of flank, pain evidenced on touching region of stomach, temperature may be sub-normal at start and increasing later, becomes sleepy and staggery gait. Post mortem shows the stomach to be full, much less largely, walls thin and pale in color and the contents of doughy mass.

Treatment—If the case has reached a point of development where the colt is sleepy, stupid and staggery in gait, little can be done. The earlier stages can be relieved by the application of mustard, hot blanket, or other mechanical liniment to the abdomen of the colt, warm enemas given. Purgatives are of little use. Physic to relieve the bowels gives some relief. Water is very important.

The weaning of colts should be gradual, and not until the colt is well versed in the ways of feeding and the whereabouts of feed. A little attention given to the colt a month ahead of the time that it is decided to separate it from its mother will save considerable trouble later.

The Sunflower Stalks.

The pith of sunflower stalks is said to be the highest vegetable substance. Dried sunflower pith is fed for sometimes lighter than cork.

The pith in particular is carefully removed from the stalk and used in making life saving appliances.

It's a Great Feeding.

Did you ever look a man in the eye who was talking about something you knew all about and he thought he did but you knew he didn't? That is the feeling and the sensation that comes to one who is keeping books and knows what he is doing.

"For a beautiful complexion, lead an outdoor life," recommends Viola Dana, star of Metro's "The Social Buccaneer," now appearing at the Imperial Picadilly. "Give nature's beautifiers a chance. Go in for swimming, tennis, golf—anything, so long as it takes you regularly outdoors. Even if the weather is rough, don't huddle home! Dress yourself in sloppy weather and form their naturally beautifying properties. The bolster and stretch exercise I'll you feel you must, but place your main reliance on air and water."

A GREAT CAST FOR "THE DAY OF FAITH"

When Tod Browning decided to make "The Day of Faith" at the Goldwyn studios, he said he was going to have a "hand picked" cast.

As the patrons of the Griffin theatre, Monday will see, the famous director of screen melodramas, has indeed kept his word, for on the roster are one new star, one famous stage star, three widely known comedians and several of filmland's most familiar faces.

Eleanor Boardman is the newly risen star whose place in the cinema firmament was established by her work in "Souls for Sale," "Vanity Fair" and "Three Wise Fools." In the Roche story she enacts the leading feminine role.

Tyrone Power in the stage star, whose offering, "The Wandering Jew" and "The Servant in the House" have won him undying fame. "The Day of Faith" is Power's fifth picture and in the role of the millionaire who sought to control the world, he has given a fine performance.

Raymond Griffith, whom Marshall Neilan called "the greatest actor on the screen," is a former comedian who proved his ability in Goldwyn's "The Eternal Three" and "Red Lights". In "The Day of Faith" he interprets the cynical, carefree reporter, Tom Bercell.

Ford Sterling will always be remembered for his Keystone comedies. More recently his name has been linked with "The Strangest Banquest" and "The Spoilers." His part of Montreal Sammy in Arthur Somers Roche's story is one of the highlights of the production.

Charles Conklin, another comedian, known for his waiting whiskers and his conductor's cap, plays his first dramatic role in the Roche story. Other well known members of the cast are Wallace MacDonald, Jack Curtis, Jane Mercer, Edward Martindel, Winter Hall, Ruby Lafayette, Fracey, Hatton and Dudley Dorothy June Mathis and Katherine Kavanaugh adapted the story to the screen.

FREE STATE REVOLT IS IMMINENT

McGrath Group Grows Against Rule of President

WORK FOR REPUBLIC

But Only on Constitutional Lines, Declares Chief Of New Party

Dublin, April 29.—The Irish Free State desires to repeat the history of 1801, when, under the Act of Union, Ireland lost her Parliament and became absorbed into the British House of Commons.

Joseph McGrath, backed by a large part of the Irish Republican Brotherhood, both in Ireland and the United States, has led what seems to be a successful revolt in the ministerial ranks of the Free State.

The full extent of his revolt and the effect and weight of the new party which he has formed, known as the Republican Constitutional Party, is not yet known, but it appears to be of sufficient strength to defeat President Cosgrave's administration in the event of all opposition parties voting against the Government.

As Step to Republic

McGrath has made it clear that his party accepts the treaty only as a stepping stone to the Republic but that it will work for the Republic only on constitutional lines.

If constitutional republicanism meets with success and comes into office, then it is reasonable to believe that one of its first acts will be the abolition of the oath of allegiance to the King of the British Empire. Such an act would be open defiance to the British Government.

McGrath and his followers will have their first test of strength with the Free State Government when the contest to fill a vacancy in the North Mayo constituency is fought out. At the last election the Republicans had a heavy vote in this constituency, and, with Liam Tobin as the Constitutional Republican candidate and McGrath leading the campaign, there seem fair prospects of success for the opponents of the Free State.

May Absorb Members of Dail

The old Republican party, which has been under the leadership of De Valera, does not treat with the Constitutional Republicans, but there are indications that the newly-formed party may absorb a large part of the membership of the older party.

The Free State seems to be facing a crisis, and many can say which is the path of Ireland leads. If it leads to a Constitutional Republican government, then it seems almost certain that it will lead to a new break with Great Britain. A new break with Great Britain would probably mean a re-united Ireland, but an Ireland once again under British domination and fighting such domination.

A year ago the future of the Free State was secure. To-day both new political strife broken out, the future is certainly clouded and unpromising.

TROOPS OF FRANCE CLASH WITH TURKS

London, April 29.—Sanguinary fighting between French troops and irregular Turkish bands is reported to have taken place in Southern Syria, by the Jerusalem correspondent of the Daily Express.

Three hundred men were killed or wounded during the fighting, he says, and the Turks captured a great quantity of arms.

There have been recurrent reports recently of unrest in Syria, of which country France is the mandatory power. French activities are reported to have bombed Syrian villages.

THE WEATHER

Moderate westerly winds; fair, Wednesday—Northerly winds and a little cooler.

MUST BRING ALONG FOOD OR STARVE AT OLYMPIC

Paris, April 29.—Tourists who visit Paris during the Olympic games this summer may have to come to the French capital armed with their own rations. Union cooks have demanded more pay and better working conditions, threaten to leave all kitchens deserted during the games if their demands are not granted.

NEARLY THIRD OF C.E.F. MEN GONE TO U.S.

Former Soldiers Quit Canada; Bread and Butter Abroad

VETERANS AIR PLANS

Would Extend Grants, Aid Government Services in Finding Jobs

Ottawa, April 29.—Nearly one-third of the overseas strength of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces has migrated to the United States in search of its bread and butter declared C. Grant MacNeil, Dominion secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association, in discussing the immigration situation in Canada before the members of Flanders Lodge L.O.L., on the anniversary service of the formation of that lodge at St. Eloi, Belgium among the Canadian dead.

The investigation of Canadian veteran migration has led to an investigation of the greater problem, and said Mr. MacNeilly, "We discovered that for the last two years the ebb of population from the United States had been far in excess of our total immigration from all quarters."

A Step to Republic

To solve the immigration problem we see three proposals the following preliminary steps:

Determination to colonize Canada, first with Canadians and then with British stock.

Honest co-operation between the immigration department and the employment service of Canada to prevent further displacement of the present population.

Extension of farm settlement and small holdings settlement among Canadians.

Extend Grant Scheme

Acceptance of the Empire settlement scheme under which the British Government will advance £300 to new settlers, provided the Canadian Government advances a similar amount.

Assisting selected immigrants from Nordic races in Europe for settlement and to colonize the cultivated lands.

Emphasize settlement activities instead of immigration until a proper balance is struck."

PARISH MEETING WELL ATTENDED

R. H. Ketcheson, Rector's Warden; J. W. Barlow, People's Warden; and all members of the vestry were re-elected at the annual Parish meeting of Emmanuel Church held last night, and which was well attended.

Messrs. George Hamilton, A. S. Large, George Napier, John Worrel, H. Thompson, Henry Thompson, John Ridley, Thomas Hallam, W. J. Bolby, William Worrell, Glen Thompson, Robert Napier, Al. Shirkett, Alfred Hall, E. Barlow, Mrs. L. Sanier and Mrs. H. Thompson, were elected Sidesmen. J. Wilder and M. Storms are the members of the vestry re-elected. Mr. George Dankins is the one newly appointed member of the Vestry.

Monty Barlow was re-elected, Vestry Clerk.

Delegates elected to attend Synod at Toronto on May 7, 8, 9, are Messrs. J. W. Barlow, R. H. Ketcheson, G. Napier and Mrs. J. W. Barlow.

The rector, Rev. George Marshall, Messrs. R. H. Ketcheson and G. Napier are delegates selected to attend the General Council Philadelphia from April 20 to 30.

Financial and numerical reports from the Ladies Aid, Sunday School and the Benevolent Society were read, showing considerable advance in every direction. The affairs of the church generally were reported most satisfactorily.

DAMAGE MILLION IN PACIFIC COAST FIRE

Oakland, Cal., April 29— Damage estimated at $1,000,000 was done by a fire which virtually destroyed the plants of the Dining Construction Company, the General Metal Company and the Pacific Coast Lumber Company, on the waterfront here, late yesterday. The origin of the fire was not determined.

LARGE NUMBER AT TABERNACLE CHURCH SOCIAL

Second Annual Banquet of Leaguers Is Enjoyable Event

TABLES LADEN

Toasts and Responses of Highest Order—Officers Named

The Leaguers in connection with the Tabernacle Methodist Church are fervent entertainers and this was forcibly demonstrated last evening when in the Sunday School rooms of this church the second annual banquet took place.

The tables were well laden with delicacies and delicacies to which justice was done by the 150 Epworth League attendance. An excellent program of toasts was carried out and it was apparent that much thought had been given by the speakers to the task assigned them.

C. Lent Toastmaster

Mr. C. Lent was toastmaster and performed the duties in a most creditable manner. The toast list was as follows:

The King—The national anthem by the company.

Gorgeous rise and fall, but the kingdom of Jesus Christ will ever remain," was the opening sentence of an address given by Mr. J. E. Walmsley, in proposing the toast of "The Church and its Institutions." The speaker emphasized the fact that it was essential that all Christian people of the world should at the present time be united to check the onward march of Mohammedanism. Mr. Walmsley divided his address into three heads, viz., the church, the church and this church, and these he enlarged on in turn and said in a most interesting and explicit manner.

Replies to Toast

Mr. R. A. Yager in proposing the Kenny, pastor, said the church was an organization which stands out separate from other organizations. Man, so to speak living to the city has a desire to find out the right place. We are built for two worlds, this and the one we are striving for. Canada was truly a Christian civilization and we realize God's presence amongst us.

Toast of "Canada"

Mr. R. A. Yager in proposing the toast of "Canada" referred to the early settlement of this country and the exercise of national life and spirit. The speaker also spoke of the settlement of the Bay of Quinte and the hardships they endured.

Mr. H. Coon responded, speaking generally of Canada and the industrial activities and its development.

Mr. J. Lent in proposing the toast of "The League" classified the League as a very important part of the City of Kitchener and by saying through a transient age, an age of flurry, rush and hurry, we have to be up-rising and a rapid pace. The true people are coming to come in in this age and its principles are lofty.

Mr. E. A. Greenleaf responded and showed that the Tabernacle Church League was in every respect a live organization and increasing in membership. It was also financially in a good condition, the giving showing yearly increases.

"The Bachelors"

The toast to "The Bachelors" was proposed by Miss H. Stocker in a most appropriate and humorous manner and was most ably responded to by Mr. Arthur Marsh.

"Our Guests" was proposed by Mrs. R. A. Yager, who on behalf of the Leaguers welcomed all present and especially the guests.

Mrs. M. P. Duff and Mr. J. Reynolds responded in a few well chosen remarks.

Solos Given

During the evening solos were given by Mrs. M. P. Duff, Mr. A. Sillaman and Mr. R. W. Mallough and a duet by Mrs. M. P. Duff and Mrs. C. H. Nicholson.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the pleasing function to a close.

The officers of the League for the year are as follows:

Pastor ..... Rev. H. B. Kenny
President ..... Mrs. R. A. Yager
1st Vice Pres. ..... Mr. C. Lent
1st Vice Pres. ..... Miss L. Bell
2nd Vice Pres. ..... Miss O. Redmond
3rd Vice Pres. ..... Mr. R. A. Yager
2nd Vice Pres. ..... Miss H. Gower
Secretary ..... Mr. A. Lent
Treasurer ..... Mr. E. A. Greenleaf
Pianist ..... Miss B. Barlow

MARLER WILL LAY LASH ON ROBB BUDGET

Montreal Member Is Likely Sensation for Tuesday

STAY WITH LIBERALS

But Vote Against Them, Is His Plan; Can't Be Done Say Conservatives

Ottawa, April 29.—It is expected that H. M. Marler, the Liberal member for St. Lawrence, George division, Montreal, will intervene in the budget debate Tuesday. His speech promises to be a bomb one of the sensations of a rather dreary Parliamentary session.

It is understood that it contains strong denunciation of the Government's tariff policy and of the claim that there is a financial surplus, and intimation of the speaker's intention to vote against the budget. Those close to Mr. Marler say that he intends to remain on the Government side of the House. Some express doubts as to this possibility if his speech proves to be as critical of the administration as is generally expected.

Can't Ride Two Horses

Leading Liberals decline to comment upon Mr. Marler's prospective utterance until they hear it. Prominent Conservatives declare that the Montreal member cannot ride two horses and that they will prove so at the next election unless he walks across the green carpet bag and bags-age.

Mr. Marler was one of the members who said he would suspend judgment upon tariff matters until the budget came, a clear interpretation of the indefinite reference in the speech from the throne. It is understood that his speech radiates the spirit of St. James street and will condemn the inroads upon the public treasury made by the National Railways.

Mr. Marler comes from a constituency where big business is interested. From the first of the session he has been more pronounced in his sentiment than any other Liberal and than most Conservatives.

Two Others To Decide

While effect the prospective pronouncement of the Montreal representative will have upon others of his ilk with protectionist leanings is immeasurable its financial and labor significance. Considerable interest centres upon the attitude to be taken by W. D. Euler of Kitchener and by C. Raymond of Brantford.

They come from industrial ridings which will be more or less affected by the tariff changes and both of them warned the Government against repeating the mistakes of 1921 when they spoke upon the address.

There is a general impression here that the Speaker will uphold the regularity of the Woodsworth amendment to the budget when he gives his ruling this afternoon.

Young Peoples Guild Concert Goes Over Well

Last night a splendid program was given by the St. Andrews Young People's Guild, in St. Andrews Church lecture room. Mrs. Hall, Dufferin President of the Guild acted as chairman. The programme was as follows:

ENTIRE BANDIT GANG TO STAND MURDER TRIAL

Seven Suspects Are Charged With Murder of Chauffeur

ALL ARRAIGNED

Police Take Precautions To Avoid Mob at Court House

Montreal, April 29—Under conditions that are unique in local court circles, seven alleged accomplices in the Bank of Hochelaga hold-up on the first of April last, were placed before Chief Judge Decarie, with the murder of Henri Cleroux and remanded to appear in Coroner's Court, May 8th, next. The arraignment took place at detective headquarters, and the stage was set in such a way that nearly two thousand of the wrought-up inclined public were nicely looked at by the court house.

So strict were the instructions sent out, that only one representative from each newspaper was allowed to view the proceedings, which took place in Inspector Evans' office. Photographers were taken, as well as newspaper men, but of these, only the latter passed the line, but was warned that if he sketched any of the principals he would be thrown out of "court."

Lady Baker Appears

The first of the accused to appear was Eddie Baker well-known in publicity circles as "The Kid", Baker and the rest were formally charged with the murder of Henri Cleroux and Joseph Colen told the court that he and Lucien Gendron were approached by the accused. Baker looked haggard and worried, but never said a word as he listened to the charge. Detective Leo Davis, who was arrested at 3672 Drolet, Davis, according to the police found the officers hammering at the door and a touch of tremendous humor was lent to the proceedings by the fact that in front of the door, closed the window and photos of the police. Incriminating documents were thus sent to Inspector Mahoney and his confreres.

"Angel" For Devotees

The third to appear was Gange was the famous Tony Frank allowed king of the Montreal underworld. The voices of the red light district Frank with his swarthy complexion and neatly trimmed moustache looked the real debonair as he his word. He stood before Judge Decarie and never took his word as the charge was read although he did turn his head to scan the court room only to meet inflexible eyes of the police officers and others whose business it was to be present.

Frank Gambino, also "The King," was the next one to appear and he also went through the ritual without exhibiting a tremor that he was worried one bit. Frank who is a well known character down below the line was dressed in the very last (or mode) and the well known sideburns were as large as life. Louis Morello who was alleged to be the mainspring in a mythical outfit developed a bit of nervousness when he was called. His appearance was the signal for Chief Judge Decarie to call upon a lawyer who told the court he was employed to appear for the accused by his wife. Morel heard the plaint of the prosecutor, Mr. Langlois and Mr. Leclair Allan Germain, K.C., and said that he had been retained.

Judge Decarie in answer to a plea from the lawyer said that he would give him a pass to Bordeaux jail because Morel provided he did not abuse the privilege accorded him. At the moment the Court thought that this would be the last time he would be taken up.

Johns Vicero was paraded in immediately after Morel was ushered out.

ANTHRACITE PRICES SLASHED AT OTTAWA

Ministry Differs; Fate of Government May Hinge On Industry Scale

London, April 28—An increase in super taxes and death duties was shown in the first Labor budget when the minister was being considered. He urged special consideration be to given because of the national importance of this celebration and was able to satisfy the Government that it was entitled to consideration. A grant of three thousand dollars was made accordingly.

R. FERGUSON.

General Meeting Held

A general meeting of the U. E. L. celebration committee was held in the Chamber of Commerce building last evening and was largely attended. Mayor Ward and some members of the City Council were also present.

Considerable discussion took place during the evening in regard to the grant of $3,000 from the Provincial Government and the disposition of the same.

The executive committee of the celebration reported that a grant was made for the purpose of assisting in the coming celebration and as such should be used mainly for that purpose.

States Contention

On the other hand Mr. McCrea contention is that the grant was made to the U. E. L. corporation and that the corporation should have control of its expenditure for the entertainment of guests and other legitimate expenses which he said may be incurred.

Grant Is Needed

It was contended by the celebration committee that it could not properly function in duties unless the Provincial grant was turned over to assist in defraying the expenditures. The committee also expressed its willingness to assist in every way in the local matters which Mayor Mikel has of necessity interested.

After considerable discussion pro and con the meeting was adjourned until Thursday evening when it is confidently expected that an amicable settlement of the matter will be reached.

FUND VOTED AFTER MOVE OF MEMBER

$3,000 Appropriated by Provincial Government to aid U.E. Loyalist Celebration

Following Move by Member From West Hastings Several Months Ago—Of National Importance

The following telegram has been received from Premier Ferguson by Mayor Mikel, in which full credit for obtaining the Provincial grant of $3,000 is given to R. H. Ireland, M. P. P., for West Hastings.

Mayor Mikel, in an interview with The Intelligencer to-day, stated that the residents of counties to Toronto and Washington will cost practically nothing, the hospitality being extended Miss Lazier and Cadet Dempsey being gratis and of the highest order.

Mayor Mikel, Belleville, Ont.

Regarding inquiry, Mr. Ireland brought to the attention of the Government some months ago U. E. Loyalist celebration and was present at several conferences when the matter was being considered. He urged special consideration be to given because of the national importance of this celebration and was able to satisfy the Government that it was entitled to consideration. A grant of three thousand dollars was made accordingly.

Victorian Nurse Is Worthy Cause

Although there was no speaker present at the Rotary Club luncheon yesterday of the Kiwanis club today, much business was transacted, and those members who were absent were given a splendid insight into what Kiwanis means to a community by reports of what the Kiwanis Club did and intends for the coming year.

The matter of obtaining a member of the Victorian Order of Nurses was discussed, and it was resolved to back locally voted on at the next meeting of the club. Secretary Cecil Gillis gave a clear and concise outline of the great amount of good bringing a member of the Order to Belleville will accomplish, and while the club must bear a heavy portion of the $1500 yearly, still the results would more than repay the outlay in assisting the local club, in common with other Kiwanis clubs, a real power in the betterment of the community.

May 10th is Decoration night of the local clubs and replies to invitations indicate that many of the clubs of the Province will be present in large numbers. A special committee, head by Kiwanian George Hall, was appointed to take charge of the entertainment of visitors.

That the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs of Belleville are ready to work together for an object of common good was indicated when a motion to give Kiwanian Hall's Male Voice Minstrels, on May 5 and 6, was given unanimous approval. Over fifty tickets were subscribed for, and the Kiwanis Club will have charge of the show, on opening night in large numbers.

U. S. AMUSEMENT TAX CARVED IN MILLIONS

Washington April 29—The Senate today without discussion adopted the house rates for taxing admission and dues. Only a handful of Senators were on the floor when the amendment, which will reduce the amusement tax more than $33,000,000, was adopted. The amendment subjects admissions to one percent tax on each ten cents, but tickets costing 50 cents or less were exempted.

Small Animals in Rubber Ball May Test Falls for Leach, But Not in Canada

Niagara Falls, N.Y.—Bobby Leach, Niagara navigator, who attracted world-wide attention by successful navigation of the death defying rapids and a drop over the Falls, may, it is said, make thorough tests of the changing currents and the resisting qualities of rubber by sending small animals over the Falls in huge rubber balls.

Bobby has connected with a rubber company and his latest theory is that rubber has better resisting qualities than steel, and that a vehicle of rubber could successfully battle the tremendous power of the Falls.

Leach hopes to enter the upper rapids in a huge rubber casing, let the currents carry him to the brink of the Falls and take the big plunge —and come out alive.

He has accomplished the stunt once, encased in a steel barrel of unique design. What he has done once he feels confident he can do again.

The Canadian Government is said to dislike the idea of experiments with animals and is said to have served notice that Bobby can't experiment or make the high dive from the Canadian side of the Falls.

MASONS VISIT MONTEAL LODGE

The visit of the Queen City Masonic Lodge to Montreal was a great success. On Thursday they were the guests of Waverley Lodge, when for the first time initiation work was put on by a lodge from another jurisdiction. M.W. Bro. W.N. Ponton, K.C. Governing Minister of Ontario West was presented with a handsome altar cloth by Queen City the wardens receiving baskets of flowers. W. Bro. Joseph Calvert, W.M., of Queen City was very cordially received at the banquet. On Friday the visitors were entertained by Lebanon Chapter, No. 29, and Saturday was devoted to sight seeing, the party returning to Toronto on Sunday morning.

Eighty Motor Cars Placed On Test Stand

Chief Kidd with Constables A. Booth and W. Franks examined and tested the lights of eighty motor cars between the hours of 7:30 and 10:10 last night, and today the Chief states that just twenty-five of them passed the tests. Owners of those who failed to pass are asked to correct the defect and drive back Wednesday night for final inspection.

The public is invited to take advantage of the free light tests which continues tonight and Wednesday between the same hours.

Humorous Defects

Various defects which are humorous, are related by the officers, and P. C. Booth who is a mechanic of wide experience corrects slight defects on cars which are almost passable, if the car owner drives his machine to one side.

Four cars which were driven upon the test stand, last night, were equipped with the old time plain headlight lenses, which have been debarred by law for over three seasons. One man in his lenses on upside down, and several cars had the rear lights reflected that it shadowed rather than lighted the number plate. This of course is not intentional. Some of the headlights lighted up the police court windows instead of the 42 inches of space from the ground up, as allowed by law in the case of a perfect headlight, when the car stands at a distance of seventy-five feet away from the wall, and directs the light against the wall. One motorist drove in for the test and he had but one light burning. Many of the lights are too weak also, the chief reports.

Materials Certain

Chief Kidd is very pleased with the response, and reports that the motorists who are very certain, seem to be very anxious to comply with the Highway Traffic Act for the common good of all.

MILLIONS TO JOIN PARADES FOR MAY DAY

British Labor Party Plans Bigger and Better Showing

LEADERS TAKE PART

MacDonald and Clynes to Speak in Hyde Park London Predicts

London—The English Labor Party's part in the international observance of this May Day although it will not be the only one, but the more nobly members of the party would have it will be larger and better than ever. It is expected that several million persons will celebrate this European "Labor Day" by taking part in the big celebrations mass meetings and processions which will be held throughout the country.

One of the large section of the party to have the day observed more boisterously were overcome by another group which included several Labor Government Ministers who believe that this is the chance to get in some propaganda by way of speeches and the enactment of resolutions by the rank and file of the Socialists.

Macdonald To Speak

It is expected that Premier MacDonald and other prominent deputy leader in the House of Commons; Lord Parmoor and other Labor star performers will be among the speakers on the platform at Hyde Park and other London parks.

The parade of Labor adherents which gathers annually on the Victoria Embankment and marches through the west end to Hyde Park is expected this year to number 100,000 which is going to present a knotty problem to London's police chiefs.

Willing to Overlook It.

Toronto, April 26.—It was learned today that the Board of Control has practically decided to make another trip to Ottawa next week to follow up the request of the big deputation of two weeks ago that asked the Government to authorize the C.N.R. share of viaduct construction costs.

A favorable decision will be asked it is considered not impossible that some new compromise offer will be put forward by the Government.

Here spread over before the eye is the most eloquent map of the British Empire that has ever been produced. Every Dominion, every colony, every dependency, is represented. Australia and Canada are there with their huge buildings, each representative and suggestive of the great open spaces of the of the two countries. India is there, her lofty minarets rising to a height of thirty feet. In characteristic Pavilion, the British Areas of the African Continent stand out distinctly in this miniature Empire. Home industries are displayed under the roofs of two of the largest concrete buildings in the world, the Palace of Industry and the Palace of Engineering. East and West, every corner of the huge Empire has its model in this Exhibition. Produce and crafts, minerals and peoples, soil and living plants, animals and treasure—all have been brought from the four corners of the world to make this great Empire Exposition, the most comprehensive the world has ever beheld.

Doctor's Vegetable Syrup Gives Quick Relief From Pimples Or No Charge!

This is the time of year when your liver becomes sluggish and your intestines become clogged up with poisonous waste. Your liver does not properly purify blood that flows to your skin. The result is sallow complexion dark circles and pimples. As these poisons continue to flood your system your resistance is lowered, you feel dull and tired and sick.

Make this test: Cleanse and tone your liver with Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup. Contains pure vegetable ingredients prescribed by physicians. Helps nature strengthen your stomach, soothe tired over-taxed nerves, brace up system and purify your blood. Notice quick difference in way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You, too, will be satisfied, as others have, or no cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Dolan the Druggist and W. H. Lattimer in Belleville and T. L. McCullough in Deseronto, and by leading druggists in each city and town.

DOG POISONING IS RIFE IN KINGSTON

Kingston, April 29—Several more cases of dogs and cats being deliberately poisoned have recently been reported. Two dogs and one cat having died from the effects of poison during the last two or three days in the southwest end of the city.

When spoken to this morning by The Standard, the President of the Humane Society stated that every effort was being put forward to combat the apparent evidence of dog and cat poisoning which is rapid.

Strychnine, arsenic and other virulent poisons have been used to cause the death of several animals in the city.

EMPLOYED BOYS MEET AT THE ASSOCIATION

Rev. D. C. Ramsay was the speaker at the supper meeting of the Employed Boys' Brotherhood at the Y.M.C.A. last night. The theme of his address was the early life of Abraham Lincoln. His interesting and instructive talk was greatly appreciated by the members of the Brotherhood and upon the conclusion of his message, E. Buchanan moved a vote of thanks which Ernest Woolley seconded.

The president of the Brotherhood, Arthur Henley was in the chair and almost a full attendance of the members was registered. Upon motion of one of the members, the club voted to discontinue the regular supper meetings until the Fall, meantime the special out of door features will be carried on during the warm weather.

CARRIED DRUGS MUST GO TO JAIL

Peterboro, April 29.—Six months in the Ontario Reformatory, a fine of $200.00, and in default of payment of the fine an extra month's imprisonment, was the sentence imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley on Edward Ateomhawk yesterday morning, on his being found guilty of having drugs in his possession.

Joseph O'Brien defended the accused.

The principal evidence submitted by the defence was that of members of Ateomhawk family, who swore he was in the house at the times the Crown averred he transferred drugs to Crown witnesses, and two witnesses from the Council who testified to a "frame up."

These stories were discounted by His Worship, although he said it would have been more satisfactory from the point of view if the Crown had produced other evidence than that of the self-confessed drug addicts.

ASKS FIVE MILLION VIADUCT DAMAGES

Wants Specific Agreement Performance in Osgoode Hall Statement

Toronto, April 29—The Harbor Commissioners in the statement of claim against the Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian National Railways and the City of Toronto filed at Osgoode Hall today, demand specific performance of the viaduct agreement and $5,000,000 damages for delay or alternatively the Harbor Commissioners demand specific performance of an agreement to acquire certain lands south of the present railway tracks and $10,000,000 damages against the railroads for failure to construct the viaduct.

The viaduct agreement provides for the elevation of railway tracks along the waterfront in the central section of the city.

Why Creep?

STRIP your walls of curtains, window glass, paint. Move out the davenport, phonograph, magazines, telephone. Banish pepper, salt, sugar and all but home prepared foods from your pantry. Go back to the flint for your fire, the fields for your bread, the sheep on the hills for your clothes.

Without advertised products your life would seem both hard and drab. You would have little comfort or convenience; know nothing of the means to secure them. Unhelped, your own ingenuities would tend to limit your pace. You would progress by limps. You might not progress at all.

Advertisements sweep you on to enjoyments. Read them. Know about advertised goods. They give your life new ease.

Men to Whom Motorists Tell Their Tire Experience Say All-Weather Cord Gives 27.5% More Miles Than Any Other Tire

AUTOMOBILE DEALERS hear thousands and thousands of tire experiences. Their owners praise or denounce the tires they are using. Prospective purchasers tell of the tire service they've had. Cars come in for service regularly and their mileage is noted. And the automobile dealer is unprejudiced, because his chief interest in tires is to have the cars which he sells make a good showing on tire mileage.

3 out of 4 say Goodyear All-Weather Best

We asked 243 automobile dealers If they thought Goodyear All-Weather Cords are more mileage and if so, how much more than the next best. 74% said Goodyear All-Weather Cords gave most miles—and the average estimate gave them a greater mileage by 27.5% than the next best tire. Another 22% said All-Weather Cords are the equal of any tire. Only 5 out of 243 think any tire excels the Goodyear All-Weather.

What Other Car Dealers Say

"There is no question about the longer life Weather Cord Tire giving greater mileage and more all around than any other cord tire on the market today. We have had it on our own car for some time and they are surprising."

"Goodyear All-Weather Cords are dependable, and I believe they will give longer service than any other tire."

"Goodyear tires prove them better than others."

"We cannot say too much for Goodyear Cord Tires, as they have given big mileage and service."

INFECTIOUS ABORTION

A Much Too Common Trouble With Cattle To-day.

Care Needed in Purchasing Cows—Isolate and Treat Infected Animals —The Horse With Fever—Potato Disease Investigation.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto)

After an exhaustive study of the causes and treatment of infectious abortion of cattle, Dr. C. D. Mcgilvray, Principal Ont. Vet. College, Guelph, has come to the following conclusions:

1. In purchasing breeding cattle, make careful enquiries to ascertain if the herd from which they are being obtained is free from abortion disease.

2. If doubt exists as to their freedom from this disease, have all newly obtained pregnant females tested or keep them under observation until they calve.

3. Cows should be placed in maternity stalls to calve.

4. Whenever a cow aborts keep her isolated until she clears.

5. Thoroughly clean and disinfect the stalls in the stable. The bedding and litter taken from the stalls should be burned, together with the aborted fetus and the afterbirth.

6. Wash the hind parts of all the exposed pregnant cows with an antiseptic solution.

7. Cleanse the genital passage of the aborting animal in all cases of retained afterbirth. Irrigate the womb with a mild warm antiseptic solution or a saline solution. Make use of uterine antiseptic capsules.

8. Do not allow cows with retained afterbirth to remain in stalls adjacent to other pregnant females.

9. Keep aborting cows segregated from the others so long as they are discharging. Wash their hind parts before allowing them to return to the herd.

10. Allow a period of one month to elapse before returning aborting cows to the bull. Wash the bull's sheath after service of aborting cows.

11. Do not allow the bull to serve cows which have a discharge from the vulva. Serve all cows on neutral ground.

12. In affected herds obtain the advice of a qualified veterinarian as to the use of vaccines combined with sanitary measures.

13. In badly affected herds best results are obtained from the use of a live culture vaccine administered to the non-pregnant females two months before breeding.

14. In the case of valuable cows becoming barren, the services of a skilled veterinarian should be obtained for the purpose of treating the womb and ovaries.

15. If calves become affected with white scours, immediately separate the sick ones from the healthy. Consult a veterinarian regarding the use of calf scours serum in connection with sanitary measures.

Nutritious deficiencies should be corrected as far as possible by supplying mineral elements in the food.

If Udder Leaks Milk.

Leakage of milk from the udder is due to a relaxation of the sphincter muscles of the teats. This is not an infrequent occurrence among heavy milkers. Milking more times a day instead of twice a day relieves the strain on the muscles and will help a great deal. Immerse the teat twice daily in a cold saturated solution of alum. A rubber thimble is often used satisfactorily in severe cases. Application of caustic to the tip of the teat when the cow is dry may prevent leakage after subsequent calving.

It is far better for co-operative societies to be "safe" by seeking and accepting advice and information than to be "sorry" by neglecting to secure it, or ignoring it after it is obtained.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS TOMORROW

Toronto, April 29—The Leafs arrived home from Baltimore at noon to-day and are resting up for the opening of the season at the Island to-morrow. They broke even on the trip to the southern end of the Toole wheel, winning six games and losing the same number, and as all any manager asks his team to do on the road during the first jaunt is to get an even split Dan Howley should be satisfied. Certainly the fans are under the circumstances.

Howley's players have not had the best of luck so far. O'Rourke has been playing, though not fully recovered from injuries received during the inside season, while George Maisel and Stan Ramsey were out of the line-up until the Baltimore series. And then Vincent was injured.

Yesterday afternoon at Baltimore, Leafs dropped the rubber game 6-3.

Cliff Jackson was the thorn in the Toronto flesh. He allowed six more or less scattered hits and though Toronto was in the running the first four innings, Jackson was master afterwards and never was in serious danger.

In view of the fact that Faulkner, a southpaw, had beaten the Birds in one of yesterday's games, Manager Howley elected to send another south-paw flinger against the champs, and Steward drew the assignment. The Birds in the early opportunities, but in the fifth and sixth they registered a pair in each round and this margin was more than sufficient for victory. Butterfield finished the game after Stewart gave way to a pinch hitter, and the Bird knocked him for a marker in the closing session. Lawry and Jackson got home runs, the bases being unoccupied on both occasions.

TOMMY BURNS, of Detroit, who will box Young Stribling in Toronto. Burns was born in Winnipeg.

Trunks Hold First Outdoor Practice

The Grand Trunk baseball players had their first real, out door practice at the High School grounds last evening, and it proved to be a real interesting "get-together", during which many of the old kinks were ironed out of the players who have not been throwing the horsehide around since last October.

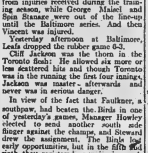

The practice consisted of lively work on fly balls and grounders for infielders and outfielders alike. Manager Walter Gerow and "Perrie" Mills are serving the boys with hot one-off the willow.

Harry Mills was at his old position at the initial sack, with Allan Meagher at the pivot. Johnny "Crock" Williams was an absentee, and "Abbie" Armstrong was covering the hot shot alley, with Vern "Pop" Weir gathering 'em up at the short field position. Cy Young, formerly with the Tiger Tyro nine in the Trent Valley league, was also doing duty about second sack. Jack White, the newcomer, of Toronto, was an absentee and Jack Osborne and Ivan Allen either. Keen was lobbing them over to "Big Perrie" for a time and to Stan Hagerman also.

In the outfield, Young, Alex Weir and Bob Miles were grabbing off the high flicks.

Manager Gerow went right after the boys last evening, and kept them on their pins until darkness intervened on their behalf. He served them up with plenty of hot shot and coolies of those high ones which are so hard to judge so early in the season.

Now that Spring has arrived, the boys will set right into harness until the season opens on May 21st.

ON THE ALLEYS

Last night at the Y Alleys the Rollers and Trappers engaged in their league fixture, the Trappers coming out with a win by 80 pins. The Trappers got the lead in the first string when they were up 166 pins but the Rollers cere right after them and won the next two games but were just shy 80 pins. Miss Geyer carried off the prize string for the ladies with 105 and Mrs. Bottum the three string with 462. For the men G. Gilbert was high with 257 and 606 respectively.

Domenico's Recreation Alleys

In the ladies' league at the Recreation Alleys last night the Ramblers won from the Debutantes, taking the three games by a safe margin. Miss Vera Bland was high three string bow with a total score of 351.

In the junior league the Spark Plugs are still winning, when they won from the Cyclists, this is the Spark Plugs 4th straight win and puts them at the top of the Junior league.

Although the Olympics or rather Olympics, as some call them, are second from the cellar position they have the honor of administering the first defeat to the senior league leaders, the Belleville Hardware. The Hardware boys have won everything before them in the Spring league until they hit the Olympics, and though the lady team didn't hit the 2000 mark they didn't exert themselves from the second game on after getting a lead of 170 pins in the first game. The Hardware fell badly in the 2nd game but in the second and third they settled down and won both games but not enough to overcome the lead the Olympics piled on them in the first. Amy Chouinard was high for the winners with 676, while Bill Alfreis was high for the Hardware. Players and scores:

PETES OPEN SATURDAY

Peterboro, April 29.—Peterboro baseball season will open with a bang on Saturday when Royal Canadians of Toronto will play the local Central Leaguers in an exhibition game at River side Park. Royals, who distinguished themselves last year in the Ontario Junior series, will give a royal start to the ball year, and the city fans are ready to go.

OSHAWA BUILDS MODERN STAND

Will Seat 1,500 Baseball Fans—Ample Press Accommodation Has Been Provided

Oshawa, April 29—By May 24th, the new grand stand built by the Parks Board, at Alexandra Park, will be ready for occupation and will provide seating accommodation for over 1,500 fans, who will no doubt throng the park on Victoria Day. The contractor, W. I. Holland, says that the stand would possibly handle a still larger number and with standing room would maybe reach 2000. The seats have not been numbered as this actual figures are not available.

Situated as it is, what might be called side line of first base the stand provides for 16 tiers about 4 feet from the ground, one of which, it is expected will be fitted for press purposes, and rising behind these are 15 tier of seats, the first being about 7 1-2 feet from the base, with a steady rise that will permit a full view of all play in the inner and outfield. Seven aisles with entrances to the stand in front of each and from the front of the stand will provide for the rapid filling and discharge of the crowd.

The structure is to be painted a stone color and will give an imposing appearance to the athletic park, as well as provide a long felt want.

Why it Pays to Insist Upon Gum-Dipped Cords

Tires look much alike before they go on your car. But tires do not wear alike. It is the things you cannot see—the hidden values—that determine tire life and ultimate cost.

You can make sure of obtaining a tire that wears better and so costs the least in the end by insisting upon Gum-Dipped Cords. Gum-dipping insulates each cord with pure, live rubber—prevents wear by keeping the cords from rubbing against one another.

Firestone Cords are gum-dipped. It is this Firestone process that multiplies mileage and considerably reduces tire costs in a single season.

Firestone Tubes are steam-welded — therefore leak-proof. This keeps tires properly inflated and better mileage results. Ask your dealer.

HOT BUNS

Get a nice plump city dude who has just thrown a fit and is ready to cry brush, cover with arrest, shake off all excuse, get a commitment (legal writ, brand preferred), and let boil 80 days in the county jail. It very tough, boil for a longer period.

PERFECTION PIE

Take two cattleman and liberal supply of campers. Have cattleman drive cattle to camp ground and salt. Have campers dog salmon way from salt and water. Mix with personal opinions and send separately with Irish temper to forest Officers.

FIRE PREVENTION PIE

Take a nice shady camp, a nice cold spring, a happy family, a camp fire permit, a careful smoker and mix with common sense, seasoned with respect for others, and serve them, boy, with every kindness possible.

Mrs. Mary DesRoche
Split Blood

Some of the results obtained by users of Carnol are almost beyond belief. Carnol, if taken according to directions, will relieve almost any case of a run-down nature. But, as disease develops slowly, it takes time to eradicate it. No wonder Mrs. DesRoche recommends Carnol after what it did for her:

"An attack of 'flu in the fall of 1918 left me in such a weakened condition that I could not walk across the kitchen. For nearly two months I spit blood and my neighbors, as well as myself, thought I was in the first stage of consumption. My weight, when I took sick, was 120 pounds, and I shrunk from that to 98 pounds. On the recommendation of my druggist, I began to take Carnol. Before finishing the first bottle I felt a marked improvement. I then took four bottles and my improvement was so marvellous that at the end of six months I weighed 130 pounds—the most I ever weighed in my life. I can safely recommend Carnol to anyone in a weakened and run-down condition, as being the best as well as the most palatable tonic on the market today. My little girl aged eight years took a cold in the head and chest. She was so bad she could scarcely breathe. I gave her Carnol in hot water and the next morning she was able to get out of bed for the first time in several days."—Mrs. Mary A. DesRoche, Summerside, P. E. I. 12-9

Carnol is sold by all good druggists everywhere.

FINDS OLD POTTERY

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Dr. J. Walter Fewkes, head of the Ethnology Bureau of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C., recently completed excavations on Weedon's Island, near here, where several hundred specimens made important discoveries of prehistoric pottery and pottery making.

The finds so far comprise ten bowls and vases of very ancient pottery. The pottery was discovered in an old Indian mound.

Photographs of the bowls and vases were sent to Washington, but the pottery was kept here at the request and for the benefit of visitors to Weedon's Island.

Dr. Fewkes is conducting the investigations, with the belief that other prehistoric wares will be uncovered in the vicinity.

It is one of the most important Pavilions of the Exhibition, too. In it, The Magnificent Ontario Government Exhibit will be housed. The Pavilion will boast the world's largest stage which will take the form of a tank of water on which the Admiralty will represent the famous sea battles of the Navy from the Spanish Armada to the Zeebrugge raid.

WOMEN MANAGING SKYSCRAPERS; THIS IS LATEST BUSINESS

Some Have Made Good Because of Womanly Qualities; Others solely on Account of Ability to Handle Business As Well As Men

Chicago.—Woman has made good in another profession, hitherto regarded as strictly masculine, according to the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, which lists ten women managers, owners and managers who are members of the organization.

Most women owners are managing skyscrapers in seven large American cities, they have made good because of their feminine characteristics of sympathy and motherhood, the national board believes, but in other cases success has been founded "solely upon being able to handle business as any business man would."

Buildings

In Chicago Miss Clara C. Cramer manages two buildings, at the City Hall Square building, which is 21 stories high, and the Garland building, which is only a little less tall and upon which additional stories are being built under the personal supervision of Miss Cramer.

Seattle is the home of Mrs. L. A. Ellis, owner of the Washington Improvement Company. The far western city has another feminine skyscraper boss in the person of Mrs. W. Brantley of the Yukon Investment Company.

Business Women

Miss Alma Nagel of Davenport is not only manager, but also secretary and treasurer of the Lane and Whitaker buildings and Miss Gladys M. Ellis of Kansas City is manager and secretary of an estate which gives her jurisdiction over the Finance and Curtis buildings. In Omaha Mrs. H. R. Nelson is another manager of an estate which includes the Brown building. In the same city Miss Helen M. Potter is a corporation secretary of the profession of building managers.

California has three women managing great office buildings. They are Mrs. M. L. Stone of Oakland, Hutchinson building; Miss Lilly E. Tufts, Physicians building, San Francisco, and Miss Elizabeth Bond, Whitney building, San Francisco.

BRIGHT PROGRAM AT BRIDGE STREET

Young People of Sunday School Present Comedy-Drama and Playlet—Offer Musical Program Also

Bright and interesting was the varied programme which was presented before a large audience in Bridge St. Church Sunday School hall last evening. Opening with a pretty ensemble chorus, "Up! Oh! Away!" which was well sung by twenty young girls, the remaining first part of the programme consisted of a sketch by Mr. Allan Kerr, a reading by Miss Helen Sulman, a vocal solo by Miss Jennie Vanderwoort and a solo by Mr. Al. F. Sulman, the latter which proved the real musical part of the programme are well known in this city, and their work last evening as always, pleased greatly.

Part two was a different kind of entertainment, being a one act play, "Mr. Pringle's Ward," in which Miss Ada Ketcheson, well known local elocutionist and Miss Greta Madden, favorite local amateur character actress presented a playlet unassisted. A delightful solo by Mrs. McKinnon was followed by a three act comedy, "Patsy" presented by nine young people which was also well presented. The cast for "Patsy" was as follows: Miss Lucretia Lane ..... Theo Reid
Mrs. Farrell ..... Helen Lattimer
Ruth Fielding ..... Alice Sulman
The Twins—Beatrice Edwards .....
..... Margaret Van Tassell
Phyllis Edwards ..... Violet Stevens
Other Girls ..... Gertrude Eagle
..... Muriel Moran
Hilda Williams (Insurance Agent)...
..... Edna Carlisy
Patricia Muldoon (Patsy) .....
..... Ada Ketcheson

TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS

A Letter from Mrs. Smith Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Trenton, Ont.—"I am writing to you in regard to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I would not be without it. I have taken it before each of my children were born and afterwards, and find it a great help. I was also in a terribly weak condition and shortness of breath and ringing in my ears, but I felt as if I would never pull through. One day a friend of my husband told him what the Vegetable Compound had done for his wife and advised him to take a bottle home for me. After the fourth bottle was a different woman. I have four children now, and always find the Vegetable Compound a great help as it seems to make confinement easier. I recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. PERCY H. SMITH, Main St., Trenton, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system, so that it may work in every respect effectually as nature intended. Thousands of women testify to this fact.

ANOTHER CHANCE

Written for The Peterboro Examiner by a Peterborough man in the County Jail.

Let the moralists talk about living,
And reformers preach of retcne;
Let them tell us the way don't get us,
With utterance fluent and strong.
But what chance has a man or a convict
To reform and straighten away,
While a jingling law, with malicious tongue,
Hounds him night and day?

There are many men who wonder
Why we drift back to crime;
It's because the way folk treat us
When they think we have once done time.
Now, there's not a man among us
Who would not care to advance
On the road that's straight and narrow
If we got a fighting chance.

So when the liberated convict
Dibs aiten to durance vile,
And he starts to reform and straighten
Let us help him all we can;
Remember we're all human,
All we ask is another chance.

—Lavergne Killesbeck.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Mrs. Martin went to the cupboard and drew a glass of ale and offered it to him: a sight thing enough; but it nearly broke Jack. He drank it with the lump in his throat inconveniently large, and she went with him to the gate, and held out her hand.

Jack took it, then he bent down and kissed her on the forehead, muttered "Good-bye", slung his knapsack on his back and strode off, as unhappy a wretch as any of us deserve to be, and that is saying a great deal.

CHAPTER XXIII

It was not a particularly bright evening at the Towers. Esther was silent and thoughtful and sat in a corner of the drawing-room with a book, which she looked at but did not read. It is always painful to make a fool of yourself, but it is doubly painful to feel conscious that you have done so. And Esther had more than a suspicion that in giving Selby Layton "a hope" she had committed the folly which is described as cutting off your nose to spite your face.

But Selby Layton was behaving admirably. By neither word nor look did he remind Esther of what had passed between them that morning; indeed, though he was as attentive as usual, he managed to infuse an additional respect into his manner which was intended to soothe Esther and set her doubts and fears at rest; and he partially succeeded, though Esther's words and manner when she spoke to him were full of that reserve which, without being coldness, is sufficient to keep a man at arm's length.

Mr. Selby Layton sang as sweetly as ever that evening, and seemed quite at his ease; but every now and then he glanced at the clock, and when, at a quarter to ten, Esther rose and said she was tired and was going to her room, he rose and opened the door with an alacrity of relief which only just concealed his relief.

"I think I shall smoke my cigar on the terrace, the night is so fine," he said, as he held her hand a moment with a slight pressure upon it, which she did not return.

"I think I should put an overcoat on, Mr. Layton," said Miss Worrester, "The nights are rather chilly, and I fancy you gentlemen often catch cold by going into the air out of a hot room in your evening dress."

"Thank you, Yes, it would be wise," he said. "Good-night and happy dreams," he murmured, looking up at them with a tender smile.

When they had gone, the tender smile fled, and was replaced by a look of anger which made his face haggard and worn.

But for that devil in human form I could count myself upon the brink of success to-night," he muttered. "Shall I draw back while there's time?"

He had asked himself the question a hundred times since his meeting with Harold; but, though perhaps a whispered "Yes!" ambition and greed urged him on as before. He was more he said to himself the question, he looked round the magnificent room, observed all it presented, and cast prudence aside.

"After all, he is only a question of price," he muttered. "If I can make it worth his while to hold his tongue, and he'll do anything for money. Yes, I'll risk it. Do—it! I can't go back now, even that I'm within sight of it all. There's too much at stake, the prize is too great. Success means Esther, my girl. By Heaven! she counts with me; she's worth all the rest put together. Yes, I'll risk it—I've got to!"

He went down the hall humming a song, and put on a light overcoat and a Panama hat.

"I'm going to stroll on the terrace, Palmer," he said. "Pray don't sit up for me if I'm tempted to be late, I can let myself in, and will not ring at the door properly."

"Very good, sir," said Palmer. "I've taken the quietstand into the billiard-room, sir."

"Ah, thank you, Palmer," said Selby Layton. "Yes, I think I will take a soda and whiskey. Perhaps a strong one; I can get it myself."

He took a glass of cognac neat, instead of the harmless soda and whiskey, and still humming, went through the open window on to the terrace. He walked up and down for a few minutes, then looking at the window to see that he was not observed, he went down the steps, and keeping within the shadow of the shrubbery as far as possible, struck into the woods.

Denzil was approaching the woods lists.

"I was Greatly Distressed With Pains in the Back"

Mr. Alfred McNeill, Chapel Rock, Alta., writes:

"During the winter of 1920-21, I was greatly distressed with pains in my back and felt tired and depressed most of the time. Particularly during the night I was troubled with frequent urination, some nights having to rise almost every hour. I tried several different treatments without success, until finally I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and they relieved my condition before I had finished the first box. I am feeling better this summer than I have for years, and although in my 67th year, can work all day without any undue fatigue."

WON'T LOSE BRIDE

Constable Handcuffs Her Wrist to His; will Thwart Jokers

Boston, April 29.—William Di Giuseppe, Somerville constable, and Miss Jeannette Di Vincenzi, of Medford, entered wedlock wearing a pair of handcuffs.

Attendants and friends were astonished when Di Giuseppe immediately after Rev. Thomas F. McCarthy had pronounced them man and wife, drew a pair of handcuffs from his pocket and shackled his bride's wrist to his own.

The constable later explained that some practical jokers among his friends had planned to kidnap his bride.

Windsor, April 22.—According to local building contractors, plasterers here are demanding that they be paid at the rate of $1¢ a day for an eight-hour day and five days a week. The agreement must be signed by May 1 or the union plasterers will refuse to work. So far no agreement has been signed.

Bricklayers have signed a scale agreement calling for $1.35 per hour. This is the peak received in the wage controversy so far as this district is concerned. As a result of the demands a number of buildings projected this year may be postponed indefinitely or abandoned entirely.

S. A. HYMAN & CO.
Belleville, Ont.

Ottawa, April 22—Without a hitch all the immigrants who came to Canada from the Hebrides Islands early this month have been shipped to farms in the Edmonton and Red Deer districts of Alberta, where employment has been found for them, according to a statement issued from the department of Immigration and Colonization by Hon. J. A. Robb today.

There were 238 in the party, and with the exception of four, who stayed in Ontario, all were distributed to places of employment the day after their arrival at the dispersal points in the west. Places were found for 150 at points in the Edmonton district and 199 in the Red Deer district.

A number of places were available on farms, where family accomodation was provided, with free use of house and some livestock, and offering wages of from $300 to $900 a year.

GAS AND EXPLOSIVE TURNED AGAINST TWO

Chicago, April 29—Stench bombs were used against the home of Herman Spinek by two unidentified men early today. Spinek is a wealthy dress manufacturer and the bombs were believed to be a demonstration of sympathizers in the garment workers' strike which is in progress. The seven members of the Spinek family were driven from the house by the fumes. Spinek's shop employs non-union labor.

The home of Rev. Elmer L. Williams, dry crusader, was partially wrecked by the explosion of a bomb early today. Williams said he was convinced enemies made by his dry activities were responsible.

PUBLISHERS WATCH RADIO TYPEWRITER

Handles 65 Per Minute in Test; Can Be Speeded up to 100 Words

New York, April 29.—Publishers and editors from all over the country attending the convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association here are today discussing with amazement the most modern method of news transmission without wires—the radio typewriter.

The first public demonstration of the device was made in a room at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, where, operated in daylight from a 60-foot reception aerial outside a window, it took words from the air at the rate of 65 a minute with an accuracy which W. G. H. Finch, one of the inventors, set at 99 1/2 percent.

Perfectly Written

The "story" from the air was sent by an operator in the experimental laboratory of the news service a mile and a half away, and it was delivered automatically and perfectly written on a typewriter.

It can be speeded up to transmit 100 words a minute, Electro radio receivers experimented three and one-half years before the device was made ready for commercial use.

Veteran newspapermen who witnessed the demonstration declared themselves astounded, and pointed out that the invention makes possible the transmission to any paper, no matter how remote, of daily news reports without the expense of telegraph wires.

HINTS FOR HAYMAKING

When to Cut, Tedd, Rake, Coil and Haul In.

Curing Sweet Clover—Harvesting Alfalfa—Handling Red Clover—Timothy Easiest to Cut—Rheumatic Hogs and Their Treatment.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

There is an old saying, "Make hay while the sun shines," with which Prof. Wade Toole of the O. A. C. heartily agrees; and fortunate is the farmer who gets assistance for the job. However, with hay to harvest, one cannot always wait for the weather. One of the essentials in the production of good hay is that it be cut at the proper time. It must have sufficient maturity to ensure curing quality, but over maturity means coarse, fibrous, low quality feed. Sweet clover should be cut in the late bud stage. Alfalfa is ready just as it begins to blossom, and the new shoots are starting at the base of the plants. Red clover is handled to best advantage when approximately one-third of the blossoms have turned brown, and timothy just after the second blossom falls.

Curing Sweet Clover.

In curing sweet clover two methods are followed. Perhaps cutting with the binder and stooking up like grain until the crop is dry saves leaves better and gives good results as can be obtained. Or the crop may be cut down and allowed to lie in the swath for about two days' sun, and then raked into small windrows. If the weather is dry, about three days in the windrow with an occasional tedding makes it ready to harvest. If the weather is rainy it is advisable to coil the crop as soon as it is raked up.

Harvesting Alfalfa.

Alfalfa is more easily cured than sweet clover. If the weather is fine it may be cut in the morning and raked in the afternoon of the following day. It must not be allowed to remain exposed to the dew too many nights of bleaching results. After raking, if the sun shines, one more day in the windrow generally makes good hay. If rain threatens coil it up immediately and let it make in the coil. In any event be sure it is dry when harvested, and be careful of the leaves in handling as they constitute the most valuable portion of the feed.

Handling Red Clover Hay.

Red clover is the common clover hay crop. Much of it is allowed to get over-ripe because it then cures more easily. It may be handled in the same manner as alfalfa; but, unless the crop is heavy it does not usually take quite as long to cure. The haylooder has changed methods to some extent. It is good practice to cut one day, tedd the following morning, and rake the next afternoon. If the crop is very heavy it may have to lay over an extra day. It is surprising how much faster hay will make after it has gone so far, when pulled or rolled into windrows. If it is to be coiled the work should be done soon after raking, and the hay should remain in the coils for a few days to sweat out. However, most of it is drawn out of the windrows and if dry makes good feed.

Timothy is Easiest to Cut.

Timothy is the easiest to cure. If crop and weather are right it may be cut one morning and hauled the next afternoon, and, in fair weather, is always ready by the third day. It is not necessary to coil timothy to cure.

No matter what the hay crop, cut in time, rake as soon as possible to hasten drying, tedd only when Green or damp and coil in dull weather. No doubt alfalfa and red clover may be made into the best hay by coiling, but in good weather this extra work is not necessary, and the labor thus hastens the harvest.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Rheumatic Hogs.

Rheumatism of swine may affect either the muscular tissue or the joints the muscular form being most common. Most authorities agree that several causes at least precedence to the disease. Exposure to weather is largely responsible for mucs of it. Infection also plays a very important part. The formation within the body of injurious chemical substances may be a cause. A combination of all these doubtless brings the disease.

The first evidence is pain shown by the animal when it moves. A suffering lameness is present. In bad cases food is refused and the hog lies down most of the time. Aside from the pain and lameness, the animal with a mild case, may show no symptoms. If the joints are affected, there usually is a slight fever. Attacks last from several days to two weeks.

Good quarters should be provided, dry with little variation in temperature. Laxatives should be given, and sodium salicylate in bran mop in doses of from half to one teaspoonful two or three times daily. If the animal recovers entirely from the attack, it might be best to market it.

Music & Drama

"MIGHTY LAK' A ROSE" IS STORY OF LIFE IN HIGH AND LOW PLACES

A gang of successful, desperate crooks tried to "steal the heart of a young girl" and, by innocent appearances, turn her into a crook and use her in their big schemes. But the girl, with nothing but her sweet ways and the music of her violin, turned the tables, made and remade the crooks they did not want to go. This, in brief, is the story that Edwin Carewe has turned into a powerful picture, "Mighty Lak' a Rose," that is coming to the Regent Theatre Thursday night.

In the cast are Dorothy Mackaill, Lionel Belmore, Helene Montrose, Ben Hardy, Anders Randolf, Paul Panzer, Harry Short and about a hundred others in crook and society characters. "Jean Bonte," Scotch collie, must not be forgotten because "Jean" has a very important part to play.

Director Carewe believes music plays a big part in this life and he saves, too, that it should play a large part. In the play he has gone into the underworld of crookdom to show good music, combined with a good soul, can be the most uplifter. He s and to have made a fascinating picture. "

"DADDY" IS HERALDED AS JACKIE'S FINEST

"Dally," which comes to the Griffin Theatre on Thursday is a picture that is said to complete the full revelation of Jackie's extraordinary genius. His preceding offering, "Oliver Twist," disclosed Jackie's genius in its tender, pathetic and wistful aspects. "Peck's Bad Boy" revealed Jackie mainly as an impish, mischievous, adorable lad; there was grotesque humor in "Trouble," wherein Jackie was a plumber's helper; but it remained for "Daddy" to bring to light Jackie's capacity for tragedy.

Jackie has been proclaimed by eminent critics as being one of the greatest actors of all time, regardless of age. "Daddy" will prove it, for in this First National picture Jackie is called upon to sound the lowest depths of tragic despair. It happens in but one scene. In the main the production is devoted to the merit that animates its endingshappiness.

"Daddy" was produced by Sol Lesser and directed by E. Mason Hopper from the original story by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cowgill. In the cast are Bert Woodruff, Anna Townsend, William Lewis, George Kuwa, Arthur Carewe and Josie Sedgwick.

Really Too Much

Some heartless wretch has suggested that Luther Burbank might be persuaded to cross a dachshund with a Shetland pony in order to develop a safe riding horse for the Prince of Wales.

TRIES TO END LIFE

Toronto, April 29—Frank C. Church, a returned soldier, aged 37, with two years' service in France to his credit, may die as the result of self-inflicted wounds.

Church, while waiting for treatment in the ear, nose and throat department of the fourth floor of the Christie Military Hospital, shot himself in the head with a 32 automatic. Dr. Campbell grasped the hand holding the revolver, with nothing but her own efforts saved him from further shots. One more shot was fired, the bullet entering his ear.

The weapon was a new one and was fully loaded. Church has been taken to the operating room and an effort will be made to save his life.

PLEASING NOBODY

(London Advertiser)

Mr. Ferguson said many times that he would have a policy that would please both sides. It is an open secret that his coming to power was regarded very favorably by the wets; they expected things to happen; they were pleased when the machinery was prepared for taking a vote.

But nothing more was done; for the time being the O.T.A. is left as it was as far as legislation is concerned. Is this supposed to please the prohibitionists?

WOMAN EVADES FAMILY TO END LIFE BY SUICIDE

Missing From Home But Ten Minutes—Found In Barn

ILL FOR SOME TIME

Body Found By Woman Assisting Her in Housework

Missing from her home but ten minutes late yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Eustatia Neff, 45, was found dead in the barn at the rear of her Redeerville home, she having hanged herself. A woman who had been assisting generally with housework, and who with other members of the family had been keeping a strict watch on the woman for some time, suddenly missed her, and though gone but ten minutes, her assistant found her dead in the barn. The late Mrs. Stafford has been ill for some time, and her illness had caused her to become demented. The body was found about 6 o'clock, and the Belleville Burial Company, this city were then notified.

The late Eustatia Stafford was the wife of Ralph Stafford, of Redeerville, having resided there for the past eighteen years. She was a daughter of Mr. Paul Leavens of Hillier, where she was born. She was a member of St. Alban's Anglican church at Ameliasburg.

A sorrowing husband and one young daughter, Eva Marie, survive, as well as her father, Paul Leavens, two sisters and three brothers.

The sisters are Mrs. George Hobbs of Wellington and Mrs. George Bell of Picton. The brothers are Stephen of Wellington, Harry of Weybourn, Sask., and Lyle of Hillier.

ARBITRATORS HEAR IMPORTANT CASE

Arbitration proceedings commenced in the Court House this morning, in a matter that has been pending for some time, and which has repeatedly been before the City Council.

The arbitrators are County Judge J. F. Wills, Col. S. S. Lazier and Mr. W. B. Hennessy, K.C., of Napanee.

Edward Kellway and George Kemp are the complainants in the matter and the Corporation of the City of Belleville, the defendants.

Property Suffers—Claim

In the year 1920 it is alleged that a quantity of dirt and other material was placed on Sanford street, a small street off West Bridge street near Coleman street. The complainants claim that by reason of the alleged obstruction their premises were damaged by water backing up and flooding. The contention of the city is that it was an act of Providence that caused the trouble namely the freshets which occurred in the spring of 1920, and that, therefore, the city was not responsible for damages.

A number of witnesses have been summoned to give evidence in the matter.

Major H. Porter is counsel for the complainants, whilst the city's interests are looked after by Mr. S. Masson, K.C., city solicitor and Mr. R. Cannon.

THIRTEEN CHILDREN ARE BAPTIZED

On Sunday, April 27th, at Centre Street Mission Sunday School in the afternoon, thirteen little ones were treated by Rev. Dr. F. E. Malott, pastor of Bridge Street Methodist Church, Belleville. An excellent service was held when suitable hymns were sung, being the Mission was crowded to the doors. The pulpit was nicely decorated with baskets and cut flowers and potted plants. The pastor, Mr. Elliott of Albert College, assisted and nearly all of the mothers of the children were present. Mr. Elliott addressed the scholars at one time in the same Sunday School.

BENWOOD PIT GIVES UP ITS DEAD VICTIMS

Rescuers Sped Their Search for 111 of Explosion Toll

GAS HELD TO BLAME

Slight Explosion Warned Officials Before Air Shaft Installed

Wheeling, W.Va., April 29.—Today the Benwood mine of the Wheeling Steel Corporation that claimed the lives of 111 miners gave up its dead.

108 Bodies Removed

One hundred and eight bodies, it was reported, had been brought to a short distance from the mine entry, but none was carried to the surface.

The erection of temporary brattices with wood, partitions and canvas to carry pure air down into the mine is progressing rapidly, and a circulation, it was announced, had been established well down the main entry.

President Scott Neal and his Wheeling Steel Corporation this morning issued the following statement.

"Our organization unquestionably came from gas. The Benwood mine is an old one and has never shown signs of being a gaseous mine till three months ago, when there was a slight explosion from that cause. We put in an air shaft at one as a protection to the workmen. The air shaft was completed and put in operation sixty days ago. We have no idea how the gas developed which caused the present explosion."

114 Went To Work

"There were only 114 men who went to work in the mine Monday morning. Until our rescue crews have traversed every section of the mine it will be impossible to give an estimate of the loss of life. We can only hope for the best."

The Red Cross is on the scene assisting in the relief work, while in Wheeling a fund for the relief of the families of the victims has been inaugurated.

The lines of weeping women had vanished this morning with the disappearance of hope of finding any of the men alive within the mine. In many a sad home loved ones waited for the bringing home of remains of those who were so suddenly snatched away.

The curious poured in from all sides. Long lines of parked automobiles stretched away along the roads, and throughout the morning hours preparations to take care of the dead.

Rescue Work Slow

Throughout last night rescuers push ed their investigations into the Stag Mine Chief R. M. Lambie and the Government rescue crews. Among the volunteers were many who had relatives in the mine.

Went to Its History

Throughout last night rescuers toiled from different directions and State Mine Chief R.M. Lambie and the Government rescue crews, determined to give evidence to the public, to complainants, whilst the city's interests are looked after by Mr. S. Masson, K.C., city solicitor and Mr. R. Cannon.

A.Y.P.A. ENJOY TRIP TO PICTON

Mr. Clark then spoke thanking the A. Y. P. A. of Picton, for their kind invitation and hoping that they would be able to go over again next year. At the conclusion of the programme one of Christ Church A. Y. P. A.'s dainty lunches was served after which dancing was indulged in. The evening, closed with "Auld Lang Syne" and singing "Old Long Syne, after which three cheers were given for Picton.

The finding of a body of an unknown man in the woods of Allumette Island, across from Chichester, Quebec, which resembles in many particulars the missing Ambrose J. Small, has taken a Toronto detective to the spot to investigate. The cross on the map above shows where the body was found well within the woods.

CHURCH UNION TAKES FIRST SYNOD ROUND

Hamilton and London meeting Moves For General Council

AFTER WARM DEBATE

Fight Hard to Have Resolution Laid Over for Year

Woodstock, April 30.—Following a heated debate at yesterday's session of the Presbyterian Synod of Hamilton and London, the church union forces succeeded in winning the first round of the fight between the Unionists and anti-Unionists in the Synod by the passage of a resolution authorizing the Moderator to appoint a committee to nominate 10 representatives and six alternates from the Synod to be General Council of the United Church of Canada, as requested by the General Assembly.

Amendment Beaten

Rev. Dr. Banks Nelson, Rev. Dr. Drummond and Rev. Mr. Budge, of Hamilton, were the chief opposition ists, and they fought strenuously to have the resolution laid over for an indefinite time. A compromise to this effect was defeated by a vote of 126 to 93, and the main issue was carried by a standing vote.

When Rev. Mr. Ferguson made his motion, Rev. Mr. Budge, of Hamilton took the platform and asked the Moderator to make a ruling as to what the resolution meant. He wanted to know if the adoption of the resolution meant that the Synod endorsed the views of the Union Committee arising out of the action of the Private Bill Committee of the Legislature. He asked if the whole question of church union was open for discussion.

The Moderator replied that the resolution was in compliance with a request from the General Assembly and representations had been made.

Rev. Banks Nelson of Hamilton, said he did not think the Moderator had answered the question, and that Mr. Budge had assumed that the motion was not on the general questions of the status of church union in Ontario.

"Another Will Fair"

He contended that the commissioners would be voting on it like ostriches with their heads in the sand. The resolution was based on the union bill being passed by the Legislature of Ontario without amendments.

He said it was absurd to appoint the council when the church union bill has been withdrawn from the Ontario Legislature, and that the union was a defiance of the Government of the province. He said Ontario could not have representation in the general council.

Motor Sessions Still Continue

Light testing and adjusting sessions still continue on the market square, Belleville, this week, and motorists avail themselves of the opportunity of having their car lights tested free of charge as they may comply with the Highway Traffic Act, may yet do so by driving their machine to the market square Monday or Tuesday evenings next week.

Last night another mobilization of motor cars might have been seen at the "testing grounds", many being motorists whose cars failed to pass the tests on their first visit. Several formerly defective cars were passed, but a number failed to be still unsatisfactory. Sixty-three cars passed the test last night.

WILL SETTLE BOUNDARY BY COMMISSION

Serious Trouble Near Over Irish Dispute, Despite Action

THOMAS TAKES STAND

Tells Commons of Plan to Seek Settlement; Civil Strife on Horizon

London, April 30.—Despite the opposition of Ulster, the Labor Government will attempt to settle the Ulster-Free State boundary dispute in accordance with the terms of the Anglo-Irish treaty, Colonial Secretary J. H. Thomas announced in the House of Commons yesterday.

Ulster claims that the Free State is seeking to detach territory from the province to extend the Free State boundary.

Secretary Thomas' announcement that the Government would carry out the treaty provisions was cheered by all parties except the Ulsterites.

Commission Shortly

It is expected that a commission will be appointed shortly composed of representatives of England, the Free State and Ulster. The British Government will be in a position then when it must attempt to force Ulster to recognize the validity of the commission. Serious consequences may follow.

Ulster, being an independent community, is represented in the English Parliament. The Irish Free State having autonomy, is not represented at London.

The sequel to such a move is likely to tax the statesmanship of the administration to the utmost unless some ground of agreement can be found, and of this there is said to be little hope in London, Dublin or Belfast.

Finds No Unity Basis

The Secretary for the Colonies, J. H. Thomas, had a long conference in his office yesterday with Premier Craig of Ulster and the Free State's High Commissioner, James McNeill, but in the hope of finding means of settlement, but nothing definite could be done immediately as everything at the moment points to the impossibility of the views of the Northern and Southern Governments.

It is understood the subject is being discussed at the Cabinet meeting, but Mr. Thomas is expected to make an early statement in the House of Commons.

Predict Civil War

Some of the correspondents in Dublin and some of the political commentators here present a gloomy outlook and unhesitatingly predict civil war in Ireland if Ulster refuses to join forces towards to the Free State those northern areas where the Irish Nationalists are in the majority.

On the other hand, they say, if the commission is not established, does not give the Free State what it demands, there will be immediate and strong pressure for the southern area for dissolution of the Anglo-Irish treaty and the complete severance of the Free State from Great Britain.

TORONTO GAME IS RAINED, OUT

The game scheduled to be played in Toronto between the Leafs and Newark has been postponed on account of rain. Advance sale of remaining tickets were all sold out within ten minutes after they were placed on sale this morning, and will be good for tomorrow's game, which will be the official opening of the International League baseball season in Canada.

A second crowd is expected for the game which was to have been the first to be played, in addition to the regular opening exercises.

HAS LEFT BOTH HIS RIVALS FAR BEHIND ALREADY

French Airman Defeated Both U.S. and British Planes

A WORLD'S RECORD

Has Covered 4,333 Miles in 37 Hours' Time— Greatest Feat

Paris, April 30.—France is jubilant over the brilliant flying stunt of Lieut. Dieudonne d'Oisy, who already has outflown both the British and American round-the-world flyers, having left Paris but a week ago.

After fighting terrible storms in the Persian gulf and experiencing untold difficulties in piloting his big Breguet plane over the Mesopotamian deserts, the gallant French airman has arrived at Bendar Abbas, on the Persian Gulf. He is only a hundred miles from Major MacLaren, British round-the-world flyer, whose plane is damaged and down in the Sind desert.

Le Journal computes that d'Oisy has flown 4,333 miles in 37 hours' flying time.

A movement has been started to finance continuation of his flight around the world if he reaches Tokio successfully.

A Great Feat

French air experts are hailing d'Oisy's flight as in many respects the greatest feat in the history of aviation. He acts as his own navigator, flying uncharted territories, while his mechanic, Emile, sleeps in the fuselage. When d'Oisy halts in the night-time, he sleeps, and the mechanic overhauls the motor and inspects the plane.

Lieut. d'Oisy has had a remarkable career. He started flying at the age of 16. He was one of the first to enlist from 1914 throughout the war, and was an "ace", having shot down more than five Germans.

Paris newspapers print comparative time tables showing the Americans have averaged 127 kilometers a day (79 miles), the British 223 and d'Oisy 1,395.

Off Again, Going

Paris, April 30.—Lieut. Pelletier d'Oisy, ignoring fatigue, flew on today from Bender Abbas on the Persian gulf, towards Karachi, his next stopping place on the way to Japan.

THREE THOUSAND MILES ON FOOT

Hopes to Be in Los Angeles In Three Months and a Half From the Date He Set Out

From Montreal to Los Angeles on foot, is the merry little jaunt on which Edward Payson Weston, well known in city today, is engaged. He left Montreal, his home town, on Monday last and has since been making between thirty and forty miles a day, with the exception of Tuesday last when it rained all day and he was forced to rest up. He is a man of sturdy little attire, soft shirt, khaki trousers, cap and high boots, and carries on his back a kit with a blanket and other necessaries, and a water flask. He wears heavy woollen socks which he changes after each day's walk and recommended the hospitality extended to him in the Queen Quality.

The invitation to Mayor Hillis from Mayor Mikel to attend the celebration was delivered past a few minutes before he left Toronto for Washington, on business, and Mayor Hillis stated that his thanks be conveyed to Mayor Mikel, and stated that he would certainly be in attendance.

Today Cadet Dempsey is the guest of the city council and several of the aldermen are taking him on a tour of the city. At the luncheon in the City Hall today, Cadet Dempsey was called upon to make a few remarks and his hearers were impressed with knowledge of Old Canada shown in his brief address.

From present indications and the interest being taken in Toronto, a large delegation is coming here.

TORONTO COUNCIL HOST TO COURIER

2,500 ASK SUPPORT OF UNION BILL

Resolution Expressing Request of Local Methodists Sent to Ottawa Asking Support of Private Bills Committee be Given to Union Bill—Result of 20 Years Effort

The Methodists of Belleville, 3,500 strong, have definitely gone on record as favoring Church Union and a resolution to that effect has been sent to the Chairman of the Private Bills Committee, House of Commons, Ottawa.

In declaring that the Union is the legal culmination of twenty years of effort, and repeated votes in its favour, the local members of the Methodist Church ask that the Committee give its unstinted support to the below Bill, now before the house.

The resolution, which follows, gives a comprehensive outline of the stand taken by the local Methodists.

The Chairman of the Private Bills Committee,
House of Commons,
Ottawa, Ont.

Representing 2,500 Methodists of the City of Belleville, we appeal to you and you committee not to interfere with the Church Union which has been legally brought about between the Presbyterian Methodist and Congregational Churches in Canada, after twenty years' consideration and speaks votes in its favour, and request you as request the Union Bill which has generously provided for any who do not wish to enter the United Church of Canada, and amply protects their property rights, and we ask that you defend and guard the freedom of our citizens in their choice of religious interest as has been guaranteed to them during many years, and we remain,

F. E. Malott, B.A.D.D.,
Pastor, of Bridge St. Methodist Church.
F. E. O'Flynn, Secretary.

THE SPOILERS

The following statement by Frank J. D. Barnjum, of Montreal, has a tinge of reality that will likely prove interesting. Mr. Barnjum is one of Canada's real philanthropists, and is heart and soul a Canadian. The wanton destruction of our natural beauty, and despoiling of our forests by foreign interests, is reaching a serious stage, and Mr. Barnjum is ready to fight, as he stated, to the last trench.

"If the Government has any idea that it can any longer fool the Canadian people with the suggestion that it is waiting to receive the report of the Royal Commission on Pulpwood before taking action on the embargo (which is exactly what the Prime Minister solemnly assured me before witnesses that he would not do), I shall be forced to give the Canadian people the full story of the Pulpwood Commission which I now have before me from its opening in Halifax to its closing scenes in New York City (with the exception of hearings which were held in secret), and if any Government was ever responsible for a more monumental farce, it has never been brought to my attention.

It was entirely unnecessary and a great waste of the people's money for the Government to appoint a highly paid Commission to tour Canada from coast to coast for the purpose of obtaining and recording the opinion of the 250 American pulpwood dealers as to whether they thought an embargo would be a good thing for their business and to get their "opinion" as to the extent of Canada's wood supply. These gentlemen would have been only too pleased to have had the opportunity of journeying to Ottawa in order to give their important (?) opinion at their own expense rather than at the expense of the Canadian people who are now forced to pay for this costly farce. The same principle applies to the New York exhibition of these meanderings to interview American paper manufacturers as to whether they would favor an embargo would be to their immediate or not. Such questions as would have been only too happy to have had the opportunity of visiting our Capital in order to impart this very interesting and important information to our law and treaty makers, though the announcement of the New York trip was, by some oversight, not advertised in the Canadian newspapers, and possibly a reversal of these proceedings might have attracted unfavorable comment in Canada.

It is passing strange that with all the money, time and energy that was expended and all the legal talent that was employed by these American friends of our Canadian Government that out of a population of more than eight million people, it was only possible for them to marshal a total of about 275 opponents to the embargo to appear at all of these hearings combined, which hearings extended from the Atlantic to the Pacific, 249 of which were actual pulpwood dealers or exporters. This fact certainly very much more than bears out my frequently repeated statements that not 2 per cent. of Canada's population would favour the exporting of our unmanufactured wood to the United States."

ADDRESS MAIL CORRECTLY

When we mail a letter we take for granted that it will reach its destination safely and expeditiously. Under normal conditions it will. But the number of carelessly addressed and insufficiently prepaid letters is growing. So much so that postmasters of the Dominion, have been compelled to issue an appeal requesting greater care in addressing all mail matter. Every citizen of Belleville should be glad indeed to co-operate with the postmaster in eliminating as far as possible this costly evil. The great saving of time, labor and money will be well worth the extra effort.

ABOUT POOR HAND-WRITING

A student at a Quebec university has just been awarded a prize of $35,000 in a contest open to the world for hand writing. The judges met in Paris a week ago and awarded the first prize to the young Canadian.

The fact that this prize has come to Canada should certainly stimulate interest in one of the famous old "three R's", remarks the North Bay Nugget. It will be generally admitted that the schools of Canada have not been paying as much attention, in recent years, to hand writing as they should. Perhaps the general use of the typewriter is the reason but it is more likely due to the fact that the modern school program is so full of fancy frills in education that the teachers have not the time to coach the students in the solid old educational foundation that the older generation was given.

The writing of the average high school graduate of Ontario to-day is a disgrace. This applies more particularly to the young men for a great many of the young women have a sense of neatness that compels attention to their writing.

The elimination of a lot of these fancy frills that adorn the modern school course and a bit more attention to writing, spelling and punctuation would better equip the students to fight life's battles in later years. But when you find a school teacher using "&" for "and"—well what can you expect?

EDITORIAL NOTES

Last call for income tax.

No wonder that building operations are being postponed in Windsor, with plasterers demanding $14 a day of eight hours.

H. M. Marler, the Montreal Liberal M.P., will find considerable difficulty in swearing by the King Government and swearing at it at the same time.

The chief effect of that torrent of Church Union petitions, for and against, which has been pouring in to parliament, is likely to be bewilderment.

Probably the Ontario License Board will be surprised at the large number of druggists who do not want permits to sell liquor and will not apply for them.

In spite of Wilhelm's yea and nay, the world has said and still will say that both the Wilhelms ran away because they were too scared to stay.

The Manchester Guardian alludes to the agricultural implement industry of Canada as "a well-nursed industry." On this side of the ocean, however, a tariff of ten per cent. is generally regarded as very much too high.

The American-born Speaker of the Alberta Legislature may omit the customary prayers for the King and royal family, but he cannot prevent the members praying for the head of the empire on their own account if they want to.

The policy of the Irish "Constitutional Republican" party, which is sapping the strength of the Free State Government, is to repudiate the treaty to which the Free State owes its existence. That would tend to bring discredit upon the respectable army "constitutional".

PRESS OPINIONS

RUSSIANIZING CANADA

(Guelph Mercury).

There has been formed in Toronto a committee, openly and indifferently to the Canadian sentiment that's satisfied to conform to the accepted traditions of the period. What may be the future of the organization is problematic to the law of the depend largely upon the members and land, for laws must be respected, whether they are liked or not.

UNDULY SYMPATHETIC

(Hamilton Herald)

Undoubtedly there are many people who object to the use of the lash except upon persons convicted of brutal crimes. In theory they would like it themselves. Being kindly and sympathetic they shrink at the thought of anybody else being made to suffer the pain which even to imagine is painful to them. But it would not be safe to entrust to such kindly souls the protection of society against criminals. If it can be demonstrated that the lash is a real deterrent to crime, the use of it is justifiable.

BIG BUSINESS

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

Nobody seems to know how much Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux left at his death. The estimates run from $100,000.000 to $1,000,000.00. As what he was worth to Germany there is as little certainty. As to whether or not he was the designer of the country's first commercial beneficiary there is difference of opinion. As for himself he seems to have thought chiefly of big business deals and politics. Neither of these children are interested only in business and one expression of philanthropy. "Art and theatre are as distasteful to them as they are to me," and he was frank enough to admit that so far himself, he worshipped at the altar of the business. It is a pity of him that he rose to power amid the ruins of his country. As to who they or not he was affected by the plight of his country in ruins there is no evidence.

PAYING FOR SUBNORMALS

(Vancouver Sun)

Sixteen-year-old boy came before the Toronto police court the other week on a charge of housebreaking. During the course of the trial it developed that the boy's father is an ex-convict and subnormal in intellect.

One brother is now serving a term in the penitentiary and two other are dead and dumb.

The five people are probably costing the Dominion of Canada upwards of one a year in less through their housebreaking out of their trials and their keep.

And all the same, healthy people of Canada are paying the bill, incurred because it was thought the kind and gentle delicient father was permitted to reproduce his kind.

The burden of inefficiency that efficient citizens are compelled to bear, impairs their maximum usefulness by probably 75 per cent.

BERLIN BIDDING TO BE AIRDROME BASE

Arco Lloyd and Junckers Shareholders; Parade Grounds Selected

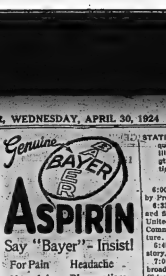

Berlin.—Berlin is making strenuous efforts to become the seat of the largest airdrome of Germany.

On May 1 an airplane company will be founded by the city of Berlin, with a capital of 2,000,000 gold marks. Two well-known German firms, the "Aero Lloyd" and the "Junkers" will be shareholders of the new company.

The two-thousand Berlin parade-grounds on the "Tempelhofer Fields" will be cut up and two large hangars erected from the business centre, save those reserved for the military. Each will be about 1000 square metres in area.

The present scheme provides for provisory building only, concrete buildings to be erected when money conditions will have improved. Apart from airplane sheds, workshops and other requirements of an airdrome, a restaurant-office as well as family houses for the employees of the company. There will be a wireless station, with all the requirements of a modern radio outfit. Plans of the largest hangars are already laid on the grounds. "Navigation" on night flights between Berlin and larger cities within a distance of about 150 kilometres, will be facilitated by enormous searchlights installed on the airdromes.

OVERHAULED SET

BETTER FOR DX.

J. L. Ritchie, writing in the Radio Age says: "A radio set, like any other instrument, needs a little dusting and cleaning and general overhauling now and then to keep it in perfect condition. Dust causes poor contact, inefficiency, and in time impairs the efficiency of the set. Contacts get dirty, nuts get loose, wires sag and cause poor other wires, and the difference from day to day is so slight it is not noticeable. The user ordinarily doesn't know even that his set is not working as well as it might. Your set may be working all right now, but it will work even better after a little cleaning. Here is how I overhauled my own set:

I started with the variometer. The type I use has sliding contacts. The contacts looked clean enough as they were, but after giving them a little extra cleaning I found many scratching noises eliminated.

The Fresh Wire

The variocoupler had pigtail connections between the stator and the rotor. The pigtails were of litzendraht wire, and I found that some of the strands of the litz had broken. I replaced them with fresh wire.

The rheostat seemed O.K. but I made sure by wiggling the end of the contact arm and passing a stiff brush over the wires.

The socket was next in line. I brightened up the prongs and bent them up a little to ensure their spring tightness. The prongs of the tube were also well cleaned. After that the jack was given a rubdown with emery paper and the plug also made bright and shining.

Real Work

Then the real work began. I took wires out of binding posts, scraped them with sandpaper, and then I found points where the flux I had used had paste corroded the wires; new wires were substituted and new joints made. In the place a wire was sagging, I straightened it out. The loose end of a brett was torn. I replaced it. I went over every wire, every contact, every screw and nut. A soft brush was used to clean the variocoupler and the variometer coils to remove the dust between the wires without scraping off the enamel insulation.

Finally I took a damp rag and wiped off the front of the panel, inside and out, that I could reach. Where the panel was stained a moist thin solution of hair brush was used.

And the results? Well, I thought I had a good set before I overhauled it; but it's a far better one, better now. Try it and find out for yourself.

EUROPE COMING BACK

(Wall Street Journal)

As regards Europe there is not a shadow of doubt that it is on the threshold of a great revival. Signs are not wanting of the turning point. Austria, apparently the most hopeless case, has been placed on her feet, again. The economic demoralization of sing.

Germany has been arrested. France has called a halt on her unwise loan policy (especially Italy) surprising the world by the masterly management of her finances. Not even Great Britain's own Government in England can affect the vitality of her time honoured institutions.

His Second Wrest

PENNIES WEIGH 57 POUNDS

Ottawa, April 30—At Monday night's service in St. George's church, the rector, Rev. C. B. de Pencier, in announcing the returns of the children's mite boxes, which are annually given out during Lent and returnable at Easter, stated that the pennies given by the children amounted to $10.35, and the total weight was 57 pounds. It was necessary, the rector said, to engage a taxi to carry the coin away from the church.

HEARTY LAUGHS BEAT MEDICINE

Rotary Minstrels Promise to Be Event of Year in Local Theatricals

"Don't Worry, "Says the doctor—just like that.

"Cut out the worry, and there will be less need for medicine.

Surest thing you know, old fawbones but while it is easy to say "don't worry," it is the hardest thing in the world to carry out that suggestion.

Did you ever lay awake at nights when your mind persistently clung to petty worries and would not be diverted.

Did you ever sit in church when the sermon did not particularly appeal to you and found your mental machinery grinding up the worries of yesterday, today and to-morrow.

I'll say you did because we are all human and subject to such failings—but here's a surefire remedy coming, not a fifty-fifty affair either, but two joyous nights of mirth and melody. Laughs, a whole bunch of them, strung together, guaranteed to burn out the worst case of hang-over winter blues —the second annual Rotary Minstrels.

Next Monday and Tuesday evenings Griffin's Theatre will have the happiest, merriest bunch of entertainers and entertained which ever filled that storied edifice, and the laughs will be coined into money for the cure and cure of the balance of that fifteen hundred children which Rotary has had medically examined and read for treatment when finances permit. Four crippled kiddies have already been made happy by Belleville Rotary and can play with the other kids now.

Coal bin funmakers this season will include Charlie Jordan, Monty Shaw, George Dulmage, Albert Wheeler, Bert Bell, Eddie Gregg, Howard Clarke and Leon Walmsley, and they have a whole bunch of new tricks which will make Al Jolson green with envy. Charlie Dulan's song, "Sometimes, Not Always," is a scream and promises to make a big hit with that set of "Old King Tut" fans.

A magnificent male chorus of fifty voices will contribute the most notable of the new song hits, while quartettes and octettes and solos will add variety and space to the program.

Dr. Bernard will sing "Pal of Mine", Freddie Burke, "Bells of the Sea"; Al. Sullivan, "Sweetheart in the Sunshine with you"; Jim Bankier will be heard in a new song, and the Quinte Quartette Messrs. Haffner, Stillman, Burke and Moorman, will be heard in delightful harmonies. Sandy Burrows will sing the Heidelberg song, assisted by an octette of male voices, and other musical numbers will make up a program of melody and mirth that Belleville before.

In the second part the olio will contain some big surprises in the entertainment line, even exceeding in interest the vaudeville stunts of last year which made such tremendous hits.

Rotarian again has Fred LaLonde taken the Rotary minstrels in hand and Paul confidently expects to far exceed the success of last season, which he says was just a try-out, this being the real show as he now knows the capacity of the individual performers. Paul was for many years musical director of the famous Al. G. Fields Minstrels, and knows whereof he speaks—so don't forget that the plan opens Saturday morning at ten and those who neglect to secure early and register will have to listen to the neighbours telling about the big show and the fun they had in Rotary Minstrels for there will not be a seat left, in all probability, Saturday night. Last year every seat was taken for both performances and many were turned away disappointed.

RE-STOCK PIGEON RIVER WITH FISH

Peterboro(April 30.—An employee of the Government fish hatchery has been busily engaged for the past week in Dunrose collecting maskinonge spawn which will be sent out to the fish hatcheries.

An item of news which will be of much interest to sportsmen of this district is the fact that Mr. R. J. Patterson, M.P.P., has been instrumental in putting 20,000 pickerel which will be placed in the Pigeon River. Two years ago Mr. F. C. Sandy, ex-M.P.P., had 20,000 black bass placed in the pond, so that in about five year from now the already far famed Pigeon River fishing grounds should be "bigger and better than ever."

DAWN OF NEW RADIO COMMUNICATION NEAR

Washington, April 30.—The dawn of a new era in radio and cable communication was heralded by General C. Squier, former chief signal officer of the army, at the annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences here.

The signal corps of the army, he said, had produced a universal automatic telegraph transmitter, applicable to radio land lines and submarine cables which will give clearer, more and accuracy unthought of at present. The invention will be used in the Seattle-Alaska cable to Ketchikan and a radio vacuum tube is used which accepts all radio will be adapted and signals and permits of multiplex operation.

All of the basic engineering principles by several stages the cable applied to the sub-audio band of frequencies.

CALLS FORD'S OFFER SOUTH HAMSTRINGING

Washington, April 30.—Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals should be known as a "bill for the industrial and agricultural hamstringing of the south," Clifford Pinchot, Governor of Pennsylvania and a nationally prominent conservationist, to-day told the Senate agriculture committee when he appeared to oppose the Ford bill.

Port Hope Flooded With "Chain Letters"

The following is the Port Hope attitude on the chain letter that have found their way into the community.

"Port Hope is suffering from a deluge of chain letters. There is a new angle to this pernicious system, and that is that someone has got the children going into the sort of thing. Last night the Times was shown a letter which was sent to the daughter of the receiver. It had been in her post office box marked insufficient postage, and one can imagine what he felt when he found he had to pay-two cents for trash of this kind. This is one of the most insidious kind of campaigns that has ever been started, and something must be done to cuts it. It is becoming too daring altogether when young girls are getting roped in. Here is the letter:—April 23, 1924. Oh, Lord, be merciful to us. Let Thy heavenly eyes shine upon us. Let Thy blessings be among nations, and men. This prayer was sent in Jesus' time and who fails to send it will meet with a great misfortune. Copy this and send it to ten friends in ten days. Then see what happens. Send no money but send it to ten friends in ten days. Then see what happens. Send no money but only date you received this."

In this the sort of things that the young people of this Province have to be protected and Terrorism them into sending letters of this kind. Just look at this sentence, "who fails to send it will meet with great misfortune". That sort of thing is a dangerous system if propounds that will have a most damaging effect to the young minds of Province. Can you imagine the looking forward to the eleventh day, the "day of great joy"? And if the joy does not come what sort of thoughts are conjured in the young mind. If the parents of children will take the stand that letters of this kind find their way into the fire, the only proper place for them, then they have done their duty. No parent who has any thought for their children will allow them to be culpable and threatened into sending letters of this kind to their friends.

But it is not only the children. In fact night's mail a prominent member of the Masonic Order in town had a similar communication in his mail. The difference was that the sender gave his name and also a list of three to whom he had sent the chain letter the recipient states that he is getting them all the time. Asked what he does with them, he said he puts them in the waste paper basket. The chain letter is the most insidious system of this nature that has been seen any great misfortune come to him yet.

If the parties who get communications like this will adopt the attitude of throwing them in the waste basket then the practice will cease, and the sender the better.

CANE FOR CALVERT

Montreal, April 30.—Captain A. B. Calvert was today presented with a gold-headed cane as a souvenir of the fact that his ship, the Corsiliman, was the first ocean steamer up the St. Lawrence this season.

The cane is given every year by the harbor commissioners. Captain Calvert won it in 1922.

Deaths and Funerals

EDITH O. HAMPTON

After being ill for some time Miss Edith Olivia Hampton passed away last evening at the residence of her brother-in-law, Mr. T. E. Ketcheson, 225 Bridge street east. Deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. Thomas Hampton and was born in 1863. Practically all her life had been spent in this locality where she was well known and had many friends. She was a member of Emmanuel Reformed Church. One brother Harry, of Welwood, and a sister, Mrs. T. E. Ketcheson of this city survives.

DEFY RAILWAY MEN

Wellington, N.Z., April 30.—The Government has taken the stand in connection with the railway men's strike that it will not submit to the men's demands and that as the union has department from the line of negotiation and has adopted the strike method, the Government cannot agree to discuss their demands unless the men first resume their work on the railways.

THREE LOOT STORE

New York, April 30.—While Broadway at 50th Street, was filled with work going pedestrians early today, three hold-up men stole between $10,000 and $12,000 worth of jewels from a store window and escaped into the crowd, brediless of a fusillade of shots fired at them by three clerks of the store.

The bandits entered the store and bound and gagged Seymour Selig, a member of the firm of M. Selig & Sons, who was behind the counter, and gathered up jewels which were in the display window. They did not take the time to bind three clerks who were also behind the counter.

Cutter Bear for Discard; Stirring Days Recalled Of Former British Vessel

Seattle, Wash., April 30.—The coast guard Bear, soon to start for Arctic watery on her thirty-eight annual voyage to the Far North, is slated for the discard, according to plans in Congress for an appropriating of $325,000 to replace the wooden Bear with a new steel vessel.

Yet men of the coast guard are somewhat skeptical when the retirement of the Bear is mentioned. They recall that she has made a "last" in the nearly half a century she has been taking the northern cruise, she had rescued scores of lives and has been for hundreds of residents of those remote shores the only connecting link with civilization.

The vessel was built in Greenock, Scotland, in 1874, for the British Government. The United States purchased her along with the Thetis, both steamers, in the early 80s, and they were turned over to the coast guard service. Since 1886 the Bear has been making annual cruises into the Arctic.

In the north the Bear is known as the "Good Samaritan." One of her many notable rescues was that of the crew of the whaler James Allen in Segaun Pass in 1894. The pass is off the Aleutian Islands. Captain F. G. Dodge, now commanding the coast guard district for the entire North Pacific, was master of the Bear at that time. When the entire reached the few surviving members of the whaler's crew, the castaways, in their starvation, had eaten one of their number. The Bear Baby nominal of Captain Winfield Scott Schley, rescued the exploring expedition led by Major-General A. W. Greely which had reached the farthest north point discovered at that time.

DECLARES SHORT BED TERRIBLE INSTITUTION

Colorado Springs, Colo., April 30.—Fendor Challapin, Russian opera star, finally found a bolel bed in which he could sleep comfortably, he announced here with a chuckle, while resting after his tour with the Chicago Grand Opera Company.

With only a few words of English at his command, Challapin launched into fiery Russian to pay his respects to the Pullman car bed, so short that, he says, he has to sleep twisted like a pretzel.

The research of song declared that the American bed is a terrible institution and that in its present size it should be barred by law. Challapin is six feet four inches tall.

AIRD DESIGN WINS

Montreal, April 26.—Announcement was made at the annual meeting of the Montreal Canadian Club here that the work for the cenotaph to be erected on Dominion Square had been unanimously made to the designs submitted by J. A. Aird, chief draftsman for a firm of local architects. Twenty-one designs were sent in.

Arrangements were at once made with Mr. Aird to have work started on his design without delay so that the cenotaph may be ready and in place in this city for the Armistice Day ceremonies on November 11 next.

REINDEER PROTECT YOUTHS FROM BEAR

Boys Rush For Shelter In Far North Region, and Thwart Pursuer

Anchorage Alaska, April 30.—Evidence of reciprocal protection between men and animals came to light at Cantwell, where big reindeer herds are ranging under the supervision of the United States Biological Survey and Eskimo herders.

Several Eskimo boys had been standing guard over a herd to ward off wolves and other predatory animals.

The boys were sitting idly while the herd grazed when a monster brown bear, followed closely by her yearling cub, rushed out of the woods. The boys saw no refuge and to outrun the bear was impossible. Sensing the only means of escape, they headed straight for the herd, with the motor bear in close pursuit.

Deer Scent Danger

The grinders, which ordinarily would have taken the running approach of the Eskimos as a signal to move forward, scented the danger. Instead of fleeing, they turned as if by some primitive command, and the big bucks rushed forward to meet the boys and the bears.

At the same instant the does called the fawns to their sides and huddled together. The Eskimos shouldered their way into the middle of the herd, watching the elemental maneuvers of bear and reindeer.

The monarchs of the herd stood with antlers pointed forward and the bear swerved, milling up and down as if looking for an opening. The bucks turned with the motions of the bear, their sharp antlers forming a barrier of bayonets.

Finally realizing it was impossible to snatch a fawn or an Eskimo, the great bear and her cub retreated. The herd relaxed, and the Eskimo boys emerged to resume their vigil.

GRAND TRUNKS ARE MAKING READY

Practice at Armouries Last Night — New Uniforms Ordered—Arranging for Exhibition Games

Last night at the armouries, the Grand Trunks held a practice. Both Jack Collette and Hugh Kean were tossing the ball around to the pair of receivers who will be in behind throughout the season, "Pennie" Mills and Stan Hagerman.

In the meantime exhibition games are being arranged before the season opens, and if the weather is clear tonight, an outdoor practice will be held at the high school grounds.

The Trunks will appear in the opening game this year in new uniforms, which will be a light fawn in color, almost a cream color. They will not have the military color, but collars "A is big league". On the front of the shirt BELLEVILLE will be plainly seen, and the C. N. R. crest will be on the arms.

ON THE ALLEYS

Just 4 points separated the scores of the Olympics and the Sunlights in their league fixture last night at the Association Alleys. The teams won alternate games but when those were totaled up the Sunlight had the necessary winning margin. Mrs. Coyer obtained the best Ladies score and C. Mott land the men with his 325.

The Mah Jongs winning streak was broken by the Belmonts at the Recreation alleys last night when these two teams met in a league fixture. It was an exciting game all the way through. The Belmonts were leading by 9 pins at the end of the second game. It was anyone's game until the last frame, the Belmonts putting in the added punch and winning out by 67 pins. Miss Vera Gorman was high scorer, starting with 544. For the Mah Jongs Miss Whalen was high.

It took the Natural Head to make a new league game record in the junior league when they rolled them for a total score of 2901, rolling over 1000 in the first game. The Steel Monkeys rolled a very good game, enough to win almost any junior game, but they hit the Natural Head at the wrong night. Rode and Hall were the leading bowlers, with 649 and 628 respectively. Players and scores:

Juniors "Flock" To Outdoor Practice

Robert Colling's junior baseballers were out in practice at the High school grounds last evening, and their work created a very favourable impression on the ever watchful fans.

There are two boys working their heads off for each position and three for some positions. Three burhers, one of whom is a juvenile sonia pow pow working out, and altogether twenty-five boys have signed the dotted line to play for the juniors.

Manager Walter Gerow was out with the boys last evening and is interested in them. He is reporter to be intensely interested in one or two of them, which only goes to show that so early in the season, the attention of baseballdom has been directed towards players who might never have existed had junior organized baseball not made their existence as ball tossers possible.

"The hard proposition now will be to pick the player for the position," exclaimed President Colling of the newly formed league this morning. "But do n-t worry, the best player will get the position," he exclaimed reassuringly.

After infielders have been selected, the three "Princes of swat" will be chosen for the out post positions.

Tickets which are being sold about the city for the season's junior games, are selling rapidly, and every indication is to be demonstrated of the baseball public's interest in the project.

President Colling is also determined to keep the team ASSOCIATED-LUTELY amateur in every respect.

THE COACH'S JOB

Something of the taskmaster, the general and the diplomat, and a bit of the doctor must be hidden away in the man who would be the coach of a successful football or track team.

Every species of all kinds are his daily routine. A thorough knowledge of first aid is as essential as a knowledge of the fine points of the game.

Bumps, bruises, strained ligaments and muscles are every day happenings but the coach never becomes contemptuous of them. He knows that if neglected, they may result in anything.

Trainers always have long chamber pc, in their lockers. They use it not only for sprains, cuts and bruises, but for the skin and blood protection of its disinfecting properties. In one convenient container it combines the functions of a number of organizations.

It is the first of all the First Aid requisites in use in all of the leading athletic clubs.

And there are just as many everyday uses for Absorbine Jr. in the homes of Canada as there are in the training camps. Always keep it in the home where you can "lay your h'd" in case of emergency. $1.25 at your druggist.

WHISKEY STILL COMES TO GRIEF

Lindsay, April 30.—One of the largest illicit whiskey manufacturing outfits yet discovered by the local authorities, was raided Monday when Provincial Officer Storey, and Inspector Thornbury pounced upon the moonshiners in a lonely place seven miles north of Bobcaygeon in the township of Verulam.

The party arrived in town Tuesday evening about five-thirty bringing with them the full equipment and one of the leading members of the firm engaged in manufacturing of alcoholic products.

This forty gallon still, was in full operation and when the officers entered, the operator made a bold dash for liberty, jumping through a window and running across a plowed field pursued by officer Storey, who captured him about half way over the field. The accused has been remanded for eight days while a warrant has been issued for the arrest of his partner.

Secretary Knott Is Busy Official

Oshawa, April 29.—The secretary has mailed out to the different clubs of the Central Ontario Amateur Baseball league the blank bonds for $50 required by the league's constitution, and the same are returnable, properly made out and sworn to, before certificates are countersigned. In the same mail is received copy of the constitution, schedule of games with umpires allotted for same, umpires' mileage and total amount umpires can collect from clubs, umpires' and club secretaries' addresses were forwarded to Frederick P. Lind, at Belleville, for his O. K.

This year a Registration Committee of three, appointed by the president of the league, will sit to pass on certificates, and the meeting of the same will likely be held on Saturday, May 17, when all the yellow slips of the annual O.B.A.A. series is from Kingston, Belleville, Peterboro and Oshawa will be countersigned by the secretary, and any not in by that date will stand over till the next session of the committee in June. Figuring out the mileage that will be paid to umpires who will work in the Central League the coming season, the total amounts to over 6,000 miles. Belleville is the heaviest, with 2,022 to pay; Petrolboro is next, with 1,756; Kingston, 1,500, and Oshawa, 920. All totalled, it amounts to nearly $1,000 in cash.

President C. M. Anderson, of the Oshawa Central League club, announced yesterday that Charles Gould,

Senators Seek Details on Chicago Wet Charges From Commissioner

Washington, April 30.— Kenesaw Mountain Landis, former United States district judge at Chicago and now high commissioner of baseball, was summoned to-day by the Wheeler-Brookhart committee for examination in connection with the case of Phillip Grossman, Chicago saloon-keeper, who was convicted of violating the Volstead Act and later pardoned without serving a prison sentence.

James A. Finch, pardon attorney of the Department of Justice, testifying before the committee, said that Judge Landis had "severely denounced" the pardoning of Grossman by President Coolidge after the late President Harding had turned a deaf ear to appeals for clemency for Grossman.

OF INTEREST to WOMEN

Women Wore Corsets Six Thousand Years Ago

In a lecture delivered recently to a gathering of ladies at Montreal, Mrs. E. Lillian Gibbons traced the wearing of corsets by women back to the days before even the renowned "King Tut" was born.

People were inclined to regard the corset as a comparatively modern device, coming from Paris, Mrs. Gibbons observed. In this they were very wrong. As urge for the beautiful in the clothing of the body has marked every progressive race since time began, exerting powerful influence on each important era. Just as civilized man had for the most part cut his hair so civilized women, in accessories ages had used a corset of some sort.

The first woman who wore a corset began by bandaging her body from the waist up, in a fashionable and commendable effort to make the most of natural endowment in grace and figure.

Bandages resembling corsets in basic principles were worn by the noble ladies of Rome in the zenith of its splendor, and, according to historians they were first employed as a support for the body, until a slender waist came to be regarded as a mark of beauty, when they were made to compress the form."

It is a notable fact, however, that the modern conception of corsetry is a design corsets that will make the most of all the different types of figure instead of ignoring natural contours by endeavouring to squeeze all types of figure into one type of corset. Gone are the days when the corset was an instrument of torture. The modern corset is not only to enhance beauty, but also to promote good health and comfort through scientific corsetry.

Link With Linden Tragedy Claimed in Elmira Crime; County Combed for Bandits

Elmira, N. Y., April30—With a father shot down, a mother bound and their son tied with ropes while five bandits set fire to a farmhouse with the intention of cremating the family, state troopers and deputy sheriffs from ten counties today scoured the countryside in an effort to apprehend the desperadoes.

Police of all cities of central New York and the southern tier have been notified of the crime and asked to aid in the search.

Sheriff Hodges of Oswego today believed that solution of the shooting might solve the Linden mystery.

"There is a possibility that the solution of this latest outrage, in which the family was saved only through the heroic efforts of the bound and terrified lad, will also solve the Linden triple murders," Sheriff Hodges said.

"There are many angles of the crime that have similar earmarks. In each case the fiends tried to fire the houses after their bloody work was done."

The bandit attack occurred on the home of Daniel Bonnell, on a lonely dirt road four miles from Candor, between Owego and Ithaca, last night.

Taylor, wife of Sir Frederick Williams Taylor, millionaire head of the Canadian Bankers' Association, it was learned here today.

The theft occurred while Lady Taylor was visiting the estate of Murray Boocock at Keswick, near Charlottsville, Va.

One of the missing pieces of jewelry was a diamond and onyx bracelet, set with the Taylor monogram, and was said to have been a part of the Russian crown collection.

Private detectives are working on the case. Lady Taylor has returned to New York.

HAWAIIAN DELIGHT

Measure and sift together 1-2 cupfuls of flour, 1 teaspoonful baking powder 1-2 tspn salt and 1 tbspn sugar. Beat one egg until light and in it add 3/4 cup milk and 1 tbspn melted butter Add gradually to the dry ingredients, stirring constantly. Beat well, spread in a greased pan and sprinkle the top with a mixture of 1 tbspn sugar and 1-4 tspn of cinnamon. Bake 25 minutes. Cut in squares and serve hot with grated pineapple over it. (Pineapple may be canned or fresh).

ARE WOMEN OVERWORKED

Yes, hundreds of thousands of them are. They suffer in the housewife and mother who struggles on a small income to make both ends meet by doing all the washing, ironing, cooking, making and mending for a large family. There are others who, not only support themselves working in factories, shops, stores and offices, but often have an invalid father or mother to support, therefore do housework beside. These are the women who break down early and are afflicted with various forms of female weakness. Ninety-eight out of every 100 women who have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have received that it is a successful remedy for woman's ills. For nearly fifty years it has been restoring women to health and it will pay every ailing woman to try it.

Why does churning make butter?

—because milk is full of tiny globules of fat, each wrapped in a delicate sack. Churning breaks these sacks and releases the fat, which collects on the top as butter. The unstrelled richness of

ENJOY SOCIAL HOUR

At the regular meeting of Court Moira No. 33, I. O. F. held in the Court Chambers with a good number of members in attendance after the business and initiation of a group of candidates, a social hour was spent, when one of the members was called upon and on behalf of the Officers and members of the Court, Bro. Chief Ranger, District Deputy, read an address to Brother Percy Skinner on the 10th anniversary of his marriage and connection with his court and Brother A. Harrow, D.S.C.R. presented him with a gift of aluminum ware. Although taken by surprise, Brother Skinner thanked the members in a few well chosen words on behalf of Mrs. Skinner and himself for their kindness to them. All joined in singing, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." A pleasant evening was brought to a close with refreshments and all voted it a very pleasant evening.

Ladies! Darken Your Gray Hair

USE GRANDMA'S SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR RECIPE AND NOBODY WILL KNOW

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive Whenever the hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, you will get this famous old preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

Selby Layton waited for him, with head and bathing in his heart, but forced smile on his face.

"So here you are at last!" said Denall; with barely suppressed savagery. "Why the devil didn't you keep your time? Do you think this is the kind of place to keep a man waiting in?"

"I beg one thousand pardons, my dear Denall," said Selby Layton, moving away from the gun, which was completely concealed by the bracken. "As you say, it is not a cheerful place—like the rest of Ireland, a slight shadow—and I am sorry I was detained and found it impossible to leave the house earlier; but I trust I have not kept you long. I'm afraid my stay must be measured by minutes—"

"You can go the moment you have come to my terms; for the matter of that you can go now, if you like. I'm indifferent. I hold all the cards, Selby, as you know, and I've got you under my foot, like a toad under a harrow."

He smiled in his sardonic fashion, and nodded at Selby Layton, threateningly. "You put the position roughly, but to say coarsely, my dear Denall; but forgive me if I venture to suggest that you exaggerate the condition of affairs between us. As a matter of fact, I am not at all sure that I have you at my mercy, under your foot."

Denall shrugged his shoulders.

"Oh! very well, if that's your line, Layton, still smoothly. "Suppose I go to the house and tell Miss Vancouver what I know."

"And after, as the French say?" said Selby, almost sweetly.

Denall glowered at him.

"After! Well, I imagine that your game will have been pretty well squashed. Look here, Selby, we may as well save time by coming to the point. I know your game. I've long my eyes on it, and even since I've been in this cursed place, and I know you're after the young girl, and that you're at the Towers, and of old Vancouver's money. Don't take the trouble to deny it."

"I deny, assert, nothing," said Selby Layton, still with the same smile, "but you are right in your surmise—"

Denall cut in with an oath.

"I am right, and you know it. I saw you with her like no mine before you saw me, and your face— Bah! I pity the girl! But it's no business now. You pay money her, or any one else you've got your aim! Are we to be square me."

"If my memory does not deceive me, I gave you a hundred pounds only a short time ago."

Denall laughed coolly.

"That's gone," he said, forcely.

"A large sum!" murmured Selby Layton.

"Large or small, it's gone, and I don't want to hear you cackle about it!" retorted Denall. "What I want is to come to business with you as sharp as possible. What you want is land, and should hold my tongue. I'll do it for a consideration."

"Name it!" said Selby Layton.

"A thousand cash down, and five hundred a year paid on this day of the month."

Selby Layton laughed softly.

"My dear Denall, that is really preposterous!"

"Is it?" retorted Denal, coldly. "All right! Am I to take it that you refuse? Out with it! I want to know one way or the other."

"And if I refuse?" asked Selby.

Denall eyed him savagely.

"Then I go up to the house to-morrow morning and tell the girl what a d—d hound and scoundrel you are. I'll tell her the whole story. And it will sound well, won't it? I'll tell her that the Selby Layton who has been passing as a high-minded gentleman, and who came to marry her, is married already. That he ran off with a simple country girl who was kind enough to believe in him, and married her under a false name."

Selby Layton was very pale, but he smiled, with the ugly twist of his lips.

"And if I deny it, which I assure you, my dear Denall, I should do, whom do you think will believe you? A gentleman, the man of position and honor, or—companionless are invidious, make that between you and me, your position and character, and mine, for pounce, my dear Denall."

"So that is your game, is it?" said Denall, with unconcealing fury. "It's a poor one, and wouldn't do you credit. You forget I've the certificate—"

Selby Layton shrugged his shoulders.

"In which my real name is known, I'm aware. You would want witnesses to identity; the bride is dead—"

"Curse her!" he said. "Madge, my sister and your wife, is alive right enough."

"I was informed she was dead," said Selby Layton, as coolly as he could, "but I'm glad to hear it."

"Bluff! But it's no use. I can produce them. Look here, a fair-and-twenty hours, on my honor."

Denall frowned.

"Forgive me, but the guarantee is insufficient. You must give me a longer period is what I want."

Denall threw up his hand in his pocket and drew out a letter.

"You shall have it,

"A forgery, no doubt! It does infinite credit to your resources, Denall, but is not flattering to my perspicacity."

Denall thrust it into his pocket, and, with an outburst of passion, "Read it, you fool!" he struck her handwriting too well to be deceived by a forgery. Selby Layton read.

He took out a photograph and thrust it towards Selby.

It was a photograph of a still young but, voluptuous-looking woman, dressed vicely, with the face and air of the demi-monde.

Selby Layton looked and shouldered. "Taken, as you see, many years, early a month ago," said Denall. "You recognize her, you say? Well, help it; it's Madge all over," he chuckled. "Are you satisfied now, you—you—you unbelieving Jew?"

Selby Layton moistened his lips.

"The proof seems conclusive," he said, "Yes; I admit it. But, you must acquit me of any intention to deceive Miss Vancouver. I assure you I know poor Madge is really alive—"

Denall had been watching him closely, and Selby Layton's eyes fell under the scrutiny. Denall laughed.

"Not good enough, he said. "I can see you are like a book. You don't seem to check up the thing. Why should you? You think you're dead. She read of the death of 'Aloysius Robinson' in the papers some kind friend sent her—you worked, that very well, Selby—and there's no one to tell her the truth and undeceive her but myself and you. You, I take it, won't be in a hurry to rush into her arms, and I—ah, I'm mum as death if you make it worth my while."

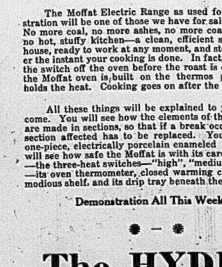

Selby Layton gnawed at his lip with his eyes fixed on the ground.

LADIES!

you are invited to a DEMONSTRATION of ELECTRIC COOKING

Some Day you are going to have an electric range, so you are therefore invited to come and see an up-to-date electric range at work under the hands of an expert cook.

The Moffat Electric Range as used for this demonstration will be one of those we have here in stock. No more coal, no more ashes, no more coal gas or dust, no hot, stuffy kitchen—A clean, efficient servant in the house, ready to work at any moment, a step saving power the instant your cooking is done. In fact, you can turn the switch off the oven before the roast is done, because the Moffat oven is built on the thermos principle and holds the heat. Cooking goes on after the power is off.

All these things will be explained to you when you come. You will see how the elements of the Moffat oven are made in sections, so that if a break occurs, only the section affected has to be replaced. You will see the one-piece, electrically porcelain enamcled ovens. You will see how safe the Moffat is with its careful insulation —the three-heat switches—"high", "medium" and "low"—its oven thermometer, closed warming drawer, its commodious shelf, and its drip tray beneath the burners.

For the Delicate Child

THE unhappy condition of the delicate, nervous child is invariably due to undernourishment. This does not mean that the food is insufficient. It does mean that the food given is either deficient in body building essentials or it is supplied in such an indigestible form that they cannot be readily assimilated by the child's system.

"Ovaltine" is concentrated nourishment prepared in such a way that it can be assimilated quickly and without digestive effort. It is made from pure barley, creamy milk, and fresh eggs. One cup of "Ovaltine" contains more nourishment than twelve cups of beef extract or seven cups of cocoa.

SECOND GREATEST INDUSTRY AT STAKE

Half Billion Dollars Per Year, Nation's Revenue; But Must Replace it

Montreal, April 30.—The vital necessity to preserve the forests which produce for us $500,000,000 a year, and return to our workers in the forest industries probably the largest proportion of the fruits of production, was emphasized in the course of the speech delivered over the air by the Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, from the Canadian National Radio station CKCH, Ottawa, in connection with the "save the forest" week which was inaugurated in accordance with the Government proclamation yesterday. The Minister of the Interior opened his address by indicating the importance of the forest industry to Canada, second to agriculture among the basic economic activities of the Dominion.

Makes Best Returns

From the standpoint of the people's the industry is of vital importance, since probably the greatest proportion of the cost of production is returned to the workers in the form of wages.

The wealth produced by this industry is $500,000,000 per year, but, as the Minister pointed out this production is being maintained at the expense of our forest capital, and this is not sound business for the simple reason that our annual utilization of the raw material—cutting—must be replaced by the annual growth, the latter being the interest which may be expected. Unfortunately the loss through fire exceed the cutting; and so if Canada can reduce the ravages of fire she can increase utilization and at the same time have a credit balance—and of every kind—capital.

Urges All To Help

In conclusion, the Minister of the Interior said: "I bespeak the assistance of every unseen listener tonight for this week and for every week of the year to save the forest heritage of Canada from destruction by fire. Remember the importance of the forest in our national life; remember that burned timber pays no wages, and finally remember that a conflagration, having no prosperity, reduces no tax. "Prevent forest fires—it pays."

WANT NO GOOSE STEP

Washington, April 30.—Adopting the slogan "Give America No Goose Step Today," the National Council for the Prevention of War has launched a fight against the great national mobilization of the army ordered by General Pershing for September 12.

THIS BIBLE offered by The Intelligencer

A nation-wide newspaper revival of Bible reading is now going on all over this country, regardless of sect, creed or faith. A universal reading of the Bible is bound to make for better citizenship, is bound to make for a plainer, stronger, simpler mode of speech in daily life, and a higher standard of ethics in the dealings of men. A return to Bible reading in these stressful times of world disturbance is needed as never before in our history and is bound to add to the moral and mental equipoise of this entire nation.

Classes Lure of London Life as Main Incentive To 14th Century Poets

London—The lure of London in the 14th century was dealt with in an interesting manner by Sir Israel Gollance, University Professor of English Language and Literature, King's College, London, in a lecture to the Royal Institution. His subject was "Fourteenth Century Literary History and London."

Sir Israel emphasized the position of London—its life and politics—as the background of much of the poetry of the second half of the 14th century and as a potent influence on the lives of leading men of letters.

He placed in juxtaposition with the poetry of Chaucer, the Londoner, the writings of poets whose work belonged in form and spirit to provincial districts of England, notably the alliterative poetry of the Midlands, and dwelt on the predominating references to London and politics in the poems primarily intended for non-Londoners.

She lure of London was evidently as great then for men of letters as for merchants and men of affairs. The acquaintance with London on the part of the alliterative poets of the West of England was as minute as to open up the question whether some of these poems were not actually composed in London, Sir Israel said.

The lecturer called attention to the struggle between the rival London mayors, Brembre and Northampton, whose contests for the mayoralty were so closely bound up with the stirring politics of Richard II and those opposed to him. Men of letters were involved in this protracted struggle, Chaucer among them. The treacherous Thomas Usk, the author of the "Testament of Love" long falsely attributed to Chaucer, paid the death penalty about the same time as Lord Mayor Brembre.

Ralph Strode, the Common Serjeant of the City of London, who might safely be identified with the Strode to whom Chaucer dedicated his "Troilus" was also the friend of Brembre, and suffered changes of fortune with his patron. He died in retirement in 1387, a year before Brembre's execution.

He was the greatest logician of the age, and a poet, too, though his poetry had not been definitely identified but in all probability he was the author of a noble alternative poem in commemoration of St. Erkenwalk, the first Bishop of London.

Marconi Sees Diagnosis By Radio Waves

Believes Next Science Move Likely, Over Wireless

HEART BEATS HEARD

That Shows Trend, States Wizard; Amplify Them For Examinations

London, April 30.—Medical diagnosis by wireless may be possible in the future, Senator Marconi, inventor of the wireless, believes.

Recently, the beating of a man's heart has been broadcast across the Atlantic.

"This broadcasting of heart-beats is very interesting development that seems to me to be capable of yielding valuable results," said Senator Marconi.

Have It Amplified

"I have always noticed that when doctors examine the heart they have to strain hard to hear the slight sound. I do not see why it should not be possible now to devise a method whereby the doctor could have the sound of the heart-beat amplified for him, just as it is with the human voice.

"Amplification does not interfere at all with the character of the sound, and the American experiment of broadcasting heart-beats across the Atlantic surprises impressive possibilities in the consulting room.

"But other things are opened up. Is it too much to suggest that at no distant date a doctor will be able to diagnose by wireless? The necessity for that may arise very naturally. A man in London, let us say, may require very urgently the services of a particular doctor who at that moment is hundreds or perhaps thousands of miles away. To get the doctor to the bedside would involve delay that might be fatal.

No More Imagination

"Who can say but that in the future some means will be perfected to permit the doctor, in a certain circumstances, to study his patient and diagnose his complaint by wireless? Now that it is demonstrably practicable to send the sound of heartbeats through the ether so clearly, one cannot regard such developments as mere imagination.

"In other ways, too, this amplification by wireless means of the slight est sound may open up quite a new field of inquiry. Who knows what tiny sounds made by insects or animals may be discovered? By careful records and amplifications we may possibly ascertain that there are sounds which up to the present have not been distinguished by our ordinary hearing apparatus.

"Wireless is a scenic of infinite potentialities. The achievements already recorded are probably only a fifth of what will be accomplished in the future.

"For myself, I am continuing my work on limiting waves to a beam, and the satisfactory results already achieved make me sanguine of complete success. Up to the present the beam has been worked over a distance of 2,000 miles, but I am hopeful of extending the range at an early date."

OLD FAMILIES JOIN

Hon. John Cecil and Miss Cornelia Vanderbilt Wed at Washington

Asheville, N.C., April 30—Amid all the splendor England and America could offer, Mis Cornelia Vanderbilt Sellers, heir to $50,000,000 estate of the late George W. Vanderbilt, at noon yesterday was married in All Souls' Church near here to Hon. John Francis Amherst Cecil, formerly connected with the British embassy at Washington.

Scores of national notables from this country and from England were present as guests of the affair. The marriage marked the uniting of one of America's wealthiest families to one of England's oldest.

4 Weeks Sooner and a Fireproof Wall

THE saving in time alone effected in using Gyproc walls throughout means dollars and cents in your pocket.

To Illustrate—

With an ordinary plaster wall the lather's time averages about two weeks, then the plasterer spends a week at least in applying the first coat. Two weeks more, elapse before the trimmings can be applied, five weeks in all.

Gyproc is pure Gypsum plaster compressed in large sheets 32" wide, 4 to 10 feet long, and ½" thick. These broad, ceiling-high, smooth-surfaced sheets of rock are the ideal economical wall and ceiling material for use in new construction and in all alterations and repairs. It comes all ready for use. The carpenter simply nails Gyproc to the joists or studding—and the wall is finished. No dirt to clean up—no time lost in drying—ready at once for alabastine, paper, paint or panels.

Gyproc is an absolutely fireproof wallboard. Made in Canada. Atmospheric conditions do not affect it. Gyproc walls and ceilings will not bulge, shrink or crack.

A Gyproc wall is just as appropriate for the living room as the attic. The bevelled edge to each sheet makes perfect joining and the finished wall effectively keeps out winter cold and summer heat.

Because it is a perfect insulator Gyproc keeps out heat and cold.

Consult any Gyproc Dealer or write to us direct for complete information.

"MIGHTY LAK' A ROSE"

A gang of successful, desperate crooks tried to steal the heart of a young and innocent girl violinist, turn her into a crook and use her in their big schemes. But the girl, with nothing but her sweet soul and the skill of her violin, turned these crooks, male and female, into what they did not want to go. This, in brief, is the story that Edwin Carewe has turned into a powerful picture, "Mighty Lak' a Rose," that is coming to the Regent Theatre Thursday night.

In the cast are Dorothy Mackaill, Jaunie Bennie, Helene Montrose, Sam Hardy, Anders Randolf, Paul Panzer, Harry Short and about a hundred others in crook and society characters. "Jean Bonnie," Scotch exilic, must not be forgotten because "Jean" has a very important part to play.

Director Carewe believes music plays a big part in this his and he went, too, and it should play a bigger part. In this play he has gone into the under world to demonstrate how good music, combined with a good soul, can be the great uplifter. He so said to have made a fascinating picture.

POWERFUL DRAMA IN JACKIE COOGAN'S LATEST

"Daddy," a First National picture starring Jackie Coogan, contains an appeal that critics have declared to be the most powerful and poignant they have ever beheld on the screen. It gives Jackie an opportunity to register the deepest of grief in sincerity and naturalness that are uncanny.

In this particular sequence appears Cesare Gravina, an Italian actor and musician, celebrated on the European stage. He plays the part of Gallo, a broken-down musician, forced to earn his livelihood by playing for heedless pedestrians on street corners. The forlorn and wandering Jackie, without home or parents, comes under the notice of the old man, whose interest in the lad is increased by the fact that the boy himself is a violin genius.

He takes the boy to his humble home and out of his meagre store provides for his wants and gives him priceless lessons. But age, disappointment, and poverty do their work only too well, and the time of parting comes for Jackie and his benefactor. This is the scene wherein Jackie rises to dramatic heights and a poignant appeal not equaled on the American stage.

"Daddy," which was produced by Sol Lesser and directed by E. Mason Hopper, comes to the Griffin Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.
